

Vital charter amendment vote June 21

St. Johns residents have another date at the polls next Wednesday where the city commission is asking for approval of a charter amendment spelling out a tax limitation of 20 mills. Approval is vital to operations of the city, the commission says. The special election — the second on this topic in just over two months — pertains only to the charter amendment and does not involve directly any other issue.

The present city charter is not specific about a millage limitation, and legal interpretations of it as it stands now say the city thus can assess only 10 mills for general operations.

ST. JOHNS HAS BEEN ASSESSING 16 mills for the past few years and has not levied less than 10 mills since 1933. Commissioners since that time apparently have regarded 20 mills as the effective millage limitation.

"There's no doubt we can't run this city on 10 mills the way people want it run," Mayor Charles Coletta stated in April when the commission decided to put the matter up to another vote. A similar proposal was defeated by a 2-1 margin April 11, but commissioners felt opposition to a companion fire hall issue then adversely affected the understanding of the charter problem.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. next Wednesday,

June 21, at the municipal building. Voting places for both precincts are in separate rooms in the basement of the building. The wording on the ballot will be:

"SHALL SECTION 1 under General Taxation in the City Charter be amended to read:

"Section 1. The subjects of taxation for municipal purposes shall be the same as for state, county and school purposes under the general law, and the amount annually raised shall not exceed two percentum of the assessed valuation."

City officials point out that St. Johns is basically a 15 to 16 mill city and they doubt there will ever be a need to assess even close to 20 mills for general operations. Budget increases in past years have been taken care of primarily by steadily rising property values, resulting in more tax income at the same tax rate.

The commission has already adopted a budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year that calls for a 16-mill tax rate — 2 mill less than last year — and 16 mills will be levied despite the outcome of the June 21 election. The election will, however, affect how the 16 mills is used next year.

IF THE CHARTER AMENDMENT proposal is defeated, the city will break down the 16 mills, levying 10 mills for general operations, 3 mills for retirement of the water improvement program bonds, 2 mills for garbage and rubbish pickup, and 1 mill for library operation. Use of the tax money would be limited to just those purposes.

If the charter amendment proposal is approved by voters next Wednesday, the 16 mills will be levied as one figure, and used to pay off the water bonds, collect garbage and rubbish and provide for library services as well as all other city services.

This is the way the city has been assessing and expending the tax money in past years.

"This is the much more flexible way to do it," Mayor Coletta said. "Then we will be able to use whatever funds necessary to do a particular job right."

BESIDES CAMPAIGNING to clarify this issue in the minds of voters, city commissioners and members of a special citizens committee are emphasizing the importance of keeping it separate from talk about urban renewal.

Strong vocal opposition to urban renewal downtown appears to be threatening against a yes vote on the charter amendment, and the commission is trying to prevent the urban renewal question from dragging the completely separate charter amendment down.

Defeat of the charter amendment would kill urban renewal, city commissioners agree, but they point out there are other and more logical ways to stop urban renewal if that's what the public wants. A majority voice of opposition at a public hearing on urban renewal, or even a referendum, can reject urban renewal without subjecting the charter amendment to defeat.

"THE OPERATION OF OUR CITY is at stake," the commission said. "If we have to break our millage down into 10, 3, 2 and 1, we will not be able to provide the services with the 10 mills for general operations that our citizens have been used to or demand of us."

A special assessment procedure will be one of the items affected by the election. The commission recently tabled a water main assessment decision until after the election; if the charter amendment is OK'd, they likely will proceed as in the past by charging the affected property owners only a percentage of the total cost of putting in the main while the city at large absorbs the rest; if the amendment is defeated, property owners seeking water, sewer and curb-and-gutter improvements may have to pay the entire cost of putting it in.

"We can only do so much on 10 mills," the commission said.

ALDEN LIVINGSTON

Incumbent board members Alden Livingston and Leon Schumaker were reelected to the St. Johns Board of Education Monday in a light turnout of voters in the district's five precincts. Their new terms are for four years.

Livingston, Greenbush Township muck farmer and a veteran of over 27 years on two different school boards, polled 348 votes in the five precincts. Schumaker, who farms in Riley Township, got 330 votes.

Challenger Richard L. Root received 186 votes. There was one write-in vote.

Here is a breakdown of the votes in the five precincts:

Precinct 1 (St. Johns): Livingston 198, Schumaker 184, Root 112.

Precinct 2 (East Essex): Livingston 35, Schumaker 40, Root 16.

Precinct 3 (Eureka): Livingston 53, Schumaker 45, Root 16.

Precinct 4 (Olive Center): Livingston 23, Schumaker 14, Root 18.

Precinct 5 (Riley): Livingston 39, Schumaker 47, Root 26.

There were no propositions or issues facing St. Johns voters other than the decision of picking two out of three school board candidates.

P-W defeats extra 3 mills; issues pass in 4 districts

Pewamo - Westphalia School District voters went against the tide of sentiment around the Clinton area Monday and turned down a request for additional school operating millage.

The P-W issue was turned down 218 no to 187 yes and creates a "crisis" in the district, according to Supt. William Steinke.

The millage issue was for three mills for one year and could be expected to produce around $27,000 of the $35,000 over last year which the school board figures will be necessary to operate the P - W schools next year.

The school board will now tackle the problem of what to do about the situation. Steinke said the budget for the next year has been figured extremely close as it was.

IN OTHER SCHOOL districts of the county, millage issues were approved — narrowly at Fowler and by wider margins at Fulton, Ashley and Bath.

Pewamo - Westphalia voters gave incumbent Eugene Cook 377 votes in reelecting him to the school board. There was no opposition.

In the Fowler district, a millage issue of 8 1/2 mills to replace an expiring 5-mill levy passed by 17 votes—172 yes to 155 no. Gerald Pohl, the only candidate for the one seat on the school board, received 304 of the 327 ballots cast.

Bath voters decided on two school board members and six other questions. Incumbents William Brook with 165 votes and Darwin Clise with 128 votes won reelection over challenger Mrs. Virginia Zeeb who got 106 votes.

BATH APPROVED a 10-mill tax levy for operational purposes by a 133 yes to 69 no vote. The 10 mills replaces six expiring this year.

On the other questions, they voted 127 yes to 71 no for extending for one year a two-mill levy for building and site improvement; 124 yes to 70 no for levying that two mills; 164 yes to 39 no for making the high school library a public district library; and 144 yes to 40 no for transferring $2,514.00 from a 1955 debt retirement fund to the general fund.

At DeWitt, James Decatur with 85 votes was elected to a four-year term on the board of education over Roy Strait who got 36 votes.

Ovid-Elsie had two different contests for school board seats. Incumbent Robert Baese with 301 votes and Merle Green with 378 votes were elected to four-year terms, winning over Robert Bloomer with 130, Howard Malitz with 144, Charles Palen with 168, and Paul Jones with 160 votes.

Lee Smith beats 75 boys, thunderstorm to win Derby

A hand extends in congratulations toward a smiling Lee Smith, 11, as he is boosted up toward the shoulders of a proudly grinning dad, Cecil Smith, only moments after the final heat in Sunday's Soap Box Derby in St. Johns. Mrs. Smith beams up from the right.

Rain clouds teased Soap Box Derby boys and workers all day Sunday, but they held off long enough for a record number of 76 boys to beat the downpour of rain three minutes after the festivities were over.

Lee Smith, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Smith of 248 W. Pratt Road, drove his soap box racer to victory in the final heat to win the fifth annual Clinton County derby and earn a trophy, $500 savings bond and trip to the Akron, Ohio, All-American Soap Box Derby.

Young Smith, a student in the sixth grade at St. Joseph Catholic School in St. Johns, also received the John Lynam Memorial Trophy which he'll keep this summer and then place in the showcase at his school.

The final heat was as close a race as there was all evening. It was one of those photo finishes, of which there were many during the more than 2 1/2 hours of racing. The photo finish that concerned everyone was the one with the weather. A bright overcast and even some sunshine accompanied the early stages of the race, but near the end the dark-cloud threat of a thunderstorm kept the crowd in anticipation. Adding to the drama was a half-hour delay caused when one of the boys scheduled to race in one of the final heats left for home, thinking he was a loser. He finally got back and won that heat.

The awards presentation took place under additional light from distant lightning and it wasn't more than three minutes after it was all over that the skies opened up and hard rains came.

BUT BEFORE THE rains came there was plenty of racing excitement. Young Smith, racing four times in his derby car, eliminated all of his opponents to win the coveted title. All along the way other boys dropped out of contention until finally only Smith, Bruce Keiffer and Kim Patterson of St. Johns remained undefeated.

Smith, of course, won the final heat, with Keiffer coming in second and Patterson third. They were in the top echelon of 15 prize winners.

Smith's big prize was a $500 U.S. Savings bond from Chevrolet, the national sponsors of the Soap Box Derby. He also got a handsome trophy and earned a trip to Akron, Ohio, to compete in the 30th annual All-American Soap Box Derby in August.

THE JOHN LYNAM Memorial Trophy was also given Smith. It is in memory of John Lynam, a participant in the first derby who was killed in Akron, Ohio, where he was a spectator at the All-American in 1963. John's father, Ralph Lynam, presented the traveling trophy to Smith and also gave him a smaller one as a keepsake.

Keiffer, as runner-up, won a portable TV set; Patterson received a Polaroid 220 Land Camera as his prize. Other place finishers and their prizes were:

Ken Droste of R-2, Fowler, fourth, Sting Ray bicycle; Randy Schafer of Westphalia, fifth, wrist watch; Gary Rademacher of St. Johns, sixth, portable radio; Mike Paradise of St. Johns, seventh, Polaroid Swinger camera; Greg Faught of St. Johns, eighth, wrist watch; Lowell Boyce of St. Johns, ninth, rod and reel outfit; Dan Schueller of Fowler, 10th, baseball glove; Steve Hanes of Westphalia, 11th, model airplane; Maynard Boyce of St. Johns, 12th, radio; Ron Droste of R-2, Fowler, 13th, rod and reel outfit; Dennis Sisson, 14th, slot car; and Bruce Eiseler of St. Johns, 15th, football.

A valedictorian's hopes for her classmates

Making the possibilities of today the realities of tomorrow

By KATHY BASHORE
Valedictorian
St. Johns Senior Class of 1967

I remember each day when I came home from elementary school one of the first questions my mother would ask me was, "What did you learn in school today?" As I began my valedictory speech, this question returned to me and I began considering, "What have I learned in school these past 13 years?"

"What have we learned in the past 13 years?" The most obvious is the quantity of factual information that we've gathered. These facts range from the simple information we learned in elementary school to the complicated formulas and concepts we've dealt with in high school.

These facts are essentially they are our tools for college, career, and life. But it is estimated that we forget over 50 per cent of the factual information we learn, so it is obvious that the learning of facts is not the sole aim of education. Many of the important things we learned will never be measured on a report card, yet they are a vital part of our education and lives.

IN EACH SUBJECT WE'VE studied we have been required to learn a set of given facts. Our success or failure to learn these facts was reflected on our report cards—sometimes creating disastrous results. For example, in science courses we learned charts, formulas, valences—many of which we will forget, but what is more important, we have learned to apply an attitude of reasoning, inquiry and logic to situations we may encounter. We will not be the victims of superstition and ignorance, because we have learned the theory of cause and effect. We have learned that as reasonable human beings we can change our conditions and environment.

