116th Year, No. 9 ST. JOHNS, MICH WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1971 15 CENTS

Little Leaguer Greg Wood adjusts his cap to shade some welcomed "glare" in left field.

Lights added at field

ST. JOHNS—Thanks to a lot of hard work by some community minded individuals and groups, there's baseball under the lights nightly in St. Johns.

Some 286 boys are the beneficiaries of auction sales, benefit basketball games and some door pounding by various members of St. Johns area service clubs. The money raised by these projects and individuals was used to purchase and install some 30 lights at the Little League Field on Townsend Rd.

The Little League was begun in 1964 by a former St. Johns high school football coach Bill Smiley, who ran an advertisement in the Clinton County News.

Smiley asked for person interested in forming a Little League. And he got them. Among the first to call were Lou Elsler, George Eberhard, Lee Pederson and Lyle French. From this group and others who had expressed an interest, a board of directors was elected.

They were Jack Downing, Ed Schmitt, Bernard Feldpausch and Jerry Wilcox.

"Those first two years we only had four teams, but by last year the league grew to 12," says Downing. "This year there are 13 Little League teams and five Pony League teams."

Three years ago, the present Little League field was built on land that had been donated by Feldpausch. Games were played in the hot summer sun and a lighted field was just a dream.

Today, the lights are up and there is action at the field with two games scheduled every night.

"We have these lights because of a beautiful group of service clubs and a wonderful community," was the comment of Little League official Ed Schmitt. "It's a good example of what people and a community can do when they work together."

The five service clubs, the Rotary, Lions, Exchange and Jaycees, sponsored projects to raise the money and the St. Johns Boys Club donated the labor. The project was started a year ago May.

"We are still raising money and it is still needed," said Schmitt, "But we did have enough to at least get it started this year."

The lights, 30 in all, alone cost $5,800. With the added cost of the wire, the total is expected to be close to $7,000.

Schmitt said the Little League is thinking of holding an All-Star game later in the summer to raise more revenue for the field. The game will be between the top players of the two leagues, National and American.

"We hope to attract enough interest so the game can become an annual affair," Schmitt said.

For those of you who can't wait, stop by the field any night during the week, and take a peek at what a little co-operation can do.

City plans paving projects, contract goes to Spartan

ST. JOHNS—The City Commission Monday night authorized the awarding of recapping and paving contracts to Spartan Asphalt of Holt for a total of $52,083.43. The work is expected to be completed within 30 days.

The bid, the lowest of three, was based on a price per ton of $10.84. Other bids were from Reith-Riley of Lansing with a bid of $17.50 per ton or $83,659 total, and from the Hicks Company of Alma, with a bid of $14.50 per ton, or a total of $70,165.

The paving, expected to start within 20 days, will include the paving of N. Oakland St. to US-27; E. Cass St. from Baker to Scott and the W. Baldwin and W. McConnell streets from the end of the pavement to the end of the street. All of these streets are now dirt or gravel composition.

Recapping work will include Hampshire and Lambert Streets, Cass St. from Wright to Ottawa, Mead St., between Steele and Lincoln and Walker, from Spring to Brush St.

The recapping will also include numerous intersections and bad spots throughout the city.

The Commission also approved the installation of a 6,500 lumen mercury vapor light at the corner of Scott and Walker, leaving the four existing 2,500 lumen lights remaining. Consumers Power had recommended the replacement of the four lights with five of the mercury vapor lights.

A progress report on the proposed new traffic signal at Sturgis and US-27 was discussed. City Manager Harvey Weatherwax said the drive at the shopping center had been re-located and no left turn signs installed.

"We have done our part, now it's up to the Highway Department," said Weatherwax.

The Highway Department sent a communication to the commission stating they were ready to install the traffic signals, but they would need power at the intersection, and since Consumers Power is on strike, they could not guarantee when the work would be completed.

In reference to US-27 traffic, a letter was received from an Irate Jackson motorist asking if the city could do something to regulate the north-south traffic flow on weekends. The Commission moved to acknowledge receipt of the letter and to forward it to Henrik Stafseth, a director of State Highways, for his consideration.

Another letter, from William Dershem, requested the rental of the city fire department tank truck to fill his swimming pool on Hyde Rd. Council denied the request, stating that city equipment should not be allowed out of town to fill swimming pools.

Commissioner Roy Ebert asked for commission authorization for a study of a well preventive maintenance program to possibly prevent future water shortages.

"We have had three major breakdowns within the past six months, and I feel we should develop a program to have them checked regularly," said Ebert.

Commission agreed, and Manager Weatherwax will investigate the possibilities and report back to the commissions on the estimated costs.

Speaking of the water, Weatherwax told the Commission St. Johns faced no serious water shortage problems at the moment, but added, "If this weather holds on for a long time, we may have to regulate water usage."

Weatherwax said despite the hot weather and the fact that one well was out of service, the city was still in good shape.

The commission also authorized a unit of the Indiana National Guard to use the city park facilities for an overnight stop July 10. The 60 to 80 guardsmen will be stopping in the city on their way to Camp Grayling.

The BOCA Building Code was tabled for further study, and a 1969 park rules ordinance was adopted by the city with one minor change. The Commission expanded the ban on parking on playgrounds and picnic areas to include not only cars, but motorcycles.

The rules were adopted by the Park Board in 1969, but the Commission could not remember if they had ever officially given their approval to the 11 rules.

Gen-Tel begins cable construction here

ST. JOHNS—General Telephone began construction of approximately 18.2 miles of long distance cable last week which is part of a $217,000 project to provide improved toll service and growth between St. Johns, Maple Rapids and Fowler, W.F. Graef, district manager, said today.

Graef is also responsible for all phases of telephone service in the exchanges of Ashley, Pompeii, Middleton, Carson City, Palo, Pewamo, Muir and Hubbardston.

Almost 16 miles of the new cable will be buried on private right of way along Highway M-21 and Forest Hill Road.

The cable is a newly developed type designed for high circuit capacity and having characteristics specifically engineered to minimize noise problems and furnish top grade transmission. After the new cable and associated carriers are in service, the present overhead lines along the route will be removed.

The project is part of General Telephone's 36 million dollar expansion and improvement program in 1971. General Telephone serves over 460,000 telephones in 538 Michigan communities located in 61 of the state's 83 counties.

Trustees reorganize Our House

ST. JOHNS—"Our House," a teen-age drop in center here, will undergo a complete reorganization, it was decided at a regular Board of Trustees meeting Monday (June 21).

A Board of Managers has been established, to be elected by the teen membership, and will be responsible for carrying out the actual operation of "Our House" under the direction of the adult board.

The Board of Managers will appoint work committees from among the teen members to handle the actual operation of the center. The committees will include groups for clean-up, snack counter, record albums, decorating, community projects and membership.

The center is open to any teenager wishing to join, providing the person immediately accepts a position on one of the working committees and actively supports that committee with at least four hours work per month, according to Rev. Hugh Banninga, one of the adult sponsors. Members not carrying out the responsibility will be removed from the membership roster unless excused for good reason by the Board of Managers, Banninga said.

BANNINGA NOTED that all persons in the group are expected to follow the guidelines established by the various boards. An adult will be present in the building at all times that it is open and will have authority for its use, he added.

The basic rules established thus far are:

—Absolutely no alcoholic beverages in "Our House" or on the grounds.

—Absolutely no displaying of posters or painting of a decorative nature unless approved in advance by the teen decorating committee.

—A suggestion box will be available where members may suggest their ideas and their complaints and these will be considered at teen board meetings.

—Full time paid employees will be sought but teen members will still be expected to make their work contribution to "Our House." Full time employees will be under the direction of the Board of Trustees.

—Use of "Our House" facilities will be restricted to teen members and their occasional guests, and the young people of the St. Johns area.

—Adult visitors will be welcome at all times.

—Hostile, provocative behavior directed toward any young person or adult will not be tolerated.

"It is hoped that these guidelines will convince the general public that 'Our House' has been set up to be a respectable teenage drop-in center for the young people of the St. Johns area," Banninga said.

The center "has experienced unbelievable growing pains," he said. "There have been the proverbial 'trials and tribulations,' but now it looks like Our House will make it," he added.

Directors selected

ST. JOHNS—Four new directors will take office when the board of the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce convenes in regular session July 7 following annual elections held during June.

Elected to serve on the board for three year terms are William Swears, Norbert Rehmann, Rollin Huard and Max Field. Huard is currently serving in the capacity of secretary.

In addition to the election of officers, members of the Chamber voted by an overwhelming margin to initiate a re-organization which would assign various activities and projects to board members and general members whose participation in chamber work fall into particular interest areas.

The principal areas proposed include education, retail, industrial, agricultural and general activities.

The four new members represent three of the proposed areas of reorganization, Swears, who is on the administrative staff of the St. Johns School System, will represent the field of education while Rehmann and Field will work in the retail field.

Rehmann is an owner in Rehmann's Clothing and Field operates "The Reminder", a shopping publication. Both businesses are in St. Johns. Huard is associated with Clinton National Bank.

The newly elected directors will assemble with present directors and the group will elect officers for the coming year. In addition to those named officers currently on the board are James Leon, Mel Warren, Stan Cowan, Doug Carpenter, Gerald Dietrich, Bill Patton, Charles Coletta, Wayne Banner, Richard Anderson and Virgil Zeeb.

Deadline change

The Clinton County News business and editorial offices will be closed Monday July 5 so that our employees may enjoy the long 4th of July weekend.

Advertising and editorial deadlines have been changed from the regular times to Friday July 2. All early copy would be greatly appreciated.

Gayle Desprez named Lions club president

ST. JOHNS—Gayle Desprez has been named the 1971-72 president of the St. Johns Lions Club.

Desprez was installed as president of the Lions during ceremonies June 9 during the annual installation night. He was presented with the gavel of office by outgoing president Bruce Lanterman.

Desprez, cashier at the Clinton National Bank, lives with his wife Sally and their three children at 1688 W. Price Rd., St. Johns.

Other officers installed included first vice president Duane Davis, second vice president Samuel Serroll, third vice president William McCarthy, secretary-treasurer Charles Wood, lion tamer Ralph White, tall twister William Kinney, Ross Downing and Herbert Houghton were named directors for two years and James Martindale and Douglas-Carpenter were named directors for one year.

The new officers were installed by District Governor Stuart Anderson of Greenville. Two new members were installed into the local Lions by Past District Governor and Charter president L. Russell Stettens. They were Stanley Simon, 600 Lambert Dr. and Lawrence Howell of 1900 W. Marshall Rd.

Lack of information, salaries beat millage

ST. JOHNS—Some 150 St. Johns school district residents turned out Monday night for an open meeting held by the school board to discuss the June 14 defeat of the 17 mills for operation of the district next school year.

Supt. Earl Lancaster said those who showed up for the two hour session had a variety of complaints, but the major issues seemed to be not enough information prior to the election and the fact that salaries were getting too high.

"Most of them seemed to agree that the newspaper had not done a very good in providing advance information on the election," Lancaster said. "They felt they weren't very well informed. But that is partly our fault because they printed all of the information we gave them."

Lancaster said the other major issue seemed to be that teacher salaries were getting too high and the voters felt they did not want to pay.

