Food stamp plan killed in county

Clinton County's federal food stamp program has been cancelled, at least for the time being.

George Eberhard, director of the Clinton County Social Services Department, was notified of the cancellation Monday, barely a week before it was to go into effect July 1.

He said funding problems at the federal level were involved in the cancellation. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Division told Eberhard "We do not know at what level the food stamp program will be funded in fiscal 1969" but "we are hopeful the funding situation will be settled shortly."

Fifty-five Clinton County families have been certified for the food stamp program, Eberhard said, as well as most grocery stores. The food stamps were already in the vault at the welfare agency's office when the cancellation came.

"We will try to contact everyone certified for surplus," Eberhard said. "We plan on con-

'Bigger, better' 4th celebration planned

"Bigger and better than ever!" is how Marshall Livingston describes the fourth of July celebration for St. Johns this year. The combined efforts of the fire department, Jaycees, and Rotary Club promises to top the results of last year's celebration. Livingston, Jaycee co-chairman with Bob Frechen and Bob Yager, revealed plans last week. The events will last from July 2-6. The first day has been reserved as "Kiddies Day."

For "Kiddies Day," the fire department will offer rides on the fire engine for the kids and other amusements will be especially planned. Two bicycles will be given away, one each to a boy and a girl who will have their choice of size of the bike they want.

Again this year, a midway will be assembled south of the swimming pool. Rides and games typical of a fair midway will be on the agenda. Rides will be supplied by the Crown Amusements Co. A special feature will be a dunking booth with teachers and city fathers on the dunking seat.

Each night of the celebration, all color cartoons will be shown for the townchildren at the picnic pavilion in the city park.

The Jayettes will sponsor a food booth. Stuppy joes, hot dogs, homemade pies, potato chips, and beverages will be on the menu, as well as sno-cones and candy. All money raised at the booth will be put back into the community via the auxiliary's projects.

Scheduled for Thursday night will be the give-away of a 1,000-pound steer. Tickets are on sale now from any member of one of the three sponsoring groups. On the 4th, the firemen will be in charge of the fireworks display. A special effort has been made this year to make the fireworks more spectacular than last year.

Local political activity builds as deadline nears

Local political activity is beginning to build up pressure as the deadline for filing for county supervisor posts nears. Nine men have filed petitions so far, and the deadline is next Tuesday, July 2, at 4 p.m.

Elsewhere on the local level, only Republicans have filed for county offices, and in the case of prosecuting attorney there are no candidates. Rolland Duguay, the incumbent prosecutor, withdrew his petition after it had been filed and announced his candidacy for district judge of the 55th district of the newly formed district court.

Four Republicans are seeking nomination for sheriff — incumbent Percy J. Patterson and Anthony Pohl, Ray Terpening and Bruce Angell II.

Other candidates, unopposed, are Dale Chapman for county drain commissioner, Mrs. Velma Beaufore for county treasurer, Ernest Carter for county clerk, Willard Kriebel for register of deeds, and Lee Rummell and Van Hoag for coroners.

SUPERVISORS FOR the new 11-man county board of supervisors will be elected this year, and so far there are nine candidates — and contests in at least two of the districts.

Walter Nobis of Lebanon and John M. Satterington of Essex are both seeking nomination from District 2, which includes those two townships and Bengal. Both are presently supervisors.

In district 6 (Riley, Olive and Victor townships), William Hufnagel and Almond Cressman are candidates. Hufnagel is currently Dallas Township supervisor, and Cressman is former Olive Township supervisor.

Andrew Cobb has filed a petition for supervisor from District 1 (Greenbush and Duplain townships), while Bruce Lanterman is seeking nomination in District 3 (Bingham and part of St. Johns), Rex Sirrine in District 4 (the remainder of St. Johns), Robert Montgomery in District 8 (Eagle and Watertown townships), and Gerald Lanford in District 9 (DeWitt Township north and west of Clark and Turner roads).

No candidates have filed yet for districts 5 (Ovid Township), 7 (Dallas and Westphalia townships), 10 (DeWitt Township south and east of Clark and Turner roads), or 11 (Bath Township).

DUGUAY'S WITHDRAWAL as a candidate for prosecuting attorney came after his filing of nominating petitions to the county

Mail boxes blown up by vandals

St. Johns Postmaster J.D. Robinson issued a warning this week in the wake of a series of vandalism of mail boxes in which they have been blown up by cherry bombs.

Robinson said six mail boxes on various postal routes out of St. Johns were blown up between June 16 and June 19.

Monday night (June 24) 1.24 inches of rain was recorded.

Thunderstorms banged around Clinton County during most of the last week, and severe ones early Sunday evening caused considerable wind damage in the southern and western parts of the county.

No injuries were reported, although property damage was high in some individual cases and certainly widespread on an area basis.

Mobile homes and barns suffered the most. At King Arthur's Court in DeWitt Township, a strong wind gust carried a house trailer 50 feet and smashed it on a street, shortly after 7 p.m. A trailer being pulled along M-21 west of Fowler was blown off the road, and it overturned.

Near Bath, winds huffed and puffed and blew in a barn on the Darwin Clise farm, trapping 10 head of cattle in the debris. Lightning struck a barn on the Edward Smazel farm near Wacousta and despite drenching rains and water pumped by fire trucks, the barn burned to the ground. Its contents of hay and straw were lost.

The winds accompanying the Sunday evening thunderstorms — there were a couple of them — were widespread, and they created widespread problems. Uprooted trees and blown-down branches were common all across the southern tier of townships. In many cases they snapped electrical and telephone wires as they fell, disrupting service to individual homes and in some cases wide areas.

CONSUMERS POWER CO. AND GENERAL and Bell Telephone repair crews were out all night repairing damage. Clinton County road crews were also on the job, cleaning up trees and branches that had blown down across roadways.

The storm seemed to be regional in nature, although there were reports of isolated damage outside the major area. The weather bureau in Lansing said the storm did the most damage in an area from Portland on the west to East Lansing on the east. Tree limbs and trees were felled as the storm raked the southern townships of Clinton County. Winds reached at least 55 miles an hour.

Wind damage was considerably less to the north. St. Johns got none to speak of, although there was heavy rain along with thunder and lightning. Flooded streets were reported in several areas, and for a time on Garfield Street the water was deep enough to allow some canoeing by some young men who took advantage of a sporting situation.

Heavy rain fell as far north as the southern part of Gratiot County, but north of Middleton only comparatively light rain was experienced.

The Fowler area suffered some wind damage, the first of any major amount since the April 1967 tornado. Two barns, one west and the other east of Fowler on Walker Road, were shifted off their foundations by strong winds. One barn was on property owned by Gordon Miller on Walker Road just east of Grange. The Edgar Walker property barn on Wacousta Road north of Walker Road also suffered a similar fate — it was moved by the wind.

Trees were blown down along Grange Road and Wright Road west and south of Fowler. At Westphalia there were a reported three inches of rain, and some rural areas between there and Eagle received four inches of rain.

WHEREVER WINDS STRUCK, FARMERS were out quickly to help clear fallen trees and branches from roadways to help the road commission clear the way for emergency vehicles should they be necessary.

As the storm moved east, it appeared to pick up somewhat in intensity. The DeWitt and Bath areas were the hardest hit.

Servicemen salute deadline July 6

The Clinton County News has delayed publication plans and extended the deadline for submission of copy and pictures on a special section saluting military servicemen from Clinton County.

The original publication date was to be next week, July 4. Copy and pictures continued to flow in however, after the deadline June 14, and it was decided to delay publication so that as many servicemen as possible could be recognized.

A new deadline of July 8 has been set, and publication of the special section will be later in the month. Already over 160 pictures and data sheets have been turned in by parents or wives of county servicemen and women. Business firms are helping support the publication of the pictures and information.

Loved ones of those in the service from the county are invited to send in information asked for on a special blank printed on Page 2-A this week, along with a picture (preferably black and white) of the serviceman. Give them the recognition among the home folks that they deserve as they do their share in protecting the freedom of this nation.

CALLING ALL BLOOD DONORS

That's exactly what these volunteer workers did Tuesday night in an effort to bring a good turnout for Wednesday afternoon's semi-annual visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to St. Johns. Mrs. John Paradise (left) was in charge of the telethon from General Telephone Co. offices and was assisted by Mrs. Jerry Stone, Mrs. Dick Devereaux and Mrs. Gerald Henning. The bloodmobile was to be set up from noon to 6 p.m. Wednesday at the St. Johns Municipal Building.

Wedding

The deadline for wedding information for publication in the Clinton County News is 5 p.m. on the Thursday preceding publication. The News cannot guarantee immediate use of stories submitted after that time. This deadline is necessary to insure fairness to all parties and to all types of news. No wedding stories will be delayed more than one week.

SEE OUR GOOD ASSORTMENT OF LADIES' SLEEVELESS COTTON DRESSES

By ROBERT ELDRIDGE
Road Clerk

That tempest of the road business is with us again - rain and more rain. It stops construction work completely and causes much damage to new grades by eroding the subbase sand course. It makes the entire right-of-way a miserable, muddy mess.

The rains of this past Sunday, Monday and Tuesday have cut an already shortened construction season by at least a week, and very probably more. Although no decisions have been made as yet as to specific projects, there is no question but that our road construction program for the summer, will have to be slashed considerably because of the extreme wet weather.

From the maintenance side of our operation also, the heavy rains have caused setbacks and increased work loads. The strong winds that swept through the southern tier of townships in conjunction with Sunday night's storm caused an exceptionally heavy work load for our crews. As soon as men could be located Sunday night the work began and continued until the early hours of Monday clearing trees from the main roads. Monday morning crews started out again removing fallen trees from the right-of-way and the work was still in progress Tuesday morning.

I asked our foreman for an estimate of the number of trees blown down and blocking roads as a result of Sunday night's wind and they guessed in the neighborhood of 150. Strangely enough, very few of these down trees were dead elms - almost without exception they were full foliaged live trees. One was a huge oak nearly fifty feet in diameter at the base which gives an indication of the strength of the wind.

The rain has caused another setback to the road bringing program - a program that has seen nothing but setbacks since we first began. Six townships are completely finished with the first application, five townships are very nearly completed and three have been barely started. We will start the second application immediately after the first one is done.