In the humanities, literature, art and music, again we have been given a quantity of information, but more important we have learned how men think. We have learned how others have dealt with such basic questions as "What is good?" "What is evil?" "What is life's purpose?" And by reading the opinions of others, we are able to reach our own conclusions and form our own opinions. Music and art have shown us how artists of the past expressed their ideas of life through their medium of expression and proved there is more than one way in which we can express ourselves.

The social sciences have taught us historical dates, famous people, economic theories, systems of government. With these learnings we are able to decide which system of government is best. Knowing why democracy is the highest form of government mankind has ever reached gives us the awareness of why it's worth preserving at any cost.

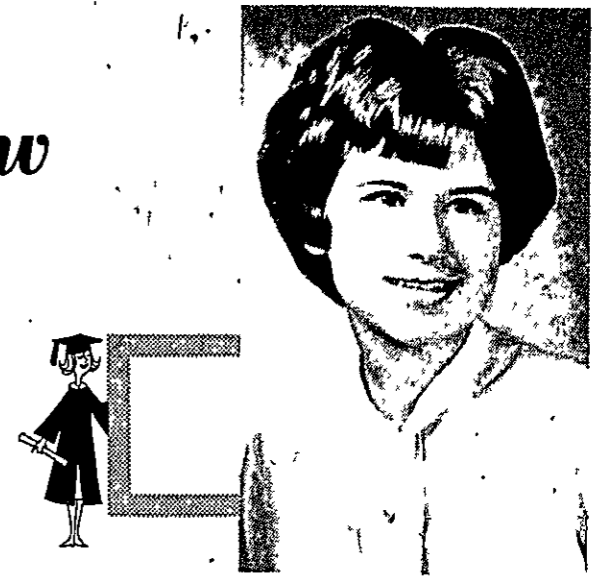

In vocational courses such as shop, agriculture, home ec, typing, we are given practical skills which will lead to various jobs and careers. These skills can be measured; but the attitudes toward workmanship, competition, and perfection cannot be measured.

AS WE CAN SEE, MUCH OF WHAT we have learned was in the classroom; however, an important part of our education takes place in the area of human relationships—in learning how to get along with others. How important this is for all of us to learn! A man can have volumes of stored knowledge within him, but if he does not know how to get along with his fellow man, he can never achieve true success. We must all develop the sense of responsibility, care, respect and knowledge of each other. At the same time that we admire the talents and abilities of others, we should discover our own talents and develop them to their highest point. If all of us use our individual talents to the best of our ability, we can best contribute to all mankind. We will then be able to look beyond the differences in talents, intelligence, and knowledge of each other and see the human core that makes us all one. The happiness of our future depends upon a strong unity of mankind.

So, as we learned to get along with others, we learned to understand ourselves. We learned of our responsibilities—responsibilities which if not carried out will weaken the unity and brotherhood of mankind.

And finally, we have come to realize, as author Eric Fromm once stated, that "Man is gifted with reason; he is life being aware of itself; he has awareness of himself, of his fellow man, of his past, and of the possibilities of the future."

Yes, everyone of us is aware of the possibilities of the future, and so we set our goals to make our dreams come true. In the words of the poet Tennyson, in his poem "Ulysses," our life-long goals should be to pursue knowledge and experience—"to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield." And as we part tonight, my wish for everyone of you is that you will strive to make the possibilities you are aware of today—your hopes, your dreams, your greatest desires—that you will strive to make these possibilities the realities of tomorrow.

St. Johns Mayor Charles Coletta hands a gold "key to the City of St. Johns" to Mike Galvach as Jeff White holds his as the two St. Johns High School seniors next year get ready for a European trip this summer. They are part of a tour group to be accompanied by Mrs Beatrice Barnum, teacher in St. Johns. They keys will be given as gifts to the mayors in two European cities.

2 local youths, teacher leave Monday for Europe

Excitement is growing to a fervent pitch as two Rodney B. Wilson High School students and their chaperone are nearing their flight time of June 19 from Detroit Metro Airport, bound for an exciting and educational six weeks study-tour of Europe.

On June 20 they will join 170 other high school youths and their chaperones from all over the U.S. in New York City. They will fly by charter jet directly to Rome, Italy.

The students will be among 5,000 American high school youths from throughout the U.S. who will study on 31 different European campuses as part of the Foreign Language League Schools, a non-profit, non-denominational, international high school system.

The students' chaperone from this area will be Mrs Beatrice Barnum, a local teacher of the St. Johns Public Schools.

OFFICIAL KEYS of St. Johns sent by Mayor Charles Coletta will be presented to the mayor of Rome by Jeff White, son of Dr and Mrs Donald White of 1004 S. Oakland and to the mayor of London by Mike Galvach, son of Mr and Mrs Mike Galvach of 704 N. Clinton Avenue. Another student in Mrs Barnum's group will present the official keys of Muskegon, to Pope Paul on Wednesday, June 28, when they have a private audience with the Pope.

This particular group of students will study comparative government and European culture for four academic hours per school day. The intensive course amounts to about 100 actual classroom hours plus at least 50 field trip hours. For this the League grants one half Carnegie unit toward high school graduation. Many local schools accept this Foreign Language League credit, some extending it to one whole Carnegie credit.

The first 10 days will be spent living in the newly constructed resident halls of the "Mediatrix," close to the St. Peter's Basilica. The next week will be spent at the "Institut Florimont" near Lake Geneva, Switzerland. The following 10 days will find them living in Champigny, a suburb of Paris. They will observe Bastille Day on June 14. The last 10 days they will live at the University of Reading, England, a short distance from London. In addition to the audience with Pope Paul, there are many half-day and several full-day excursions of the surrounding area on the agenda. They will also have an opportunity to meet the youth of the area and their families as well as have some free time for sight seeing and shopping.

SINCE SIGNING UP last November, the youths have met regularly for a thorough program of orientation and research in order to better understand the people of their host countries. This in itself has been an education.

Mrs Barnum states that she has already received the program for the summer of 1968. If any students are interested in further information, they should notify Mrs Beatrice Barnum, 601 N. Clinton Avenue, St. Johns. The applications come in fast in the fall and most campuses are filled by late November.

1942 grads to meet Saturday

Class members included two sets of twins and two sets of brothers and sisters.

THE REUNION is open to all members of the Class of 1942 and their spouses and any teachers that taught the class. On the committee for the reunion are Bob Law, president; Jack Lyons, vice-president and Doris Swatman, secretary-treasurer.

To attend state VFW Auxiliary meeting

Elaine Hambleton, chaplain; Dee Stoner, treasurer and Della Thompson, chaplain; will represent the Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars No. 4113 at the Michigan state convention to be held June 21-25 at Sault Ste. Marie.

CAR HITS GAS PUMP

A car hit a gasoline service station pump Saturday morning when the brakes failed as the car approached the station. The accident happened at 8:30 a.m. at the DeDyne Sunoco station at 709 W. State Street. The car was driven by Linda M. Reeves, 17, of Chadwick Road, R-2, DeWitt.

The Clinton County Soap Box Derby wishes to express their appreciation to all of those who had a hand in making the 5th annual Soap Box Derby the most successful Derby yet!

Members of the Clinton County Soap Box Derby executive committee included these St. Johns men seated, Bernard Feldpausch (Chevrolet dealer director), Bill McCarthy (derby director), Bob Cole, Jerry Green, Shayne Smith and Jack Downing; and standing, Matt Livingston, Bob Frechen, Gene Downing and Richard Wood. Other members of the committee included Roger Feeman, Jack Bertoldi and Elmer Upton.

Lynette "Pete" Pline, sister of last year's Soap Box Derby winner, Dan Pline, drove her car to two wins and victory in the Powder Puff Derby for girl drivers Sunday evening. There were five girls in the Powder Puff competition.

Ed Idzkowski, Federal Mogul plant manager running in the near lane, got a fast start and led almost all the way in the 'Oil' Can Race preceding Sunday's Soap Box Derby. But he was nipped in an almost photo finish by Russ Allman, in far lane, driving his Saylor-Beall bomb. Ed Sulka of Sealed Power rides in the center lane.

THERE WERE THREE other "races" of note during the evening, two involving the girls.

Sue Fenels, 13, of 608 E. Cass Street, daughter of Mr and Mrs Clare Fenels, was crowned Soap Box Derby Queen, chosen last Thursday night by judges from among a group of five finalists. Members of the court were Patti Fowler, Gail Fosmoe, Jeanne Ferden and Mary Placer.

In a Powder Puff Derby contest just prior to the final heats of the main derby race, Lynette (Pete) Pline of Westphalia defeated four other girls to win the Powder Puff crown. Other girls in the race were Linda Cole, Angie Sirlime, Loreen Cook and Jane Thelen.

Prior to the first heats of the derby, the annual Oil Can Race between the three largest industries of the community saw Russ Allman of Saylor-Beall squeak out a victory over Ed Idzkowski of Federal-Mogul and Ed Sulka of Sealed Power.

In keeping with the largest field of soap box racers in the history of the Clinton County event, the parade which preceded the races was also the largest. Thirty-seven units marched up Clinton Avenue following a band fanfare by the St. Johns High School Band, a flag-raising ceremony and invocation.

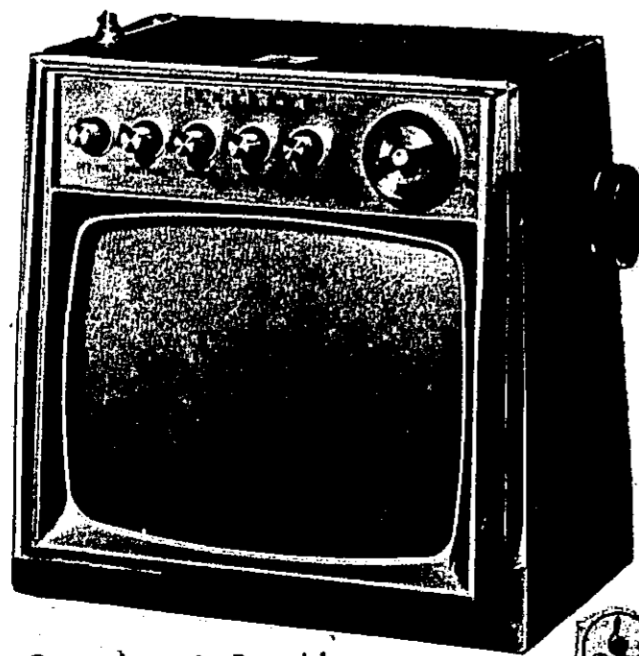

Michigan taxed 85,104 packages of cigarettes in February this year, a decrease of 1,007,605 from last February.

John and Roberta Albers returned home last week after spending two weeks visiting relatives in Illinois.

After over five weeks in Clinton Memorial Hospital, Mrs. Gwen Papclak, teller at Clinton

Ovid council tables zoning study request

Ovid — The Ovid Village Planning Commission has invited the members of the Ovid Village Council to attend their June 27 meeting in an effort to better inform the trustees of the commission's plans to hire the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission to develop a planning and zoning ordinance for the community.

Such action was taken after the council had on June 8 tabled a request by the commission for $3,500 to cover cost of such plans. Earlier, at their regular meeting June 5, the council had shunted aside the same request.

The indecision of the council seems to center around whether the planning commission could develop such a plan.

DEVELOPMENT OF a base map for the city and area, a land use map, a population and economic base study, population projections, a community facility study, a traffic study, preparation and implementation of a zoning ordinance and recommendation of a subdivision ordinance would require $2,910 of the $3,500 requested.