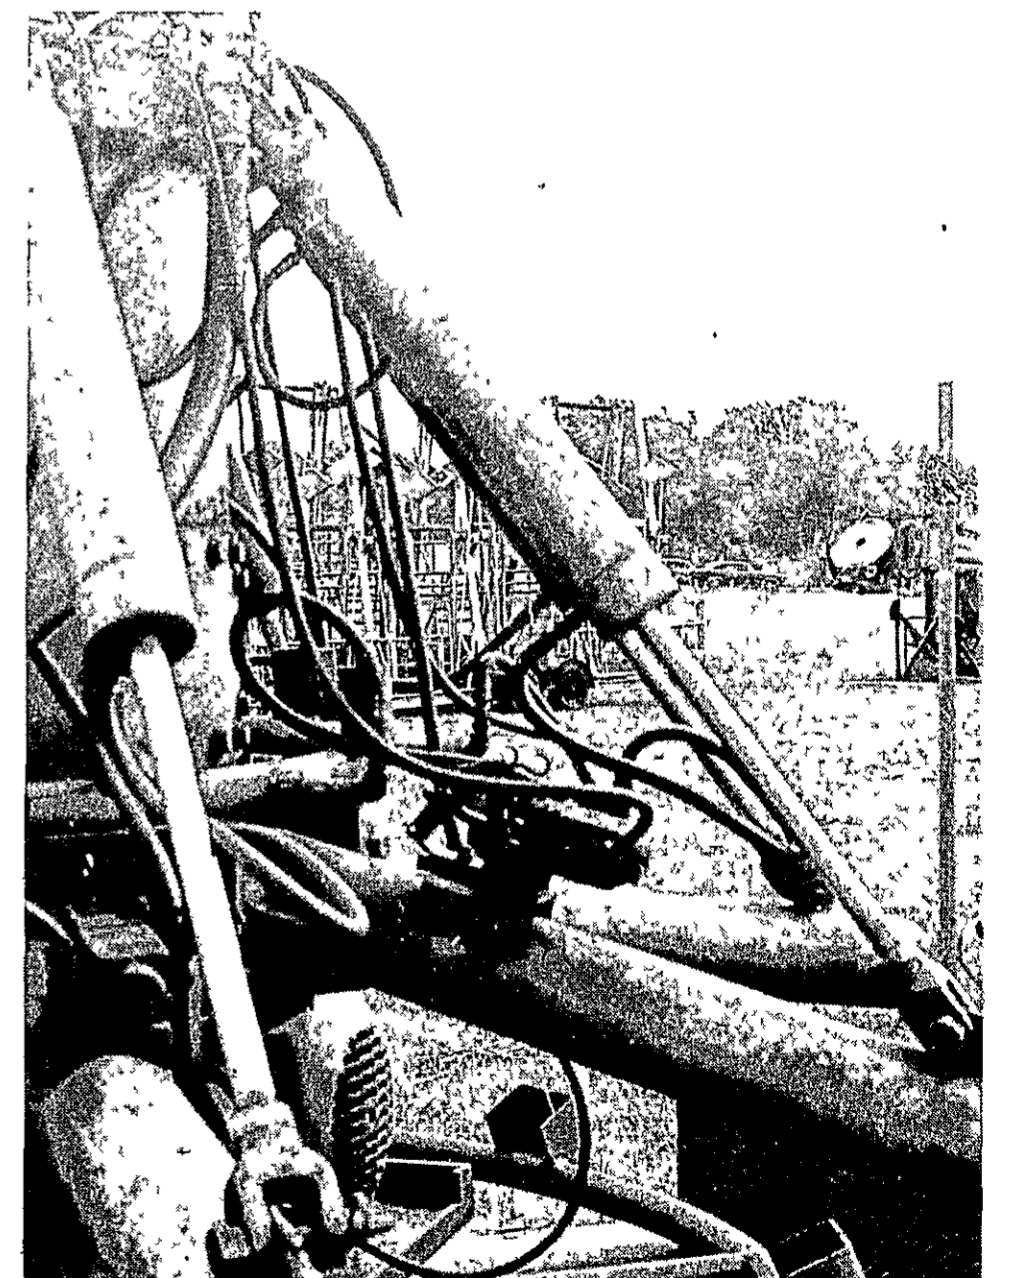

Although salary levels for the coming school year have not been established, it is a known fact the Michigan Education Association is seeking a state-wide base pay for starting teacher of $8,000.

The school board has set a new election date for Aug. 2 but the amount of millage has not been established as yet. That amount will be set at the July 12 reorganization meeting of the board.

"The board is in kind of a bind," said Lancaster. "They don't really know what to do. If we had been beaten by only 50 or 60 votes, we would feel we should try and come back for the same amount again. But we got clobbered by 603 votes, and that's a lot."

The board had sought a renewal of 14.5 which was voted two years ago, and an additional 2.5 mills to cover increased operating expenses. With the loss of the election, the district is faced with no extra voted operating millage for the coming school year. If the Aug. 2 millage does not pass, school children may be faced with the possibility of locked school room doors next September.

GOING UP

At first glance, this strange machine looks like a lunar landing vehicle, but it's really an earth-bound space ride featured at the St. Johns Fourth of July Carnival at Memorial Park. The carnival, sponsored by the St. Johns Fire Department and the Rotary Club, begins today and will run through July 5. Thursday is "Kids Day" with reduced rates on rides from 12 noon to 6 p.m.

School tax break coming

A plan to give people without children a break in paying taxes for schools has been introduced in the House by State Rep. Richard J. Allen (R-Ithaca).

Allen's proposal would increase state income tax exemptions for all adults above the present rate of $1,200 per person, but reduce exemptions for minor dependents to $600—approximately the level for personal exemptions under the federal income tax.

If enacted, the bill would grant a $1,800 exemption to adult taxpayers filing separately; $3,000 for married couples filing jointly; and $1,500 to other adult dependents except spouses. Exemptions for senior citizens and blind persons would be twice the regular rate.

Representative Allen is married and has two young children. He says his plan is founded in fairness.

"Widows, single people and couples without children currently pay a disproportionately high share of our income tax," Allen said.

"It seems likely that we are, at some point, going to move toward greater reliance on the income tax for school financing. Therefore, I believe we should give some consideration to these people.

"The idea of shifting the burden of school financing to the income tax is based on relieving property owners from paying more than a reasonable share of the taxes. I hope we won't end the present form of tax discrimination by simply shifting the discrimination to another group of taxpayers.

"I believe everyone should support our educational system. However, it seems unfair to me to ask people not receiving direct benefits to actually pay more than those who are.

"Under the present tax laws it's possible for a widow living alone to pay higher income taxes on a $5,000 income than a family with six children in school pays on a $13,000 income.

"In the case of my family, we'd end up with a total exemption for two adults and two children of $4,200. That is $800 less in state exemptions than we presently receive, but still far more than we are allowed on federal taxes.

"On the other hand, the widow living alone will have her state exemption increased from $1,200 to $1,800. All things considered, I'd be happy to have my extra $600 exemption to go to her.

"It all relates to fairness," Allen said. "If we are going to revise our tax structure, we should aim for the ultimate in equity."

County thieves busy

ST. JOHNS—The Clinton County Sheriff's office reported several cases of thefts and malicious destruction over the past week. All of the cases are still under investigation.

Deputies said a motorcycle was stolen Monday from the home of Mrs. Douglas Cardy, 5215 E. Frisco Rd. The motorcycle was a Harley Davidson. No estimate of value was given.

Also on Monday, a 14 foot top stock trailer was reported missing from the Hart Trailer Sales north of St. Johns. Deputies believe the trailer may have been used to transport six head of cattle stolen some time Sunday from the St. Johns Stock yards. A riding lawn mower was reported stolen from the Stuckey's gas station at Eagle on Friday. School buses at Elsie were vandalized on Friday according to Deputies. Emergency first aid kits were stolen from a number of the parked buses.

Auto parts and equipment were reported stolen from Bee's Chevrolet at St. Johns also on Friday.

The case is being investigated by the St. Johns Police.

Four golf greens at Highland Hills Golf Course at Alward Lake Rd. and US 27 were extensively damaged June 20 by mini-bike riders. Deputies said greens 2, 11, 12 and 17 were damaged with an estimated amount of loss set at $4,000. Deputies said they have two 19-year-old youths under investigation in the case.

Outdoor notes

LANSING—Michigan's 76 state parks and recreation areas await this season's first big wave of vacationists on Memorial Day weekend, poised and polished with about $3 million worth of finer facilities than a year ago, reports the Department of Natural Resources.

Those improvements, adding a thrust to day-use development and boosting camping accommodations, send these popular parks and recreation areas into their 1971 season with the potential for serving more outdoor users than last year's record totals.

In 1970, Michigan's state park system set new highs by hosting nearly 20.5 million daily visitors and 464,500 camping families.

As of early May, the last period for which figures had been tabulated, this state's parks and recreation areas were off to another record-setting trend, despite the kind of weather which should have chilled the enthusiasm of most visitors and campers.

In 1970, Michigan's state park system set new highs by hosting nearly 20.5 million daily visitors and 464,500 camping families. Compared with a year ago, the first figure was up by some 2 percent while camper use showed an 8-percent gain.

If the sun shines over the Memorial Day weekend, state parks and recreation areas could draw about as many people during a 3-day period as they had attracted through the first part of May, predict DNR parks officials.

Campers pouring into those parks and recreation areas for the holiday weekend will find more than 14,500 sites to serve them, an increase of 180 over last year. Of those campsites, 12,455 are equipped with electricity, which has been extended to 241 additional units for this season.

In a move to offset higher operational costs, which have resulted from the continued expansion of these facilities and the steady upturn in their use, daily fees will be upgraded at most state park campsites on May 15.

Effective then, the overnight charge will be raised from $2 to $2.50 at modern-equipped state park campgrounds which offer electrical service at all sites. At those state park campsites where modern facilities are available except for electrical hook-ups, the daily fee will go up from $1.75 to $2 on May 15.

No rate changes will be made this season for state park campgrounds which provide rustic-type facilities. Those units will continue to carry a basic overnight fee of $1.50 plus a daily charge of 25 cents for the use of electricity.

Also remaining the same as last year are state park vehicle entrance permits which have underwritten more than $17 million worth of capital improvements at these public areas since 1960. The annual windshield stickers are again priced at $3 for residents and $5 for non-residents. Daily permits cost residents $1 and non-residents $2.

New park named after Ovid soldier

OID — A new lighted baseball field will be dedicated Sunday in memory of a local youth who was killed in action last year in Vietnam.

The Grove Bible Church has built the ballfield with a memorial fund given in the memory of Benny Sloat of rural Ovid who died March 19, 1970 while on duty with the Army in Vietnam. The field will be dedicated at ceremonies at 12 noon following the morning worship service. A bronze inscribed plaque will be placed at the park entrance. The inscription reads, "To the glory of God and honor of our Lord Jesus Christ, this field has been prepared, equipped and dedicated in loving memory of Benny Sloat who gave his life in the service of our country in Vietnam, March 19, 1970." The field will be used in connection with the church's softball program which sponsors eight teams.

Lietzke among young geologists

URBANA, ILL. — Forty-five students and seven staff members left June 21 from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign for Sheridan, Wyo., and the university's 21st annual Geology Summer Field Camp. Before returning Aug. 14 they will have covered 6,500 miles and examined many geologic features not available at the mid-Illinois campus. For the 16th summer, headquarters will be at Sheridan College.

Among the students will be Theodore Lietzke, 8405 Chadwick Rd., DeWitt, from Adrian College.

On the way to Sheridan they will study the geology of the northern Middle West and Black Hills, stopping June 21 in Baraboo, Wis.; June 22 in Sioux Falls, S.D.; June 23 in Rapid City, S.D.; June 24 in Spearfish, S.D., and arriving June 25 in Sheridan.

From Sheridan College, studies will be made in the Big-horn Mountains, July 16-22. The group will visit Yellowstone Park, the Grand Tetons and other points to study geology of the northern Rockies.

Work will include techniques of measuring and describing formations and various methods of mapping, including aerial photographs. Field work will include a short flight over the mapping area.

Final examinations are Aug. 9-10, and the return trip begins Aug. 12 with stops in Ogallala, Neb., and Des Moines, Iowa. Students pay U of I summer session fees and the cost of transportation, lodging and meals and receive university academic credit for the summer work.

Ferris' Norm Bennet quits coaching

BIG RAPIDS—Norm Bennet, primary architect of Ferris State's track program.

The dean of Ferris State's active coaching staff will remain at the college as a health and physical education instructor, but his request to be relieved of his coaching duties has been approved.

Bennet, who coached the Redwings for eight seasons between 1949 and 1956, is considered the Bennet took over the program from now-retired coach Sam Ketchman and built it into its present solid state which includes participation of approximately 40 athletes each winter and spring.

"He is probably the most successful coach in Ferris' history of athletics," noted Dr. H. D. Peterson, athletic director and head of the Health and Physical Education department here. "In all his years of coaching at Ferris, he has never had a losing season. His enthusiasm and dedication to our track program will be sorely missed," Peterson added.

The crew-cut cinder boss, producer of Ferris' only national champion, began elevating the sport by initiating the annual FSC Outdoor Invitational. The popular meet completed its 13th consecutive running in May with 11 midwestern colleges competing.

Indoor track was next and Bennet got it rolling in 1965 upon completion of Ferris' Health and Physical Education building, one of the finest indoor track facilities in the state. Today, Ferris is among the NIAA district 23 powerhouses in both sports, and numerous Bulldog athletes have represented the college in the association's national meets.

Bennet, who also served as assistant football coach under Ketchman during his first eight years at Ferris, estimates more than 1,000 college athletes have called him coach over the past 15 years, most of them in track.

"I'd hate to think of having missed what I would have over the last 23 years had I not been a coach," Bennet said. "My association with athletes, coaches and the entire athletic family has certainly been rewarding."

