We got clobbered: Earl Board meets tonight to plan new election

EARL LANCASTER

"We got clobbered." That was the first comment by St. Johns School Supt. Earl Lancaster as he discussed Monday's school millage election.

"We'll have to set a new date for another election," he said. Lancaster said the St. Johns board of education would meet again tonight to discuss setting a date and determine just how much millage they would ask voters to approve.

St. Johns voters rejected the latest proposal of a 2.5 mill increase by almost 2-1. The unofficial results show 1,433 against the increase and 830 in favor.

In the race for positions on the board of education, Alden Livingston and Leon Schumaker, both incumbents, won reelection. Schumaker drew the most support with 1,242 votes, followed by Livingston's 1,167, Bruck Irish Sr. with 1,075 and Gale Van Burger with 567.

The defeat of the millage increase also downed the existing 14.5 operational millage set in 1969. St. Johns is not alone in finding the schools without operating funds, since Lansing, East Lansing and Fowler all turned down similar packages.

In other area millage elections:

—Fowler voters downed a 14.5 mill operational renewal proposal 203-188. Gerald Pohl, running unopposed for the board of education, drew 353 votes.

—Pewamo-Westphalia voters passed their 14.5 millage question 285-126 and reelected Eugene Cook to the board of education. He was unopposed and drew 398 votes.

—Bath voters approved an 18-mill operation package with a total of 205-181. However, they turned down Lansing Community College's request for a 1-mill increase 272-206.

Bath voters also elected Claude Vall and William Fouch to the board of education. Fouch received 180 votes and Vall had 166.

—Ovid-Elsie's 14-mill renewal package was approved 716-459, but voters turned down a request to add another 2 mills for transportation and supplies. The totals on that question were 912-565. Merle Green and Richard Semans won seats on O-E's board of education. Green captured 699 votes while Semans received 598. Thomas Winkler received 509, followed by Robert Bloomer at 242, William Staples with 138 and William Grant with 54.

—DeWitt voters approved an 8.5 mill operation renewal package 251-138 and approved the 1-mill increase for Lansing Community College with a 205-185 vote. Incumbent board member James Decatur was unopposed in his bid for reelection.

—The Fulton voters approved a 9-mill renewal package 232-95 and approved a 2-mill transportation and portable classroom request 206-125. Glen Kanitz and James Glass ran unopposed for four-year terms on the board of education and Ronald Bellenger won election unopposed for a two year term on the board.

—The special education proposal presented by the Clinton County Intermediate Board of Education, requesting a .75 mill increase passed county-wide, and in each individual district. The county-wide total vote was 2,888 in favor and 2,185 against.

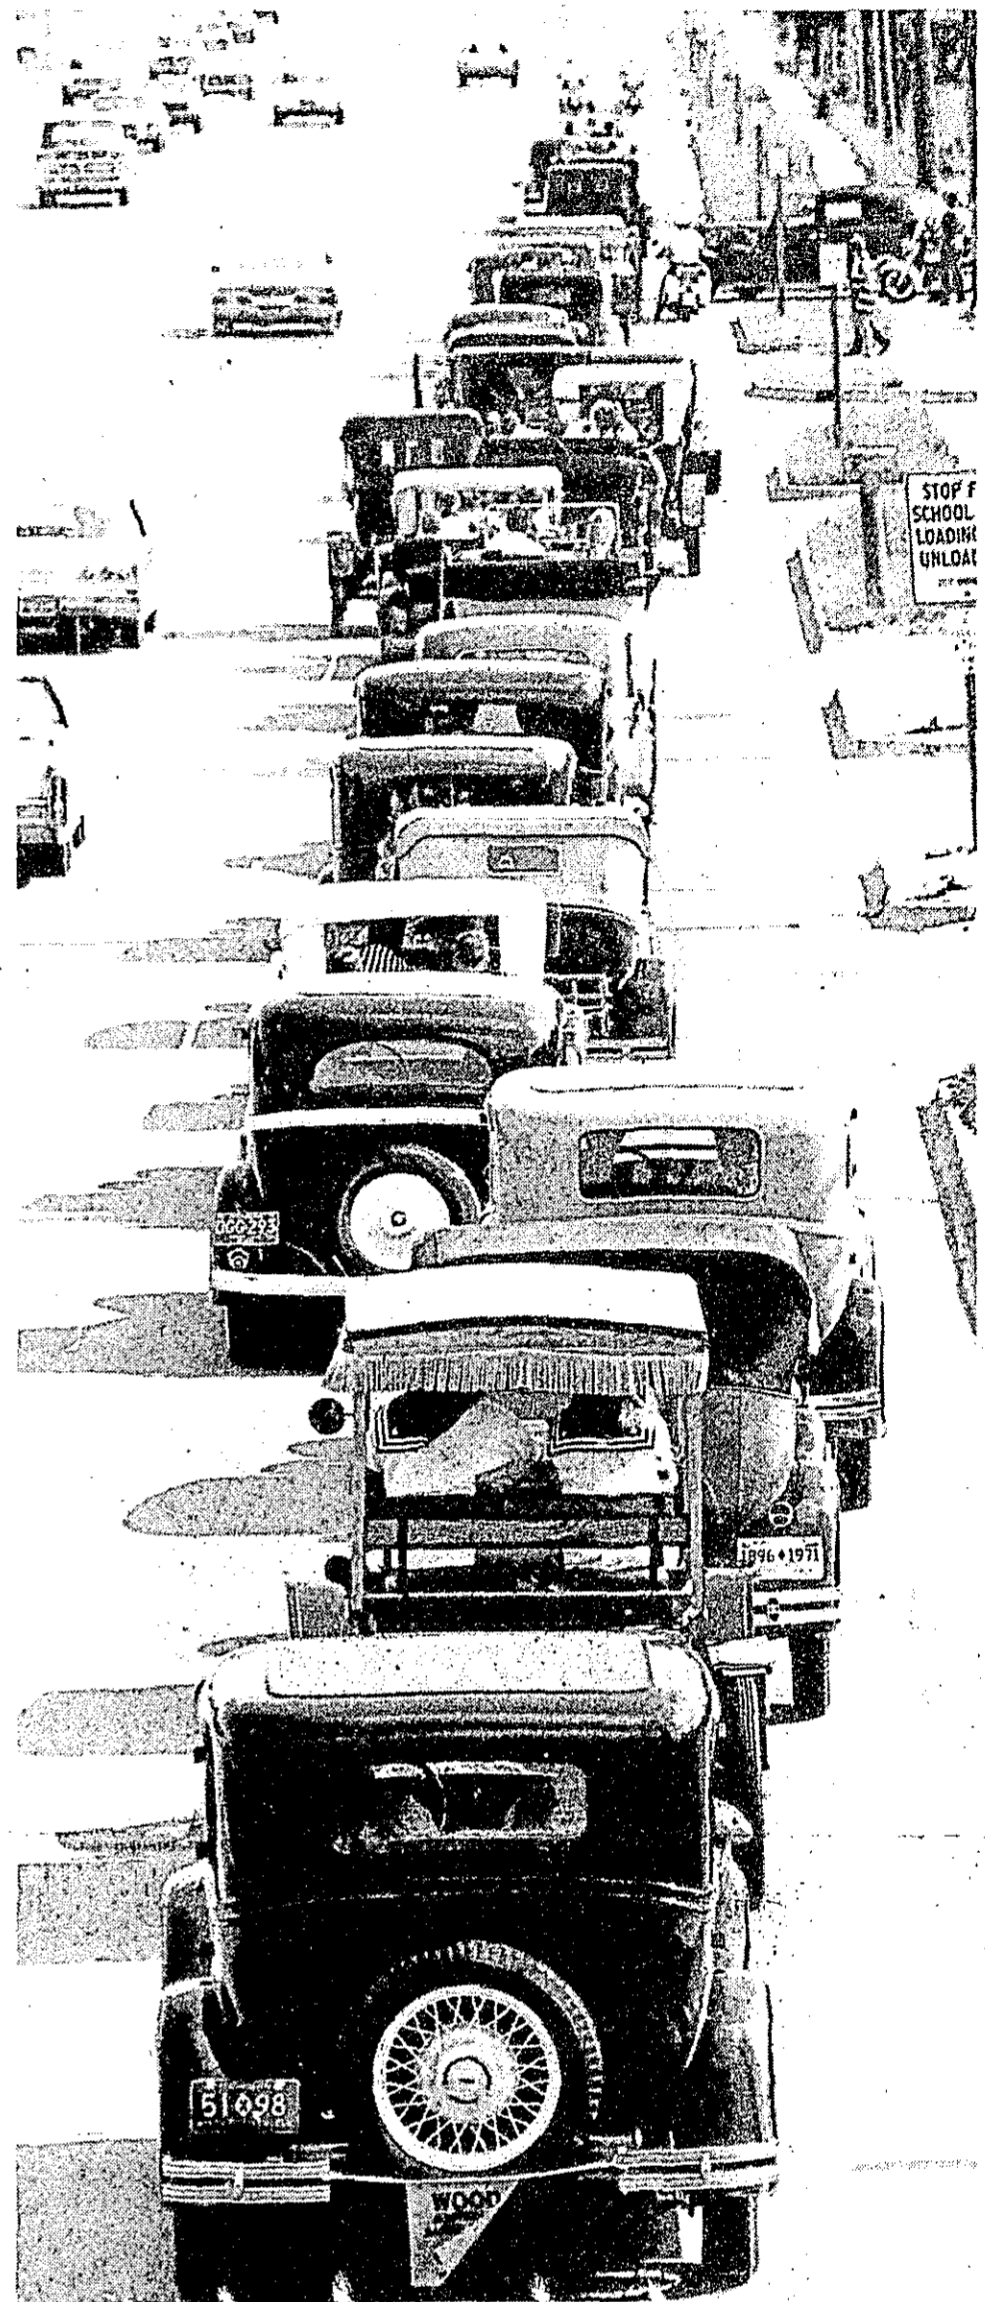

By school district the question was approved.