The remainder of the $3,500 would serve as a "cushion" for unforeseen expenses.

A proposal that has been under study by the village trustees — that Ovid village become a city — was also advanced by the planning commission at the June 5 meeting.

The planning commission was established last September as an outgrowth of a federal directive requiring such a commission before the village could obtain a $427,000 grant for a sewer project.

Tell sales tax facts for March

The revenue department said the highest sales tax category for Clinton during that time was food sales, which accounted for $50,170 in sales taxes. Other categories and their amounts were:

Building material $18,910, general merchandise $4,753, automotive $39,720, apparel $2,602, furniture $5,463, miscellaneous retail $5,221, and non-retail $12,721.

Discuss church designs

The Women's Fellowship of the Congregational Church held its last meeting before their summer recess Tuesday, June 6. Devotions were given by Mrs Frank Maier using the poem "Let Me Work in the Church by the Side of the Road" as her theme.

The program, "Concepts of Church Architecture" was given by Pro. Edward Olencki of the department of architecture of the University of Michigan. He was introduced to the group by St. Clair Pardee.

Olencki began his talk by asking "Why do we need a Church Building?" since worship may occur among a few whenever or wherever there is a need and when a few people gather together. He felt the building represented to men a place where they meet God, where its atmosphere of reverence helps that concept. Three elements are represented in church architecture — Heaven, Earth, and the Threshold on which the two meet.

NUMEROUS slides were shown giving various designs for church interiors and also many of the exteriors of the early cathedrals of Europe. This talk ends the year's program based on the theme, "The Church Beautiful". This has covered every phase of the physical plant as well as the spiritual meaning of each part.

The installation of new officers for the coming year was conducted by Mrs George Brooks, assisted by Mrs St. Clair Pardee. The new officers are president, Mrs Kenneth Jones; first vice presidents, Mrs Frank Maier and Mrs Walter Carter; second vice presidents, Mrs Lawrence Helbeck and Mrs Joseph Spouta; recording secretary, Mrs Forrest Root; corresponding secretary, Mrs Richard Amstutz and treasurer, Mrs Carl Beach.

Tea was served to the group by the Pearl Caldwell Vesper Division.

Special guests present were Mr and Mrs Bernard Zeeb of Bath, Mr and Mrs Everett Benson of Lansing, Mrs Lucile Morrison, Mrs Adda Taylor of Morrison, Lake, Mr and Mrs Alfred Huffine Sr. of Alma, Mrs Edna Austin of Alma and Mrs Lena Gibson.

THE FORMER Miss Zeeb changed into an apricot sheath dress with a matching print coat before leaving for their northern Michigan honeymoon.

Recreation, pool programs begin today in St. Johns

St. Johns' summer recreation program begins today (Thursday) with registration from 9:30 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3:30 p.m. at the city park, Perrin-Palmer School, Swegles School and East Ward School. Today also marks the opening of the swimming pool.

This year's summer-run program, which includes four playgrounds, softball, baseball and tennis, gets off the ground Friday when the Perrin-Palmer Swegles, East Ward playgrounds and the city park will be open from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m.

Those children from age 5 to 14 will have use of the school playgrounds. Those youths 15 and older will have the city park playground for their summer enjoyment.

THE POOL will be opened to the public today (Thursday) from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. seven days a week and from 9:30 a.m. to noon on week days when there are no swimming classes. Entrance fees are 25 cents for all students and 50 cents for adults. Registration for those from St. Johns and wishing to learn how to swim will be held June 22 and 23 in the large pavilion at the city park, while all other applicants will register June 23.

Those who register for this program are requested to bring the required fee: $5 for those living in the St. Johns Public School District and $10 for those living outside the district.

All applicants for these classes must be at least 7 years of age and not less than three feet six inches tall.

The first three-week session of swimming classes will begin June 26 with no classes scheduled for the week of July 4.

Swimming instruction this year will be on five levels: beginners, intermediates, swimmers, junior life saving and senior life saving. Only those who have successfully passed the requirements for the preceding level will be permitted to go on to the next level of instruction.

SOFTBALL AND baseball games will be held in the morning, with league play for softball to start Tuesday.

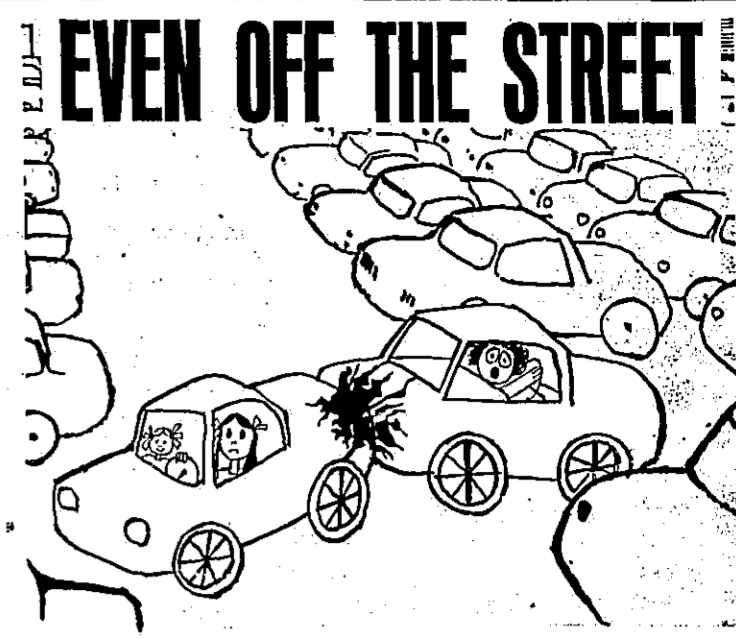

Tennis instruction will begin for those wishing it Tuesday.

Group games, arts and crafts, hikes, pet shows, bicycle races among other activities will make up this year's playground program. Contests in the group games will be held to determine individual playground champions, who then will compete against one another until a city playground champion has been established.

LITTLE LEAGUE HOPEFULS TRY OUT FOR SPOTS ON TEAMS

Some 50 or more boys tried out at the city park last Thursday evening for places on the Little League teams. Managers and coaches of the teams looked over the boys' abilities carefully, and Tuesday night they were scheduled to "draft" players to fill vacancies on their teams.

Announcements

Olive Grange will hold its next regular meeting Friday evening, June 16, at the Grange Hall. A Father's Day program is being planned. A potluck lunch will follow the meeting.

The Prairie 4-H club will have a general meeting at East Essex School Monday, June 17, at 6:15.

Another hoped-for development is that adults will display enough interest for the development of an adult recreation program. Among other things, it would include horseshoes, slowpitch softball, tennis and square-dancing.

Interest on the part of high school students and adults could result in the establishment of survival swimming lessons from 5 to 6 p.m.

3 attend flower leader workshop at Camp Kett

Flower arranging and music have something in common — rhythm and harmony.

"4-H Club work provides the framework to learn how they apply to both," points out John Aylsworth, Extension 4-H youth agent. "And volunteer leaders in the 4-H flower project find the reference to flower arranging of special interest."

Three 4-H leaders from Clinton County are attending a three-day workshop on flower arranging at Camp Kett, Michigan 4-H leadership training center near Cadillac, June 13-15.

THE MAJOR OBJECTIVE of the workshop is to help leaders do a better job of teaching flower arranging.

In addition to harmony and rhythm in flower arranging, they'll learn about other design principles — orientation, symmetry, dominance and contrast. They'll make corsages, discuss the history of arranging, selecting and transporting specimens, and witness a demonstration on dried arrangements, plaques and floral pictures.

Leaders attending from this area include Anabel Peck from Elsie and Junior leaders Kathy Randolph and Teri McQueen of St. Johns.

The conference is being coordinated by Dr Lee Taylor, extension specialist in horticulture, and Arden Peterson, program leader for 4-H youth programs, both of Michigan State University.

The 4-H Club Foundation of Michigan is sponsoring this event in cooperation with the 4-H Youth programs division of the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University.

The testimonial luncheon was held at the high school building on Herblison Road. Clarence Fuerstenau, former superintendent, acted as master of ceremonies — a job which Wakefield had at a similar affair for Fuerstenau a year ago.

Testimonial speeches were given by Eldon Van Spybrook, principal of the high school; Mrs Elizabeth Devereaux, assistant principal of the elementary schools; and William Stoller of the junior high school. Mrs Virgil Zeeb, president of the board of education, presented Wake-

Witnesses call young people

"Young people to Lansing" is the summer call for the St. Johns Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses. They will soon be sending over 30 delegates to their district convention to be held there. Many of these will be youths accompanied by their parents and friends.

Raymond Parker, presiding minister of the St. Johns Congregation, said a group of delegates from this area also will attend the regional gathering to be held July 6-9 at the Civic Center in Lansing.

"We are expecting an attendance of over 9,000 from Michigan and other states of the United States as well as delegates from Canada," Parker explained. "The Lansing convention is one of a series of 45 United States assemblies scheduled for 1967."

Similar gatherings are being arranged for Jackson and Sault Ste. Marie later during the summer.

The convention is called the "Disciple-Making" District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses. An interesting feature of this convention will be live acting-out of scenes from Bible times. The convention program is arranged by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society.

Krepps School News

Our final reports show Sandra Cornell and Tamra Harris were neither tardy or absent for the school year. Many of the children were absent due to mumps. Joe Yoock cracked a bone above his wrist Monday.

Monday afternoon the children in the upper grades gave a surprise party in honor of the teachers, Betty Wilbur and Mildred Sleight. Ice cream, cake, punch and Kool-aid were served. After the refreshments each teacher was presented a potted rose bush.

Tuesday morning the children brought their pets to school. In the afternoon two games of softball were played with Merrithew. Each school won a game.

We had our picnic at the St. Johns City Park Thursday, June 8, with over 100 in attendance.

A graduation cake in the shape of a horseshoe with the names of the eighth grade graduates on it, was made by Mrs Jack Cornell.

Congratulations to the graduates—Sandra Cornell, Barbara Eaton, Joe Yoock, Bill Ordway and Bill French. They all plan to attend St. Johns High School this fall.

IT'S ALSO GOOD ON BREAD...

The ancient Greeks and Romans used butter as a medicine, and found it particularly good for burns and other injuries to the skin.

New fire pact gets OK

The City of St. Johns and Bingham Township settled on a new fire protection contract last Tuesday evening, slightly less than a month before the current contract expires June 30.

In making the new agreement, Bingham paid the city $4,194.82—representing the difference between their current contract and one the city has insisted on since they renegotiated contracts with other area townships four years ago.

The commission accepted the Bingham offer. No computation was made, city officials said, of the exact amount which the commission thought should be due.

THE CITY HAS INSISTED the difference be paid—with interest—before any new fire contract was written. The payment last week and the agreement on the new contract apparently settles the matter.

The new contract calls for an $800 standby fee for the year starting July 1, plus charges of $100 for the first two hours or parts thereof which firemen are out, and $50 for each additional hour or part thereof.

The only item on the agenda which was expected to produce any excitement last week didn't get any conclusive action. It was a proposed plan to increase water rates for the heaviest users of water. The proposed ordinance change was tabled for further study.

The city commission approved a resolution annexing to the city property owned by the St. Johns Public Schools at the school site on Sikes Street west of Lansing Street. That's the new high school location; part of the school's property previously was in the city and part of it was in Bingham Township. Three days before the city's action, Bingham Township had released the property, opening the way for annexation to St. Johns.