Bennet described the mood of athletics from a coaches standpoint. "I've seen the look of victory — and defeat — in the faces of hundreds of athletes, and it had been a fulfilling experience."

Bennet cannot muffle his proudest moment in coaching which transpired last spring when Corey Bouyer set the national NIAA record in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles at Billings, Mont., last June.

"I remember running the last few yards with Corey and the agonizing wait before the time was officially posted," he recalls. "And when it was finally announced at 50.9 seconds (the long delay was due to the fact a national record was pending), I threw my arms around Bouyer and may have even cried a little," Bennet said.

"That had to be the greatest coaching moment of my life." The coaching must have paid off for Bouyer, since he leaves shortly for a try-out with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Canadian Football League.

Bennet, a collegiate track and football participant, was graduated from Central Michigan University in 1949 after a four-year military hitch. He served with the U.S. Marine Corp during World War II from 1942-46.

The stern-appearing mentor came to St. Johns High School in the fall of 1949 as head of the school's physical education department and the city's recreation program.

But his coaching duties included only football and golf — not track which wasn't in the Redwing program at the time.

Bennet, who was head football coach here in his final three years, likes to point out he's really only had two jobs in his 23-year athletic-tutoring career.

Bennet was given a standing ovation during a special salute at Ferris' annual spring sports banquet earlier this month.

He was presented with an inscribed gold watch from his 1971 squad. Intramural director Frank Karas made the presentation to the outgoing coach.

OID-ELSIE—The Marauders are without the services of two members of their coaching staff following the resignations of varsity baseball coach John Goebel and junior varsity basketball coach Richard Hose.

Both men resigned to spend more time with their families, and both will remain as teachers within the system.

Goebel served nine years as varsity baseball coach with an impressive record of 81 victories and 30 defeats. During his tenure, Goebel had three championship teams in the old Central Michigan C Conference and a second place finish.

In the Mid-Michigan B League, he has led his teams to three additional championships and a third place finish in five years. In 1966, his team went undefeated in the conference, but tied one game and in 1968, the Marauders had nine wins and one loss. His 1967 team won the Fowlerville tournament and they were runners-up in 1968.

Goebel is a biology teacher at Ovid-Elsie High School. Hose is ending a five year career as coach of the Little Marauders basketball team, compiling an overall record of 53 wins and 27 losses. His best season record was 14-2 and his worst, 8-8.

The 1971 Big Ten baseball championship won by Michigan State was the first for the Spartans since the 1954 season.

Prior to taking over the JV duties at O-E, Hose coached a year of eighth grade basketball at Cadillac, two years of seventh, eighth and ninth grade basketball at Ovid, three years of JV basketball at Ovid and a year of freshman football at Ovid-Elsie. Hose teaches mathematics at Ovid-Elsie High School.

CLINTON AVENUE FIRE

St. Johns firemen were called out Saturday morning to halt a blaze at 606 S. Clinton Avenue. Damage was caused by smoke and water. Firemen speculated that the blaze was caused by faulty wiring. No injuries were reported.

Tent revival planned on 4th

ST. JOHNS—July 4 will begin a month long crusade six miles north of St. Johns. A 1,000 seat tent will be erected on the property of Beck's Farm Market. Each night at 7:30 such musical groups as The Singing Avilas, The Keynotes, Overholt Trio, Ott Family Trio, Vandlen Family, Circuit Riders, Sherwoods, and the Capital Airs will sing and play under the big tent. Carloads of people are expected from Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio, as well as interested parties from all over Central Michigan. With the current Jesus Movement so popular at this time, this could well be the largest meeting of its kind this summer in Michigan. Chairman and program coordinator, Rev. Calvin Kaufman, asserts that this movement started a year ago as he and other pastors in the area began meeting weekly for prayer. As denominational barriers fell, a bond of love formed among these ministers. With their new found unity came a burning desire to reach outside the sanctuary in a combined effort. After prayerful consideration, the group decided on this Tent Crusade as some thing specific they could do in Central Michigan. Speakers for the meeting will be Rex Major and Wesley Smith. Rex is an evangelist from the Bahamas and will be speaking July 4 and 5. Wes is the author of MISSION IMPOSSIBLE, and will continue from July 6. Smith is an ex-school teacher who has preached from coast to coast in churches, colleges and universities, high schools, hippie communes, beaches, prisons, and ghettos. Straight from the Bible preaching will be emphasized. Song leader for the Crusade will be Chuck VanLente, formerly with the State Police.

Participating ministers to date: Burt Cole, Harold Cox, Charles VanLente, — United Methodist; Bill Hunt, Bob Shellhouse, — United Brethren; Fred Wingard, Full Gospel Pentecostal; Calvin Kaufman, — Mennonite; Paul Jones, — Congregational Christian; Carl Stone, — Church of God; Albert Gibbons, — Retired; John Hurst, — Church of the Brethren; and Richard Gleason, Free Methodist.

Residents warned FB against auto plan of 'new' crime

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County Sheriff's Department Detective Richard May today warned Clinton County residents of a new type of breaking and entering.

May said police have uncovered a new method of crime in and around the Lansing area, and he warned county residents to be on the alert.

"There is apparently a group of people who watch the obituary columns in the newspapers and while the bereaved family is attending the funeral, the thieves break into the homes," May said.

He cited a recent Clinton County case reported June 23. May said a widow, Mrs. Florence Zacharias left her home at 13313 S. Forest Hill Rd. at 8:30 a.m. to attend the funeral of her husband. When she returned at 11:10, her home had been entered and ransacked.

May said police feel she may have surprised the culprits on her return and they escaped, May said nothing was taken in this instance.

"We have information which leads us to believe this method of operation is being used by thieves in the area and we want to warn all county residents to be on the alert for this type of crime," May said.

Persons having any information of crimes of this type are asked to call the Clinton County Sheriff's office at St. Johns.

One of the State's major insurers has taken a strong stand against pending No-fault legislation which would affect Michigan auto insurance regulations.

Spokesmen for Farm Bureau Insurance Group, a multiple-line firm headquartered in Lansing, have charged the No-fault concept is being misrepresented to consumers. N.L. Vermillion, Executive Vice President, says the public has been led to believe proposed liability changes will automatically lower insurance premiums and eliminate claim settlement delays.

"There is no proof to substantiate implied claims made by proponents that a No-fault insurance system will lower premium costs," Vermillion stated. "It is just as possible, perhaps more probable, that rates would have to be increased. Accidents would still have to be thoroughly reviewed and disputes would still have to be settled."

State and federal lawmakers are currently considering several No-fault proposals. Most versions would add non-fault medical costs and income loss provisions to present liability coverages. Insureds would seek settlement from their own company, up to maximum amounts, regardless of who caused the accident.

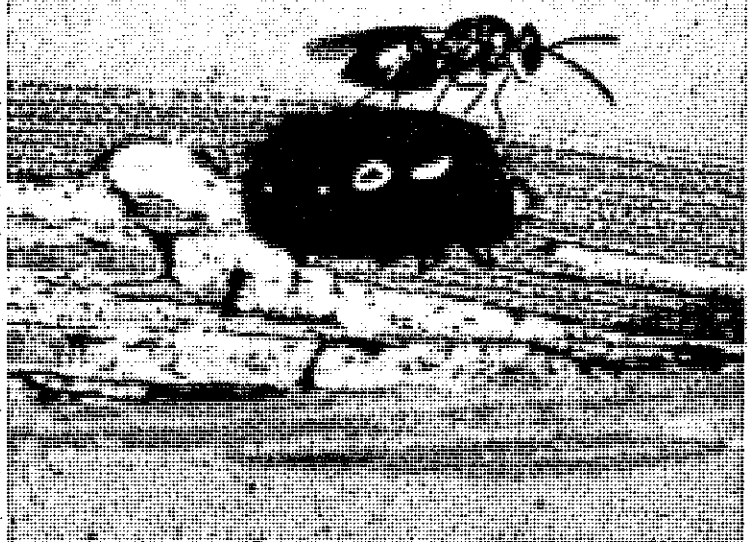

Vermillion suggested the No-fault principle is virtually untested in practical application and should be subjected to further study before legislation is passed. The firm proposes a three-point investigation and information program including 1) formation of a consumer-legislative-insurance industry committee to study effectiveness of the No-fault program initiated recently in Massachusetts, 2) establishment of a "Test County" in Michigan for measuring No-fault's potential effect on insurance rates and settlements and 3) development of a public information program.

Farm Bureau is currently distributing background material regarding the No-fault issue throughout the state.

"The public has a right to know exactly what it can expect under the No-fault concept—and ultimately, the right to vote yes or no. At this point, no one, including the insurance industry, knows what the ramifications would be," Vermillion concluded.

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family.

The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Respectfully,

Careless cooks

Careless cooks keep the home fires burning. Thanks to these same careless cooks, kitchen fires rank third in the nation, close behind careless smoking and children playing with matches.

It takes only a "minute" of telephoning or answering the doorbell for a skillet of hot grease or a broiler pan to flame up. A full blown fire can then be underway.

When the telephone or doorbell rings, turn off the stove before you leave the kitchen. Time lost to do this, or to reheat the skillet can save property and even lives.

If you are faced with a grease fire, remain calm. Shut off the stove if at all possible. Don't try to move the pan. You could set yourself on fire or spill the grease all over yourself. Grease or oil burns can be extremely serious and painful. Never pour water onto the pan. Water makes grease spatter. Don't throw flour onto the fire - it might explode.

If you don't have at hand a commercial fire extinguisher, stand back and freely toss handfuls of baking soda onto the flames. Baking soda smothers the fire.

A helpful aid is a Fire Pall. Youngsters enjoy making them and they can be life savers.

Use an empty one pound coffee can, or lard pail or similar container that has a cover. Paint it a bright color - preferably red, but maybe you'd like it to match your kitchen color harmony. Make it distinctive and easily seen. You could paint "Fire Pall" on it. Fill it with ordinary baking soda and put it in a spot near the range, yet where you can easily reach it in case of need.

Prevent a fire first, but know how to combat it if one does occur.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and approached the altar wearing a gown of silk organza trimmed with eyelet embroidery over the front and the sleeves. The gown featured a scoop neckline, long sheer organza sleeves which were gathered into a cuff with a tiny button closing. The eyelet embroidered front was accented with a pale blue ribbon underlay and a blue ribbon bow with streamers set off the empire-waistline. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion was secured in place by a headpiece of lace flowers, accented with bows and pearls and she carried an arrangement of orchids, pink roses and white carnations.

The attendants wore floor-length dresses of blue polysatin featuring short puff sleeves and a high waistline which was accented with a band of heavy white lace. Best man was Dennis Schavey of Lansing, brother of the groom and assisting as groomsmen were Jeff Buchin of Lansing, brother-in-law of the groom, Michael Flegel of Elgin, Ill., brother-in-law of the bride and James Roof of Lansing, cousin of the groom. The bathroom

Planning to build or remodel this year? Once upon a time one bathroom served an entire household. Then we saw the bath- and a-half arrangement and then a completely separate bathroom for the master bedroom.

Many families are finding the bathrooms the busiest and fullest rooms in the house. Grooming needs time plus soap, running water and various preparations and appliances.

The newest and perhaps least expensive solution now seems to be the bedroom lavatory. It's sort of a return to yesteryear when each bedroom had its own washstand, pitcher and bowl.

TODAY'S VERSION is a bit more elaborate with a handsome cabinet vanity with plenty of space for grooming aids on the wash basin countertop and storage area below. Besides taking the strain off bathroom facilities, a bedroom vanity provides real convenience. It can be large or small depending on space available. You can select from a wide variety of wood finishes, bowl color and styles.

If you do have remodeling or building plans and your family seems to have problems sharing the bathroom you might like to consider the bedroom vanity. They can be attractively built on a straight wall, or recessed in a manner that they can be closed off with folding doors.

Fad diets

Are you a fad dieter? Do you get fired up to lose weight, and then expect miracles from skipping lunch or giving up all types of bread?

Such radical changes in your dietary habits probably aren't necessary. And, chances are you'll soon be back to your old habits.