A breakdown of the districts shows the question passing in St. Johns by a vote of 1,198-1,054; Bath approved it by 256-220; Fowler passed it 246-125; Pewamo-Westphalia ok'd the question 285-126; DeWitt voters approved it 238-152; and Ovid-Elsie voters passed it 623-550.

In an interview Tuesday, Lancaster said that the 50 teachers who had received "pink slips" more than a month ago, pending the millage election outcome are still on notice if a future vote fails.

He added that most of the teachers have not left the district as yet, but that the board of education would have a clearer idea of the teacher situation after July 1, when the educators must give a notice of intent to leave the school system.

"There just aren't any jobs available," Lancaster said.

OFF AND RUNNING

What appears to be the start of an old-fashioned road race down US-27 in DeWitt Township is really part of the annual WOODLAND Antique Auto Tour held Saturday. The cars made the trek from Grand Rapids to St. Johns for judging and then continued on into Lansing for an overnight stop before heading back to the Furniture City. (News photo by Ed Cheeney).

Clinton park plan ok'd

LANSING—The Natural Resources department has given its approval of eight recreation projects for Clinton County, it was announced Wednesday.

State Rep. Richard J. Allen (R-Ithaca) reported that the projects are included in the latest priority list submitted by the department for legislative approval.

Those projects listed include the Main Park, Senior Citizens Park, Water Tower Playlot and Kibbee Street Playlot, all in St. Johns.

Others are the Watertown Recreation Development program in Watertown Township, a skating rink in Ovid, village square expansion in Fowler, a community park in Maple Rapids and the Daniel Droste Memorial Park in Westphalia.

"Chances are good that all of the projects on the list will receive state grants," Allen said. "The money is available, and cannot be used for any other program since the funds come from the bonding program approved by voters for this specific purpose. So I see no reason for the legislature to withhold the money."

Now that the list has been submitted, the Legislature could approve the grants in one of two ways. Legislators could adopt a resolution making the grants effective immediately, or take no action and let the list take effect in 45 days.

If the list is allowed to take effect under the 45 day rule, it would be in force as of July 15.

Once the list is approved, the Department notifies the local governments of the fund availability. Local officials are then responsible for notifying the Department of their readiness to accept the grant.

It now appears that local government officials can expect action on the grants by the middle of next month.

Benefit game Friday

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns Little League All Stars will take on the Lansing Sonics Friday night at 8 p.m. in a special benefit game to help raise funds for the Little League field lights.

Admission to the game will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children at the Little League field located on Townsend Road near US-27 behind Bee's Chevrolet.

City will have new accounting plan

ST. JOHNS(c)—When the new fiscal year begins July 1, the City of St. Johns will be operating under the new accounting procedures set up by the Michigan State Department of the Treasury.

Act two of the 1968 Legislature contains a provision requiring a uniform chart of accounts for Michigan cities, villages and townships. This act is administered by the Local Audit Division, Bureau of Local Government Services, Michigan Department of the Treasury.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax served on a 70-member "Blue Ribbon" committee of municipal officials, certified public accountants, representatives from various state agencies and other interested persons, who compiled and issued a manual of uniform accounting procedures for local units of government in Michigan.

The timetable calls for adoption of the new system on July 1, 1971 for cities, March 1, 1972 for villages, and April 1, 1972 for townships. Counties are already operating under a new uniform system, although it has not yet been applied to all departments and activities of counties.

Eugene Simon, St. Johns City Treasurer, has attended several sessions covering the new procedures. Mrs. Hila Bross, City Librarian, attended a meeting in Lansing Monday, where the procedures were explained as they apply to library accounting. Adoption of the new terminology will enable the State to compile more meaningful comparative data about local governmental units.

Two Laingsburg men drown in Lake Victoria

LAINGSBURG—Two local men drowned in Lake Victoria Sunday morning after their fiber glass boat capsized in deep water.

The victims were Robert Lavern Price Jr., 27, 7430 E. Victoria Road, Laingsburg and Everatt Carl Lee, 27, 8470 Woodbury Road, Laingsburg.

According to police reports, four men were in the boat when water started coming in around a drain plug which eventually popped open letting in more water than they could bail out. One man moved to the back of the boat causing it to turn over and dumping the men out into the water.

The two survivors, John Billings and George Strait, both of Laingsburg, made it to shore. By the time authorities arrived at the scene, both Price and Lee had disappeared.

Skin divers from the Owasos State Police Post and the Shiawassee County Sheriff's department recovered both bodies about noon.

The bodies were taken to McDonald Funeral Home, Laingsburg.

Clinton drug information center

'Opening communication'

By BOB GAVAN
News Staff Writer

ST. JOHNS—An organization has been established in Clinton County to inform the public about drug abuse and answer any questions people have concerning drugs.

The organization, called the Drug Information Group (DIG), will operate an office manned by trained volunteers, to which individuals may telephone to seek help with a drug problem or to seek information on drugs, and to refer to other agencies when appropriate.

It will also provide a central location for literature on drugs and the drug problem; provide speakers for groups in need of someone to speak on the drug problem; and establish an educational program on drugs in Clinton County schools.

DIG is composed of school principals, members of the mental health clinic, school counselors, probation officers and county health officials.

According to Dan Chisholm, "the county is not having a drug crisis now, but that it is best to prepare before the county does have a problem." He cited examples of the larger cities not doing anything until the problem was out of control.

"We are trying to do something effective with this problem before it gets started. The main objective is opening lines of communication," he said.

The group is asking for volunteers to help man the office. As soon as 40 people have volunteered their services they will be trained by a drug education group out of Lansing. They will then staff the office for a certain number of hours. They will answer the phone to any inquiries about drugs.

Chisholm said, "There is nothing in the county really pertaining to the drug problem and we must learn from other areas and not wait until a crisis situation develops."

"This program is for the whole county not just one area, we will eventually expand the program to have satellite offices," he said.

A number of sites are being considered for possible location of the office in St. Johns.

A number of representatives from various service organizations attended the last meeting to take back the information to their respective clubs.

Chisholm said that there is a possibility that DIG can get some money from federal grants, but that the main responsibility rests on the shoulders of Clinton County residents. "They are our kids and we alone have the responsibility to help alleviate any possibility of a drug crisis in the county," he said.

John Parker, Bath High School principal, is the president of the group.

Migrant education program starts second year July 5

By BOB GAVAN
News Staff Writer

ST. JOHNS—The Michigan Migrant Education Program will begin its second year in Clinton County July 5, according to J. Michael O'Connor, project coordinator.

The project is a Title I program financed by the Federal Government for migrant agricultural worker's children that reside in Clinton County.

This year the program has been expanded to include an infant care center. Last year only youth from age two and one-half to 14 were allowed in the program.

According to O'Connor one of the main reasons for this type of program is that the days of the migrant worker are limited, with the advancement of agricultural equipment and the decline of the need for migrant workers. The migrant worker, who generally come from the valley area of Texas, use Spanish as their first language and it is hard for them to find other suitable employment not knowing English.

This short-term (7 week) program will address itself to assisting language handicapped students acquire or improve in the standard English language skills which will enable them to achieve increased success in all areas of the school curriculum and to develop proficiency in everyday oral communication.

The aim is neither to eliminate completely all features of non-standard English usage from their speech, for these non-standard features will remain socially useful in communicating with their peer group and families.

Rather, the goal is to equip the learners with the ability to use automatically the type of language which will be most effective in any given situation.

In addition, the program will strive to equip the migrant students with the intellectual, social and psychological tools that will provide them with freedom of option and choice in his state of life.

"We expect around 100 to be enrolled in this program this year with the addition of the infant section. Many of the children stayed home last year because they had to babysit. Now all the children can come," O'Connor said.

"The program is not recreational in scope, we have a busy learning schedule setup for them. They will learn language skills, take field trips, will be involved in activities to learn writing and reading skills among many other things," he said.

"They do enjoy the program. We also take them swimming and we have parties for them," he added.

Besides certified teachers and aides, the program features several persons who function as "outreach" workers. These people will assist the parents in problems at home that influence their children's learning behavior.

The program, located at St. Joseph's School, includes 5 full-time teachers.

"This year," O'Connor said, "things should run a lot smoother with the experience we have had and the people we will have working for us."

In addition to several field trips, O'Connor said that they are going to try to involve the parents more in the program.

Tennis program starts Tuesday

ST. JOHNS—A five-week summer tennis program will begin here Tuesday with two high school tennis team members as instructors, according to Al Werbish, coordinator.

The program, which will be held each Tuesday and Thursday from 12 noon to 5 p.m., will start June 22 at the Memorial Park tennis courts and run through July 22.

The Jaycee-sponsored program will feature a special tournament on July 24 and July 31 with students competing in singles and doubles play.

The clinic will be open to persons of any age and applications may be made by phone through Tom Warstler at 224-3835 or 224-2248.

Drawings depict county landmarks

ST. JOHNS—Printed reproductions of pen and ink drawings of six Clinton County scenes by artist Hugh Riker of Charlevoix will be offered in the coming weeks by Clinton National Bank.

Riker, who maintains a residence in Lyons, is familiar with the Clinton area and has selected a half-dozen scenes which have become nostalgic landmarks in Clinton County.

The pen and ink reproductions are drawings of the courthouse at the turn of the century; Clinton Avenue in St. Johns at the same period; the old John Hicks house; the steel bridge near Elsie; the old mill at Hubbardston; and the Sugarbush house.