We started mowing primary roadsides and intersections this past Thursday. Many people have called these past two weeks wanting to know why we haven't started to mow the state highway roadsides. The answer simply is that we have not been authorized to do so. We have the men and the equipment to do the job but not the money nor the permission of the State Highway Department.

City commission changes meetings

The St. Johns City Commission has changed its meeting dates. The governing body will meet the second and fourth Mondays of each month, starting July 8. Previously meetings had been held on the first and third Tuesdays.

Meetings will continue to start at 7:30 p.m. The change in the dates was authorized last week in a resolution passed by the commission. The new dates were set up to allow time for publication of city ordinances and business in the Clinton County News the same week the commission meeting is held.

The previous Tuesday night meetings were always held after the paper's press time, and ordinances passed could not be printed until the second Thursday afterward, beyond the seven-day limit for publication.

Fire contracts are extended

The City of St. Johns has extended fire protection contracts with eight surrounding townships until Sept. 1 in order to provide more time to negotiate new agreements with the townships.

The contracts begin running out July 1. St. Johns Mayor Charles Coletta said he preferred extending the contracts until a new city manager can be hired and be present for final talks.

The later date would also make it possible for all contracts to start at the same time.

The city commission last week accepted the low bid of Stan Cowan Mercury for two police cars at $3,478.20. The city will trade in three cars, two police cruisers and a former police car that has been used by the city manager.

Mayor Charles Coletta was authorized by the commission to enter into a lease agreement with the Lansing YMCA for operation of the swimming pool.

The commission approved paying $93.37 to Robert Spencer of 103 S. Swegles Street as half the cost of replacing water service there. Spencer felt the city should pay because problems at his residence had been caused by a faulty coupling at the curb box, installed by the city.

Two full-time employees of the library were authorized for inclusion under a new liability insurance policy the city recently purchased.

We've got a 'sister city'!

The State of Michigan has a sister and so does St. Johns.

A formal proclamation from the city council last week put St. Johns on record favoring the formation of a sister city relationship with Stann Creek, British Honduras, in Central America.

The city of Stann Creek has an approximate population of 5,000 citizens and is in the country with which the State of Michigan has formed at partner relationship under the auspices of the Alliance for Progress known as the Michigan Partners of the Alliance.

The agreement to form the sister city relationship was decided upon as a result of a meeting by Albert J. Arzu, the mayor of Stann Creek and Dr. Eugene Friesen of St. Johns and Dr. John E. Jordan of MSU.

Is Picture Taking Time!

Here Are Some Helpful Picture Taking Hints
MOVIE IN CLOSE

For pictures with impact and simplicity, take lots of close-ups. Move in closer until the subject fills the viewfinder. Many cameras will let you take sharp pictures from as close as 3 to 5 feet. Check your camera's manual.

LOOK FOR THE BEST ANGLE

Get simple, uncluttered backgrounds by shooting from a low angle and using the sky as a background. Or, shoot from a high angle and use the grass as a background. Take time to walk around your subject, looking high and low for the best picture.

INCLUDE FOREGROUND SUBJECTS

Subjects in the foreground add depth and interest to scenic pictures. Include a fence, tree, or member of your family in the foreground of distance scenes. Also try to "frame" your scenes with an archway, fence, or overhanging tree branch.

KEEP 'EM BUSY

Photograph people doing something, not standing stiffly and staring at the camera. Catch children playing a game or enjoying a favorite toy. Show adults engaged in activities such as sports, gardening, or hobbies.

KEEP CAMERA STEADY, LENS CLEAN

Gently squeeze the shutter release. For bright, clear pictures, keep your camera lens clean by wiping it with a clean, soft, lintless cloth or Kodak Lens Cleaning Paper.

102 from 13 towns attend 13th Yesteryears Party

WACOUSTA — Mrs Veda Forward put on her 13th annual Yesteryears Party at Wacousta last Thursday afternoon, and ironically it drew folks from 13 other communities in Michigan and Florida.

In all, 102 persons attended, and 22 of them were over 80 years of age.

The oldest woman present was Ivy Greenfield of Williamston, who is 87. Henry Hepfer of DeWitt was the oldest man at age 89. Traveling the farthest distance to the party were Mr and Mrs Franklin Moldenhauer of Florida.

The Yesteryears Party is sponsored by the Wacousta Neighborhood Society and is held at the Methodist Church. Mrs Forward always has a program of musical selections and other entertainment and laces it with audience participation events and singing that keeps everybody in high spirits. And there's always informal visiting.

Mrs Forward thought up the Yesteryears Party 13 years ago. She told the group last week that "We're all older now, but we're not 'old'." She described people and likened their individual characteristics to those of numerous plants, from grasses through sturdy oak trees.

"THIS GROUP IS IN that class of sturdy oaks," she said, "You're not old but still strong and growing."

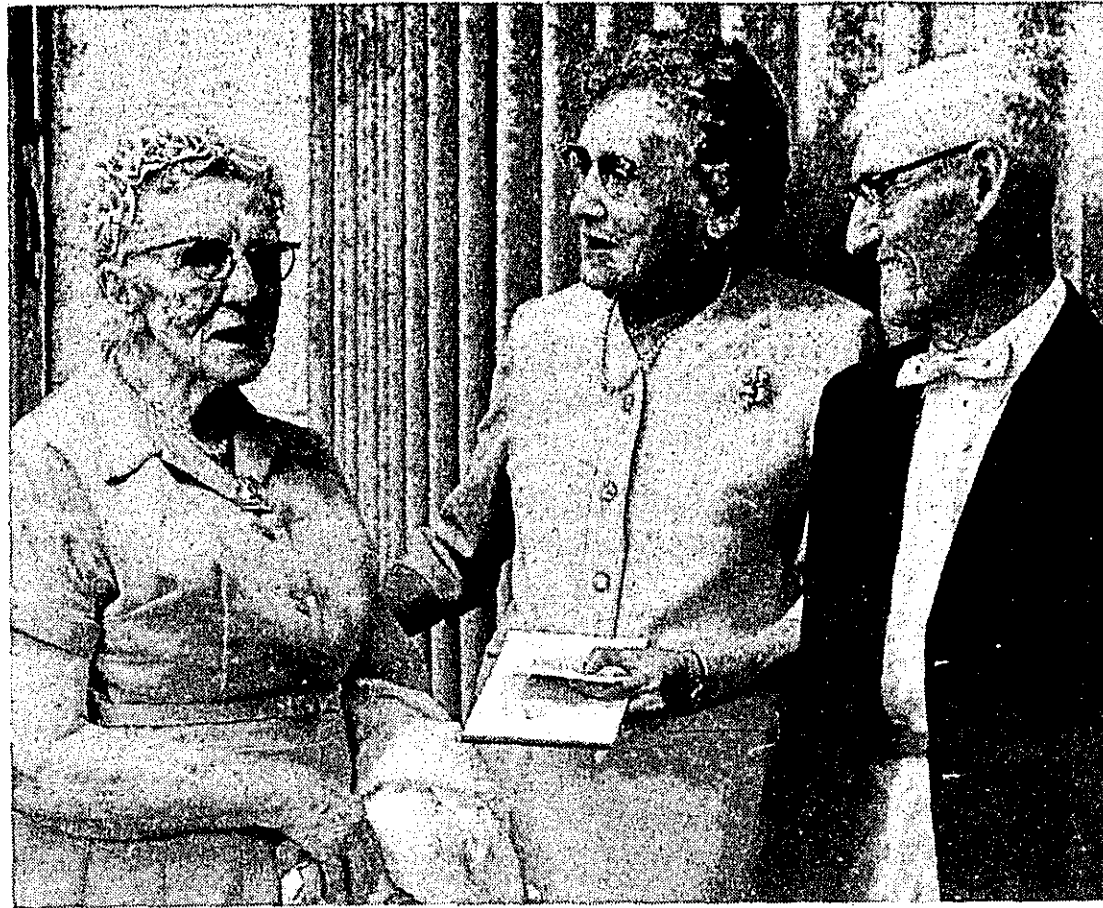

Entertainment last Thursday included twin-piano selections by Kathy Pingle and Mrs Cash Wanser, a poem by Mrs Henry Hepfer of DeWitt entitled "Old Meeting House," about the Emmanuel Methodist Church on Clark Road, and vocal duet numbers by Rev and Mrs James Birdsell of Grand Ledge.

Guests were present from Grand Ledge, DeWitt, St. Johns, Lake Odessa, Lansing, Bradenton (Fla.), Saginaw, Williamston, Eagle, Concord, Greenville, Lyons and Charlotte, as well as Wacousta. All persons over 75 years of age were given a red rose courtesy of Dean Doty of Doty Floral in Grand Ledge.

The Neighborhood Society which backs the Yesteryears Party has an average monthly meeting attendance of 20 to 30 women. The club still maintains its 5-cent initiation fee and no dues — a price fixed when the organization started over 75 years ago.

Mrs Mable Brace assisted Mrs Forward in program arrangements. Mrs Mildred Barnes was in charge of refreshments, and Mrs Maxine Hoerner was in charge of cleanup.

Mrs. Veda Forward (center), organizer of the annual Wacousta Yesteryears Party, chats with the oldest man and woman present at last Thursday's meeting -- Ivy Greenfield, 87, of Williamston, and Henry Hepfer, 89, of DeWitt.

Mrs. Veda Forward leads group singing for some 102 persons who attended her annual Yesteryears Party at Wacousta last Thursday afternoon.

MRS. ROBERT GULLIVER

Walton-Gulliver vows exchanged

Saturday, before the Congregational Church altar decked with bouquets of white gladiolas and miniature pink carnations, Rev. Gerald Churchill united Miss JoAnne Kay Walton and Robert Ray Gulliver in marriage.

The bride, daughter of Mr and Mrs Donald Walton of St. Johns, was escorted to the altar by her father. Gowned in traditional white, her full length dress was fashioned of silk organza and Venice lace. The empire styling was accented with a lace bodice. Lace also highlighted the hemline and short sleeves of the gown and the edge of the full train.