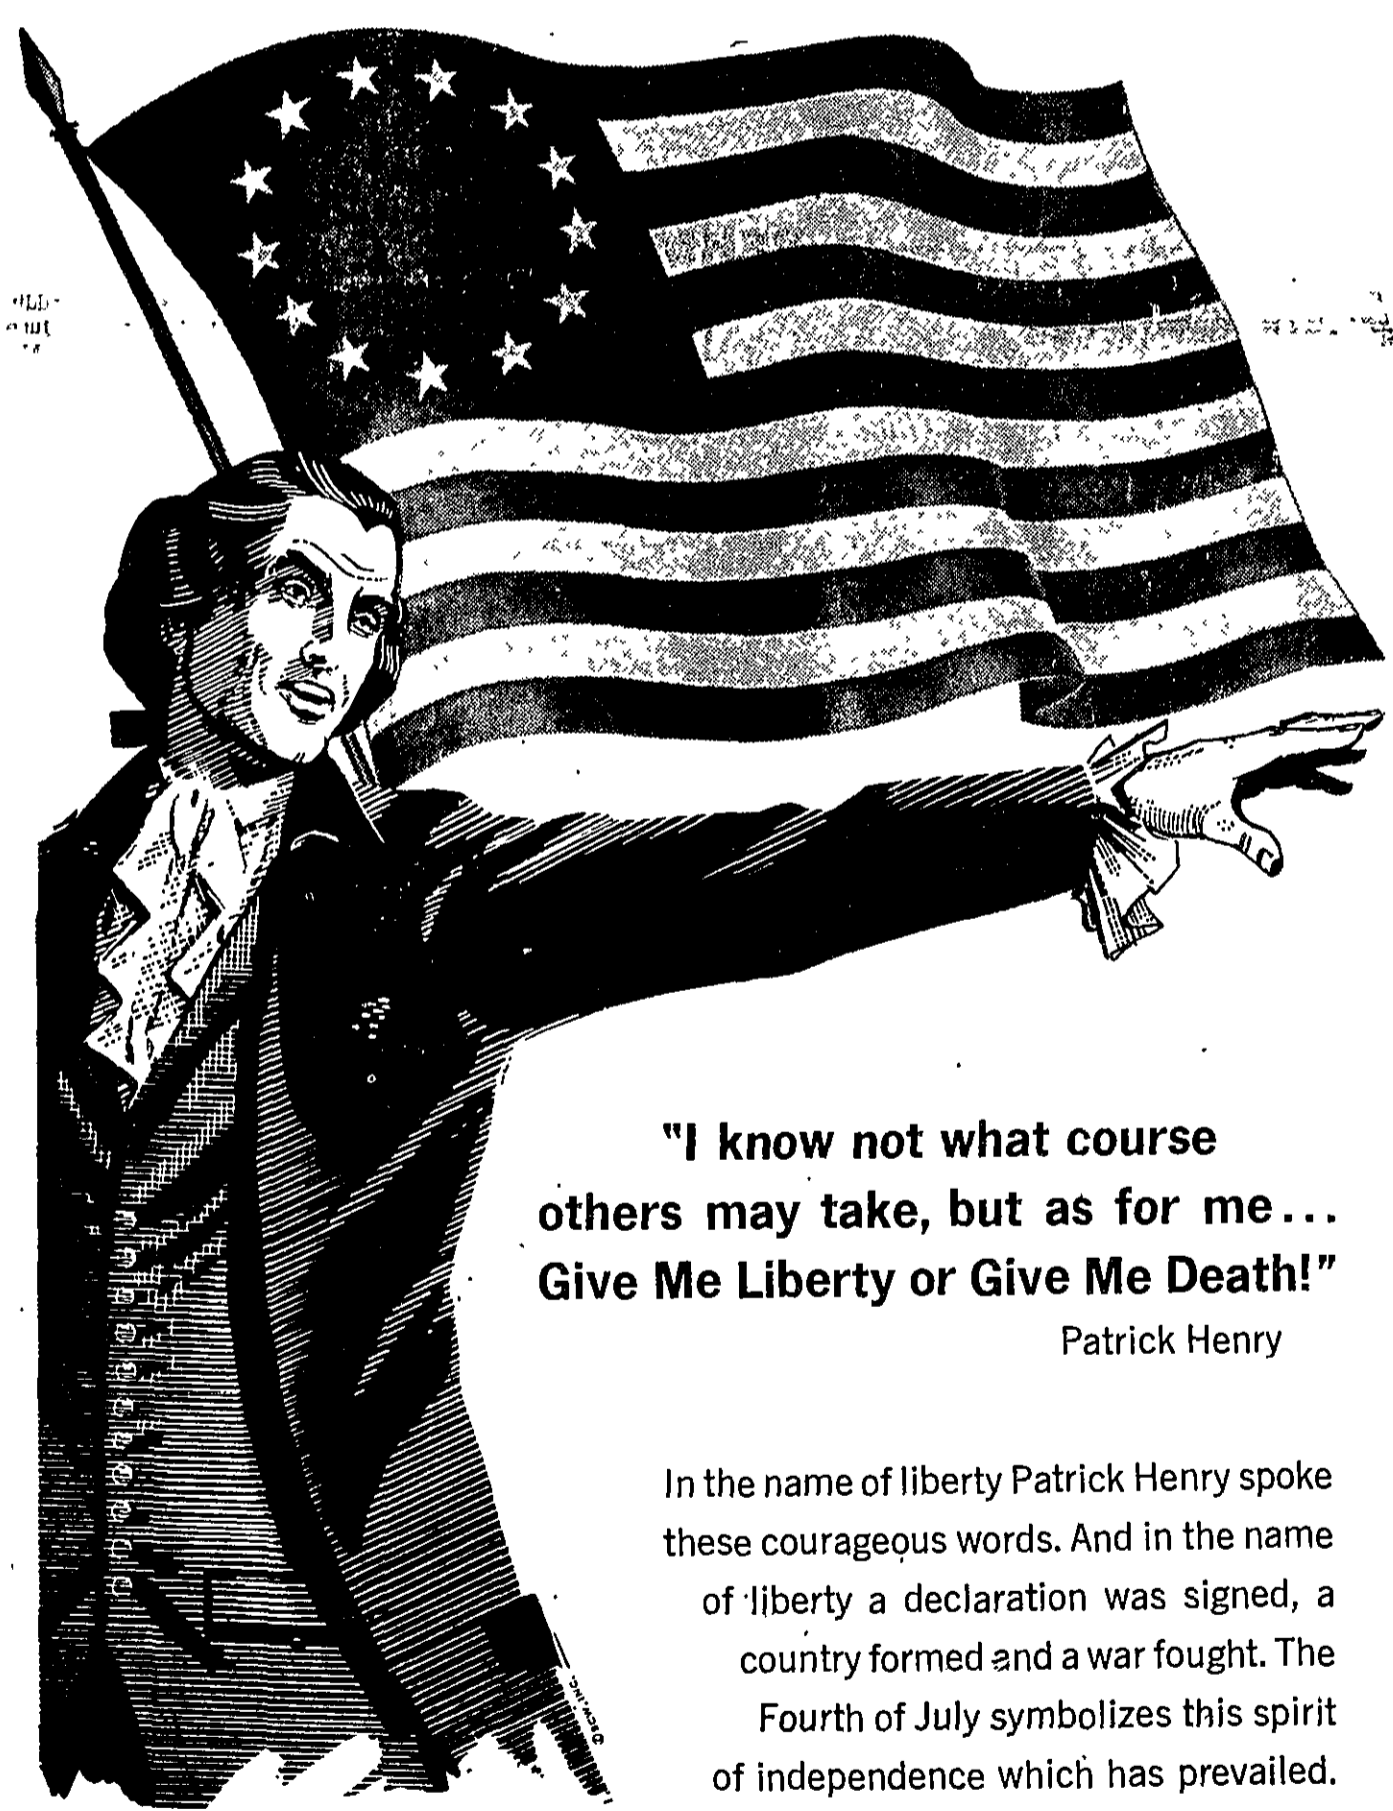

A good diet must begin with what you are eating now. Start with the last 24 hours. What did you eat during that time—everything from jelly to dessert topping?

List each food and the size of serving in one column, and where you ate it in another. Then assign each food to its category in the basic four food groups: meat; milk; bread and cereal; and fruits and vegetables. Also make a separate list of sweets, fats, etc.—the "sugar and spice and everything nice" we tend to eat and then forget.

IN ORDER to get the food nutrients you need, as well as minimum calories (1,100 to 1,200), you should eat daily at least two servings each of meat and milk products and at least four servings each from the bread-cereal and fruit-vegetable categories.

Be honest and accurate in your tally. You'll be surprised at what it will show about your daily and weekly eating patterns. Maybe you won't need to give up all snacks or desserts. Maybe you can choose between extremes and enjoy fewer servings of the foods you like.

In the name of liberty Patrick Henry spoke these courageous words. And in the name of liberty a declaration was signed, a country formed and a war fought. The Fourth of July symbolizes this spirit of independence which has prevailed.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE
News Advertising Manager

We are pleased to say that the Bowler's Yearbook is a part of the County News this week. Pictures of 279 teams from Redwing Lanes, Fowler Bowl, Tri-Aml Bowl and Westphalia K of C are featured.

Any pictures appearing in the Yearbook can be ordered and are available in two sizes, 5 x 7 or 8 x 10. The cost is $1.50 and $2. The order form can be found in the Yearbook, . . . and if you would like a picture of your team . . . please allow about two weeks for delivery.

We thank everyone who helped in the preparation of the yearbook and special thanks to Herm Thelen of Westphalia K of C and Roger Hall of Fowler Bowl. Along with their other duties Herm and Roger took time to take the pictures of their teams. And, an excellent job, they did.

One of the things we didn't do in the Yearbook because of lack of space, was to list the County News' Bowlers of the Week . . . so to our Bowlers of the Week, we extend our congratulations.

During the 1971-72 season, the County News will again honor the high series rolled by a man and woman, so start practicing.

NO BRAG, JUST FACT DEPT.
—The temperature in the U.P. is a comfortable 70-75 degrees compared to 95-100 degrees in Mid-Michigan.

We don't tan. We learned that lesson the hard way many years ago. We were going to get a tan or know the reason why. The reason why . . . is that we burn . . . red, red burn . . . lay on our stomach for a week type burn. Since then, we haven't tried. Big Mama tans. A fact she points out everytime we go to the lake. We spend our time in and under the water, safe from the sun. She sits on the rafts and tans.

Now, our policy has been "live and let live" . . . "to each his own" . . . and all like that. But that woman has gone too far. She's taken to calling us "Whitey" and explaining to total strangers that her "pasty white" husband isn't sick, he looks like that all the time. She even went so far as to buy us a tube of Q.T. lotion. Well now, in our defense of all non-tanners we say to the Big M and her kind . . . the sun worshipping show-offs . . . YOU PEOPLE ARE DISCOLORED. Tattle tale brown. You don't look healthy, you look like you should bathe.

And besides that, when your skin resembles oak bark in a few years, we non-tanners will still look like the after picture in a Jergens ad, so help me, Sea and Ski.

WESTPHALIA SEWER SYSTEM GOES IN

Construction of an estimated $1 million sewer system for the Village of Westphalia is progressing this week. Sewer pipes are being laid on two miles of major streets and five miles of local roads. Construction of the lagoon system was scheduled to start this week. The project, expected to be completed next year, will also include construction of four lift stations.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q My mother, whom I claim as a dependent, plans to take a part-time job. Has there been a change in the amount of gross income which a person may have and still be claimed as a dependent?

of less than $650. This compares to $625 for 1970. Of course, the other four dependency tests must also be met.

Q Does the Internal Revenue Service pay interest to the taxpayer when it is late in issuing a refund?

A) Yes. However, the IRS has 45 days from the due date of the return or the date of filing, whichever is later, to issue a refund without payment of interest. If it takes longer than that, interest at an annual rate of 6 percent from the due date or the date of filing, whichever is later, is added to the refund.

Q My partner and I have decided to incorporate our business. Must we get a new Employer Identification number?

A) Yes. You must apply for a new Employer Identification number for the use of the new corporation.

The new E. I. number must be used on all current returns, payments, and tax deposits. Use of the old E. I. number will mean that your transaction would not be properly credited.

A new E. I. number must also be obtained when a business changes from a sole proprietorship to a partnership, or from a partnership to a sole proprietorship.

St. Mary's plans 135th celebration at Westphalia

COMMUNITY SYMBOL

St. Mary's Church towers above all the other buildings of Westphalia, and is symbolic of the strength of the community. The Parish and village will celebrate their 135th anniversary this Sunday, July 4.

Bill Nunemaker attends

Goshen college preview

GOSHEN, Ind.—Bill Nunemaker, R-1, St. Johns was among 83 students from eight states and Canada to take part in a week of events introducing them to college life and studies at Goshen College June 12-19.

Students selected the interest area of their choice and were screened by the college before their arrival. Offered this summer were art, directed by Dr. Marvin Bartel; music, directed by Drs. Mary Oyer and Dwight Weldy; and a selection of workshops for high school juniors in College Preview.