In other business:

THE COMMISSION amended the city zoning ordinance to place a "commercial" designation on a 20-acre parcel of land owned by Bernard Feldpausch on US-27 south of Townsend Road. It was recently annexed to the city and had no official zoning.

The commission granted a one-year dance hall permit to Mr and Mrs Daniel Salazar of St. Johns to operate the Villa Dance Hall at 107 W. Railroad Street.

All-day, two-way traffic on McConnell Street between Clinton Avenue and Church Street (back of the high school) was authorized by the commission in a permanent traffic order. Through traffic was prohibited there during the school year.

Williams and Works, engineers, told the city the troublesome sewage lift station on South US-27 is sufficient to handle increased sewage expected to result when the new St. Johns High School is completed.

A JULY 5 HEARING has been scheduled on a petition by residents in the White Street and East State Street area to have an alley there vacated. The alley runs from White to Baker between State and Walker. It does not actually exist, although it is plotted now as an alley.

The commission granted approval for the use of the room over the St. Johns Fire Department hall by the St. Johns Golden Glovers for workouts.

Lightning danger highest in June

Lightning kills more people than tornadoes in an average year, and June is the month of most lightning danger in Michigan, according to the weather service of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, which has a Michigan lightning records from the past 70 years. Forty lightning deaths have been recorded in Michigan in June during these years.

Next to June, months of most human danger from lightning are July, August, May and September. Lightning kills an average of 230 people per year in the United States and causes an estimated $100,000,000 in property losses.

Lightning is a gigantic electric spark resulting from a discharge of stored-up electricity. It may occur inside a cloud, between two clouds or between a cloud and the earth. The accompanying thunder is caused by rapid air expansion as air along the lightning path is heated.

To avoid becoming a lightning casualty, the Michigan Weather Service offers the following safety rules for lightning storms: Do not go outdoors unless necessary. Choose shelter in a large building, preferably of metal or with a metal frame. Stay away from open doors or windows and electrical equipment.

IF REMAINING OUT of doors is unavoidable, stay in a cave or depression, away from tall objects. Do not use metal objects such as a fishing rod or golf clubs. Stay out of small boats. Automobiles offer excellent protection from lightning, according to the Weather Service which is an arm of the Michigan Department of Agriculture established to provide special weather data for planning in agriculture, flood control and other weather related areas.

Good apples don't just grow on trees. Michigan State University horticulturists warn that apple trees need care and protection from insects and disease if they are to produce good fruit.

Extension specialists warn prospective purchasers of property in former apple orchards that, although the trees may look pretty in the spring, they require attention to remain healthy and productive. The trees require regular spraying and pruning, and unless cared for, may spread their disease and insects to other trees. For this reason, apple trees are classified by MSU as "poor" for home grounds use.

The university's county Extension Service offices can provide information on what sprays to use. Because of the threat of passing disease and insects to commercial orchards, the State Department of Agriculture is empowered to condemn and remove at the property-owner's expense apple trees which may spread their disease and insect problems to commercial orchards. Commercial apple growers make up to 22 spray applications a season to protect their trees and fruit.

Former Cedar Lake students to meet

A reunion of all former students and teachers of Cedar Lake school is being planned for Sunday afternoon, June 25.

The 2 p.m. poltuck is being planned by Mrs. Richard Archer, a former Cedar Lake student and Mrs. Kenneth Wyrick, Cedar Lake teacher. The idea for the reunion came from another former student, Carolyn (Harrisuff) Perrault of L'Anse.

This past school year there were 32 students attending the school and two were graduated from the eighth grade.

CEDAR LAKE school is located on St. Clair Road in Victor district No. 8. It is on the edge of the St. Johns School District and was named after the lake in the back of the school.

The students attending Cedar Lake, which opened in 1873, will be going to a new school on Green Road sometime during the next school year.

MANY FAMILIES in the area have their third generation attending the school.

Although there will be some sadness when the school closes, most of the parents are anxious for their children to attend a modern school.

Attending the new school they will miss things like going back to the woods and cutting their own tree for Christmas. Mrs. Archer said the cedar trees weren't the prettiest but they were always fragrant.

FORMER TEACHERS at Cedar Lake include Robert Armor, Bert Smith, Sherold Holt, Lida Holden, Fred Davis, Charlie Beaman, Fannie Gregory-Stevens, M. J. Crane, F. L. Linton, Edith Arnold, Maggie Smith, C. E. Chapin, Clarence Mulder, Lizzie Sleight, Mrs. Fred Green, Ada Nelson, Joe Linton, Sada Sibley, Mary E. Crane, Helen Giffard, Ota LeBaron, Flora Hibbard, Grace Beardslee, Robert Smith, Anna Plunkett, Roda Sleight, Amlina Throop, Edith Linton, Blanche Jamison, Marcia Beckwith and Kate E. Roach.

ALSO JULIA LEE, Effie M. Boyer, Julia Bourgeois, Margaret Brown, Edna Pate-Smith, Anna Bourgeois, Margaret Brown, Ethel Clark, Allen Graham, Pansy Reed, A. Rathburn, Gissie Lawrence-Sleight, Hazel Moore, Edna VanVelsor-Jorae, Marion Stehler, Ethel Pearson, Lurela Balcom-Bauerle, Irving Kirshman, Gertrude Atherton, Mildred Dunkell-Knight, Eulah Pierson, Beatrice Koontz - Wert, Beatrice Motz-Jorae, Belva Robinson, Margaret Morrill-Leavitt, Viva Cushman, Frances Jenkins, Thelma Parker - Wells, Lucile Eggleston and Margaret Ashley-Wyrick.

and suggestions made, then as the lesson progresses the foods are placed in the nutritionally adequate basic four food groups. This is fine. What of the child for whom food of any kind in the morning is an achievement? Or the child whose breakfast is a dish of rice or beans? Shall he be commended or reprimanded?

SUPPOSE YOU chose the child from Africa, Ghanalan, to visit in your home; his eating pattern would have been limited in milk. Fish would be the main source of animal protein. He would like Cancay, made of corn rolled into balls and boiled in water to be eaten with fish or sugar or fruit. This is hardly a convenience food available in your super-market.

Would you welcome these children for breakfast in your home? Would we be welcomed in their homes?

I look again at the child faces in my picture—beautiful faces—but the answer to my question is not there.

What did you have for breakfast?

By Helen B. Meach Extension Home Economist

What did you have for breakfast this morning? This question is written in bold black lettering beneath a picture which I have placed by my desk. It is a picture which sends my thoughts racing. What is in the picture? Not food, as you may have thought, but boys and girls - 15 of them standing in front of green fields and hills which stretch out far and away.

The children are delightful to look at with each one dressed in garments typical of his native country, Mexican, Scandinavian, Indonesian, African, Austrian-German, Indian, Basque, Chinese, French, English, Filipino, Dutch, US Caucasian and US Negro.

THE GOAL of this study picture, is to help children of any country to learn and to practice good food habits. The picture is a teaching tool—a very good one by my standards.

The children in the picture are Greek, Mexican, Scandinavian, Indonesian, African, Austrian-German, Indian, Basque, Chinese, French, English, Filipino, Dutch, US Caucasian and US Negro.

The lesson direction could read as follows: Choose one of the children in the picture. Now suppose this child came to visit you. What would you plan for his breakfast? Foods are pictured

Bloodmobile coming to St. Johns July 5

St. Johns area blood donors will again be called upon to help fill the anticipated serious void in blood supplies at the Lansing Regional Red Cross blood center over the upcoming holiday.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will come to St. Johns on July 5 at a time when blood supplies at the center in Lansing will likely be critically low—the pattern follows that of other holidays.

The Bloodmobile will set up here at the St. Joseph Catholic School social hall from noon until 6 p.m. Bloodbank officials are hoping for another good turnout of donors.

THE LAST bloodmobile visit to St. Johns in January collected 232 pints of blood, a near record. Last August the total was 199 pints, and two years ago in July the record donation of 236 pints of blood was collected.

In keeping with the Fourth of July season, the local bloodbank committee has decided on a theme of "Spirit of '67" in urging area residents to lend a life-supporting pint of blood for the benefit of a fellow American.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

If the deceased is a member of a fraternal or veteran's organization that is to participate in the funeral service, we as funeral directors are pleased to cooperate in the arrangements. The clergyman, too, must be informed of such plans.

This is but one aspect of the variation and coordination required of the funeral director in the funeral service.

Respectfully,

This is what it was all about — the race to the finish line where it always took a judge's decision and sometimes that of a camera to decide which car blurred its way across the line first. St. Johns city officials and Clinton County officials in the right side of the bleachers, Derby workers in the front, and spectators in the stand displayed a variety of expressions at the results of this one.

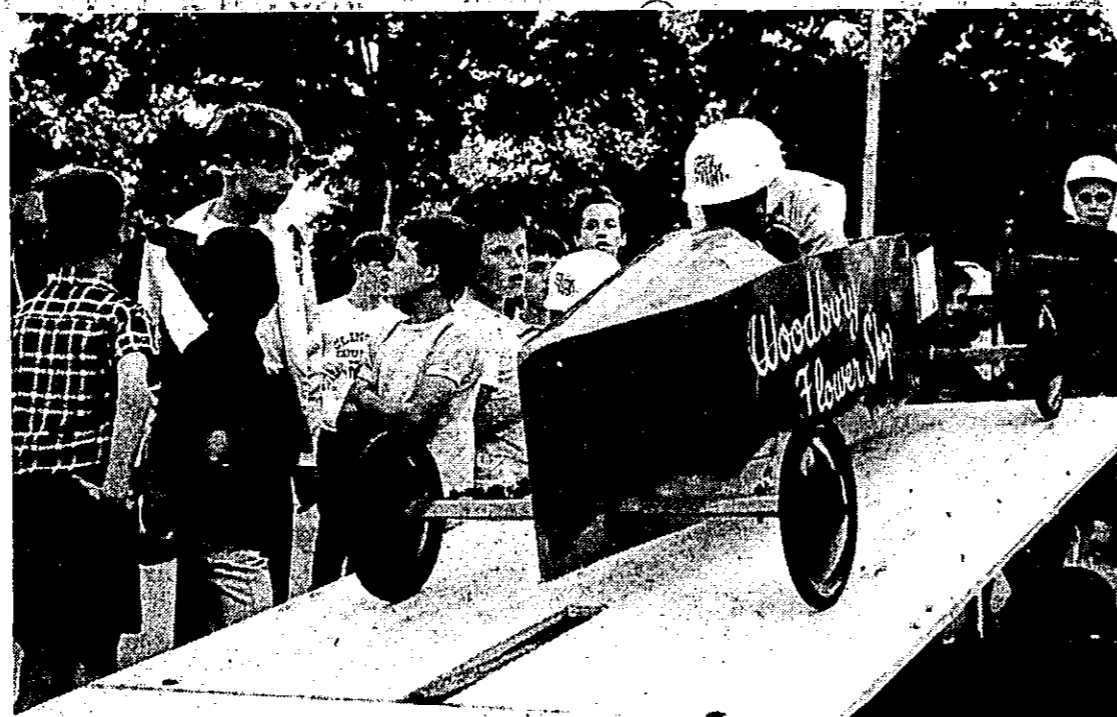

Men and women, boys and girls numbering between 8,000 and 10,000 watched the derby races from the sidewalks, many using comfortable lawn chairs to make an evening of it.