A satin Dior bow held her shoulder length veil of silk illusion. Her ensemble was completed by a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and miniature white carnations atop a white bible.

The groom, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Gulliver of Okemos, was attended by Thomas Clark of Lansing as best man. Other groomsmen included David Gulliver, Douglas Walton, Richard Wood, Burt Bentley, and Ted Gulliver.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Patricia, the bride's sister, Jacelyn and Mrs. Duane Robinson, a friend of the bride from Fort Wayne, Ind.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Nell Childs of Lansing. All attendants were dressed identically in floor length gowns of aqua chiffon over taffeta. They were empire style accented with braid trim. The dress featured a draped neckline and a floatin back panel. They also wore satin Dior bows. Each carried a single pink rose.

For the wedding, Mrs. Walton chose a pale peach colored shantung coat and dress. The groom's mother selected a beige lace over taffeta. A-line dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore peach colored rose corsages.

Music for the ceremony was sung by Mrs. Barbara Kuhns who was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. B.A. Delbert.

A reception held at the church immediately followed the ceremony. Serving were Misses Dianne and Donna Thompson, Gale Wilson, Shirley Robertson, and Mrs. Connie Drakes, Mrs. Donna Rochow, and Mrs. Margaret Moore.

The great-grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Lizzie Blough, was honored guest.

For her going away ensemble, the new Mrs. Gulliver chose a white skimmer with a navy jacket and accessories with a pink corsage from her bridal bouquet. The couple spent a short time in Detroit before returning home to Eaton Rapids.

The handwriting on the wall usually means there's at least one small child in the family.

Today many a politician's train of thought turns out to be an unlimited express.

Gaylord 'projector' gives St. Johns citizens good picture of enthusiasm

Gaylord bank president Harold Elgas projected a bright picture of what pride can do for a community when he told St. Johns businessmen and citizens last Wednesday night about the resurgence of Gaylord during the last eight years.

"Our big problem now is with growing pains," Elgas said, and that includes streets, sewers, curb and gutter and sidewalks. He described Gaylord's problems before the rejuvenation began about eight years ago. They included 9 per cent unemployment, 15 vacant buildings in the business district and an exodus of young people.

But led by an active Chamber of Commerce, he said, the community began "Operation bootstrap," during which the town has picked itself up and made vast and well-publicized improvements in both real estate and community pride.

Gaylord adopted an Alpine motif in its business district and has been expanding it. Elgas showed before-and-after color slides of the changes made in the business areas as the Alpine theme was carried out.

TODAY TOURISTRY is of number one importance in Gaylord, with industry ranking second and agriculture third. Eight hundred fifty new jobs have been created in the area in the last eight years, there is competition for leases, 350 new homes have been built in the area and still there is a housing shortage.

Some $30,000 was subscribed to an industrial development corporation, which has made money itself through investment and which has brought in new business and expansion of existing businesses. "It takes preplanning and hard work," Elgas said. "Our IDC offers no inducements, just lots of enthusiasm and hard work."

The IDC works in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce. The Chamber has 220 members with a $25,000 budget in a community of 3,000 people. It has a minimum fee of $50 for memberships, but there are many multi-memberships among businesses. The city and county put about $3,500 into the Chamber's budget, and about $3,000 is raised through booster buttons in conjunction with Gaylord's Alpine Festival.

The festival, Elgas said, is a good example of community pride and cooperation. Over 1,000 people are involved in it every year, and last year's crowds at the festival topped 15,000 persons.

Gaylord's resurgence was strictly "Operation boot strap from beginning to end," Elgas said. The only federal funds obtained were under a 701 plan for city and community planning. Actual expenditures in putting the Alpine motif to work is continuing under local business sponsorship.

Elgas and his wife were accompanied to St. Johns by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sharp, also of Gaylord. The dinner at Daley's was attended by about 60 persons.

Earth's oldest shores edge Pictured Rocks

Rising stark from the water and surrounded by legend, Michigan's imposing, inspiring Pictured Rocks and Grand Sable Dunes are in the process of being further developed by the National Park Service.

Nature formed the rocks eons ago—in the Cambrian age. Geologically, they're among the oldest shores on earth and the lake they hold back, Lake Superior, largest of the Great Lakes and largest body of fresh water in the world, is 18,000 years old. It wasn't until 1658, though, that they were seen by French explorer Pierre Radisson who wrote of their beauty and majesty.

Henry Rowe Schoolcraft, Indian agent, geologist and journalist, gathered Indian legends of the Upper Peninsula and Pictured Rocks area and from these, Longfellow based his epic poem, "The Song of Hiawatha."

DESPITE ALL that, according to the Michigan Tourist Council, the Pictured Rocks area remained basically a wilderness area, seen only by hardy hikers from land or from sight-seeing cruisers on Lake Superior.

To both preserve its wilderness flavor and yet make it still more accessible to tourists, Congress declared the 35-mile strip from Munising to Grand Marais the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore.

A parkway with scenic overlooks and from 15 to 18 access points to Lake Superior are in the development plans. Trails and campsites, will be added and extensive recreational facilities will be developed at each end of the parkway.

The Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore is divided into an inner zone of 39,000 acres and a lake-shore zone of 29,000 acres. The area varies in width from one-half mile to 2 1/2 miles.

Most noted are the Pictured Rocks, since they can be seen easily from Lake Superior. The explorers and voyageurs brought back the first tales of the cliffs that rise sharply from 50 to 200 feet about lake level.

A road from Munising leads to a good viewpoint, but for those who prefer the water route, tour boats make regularly scheduled three hour trips throughout the summer months from Munising.

THE FIRST FORMATION to come into sight is lofty Miner's Castle with its twin turrets looking like a medieval bastion, Legend says the French Jesuit, Pere Marquette, held services there for Indians of the region.

Nearby Stately Falls lives up to its name and there's Battleship Rock, Chapel Rock, Indian Drum Cave where the waves pound like a tom-tom, and the Colored Caves which were feared by the Indians. They believed blood was responsible for the scarlet tint of the cave's walls and that it was a place of torture and execution.

The Grand Portal was one of the most spectacular formations with an arch covering five acres, but time and the relentless pounding of the sea collapsed the arch in 1906. It illustrates that, despite the Pictured Rocks' timelessness, they are ever-changing.

While a spectacular attraction in themselves, the Pictured Rocks aren't nature's only flourish, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The constantly shifting Grand Sable Dunes and white beaches at the eastern end of the National Lakeshore are a tourist delight, particularly for youngsters.

But, generally, that's as far as most tourists went from the land side—Miner's Castle at the western end, the dunes from the east. Since there were no roads, or poor dirt roads at best, relatively few ventured into the pungent pine, hemlock and balsam forests that make up the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore's inner zone.

THEY MAY HAVE missed Chapel Falls, Mosquito Falls, Spray Falls and Miner's Falls, some of the most scenic of the upper peninsula's more than 150 waterfalls.

The Land of Hiawatha has remained unspoiled and the National Park Service, with the cooperation of local governments, intends to keep it that way. At the same time the Park Service will further open it up so that the Americans can enjoy what it describes as "unique and spectacular scenery unmatched elsewhere on the Great Lakes."

Pool opening delayed again

Due to mechanical difficulties, the St. Johns Memorial Pool opening has met another delay. The pool planned to open on Monday, June 24, but a leak in a return pipe postponed the opening. Hopefully, the pool will be ready for operation on Wednesday.

Lesson schedules will all be set back one week. Because they had to start one week late, they also will end one week later than anticipated. Every person who had signed up for lessons was personally contacted as soon as the delay was known. The staff of the pool called each person to inform them. Pool director, Larry Scramlin said he would have liked to use the media as newspaper or radio, but there would be the chance that not everyone would be aware of the circumstances and would have valid complaints.

He also said that the pool should be ready for open swimming by Wednesday. Swim times are 2:30 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Formation of a Little League "minor" circuit was announced this week by Jack Downing, league president, with competition to begin next Monday night at the St. Johns City Park diamond.

Local boxers fight Saturday

St. Johns boxers are looking forward to a rematch Saturday in Detroit after they lost three bouts June 15 during the first round of the annual Ohio and Michigan matches.

On June 15, D. Padgett of St. Johns, 165-pound open boxer, lost a decision to Joy Palyse of Akron, Ohio; Cesar Medina of St. Johns, 125-pound open boxer, lost to Guzman of Cleveland in a T.O. in the third round; and Mark Masarik of St. Johns (open 132-pound) lost on a TKO in the first round to Ron Harris, 1968 National Golden Gloves and national AAU champion from Cleveland.

The bouts June 15 were held at the Nvy Park and in Cleveland. This Saturday, Padgett will take on Palyse again in Detroit and Doug Brya of St. Johns will meet Guzman. Masarik and Medina cannot enter the Detroit fights because of AAU rules which prevent a boy from boxing in sanctioned bouts for 30 days after a knockout or TKO.

The bouts will be preliminary to a St. Johns boxing show Aug. 24 in which state and national AAU champs will be present.

Storms huff, puff here

and heaviest power failures reported by Consumers Power Co. were in this area.

At DeWitt, three homes on Dill, West Geneva and West Main drives were damaged by falling trees. A home owned by Orin McGuire was struck by five falling trees; it's on Dill Drive. Firemen aided DeWitt police in the clean-up of debris that lasted most of the night.

At the King Arthur's Court on State Road east of Wood Road, a 12x60-foot trailer owned by Mr and Mrs Nicholas Brown was carried 50 feet by the winds and then smashed on a street of the mobile homes court. The Browns weren't at home when the wind hit. Loss was estimated at $7,500.

DeWitt Township Police Chief Bruce Angell was quoted as saying the storm caused an additional $5,000 damage at the mobile homes court. Several tool sheds were destroyed, porches and awnings were blown off and in a couple of cases other trailers were moved from their concrete pads.

The two storms which did the damage Sunday struck between 5:20 and 8:10 p.m.

The whole week has had more than its share of weather rumblings. There was a sharp thunderstorm and lots of rain Friday night in the southern part of the county. Early Tuesday morning thunderstorms and gusty winds blew across the county but apparently caused little damage except to sleeping habits.