The six prints will be offered by Clinton National Bank and Riker will be in the St. Johns office from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friday June 18 to autograph and number the prints. All prints will be available at all Clinton National offices. A member of the National Society of Pen Artists, Riker was commissioned in 1962 to do two pieces of art for President John F. Kennedy.

Riker is now drawing all historical art of Michigan and has completed a selection of all wooden bridges and main streets before the turn of the century.

The students stayed at the Grand Hotel on the island and debated in four rounds. The topic that they are working on for next year is Resolve: That the jury system in the United States should be significantly changed.

The debaters attending were Ruth Remus, Jane Smith, Tom Tucker, Marty Ernst, Wendy Smith, Lambert Rehmann, Linda Stauffer and Barbara Eaton.

Mrs. Mosher said that she expects a large turnout for the debate team next year.

Youths needed to rid county of junk autos

ST. JOHNS--Young people over 18 are being asked to help with the Clinton County Junk project during the month of July.

According to Bruce Campbell, temporary chairman, drivers and workers are needed to help with the project when the portable car crusher comes to the county. A wage will be paid to some of the workers, depending on the need of the worker and the job that he is assigned to work. Over the weekend youth groups canvassed the St. Johns area for junk cars.

Anyone who has a junk car on his property is being asked to haul the vehicle to the front of his property to provide easy access for the wreckers to pick them up.

The Army Reserve will be hauling vehicles out of the southern part of the county the weekend of June 26, according to Sylvia Eitelbuss, project coordinator.

Anyone interested in working for the junk car project should call Campbell at 224-3302. Anyone wishing to volunteer their time or wreckers should call Fred Lance, 224-7182.

Those people who do not release their vehicles will have their names turned over to the County or City Zoning Office for legal action.

Treize encourages use of LPG in motor vehicles

LANSING -- A bill to encourage the use of Liquefied Petroleum Gas in motor vehicles has been introduced into the Michigan House of Representatives by Rep. R. Douglas Treize (R-Owosso).

The proposed bill, numbered House Bill 5302, would reduce to 3 1/2 cents per gallon the amount of tax paid on the purchase of LPG for use in motor vehicles. The present tax is the same as is paid on regular fuel, 7¢ per gallon.

"The purpose of this proposal is to encourage the use of LPG in highway vehicles," Treize stated. "The emission of hydro-carbon pollutants by motors powered by Liquefied Petroleum is less than half of that of the regular internal combustion engine using gasoline. I think it is in the interest of the state to encourage the use of LPG in highway vehicles."

Treize noted that the states of New Jersey, Connecticut, California and Hawaii have already adopted similar legislation. Florida is also a leader in the field, he said.

"I have long believed that the best way to get some of our environmental problems," Treize stated, "is to offer incentives to the consumer to make changes favorable to the environment. Punitive legislation to outlaw or punish violators involve more cost and expense than the incentives cost in lost revenue."

He pointed out that in 1970 tax revenues from LPG for motor vehicles produced $129,000 in revenue. This represents less than one-tenth of our present of the $273 million produced by all motor fuel taxes last year.

"I don't expect many individuals will rush to convert their private automobiles to liquefied petroleum as a result of this legislation," Treize concluded, "but I am hopeful that the incentives will be sufficient to encourage operations of fleets of vehicles operating in congested areas to begin a transition to less polluting vehicles."

SCS experience in new publication

Much of what the Soil Conservation Service has learned about erosion and sediment control on farmland in the last 30 years can be applied to urban land development, says a new USDA publication, "Controlling Erosion on Construction Sites."

Erosion from urban land development is about 10 times greater than on land cultivated row crops, 200 times greater than land in pasture, and 2,000 times greater than land in timber. Much of the eroded soil becomes sediment, the Nation's largest single pollutant of water.

The new bulletin, by USDA's Soil Conservation Service, points out that erosion and sediment formation can be greatly reduced by the following methods:

- use soils best suited for the proposed development
- leave soil bare the shortest possible time
- reduce the velocity and control the flow of runoff
- release runoff safely to downstream areas

The bulletin discusses a number of vegetative and mechanical measures which will help control erosion and reduce sediment formation.

Single copies of "Controlling Erosion on Construction Sites," Agricultural Information Bulletin 347, are available free from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service office at 100 South Ottawa, St. Johns.

Natural control sought to stop pesticide spray

Clinton county has taken a big step to reduce pesticide spraying.

On June 9, George McQueen, Extension Agricultural Agent, joined county agents from throughout Michigan's lower peninsula at Gull Lake to collect tiny insect parasites that offer a potential "natural" control of the cereal leaf beetle, one of the most serious grain pests in the Midwest.

McQueen brought the parasites back here and "planted" them on the Lavern Lerg farm near DeWitt, Norbert Pohl farm near Fowler, Lewis Lonier farm near Wacousta and Lee Ormston farm near St. Johns.

Result will be "parasite nurseries" in this county that will keep building until these natural enemies of the beetle multiply enough to lend a big hand in the beetle control effort.

The parasite is Tetrastichus julis. It's harmless to everything—except the cereal leaf beetle.

"Parasites are already doing a good job of keeping the beetle in check in Western Europe," said McQueen. "There's no reason they can't do the same here."

The parasites were brought into this country by scientists at Michigan State University's Pesticide Research Center in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture.

They've been managing the parasite and experimenting with it at MSU's Kellogg Experiment Station near Gull Lake. After releasing just a few hundred there in 1967 and 1968, scientists counted two to three million per acre in the most heavily parasitized areas in 1970.

"We hope to get that kind of buildup on the oat acreage in this county," said McQueen. "That could give us the biological control we need."

"Biological or 'natural' control is not going to be easier than pesticides," added McQueen. "We'll have to do a more careful job of pest management and crop manipulations to maintain an ecological balance and to give this the best chance to work."

MSU scientists are optimistic about the program mainly because of the cooperation they're receiving from farmers throughout the state.

After the parasites become established, Clinton county will have intensively managed centers that will serve for further spread of the parasites.

In order to use the farm, they had to have fields that had not been sprayed with pesticides during the past year. Also, the test areas cannot be plowed or cultivated until after the parasites have emerged next June.

Little by little, the parasites will be allowed to increase in Michigan and spraying will be reduced. Then some day, MSU scientists hope, the word will go out to let the parasites take over.

In the interim—from the time the spraying is reduced to the time the parasites are able to handle the beetle—farmers may have to take some loss on their oats.

But environmentalists say farmers will have to go this route eventually, and "if it works, it is far superior to spraying from every standpoint," said McQueen.

Children's program ends second year

WESTPHALIA — The Westphalia Jaycees have completed their second year of the "Patch the Pony" program.

Last year, only kindergarten children were shown the film but it was continued this year by including first, second, third and special education students at both St. Mary's school and the Pewamo-Westphalia schools.

Trooper Joseph Lipinski, a local member, talked to the children after showing the film. Response from the children was tremendous, according to the Jaycees.

Each class then competed in a poster contest. The winners were: Kindergarten, Mrs. Kramer's afternoon and Mrs. Goodemoot's afternoon class; first grade, (tie) Miss Dorothy Bengel of Pewamo-Westphalia and Sr. Fidells of St. Mary's; second grade, Miss Laurine Pline, Pewamo-Westphalia; third grade, Mrs. Edinger of St. Mary's.

A special prize was given to the special education room of Mrs. Rathburn.

It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family.

The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Announcements

Comic Pat Paulsen and sports personality Bud Wilkinson are featured in the new "National Water Safety Test", to be shown on Channel 10 at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, June 20. The test is a visual examination of the audience's knowledge of actions to take in the event of a water accident.

Produced by the American Red Cross, the half-hour show presents actor Paulsen and a bevy of female companions in a number of water accident situations. Each incident is followed by three possible courses of corrective action. The viewing audience is then asked to select the response they believe to be the best.

Mr. Wilkinson, who is a special consultant to President Richard M. Nixon, acts as studio host for the program and explains each correct answer.

Filmed at Cypress Gardens, Fla., the test depicts Mr. Paulsen as the accident-prone dupe who gets into all sorts of swimming and boating troubles. In spite of the serious message of the program, his comic antics make the show entertaining as well as educational.

An Arts and Crafts Show and Strawberry Festival will be held June 19 and 20 at the Y.W.C.A. in Owosso.

The show and festival will be sponsored by the Y.W.C.A. and the Palette and Brush Club and will be open to the public free of charge.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the winners and an exhibitors fee of $2.50 for students and $5 for adults will be charged.

Celebrates 60 years in ministry

ST. JOHNS(c)—The Rev. G. Moore Morgan and his wife are observing the 60th anniversary of his ordination as a clergyman. At the morning service in St. John's Episcopal Church, on Trinity Sunday, June 6, the Rev. Hugh Banning led the congregation in dedicating a new superfrontal for the altar, in Father Morgan's honor. A reception followed the service.

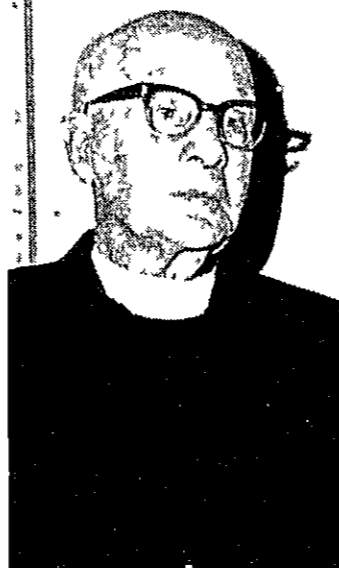

The new altar hanging, made by Mrs. William Morriss, is for use especially during the season of Trinity.

The Anglican Cathedral in Calgary, Canada, was the scene of Father Morgan's ordination on Trinity Sunday in 1911, with the Right Rev. Cyril Pinkham, Bishop of Alberta, officiating. Father Morgan, a native of Ontario, had just graduated from Trinity University in Toronto, in 1910 and went immediately to the mission field of western Canada.