Starter Jim Light gives the green flag to a trio of racers including Bruce Schomisch in Car 16 who aims his coaster down the white line.

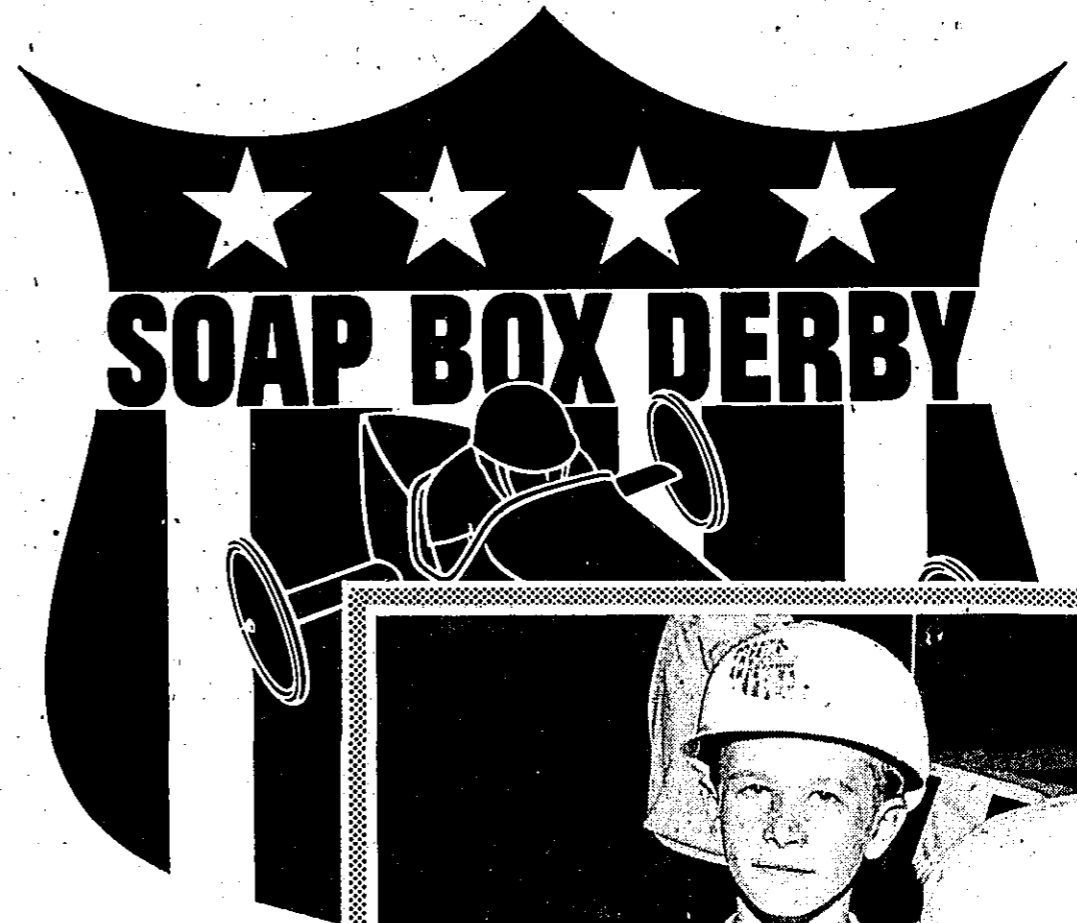

At the finish line Derby officials hollered "hit the brakes" as the cars zipped across the line. Some leaned into the brakes in such a manner as to look like they were going through the floor boards.

Kris Patterson (above) in car No. 36 starts his run down the ramp and along the track during one of the early heats in Sunday's Soap Box Derby in St. Johns. Tall lad in striped jacket next to ramp is Bill Jacobus, winner of the 1965 derby.

Heads as low as possible to reduce wind drag, three boys get set to leave the starting ramp in one of the first heats Sunday.

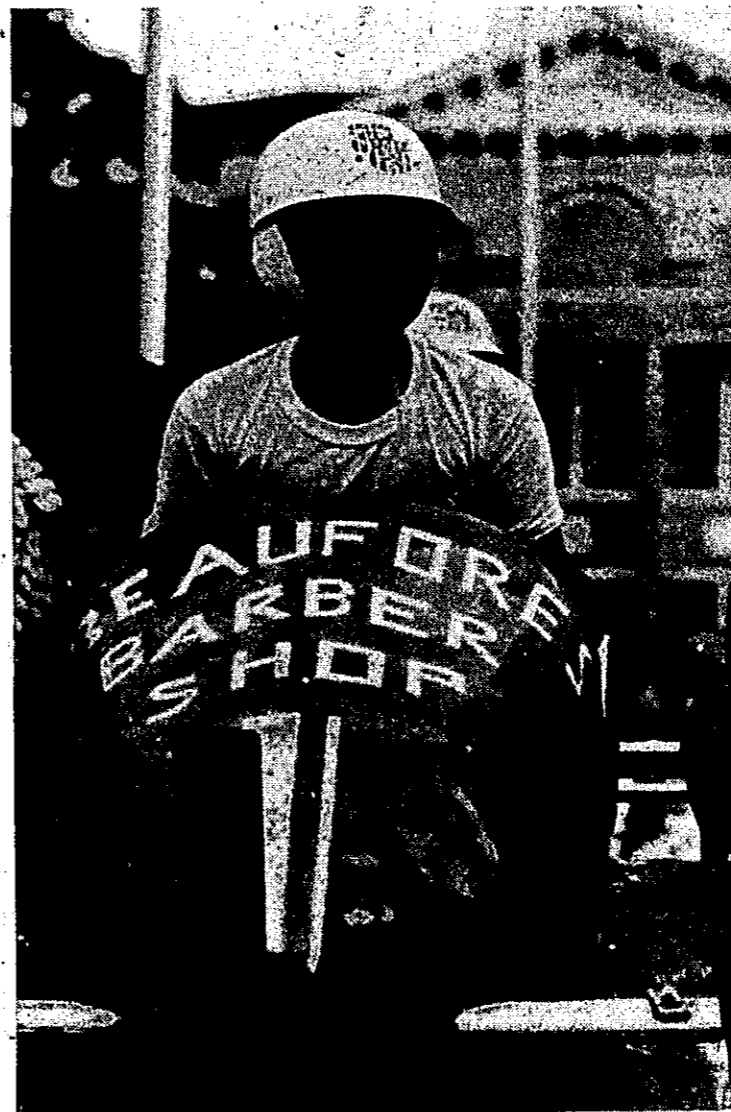

1967 Clinton County champion
LEE SMITH

The 11-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Cecil Smith of 248 W. Pratt Road, DeWitt, Lee worked on his car for about 3 1/2 months, getting it in shape to win the derby in his first try. He will be entering the sixth grade next year at St. Joseph School in St. Johns.

Race Director Jack Downing (right) leads the Soap Box Derby boys up the hill to the starting line during the 37-unit parade which preceded the long evening of racing Sunday.

An alert, clean-cut Larry Prochazka typified the kind of boys who participated in the fifth annual Clinton County Derby Sunday.

IOOF horse show scheduled for Sunday

Over 1,000 persons are expected to watch a large number of horses perform at a horse show this Sunday near Laingsburg, sponsored by the Orion Lodge No. 42, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, of Laingsburg.

It is the first IOOF horse show to be held in the state.

The horse show will be held at the Coltsfoot Arena at 11380 Peacock Road near Laingsburg, starting with a flag-raising ceremony at 9 a.m. and then continuing all day. It is a point-approved show by the American Association of Western Horse Clubs, meaning that points won Sunday are applicable for the state championship.

Auto-pickup crash hurts 3

A collision between a car and a pickup truck at Alward and Shepardsville roads Friday, June 9, sent two Laingsburg sisters to St. Lawrence Hospital, Lansing.

The truck driver, a resident of rural Laingsburg, incurred minor injuries. Involved were Miss Linda Rann, 21, of 7311 W. Parker Road—the driver—and her sister, Carol, 18. Both women suffered face cuts and internal injuries. Edward Brown, 37, the truck driver suffered face and rib injuries.

State police reported the accident happened about 7 p.m. After colliding, the pickup rolled over and hit a sign post.

4-H Club Chatter

By JOHN AYLSWORTH
Extension 4-H Youth Agent

Clinton County will be represented by 13 delegates to the State Club Week at Michigan State University on Wednesday, June 14, and will run until Saturday, June 17. The theme for this year's program is "Teen citizenship." Teenage responsibilities within society, peer groups, and the family as individuals will highlight the program and discussions of more than 1,000 4-H members.

This past week has been very busy for the 4-H Service Club members and junior leaders as they built a float for the Soap Box Derby parade. The members under the leadership of Jim Nichols, the service club president, did a very good job and should be congratulated.

The 4-H saddle horse members will hold their first countywide horse show on Saturday, June 24, at the fairgrounds in St. Johns starting at 10 a.m. Only Clinton County 4-H members will participate in the 20 different classes to be judged. The leaders met Tuesday evening to go over final plans for the show. The public is invited to attend this show.

The 4-H Service Club will hold their annual canoe trip on the weekend of June 24-25. Members are urged to send in their reservation by Monday, June 19. The canoe trip will begin near Sharon and end at Route 131. Over 40 members are expected to participate in this trip.

4-H Dairy Club members are urged to save the date of July 7 for the county dairy training on judging, fitting and grooming and showmanship. The program will begin at 9:45 a.m. at the Green Meadow Farm and in the afternoon the members will stop at the Lee Ormiston Farm.

4-H beef cattle project members have been invited to attend and participate in a beef training clinic at the Dick Braman farm in Gratiot County on Saturday, July 22. The Braman farm is at the corner of Garfield and Crosswell Roads which is located one mile north of Route 57 and one mile west of Route 27. Members will receive tips on clipping, grooming, trimming hooves, judging and showmanship. Since Clinton County will not be holding a beef clinic, the members are urged to attend this training on July 22.

The All Purpose 4-H Club members have elected the following officers: David Seeger as president; Roger Brook as vice president; Eric Carlson as secretary; Jim Nielson as treasurer; Brian Brook as news reporter; and Pat Carlson as recreation leader. The club voted dues at 25 cents per member per year.

The Victor 4-H Club has 11 new junior leaders this year to assist the leaders with over 70 members. The Victor club will have an entry in the 4-H talent show on June 30 with a Civil War scene presentation. Members will learn more about first aid at their next regular meeting.

The River Side Rider Saddle Horse members will hold a bake sale on June 17 at the Grand Ledge Bank. The members invite the public to purchase some home-made baked goods on the 17th with the proceeds to help further the saddle horse program. A committee was appointed to work on signs and publicity. The club held a trail ride at Nadine Tagg's home last Saturday, June 10, with the members gaining much experience in handling their horses. Dennis Bennett demonstrated shoeing horses and trimming feet. The members learned how racing shoes were made and had their questions answered on horse shoeing or feet trimming.

The Nimble Fingers 4-H Club members have decided on their theme for their fair float with "4-H Around the World." The club has dues of 50 cents per member and any dues not paid by June 21, the member pays an extra 5 cents each meeting until paid, so take your money to the next meeting kids. The club members and parents will tour the Arboretum Park and have a policeman talk to the group for future programs. Lori McQueen demonstrated on staking flowers. Lou Ann Thelen volunteered to fill the opening for recreation leader.