Four graduate from Ferris

Ferris State College in Big Rapids, granted degrees and certificates to 1,480 graduates June 16 in commencement exercises.

Among those graduates were four area youths. Terry D. Lattmore of DeWitt was awarded a certificate in auto machine shop. A certificate in architectural drafting was given to Jerry L. Bernath of Elsie. Thomas L. Jenkins of St. Johns received a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration. Also presented with a B.S. was Larry R. Thornton in environmental health and an A.A.S. degree in environmental sanitation.

Think cool in planning summer furniture placement

By LORRAINE SPRAGUE Extension Home Economist

If home is beginning to feel like an oven these warm days cool it off by using a little psychology. There are many ways to make a room look cool no matter what the thermometer may read. Furniture, furnishings, light and color all can have definite effects on how warm or how cool a room may appear.

It's a fact that an uncluttered room seems much more restful and comfortable in hot weather. This is a sign to put away all those extra pieces that are not really needed for comfort or for beauty.

Cover all those heavy upholstered chairs and couches with crisp slipcovers that can go in and out of the washer and dryer often. As soon as they begin to look limp or show signs of soil and wrinkles give them a good drenching. Its their crispness that helps make them look cool and inviting.

Peel the rugs off the floor and keep that floor looking its coolest with frequent dustings and waxing. Mop if its the kind of floor that takes to water. Observe all safety factors with the wax. Use self-polishing waxes; or very thin coats and adequate buffing of paste wax. Be sure you know which wax is best for your particular type of floor and know how to use it properly.

Bric-a-brac that collects dust and serves no useful purpose should be put away for the summer. Dust not only is unsightly and looks warm, but it takes energy to get rid of it! Easily washed furnishings, simply cared for furniture, and shiny floors are more appropriate to live with in hot weather. Light, cool colors, and informal areas all help make for cooler, comfortable living.

PETITION

PURSUANT TO Provisions of Section 3.12 of the Clinton County Rural Zoning Ordinance, as amended, I, Harold Maguire, do make and present the following terms, conditions and restrictions as part of my application for a Special Use Permit filed on the 2nd day of February, 1968, for use of the land described therein as a trailer park, and request that these terms, conditions and restrictions be made part of my application by reference. (See approval and recommendation to the Board of Supervisors).

The following terms, conditions and restrictions are as per my representations to the Watertown Charter Township Planning Commission and Township Board, and to the Clinton County Zoning Commission as being what I determine to be minimum guarantees of assurance that such trailer park and its location and operation will not tend to produce annoyance or be otherwise injurious to the surrounding neighborhood, nor be inimical to the public health, safety or general welfare of the community, including the proposed park occupants, nor contrary to the purposes of the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance.

For the above reasons, I hereby agree to be bound by said terms, conditions and restrictions if said Special Use Permit is granted, and if said permit is granted subject to any or all of said terms, conditions or restrictions, and agree that same will be binding upon my heirs, representatives, successors or assigns that would ever for any reason become involved with the operation of said trailer park.

The property involved in this application is in two (2) parcels of land described as follows:

Neighboring state capitol is top tourist attraction

FROM ITS GROUND floor museum to the executive offices and legislative halls, the visitors discover a strange contrast between old and new, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

The four-story building is 420 by 274 feet, including porches and steps, and 276 feet high, covers one-and-a-half acres, and has a walk around the outside measuring 1,520 feet. There are 123 steps to the top floor of the cupola.

Figures carved in the limestone face of the building, above the front entrance, depict Michigan's growth and development.

STANDING SENTINEL before the capitol is a weathered statue of Michigan's Civil War governor, Austin Blair, and although he has been dead nearly a century he is one of the most photographed men in the state.

Lansing became Michigan's capitol city by legislative plank. The original seat of state government was Detroit, but when two lawmakers were burned in effigy by a gang of rowdies the legislature feared that the border city was in danger of foreign invasion. Heated debate continued for months as the solons considered a move to nearly every settlement in lower Michigan.

When someone suggested Lansing Township, then a wilderness

A communication from National Association of Counties concerning a clean air conference to be held at Chicago, May 12-14, was read, moved by Shinabery, supported by Hufnagel, to acknowledge and place on file. Voted and carried.

A communication from Michigan State Association of Supervisors on a conference on bargaining relationships to be held in Detroit June 10 and 11, was read, Supervisor Shepard, of the Salary Clerk Hire Committee, County Clerk Ernest Carter, and a member of the County Road Commission were authorized to attend.

Supervisor Barks, reporting for the Zoning Commission, reported on the progress in reviewing the new proposed Zoning Ordinance. Several meetings have been held. The Committee hopes to finish the reviewing during the month of May.

Supervisor Underhill, reporting for Records Committee, authorized the County Clerk to replace the present Xerox with an improved model. Rates for use of the Xerox machines were set at 10 cents a copy to other governmental units. For non-governmental, 50 cents per copy. It was moved by Lankford, supported by Underhill, to approve the above rates. Voted and carried. They also recommended replacing the present addressograph machines with new ones. The Chairman referred the matter to the Finance & Appropriation Committee for a recommendation.

It was then moved by Shinabery, supported by Austin, to approve the tentative County Budget as presented. Voted and carried. Supervisor Barks, reporting for Zoning Commission, read the following notice:

We are calling attention to the fact that a great many people are buying parcels of land in Clinton County for the purpose of erecting residences thereon and are bitterly disappointed and inclined to blame governmental authorities when they are denied a permit to build because drainage and percolation tests will not meet minimum standards.

PLEASE NOTE—NOT ALL LAND IS SUITABLE TO BUILD ON. Do check with local authorities BEFORE closing your deal. It CAN save you time, money and trouble.

Moved by Barks, supported by Openlander, to adopt and use as a feature article in papers. Voted and carried.

Supervisor Barks reported on the meeting held on raising funds to operate the City Swimming Pool. He reports that it will require about $12,500.00 to prepare and operate the Pool for the year. The YMCA has agreed to operate the Pool. Discussion followed.

Supervisor Shinabery reported that Prosecutor Duguay states that it will be illegal for the County to contribute to the above fund.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, it was moved by Nelson, supported by Norman Thelen, to adjourn until June 3. Voted and carried.

location, the impasse was relieved and amid laughter, but for want of a better solution Lansing was selected.

THE PRESENT capitol building was constructed in 1879 at a cost of $1.5 million, replacing a frame structure erected in 1847 following the move from Detroit.

It originally housed all state governmental agencies, but with a growing population and a growing demand for state services the government offices quickly spilled into many other buildings, public and private.

Soon the old building will preside over a group of striking examples of modern architecture. But the massive structure, with its towering dome, will remain a vivid symbol of Michigan's colorful past and a continual fascination for travelers.

Westphalia festival set July 4

WESTPHALIA — St. Mary's annual Parish Festival will be held next Thursday afternoon and evening, July 4, on the parish grounds at Westphalia.

Events will start at 1:30 p.m. with a children's parade following a formal flag-raising ceremony at noon by the Portland American Legion.

Afternoon activities will include refreshments, concessions, rides, games, prizes, and lunches. There will be pony rides and a children's ferris wheel.

The Westphalia Bank will give a concert at 7 p.m., and traditional German folk songs will be given at 8 by the Westphalia Men's Glee Club. The Beaux-Jens will play for a dance from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.

EXTRAVAGANCE

The cost of high living is the reason a big salary won't meet the high cost of living.

Harold Schmitt, co-chairman of the festival, and Fr. Aloysius Miller of St. Mary's Catholic Church, discuss final plans for the annual Parish Festival in Westphalia the afternoon of July 4.

The "Low Down"

From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

1970 census: Big Brother is watching

Over the years, the census form has grown from about a dozen questions to over 100. Some questions have become highly personal.

Much of the so-called "junk" mail results from information furnished by the Census Bureau to private industry.

Congressmen are at present debating the merits of the new long 1970 census questionnaire, and some of their remarks are stated here.

Rep. Jackson E. Betts (Ohio) "...In the first place, in my opinion there is only really one constitutional reason for a census and that is to secure a head count of people for the purpose of congressional reapportionment — in other words, to determine congressional districts.

"In the second place, it appears over the years that operations of the Census Bureau have expanded to the extent that in 1970 we are probably faced with the matter of getting answers to around 120 questions and in back of it all is a statute which provides that in the case any person fails to respond or answer to any of those questions he is subject to a fine of $100 and imprisonment for 60 days..."

many volts of electricity a weekly editor consumes, or whether a head of household shares his shower..."

Rep. Thomas S. Klepps (N.D.) "...Farmers next year will have to give the precise figures on the amount of fertilizer and irrigation water used. They will have to disclose how much money they owe... Isay 'HAVE TO'... because the farmer must answer under threat of fine and imprisonment..."

Rep. Charles M. Teague (Calif.) "...Here are some samples of questions the people of the Nation as a whole may expect in 1970:

"HOW DO YOU enter your living quarters? Directly from the outside? Through a common or public hall? Through someone else's living quarters? ... If the party to be questioned is a woman: 'How many babies have you ever had, not counting stillbirths? Do not count step-children or adopted children...' Rep. Robert Dole (Kansas)..."

The emotional suggestion of 'Big Brother is watching you' is always a danger. The congress has the proper duty of protecting the general population from harassing questions, unnecessarily personal questions, questions impossible to answer, and questions causing such resentments as to encourage the citizen to reject the entire form as objectionable..."

Library project continues

In contrast to the usual demands for more tax money from more sources, the Central Michigan Library System is continuing one of its programs even though the federal grant for it has been exhausted.

Marvin Mounce, director of Central Michigan Library System, announced that the visiting librarian project, which offered library service to homebound persons in the tri-county area, is being continued through a co-ordinated volunteer program.

The visiting librarian project was initiated last July by the Michigan State Library and financed for one year by the federal government. At the completion of this year, the librarians involved felt the project was too valuable to be discontinued. Although the lack of federal funds made it impossible to retain a professional librarian for the project, a network of volunteer visitors working with their local librarians are making this a permanent program.

THE VOLUNTEERS will visit the homebound person, taking with them the materials the librarians have selected for the patron. At the present time there are 19 volunteers serving 32 homebound patrons, but the program can be expanded to include all eligible people.

