The fight to salvage the basic elements of a program to aid emotionally disturbed children has been won by a group of their parents who carried the issue to the St. Johns Board Education.

The parents, alarmed when informed that a three-year federal grant for the pilot project had expired, presented the board last month with several petitions calling for at least partial extension of the program with local help.

And last week the board approved the administration's efforts to obtain needed personnel through local and federal funding.

The board agreed to pay half of a $12,000 salary for a full-time elementary counselor and the other half will be funded through another federal program.

The Intermediate School Board will aid the program by providing a visiting teacher and a psychologist and the school district will provide services of a nurse.

"I'm real happy about it," said the Rev. Hugh Banning, spokesman for the group. "I felt real positive after that (the May) meeting and was confident that Steve Bakita (administrative assistant) would be able to work this out."

At the May meeting, both administration and school board officials indicated favor for continuing the program and said they had been "beating the bushes to see how to finance this."

In expressing his concern for the survival of the program, Banning told the board that a program such as this directed at elementary level catches and corrects many problems which may be difficult in not impossible.

Clinton population increased 25 per cent

If preliminary census figures are any indication, communities in Clinton County will be in line for advantages of tax revenues based on population figures thanks to a 10-year increase amounting to 11,603 residents.

According to information released to Clinton County News by Robert McWilliam, deputy regional head of the U.S. Census Bureau, early figures for the county present a total of 49,572 persons, almost a 25 per cent increase over the 1960 count of 37,969.

While even unofficial figures for government units under 10,000 population will not be available for some time, the News learned of unofficial totals for three communities in the county and each represented some percentage of growth.

The city of St. Johns lead the group with an increase of 1,053. Preliminary figures show the present population of the city to be 6,682 compared with a 1960 figure of 5,629; approximately a 15 per cent increase.

Two other communities in the county experiencing growth trends were Fowler and DeWitt. The latter boasted the greatest gain, 558. The 1960 figure for DeWitt is 1,238. Unofficial totals for the recent headcount show the city at 1,796; a gain of 31 per cent.

A 16 per cent growth has been reflected in Fowler where 854 noses were counted in 1960 and 1,017 were marked off this past census.

McWilliam indicated that it would be some time before the census bureau in Washington released what would be termed the official results but in the meantime communities and government units would be advised of preliminary or unofficial counts.

Clinton County News will make every effort to keep abreast of the tabulations and present them as early as they are available.

News offices will close Friday July 3

Offices of the Clinton County News will be closed Friday (July 3) in observance of Independence Day Saturday.

The Classified Advertising Department will, however, accept telephone orders from 9 a.m. to noon.

Pollution order issued against St. Johns

Final pollution control orders last week were issued against St. Johns by the State Water Resources Commission.

By Dec. 1, 1972 the city must have a new sewage treatment facility in operation, said the commission.

The new treatment plant must be capable of removing 80 per cent of the phosphorus from untreated sewage.

St. Johns has until July 1, 1971 to submit plans for approval.

The city earlier had been charged with contributing to the pollution of Hayworth Creek and Lake Michigan—a charge which the city had denied.

St. Johns officials did agree, however, that eventually they would have to conform to the pollution control provisions as insisted by the water resources commission.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax had estimated that the costs of such treatment facilities would run between $50,000 and $100,000.

City officials have expressed concern over where such funds could be obtained.

A millage request in March could have provided the answer but it was rejected at the polls.

Ritchie assured that road building won't isolate DeWitt High

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

De Witt School Supt. James Ritchie said Tuesday night (June 23) that he has received assurances from the Clinton County Road Commission that the high school building will not be isolated from emergency aid during summer road construction.

Ritchie had announced June 8 that he would seek a court injunction against the county if the road commission closed Heribson Road from Shavey Road to Turner Road to install a new sewer system.

At the time Ritchie had said the high school building would be isolated from ambulance and fire protection with several hundred students enrolled in summer sessions and driver's training education.

He told the board of education Tuesday at a regular meeting that he had received complaints that his injunction threats were those of an alarmist.

"When you're dealing with other people's children, you have to be an alarmist on this matter," he said.

He told the board that had he not said anything, the only access to the school would have been U.S.-27 to Clark Road to Shavey Road.

He cited an example of the dangers involved when authorities tried to contact a driver's training instructor Monday on an emergency.

Ritchie said the telephone lines were cut due to the construction and the instructor could not be contacted immediately by phone.

A patrolman was dispatched to the school to contact him and this was very time consuming, Ritchie indicated.