The 4-H Wonders, elected Larry Schomisch as president for the summer program. Other officers included: Gloria Bond as vice president; Barbara Penix as secretary; Mary Jo Penix as treasurer.

The Flying Hoops 4-H Club had two members riding in the Soap Box Derby parade Sunday in St.

Water study costs to be ready soon

DeWitt—Residents of DeWitt will soon receive letters in which the costs of the city's proposed water system will be given. The report on the water system, being compiled by R. W. Petrie, engineer, is near completion, city councilmen learned last Wednesday evening.

If residents show continued interest on the project, more detailed work on the proposed system will follow.

In other business, an ordinance was passed outlawing excessive noise, drag racing and throwing or dropping objects from vehicles in the city. Unanimously approved by the council was a plan rezoning parts of Franklin, Washington and Market streets to commercial areas. Councilman Roy Berkimer reported that repair work on Webb and Dill roads will begin soon.

The council gave its approval to Kenneth E. Kelly, superintendent of the sewer plant, to attend the annual meeting of the Michigan Water Pollution Control Assn. at Boyne Falls June 19-21. Councilman Lee Rummell reported the mayor's exchange program between the city and East Tawas was quite successful. DeWitt Mayor Eldon Smith reported that he and his wife and Councilman and Mrs Lawrence Keck were well received in East Tawas.

Johns. The club trail ride was postponed from June 11 until July or August because of the parade. The members had a quiz on the parts of the Western saddle and bridle. Janice Carn and Janet Botmer will serve as a calling committee.

The Kountry Cousins 4-H members have scheduled a hayride for June 23 for members only. The club dues are 50 cents per member and must be paid by July 6. The food committee consists of Jane Smith, Patty Mygrants, Nancy Dickman and Judy Smith. The cleanup committee will consist of Charles Falvor and Dennis Ballinger. The club discussed a fair float and a committee was appointed to make preparations.

Over 35 million Americans move each year. About six million move out of state; another six million cross county lines.

The Touch Of Time

What marvelous buildings has man erected through the centuries. What lofty and inspiring structures has he created. But how many of these glorious accomplishments stand intact today? We can see famous ruins the world over — mute reminders that what man builds is not permanent. Today our buildings contain great slabs of concrete holding hidden wire and steel that will not break with stress. But can we be sure that today's creations will be standing a hundred years or two hundred years from now? Of course not. Of what can we be certain? What does last? Certainly the gifts of God tower indestructibly today as they have for generations... the things of the spirit — faith, hope and love. Our church buildings may crumble or be destroyed, but the fellowship of believers is perpetual throughout the ages. Discover for yourself the great spiritual truths. Discover for yourself through His Church, those things which endure forever.

'Abnormal milk' test helps profits

Dairyman whose cows are on the "abnormal milk testing program" are not only meeting a Grade A requirement but also stand a chance of pocketing several hundred dollars in increased milk profits, according to Donald L. Murray, Michigan State University dairy Extension specialist.

Murray explains that the abnormal milk testing program, which measures white blood cell count, must be used by dairymen who want their milk to qualify for the Grade A Interstate Shippers list. Cows in this program must be tested four out of every six months, but most milk plants are running it monthly with other quality tests.

"Besides helping to safeguard the milk supply," says Murray, "dairyman with a 50-cow herd can realize as much as $1,800 more income by reducing the leucocyte (white blood cell) count in his milk."

"A high abnormal milk score (high white cell count) can be avoided by checking each cow's milk at milking time with a strip cup and excluding any milk that proves to be abnormal. Periodic checks with the California Mastitis Test (MCT) may pick up some individual cows contributing to the problem that may not be detected with the strip cup."

Murray offers five further management suggestions to reduce the cause of abnormal milk:

*Be sure milking equipment is operating properly.

*Follow recommended milking procedures.

*USE CLEAN AND properly sanitized equipment.

*Provide clean cow surroundings.

*Exclude milk from fresh cows until relatively free from colostrum.

*Periodic tests for abnormal milk serve as a barometer to indicate mastitis and other herd health problems," comments Murray. "These checkups help prevent severe losses in milk production and quality."

Stroke, which causes about 200,000 deaths a year, is also one of the most damaging of human ailments in terms of economic costs and simple human heartbreak and misery, the Michigan Heart Assn. says. For more information about it—and some of the newer methods of rehabilitating victims—write the Assn, a Michigan United Fund agency, at 13100 Puritan, Detroit, Mich. 48227.

Farming, farmers both are changing

Farming is making many changes in mechanization to meet competition for labor, but Michigan State University agricultural economists find farmers, too, are changing.

The goals and values of younger farmers tend to be more similar to goals and values of their urban counterparts than they were a generation or more ago.

Farmers want shorter hours, more vacation time, more conveniences, more consumer durable goods and greater security through fringe benefits, economists find. All these mean they need more money for living.

WITH THIS IN MIND, FARMING has become more of a business to younger farmers than a "way of life" as it was in past generations, Michigan Cooperative Extension Service staff members are learning.

Farmers are willing to follow good business practices in operating their farms and keep records that will tell them which way to move to make more profit and cut out unprofitable enterprises.

Not being as bound by tradition as early-day farmers, they are more willing and able to plan a financial program which will help them reach their goals.

As a result, they make income statements that lending institutions can evaluate along with the farmer's production management ability and his character in considering loans.

Clinton youth to State 4-H Club Week

"Teen Citizenship" is the theme of the 1967 State 4-H Club Week being held at Michigan State University June 14-17. More than 1,000 Michigan 4-H members—including 16 from Clinton County—will attend. "This is a '4-H highlight' for those participating," points out John Aylsworth, Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

Each day's program will give emphasis to different areas of citizenship. The delegates will learn more about their responsibilities in society, teenage motivation, boy-girl relationships, and self and family understanding.

THE 4-H'ERS will be divided into 30 different club groups, led by 90 specially trained teenage "leader-developers." Volunteer 4-H leaders will serve as resource people for the groups. The entire program has been planned by a committee of 4-H'ers selected from last year's delegates.

The young people will travel "around the world in 120 minutes" as they meet and visit with Michigan State students from other countries. They'll also have the opportunity to use the recreation facilities at MSU and attend a special program at the Abrams Planetarium.

This year will be a "first" for parent participation. Parents of the delegates have been invited to join them for the Friday evening and Saturday program on a "teen-parent search for understanding."

CLUB WEEK delegates from Clinton County include: Louise Green, DeWitt; Michael Pearson, DeWitt; Lee Schavey, St. Johns; David Feldpausch, St. Johns; Sandy McQueen, St. Johns; Lisa Davis, St. Johns; Marilyn Elchorn, St. Johns; Judy Smith, St. Johns; Tom Kehr, St. Johns; Cheryl Rumzek, Lansing; Linda Lou Huss, Ovid; Thelma Dunham, Elsie; Helen Feldpausch, Fowler; Bobbie Herrguth, Bath; Maryann Droste, Westphalia; Joyce Wohlfert, Westphalia.

The group will be accompanied by Mrs. Roy Davis and John Aylsworth of St. Johns.

Mrs. Robert Borton of Lansing will serve as a resource person throughout the week.

ASC PROGRAM

New farm wheat allotment may be set for 1968 crop

A new farm wheat allotment may be established for the 1968 crop wheat for farms that did not have a 1967 allotment and can meet eligibility requirements. A 1968 wheat allotment will automatically be established for all farms that had a wheat allotment established for 1967. To be eligible for a new farm allotment, the operator must expect to receive 50 per cent or more of his income from the production of agricultural commodities on the farm; neither the owner or the operator may have an interest in any other farm which has a 1968 wheat allotment; and the person making application must have had at least two years experience in the last five years in producing wheat. Applications for a new farm allotment must be filed in the county office on or before June 30. Any interested producer who can meet these requirements should contact the county office before the final date for filing an application.

WE HAVE BEEN advised some producers have timely planted and replanted feed grains without getting a good stand. In the process, chemicals used for weed control have left a residue which makes it impractical to devote the land to other crops for harvest this year. These producers now desire to use as diverted acreage the land planted to the feed grain which has failed. This would then permit the land initially intended as diverted acreage which is free of chemical residue to be used for other crops.

Citizenship topic for 4-H Week

Teen-age responsibilities—within society, peer groups, the family, and as individuals—will highlight the program and discussions of more than 1,000 Michigan 4-H'ers during the 49th State 4-H Club Week at Michigan State University this week.

The theme, "Teen Citizenship," was chosen by 30 of last year's delegates selected to serve on the 1967 planning committee. The young people are also taking a look at boy-girl relationships, teen-age motivations, and self and family understanding. They'll travel "around the world in 120 minutes" as they visit with students from other countries.

This year will be a "first for parent participation. Parents of the delegates have been invited to join them for the Saturday program on a "teen-parent search for understanding."

Speakers during the week include Dale Robinson, field representative for the Michigan Education Assn.; Morley Fraser, head football coach at Albion College; Dr. Dan Dallas of the Michigan Department of Social Services; Dr. Owen Morgan of the Merrill-Palmer Institute in Detroit; and Dr. Gordon Beckstrand, director of 4-H youth programs, Michigan State University.

The 4-H'ers will be divided into 30 different groups, led by 90 specially trained teen-age "leader-developers." Volunteer 4-H leaders will serve as resource people for the groups. Closed-circuit TV will be used for parts of the program.

USDA agencies instructed to revitalize aid to communities

Lloyd B. Campbell, chairman of the Clinton County technical action panel said last week the Department of Agriculture had instructed its rural development specialists to "end the migration of rural people to large cities by helping small communities revitalize themselves."

Campbell said instructions had been sent by Asst. Secretary John A. Baker to all the field staffs of USDA agencies urging them to expand efforts to:

- *Provide assistance to multi-county planning and development groups.
- *Extend services and benefits of all federal agencies into rural areas.
- *Help rural communities make economic development plans and secure services needed to carry out the plans.

THE ASSISTANT secretary's action emphasized the importance of the technical action panels that the secretary of agriculture has ordered established in each state and the approximately 3,000 rural counties to work with local community development organizations.

"Basically, what the department is doing," Baker explains, "is realigning and fortifying its field offices to insure that rural communities do not miss out on help available from any source in their development programs."

"We have established a 'one-stop' service concept in every rural county to enable local leaders to 1) get help they need in finding out what is impeding the development of their local economy, 2) obtain assistance in preparing economic development plans, and 3) tap all government and private services that can be used to turn dreams into reality."

Membership of the technical action panels at the state level consists of the heads of all Department of Agriculture agencies that provide support in the development of rural areas and are invited to become members. The panels are assisted by the directors of the Extension Service.

Booklet describes farm insect pests

All-out war against the problems of livestock insect pests is being assisted this year by the Standard Oil Division of American Oil Company through distribution of a booklet on the subject.

The booklet describes various types of flies and other insects, and recommends various types of treatment for beef, swine, sheep and other livestock. The booklet points out that in some instances income can be cut 20 to 25 per cent because of flies. The horn fly, for example, can cause beef cattle to lose as much as half a pound per day.

The booklet is being distributed as a public service by Standard Oil bulk plant agents throughout this area.

Miracles still happen, though rarely.

Like the statement, "We will also try to find out the relationship of rural problems to problems in our cities," said Kentucky Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, chairman, President's National Advisory Commission on Rural Poverty.