Requests for library service for the homebound anywhere in Ingham, Eaton, or Clinton counties can be referred to Mounce at the Ingham County Library headquarters in Mason. Volunteer service will be worked out through the nearest library to the person served, with special book requests handled through the Central Michigan Library System.

2 of 3 trailer appeals get OK

A meeting of the Clinton County Zoning Appeal Board was held Monday, June 17.

Two appeals from Watertown Township were met with reaction. The first, an appeal by Hettie Day to occupy a trailer coach in section 19 of the township was approved. The appeal of Curtis J. Daggett to occupy a trailer coach in section 25 was denied and the board allowed Daggett 60 days to abandon the trailer and disconnect all utilities.

In a third appeal, the Johnson-Green Company asked for three trailers in section 11 of Ovid Township. One was approved because it had been moved in under proper zoning ordinances and extended for six months. The second two were denied because the trailers allegedly had been placed with disregard to the ordinances.

Flower show held Thursday

Last Thursday evening the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. held its fourth annual flower show in the lobby of the bank.

There were five major divisions in the flower classifications. Mrs. Lawrence Sexton won first place for the informal arrangement division. A blue ribbon was awarded Edna Wata-maker for her miniature arrangement. One single specimen superiority was granted to the entry made by Mrs. Howard Woodruff. Mercedes Farley presented the most outstanding formal arrangement. In the floating arrangement classification, Mrs. George Robinson won first place.

Gary A. Aude, manager and floral arranger for Smith Floral of Lansing was the judge for the show.

Vauconsants back from RLCA state meeting

Mr and Mrs Gayle Vauconsant attended the state convention of Michigan Rural Letter Carriers Assn. and Auxiliary, June 15-18 at Escanaba.

Mrs Vauconsant presided at the auxiliary meetings as state president. Mrs. Calvin Ankdam of Pigeon was elected president for 1968-69 and installed with line officers by Mrs. James R. Sigris, national secretary of Helena, Mont. The newly elected president of the RLCA was Roy De-mongey of St. Charles, Mich. A fifty-year service lapel pin was awarded to Ed Rose of Eagle. He was not able to be present, so the honorary pin was accepted by Vauconsant in his behalf for later personal presentation.

The national 64th convention of the Rural Letter Carriers Assn. will be held in Denver, Colo. Aug. 13-16.

Chesaning Showboat set for July 15-20 appearances

In less than one month the Monday of July 15 will be here and with it will come the opening performance of the famed Chesaning Showboat which has entertained audiences since 1937 with top-flight professional entertainment and the antics of some swingin' endmen along with a chorus of 50 voices.

Dates for 1968 Chesaning Showboat are Monday, July 15, thru Saturday, July 20. Each performance starts at dusk when the boat arrives at the dock-stage after completing a colorful half-mile journey down the winding Shiawassee River.

For many veteran Showboat-attenders, watching the brightly lighted, decorated boat complete the trip to the dock stage is half the fun of Showboat. Preceding the arrival of the boat will be the amateur acts with five talented acts each of the first five nights, chosen from 64 acts that made tryouts. On Saturday night, the first place winners from Monday thru Friday will compete for the grand prize of $50. Prizes Monday thru Friday are $25, $15, and $10 for 1st, 2nd and 3rd. Heading the list of four pro acts this year will be the talented Kirby Stone Four, a singing quartet that has built up a reputation over many years.

Another name act that has won considerable recognition thru TV and personal appearances is Donna Jean Young, a discovery of the Mervin Griffin show. Donna Jean is a comedian, probably a better description would be that she's a "nut".

Pat and Cash are a handsome negro singing and dance team that have made many appearances on television and in nightclubs. Pat's beauty is enhanced by gowns fashioned by John Hayles of California.

The fourth act is a comedy-puppeteer act, Barclay Shaw, who is a genius with a knife and a block of wood, creating characters that come to life in his talented and creative hands. It's a unique comedy.

Brandon's Band will again play for Showboat.

All seats for Showboat are reserved except for Monday night when prices are reduced and its strictly first-come-gets-the-best-seats.

Seats for Saturday are fast selling out. Reserved seats can

Brown seeking reelection

Congressman Garry Brown announced last week he will seek the Republican nomination and re-election as the representative of Michigan's Third District (Barry, Calhoun, Clinton, Eaton, and Kalamazoo counties) in the United States Congress.

A native of Schoolcraft, Brown unseated incumbent Democratic Congressman Paul Todd in his first bid for national office in 1966, following four years of service as a Michigan State senator, and before that as a delegate to the Michigan Constitutional Convention.

Congressman Brown serves as a member of the key Banking and Currency Committee, and housing and international trade subcommittees. # MOSTLY For MEN

by CHUCK FLYNN

The thousands of men who have put on the chef's cap because of the popularity of outdoor charcoaling often look upon their task as the early explorers must have done.

They don't know exactly where they are going, but have the indomitable will to make a stab at the unknown which lies ahead. Inevitably they're going to "do a steak."

Selection of a steak is important. Today we'll assume you have chosen a choice wedge bone sirloin. The wedgebone is small and represents the most economical of the sirloins. It should be well textured and marbled. Have the butcher cut the steak at least two inches thick and allow one-half pound per person for the number you are to serve.

A sirloin which is to be charcoaled should have two preparatory steps, in my opinion. First, it should be allowed to reach room temperature; second, it should be marinated for two hours before cooking.

For the marinade mix four ounces of salad oil and four ounces of pepper vinegar. Regular older vinegar will do, but pepper vinegar has more umph. Add two tablespoons of steak sauce, stir well, then pour the marinade over the steak. Turn several times during marination (a job your wife can handle if you're the normal man who gets home late from the job).

Start the charcoal at least one-half hour before you cook and when the coals are gray, have these things on a stand-by basis: some wood chips, hickory or fruitwood, which have been thoroughly soaked, a small sprinkler of water to quell flares, and tongs.

Please don't use a fork and don't spear a steak during the cooking process.

Place the steak on the grill two or three inches from the coals. Cook for five minutes, then turn and brush the cooked side with the marinade. Repeat until the desired degree of doneness is obtained. Fifteen minutes by this method will be blood rare.

The chips are used to induce some flaring of the fire, which is desirable to seal in juices and also to produce a tangy smoke flavor in the beef. Chips around the edge of the coals will smolder, not flame, and give you an enticing aroma.

If your guests desire all stages of doneness, cook the steak for 15 minutes, then slice across the grain in serving pieces about 1/4 inch thick. Reserve the rare on the side of the grill for a final warming, while you cook the other slices to the desired stage.

Bring off the fire piping hot and season with salt and freshly ground pepper. I never salt a steak prior to cooking since the marinade imparts seasoning and salt tends to toughen the meat.

Future holds big pantry of new food ideas

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

What will your grandchildren be eating in the year 2001? What are you eating that you didn't eat 10 years ago?

Just last week while attending a workshop at Michigan State University, I ate some "bacon bits" which were spun from vegetable protein soybeans. They were delicious.

These and other meatlike products are already on the market. Their flavor, color, texture, shape, and nutritional value can be controlled to resemble beef for meat-loving Americans. Food chemists can match the flavor, color and aroma of fresh picked oranges.

The new foods can have regulated content to meet the special needs of weightwatchers, teenagers, preschool children, expectant mothers, individuals on special diets or space travelers.

Our national food habits have changed considerably in the past 10 years. We have made a definite shift from the use of fresh milk and cream to frozen milk deserts and processed milk. The demand for non-fat day milk has increased.

THERE HAS BEEN a shift from the use of fresh vegetables to canned and frozen. Squeezed, frozen or chilled citrus fruit juice became more popular than fresh fruit.

The growing number of young people and the popularity of snacking by people of all ages helps to account for the increase in soft drinks, ades, punches, potato chips, luncheon meats, crackers, cookies, candy and peanut butter.

Americans ate one-half pound more meat per person each week than they did 10 years earlier—this from USDA research. The increase came from use of more beef and poultry but less of pork, fish and eggs.

The research shows that 50 percent of the households in 1965 had "good diets" (meeting standard recommendations for the major nutrients), compared to 60 percent in 1955.

Reduced use of milk and dairy products, vegetables and fruits caused most of the decline in "good diets."

What will the national food consumption trends show in 1975? What changes will you have made yourself by 1975?

FRESNO FOUR PERFORM HERE

The Fresno Four Quartet, on tour from California, performed at the First Baptist Church of St. Johns on Friday, June 21. After the concert a wiener roast was sponsored by the church.

REV. ROGER HARRISON

"Christ's Glorious Return" is the theme for the 37th annual Bible conference of the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches, June 24 - 28, in Rochester, N.Y., according to the Rev. Roger R. Harrison.

"It is preeminently by aggressive movements," commented Pastor Harrison, pastor of the St. Johns Baptist Church, "that the church is to prosper, to maintain her spiritual life and cause Christianity to flourish at home, and to extend its triumphs abroad. We who call ourselves Regular Baptists believe that the Bible is just as relevant in our revolutionary age as it was during the rise of the Roman Empire. First Baptist is one of the 1,264 churches of the association, which is known for its evangelistic fervor and missionary zeal."

Pastor Harrison explained that each church, regardless of size, is permitted two messengers to serve as elections committee members whose responsibility is the election of the Council of Fourteen, the administrative council of the association. Pastor Harrison is attending.

The recent 4-H Conservation Fun Day enabled 4-H members from all over Clinton County to learn more about nature and to have some fun at the same time. In left picture Sheldon G. Holcomb (kneeling in dark clothing), soil scientist leader with the tri-county soil survey party, and Robert Yager, sanitarian for the Mid-Michigan District Health Department, show 4-H'ers at the conservation fun day how they conduct a soil percolation test. This was done during the afternoon session. Earlier on the day's program was a stop at the St. Johns Hardwood Lumber Co. on County Farm Road south of St. Johns. Harold Hamilton of the company answers questions (in picture at right) for Christina Haviland, Duane Haviland and Yvonne Haviland.

Trees nature's own air conditioner

Trees affect the lives of everyone, according to Lloyd B. Campbell of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service. They provide beauty, variety, harmony, and contrast to the landscape.