He and Mrs. Morgan were married July 9, 1913, and they shared "feast and famine" in their life together in Alberta and British Columbia.

In 1929 they moved to Creston, Iowa, where they lived 12 years while he had charge of Episcopal churches in three different towns. These were Depression years, and he was instrumental in organizing the first welfare services in that community.

In 1941 they moved to Bad Axe, Mich., and he served the Episcopal church there four years. During this time their oldest son, George, died in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippine Islands, a victim of World War II.

REV. G. MOORE MORGAN

The Morgans came to St. Johns in 1945 and have lived here ever since. He was Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church until he retired in May 1956, but remained professionally active for a number of years after that, assisting his successor, the Rev. Howard Simpson, in conducting services at DeWitt, leading eventually to the construction of St. Anne's Episcopal Church there.

The Morgans have three children, Mrs. Margaret Simpson and Richard Morgan of Pontiac, and John Morgan of Lansing. Their granddaughter, Mary Simpson, was killed in a traffic accident in 1965, but they have nine living grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

"BUGGING" THE FIELD

Extension agent George McQueen stopped at the Lee Ormston farm, R-6, St. Johns, last week to begin the task of releasing a parasite insect into the fields to help with the natural control of beetles that have threatened this year's crop. Agricultural agents throughout Michigan are following through with the "bugging" experiment in the hopes of halting excessive use of pesticides.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE
News Advertising Manager

Rick Anderson of Andy's IGA says his Moonlight Madness promotion was the "best ever". The store was packed from 7 to 11 p.m. with customers who enjoyed all the activity. There was dancing in the parking lot and several in-store activities that ranged from an orange sale (all you could carry for 49¢) to walking-talking Jolly Green Giants and Robin Hood.

Roger Moore has a new pickup camper. We're sure you've noticed it as it is quite noticeable. The color that is, it's just a regular pickup camper that you see all the time... except for the color.

We understand that Rog didn't want a red one... "everyone has a red one". And he didn't want a blue one for the same reason. So he picked out a... well, we're sure you've noticed it. We don't know what the color is called but his brother Bob calls it "electric lime" or "eyesore blue". It is bright.

Bright enough that a couple weeks back when Roger and Bob took their families camping supposedly in opposite directions... Rog's nephew Tim, from a distance of roughly 12 miles, sometime around midnight said, "There's Uncle Roger!" Like we say it is a bright color.

We watched the highlights of "The Wedding". And despite the position of the father of the bride, to us it was a regular, nice wedding. The bride looked radiant and happy, her father a little nervous and we don't even remember the groom's name let alone what he looked like. But the thing we were most interested in was the cake. And right there on national television it stood, and was cut, and was eaten. And no one chipped a tooth or got sick.

And while we're on the subject... we read that many couples are married in the White House, not officially, of course. What happens is that an enterprising couple will join a White House tour with a justice of the peace in tow. While the guide is reciting the history of a various room, the J.P. unites the happy couple regardless of the political affiliation.

We've been hearing how bad the movie "The Stewardesses" is. A friend of ours who will remain nameless as long as he keeps buying our coffee says the acting is so bad that he almost walked out the third time he saw it.

We'll admit that the notion to go has crossed our minds, but we'll never make it. Big Mama checks all the ratings now and unless the flick is a G or GP, we watch television. We did see "Midnight Cowboy" a couple years ago. But only after convincing her it was a John Wayne western. But ever since she checks the reviews and ratings herself.

Sunday, June 20, is Father's Day. That's the day that Dad is king, right? That's the day Dad can do anything he wants, right? Dad can fish or golf or watch baseball without being disturbed by requests to mow the lawn, take out the garbage or paint the porch, right? Wrong. At least for us.

The 20th is also our anniversary and we can foresee a definite conflict of interests. We had been contemplating a quiet day on the lake controlling the mass population and a quieter evening watching TV reruns.

We were informed that we could do just that... providing the porch was scraped and painted before we left and the grass was cut, the basement cleaned, the garage reorganized and something "done" with the rabbits.

Movie Review

The following motion picture reviews were submitted by Citizens Movie Review Committee, a St. Johns civic group, with the cooperation of area theater owners.

LITTLE BIG MAN — Superb movie, clearly exhibits man's inhumanity to man. Life story of 121-year old Jack Crabb, intelligent, original and entertaining. Some sex. Historical value.

Scans age-old problems with plenty of humor. Parental guidance recommended.

RYAN'D DAUGHTER — Story revolves around Ireland in the time of World War I. It indicates religious confrontations and highlights nationalist struggle. Recommended only for adult audiences because of suggestive sex scenes. Superb photography and excellent acting.

St. Johns High School students leave school bus for downtown area and new "classroom."

City businessmen help in SJHS work experience plan

ST. JOHNS -- Students at St. Johns High School received some extra "tutoring" this term in a most unusual classroom -- the business district of downtown St. Johns.

For three days, May 18-20, 58 St. Johns junior and senior distributive students found their sales and retailing classes conducted in the downtown business community. More than 22 area merchants participated in the program with the students on their three days "on the job" work experience.

The particular activities in which the students performed ranged from personal selling to sweeping the sidewalks in front of the business place.

All of the activities were determined by each of the 22 businessmen who helped in the work project. The merchants also provided by the high school.

Areas of interest to the businessmen were the students' ability to get along with others, ability to learn, appearance, courtesy, cooperation, dependability, initiative, job attitude, job performance and promptness.

In each area there were four ratings geared to the specific question based on an excellent to poor basis.

School officials have undertaken a survey of the area businessmen to determine the possibility of extending the program next year in other areas of study. This was the first year the students actually worked on the job, although last school year they initiated the program by spending several days in the business community observing the roles of salesmen and store employees.

Those St. Johns merchants donating time to the program were A. T. Allaby Insurance, Kurt's Appliance Center, Carol Ann Shop, Central Michigan Lumber, Dean's Hardware, DePeal's Music Center, Economy Shoe Store, Heathman's Paint Service Center, Julie K Shop and P. X. Store.

Also MacKinnon & Sons, D & C Store, Parr's Pharmacy, Paul's Automotive Inc., J. C. Penney Inc., Miller Jones Shoe Company, Pierce Bakery, Sears Roebuck & Company, Woodbury Flower Shop, Harr's Jewelry, Quality Discount House and Holden Reid.

SECTION B WEDNESDAY JUNE 16, 1971

MRS. NEVA KEYS Ph. 862-4301

Elsie

Friday, June 14-18, Elsie Bible School for ages four through the sixth grade. From Thursday through Saturday, June 24-26, there will be a rummage sale by the W.S.C.S. in the Fellowship Hall. The proceeds will be used to help Mrs. Margaret Grubaugh attain her goal of becoming a lay pastor. The committee in charge request that articles be brought in Wednesday, June 23 between 1 and 9 p.m. if possible so they will be ready for the sale the following day.

A near-tragedy has come to light as an Elsie man had a close call during the long Memorial weekend. Mr. and Mrs. Al Mitchell and daughters of Elsie and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sklmer of Lansing spent the holiday at Long Lake near Alpena. While out sailing the boat overturned throwing the party into the cold water. Within minutes, three speedboats came to the rescue and later towed in the saidboat which was pumped dry and ready for use again.

Mr. and Mrs. DeFoe of Albion were Wednesday guests of Mrs. Agnes Lewis.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Frye of 624 S. Ovid St., Elsie on Friday, May 28.

Mrs. Florence Lonier honored her son, Larry, on his graduation from Gabriel High at an open house Sunday with 50 relatives and friends attending.

Mrs. John Buckmaster entertained 12 ladies at a luncheon and an afternoon of cards Thursday. Mrs. Vaughan Montgomery was high score winner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Berryhill and daughters, Mrs. Fanny Berryhill and Mrs. Jack Buckmaster attended the graduation of Diane Berryhill at Grand Rapids Friday evening.

Kay Lynn Montgomery is employed at Sparrow Hospital.

GREEN SCHOOL EXTENSION MEETS

The home of Mrs. Lillian Morley on West Oak St., was the spot for the June meeting of the Green School Extension Group Wednesday afternoon. Plans had been made for a "Cook Out" lesson at the Friendship Park in DuPlain but since the weather did not cooperate, it was held in the Morley garage. 11 members and two guests were present to enjoy the meal.

Coho fish was the main dish prepared by Mrs. Eleanor Thornton using the instructions given her by Dr. Dice of Michigan State University. He had emphasized that in the care of the fish it must be kept cold and wet, frozen in water in a bag or large block if possible. It must be skinned and all fats removed to avoid pesticides, mercury, etc., and also to improve the taste. These steaks had been held in milk overnight and rolled in crushed flakes, baked on the spot. The remainder of the meal was furnished by the hostess and members.

Mrs. Thornton also told an interesting story how the skins of the fish were removed by the Indians of old, dried and used to make bags in which the Indian presented his gifts of beads, stones to his lady.

The usual business meeting was directed by chairman, Mrs. Florine Peabody. The roll call, routine secretary and treasurer reports, and the council member report were given.

All present, completed reports on the use of fish in daily diet and the answers compared with a master sheet. It was noted that fish are rated high in nutrition and low in calories.

Many folders of recipes and preparation were given out and discussed, especially the recipe for basting sauce by Dr. Dice of MSU but the ladies said none could be more delicious than the coho of their own meal.

The next meeting will be a family picnic July 11, at Friendship Park.

Bank starts home improvement plan

ST. JOHNS-- A new home improvement loan program was announced by Clinton National Bank officials this week opening the way for expanded financing services for home or farm real property additions.