I know farmers' inability to buy needed clothes, equipment, housing, insurance, etc. is causing city unemployment. You know displaced farm families are jamming cities, causing jobless figures and relief costs to mount. But did you know that anybody in high places knew it? I didn't.

Keep on top of bean problems

Field beans are sensitive to weed competition and bean diseases and insects. George McQueen, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent, advises farmers to "keep on top" of their field bean crop and not let weeds, diseases or insects get ahead of them.

Cultivation alone may not give adequate weed control in some years. Effective and efficient methods are available to control annual weeds by use of either pre-planting or pre-emergence herbicides. Weeds are controlled easiest when small. Once they emerge, rotary hoe or spiked tooth harrow or weeder can be used to control weeds not eliminated through herbicides.

BEAN DISEASES can be held to a minimum through 1) planting disease-resistant varieties; 2) use of disease-free seed (certified is recommended); 3) use of a rotation with 2 or 3 crops between bean crops; 4) not working bean fields when plants are wet.

Special literature is available from the county Extension office on the symptoms of bean diseases and how to control them.

Field beans are also susceptible to many insects. When a seed fails to sprout or sprouted seedlings are weak and stinky the seed corn maggot has usually damaged the seed.

Farmers have been told so often so long they've got to get big to get efficient—"get efficient or get out—get big or get out"—that they're beginning to believe it.

If you are buying this "big operator" image, you are setting the stage for outside capital. Says Dean Earl Butz, dean of agriculture, Purdue U., "Big limits are an open invitation to outside capital."

Says Msgr. Louis J. Miller, chief rural life director, NCRLC, "This is the sinful part of the farmer. By buying the big-operator image he is denying his children the opportunity to farm. He has got too much invested. Who can take it over?"

"All right, so Sonny shouldn't have to worry—he's one of the heirs. But Sonny has got to buy out the other three or six or eight heirs because they want their money now and they are not satisfied with the low return from farm investments. Where is he going to get capital with which to buy 3/4 or 7/8 of a big, highly-mechanized farm?"

BUT MSGR. MILLER, who has gained quite a reputation over seven states as the fighting friend of the farmer who is never afraid to speak out against anything that harms the farm family, comforts the big-image farmer with this: "But don't worry about it, you're not going to be here. You won't survive."

"Inevitably — we're going to lose another million and a half farms if farmers, in their sinful pride, keep on buying the big picture."

WILL IT TAKE A RAIN to make nitrogen work?

Not if you use Smith-Douglas GRO-GREEN Anhydrous Ammonia to sidedress your corn. GRO-GREEN Anhydrous Ammonia is placed deep into the moisture zone where it can start feeding the roots immediately.

Any nitrogen placed on top of the ground must lie until rain moves it into the root zone. Even stirring the nitrogen into the topsoil with a cultivator won't make other nitrogen work without a good rain.

Let's keep the issues separate

It has been disturbing to watch a couple of side issues being used by opponents to cloud the real issue being brought before St. Johns voters next Wednesday.

Urban renewal and the public image of city administrators are not the issues at this election and can only destroy the city commission's attempts to operate the city during the next year in the most economical way possible.

The election next Wednesday is for one purpose only: to establish a millage taxation limit of 20 mills for general operation of the city by amendment of the city charter.

The limit is no different than what the city has been operating under since the charter was written. Under the belief of a 20-mill limit in the past they have assessed no more than 16 mills; under the 20-mill limit they are asking to be spelled out, the commission plans to assess only 16 mills.

The only reason the election on the question was called was to spell out in black and white the exact figure, something the attorneys said should be done even though it wasn't in the past.

The request is simple, and it should get a simple "yes" vote at the polls next Wednesday, June 21.

But the simple question is being clouded by some side issues being dragged into the picture by opponents of urban renewal. They have found out they can kill urban renewal by killing the proposed charter change. So they want to kill both, to be sure one is dead.

Therein lies the shame of their thinking. Urban renewal can be killed—if that is what they truly want—in at least two other ways which make more sense. They can call a referendum on the urban renewal problem or they can convince the city commission that most people don't want urban renewal.

Those ways are the democratic ways provided by even the urban renewal proposal itself. A YES VOTE on the charter amendment next Wednesday DOES NOT MEAN URBAN RENEWAL IS "IN." The city commission has to hold a public hearing on the proposal, and at least one commissioner has told us he won't vote for it if the majority of the people at that hearing don't want it.

That's some assurance, but there's still another "out" if folks have that little faith in the commission. They can call a referendum on the issue

That seems like plenty of insurance without using next week's charter amendment proposal as the whipping boy. Let's keep the issues separated. Handle each one independent of the other and let the will of the people be clear on each one—not clouded.

The issue at hand is efficient operation of the city. How can the city most efficiently use the 16 mills it will levy next year? Must it spread 10 mills for general operation, three mills for water program debt retirement, two mills for garbage and rubbish collection, and one mill for library purposes? If the vote of the people is "no," this is the way it must be done, and those three mills, two mills and one mill can't be used for anything but those purposes.

Or can the commission spread the 16 mills as a single levy? If the vote of the people is "yes," expenses of bond debts, garbage and rubbish pickup, library operation and all the other services provided by the city can be drawn from one pot in proportions necessary to do each job right.

This latter method is by far better business. Citizens cannot expect their commissioners to run the city as an efficient business unless they give the commissioners that ability. A "no" vote won't do it. A "yes" vote will.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Being ready at the right time has always been somewhat of a problem for me, and while I'm never really very late it's always just enough to rattle me whether it does the other people or not.

Even when there is no particular time element involved I frequently find myself late. Take the weekend of June 3 for instance.

On the spur of the moment that Saturday afternoon I suggested to the wife that it would be nice to drive up to Grayling to see Hartwick Pines State Park, one of the park's we'd never been to before. I had been thinking about Sunday when I said that, but Ann quickly suggested we go up that afternoon and camp overnight, giving our new umbrella tent and sleeping bags a tryout before vacation time.

that morning, and so at 10 a.m. we bade farewell to Hartwick Pines State Park and headed back south. We stopped off briefly at Higgins Lake State Park, but the problem there was a little better. We were home by 2 p.m., 28 hours after we started.

Even though the mosquitoes had been bad, one of the things which made the problem hard to take was the fact we were only a week, and maybe two, too late in making the camping trip. We managed to time our camping just after the mosquitoes had hatched. A few weeks earlier and we would have preceded them and probably would have had a much better time.

Hartwick Pines State Park will be seeing the Rinkers again, but it won't be until after the first hard, killing frost next fall eliminates mosquitoes.

AND AWAY WE WENT, full of anticipation of a nice, pleasant weekend. But 50 billion mosquitoes had different plans for us.

The first order of business was setting up the tent. This went amazingly smooth, even when I took short-cuts in the direction sheet that was packed with the tent. The major problem was keeping the mosquitoes away.

Even when we finally applied some Off, the pesky critters would swarm around anyway, and by moving in any direction we were likely to have a mosquito caught under an eyelid.

I tried turning sideways so the mosquitoes wouldn't see me, but a new batch would attack from the new front. It got to be miserable, and when we tried to go for a walk to see the big pines of the park the mosquitoes in the woods were twice as bad, so we gave up and went back to the tent.

By keeping it closed up and sprayed inside we managed to have it cleared out of mosquitoes by the time we got back, and that aspect of the night was blissful.

OTHER ASPECTS were not. Shortly after midnight two squirrels got to mixing it up in a tree over the tent, showering our 6 x 6 outfit with branches, pinecones and maybe even one of the squirrels. Their chattering and the other noise set our dog Burton into an uproar of her own, and it took us about five minutes to get her quieted down.

About 3:30 a.m. what sounded like an army of campers pulled into the campground and pitched their tent next to ours. There were a couple of teenagers, at least, a couple of teenage girls, a grumpy man and several others. Between the clanking of tent stakes, the yelling of the kids, the giggling of the girls, etc., we were another hour getting back to sleep.

Sunday morning brought a renewal of the fight against the mosquitoes. They weren't quite as bad as the night before, and we managed to make a safari into the pine forest.

The hills call

By Haydn Pearson

Serene and steadfast they stand against the horizon, guarding the valleys and lowlands. At dawn as the sun lifts in the east, slanting rays paint a picture of soft hues when the light rays strike the evergreens mixed with the opening leaves of hardwoods. Patches of fog lift slowly as colors change from faint pastel hues to the familiar coloring in full light.

Millions of years ago these hills were kneaded and folded. They have known the brutal scourings of four great ice sheets. On them one can still see the marks where "God's Great Plow" scraped across the granite. When the last ice age ended, some 15,000 years ago, trees and flowers returned, and now each hill has its zones. There are hardwoods and flowers at the base; then the belt of evergreens above. Near the top are the wind-tortured small trees in grotesque shapes. And on the summit are pockets of alpine flowers that live their life span in a few short weeks.

Why does man want to climb a high mountain? Because it is there and offers a challenge. Why do men in the valleys lift their eyes to the hills? Because the hills represent something enduring and certain, something in which a man can believe in an era when uncertainty and tension grip a world of nations still struggling to learn how to live together.

Since ancient days, wherever hills lift above the surrounding terrain, men have found spiritual comfort in the heights. It is not for all to climb above the valleys, but there are many who look upward and respond to the call of the hills.

OUT OF CURIOSITY I checked at the camp office concerning the mosquitoes. Mosquitoes are normal there, the ranger said, but they were worse this spring than they had been in a long time. As the summer wears on they expect the mosquitoes to wear out and not be so much of a problem. But they were a problem yet

Summer thoughts

The warming sun and the breezes of spring herald the coming of another summer season. For a large percentage of our population—our young people—the coming of summer means just one thing, the end of school.

Every student, whether this summer means lazy days at the swimming hole, a summer job, baseball in the school yard or the beginning of a career, should keep in mind one thing about the world around him—it is changing more quickly than we can imagine.

Academic training can give an invaluable store of knowledge of our history and our heritage, of human relations, of technical matters with concrete commercial value. It can give preparation to meet the world as it exists on the day of graduation. But the day after, the week after, the year after, new knowledge, new reactions, new circumstances will pile up.

The summer season may mark the end of school days for three months or for the rest of a person's life, but it does not mark an end to the need for learning and growing in order to keep up with and contribute to the fast paced world around us.

So, find the fun of summer, let it bring exhilaration, refreshment and the perception to find knowledge and understanding in the blooming of a buttercup and the flame of a sunrise as well as in the schoolroom, library or laboratory. Successful living must be based on a constant enlargement of all kinds of knowledge.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

WEST BEND, WIS., NEWS: "This is the season of year when youngsters of various ages delight in the flying of kites. . . It is well to warn the youngsters to stay away from electric power lines and highways. Don't use wire for a kite string or a cord with flannel or wire in it. Be sure the cord isn't wet. If kites break loose and the cord falls across electric wires, leave it alone. Of course, we know that very few boys and girls who actually fly kites each spring will read this editorial. However, the retired kite-flyers, remembering the days of their youth, might be reminded to caution their youngsters. A few words of warn-

St. Johns fireman Ray Kentfield Jr. contributed this picture of the St. Johns Fire Department's Hose Co. No. 1, photographed in 1884. The faded 8 x 10 mounted print was discovered in a bureau drawer by his mother recently. The picture was taken on the east side of the present fire hall, before the municipal building was put there, and they are facing Spring Street. The hose company ran with the hose rig to fires. Kentfield's grandfather, the late Estes Kentfield, is the fifth man from the right in the picture.