If orchestra, choir, and art were not to Previewers' liking, they could choose between biological ecology, taught by Dr. Jonathan Roth, or international studies, taught by Prof. Arlin Hunsberger.

In addition to daily classes and convocations, practice sessions and lessons for music students, and studio sessions and workshops for art students, the guests were treated to a faculty concert, socials, a chicken barbecue, an outing at Pokagan state park, and privileges to attend college classes during the spring trimester.

Music students performed in a chamber music concert in the tree-lined Schrock Plaza and in a final concert in the Church-Chapel.

Parents of the students were hosted by the college, June 12-13, given campus tours, entertained at a special program, and provided hospitality on campus.

Other opportunities for high school students to take part in college activities include Campus Open House weekends in the fall and spring. College-bound persons are also welcome to visit and tour the campus and admissions officials will be pleased to make arrangements for them.

WESTPHALIA — If you like your Sunday afternoons spiced with a little German flavor, then drive over to Westphalia Sunday afternoon.

German food, drink and music will be the order of the day when St. Mary's Parish celebrates their 135th anniversary from noon to sometime Monday morning.

The festivities get underway at noon with a picnic on the parish grounds. A flag raising with a veteran's color guard and local boy scouts participating is scheduled for 1 p.m.

The children's parade will follow at 1:30 featuring floats and the Pewamo-Westphalia High School Band. Sky divers are scheduled to float down on the festivities around 3 p.m.

The Westphalia Brass Band, under the direction of Paul Koster will perform in concert at 7 p.m. and they will be followed by the Westphalia Men's Glee Club, singing traditional German Folk songs at 8 p.m. A dance will cap off the festivities, getting underway at 9 p.m. and lasting until 12:30 a.m.

In addition to the scheduled events, there will be rides for the kids, including a children's ferris wheel, pony rides, games, prizes and concessions.

A country kitchen featuring homemade breads and pies will be available as will a cafeteria for those who wish to eat.

All year long, the 2,350 members of the parish have been getting ready for the festival. This week, last minute details have been ironed out and the breads and pies are just about all baked.

Quilts and other needle work of the women of the parish will be offered for sale.

The parish and the village were founded 135 years ago in 1836 by a German Catholic priest, Fr. Anton Kopp and six pioneers.

The parish of Westphalia which they founded, is the oldest parish in the Lansing Diocese. The first church, a log structure, was built in 1837 under Fr. Kopp's direction, and cost a total of $90.35.

Rev. George Godez, who followed Fr. Kopp, built the second church with the third structure being completed in 1847.

A larger church was later constructed, which contained the ornate trappings brought over from Germany. The structure stood some 90 years before it was burned to the ground in 1959, the victim of a fire caused by a roofing accident.

The parish, which began with six persons, has grown to some 2,350 members including 580 families. The village, which has a population of 825 today, has experienced a 42 per cent growth in the past 10 years, one of the largest in the county.

Westphalians have a lot to be proud of. Besides the new church, built after the fire, they have a new township hall, a new parochial school, a new fire barn with new equipment and they are putting in a $1 million sewer system this year.

"Our growth over the past 10 years has been amazing," says Gregg Thelen, former mayor. "It has been mostly young people, which is surprising. In most smaller communities, young people are leaving rather than moving in."

There was a note of sadness in the community last February when Fr. Aloysius Miller was stricken with a stroke. The spiritual leading and guiding hand of the parish for the past 25 years suddenly was not able to function anymore.

"We've had a lot of help," says Thelen. "Things have gone on as normal."

The parish has received help from several retired priests in the community and from "Father Martin," Fr. Martin Miller, brother of the stricken priest.

Fr. Miller is reportedly improving, but he won't be on hand for the anniversary this Sunday. A new administrator of the parish, Fr. James Smith, will join the parish July 1.

"We are ready," says festival co-chairman Alvin Hengesbach. "Everything is going fine, and it will be just as big a celebration as it always has been."

And on Sunday, there will be a celebration with a definite German flavor.

Outdoor notes

SOUTHERN MICH PHEASANT year, reports the Department of Natural Resources. The increase is based upon the DNR's crowing counts of ringnecks along 50 regular survey routes in that part of the state during the first half of May. Under this spring's census, DNR wildlife specialists recorded an average of 6.6 pheasant calls at each of their 2-minute stop-points on those routes. Last spring, they heard 5.8 crowing calls of male pheasants at each of these roadside listening posts. This spring's survey shows that pheasant breeding populations have made their biggest gain in the southwestern sector which covers Barry, Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Cass, Kalamazoo, St. Joseph, and Van Buren counties. Crowing counts in that part of the state were 67 percent higher than last year, with most of that increase occurring in Berrien, Van Buren, and Kalamazoo counties. The popular game birds also have made a substantial upturn -- 32 percent -- in the western area which includes Ottawa and Allegan counties.

Compared with last spring, pheasants have held their own in the Thumb Area of Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, and St. Clair counties. Their numbers are also about the same as last spring in the southeastern area which embraces Hillsdale, Macomb, Lenawee, Monroe, and Washtenaw counties. Only southern Michigan's central area showed a decline among the birds this spring. Latest crowing counts were down about 15 percent in that area which covers Clinton, Eaton, Ingham, Ionia, Gratiot, and Shlawassee counties.

The northwestern part of Allegan County produced this spring's highest pheasant calls, with counts there averaging 27.9 for every 2-minute stop. The next most frequent calls were heard along survey routes in Berrien County where they figured out to 22.4 at each listening post. Latest counts there doubled last spring's average. Noticeable increases in pheasant crowing counts were also registered by DNR wildlife workers in Hillsdale, Kalamazoo, and Van Buren counties.

Listed below, by areas, are the average crowing counts tallied at the survey's mile-apart stop-points:

Thumb Area -- 2.5; Southeastern Area -- 8.6; Central Area -- 4.5; Southwestern Area -- 7.7; and the Western Area -- 13.7.

DNR pheasant specialist Victor S. Janson is "encouraged" by this spring's survey results and the potential they hold for a larger ringneck crop in 1971. He notes:

"The whole pheasant picture for this fall now hinges on the success of the birds' current nesting season. So far the situation looks pretty good. The birds' breeding populations are better than last year and weather conditions seem to be generally favorable through the early part of their nesting season."

Janson reports that this year's hatching peak for pheasants should come in mid-June.

The success of the birds' nesting season will sharpen into focus after southern mail carriers conduct their annual pheasant brood counts in late July and early August.

Janson "guesstimates that southern Michigan hunters took 450,000 or more ringnecks last fall, based on field checks made at the onset of the season. The most accurate estimate of last season's pheasant kill will come in the next few weeks when the DNR completes its postcard survey of licensed hunters.

Janson points out that this spring's crowing count figures are not yet in from the southern tier of counties in northern Lower Peninsula, which makes up the state's fringe pheasant range. However, judging from winter observations, he doesn't look for much change in that area's low pheasant population.

DNR REACTIVATING INFORMATION SERVICE ON STATE PARK CAMPING VACANCIES IN MICH

LANSING -- Starting June 14, latest rundowns on state park campsite vacancies in Michigan will be within telephone reach and available at six Tourist Information Centers under a camper service being reactivated by the Department of Natural Resources.

The popular system, to remain in operation through September 3, played an important role in boosting last year's camper use at state parks by more than 13 percent over the season before. Linked to the services phone-in points are the DNR's Detroit Information Office and its Roscommon field office. Calls to either of these two offices will tell recreationists where they can find campsite openings at state parks throughout Michigan.

The Detroit Information Office's call number for camping inquiries is 868-1640. That service outlet is listed under Area Code 313 and may be dialed for camping information any weekday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., beginning June 14.

The DNR's Roscommon hotline for campers will be on call every day, including weekends, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. It can be reached by phoning 275-8041 under Area Code 517.

Campers are advised that collect and toll free calls cannot be made to the DNR's offices.

Latest Michigan-wide listings of state park vacancies will be available to campers who drive into Tourist Information Centers of the State Highway Department, located at Mackinaw City, Sault Ste. Marie, Clare, Coldwater, Port Huron, and Monroe.

Before leaving home or after already being on the road, vacationers can also "touch base" with state parks in their areas to learn about available campsites at other parks which are within reasonable driving distance.

DNR PLANES EAGER BEAVERS TO STOP WILD FIRES IN REG.

LANSING -- The Department of Natural Resources' two "Beaver" planes seen swooping down and taking off from lakes in northern Lower Michigan in recent days have been on important battle missions against forest fires, not performing aerial acrobatics as some local residents have complained.

As a matter of fact, the "eager Beavers" have made 70 bombing runs and dropped nearly 10,000 gallons of water on wild fires in that part of the state within the last few weeks.

In loading up for such "drops", the pontooned, tank-equipped planes are touched down on lakes close to going fires and taxied at about 55 miles per hour across the surface of those waters. As they skim across the lakes, snorkels are dropped in the water to fill the planes' tanks.

In only about 7 seconds after touch-down, each plane's tank is fully loaded with 125 gallons of water (weighing about 1,000 pounds) and the Beavers are again nosed into the air.

"At that take-off point, our fully loaded planes are not very maneuverable and curious pleasure boaters often create a hazard for us and themselves," reports Fred Van Simaey, the DNR's regional Beaver pilot based out of Roscommon.

In three recent fires, Van Simaey and the DNR's other Beaver pilot, Jerry Johnston, have made crucial water drops over disabled fire-fighting units on the ground to prevent losses of men and machinery. In another "bomb run," Van Simaey and Johnston teamed up with their planes to knock out a forest fire without the help of ground support.

The sight of the boxy Beavers coming in at tree-top level and "raining" their loads over going fires has been a welcome one for the DNR's ground crews this spring, especially during one recent hot and hectic period when 30 wild fires were burning at the same time in the northern Lower Peninsula.

From the pilot's point of view, those Beaver bomb runs climax into a "hot smelly, smoky, and turbulent ride, about six feet off the tree tops at 70 m.p.h., just before the drop is made," says Van Simaey.

He explains that his plane and Johnston's must be flown low when the water is released to make sure that the water thoroughly penetrates through the trees to douse the ground and cool the leading edge of fires. Both the DNR's water-bombing Beavers are docked at the Higgins Lake Conservation School where they are kept on a battle alert during hazardous fire periods such as this spring's.

The men who fly them are seasoned pilots. Van Simaey is a veteran pilot of 18 years, four of them with the DNR. Johnston brings 14 years of flying experience to the task when he climbs behind the controls of his Beaver.

'71 TEACHERS ENVIRONMENTAL SCHOOL NOW OPEN

LANSING -- Enrollment Applications are now being accepted by the Department of Natural Resources for the 1971 Teachers' Environmental School at Higgins Lake which this summer will "open the book" on lessons to be learned from the current crunch of civilization.

The school, bracketed into 5 separate Sunday-through-Friday sessions, will take a critical, probing look at urban blight, air and water pollution, repercussions of the population explosion, and other environmental problems of these dynamic times. It will be programmed to help educators be "right on" when they use their own classrooms to explain environmental gaps to their students.

For more information and application forms covering the 1971 School write:

Sourdough

By HELEN MEACH
Extension Home Economist

Good food is an important part of summer fun. This summer why not explore the adventure of sour-dough baking... a project for family fun at home or on the camping trail.

Sourdough is most often associated with old-time prospectors swarming to the California and Alaska gold fields. Hearty foods were needed to help them withstand the ordeal of survival in those harsh and demanding environments, and so sourdough products baked over campfires along with pork and beans, were the mainstay of their diets. So common was the crock of starter in the miner's gear that the men who carried the brew were called "sourdoughs".

Cowboy cooks, charged with feeding hungry crews on long cattle drives, also depended on sourdough starter for their baked goods. They stored their starter in a five-gallon crock which sat in the sun all day to ferment. On chilly evenings, it was not uncommon for a cook to take the crock to bed with him to keep the cold from halting the fermentation.

Chuck wagon chefs made sourdough breads and biscuits while Alaskans concocted pancakes and "pinch-offs"-sourdough biscuits baked in a type of dutch oven over glowing coals. Probably the first convenience frozen food was an Alaskan prospector's specialty... sourdough pancakes spread with beans, rolled up, and set out in tins to freeze. They were then carried along to eat on the trail as a form of sandwich. No need to stop and build a fire for lunch.

As the West was won and the frontier faded, sourdough products waned in popularity. Through improved bread baking technology and the use of cultured, standardized yeast, sourdough - dependent on wild yeasts from the air - gradually was abandoned. However, a recent renaissance of early American culture and primitive practices... plus the recognition of sourdough's unique flavor... have created renewed interest in and demand for sourdough breads.