Foremost features of the new plan provides for increased loan amounts as well as extended payment periods. According to C.L. Jenkins, officer supervising the administration of the new service, benefits exceed those provided by FHA financing.

"We've adopted this program because of its flexibility," Jenkins said. "It provides the homeowner with a broader choice of financing arrangements and even extends into new areas not allowed by FHA regulations."

One of the major items included by Clinton National's new plan is carpeting, which is not generally accepted under FHA home improvement financing. For the most part the plan includes all phases of home addition or remodeling such as rooms, new siding, swimming pools, roofing and such farm improvements as pole barns or out-building construction.

"Any type of real estate improvement can be considered under this loan plan," Jenkins said.

The amounts available for such projects could reach the limit of $7,500 with payments scheduled over an 84 month period.

The new service is provided by Clinton National Bank through cooperation of the First Mortgage Insurance Corp. of Greensboro, N.C.

Soybean harvest

ST. JOHNS--Clinton County farmers harvested 28,000 acres of Soybeans for beans in 1970, according to Arvin Budge of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

Production amounted to 658,000 bushels, an average of 23.5 bushels per acre. This compares to the 1969 crop of 532,000 bushels from 25,000 acres.

Fertilize asparagus in June

EAST LANSING -- Asparagus plants provide abundant yields if fertilized properly, points out a Michigan State University horticulturist.

"To maintain good spear production, asparagus plants need fertilizer application during late June," says Robert Herner. "If fertilizer is applied at this time, the roots have a chance to store it for next year's growth."

Use a complete fertilizer for your home asparagus patch, Herner recommends. Complete fertilizers include 5-10-10, 5-10-5, 6-24-12, or 10-10-10. Apply two and one half to three pounds per 100 square feet of garden area.

Herner recommends a soil test every two years to accurately determine fertilizer and lime needs. Contact the county Cooperative Extension Service office for more information about soil testing.

A properly managed asparagus patch should provide good yields for at least six or seven years, Herner concludes.

Beef cattle-forage field day June 19

ST. JOHNS--Crossbreeding programs, forage production and livestock handling facilities will be highlighted at the 1971 Beef Cattle-Forage Field Day, June 19, at Michigan State University's Lake City Experiment Station.

"This field day should pay good dividends to beef cow-calf producers," points out F. Earl Haas, Clinton County Extension Director.

"You will get the latest beef and forage production research results and will see research in progress."

Starting at 9:30 a.m., experiment station tour stop topics are:

- Increasing beef production by genetic change;
- Alfalfa harvested during the year of seeding;
- Alfalfa varieties for Michigan cattlemen;
- Production of modern-type purebred breeding cattle;
- Providing low-cost calving sheds and automatic watering systems in outside winter lots for brood cows;
- Economics of finishing cattle on farms where raised vs.

shipping to remote feedlot;

- Anhydrous ammonia for native pasture; and
- Economics of clearing wild-land pasture for beef production.

THE AFTERNOON features forage harvesting demonstrations. Mechanized loose hay harvesting and stacking equipment will be demonstrated, including moving and making three-ton loose hay stacks. Also, an automated baled hay handling system will be demonstrated and forage harvesting equipment will be displayed.

The field day provides beef cow-calf producers a chance to visit with Michigan State University staff members, see a variety of livestock and facilities, and visit other beef cattle producers.

Visitors will also receive a bulletin listing results of experiments at the station.

The experiment station is a half mile south of Lake City on M-66. A noon lunch will be available.

For more information on the 1971 Beef Cattle-Forage Field Day, contact Haas at 1003 South Oakland Street, St. Johns.

Dairy herd size grows

Look for increasing dairy herd size in Michigan.

Two out of three Michigan dairy farms had less than 30 cows in 1964, but now less than half (43 per cent) do, according to Al Shapley, Michigan State University agricultural economist.

There are about 15,000 dairy farms left in Michigan. Of these, 8,500 are Grade A milk producers. And 3,850 of the 8,500 Grade A milk producers are in the "less than 30 cow" category.

About 2,970 Michigan farms have 30 to 49 cows. This is 35 per cent of the total Grade A herds, notes Shapley.

So, only 1,880 farms are in the "50 or more cows" category.

Plants benefit man

EAST LANSING -- Beautiful gardens and ornamental plantings provide both physical and mental benefits for man, points out a Michigan State University horticulturist.

From tulip bloom until the roses are frosted, the Michigan State University Horticulture Garden is the most popular place on the MSU campus for strolling, reading and relaxing, says Dr. John Carew.

"But there are not enough gardens, parks and ornamental plantings for all the people in this country," he says. "Too many people never get the opportunity to enjoy plants. Scientists know our minimum daily requirement (MDR) for vitamins and minerals but no one knows our MDR for plants and natural beauty."

Plants yield many benefits to man, Carew says. He lists:

- Noise protection. Plants act like acoustical tile and absorb sound. This makes them useful along highways.
- Dust filters. Plants filter dust and pollution particles from air. A tree's leaf surface may be 10 times greater than the area it shades.
- Protection from sun.
- Protection from winds. Tree plantings reduce the effect of wind and help reduce wind erosion.
- Privacy. Some plants make attractive backyard fences or can be used to hide undesirable sights such as junkyards, dumps or used car lots.
- Air conditioning. The water that evaporates from plant leaves can cool air as much as 15 to 20 degrees. In a recent test, air temperature above synthetic turf at Michigan State University's Spartan Stadium was 93 degrees but only 85 degrees above nearby natural grass areas. Home owners have found that green concrete or plastic lawns are too hot to enjoy.

- Better soil. Plants help keep soil porous and absorbent so that it soaks up rain. A 1-inch rainfall on a 30-acre paved parking lot produces over 600,000 gallons of runoff water. Areas of ornamental plants in these parking lots would help to absorb this water and avoid excessive runoff.
- Therapeutic agents. Living plants provide an effective therapeutic atmosphere for the physically and mentally retarded, for prison inmates and for patients in hospitals.
- Wildlife habitat. Plants provide an effective therapeutic atmosphere for the physically and mentally retarded, for prison inmates and for patients in hospitals.
- Wildlife habitat. Plants provide both needed cover and food for birds and animals.
- Food and fiber for man.
- Attitude changer. "In one Michigan city, an industrial plant with no landscaping and unattractive grounds had an unmanageable litter problem while employees of a beautifully landscaped plant were careful not to litter the grounds," Carew says.

Free clinic

ST. JOHNS--Another in the series of free immunization clinics will be held June 10 at the Congregational Church basement here from 8:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.

All shots will be given by the nurses from the health department. The free immunizations include DPT, DT, typhoid, smallpox, red measles, oral polio, rubella (three-day measles), and the Tuberculin skin test.

EXTENSION REPORT

Improve pastures

By GEORGE McQUEEN

Unproductive pastures and hay fields can be improved in one growing season.

All you have to do is control competition from other vegetation (primarily quackgrass), band seed in summer for better stands, omit oats in seeding establishment and use the proper fertilizer mixture.

Begin by testing soil, Michigan state specialist Milo Tesar and Stuart Hildebrand advise. Apply lime to bring the pH to 6.8 for alfalfa or 6.2 for birdsfoot trefoil. Then fertilize at seeding time according to soil test recommendations. Generally about 80 pounds each of phosphate and potash per acre will be needed (400 pounds of 0-20-20).

For seeding between July 25 through Aug. 15, you'll have to kill the existing sod. On bluegrass-quackgrass sod, pasture heavily until June 1 if the sod is mostly quackgrass and until June 15 if it is mainly bluegrass. Plow or field cultivate, then disc or field cultivate weekly until seeding time.

On sods with heavy quackgrass, pasture heavily until May 15. Fertilize in early spring with 50 pounds nitrogen per acre to double grass yields and weaken the grass for subsequent control. Allow quackgrass to recover to three to four inches in height. By June 5 apply dalapon (dowpon) at 12 pounds per acre in at least 25 gallons of water. Starting 10 to 14 days after dalapon application, plow or field cultivate and then till with the cultivator or heavy disc harrow every week until seeding time.

To control broadleaved perennial weeds like Canada thistle, apply one pound acid equivalent of 2-4-D ester in early June before tillage. This applies to either sod mentioned above.

To keep stands on well-drained soil, seed, Saranac alfalfa at 8 pounds and smooth bromegrass at 3 pounds per acre. For stands to be left six years or more, Vernal or other North American type alfalfas are recommended.

For poorly drained mineral soils (no standing water) use a mixture of Viking birdsfoot trefoil at 5 pounds and smooth bromegrass at 3 pounds per acre. Alfalfa kills out relatively soon on wet land, and trefoil is the only perennial legume that will tolerate pasturing and poor drainage.

Band seed with the drill followed by a cultipacker or press wheels. This way the fertilizer is drilled in a band below the seed which is covered with a half inch of soil by the drill. Compacting the soil after seeding helps to get good germination and seedling establishment. Sandy soils should also be cultipacked before seeding to keep the seedbed from drying out and to help insure shallower and more uniform seeding.

Seed in late July or early August, the earlier the better. Each week's delay in seeding between August 1 and 31 results in one-third to less forage the next year. Do not use oats with the seeding because oats and seeding compete for moisture.

Bromegrass can be mixed with the fertilizer in the drill. For example, if you use 400 pounds of fertilizer and 4 pounds of bromegrass per acre, put 50 pounds of fertilizer into the drill and spread one-half pound of bromegrass (the amount you can get into a pound coffee can) over it and stir. Add fertilizer and bromegrass to fill the drill. Do not drill the bromegrass-fertilizer mixture deeper than one-half inch.

Cultipacking or press wheels provide sufficient seed coverage for good germination.

Cost of renovation is about $40 per acre (up to $50 with herbicides) for lime, tillage, fertilizer, labor and seed.