"We depend upon trees to grow certain food products and provide us with shelter, clothing, paper, plastics, and other modified wood products," Campbell said. "The advantages of trees, the largest land plants, would make a long list. Everyone uses wood in some way. Many animals, birds, and lower forms of life depend upon trees for their existence."

"The kinds of trees that are established and how they are managed have a major effect on our lives. This is well understood by Michigan Soil Conservation District cooperators who have planted over a third of a billion trees on their lands in Michigan."

ACCORDING TO Clarence Manning, secretary of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, a preliminary list of trees needed by SCD cooperators through 1970 has been developed. This will enable an adequate supply of trees for each year's planting. Conservation plans which landowners have developed with SCS assistance indicate a need for 750,000 trees to be planted over the next 10 years in Clinton SCD.

Trees will not put an end to air pollution, but they can help. According to Jacques J. Plinkard, SCS Woodland Conservationist, East Lansing, trees filter and improve air about the same way as an air conditioner.

"Trees trap dust particles on their stems, branches, and on their leaves with tiny hairs and in moisture on their surfaces. Then rain washes the dust to the ground."

"Trees in an area provide a calm settling chamber for air pollutants. They also change air flow patterns on the landscape."

"Trees in wooded areas, greenbelts and parkways, woodlands, and forests can help reduce smog buildup and restore fresh oxygen to nearby areas. This is a point in favor of increasing the size of tree plantings and providing permanent areas for trees. Existing areas covered by trees should also be preserved."

"Trees, like other plants, add moisture and extract heat from the air."

"Trees replace unpleasant fumes with more pleasing odors."

"TREES DO AT LEAST four things that an air conditioner can never do. They deaden sound, grow useful products, provide pleasing views, and help protect the land from wind and water erosion."

"Most trees native to the district can be grown on the better agricultural soils," Campbell said. "Contact your Soil Conservation Service technician at St. Johns to check your site and determine in advance what must be done for next year's planting. It's not too early to think about next year and what land preparation is necessary this summer and fall."

"A well-planned tree planting now will have many benefits in the future."

ASC PROGRAM

1969 wheat allotment and program announced

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

The 1969 national wheat allotment and details of the 1969 voluntary wheat program were announced last Friday by Secretary of Agriculture Freeman.

The allotment was set at 51.8 million acres. This is down 13 per cent from the 59.3 million acres in effect for the 1968 crop. Michigan's share of the 1969 allotment was set at 1,079,086 acres; also down about 13 per cent.

The reduced allotment for 1969 will make it possible to strengthen farm prices and to reduce our carry-over by about 100 million bushels. The secretary noted that his decision in setting the allotment for 1969 follows closely the recommendations of the USDA Grain Advisory Committee and those received at 10 field hearings conducted by ASCS officials in early May.

DIVERSION PAYMENTS will be offered to participating farmers for planting less than their 1969 allotment and diverting this land to a conserving use. Price support loans on 1969 crop wheat will continue to be available at a national average of $1.25 per bushel. In addition, those participating will be eligible for domestic wheat certificates on 43 per cent of the farms projected production. This compares with 40 per cent in 1968.

Figuring normal yields, production from the 1969 allotment should total about 1.3 billion bushels, compared to 1.55 billion bushels expected for the 1968 crop. This should bring about a sizable reduction in carryover stocks by mid-1970.

Wheat growers can help achieve the 1969 goal by signing in the voluntary wheat program, and by diverting to a conserving use, for payment, an additional acreage below the allotment. The total acreage reduction target is about 18 per cent.

I want to remind feed grain producers who are participating in the feed grain program to certify their feed grain and diverted acreage as soon as their corn is planted. The last date to certify is July 15.

MSU releases hybrid carrot
A new hybrid carrot, especially suited for fresh market production and sale, was released this week by Michigan State University's Agricultural Experiment Station.

The hybrid, Spartansweet, is considered superior in flavor and external and internal color. It has "deep orange carrot color" without the green shoulder and/or green and yellow core.

Spartansweet was developed by Dr C. E. Peterson, MSU horticulturist.

The variety will be evaluated for its adaptability to mechanical harvesting and handling this summer by 10 Michigan fresh market carrot growers. It will also be tested later for its suitability for processing in sliced or diced form.

Schools receive state funds
The checks for the apportionment of funds for school districts were sent this week to area schools, according to Clinton County Treasurer Velma Beaufore.

A total allotment of $513,413.86 was sent to the area schools from the Department of Public Instruction in Lansing.

DeWitt Public Schools were granted $71,296.07; Fowler Public Schools $19,613.45; Bath Community Schools $83,383.85; Ovid-Elsie Area Schools $129,624.45; Pawamo-Westphalia Community School District $26,342.47; and St. Johns Public Schools $179,342.57.

Intermediate School District received $3,659.00.

Fifteen family members and guests attended the family picnic of the Friendly Neighbors Extension Study Group June 19 at the home of Mrs William Leach on Sage Lane in DeWitt.

Chairman, Mrs W.L. Whitefield, conducted the business meeting. Council member, Mrs Walter Marten reported the sealer had been put on the floor at Smith Hall.

A total of 35 dirty bags made by the group were donated to the Red Cross to be distributed to the wounded service men in Viet Nam.

College Week for Women will be held at MSU June 25-28. The educational tour will be July 10 and will visit points of interest in Owosso.

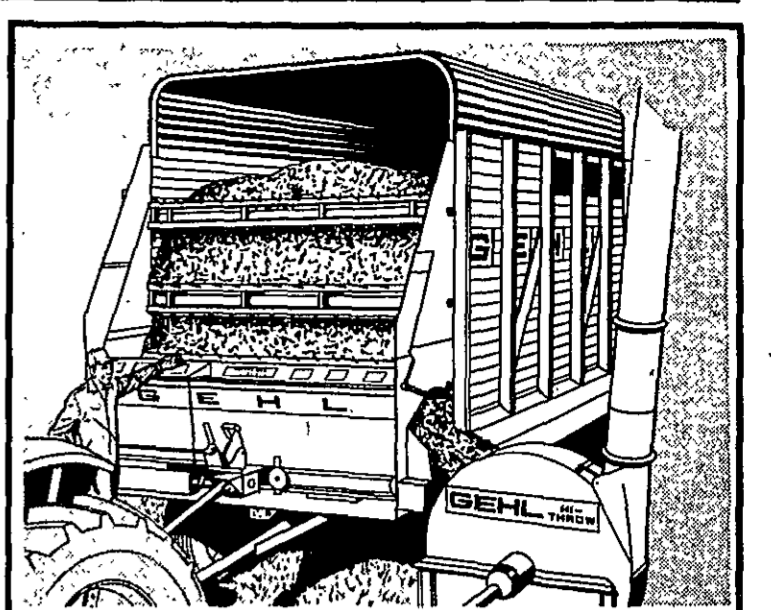

The 4-H Fair will be Aug. 12-14 and each member is asked to donate two pies.

Game prizes went to Mrs Glenn Hopp, Mrs Walter Marten and Mrs William Leach. No meeting will be held in July or August. Mrs Glenn Hopp will be hostess for the September meeting.

WHEAT IMPORTANT

Only 14th among the nation's great wheat producers, Michigan occupies a unique position in production of this grain. It is the source of 2/3 of all the eastern white winter wheat grown. Flour made from it is in demand for pastry, crackers, cookies and as a blender for other flours. Some is never in surplus. Having a large crop in 1967, Michigan harvested 40 million bushels worth $51 million.

Two thousand Michigan farms engage in world trade.

The spirit lives on

Guest comments by Rudy Petzold, editor of the Tuscola County Advertiser

A great American family buried its father, husband, brother and son . . . while a great nation painfully resurrected a new determination to cleanse the tarnish from its heritage.

A great American family wept over the flag-draped coffin of a murdered leader. . . while a great nation wept that democracy's brightness had been shadowed by the clouds of evil that have hung over this land.

A great American family prayed for an eternity-bound soul. . . and a nation of serious citizens prayed for the soul of their nation—a soul smudged with confusion of purpose and scarred with wounds of unleashed violence.

The murder of Robert Kennedy sent waves of fear and despair across the land. . . but as the shock subsided, the true spirit of America once again became evident. The outpouring of emotions that accompanied the aftermath of Robert Kennedy's murder cannot help but reassure all Americans that this country is far from dead. In its outpouring of grief over all the personal and public sorrows of this decade, serious Americans drew together in a spirit of quiet soul-searching and rededication.

America is not on the verge of crumbling as some alarmists would have you believe. Look at the tear-streaked faces that lined the funeral route—there lies the strength and dedication of America. Those tears of grief will wet the new batch of mortar which this generation will use to continue laying up the walls of this great republic.

America's reaction to Robert Kennedy's death has proven that this nation of immigrants has not degenerated so far that it cannot step back, retrace ill-advised steps and return to the course set for it by the founding fathers.

This is a generation of rebuilders and renewers. The task is in strong hands.

Although Americans were touched by the personal grief of the family and were touched by the loss of a man whose life had become such a force within the borders of this land, in the final analysis, their grief was not for a man—but for an idea.

The body of Robert Kennedy lies dead at Arlington. But Robert Kennedy has become more than just a rich man's son involved in politics. Robert Kennedy in his death, has become a part of the new spirit and drive of the United States of this generation.

His spirit has become a great wind, rushing down from the mountains, rustling through the valleys and whispering the message of a new America out across the plains of this great Republic.

The Robert Kennedy that has captured the thoughts and dreams of today's America is not dead—for how can one kill an idea, a thought, a movement?

It does not matter how we felt about his political ideas and thoughts but it does matter that, like him, we continue to have ideas and thoughts about the great issues of the day with compassion and earnestness—and further, that we direct these ideas and thoughts towards action.

We should not vote his specific ideas and programs into law just to honor him. Rather, let us follow his example and pursue constantly the search for stable ideas, for quality programs, for solutions at the source of problems. As a nation let us remember that no one man is gifted with all the good ideas—but that our strength lies in the gathering together of the good ideas of many good men and transforming them into action.

We must not canonize Robert Kennedy, for he was not a saint. He was only a man—but because he was only a man, his life becomes the more meaningful. He demonstrated that despite the shortcomings of mortality, one can achieve great service, great ideals and great accomplishments that even angels can marvel at.