It was noted by board member Mrs. Merry Sellhorn that the county and township have never contacted the school offices officially to the effect that the road would be closed.

Chamber members open Friday

By RON KARLE
Editor

A delegation from St. Johns has been promised by the state highway director that his department will look into the traffic situation in the area of U.S. 27 and Sturgis Street.

The intersection was the scene last month of a traffic fatality which claimed the life of a 12-year-old boy.

Following the accident, a group of citizens joined together in a group called "People Who Care" and began a petition drive calling for a traffic light at the intersection.

Last week representatives of that group—Jan Bensing, Sharon Rochon and Carol Maples—presented their case to Henrik E. Stafseth, state highway director.

They were joined in Lansing by City Manager Harvey Weatherwax who presented a resolution from the City Commission calling for traffic light installations and lower speed limits in the area and by State Rep. William S. Ballenger, R-Ovid, who set up the meeting.

The commission resolution specifically asked for the installation of a traffic light at the U.S. 27-Sturgis intersection and lowered speed limits on the highway within the city. The commission also requested installation of a traffic light at the intersection of M 21 and Oakland Street.

Mrs. Maples told Stafseth of the accident and that the group had collected more than 1,700 signatures of registered voters.

The petitions also asked for the installation of a traffic light at U.S. 27 and Sturgis and for the lowering of speed limits on the highway south of M 21.

"I go through there quite frequently," said Stafseth.

"I'll turn this over to the traffic people and have them make a survey," he said.

"Some people think that a traffic light automatically solves things," he added. "It may, but it may aggravate the situation, too."

Rejected landfill proposal met health standards--Root

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

A proposed 80-acre sanitary landfill for Watertown Township, which was rejected last week by the County Board of Commissioners, has been deemed acceptable from a health standpoint by a spokesman for the Mid-Michigan Health Department.

Darwin Root, Mid-Michigan Health Department, said Friday that he was in the process of investigating the landfill area when the proposal was rejected by the commissioners.

"It looked feasible from a health standpoint," he said. This conflicted with statements issued by Richard Wells, a St. Johns attorney representing Watertown residents.

Wells said the landfill would produce a vile odor and unsanitary conditions.

"We will also have rats in the area, even when the garbage is covered up," Wells said.

DARWIN ROOT

Root pointed to Act 87 (P.A. 1965), called the Disposal Act, which calls for the state health department to enforce violations.

Root said there should be little sanitation problem through enforcing the solid wastes disposal act regarding the Watertown site.

"If it is properly operated and enforced, you wouldn't know it (the landfill operation) was there," he said.

He noted that the charges of unsanitary conditions stem from the operation of other landfill areas in the county.

"We have six or seven landfill sites that are not in compliance with Act 87," Root said. "The problem with enforcement of these is money, so we left them open until we have a better solution."

He said the private operators of the proposed landfill in Watertown, Vector Construction Co., would have to post a performance bond insuring against unsanitary operation.

Root is attending committee meetings studying the landfill situation for the Tri-County Re-

Clinton road crews back on the job after one-day walkout

Employees of the Clinton County Road Commission were back at their jobs Tuesday morning after a one-day work stoppage in defiance of a commission request for a 10-hour work day.

According to Engineer-Manager Don Haske, the 10-hour work day has been followed since the request was issued almost three weeks ago, however, following a disagreement Monday morning the entire work force walked off their jobs.

Haske explained that usual work hours for road commission crews are eight and one-half hours per day, Monday through Friday.

Commission members were alerted to the work return Monday afternoon through a telegram from Union Representative Walter Oliver. In addition to advice that workers would be on their jobs Tuesday morning, a meeting between employees and management was requested.