It is possible to make your own starter and keep it going for years... perhaps perpetuating it as an heirloom for your family to pass down. For best results, use a glass or pottery container and keep the starter loosely covered with wax paper.

Sourdough starter is meant to be used frequently, at least every two weeks. The liquid will separate from the batter after it has stood for several days, but this is not cause for concern. It is important to remember to "feed" your starter with one cup of flour and one cup of water for every cup of mixture you remove.

SOURDOUGH STARTER
2 cups enriched flour*
1 package dry yeast
2 cups warm water

Combine ingredients in large mixing bowl (not metal). Mix together until well blended. Let stand uncovered in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) for 48 hours; stir occasionally. Stir well before use. Pour out required amount and replenish remaining starter by mixing in 1 cup each flour and warm water. Let stand uncovered in a warm place for a few hours until it bubbles again before covering loosely and refrigerating. Use and replenish every two weeks.

*Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

SOUR DOUGH BREAD
2 cups enriched flour*
1 cup Starter
2 cups warm water
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
3-1/2 cups enriched flour*(about)
Cornmeal
Melted Butter.

Measure 3 cups flour, Starter, water, sugar, salt and baking soda into large mixing bowl (not metal); beat until smooth. Cover loosely with waxed paper and let stand in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) at least 12 hours. Stir batter down. Mix in more dough to make a moderately stiff dough.

Turn onto lightly floured surface and knead until smooth and satiny, about 8 to 10 minutes. Shape dough, place on greased baking sheets that have been sprinkled with corn meal; brush with butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1-1/2 hours. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 40 to 50 minutes, or until done. Brush with butter. Yield: Two 1-1/2 pound loaves or 48 bread sticks. *Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop.

North Carolina visitors

Three 4-H members and 3 leaders from Davidson county, North Carolina spent the past week living with different 4-H host families in Clinton County. The group arrived on Sunday, June 20 at 5:00 p.m., and left Saturday, June 26 at 7:00 a.m.

During the week the 4-H'ers had a chance to meet new families gain family living experiences, attend 4-H club meetings and visit points of interest throughout Michigan such as the Capitol, Michigan State University, four Olds mobile, Green Meadow Farm, Greenfield Village, Mackinaw Bridge and others. Other members from North Carolina stayed with host families in Gratiot and Shiawassee counties.

Wednesday evening all the North Carolina 4-H'ers met with their host families at Smith Hall for a pot luck dinner and enjoyed an evening of recreation, mixers and games. Jack Worthington from Clare called several square dances and a group of 4-H'ers from Shiawassee county provided some popular music. Everyone enjoyed the get-together, talking about what they had done so far and renewing acquaintances.

The 4-H host family and delegate are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cobb - Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ebert; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Woodhams - Mrs. Willie Esick; Diann Kanaski - Judy Byerly; Dana Sue Hazle - Clair Stokes; Bonnie Fedewa - Patricia Todd; Catherine Lehman - Cathy Davis; Jane Vittek - Janet Sink; Fred Thelen - Keith Sink; Ann Graham - Cynthia Peeler; Sharon Stoy - Henrietta Ijames; Lori and Jim McQueen - Michael Long; Phyllis Dershem - Sheila Spurgeon; Randy Davis - Gregory Owen; Dennis Baese - Herbie Branson; Wayne Morrison - Roger Black. Last summer Clinton county 4-H'ers visited North Carolina.

Lenwood, North Carolina talked about the 4-H program in her state. Clair is staying with Dana Sue Hazle this week as part of the Davidson County North Carolina 4-H Exchange to Michigan.

THE RIVERSIDE Riders 4-H members evaluated their June 6th Horse Show and plan to hold another one in September. Kathy Lowell is chairman of the float committee and Vickie Roesch is chairman of the litter barrel committee for the club exhibit at the County 4-H Fair in August.

NEW OFFICERS of the Parker's Workers 4-H Club are: Colleen Wilcox - President; Leanne Kirinovic - Vice-President; Cheryl Kirinovic - Secretary; Treasurer and News-reporter. The club will hold their next meeting July 5 at 7 p.m.

JAMES McQUEEN was the guest speaker at the Happy Hustlers 4-H meeting. He showed slides and told of his experiences while attending the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course and National 4-H Conference at Washington, D.C. this past year.

New officers were elected; Kyla Bancroft - Vice-President and Susan Aylsworth - Secretary. The other officers were held overs from the winter program. Fran Riley gave a report on her trip to Cedar Point earlier in the month.

THE KOUNTRY Kousins 4-H members will be holding a club picnic in July. A committee of Rosie Miller, Steve VanVleet, Brian VanVleet, Wayne Fedewa, Charles Falvor, Steve Pyllowanyj, Jane and Jerry Smith was appointed to work out the details. The club voted to sell pot holder gloves as a money making project.

Demonstrations were given by Frank Falvor on "Mini Gardens"; Ron Presockl on Rabbits; Brian VanVleet on "Gardening" and Nick Pylowanyj on "How to make a rope". The next meeting will be July 6.

THE PRAIRIE 4-H club members have elected Scott Wing as their President for the summer program. Other officers include: Pam Smith - Vice-President; Esther Smith - Secretary; Mark Barret - Treasurer; and Phyllis Dershem - News-reporter.

Dues are 50 cents for the summer. The members enjoyed a hot dog roast Tuesday, June 22 in honor of Sheila Spurgeon, a 4-H exchange delegate from North Carolina who is staying with Phyllis Dershem. The club plans a club picnic for members and families on August 8 at the Sleepy Hollow Park. Swimmers can come at 11 a.m., with dinner to be held at 1:00 p.m.

THE BATH ALL Purpose 4-H members have decided to hold a contest of their own on ideas for the club's entry in the 4-H Fair litter barrel and float contest. The members plan to have an educational trip when they attend the Ionia Free Fair in early August. The 4-H Honor Club was discussed and the members decided they would like to try for it. At their next meeting on July 8 a speaker will give a report of Safety for the program.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

by GARY A. KLEINHENN MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

WHERE'S MY FOOD DOLLAR

Food prices at the grocery store were seven percent higher in the first quarter of 1971 - higher than during the first quarter a year ago.

But while grocery prices increased, prices for commodities down on the farm generally decreased during most of 1970. So who is eating up the profits? Certainly not the farmer, and not so much your grocer either.

This disparity of dollars, some may think is a credibility gap between farmer and grocer, but actually, is caused by rapidly increasing costs of the middleman processing and distributing food products.

These costs increased food costs seven percent last year and promises to do so again this year. In comparison, increase in 1968 and 1969 nudged up only 2 to 2.5 percent in the overall price spread.

So often when speaking about the rise in food cost, the farmer is quite uninformed. Prices at retail and wholesale levels reflect costs that are unrelated to farm commodity prices and supplies.

Actually, about three-fifths of pay for labor, transportation, utilities, rent, and related services. These are the costs pushing your food bill up.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago says that the bulk of the problem is in the wage negotiations such as in the industries of steel, aluminum, cans, glass, railroads, construction, and utilities. If wage increases are comparable to those of last year, the result can't help but repeat in higher costs for food processing and distribution firms.

And there, the merry-go-round is complete - higher costs in services create higher costs of food.

One like service that's a bug-a-boo is the government food stamp program. It adds wood to the fire since only last year it tripled in size; this program alone represents two percent of the total outlays for food.

This combination of pressure is taxing food budgets for all of us. Even farmers buy their groceries at the store and favor lowering costs.

The wringer

By LORRAINE SPRAGUE Extension Home Economist

Who, at some time, has not heard of young children or careless adults catching fingers, hands or even hair in the wringer of a washing machine? Though we may think completely automatic washers are the only types of laundry equipment used today, we are very wrong.

Washing machine companies assure us there are many wringer-washers in today's home. A bit of informal research, prior to a study on laundry equipment and supplies, conducted by Extension Home Economist Helen Meach in Gratiot, Clinton and Shiawassee Counties, indicated locally there are a goodly number of such machines in use, thus supporting manufacturers' claims.

Because there had been severe accidents from this type of machine, every wringer washer produced in the United States, and listed by Underwriters' Laboratories, since October, 1968 has now been equipped with some type of safety device to reduce the hazard to inquisitive children or careless users.

One company, realizing there were many wringer machines manufactured before October 1968 and still in use, has come up with a foot controlled device to activate the wringer rollers. Until there is pressure the rollers will not move and immediately the pressure is removed, they stop.

This device can be installed on any of the company's machines manufactured between 1946 and October of 1968. Other companies may have developed similar safety devices for their wringer washers. An owner can inquire into the possibilities from any franchised dealer of the particular machine they own. From the safety factor this certainly is worth investigating.

As already indicated inquisitive young children are potential victims of such accidents. Older persons who perhaps don't move as quickly as they once did may be other potential victims. Any careless, hurried, tired or otherwise upset homemaker could also be victimized.

Any reader of this column could do themselves, someone in their family, a neighbor or acquaintance a service by alerting themselves or others to this information.

Motorists who burn up the road often end up in the cooler.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q) How can I correct an error on my tax return?
 A) Form 1040X is the preferred form to use to correct an error on your original return. The 1040X calls only for information that relates to that part of the original return which you wish to change. It is not necessary to include all of the information furnished on the 1040 which you filed.
 Form 1040X and instructions are available at your local IRS office.

Q) I plan to start my own business. Do you have any publications that will be helpful to me?
 A) Yes. IRS Publication 454, Mr. Businessman's Kit, contains forms and instructions that will help you to comply with tax laws. Con-

Wages from one employer will exceed $7,800, can I ask my other employer to discontinue his social security deductions?
 A) No. Each employer must withhold social security taxes on the first $7,800 in wages paid to each employee. However, you will be entitled to claim any excess social security tax withheld as credit against your 1971 income tax at the time of filing.
Q) I lost my refund check. Can I get a duplicate?
 A) Yes. Report the loss to the Internal Revenue Service Center where you filed your return and they will supply the forms needed to apply for a replacement.
Q) If I made a mistake in my return and I haven't paid enough tax, how long does the IRS have to make the adjustment or correction?
 A) Generally, the IRS can assess additional taxes up to three years from the due date of the return or the date of filing, whichever is later. If 25 percent or more of the gross income was omitted, the time limit is six years. In the case of fraud or failure to file a return, there is no time limit for assessment.

Financial plight

"You'll wonder where the money went, when you get involved in government."

This little jingle might well sum up the frustrations of the freshman legislator trying to make sense out of the many statements being made these days concerning the state's financial plight.

In fact, it's a little difficult even writing on this subject. Because of newspaper deadlines, whatever I might write at this time may be completely out of date by the time it is published.

Some things appear certain even though they are subject to change if revenue picks up. It appears now that total expenditures for the present fiscal year will reach $1,781,000,000 as compared to $1,728,000,000—those are billions and millions you're reading—in revenue, including the transfers we made earlier this year. Thus, revenue is down $29 million from what was anticipated a year ago and expenses are up $31 million, turning what was budgeted as a $7 million surplus into a $53 million dollar deficit.

We have been assured that adjustments in tax collections, deferring of some payments and similar administrative maneuvering will make up the difference for this fiscal year; but, that will just postpone the deficit to the 1971-72 year.

It is revealing to look at the areas of government contributing to the overrun of $31 billion in expenditures. Welfare spending was by far the greatest factor. Our $73 million of supplemental appropriations have been or will become necessary to meet these costs this year. In second place is payments to local school districts which exceeded estimates by $39 million.

Had it not been for belt-tightening ordered by the Governor and legislative committees, which reduced expenditures by $77 million in other areas, the situation could have been much more serious.

The day of reckoning is now upon us. We must now face the adopting of a budget for 1971-72, a budget which must recognize the increasing costs of some programs and is short in revenue by that amount of money we have collected ahead of schedule to meet this year's expenses.

This is a time of real action around the Capitol. Appropriation Committees are meeting to establish needs for the coming year while the leadership of both houses and both parties, along with the Governor are trying to work out the possible alternatives in both the spending and revenue areas.

We have now seen the specific proposal for a constitutional amendment to implement the Governor's zero-property-tax-for-education program. The plan includes a 10 mill property tax limitation to be left for distribution among the county, the townships, community college, special education and other similar local units. It allows a school district, by vote of the electorate to levy up to 6 mills for what is referred to as enrichment programs as would be defined by law.

There are other proposals as well. One would set the limit at 12 mills and allocate those mills specifically in the constitution to each dependent unit. Another would leave 10 to 12 mills of local property tax for local school support.

Something to do

The Fourth of July is the anniversary of the founding of our nation. And to celebrate it, two Clinton County Communities are planning gala activities.