He was only 42 when a bullet felled him, bringing to a close his personal life and crusade. This reminds us that it is not the length of life—but the depth of its involvement in others that makes it a life worthy of honor and emulation.

His funeral was not the burial of a man as much as it was the rebirth of a spirit. His death was close to Americans not because they knew him personally, but rather because they shared in and understood the feelings that surrounded his death and touched his family.

His death was a reliving of the grief that every American mother has felt when she faced the news of her son's death in Vietnam. The stilling of his voice was a bitter remembrance of other voices that have been stilled because they dared to speak and act for their country. The echo of his words, drifting high above the tumult, were words that all wanted to hear and believe in. Americans wept, because now this voice was stilled and they would now have to be content with the replaying of its echo.

There is much in America to cry about and his death gave us the opportunity to cry in anguish about the bitter shortcomings that have become so harsh and real these recent years.

But there is also much in America to build upon—and his death must serve as a new thrust in forward movement. His death, like the death of all Americans who have died searching for the truths of democracy whether from a podium or on a battlefield—is a wasted thing if we do not learn, if we do not dedicate, if we do not aspire, if we do not achieve anew.

Yes, Robert Kennedy is dead—but his spirit lives in the hearts of millions of Americans who in their small way have dedicated themselves to the building of the American dream.

His soul joins the souls of other Americans—great and small, who have become hallowed because they have directed themselves towards the effort of securing a more complete share of the promise of America for all Americas.

His body is dead, but his spirit remains as a 20th century colonist, minuteman, rough rider, doaghyboy and GI. He is a gathering of the spirit of the pioneer, frontiersman, explorer, experimenter and reformer which built this nation.

There is a bit of Robert Kennedy in each of us. Let us link together our hands, bringing together all the good things that he represented. His soul has gone to eternity to be with the great and small of all time. He is no longer concerned with the cares of this world—that concern is now ours.

Let us be about this concern. Let us translate his spirit into action. Let us honor him and all the Americans who have given the supreme sacrifice—and that honor can be given only when we take up the cause that they have been forced to leave behind.

America the Beautiful

We never fail to get a tingle up the spine and a vast panoramic minds-eye picture when we hear an individual or group singing "America, the Beautiful."

It makes us feel proud all over, to want to travel more and see more in this beautiful country of ours. And it makes us resolve to work harder as a segment of this nation to assure that these blessings are not taken away, thrown away or blown away.

There's been talk in recent years, on a very general and shallow scale, that "America, the Beautiful" should be our national anthem, that it better reflects the mood, the realism and the idealism that makes America. We have to agree.

"The Star Spangled Banner" has long been our national anthem, and there's no denying that we get goose bumps, chills and a lump in the throat when we hear it played. But it was born of a revolutionary period during the War of 1812 when this young nation was struggling to keep its newfound freedom.

America is approaching another anniversary of that freedom, that independence. We find ourselves far more secure as a nation but still involved in war on behalf of freedom. It is now a war for people's minds and hearts. America must show it does not want war but is willing to go to war to preserve freedom—whether ours or some other nation's.

"The Star Spangled Banner," however dear it is to us, is an anthem about war, and we would hazard a guess that such fact is more apparent to those hearts and minds we are attempting to win to democracy than it is to our own people.

We have long felt that "America, the Beautiful" is today a better representative of American emotion and pride than is "The Star Spangled Banner." The singing of those words, coupled with the pledge of allegiance to our flag, can tell much about America and Americans and would be a perfect national anthem.

"The Star Spangled Banner" need not be "hauled down" in making a change. It will always live on and will be a rallying factor for Americans in specific circumstances, and a song of pride in general.

We are not necessarily advocating the change in our national anthem, but we think Americans should consider it.

'IF IT FITZ . . .'

Where do the nuts get the guns?

By JIM FITZGERALD

My son was surprised to see me glued to the TV set so early in the morning. I told him Senator Kennedy had been shot. He asked me why anybody would want to do that.

Now there is a question. How do you explain such terrifying violence to a 10-year-old child? "The man who did it has got to be a nut," I said. "Like the guys who shot Martin Luther King and President Kennedy?" Eddie asked.

"Yes," I said. "Gee," he wondered, "where do the nuts always get the guns?"

Now there is another question. Ironically, Bobby Kennedy is one of those who has been fighting for stiffer gun legislation. And he has been getting nowhere, the certain destination of anyone opposing the powerful National Rifle Association (NRA). The NRA speaks loudly for millions for citizens who are scared silly someone is trying to stop them from shooting a deer or a duck.

For years, a few congressmen have tried to pass laws limiting the sale of firearms by mail. No luck. The NRA lobby has continually turned screws and most congressmen have wilted under the pressure. They are afraid to offend Joe Deerslayer back home. Joe votes as straight as he shoots and Chicken Congressman doesn't want to get shot down at the polls. He might have to go to work for a living.

The NRA reasoning is so ridiculous it would be laughable—if it weren't for all the blood. The rifle men guard their guns behind the U.S. Constitution—and behind the brilliant theory that a bandaid will cause death.

All sensible men want to do is tighten restrictions so not every nut can buy a gun simply by mailing a postcard or driving to Toledo. But the NRA says such laws would violate your constitutional rights and would quickly lead to more laws which would forbid all citizens to own any guns under any circumstances.

Another favorite NRA argument is that a killer will kill, gun or no gun. He'll use an axe or a club or his fists.

Phooey. The constitution was written when Americans were busy taking this land from the Indians. A citizen needed a gun to protect his scalp. There was no elaborate military-police organization to do the job for him. It was important to guarantee that every citizen have the right to bear arms. This is no longer important; it is, in fact, dangerous. This country today is obviously crowded with jerks who shouldn't be allowed within 100 yards of a gun.

As for the hole-in-the-dike theory, double phooey. The gun men continually claim that a law placing slight limits on the sale of firearms must eventually lead to a total ban against all guns in all homes. And then who will shoot all those ferocious animals?

This is obvious nonsense. Laws against jay-walking haven't knocked the nation off its feet. Laws against speeding haven't curbed cars. And, God help us, laws against murder haven't stopped wars. The NRA, in its perplexing stupidity, is shooting a mouse with a cannon.

Which brings us to the last silly argument—a killer will use another weapon if he can't get a gun.

For one thing, this theory ignores the unique deadliness of a gun in the hands of an assassin. Could Lee Harvey Oswald have murdered John Kennedy with a bow and arrow? Could that other nut have gotten close enough to Bobby Kennedy to do as much damage with a club or a knife? Not likely. These men were surrounded by guards and friends. Only a gun could pierce their forts of flesh.

And how many times have you read about domestic arguments which ended in deaths because an angry, maybe drunk husband "went into the bedroom and returned with a pistol?" You might outrun a knife or a fist. A bullet is something else.

How many kids are killed each year while playing with Daddy's gun? Stupid Daddy didn't know it was loaded; or he didn't know Junior could reach the top shelf.

I could cite dozens more examples illustrating why not everyone should own a gun. But it wouldn't influence the mighty NRA. The rifle men will keep paying lobbyists fat fees to pressure lawmakers. They'll keep flooding editors and gun clubs with specious propaganda. And, like it or not—I hope you're ready for this—you will continue to pay part of the NRA bills.

That's right. The NRA is subsidized by taxpayers. It receives over $2 million a year from the Defense Department. It's supposed to use the money to teach target practice—but, too often the lobbyists are shooting and congressmen are the targets. The NRA also gets free use of Camp Perry, Ohio, each summer for shooting matches. Last summer, a Cleveland congressman wanted to use Camp Perry as a summer camp for 5,000 underprivileged boys. He was turned down because the NRA had to shoot.

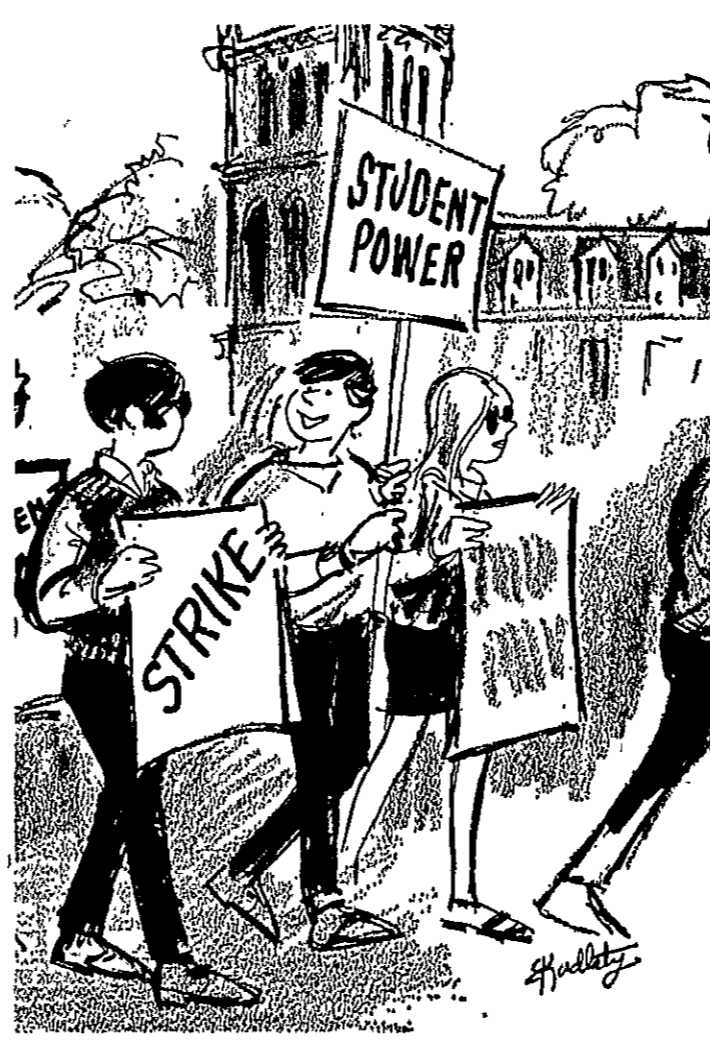

Naturally, rifle practice is more important than poor kids getting some fresh air. That's something else I'd hate to explain to a 10-year-old boy.