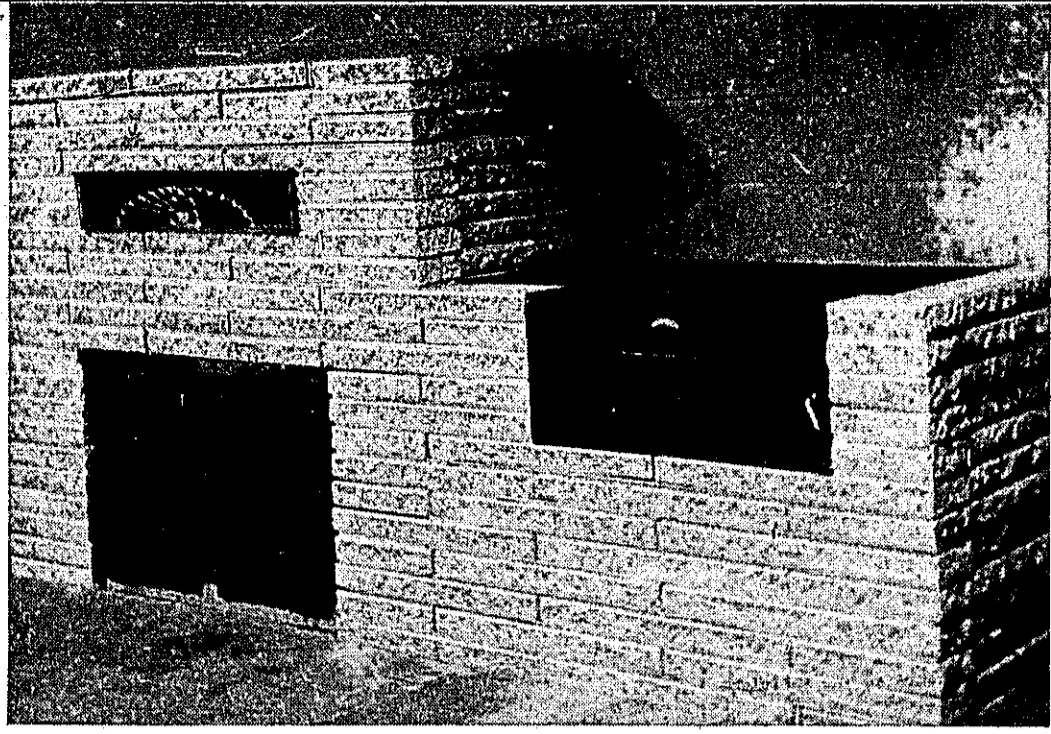

Haske explained that previous commitments will not allow an immediate meeting but that he expected arrangements would be made to meet in a week to 10 days.

Preliminary exam for Rodriguez

A preliminary examination has been set in Shiawassee Circuit Court for Pedro R. Rodriguez, 19, of St. Johns on manslaughter charges.

The exam, scheduled for July 20 at 8:30 a.m. at the county courthouse in Owosso, is a result of a triple fatality motorcycle accident on M 21 near Ovid April 26.

The accident claimed the lives of Frank L. Worden, 22, and his wife Beverly, 21, of Owosso, and Mrs. Gail Johnson, 21, of Ovid. They were killed when their motorcycles allegedly were struck by the Rodriguez vehicle.

CURRICULUM WORKSHOP

For the last two weeks, members of the St. Johns High School Communication Arts Department have been working on a revised curriculum based on the recommendation of a citizens committee and approval of the Board of Education. From left, are Beverly Mosher, Joella Rhoades, Sara Adams, Phillip Greer, Bob Holzhei, Bob Koger, Department Chairman Doug Japinga and Dorothy Bates.

 highway to go around St. Johns? asked Mrs. Maples. "This is our ultimate goal."
 Stafseth said an accelerated highway program has been proposed and will be presented to the legislature in 1971.
 He said that if it is accepted, "we could have the whole program under contract by 1980."
 A highway department spokesman said later that this proposal is part of a proposed $500 million bonding program and would include 800 miles of roadways.

 He said that a freeway would bypass St. Johns, probably to the east, but that no specific route had been drawn.
 Mrs. Maples also noted that during weekends, several autos heading north take to the side streets to avoid the traffic light at U.S. 27 and M 21. It is not uncommon for autos to speed through these side streets, she added.
 "I have a cottage on Lake Michigan, so I go through your town every weekend," said Stafseth. "I'm quite aware of the situation."
 But he added, "Public roads are for the public and you can't keep them off."

When asked about the possibility of a skyway through the city, Stafseth said, "I'd say it's a rumor" and explained that the cost of elevated roads is prohibitive.
 The department also noted that construction will soon begin on the connection of U.S. 127 from Lansing to U.S. 27 in Clinton County.
 U.S. 127 presently cuts through Lansing as far as M 78. Construction has been held up for several months because a water tower stands in its path.
 The tower is ready to come down and U.S. 127 will proceed northwest and connect with U.S. 27 near DeWitt at Clark Road. Bids will be taken in the first quarter of 1971.