Yields during the first one to one and a half years will pay for renovation costs. The remaining three to six years will provide improved pasture or mixture.

green chipping for summer feed or hay, silage or haylage for winter feeding.

After the first harvest year, topdress potassium annually in the fall or early spring. Use phosphorus if necessary. Annual topdressing with a minimum of 400 pounds of 0-10-30 pwr acre is generally needed to keep forage production high.

On soil testing from medium to high phosphorus, the cost of topdressing can be reduced by using 250 pounds per acre of muriate of potash (0-0-60) after the first year, then the 0-10-30 next, then back to straight potash.

SCD tree sale results

by BARBARA KURNICZ, Executive Secretary

ST. JOHNS—The Annual Clinton County Soil Conservation District Tree Sale was held April 16, with a total sales of 55,100 trees, and 171 Carpathian Walnut seedlings. The conifer trees sold will cover 80 acres of land. The 171 Carpathian Walnut trees will plant 21 acres.

Some of the most popular varieties of conifers were Austrian Pine, White Pine (13,000 White Pine were sold), White Spruce, Colorado Blue Spruce, and Scotch Pine. These should surely make Clinton County a much more scenic area in a few years and help purify our air.

The sale of the trees was managed by the On-the-Job Training girl, Barbara Kurnicz, from the St. Johns High School who has worked for the District since last summer, and Keith LaRue and Joe Fabus, Jr., Ovid-Elsie High School students.

This cooperative effort by the District Directors enables co-operators in Clinton County to secure trees for windbreaks, beautification, replanting woodlots, and starting new woodlots at a reasonable cost. Many of these trees will be planted around some of the new farm ponds in Clinton County.

The District tree planter was again made available and scheduled by Stanley Baird, Chairman of the District Board, who lives in DeWitt Township.

If you would like to order trees for next year, look around your farm or home, and decide how many, and the varieties you would like to have, can come into the office sometime early this Fall.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

by GARY A. KLEINHENN
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Jimmy has a plum. He picked the plum from his very own plum tree. Now he wants to sell the plum for the best price that our free enterprise system can provide.

So he marched to the bakerman who makes the very best plum pie around. He will buy the plum, thinks Jimmy.

But the baker is a shrewd fellow. He knows he must have the plum for his pies, but he also knows Jimmy must sell the plum, and the longer Jimmy waits, the older the plum will become, and the less tasty it will be, and the less value it will have so the bakerman offers Jimmy a low price—only a penny for his plum. Jimmy knows it's worth more, but he must sell before his plum rots.

With the penny in his pocket Jimmy walked home, and on the way he met Arick, Patrick and Cheryl. They all had pennies, too. Each has separately sold their fruit to the baker. They all believed their fruit was worth at least two cents, but they figured—you can't fight the bakerman—the fruit will rot.

Where is the free enterprise in the sale of this fruit? Competition was void in the transaction with the baker. The children have a right to compete in the system, but it is clear they weren't utilizing this right effectively.

The next day Jimmy, Arick, Patrick and Cheryl each picked plums from their trees and put their plums into one sack. Loaded the sack onto their wagon and together went to see the baker. Cheryl was a good talker so she was elected to represent the group.

The baker watched them pull the wagon to his shop. He was startled that they had joined together . . . and disturbed. He knew he would face bargaining competition for the fruit if he recognized them. "I'll show them," he thought. So when Cheryl knocked on the door, and knocked, and knocked . . . it never opened.

This is what the Marketing and Bargaining Act of 1971 is about. Farmers' rights to compete through elected bargaining representatives is being denied. This Act, which is gaining support in Congress, will provide that the baker and others like him will open their doors and bargain in good faith.

OUR CONGRATULATIONS go to Vickie Thelen of the Bengal Community 4-H Club as she won the State Grange Sewing Contest on May 22.

Vickie entered her 4-H sewing project (a red and navy pant suit made from the new ribless corduroy fabric that looks like velvet) in the county contest on May 14 and won in her age class. In the state contest Vickie won in her age class, 18 and under, and then won Best of Show of all classes for the Michigan Grange Contest.

Her entry is now on its way to New York for the National contest, Vickie received an electric shears from Dritz Co. and an electric hair setter for winning the State contest.

The Tail Waggers 4-H Club doubled its enrollment Monday evening as the club increased from 6 to 12 members. The six new members are Lori Webster, Edward Thelen, Judy Schwark, LuAnn Rummell, Phillip and Paul Carpenter.

The members worked their dogs as singles, pairs, and as a group. The parents were asked to work the dogs also as they wish to make the dog project a family affair. The group will present and demonstrate their dogs at the County Grange program held June 6 at the Bingham Grange. Four new Golden Retriever pups were given to the members to raise for the leader dog project.

Mrs. Wayne Bruin and Ann Graham reported on the leader training workshop held at Camp Kett.

THE WILLING Workers 4-H members have elected new officers for the summer program. They are as follows: Mary Bergdolt-President, Cammy Stiffler-Secretary, Bonnie Rossow-Treasurer, Becky Barz-News reporter, Teresa Marten and Agnes Kirkpatrick-Safety Officers. The club members voted to donate $11.00 to the National 4-H Center Expansion fund.

The July 7 Action Exhibit and Demonstration Day were discussed. The girls voted to participate in the 4-H Exploration Day program July 1 at MSU. They will be working in the horticulture exhibit preparing different kinds of uncommon vegetables for people to taste. They plan to sell their surplus vegetables at the Fair and have a litter barrel at the Fair in August. The members voted not to participate in the 4-H Food International Day on July 27.

THE BORDER 4-H Club members have elected Mike Palmiter as their President for the summer program. Other officers are: Therese Palmiter-Vice President, Laure Palmiter-Secretary, Janice Richey-Treasurer, Eric Baker-News reporter, Andy Baker-Recreation Leader, Brian Walsh - Safety Chairman, and Kevin Palmiter as Cleanup man.

The members are planning two club activities (1) July 7 the members will have their grocery tour starting at 11:00 a.m., lunch at 12 and a taffy pull at 1 p.m. (2) club picnic on July 14. The club hopes to become an honor club this year.

MEMBERS OF the Charlie's Gang 4-H club discussed the 4-H Exploration day program at MSU June 29-July 1 and the 4-H softball changes for the 1971 season. The members learned how they can make some money by getting junk car releases.

The date of the business meetings has been changed from the 3rd Tuesday to the 2nd Tuesday of each month. Members received seed for the sunflower and pumpkin contest. Earl Flegler gave a demonstration relative to his project.

THE DOUBLE M 4-H Club members evaluated their horse show held May 16 which was quite successful as they made a nice profit. Dennis Baese of the Wild Riders Club that handled the food concession at the show presented the club with a check of $5.01 which was 10% of the food stand profit.

The members discussed the May 18 horse clinic and a future club trail ride but no date was set. It was decided that members must attend 8 work sessions in order to be eligible to show at the 4-H Fair in August. The Horse show area at the Fairgrounds has been damaged by people who knocked off some ring boards, deep ruts caused by motor bikes, and bent some of the pipegates. Measures should be taken to protect these facilities.

Commissioner Nobis feels that there has been considerable duplication of effort by Federal and State agencies in this area. Mr. Manning stated that the contribution which the county has made to the Soil Conservation District has been of great value and has kept Clinton County foremost in soil conservation practices. Darwin Root, County Sanitarian and Luella Canfield, County Health Nurse appeared. Mr. Root distributed copies of the Mid-Michigan District Health Department's Annual Report and answered questions pertaining to it. Luella Canfield then presented the County Nurse's Annual Report. He also distributed final certified copies of the revised plans of the Land Use Solid Waste, Water & Sewer Study.

Don Haske presented and explained the 1970 Construction Programs. The department faces increasing costs and have a smaller cash balance to begin the new year. Construction will have to be curtailed for the present year. This presents a serious problem to the road program.

Accepting the methods

Evangelist Billy Graham in a recent telecast, indicated that we can look toward a trend where Jesus Christ is the predominant subject of song lyrics of those sung by our young people.

persons can accept the methods by which younger people seek religious association other than the conventional methods.

Whatever route a person takes to seek an uplift in his faith and the methods by which he attempts to learn about God, is a personal matter and should not be stifled by those who may have different ideas on the "best" way.

Speak out for school aid

We had some school millage elections this week. As this is being written, the outcomes are unknown. But if the results followed the recent elections in many districts, it is conceivable that the requests for millage were turned down.

activity with Governor Milliken's proposal which, if adopted, doesn't seem to be the real answer for school tax reform. We believe the property taxpayer should contribute some to school operational expense, without throwing the entire burden onto income tax increases. With some type of split for revenue sources, much of the needed property tax relief would come about. Local people should still contribute some to their local school budget.

If there were districts that passed the millage, they should indeed feel fortunate that the educational programs presently being carried on will continue pretty much as is without deep slices.