As I write these words, it is not known where Bobby Kennedy's assailant got his gun. It may be he is a retired cop with a permit to carry nuclear weapons. This would not subtract a speck from the validity of the argument that the sale of guns should be better controlled.

And the National Rifle Assn. should be put in its proper place—about on par with the United State Lawn Tennis Assn.

"I'm Taking Summer Classes to Catch Up on My Studies"

RAMBLIN' WITH RINK All about (gasp!) jogging

All of the world's great distance runners—Peter Snell, Roger Bannister, Maurey Willis . . . stood in awe as "The Rambler" churned past the grandstand at the St. Johns athletic field last week.

Had there been a coyote around, they would have sworn it was the roadrunner impersonator. What speed! At that pace, they thought, a new world record for the mile run was almost assured, and they were there to watch.

Stop watches clicked to start the timing and about the same time what they were watching stopped. "The Rambler," off to such a dashing start, had fagged out.

The pace didn't quite reach the low ebb of "stop" on the "slow-slower-stop" scale. It was gradually settled into a slow, painful "jog," a poor but determined imitation of the half-dozen other people who were jogging around the track in an effort to get themselves in better physical shape.

"THE TIME WAS 6:30 a.m., a good time to get the blood stirring. I was the first one at the track, having accepted a challenge the night before to join a group of local folks in their morning jogs. I waited only a couple of minutes, trying to get up the effort to start around the track alone.

Then the Dick Devereauxs arrived, jogged around to my side of the track and I fell in step. Keeping pace for awhile wasn't too hard. The morning air was still crisp and my lungs had a good supply of air.

I managed to swing around the track once before I slowed the pace to a walk in order to get my breath. By that time Al and Kent Daley had joined our forces and I was two more run-stumble-walk laps before I got close enough to gasp "Hi."

Wayne Hicks came churning by in his sweatclothes and my other original challengers, Virgil and Irene Zeeb joined up and began their jog around the track.

I was new at this and wasn't sure how many times around the track everybody went before they quit and went home for breakfast. Everytime I'd get about ready to quit myself somebody else would put in an appearance, and not wanting to admit how much out-of-condition I was, I'd start another lap. I managed to complete eight laps—two miles—but I'd also be quick to point out that I wasn't running all the time.

I ran the first quarter and walked the next half-lap, but from there on out my game plan fell apart. The spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. When my legs were willing my lungs weren't. When I got my second breath my legs were feeling like lead and wouldn't cooperate.

On this the second day after the first morning of running I am hardly able to walk. Another jogging session is scheduled for tomorrow morning. My legs will go to bed tonight and probably say a prayer for a drenching rain at 6:15 a.m., but the rest of me is willing.

I have always admired persons who could get out and run for long distances. I have always wanted to get myself in good enough physical condition to be able to do just that. Now I have my opportunity to get into shape at the same time my friends do. I will.

As I profess my ambition at 6:15 a.m., it doesn't make any impression on my wife. She rolls over, groans "You've got to be kidding," and snickers. "I'm not kidding, honey!"

MICHIGAN MIRROR

School millages around state 50% successful

School millage votes fared slightly better than 50 per cent during the first five months of 1968, reports the Michigan Education Assn. From January through May, 182 elections proposed extra operating millage for schools; 98 were successful and 84 were defeated.

Proposals to bond districts for school construction enjoyed greater success. While 53 per cent of elections for increased operating millage met voter approval, 84 per cent of elections for construction were successful. Some 33 elections were held; 21 were passed and 12 defeated.

This is the first year records of success and failure have been compiled. MEA notes that in previous years only those elections approved by voters were catalogued by the State Department of Instruction.

LARGER BOOKCASES may soon be needed by attorneys and others who make use of the Compiled Laws of the State of Michigan. Each year a new volume appears which lists all legislation passed during the current session. The dark blue books are usually obvious in law offices, state departments, courts, and local government offices.

The last Michigan statutes were organized and compiled into complete volumes was 1948. Since then, 19 separate books have been published to show new laws, repeal of and amendments to existing statutes. By publishing a new set of compiled laws, these 19 volumes could probably be reduced to five or six. Legislators who seem to be concerned over lack of room for their offices might welcome such a space-saving move.

Provision for publishing a new set of compiled laws must come from the lawmakers. A bill, passed in the House, made such authorization but ran into trouble in the Senate. It has been sent back to a Senate committee and for all practical purposes is dead. This means volume 20 now will be added to the pile of reference books. There have been only three such compilations in the history of Michigan: 1915, 1929, and 1948. It is time for another.

CAMP DOSS, LOCATED in Grand Ledge, prepares young men for military service whose faith prohibits them from bearing arms. The youths, 16 to 19 years of age, are Seventh-day Adventists. Their training at Camp Doss includes basic medical instruction, discipline and drill.

All conscientious objectors receive military training at Fort Sam Houston, Tex. About 35,000 medics are processed there each year. Of this number, 2,600 medics are conscientious objectors and about 65 per cent of them are Seventh-day Adventists.

Each June SDA youths from almost every state, including Alaska, travel to Michigan for the two-week encampment, Camp Doss is held on the campus of the Seventh-day Adventist Grand Ledge Academy, which becomes a virtual "tent city." This year approximately 150 young men are participating in the training.

Col. Clark Smith and Lt. Col. Charles Martin are in command of the Grand Ledge camp named for Desmond T. Doss, the only conscientious objector ever to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor.

"Men from the Seventh-day Adventist Church are among the top medics in the Army, according to my commanding officer," stated Maj. James A. Stanford, staff chaplain at Fort Sam Houston.

"The cadets come in properly motivated and disciplined to accept training." Major Stanford has been a guest lecturer at the camp. Purpose of his visit, he says, is to share helpful information with the command in turn to learn anything which might be useful in the training of medics when they report to Fort Sam Houston.

RETIREMENT OF STATE Supreme Court Justice Theodore Souris opens the door to clear-cut decisions by a majority vote, of the high court. In an effort to do away with stalemates created by 4-4 decisions of the eight members of the court, the 1963 Michigan Constitution provides that the first vacancy in the court created by death, retirement or resignation shall not be filled.

Although his retirement will not be effective until July 1, the 42-year-old justice indicates he will no longer sit on the bench and participate in decisions. His departure gives Republicans a technical majority on the court for the first time since 1955.

In the past, the court has at times come up with a 4-4 deadlock on an issue, leaving the outcome "in limbo." The most recent example was the decision on whether the Michigan Court of Appeals had the right to investigate a state agency.

Souris, one of the court's more liberal members, was the chief force behind landmark decisions that applied the one-man, one-vote principle to the Legislature and, more recently, to county boards of supervisors. One of the most prolific writers of the court, he authorized 192 opinions between 1964-68.

Civil defense & you

By CHARLES FROST Clinton County Civil Defense Director

It seems that much has been said lately about safety rules. I've found some more you might be interested in; it's put out by ESSA, Environmental Science Services Administration—Weather Bureau. LIGHTNING SAFETY RULES. Their disaster advice goes like this:

WHEN INDOORS, AND LIGHTNING THREATENS stay indoors, and don't venture outside unless absolutely necessary. Stay away from open doors or windows, fireplaces, radiators, stoves, metal pipes, sinks, and plug-in electrical equipment like radios, television sets, lamps, and refrigerators. Don't use plug-in electrical equipment like hair driers, electric toothbrushes, or electric razors during an electrical storm. Don't use the telephone—lightning may strike the lines outside.

WHEN OUTDOORS, DURING A LIGHTNING STORM don't work on fences, telephone or power lines, pipelines, or structural steel fabrication. Don't handle flammable material in open containers. Stop tractor work, especially when the tractor is pulling metal equipment. Dismount and move away. Tractors in open fields are often struck by lightning. Don't use metal objects, like fishing rods and golf clubs. Get out of the water and off small boats. Stay "indoors" in large boats.

SEEK SHELTER FROM LIGHTNING in a building; otherwise, in a cave, ditch, ravine, or under head-high (at least) clumps of growth in open forest glades. Automobiles offer excellent lightning protection, but they are unsafe places when a tornado or severe thunderstorm approaches, with strong winds, due to possibility of destruction by the winds.

WHEN THERE IS NO SHELTER, avoid the highest object in the area (and avoid being the highest object). If only isolated trees are nearby, your best protection is to crouch or lie in the open, keeping at least as far away from isolated trees as they are high. If you have metal on your costume, such as golf spikes, get rid of it—you may be grounded and attract lightning strongly.

AVOID HILLTOPS, wire fences, metal clotheslines, exposed sheds, and any electrically conductive elevated objects. Occasionally, people actually feel that lightning is about to strike. The electrical charge causes their hair to stand on end or their skin to tingle. If this ever happens to you, drop to the ground immediately.

People who are struck by lightning suffer severe electric burns or shock, or both. It is perfectly safe to touch them, and sometimes they can be revived by artificial respiration.

Lightning kills about 160 persons in the average year. It is estimated that 1800 thunderstorms are in progress in the earth's atmosphere at any given moment, and that lightning strikes the earth 100 times every second. Thunderstorms and their attendant lightning occur most frequently in the summer storm season, but lightning takes its toll in every month of the year.

If you want to know how far away lightning is, you can estimate the distance by counting the seconds between the flash and the sound of thunder, when it reaches you, and divide this number by five. The result is the approximate distance in miles.

Harmless Despite Size Most overpowering in appearance of the several hundred species of sharks is the whale shark. It is quite harmless, despite its 45-foot length.

State police plan stepped-up patrol over holiday

With July 4 weekend activities pushing Michigan traffic volume toward high summer levels, state police patrols again will devote special attention to high-risk road areas and hours in efforts to minimize accident potential during the holiday period.

The patrols will be in force from noon Wednesday, July 3, to midnight Sunday, July 7, providing maximum coverage from 3 to at least 9 p.m. daily when traffic volumes are expected to be heaviest. Special consideration will be given to highway sections having had accident experience.

State police aircraft, weather permitting, and motor vehicle inspection personnel also will participate in the holiday patrols.