Record-sized vacation bonuses totalling $74,036.54 will be paid today to 348 Federal Mogul employees in St. Johns, plant manager W. C. Robertson announces.

The new champion of Michigan's teen-age motorists is Larry Swartzendruber, 16, son of Mr and Mrs George Swartzendruber, R-6, St. Johns. He represented Clinton county after winning the St. Johns Jaycee's Teen-Age Road-race for the second straight time here last month.

Rev. O. Lavern Merritt, of Parchment, will succeed Rev. Emerald E. Price as minister of the St. Johns First Methodist Church on Sunday, June 23.

Indicative of today's generally improved industrial and employment conditions is the recent statement of the director of the county welfare commission that there is now a case load of only 72 families in Clinton county, at the last Friday count, as compared to the case loads that ran into the middle 250's but a few years ago for the same month.

Ross Brown of St. Johns was named last week as caretaker of the local city park, replacing W. S. "Scotty" Knight who resigned recently to accept a position as officer at the county jail. Brown had been employed for several years as a driver by Byron Danley and Son.

St. Johns' change-over to the new natural gas will be complete this week-end when a couple workmen finish checking appliances in return calls, according to Dick DeGroot, Consumers Company manager.

The committee on site for the Triangle Motor Truck Company buildings have decided on twenty-four acres of land nine blocks east of Clinton Avenue, adjoining the railroad on the south, com-

It may be that another industry will come to St. Johns. The General Machine and Tool Co., a hub machine concern at Jackson, is seriously considering moving their plant to this city, and sites for the location of the factory are now being looked up by a committee nominated by the local Commercial Club.

Members of Co. No. 38, M. S. T., are taking turns nights in guarding the city electric and water works plant, without expense to the city. The guards are armed. As a matter of safety people should remain away from the plant nights, unless they have important business there, which must be explained to the guards when challenged.

Congratulates seniors for rebuilding fund

We would like to have you publish this letter of congratulations to the senior class of Rodney B. Wilson High School for their great efforts in rebuilding their class funds after the robbery of their class funds.

This has given the adults a new confidence in the students of today who will one day rule and govern our nation. The organizing of the Amway fund raiser proved to us what great things they can manage and accomplish. "The people of the community also are complimented on their wonderful cooperation in helping these teenagers in their projects. We, too, were pleased to do our share in helping them by presenting the fund raiser to them. Thank you.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

State police career attracting more men

More and more bright young men are attracted to careers with the Michigan State Police.

Better base salary, fringe benefits, shorter work weeks and other overall conditions brought renewed interest in this important job. State police count 1,473 in their ranks with 68 recruits beginning school. Their authorized strength is 1,976. About 300 civilians are employed.

Turnover is low, but the force is now hit hard by current retirements. Continual expansion of the department requires additional recruiting. The department doubled in size in the past 20 years. It is estimated it may grow to 2,000 men by 1970.

Although applications have increased, the number of young men who do not meet the standards is high. Col. Fredrick E. Davids, state police commissioner, notes that about 35 per cent of those who begin training do not graduate.

OPPORTUNITIES for advancement are excellent. Each retirement opens vacancies through the ranks which means several promotions per retirement. Troopers are eligible to take promotional examinations after five years of service.

Salaries begin at $8,368.40 per year. Annual raises bring a trooper's pay to $9,437.76 after seven years. Higher rank increases pay, of course, with a police captain drawing about $15,000 per year.

Civil service pay increases will raise salaries to a higher level beginning July 1.

Other benefits include longevity pay after six years of service; travel allowance; free uniforms and equipment; vacation and sick leave; free moving when transferred; group medical and life insurance; a retirement plan which allows half-pay for life after 25 years of service.

Work weeks have been reduced to 40 hours, but the job is still demanding and the training rigorous. Basic school at headquarters in East Lansing includes classroom instruction in police administration and related subjects. First aid, firearms, boxing, judo, swimming and other skills are also taught. After graduation, troopers are encouraged to seek additional school.

"IT'S JUST BEGUN," said Don Weeks, executive director of the Greater Michigan Foundation. This, despite the fact that Michigan Week "ended" May 27.

The 14th consecutive Michigan Week observance involved an estimated 15,000 people in leadership roles with hundreds of thousands participating.

Weeks looks upon Michigan Week as a rallying time and likens it to a business convention. The observance, itself, he maintains, is merely a "charging up" of leaders and citizens with the hope that interest and pride in the state will linger for the remaining 51 weeks.

"It is nothing but a place on the calendar," Weeks says when referring to Michigan Week. A county chairman may begin organizing plans in the summer. By the time school starts he will have recommended programs which schools and service clubs can immediately use to promote Michigan Week ideals within their own organizations.

YEAR-ROUND PROMOTIONS need not bring monumental re-

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director Michigan Department of Public Health

It's interesting how the meaning of certain words or certain concepts change over the years. For example, it wasn't too long ago when a "drive-in" meant a place to stop for a root beer or a sandwich. Yet today the term "drive-in" might refer to a movie, a dry cleaner, a bank, a car wash, or even a church. The original narrow and limited definition of a "drive-in" now covers much more than just a snack bar that has curb-service. "Sex education" is another term that has changed meaning over the last 20 years or so. There was a time when this term referred to a rather narrow concept of instruction in the physiology and function of the male and female sex organs, and in the mechanics of human reproduction. But this old-fashioned concept of sex education has been replaced today with a much broader, much more human idea of what sex is all about.

THE MORE LIMITED concept of sex education (which today we would probably call "reproduction education") has been replaced by a view of sex which takes in practically the entire human personality. After all, a person's sex involves more than just the part he or she plays in the physical relations between a man and a woman or in the conception and birth of a baby.

Sexuality, in the context used here, also concerns social relationships, emotional relationships, spiritual and economic relationships, and more. Sexuality concerns the male and female roles in society, the roles of the two sexes within the family... plus the interpersonal relationships between the parents and children, and among the children themselves. It concerns the relationships and responsibilities between all human beings, and the creative (or destructive) use which each individual makes of his sexual powers. It concerns the entire process of self-identification and the development of a human personality. After all, sex is what you are. Sexuality, as I have used it, is a vital part of our normal human behavior... and it requires understanding, just like any other aspect of our lives.

Because this new concept of sex education does cover such a wide range of subject matter, the name "family life education" has replaced the name "sex education" in some schools and communities. It seems more descriptive to many folks.

ONE OF THE BIGGEST problems today is that the parents and teachers themselves need help in this subject matter before they feel prepared to teach it, since most of them were taught only what we now call "reproduction education" when they were youngsters. We at the health department are trying to do something about this dilemma.

We have just recently initiated a program which provides special consultation in family life education for local health departments, schools, churches, or other local groups which want to undertake such education in the community. This program can provide school teachers and others with the information they need to do an effective job in teaching family living. We are now staffed to provide guidance in anything from the development of a single specific course (for young people, or for parents)—to a complete community program running through all grades of the school system into adult education. Each community's needs and desires will be different.

suits to keep with underlying principles of Michigan Week. Any original program which endeavors to demonstrate the state's friendliness brings people closer together, builds community pride or improves opportunities for Michigan youth is considered a direct result of Greater Michigan promotion.

Improvements in the seven-day event constantly take place. This year, addition of Michigan Minuteman Governor's Awards became a part of Livelihood Day.

Nominations for the award were submitted by state associations, city and village councils, and county boards of supervisors. One hundred people received the governor's citation at special ceremonies.

Another attraction this year was a tour by five former Michigan Governors during Government Day. Wilber M. Brucker, 1931-32; Murray D. VanVagoner, 1941-42; Harry F. Kelly, 1943-46; G. Mennen Williams, 1949-60; and John B. Swainson, 1961-62 visited some of Michigan's larger cities and were met by enthusiastic crowds at each stop.

Next year's observance, set for May 19-25, is already in the planning stage.

The 'Low Down'

From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Uncle Sam, partner of higher education

Senator Wayne Morse (Ore.)... "The University of Portland in its alumni edition of the Bulletin, presented a report prepared by a distinguished council of educators who collectively comprise Editorial Projects for Education, a non-profit organization associated with the American Alumni Council..." (The condensed report follows):

The federal government is now the "big spender" in the academic world. Last year Washington spent more money on the nation's campuses than did the 50 state governments combined.

The $5 billion or so that the federal government will spend on campuses this year constitutes more than 25 per cent of higher education's total budget.

THERE IS ALMOST no federal agency which does not provide funds for higher education.

The issue of federal control notwithstanding, federal support of higher education is taking its place alongside military budgets and farm subsidies as one of the government's essential activities.

Each of the 50 or so agencies dispensing federal funds to colleges and universities is responsible for its own program, and no single federal agency supervises the entire enterprise.

Not only does the lack of a coordinated federal program make it difficult to find a clear definition of the government's role in higher education, but it also creates a number of problems both in Washington and on the campuses.

The Bureau of the Budget, for example has had to wrestle with several uncoordinated, duplicative federal science budgets and with different accounting systems.

The colleges and universities, on the other hand, must negotiate the maze of federal bureaus with consummate skill if they are to get their share of the federal largesse.

COLLEGE AND university presidents are constantly looking for competent academic administrators to prow the federal agencies in search of programs and opportunities in which their institutions can profitably participate.

The latter group of people, whom the press call "university lobbyists," has been growing in number. At least a dozen institutions now have full-time representatives working in Washington. Many more have members of their administrative and academic staffs shuttling to and from the capital to negotiate federal grants and contracts, cultivate agency personnel and try to influence legislation. Still other institutions have enlisted the aid of qualified alumni or trustees who happen to live in Washington.

For those institutions already dependent upon federal dollars, it is too late to turn back. Their physical plant, their programs, their personnel are all geared to continuing federal aid.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT The report discloses that, "Of the 50 or more agencies dispensing federal funds, no single agency supervises the entire enterprise." Why isn't this supervision coordinated under the secretary of health, EDUCATION, and welfare?

The secretary of health, education, and welfare has a commissioner whose duties are listed as, special higher education projects. This might be a good place to start, "supervision and coordinating."—J. C.

The fight on emphysema . . . that men may breathe

It's getting so people no longer say "what?" when mention is made of emphysema. By and by they'll even be learning how to spell it. And that's all to the good, if anything can be good about an ailment that makes breathing a desperate struggle for untold numbers of people.

It's all to the good because emphysema is going to be around for a long time. And the sooner we can stop thinking of it as just a fancy foreign word and start recognizing it as a killer and a thief of the air men breathe, the better chance we'll have of getting it under control.

Emphysema means "inflation" — and that's just what happens to the affected lung. As the lungs swell they lose their elasticity, and the ability to breathe is impaired. In advanced cases the patient literally has to fight for every breath.

Emphysema has been known for ages, but only recently has it been taken seriously on a wide scale. Today, with cases on the increase, and with interest focusing more and more on environmental hazards to breathing, emphysema rates as one of the major health problems. Recently the U. S. Public Health Service and the National Tuberculosis Assn. got together and sponsored a joint task force to define the problem and draw up a program to deal with it.

A lot more is going to be heard about medicine's fight to stem the rise of emphysema and related diseases of breathing.

Meanwhile, one simple rule can help guide the ordinary citizen. If you have persistent shortness of breath, it could be a symptom of emphysema or one of those other diseases. Don't wait—see a doctor. Ask your Christmas