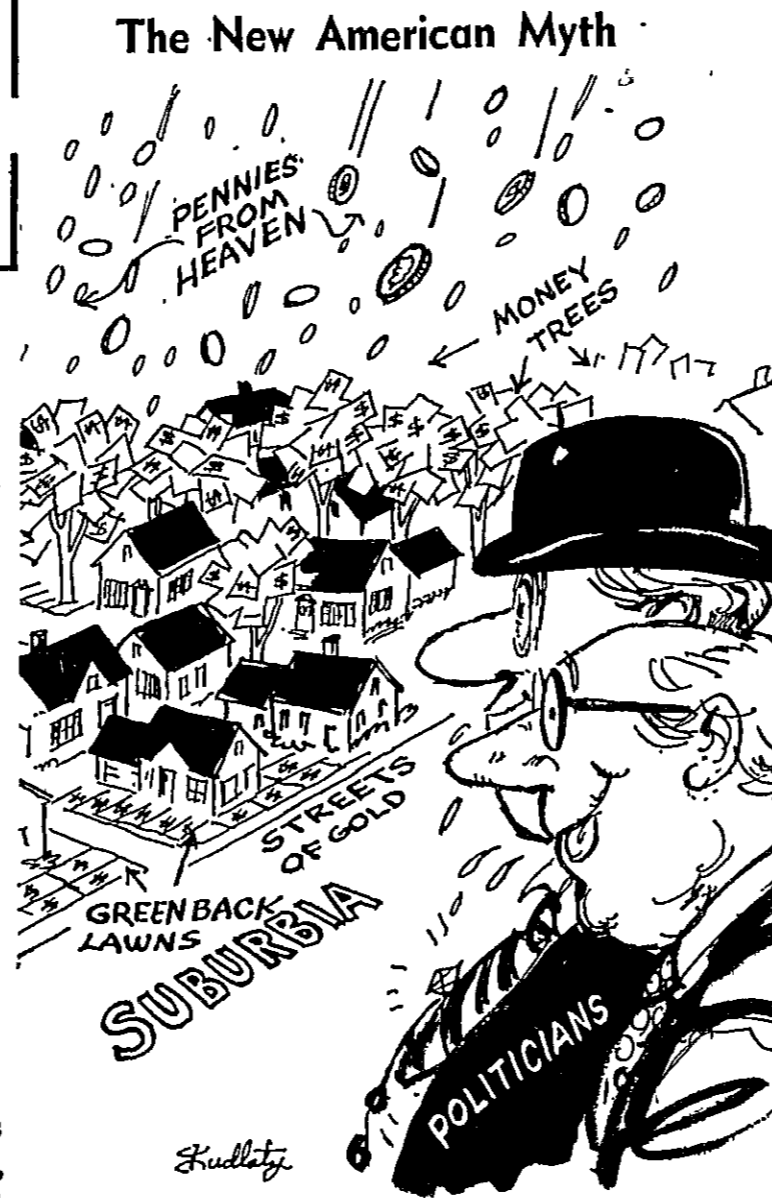

If you are lucky enough to see one of our elected state officials in the state legislature, give him a piece of your mind. Otherwise, join the usual way of getting through to him by writing him a letter.

Regardless of the Monday voting, if our elected officials at Lansing don't get the move on and start promoting action for a reasonable school aid bill, then we'd all best be looking for some representatives who will. Certainly there has been feet dragging on school problems.

It wouldn't surprise us one bit if many of our representatives are still unaware how the people are thinking.

Oh, yes, every time some big city millage request is defeated you hear of some revived

The fight to change traffic conditions along US-27 in St. Johns intensified this week as citizens gathered for action. The group, called People Who Care, discussed proposals from interested citizens concerning the safety of children crossing the busy highway. The main proposal centered on the installation of a traffic light, possibly at the intersection of US-27 and Sturgis Street.

Restless troops

By TIM YOUNKMAN

The troops are restless. There hasn't been a legislative year like 1971 in quite a while—probably since Con-Con was a major issue.

People are becoming upset over the number of new issues being presented in the state House and Senate, most notably the abortion, gambling and divorce bills.

The moral codes dictated by the churches of earlier years are finally coming under attack as improper guides to a democratic legal code. And the controversy is not only found outside the church hierarchy—many of the churches are finding division in the ranks over the same issues.

For example, the Michigan voter may be faced with the decision on approving or defeating a measure to liberalize the current abortion law. Proponents of a liberalized law fell the need to halt unnecessary intrusion by the state into the private lives of citizens.

Opponents argue that the state would be authorizing and legitimizing murder.

Proponents of the gambling law reform insist that the state would increase its revenue potential by a vast margin and undercut some of the fringes of organized crime's annual take. Opponents insist that gambling is a disease and a sin and that legalizing it would add to the decadence of our society.

Those in favor of new divorce legislation feel that there is no need in our current society to force individuals to create situations where one or the other would be blamed for the termination of a relationship. Opponents of the bill feel the "no fault" attitude would insure the failure of more marriages through the ease of obtaining a divorce.

What is the real issue at stake? It must seem obvious to even the casual student of psychology that there is a definite panic growing from the reaction of the churches toward these new legislative reforms. I guess the terminology of the psychologist would be the church spokesmen are "suffering from a basic insecurity complex manifested through paranoid reaction."

While the churches' arguments in many cases may be valid, the center of the issue has been avoided. It boils down to this question. If a religion is against abortion on moral grounds and has laws within the church to ban members from such activity, then that should be sufficient restraint. A devout church-goer and believer would not participate in the activity, whether against the civil law or not, because the religion forbids it.

The insistence that the same restraints be observed by all citizens, even those not of the faith, is unconstitutional, legal, and socially absurd.

The church has become a political lobby on these three main issues this year. It is a role that is not unfamiliar to them, since they backed Prohibition in 1919. In that historic fight, the American churches united and won the battle—only to lose the war and help create a decade of lawlessness.

We've always understood that the church and state are to be kept apart especially where legislation is concerned. In its most obvious form, this separation is evident in the non-taxation of the vast material holdings of America's churches.

If churches wish to control the flow and content of legislation in the state, then they should carry some of the tax burden—which would amount to a considerable revenue source for the state.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

My wife left me

By JIM FITZGERALD

"At this writing, my wife has left me and I am a bachelor father, just like on TV. I am sitting here in my Brut cologne, waiting for the pretty broads to start climbing through the windows.

"You'd better miss me for more reasons than my cooking," my wife said as she headed over the hill to granddaughter's house to say itchy-gitchy-goo.

"I don't expect to miss your cooking at all," I answered. "I watch TV. I know what happens to fathers who must raise their children alone.

A blonde model, 40-28-30, knocks at the back door and asks if she can borrow a cup of my libido. When she notices that my 2 kids have their heads stuck in the same peanut butter jar, she insists that I hire her as a cook.

"The kids will urge me to marry this doll, of course. Motherless children always want their fathers to marry pretty girls. But I will refuse.

I will explain to the kids that you will probably return some day after your granddaughter grows up. I will not speak ill of you, no matter how bitter I feel inside. I will tell them to not believe what the neighbors say about you.

I will urge those little half-orphan to keep a light in their hearts for your return. I will tell them they should stop crying, even if Daddy can't," I said.

"I will be gone 2 1/2 days," my wife said. "I won't take your portrait off the dehumidifier. The children will recognize you when you return. I promise I won't let them forget you," I promised.

"Good lord," she said, "Good-bye."

She has been gone almost 2 days now. Neither of the kids has noticed the difference. They figure she's over at neighbor Shirley Moore's again, discussing the dresses they wore to the senior prom 25 years ago. The kids just keep eating the same old frozen pizza, and I am living on apples.

That sexy cook hasn't come knocking yet but I really don't care. Last night, in my lonely bed, I found a note under the pillow. It said: "I love you."

It really isn't so bad being married to a grandmother. If she'd only hurry home.

Tax proposals

When I started a couple of weeks ago to outline the State's financial plight in this column, I had no idea that it would run into a three chapter story. But, my own efforts to summarize the situation have forced me to do a lot of lengthy reading and attend many meetings in order to put the many issues involved in some logical order in my own mind.

Previous columns reviewed problems encountered in the 1970-71 fiscal year and spending proposals for 1971-72. In this installment I would like to review some of the tax proposals which are facing us and what, in the way of increased programs and the service they might buy if enacted.

If you have been following some of the recommendations, you know that in his budget message Governor Milliken proposed income tax increases of 1 per cent on personal income, 2.2 per cent on corporate income and 3 per cent on financial institutions, all effective January 1, 1972. This particular combination of taxes is estimated to produce about $25 million per month. For the portion of the coming fiscal year, this would result in an increase of $125 million in revenue for the five months which would be realized.

Since his budget was first presented in January, the Governor has revised his estimate of revenue needs and has indicated he now would like a 1.3 per cent personal income tax increase, to 3.9 per cent effective Jan. 1, 1972, which would automatically reduce to 3.6 per cent on July 1, 1972.

Since these proposals of the Governor were offered, there have been about as many other suggestions as there are members of the House and Senate. Each member seems to have a different idea as to how much money is needed and how it should be raised. You have read of suggestions that the rate be increased by anything from 1 per cent to 3 per cent and that this effective date be anywhere from July 1 of this year to Dec. 1 in order to bring in what the proponent thinks is the amount of revenue necessary to support what he sees as the budget needs.

There are still some of us who would like to see the tax structure remain as it is and at least try to get the budget in line with anticipated revenue, based on the present structure. This would mean that the Governor's budget should be cut from the $1,980 million he proposed to $1,830 million. We may not prevail on this view but I am convinced that unless something drastic is done to curtail State expenditures, any action we take on taxes this year will only be the start of what will have to be done again and again in years to come.

The trend of increasing expenditures annually at a rate of around 19 per cent while the growth in the State's economy and resulting tax revenues increase at a 7 per cent rate, must be reversed. To do this requires major changes in our attitudes and expenditures in the fields of health, education and welfare.

As we discussed last week, these are the major areas of state spending and they account for 88 per cent of the total budget. So, we must face the fact that to cut spending means reducing tax support in these areas—health, education and welfare.

I AM WILLING to support additional income taxes to shift the cost of education from the local property tax to a state income tax formula. I am even willing to support a minor increase in the income tax for normal state expenditures, assuming that those expenditures are brought into line with the rate of growth of our revenue.

I am not prepared to vote for a tax increase this year to support this year's services in the full knowledge that we will have to do the same thing next year and the next year, and so on, while the expenditures increase at a rate completely disproportionate to the normally expected increase in revenues.