Here in St. Johns, our local fire laddies and the Rotary Club are planning six big days of fun at the annual Fourth of July Carnival.

And in the Village of Westphalia, the entire community is getting together to celebrate the 135th anniversary of St. Mary's Parish.

Members in both of these communities have worked hard all year in preparation for the festivities which are designed to provide fun for your family over the holiday weekend.

If you don't want to buck the traffic to and from the lake, and you're planning to spend the weekend in the county, stop by the Carnival starting today through Monday.

And on Sunday, drive over to Westphalia for a look and taste of German hospitality. You won't be disappointed.

Both of these communities deserve a lot of credit. They represent the fine old traditions of hard work, dedication and devotion to these projects. They represent the ingenuity of a free mind working in a free society to produce events as spectacular as the fireworks which herald the 4th.

And isn't that what this weekend is really all about?

Freedom to fail

Did you ever hear of a government agency that went out of business? Once created, a government service just goes on and on and on and on. . .

Even though the need stopped five years ago.

One of the things that disturbs us most about big government is its tendency to always find something to do which will cost more money, require more government employees and create more paper work.

Never does it let a dying horse die. Failure of an office or a government service to continue year after year is a cardinal sin apparently in the eyes of government bureaucracy.

One of the factors which has driven private enterprise in the United States to higher heights than any other country—heights which have given Americans the most luxurious living standards, have allowed the United States to spread great chunks of largess abroad and have paid the shot for development of emerging nations—has been the freedom to fail.

If a need no longer exists for a private business or a service, the firm goes out of business. Business has to fill a real need for which people will pay or it goes broke. Failure in the business world is a common occurrence.

That's not necessarily so in the field of big government. Many instances of government services has passed. Commissions get bigger, hire more employees, demand bigger budgets, overlap other services—but they never fold up and go out of business.

Freedom to fail should be allowed in the field of government just as it operates in the business world.

Evolution in corn

By WARREN E. DOBSON

It was quite a revolution

When we first began to ride,
When the era of the "walker"
We began to brush aside;
With those walkin' days nigh over
We could really get a kick
When we rode the two-horse sulky
Fortified with crooked stick.

The seat was not upholstered,
And we straddled every row,
Guiding shovels with foot action
On the "gangs" attached below;
Cultivat'n first time over
Hills got buried pretty quick—
So we had to stop the horses
And reach back with crooked stick.

When the two-row business started

Followed later by some more—
Volume tillage got a bonus.
Acresages began to soar;
"Check-row" planting still was followed
But we found it quite a trick,
With the modern type equipment
To find use for crooked stick!

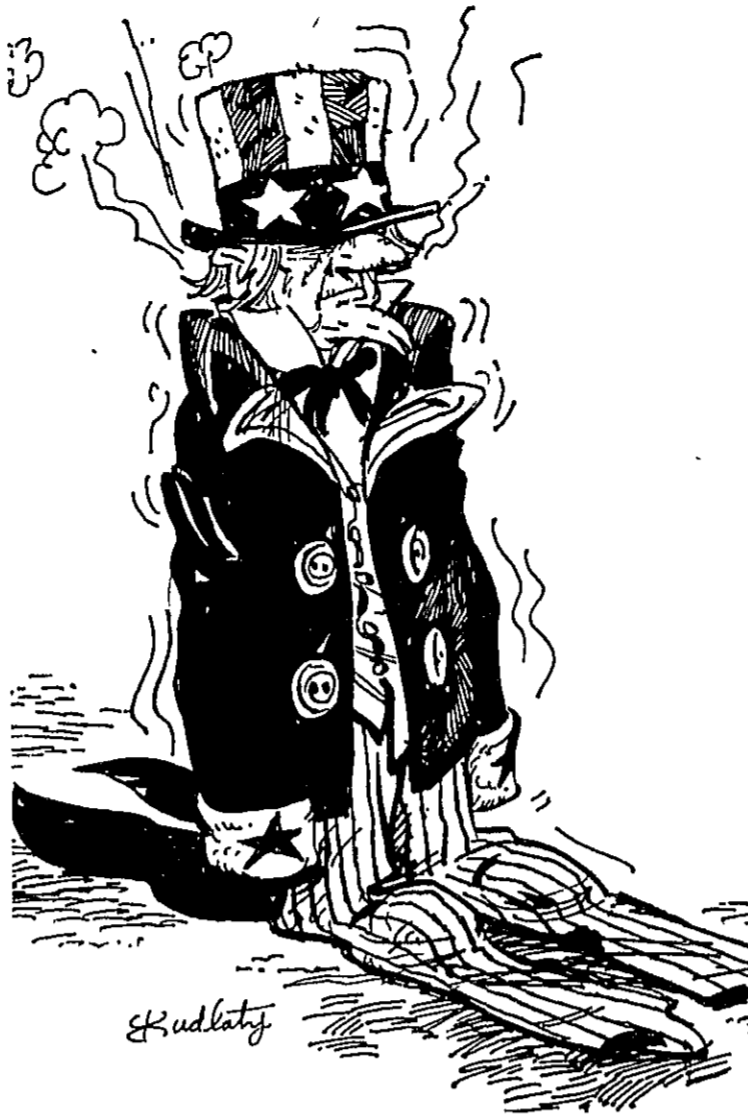

Modern days 'n modern methods
By-pass sticks—'n horses too—
'N our "modern" ridin' sulky—
Antique object for the zoo;
Now we plow 'n plant together,
"Killers" serve to kill weeds slick.
One more era long has vanished—
When we used the crooked stick.

GRASSROOTS OPINION

COMMENTS FROM OTHER PAPERS

EVERETT, Wash., HERALD: "Over a newly installed business wire at the Herald the other day came clattering some important information which the major wire services carried the following day: Standard Oil of California announced it would begin retailing a gasoline which it claimed would reduce smog-causing exhausts by 50 per cent. The announcement said the new fuel contains an ingredient called F310 which was not further identified. But if it does what is claimed for it an entirely new approach may be at hand for controlling, or at least sharply reducing, one of the prime pollutants of the atmosphere."

More secrets

By TIM YOUNKMAN

Some more interesting details have come to light concerning the Pentagon Papers and the government's attempt to have the news suppressed.

Since the first days of the publication of the Vietnam - McNamara study, almost every big-city newspaper and the various television networks have opened up the guns of criticism on the administration's attempts to halt the story.

The main issue has centered on the question of freedom of the press versus the government's right to maintain national security. However, as the courts have pointed out and the Supreme Court could concur, there was no breach of national security in the publication of the McNamara study.

In fact, the government is presently declassifying almost all of the remaining documents on the subject, although that process could take up to 30 days.

What is more surprising, however, is the revelation to Americans that reporters who regularly cover Washington for the wire services, networks or large newspaper chains come into contact with secret information every day.

Many of the "Secret" files only contain newspaper clippings on a certain subject or event - information that is already common knowledge. To republish such "documents" could hardly be considered giving away top military secrets.

It was also pointed out by the defense in the New York Times case in the Supreme Court hearing that most of the information in the McNamara study had already been published although sources had previously been obscured.

For example, there were several large pieces done a few years ago in the large city newspapers about American and Vietnamese commando raids into North Vietnam and some into Red China. One of our newspapers verified that this weekend with a story apparently gathered from some military papers. The only problem was—no one would believe the reports at the time.

Now we find that the reports were true. The government has been manipulating the public and misleading them into endorsing a very unorganized and sadistic excursion into someone else's civil war. Getting out with honor is now impossible and this is the center of the administration's problem.

The study is obviously embarrassing to the past three administrations and the current group is using its pressure to secure the "secrecy" of our past blunders.

A responsible press, such as the one that uncovered and exposed the atrocities of My Lai, is essential in our democracy. The same responsibility led our papers to reveal the McNamara study as a newsworthy and necessary addition to the knowledge of how a government of the people and by the people can be dipped into relinquishing their rights by putting 100 per cent trust in their leaders.

Rev. Albert I. Koenigsnecht, a Maryknoll Missioner, who has been working in Latin America since his ordination in 1945 recently returned to Fowler to celebrate his 25th anniversary in the priesthood.

Co-editors have been named to head St. Johns High School student newspaper, The Torch. Sharing the editorship are Barb Maier and Shirley Halfman. Both girls will be seniors in the fall and have written for the Torch during their junior year.

Alan Curtin of Lansing rolled (717 actual) to win $1,200 and the 13th annual St. Johns Singles Classic at Redwing Bowling Lanes. A total of $8,400 in prize money was shared by the 236 bowlers who played.

Final pollution control orders were issued against St. Johns by the State Water Resources Commission. By Dec. 1, 1972 the city must have a new sewage treatment facility in operation and it must be capable of removing 80 per cent of the phosphorus from untreated sewage. City Manager Harvey Weatherwax has estimated that the costs of such treatment facilities would run between $50,000 and $100,000.

A delegation from St. Johns has been promised by the state highway director that his department will look into the traffic situation in the area of US-27 and Sturgis Street. The intersection was recently the scene of a traffic fatality which claimed the life of a local boy.

John A. Martin of 210 South Swegles Street was elected president of the Clinton County Communities Chest for 1961-62 at the annual election of officers last week. He will succeed Edgar C. Ryan, president of last year's charity fund drive. Other officers elected were Roy Ormsby Sr., vice-president; Mrs. Melvin Warren, secretary and Charles Huntington, treasurer.

Arthur Mikesell of Ovid was elected senior vice-commander of the Michigan Veterans of Foreign Wars at the organization's annual meeting held in Lansing. Over 5,000 of the state's veterans attended the four-day convention which was held in Lansing for the first time.

Mullin-Kille Co. of Ohio will begin work on a new St. Johns city directory, the first since 1957. The new directory, which will be made up from a door-to-door survey of St. Johns and rural route residences and business places, is being sponsored by the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce.

Clinton County conservation officer, Earl Goff and city officers Doty and Bunge spent most of the early morning hours Wednesday trying to locate a bear reported roaming around in the southeast part of St. Johns.

Bunge and Doty said they saw the animal and they were sure it was a bear, but were unable to get close enough to take a shot at it without endangering nearby residences. It was last reported heading south through the fields, south of Sturgis Street.

The babies, two girls and a boy, are the Miller's first children. The father of the trio is employed as a baker at Todd Bakery, Carson City.

Torrential rains and hail, accompanied by winds of near-cyclonic velocity, swept over Clinton County over the weekend. William H. Whalen, of Elsie, was struck by a bolt of lightning at the height of Friday's storm. The lightning struck his right shoulder, following down his right side.

St. Johns Independent baseball team scored an overwhelming victory over the Lake Lansing nine at the City Park in St. Johns by a score of 18-2. The locals broke loose for 11 runs in the fourth inning to make the game a runaway.

After more than two days without OPA price control, shoppers in St. Johns are finding that so far it has made little difference whether costs are controlled by the government or by the merchants. Only a few minor adjustments have been put into effect in retail prices in St. Johns stores since the OPA became ineffective at midnight four days ago.

The St. Johns fire department was called out to extinguish a fire that caught from a hot box on a box car on a Grand Trunk siding in St. Johns. The car was loaded with pig iron.

'IF IT FITZ . . .'

Terry sells grand noise

By JIM FITZGERALD

I cannot tell a lie. The most god-awful noise I ever heard is created on purpose by the Grand Funk Railroad. That's the rock group managed by Terry Knight, the only millionaire who has ever been inside my humble home.

Terry sends me all the Grand Funk albums. I probably shouldn't knock them. Terry recently bought new uniforms for the school band in his old hometown. Some day he may want to do something similarly nice for the faithful, ink-stained old editor of his hometown newspaper.

I could use a pair of pants without those lousy ink stains, for instance. To heck with tradition. So it's dumb for me to say the Grand Funk sounds like the switchman fell asleep and there was a head-on crash with 15 miles of track ripped up and no survivors.

But I can't help it.

And it's not that I'm strictly an old fogey, wed forever to Glen Miller and Tuxedo Junction. I've been a Beale fan from the first and I've been excited by several of those weirdly named groups, such as Blood, Sweat and Tears. With Neil Diamond around, who cares if Frank Sinatra hangs it up for good?

But the Grand Funkers do nothing for me except make my ears cringe.

I offer this opinion not as a jealous rap at Terry. I'm proud of his success. When the Wall Street Journal, on the front page, called Terry a millionaire, I was happy for him. In fact, I immediately sent him a letter of congratulations (enclosing a photo of my ink-stained pants).

ACTUALLY, IT appears that no one likes Grand Funk—except the kids who overflow their concerts and buy their records by the millions.