The real villain in this whole budget problem seems to be the social services or welfare item. Last year, a total of $345,000,000 was appropriated for this activity, based on about 88,000 families involved in the ADC program.

The Governor's recommendation for the new fiscal year is an increase of $124,000,000 and is based on a total of 125,000 families being served. But, the most current estimate is that the proper figure should be at least another $57 million, or $181,000,000, reflecting an anticipated case load of 141,000 families.

The next few weeks should be interesting and exciting and perhaps even frustrating to those of us who would like to see some major changes in state spending during the coming years.

The Holy Spirit

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In the first part of Acts, chapter 4 we find Peter standing before the high priestly family—Annas, the High Priest, Calphas, Jonathan and Alexander. Peter stood before them and he was filled with the Holy Spirit.

Being filled with the Holy Spirit is exactly what being the Church is all about. Like Peter, you and I are supposed to be filled with the Holy Spirit. For example, when a person desires to be baptized, we pray to Almighty God in these words, "Give thy Holy Spirit to this person that he may be born again and be made an heir of everlasting salvation."

As Christians we are to be filled with the Holy Spirit—to be guided by Him, to be given power by Him which results in the joy of the Christian life.

But too often we are not guided by Him, and we do not have His power, so that we are not joyful Christians. Sam Shoemaker in his book "Extraordinary Living for Ordinary Men" speaks about the spiritual failure of the Church. In his chapter entitled "Can Our Kind of Church Change Our World?" he says, "This accumulated spiritual failure is doing something to our people."

We have hosts of people, faithful in attendance and service, who are frankly far from the spirit of Christ, because all they have heard are the words, "They have not seen and been part of a changed, dissatisfied, repenting, growing fellowship. They just go to church, and do church work."

"You know them—a woman always there, tight as bees-wax with her money, another with a stinging tongue, a vestryman with a notorious temper, clergy who just never "hear" their people. We are losing some of our people who are most in earnest."

THIS SORT of thing happens all too often in the institutional church today. Organized religion has lost much of the power of the Holy Spirit. No wonder so many Christians today are spiritually impoverished! No wonder so many people think God is dead.

If they haven't experienced the risen Christ through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, then they have nothing, and for all intents and purposes God is really dead for them.

As I have said before, if the Church (you and me, brother) is to be a vehicle of God's love and understanding, then you and I must carry that love and understanding to other people in their time of need. This means being filled with the Holy Spirit and following His guidance.

The Glide Memorial Church in downtown San Francisco tries to be the real church and follow the guidance of the Holy Spirit. It reaches out to those who are labeled "outcasts" and tells them that they are important members of the community. To help these people a number of unique organizations have been formed.

There is "Intersection", a center for artists. There is "Citizens Alert", an organization which checks on police brutality. There is "Gateway", a center of orientation for young adults who are new arrivals in the city. There is "Baker House", a halfway house for ex-convicts and drug addicts. There is the "Council on Religion and the Homosexual" which believes that the homosexual needs religion too.

Peter was filled with the Holy Spirit and he spoke right up in the face of his accusers who were so upset about the teaching that Jesus was raised from the dead. To make such a claim in those days was pure blasphemy.

Has anything like the following ever happened to you? Have you ever been with a group of people who were trying very hard to justify their prejudice against the black man? As you listened, did the Holy Spirit lead you to speak up on behalf of Christian brotherhood? In other words did you speak up for your beliefs or were you "chicken"?

Perhaps you have been involved in a discussion concerning class and educational superiority. Did you defend your own place in life or did you express Christian love for those who are different from you?

Real religion depends on the Holy Spirit being within us to lead us to show love and understanding to other people in their needs.

So I suggest the following, "Put your hand in the hand of the Man who stilled the waters; put your hand in the hand of the Man who calmed the seas. . . Do this and you will receive the power to be the real Church."

Thanks for the help

Dear Sirs,

We want to thank the man at "Bees" Chevrolet agency there in St. Johns for helping us with our troubles Saturday when we were on our way to our daughter's graduation at Marquette. It was Saturday and no help available, he took the time to find and fix the car trouble, and made our trip a very pleasant experience.

There should be more "Friends by the side of the road" like you.

Much success to you in your apparently new business and a gold tire iron to "Bees".

Crush of welfare

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

As I've stressed in a newsletter I mailed out to some 30,000 homes in my district this week, the present dilemma which Michigan currently finds itself in is a good example of how easily the 50 states can be seduced by federal government handouts.

Michigan, along with most other states, is being financially crushed by the growing burden of supporting people on welfare.

We in the Legislature find ourselves virtually helpless in our attempts to arrest spiraling welfare costs because of the overriding role the federal treasury in Washington plays in setting up rules.

Michigan once had a law that welfare benefits could not be handed out to persons until they have been residents for the state for at least one year. That law was put into effect because many welfare families were migrating to Michigan from southern states, which pay much less to those on welfare than Michigan.

But two years ago, the United States Supreme Court, in one of its ghastliest decisions, ruled that such residency laws were invalid unless there is a "compelling state interest"—whatever that might be.

As a result, Michigan welfare rolls and costs began zooming upward at an even more alarming rate.

But then something interesting happened—the states started to fight back.

Just recently, for example, the New York State Legislature approved a bill restoring that state's one-year residency requirement on the grounds that there was indeed a "compelling state interest" that it do so—that "interest" being that the state was going broke.

Now, it's estimated that Michigan could save $4.1 million in welfare costs in the coming year if it could restore its one-year residency rule. Accordingly, I'm co-sponsoring a bill in the State Senate that would do just that.

But here's the "hooker". The United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare is threatening to cut off federal welfare funds to New York if it tries to enforce its one-year residency rule.

So, how would such a situation affect Michigan if it were to re-instate its residency rule?

No one really knows for sure.

of course, but this year the federal government is providing $369 million of Michigan's total welfare bill of $785 million. It could mean that Michigan would jeopardize that $369 million—or perhaps a substantial portion of it—by attempting to save $4.1 million through re-instituting the one-year residency rule.

That's where the problem comes in when a state accepts federal aid. The state is always at the mercy of rules and regulations the federal government may set later in the game when it is too expensive not to obey the rules.

It is reported in Washington that Michigan's state and local welfare costs would be reduced by $45.2 million beginning in mid-1972 if President Nixon's welfare reform package, now being considered by the U. S. House Ways and Means Committee, becomes law.

In the meantime, however, Michigan's welfare costs are expected to rise to more than one billion dollars next year, counting federal, state, and local costs.

This year's costs include $271 million in payments to families of dependent children; $75.7 million to the aged, blind and disabled; $41 million in direct aid; $267.5 million for medical assistance to the poor; and various smaller programs that require $129.3 million.

'Pet' bill

By REP. DICK ALLEN

Years ago I saw a magazine cartoon that has somehow stuck in my mind. A middle-aged teacher is sitting at her desk with an irate looking principal staring down at her. A long haired, surly looking boy of perhaps 12 is sitting on her lap smoking a cigarette.

"Why, Mr. Beemis", she is saying, "whether they will admit it or not, every teacher has her little pet!"

Most legislators have their little pets. Often it is an idea or a concept that attracts little public attention and seems of little significance to much of the Legislature. Often years pass and the bill, in slightly different form, reappears and reappears. After a while it is recognized as Rep. X's pet and we may even begin to chuckle a little about it.

After a while no other legislators would think to "steal X's pet" by introducing a similar bill. Or if a freshman should, through ignorance, breach this etiquette, he will find out later through the kindness of an older hand just why it was none of his bills ever got on the calendar in Rep. X's committee.

No doubt many of my constituents know of some of my interests. I have constantly campaigned for a switch from property tax to income tax for schools. The entire area of education has been a strong continuing interest of mine. I serve on both the Public Health and Agriculture Committees and have promoted much legislation in these areas. The news media has played up my role in abortion law reform.

I have been working for legislation to limit the flammability of fabrics used in children's clothes.

But if I have something that really fits the "pet" category, it would be the H.B. 5227. This bill calls for a statewide network of local roads devoted primarily to hiking, biking, and horseback riding.

According to the plan existing local roads would still be allowed. However, motor vehicles would be limited to 35 mph and all non-motorized traffic would have the right of way. The network should interconnect metropolitan areas and resort areas.

Well, I think it ought to be possible for a group of people to take a bicycle trip from Lansing to Houghton Lake. Under present conditions they would take their life in their hands. Bicycling, hiking and riding are healthy forms of recreation and should be promoted.

Also, Dick Allen likes hiking, biking and horseback riding! So what's the public and legislative reaction? So far it ranges from negative to nil to "what's he talking about anyway?"

But keep an eye out for a "Michigan Byways" system of roads for hiking, biking and horseback riding. It's one of Dick Allen's "pets" and may be around for a while.

THE EVART SILLMAN FAMILY

meet Bernita Sillman of Clinton National

There are always behind-the-scenes people who keep the machinery of any business activity well oiled and Bernita Sillman is one of many Clinton National Bank employees who fill this role. Bernita works in our loan accounting department and while you may never have an occasion to speak with her, she'd probably quickly recognize any one of the four-thousand plus names currently on file with active loan status.

Bernita has been with the bank since August 1969 and much of this time has been spent in a loan accounting capacity. Along with others in the department, Bernita's knowledge of her work served well during recent months when accounting data began being transmitted for computer processing. And this job awareness also allowed her to quickly understand and appreciate the processing and efficiency of the new procedure.

A pair of sons, Randy and Dale, keep Bernita and husband Evart pretty well occupied, but she finds time between her work and housekeeping to pursue her hobby of knitting at her home on Pratt Road near DeWitt.

In your visits to our bank you may miss the pleasure of speaking with Bernita but you can bet she's behind the scenes performing her share of service to Clinton National customers. And for us (and you) that's the important thing.