Disc jockeys never play Grand Funk. They're never on TV. Music critics agree unanimously that their music is "hideous" and "atrocious." Even Terry admits his 3 Funkers are not over-loaded with talent.

Which naturally brings up the fascinating question: If they're so lousy, why are they so popular? The New York Times critic had a smart-aleck answer: "Mussolini was popular too."

But the real answer is much more interesting. The Funkers are rich because they are twice as loud and because Terry Knight is twice as shrewd.

Most groups use 2,000 watt amplifiers. Grand Funk uses 4,000 watts. They are so loud and frenzied you can't understand most of the words. But you sure as heck can't ignore them, any more than you could ignore World War 3 going on inside your skull.

Knight says he sells Grand Funk "like toothpaste." He knows it pays to advertise. More important, he "orchestrates" his 3 Funkers right down to the last lingering yowl. All that jumping and yipping and moaning and grimacing doesn't just happen naturally.

Terry knows that's what the kids want and he makes certain they get it. Grand Funk rehearsals must be like practicing to have a tooth pulled. His ex-fans hung Mussolini. Certainly, such a thing could never happen to Grand Funk. But if it did, Terry could always sell tickets and position his amplifiers strategically so as to pick up the last noises made by his boys.

It would probably sound like just another Grand Funk concert.

From the State House

Compromise

By REP. DICK ALLEN

There's a time to stand and fight. I'm a Winston Churchill fan. It sends a chill down my spine to read his determined words spoken in England's darkest hour as German invasion appeared eminent.

" . . . We shall fight in France, we shall fight on the seas and oceans. . . we shall fight on the beaches, we shall fight in the landing grounds, we shall fight in the fields and streets, we shall fight in the hills, we shall never surrender. . . "

There's also a time to cut and run. MacArthur managed this with some glory just by saying, "I shall return."

Legislative action gives occasional chance for a glorious last ditch fight or an eloquent final surrender. Both these actions attract public attention, perhaps making an individual legislator at least a temporary hero with a certain segment of the population.

But often a legislator's most important and effective efforts are in achieving an inglorious compromise.

Air pollution is a hot political issue. Much of the public, especially in metropolitan areas, is demanding action.

However, an important part of my 88th District constituency is greatly concerned about the direction we are heading. Agriculture is our number one enterprise. And farmers are worried about interference in their activities by those who think animal odors are pollution.

Some livestock owners have already experienced problems with the law passed in 1965 which defines air pollution as being, among other things, "any air contaminant which unreasonably interferes with the enjoyment of life and property."

There is a new bill before us this year and amongst many other new "teeth" put in the law, there is an elimination of the word "unreasonably."

Farmers are frightened. Many feel any regulation of how they run their enterprise is unreasonable interference, but to allow action by anyone who feels that a horse in the next pasture is interfering with his enjoyment??? Unthinkable!

Some would like those few of us who represent farmers to fight this battle to the bitter end. Win or lose.

But we have seen the strength of our opposition. John Engler (R-Beal City), another strong farm supporter, and I think prudence is dictated by the circumstances. We are proposing a series of amendments. One adds, "Air pollution shall not be construed to mean those usual and ordinary animal odors, in agricultural areas, if derived from numbers of animals and husbandry methods traditional to the area."

John and I are also proposing a study of possible licensing and regulation of livestock feedlots.

Will our activities win us the cheers of either farmers or environmentalists? Heck no! We are compromising. We could make more points out of a grand fight and a glorious defeat.

Porcupine's Quills
When annoyed, the porcupine rattles the quills on its tail to alert the intruder and follows the warning with a backward charge that may mean death to the enemy because its quills are very sharp and dangerous.

Cutbacks

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

It is migrant worker time again. What is your reaction to these visitors in Michigan? Is it one of love and acceptance or is it one of hate and rejection? For a minute I want you to listen to yourself read the following words out loud. They are from the 2nd chapter of the Letter of James, verses 14-18:

"My brothers! What good is it for a man to say, 'I have faith,' if his actions do not prove it? Can that faith save him? Suppose there are two brothers or sisters who need clothes and don't have enough to eat. What good is there in your saying to them, 'God bless you! Keep warm and eat well!'"

If you don't give them the necessities of life? This is how it is with faith; if it is alone and has no actions with it, then it is dead.

"But someone will say, 'You have faith and I have actions.' My answer is, 'Show me how you can have faith without actions; I will show you my faith by my actions.'"

Yes, the challenge of Christ is to show your faith by your actions. The specific challenge is outlined in the following paragraphs by Miss Karen Johnson, social worker for the migrant workers in Clinton County.

"As the time approaches when the Mexican-American Migrants will arrive here in Clinton County, there are certain steps that should be taken to help us better meet their needs. As you know, there are always crises, whether personal or climatic, that arise. If any such crisis should arise, we would like to be prepared.

"Therefore, we would like to make a plea to those of you who would care to make any contributions of clothing and other necessities. We are looking for the following items:

- Baby clothing-dresses, pants, shirts, blouses, shoes, socks, underwear, sweaters and jackets.
- Children's clothing-shirts, slacks, blouses, skirts, shorts, socks, shoes, sweaters and jackets.
- Adults-working clothes, slacks, shirts, blouses, shoes, sweaters, jackets, coats, socks, dresses and sports jackets.
- Bedding-sheets, sheet-blankets, pillows, bedspreads, pillow cases and towels.
- Cooking utensils-skillets, pans, bowls, mixing spoons, etc.

-Miscellaneous-baby car-seat or porta-bed. Baby blankets and bottles.

"We would greatly appreciate it if you would use discretion in your donations, because we will have to sort out all non-usable items before taking them to the Clothing Bank. Therefore, we ask that all contributions be of good use and condition.

"Your used and unwanted articles will find welcome places in the migrant families who otherwise have to do without.

"We would also ask that you not bring furniture because our storage space is quite limited.

"To all of you who contribute, a special thanks to you from the migrant families."

Here is an opportunity for you to put your faith into positive action. If you plan to contribute, I would suggest that you clip this article and put it on your bulletin board. That way you will be able to refer to it.

The next thing to do is to pack your donations in a box and take them to the Episcopal Church's Church School Building at 404 E. Walker. If you have any questions, please phone me at 224-2885 or 224-2600.

"God bless you for your contributions!"

As we press into July, it remains a continuing source of irony to many a lawmaker that a lot of voters frequently criticize the Legislature for doing the same things they do.

For example, in response to strong pressure from "home", most legislators have been pressing hard to cut back on state expenditures because so many of their constituents have been complaining about soaring taxes.

Since education takes the lion's share of the state budget, some cutbacks have been necessarily made in that field by the Legislature during the 1970-71 fiscal year.

All over the state in recent millage votes at the local level, this cutback philosophy has been reinforced by voters who balked, in some cases several times, against millage levies that would have added an even greater burden to their present back-breaking tax load.

Hence we have a situation in which the Legislature and the voters are, in their own respective ways, doing the same thing.

Yet public letter columns to newspapers often carry bitter criticism of the Legislature for not producing more tax money for the schools that local voters refuse to produce themselves.

For example, a letter in the (Lansing) State Journal a few days ago complained of "an unresponsive hegemony of lawmakers."

It would up with this sentence: "May those who voted on Monday's millage proposals earnestly invest energy to change the lethargic, unprincipled pace of the shockingly degenerate Michigan State Legislature."

Notwithstanding the nicely-phrased bite of such a diatribe, I would observe that in many instances when local voters turn down millage proposals, they are merely passing the buck to the Legislature and, in effect, saying:

"You vote the higher taxes for our schools; 'Do as we say, not as we do.'"

THEN, OFTEN as not, if and when the Legislature does raise taxes to produce more money for education (which happened most recently in 1967 with the institution of the state income tax), most of those self-same critics criticize the Legislature for doing what they wanted to do themselves but did not.

The unfortunate part of the story is that money raised locally for education is apt to go farther than that raised by the Legislature because the costs of collection and administration are taken off the top of state taxes before they can be rebated to local school districts.

Many school administrators feel that some of the millage proposals which were voted down on June 14 lost because voters felt that they were going to get immediate property tax relief if the Governor's educational reform program passes the Legislature.

Unfortunately, the proposed property tax relief called for by the Governor requires changing the State Constitution, which means a statewide referendum. The earliest such a referendum could be held would be next November if a general election is called.

Because the proposal must be tied to a companion proposal

Washington Reports

Wagner O'Day Act

Rep. U.S Garry Brown 3rd. Congressional Dist.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Following is a summary of Floor action in the House and Senate last week and scheduled action this week.

Major action in the House included passage of an amendment to the Wagner-O'Day Act, extending government purchasing practices now applied to goods produced by the blind to other severely handicapped persons.

In the Senate, approval was given to the Office of Education fiscal year 1972 appropriations, and two amendments of importance to the Selective Service Act.

Action in the House Last Week: Amendment of Wagner-O'Day Act: As a ranking member of the subcommittee which reported out the amendment to the Act, I was privileged to serve as minority floor manager during consideration of the bill on the Floor of the House.

The amendment as adopted by the House provides for the expansion of priority procurement lists to include services as well as goods, and extends the general provisions of the Act to the severely handicapped, other than blind. Later in the week, the Senate also approved the amendment.

Revenue Sharing: The House Ways and Means Committee continued hearings on revenue sharing. On Tuesday, I testified before the Committee, recommending that the current impasse might be resolved by viewing the challenge as one of sharing the revenue raising authority rather than revenues.

I proposed a program of "Revenue Exchange" by which the Federal taxpayer would receive a tax credit for a percentage of state and local taxes paid. However, he would not be eligible for such credit until his state had adopted the taxing means to pick up those funds.

The proposal ties the privilege to spend to the responsibility to tax, and saves the taxpayer the administrative expense of the roundtrip to Washington.

Action in the Senate Last Week: Office of Education Appropriations: By a unanimous vote, 77-0, the Senate approved appropriations for fiscal year 1972 for the Office of Education and related agencies. Adopted: Modified Byrd Amendment increasing by $7 million funds for programs to evaluate abilities of high school graduates with a view to continuing their education; and the Pell Amendment, increasing from $3 million to $5 million funds earmarked for State administration and planning for construction of undergraduate higher education facilities.

Military Draft: Two important amendments were adopted by the Senate last week in its continuing deliberation of the Selective Service Act.

By a vote of 59-9, the Senate adopted the Packwood Amendment exempting members of a family from induction into the Armed Forces if a member of such family has died in the line of duty, was missing in action, or is a prisoner of war. And later in the week, the Senate adopted the Kennedy Amendment requiring congressional authorization for inducting more than 130,000 draftees in 1972 and 140,000 in 1973.

The Senate also began consideration of the Hatfield-McGovern Amendment which would bar the use of funds to support U.S. forces in Indochina after December 31, 1971.

This Week in the House: Military Procurement Authorization: This is the authorizing legislation for defense procurement and research programs in fiscal year 1972 and involves $21.8 billion dollars.

An amendment, the so-called Nedzi-Whalen Amendment, will be offered to prohibit the expenditure of new funds, after December 31, 1971, to support the deployment of U.S. military personnel or the conduct of U.S. military operations in or over South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Cambodia, or Laos.

Also to be considered: -Medical Services for the totally disabled. -Health Manpower Training Act. -Nurse Training Act. -Health Professions Student Loan and Scholarship Extension. -Conference Report - Public Works Acceleration Act of 1971.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES HUNTINGTON

meet the auditor of
Clinton National Bank

Somehow the mention of the word auditor creates a mental picture of a Scrooge-like character huddled over an ill-lighted desk pinching figures together to squeeze out the greatest profit.

Maybe that's Charlie Huntington's role with Clinton National Bank, but if it is he's kept it well hidden behind a genial manner and a knowledgeable approach to modern business practices. Charlie is the one who gently prods us if expenses begin to set an unfavorable pattern and his preparation of periodic statements keeps us (and you) constantly abreast of the course in which the bank is moving. And he's been doing this since October 17, 1957.

Charlie's a graduate of Eastern High School in Lansing and later spent two years at Michigan State University. Since entering the banking field he has completed a number of American Institute of Banking courses. He has received an A.I.B. pre-standard certificate and on top of all this he's scheduled for the Bank Administrative Institute course at the University of Wisconsin come August.

Charlie and his wife Janet Marie live at 506 E. McConnell in St. Johns and when he's not busy around the house during these warm months, chances are he'll be on a sailboat somewhere - unless he's just relaxing by listening to his record collection.

But whatever he's doing, Charlie is not the real-life Scrooge his title sometimes suggests. There's no place in Clinton National Bank for Scrooge-like people—just Charlie-like people.