In GOP primary
Terry Bacon runs for 87th House seat

Terry Bacon, 33, a native of St. Johns, has announced he is running as a Republican for the State House of Representatives from the 87th District.
 Bacon, who has been employed 11 years in the stock department at White Motors, Lansing, until he was laid off in January, is hoping he will appeal to voters in Clinton County and the St. Johns area.
 "This is what I'm hoping for," he said. "I think it's time that we have someone from the immediate area."
 The 87th District, which includes a portion of Clinton and all of Shiawassee County, hasn't been represented in the Legislature by anyone living in Clinton County since 1964.
 The seat is presently held by William S. Ballenger who lives in Shiawassee County and is running for the State Senate.
 "I think he (Ballenger) has done an exceptionally fine job," said Bacon. "I wish him well."
 Bacon said he "decided at a late date" to enter the Aug. 4 primary, opposing him are Richard Flynn and Douglas Trezise, of Shiawassee County.
 A political novice, Bacon said he believes more people should become involved in the political process whether or not they are experienced.
 When asked what he hoped to accomplish if he were elected, Bacon said, "This is what I want to find out," though admitting "I don't think one man can do it alone."
 He said the main issue which stirred his interest in running was abortion legislation.
 "I just cannot go along with the abortion bill whatsoever," he said.
 He was also adamant against any government interference in limiting the size of families.
 "If you can afford 10 children, you should be allowed to have 10," he said.
 Bacon said he was in favor of the Spencer Plan, an education bill which shifts financial responsibilities for schools from property taxes to income taxes. Included in the bill is Parochial aid which involves aid to non-public schools.

TERRY BACON

 That particular part of the Spencer plan has raised much controversy and Bacon said he "would go along with whatever the courts should decide" if the measure faces a legal test.
 Bacon, wife Audrey and their two children, Greg, 9 and Marcy, 15 months, live at 803 E. Walker Street.
 He is a 1956 graduate of Rodney E. Wilson High School, a member of Local 650, United Auto Workers and involved in Little League baseball.

Ballenger at Exchange

State Rep. William Ballenger, R-Ovid took time from a busy schedule to talk with St. Johns Exchange Club members at their regular meeting Thursday. Speaking off the cuff Ballenger brought the membership up to date on current events at the Capitol.
 Dave Fiermoen Exchange Club sponsored representative at Boy's State was present and gave a report on the events he attended.

Pool schedule resumes after minor setback

Mechanical problems have set back the swimming schedule at the city pool in St. Johns Memorial Park.

But not for long. The second session of regular swimming lessons is set for July 6-17.

The third session will be July 20-31, fourth session Aug. 3-14 and the fifth and final session will be Aug. 17-28.

Open swimming is held Monday through Saturday from 2:30 to 5 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The open swimming schedule for Sundays and holidays is from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Children are admitted for 25 cents, adults 50 cents and the entire family when at least one parent attends swims for $1.

Two new activities have been added to the summer program:—Small group (semi-private) swimming instructions will be held for the student who needs extra attention to help him become adjusted to the water. The ratio for such instruction is one instructor to no more than three students. These lessons will be held at 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

—A tiny tot or pre-schooler swimming program (children age 2 to 5 years) will begin Monday, July 6 at 9 a.m. Additional classes will be scheduled throughout the summer.

Junior and senior life saving classes will begin July 14. Also on July 14, skin diving lessons will be offered.

Beginning this week, a swimming team will be formed for youths between the ages of 5 and 18 who are beyond the beginner stage. For addition information, call Sue Pickens at the pool (224-7715).

Evening adult swimming lessons will be offered and beginning Aug. 17 at 11:15 a.m. Additional adult lessons will be available.

Summer swimming passes, good for the remainder of the season, are now available for youngsters for $14. Cost of these passes are pro-rated and reduced every two weeks.

Festival picks 2 works by Mrs. Anderson

Announcements

The Colony Community Club dinner will be held July 4 at the old Colony School on Colony Road.

Fr. Koenigsknecht to mark 25th year in priesthood

Fr. Albert I. Koenigsknecht, a Maryknoll Missioner, who has been working in Latin America since his ordination in 1945 returned to Fowler recently to celebrate his 25th anniversary in the priesthood.

Fr. Koenigsknecht plans Sunday to celebrate his Silver Jubilee at Holy Trinity Church in Fowler on Sunday, July 12 with a concelebrated Mass at 3 p.m. This will be followed by a dinner for the family. There will be open house that same evening, July 12 from 7:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. All are invited to attend. He will return to Peru after July 15.

Shortly after his ordination he was sent to Tepic, Mexico to work with the Cora and Hulchol Indians in the State of Nayarit.

In August of 1948 he was transferred to Puno, Peru to form part of the faculty of Colegio San Ambrosio of which he eventually became principal.

In 1954 he was transferred to Our Lady of Sorrows Parish in Arequipa.

In 1960 he returned to the Andean highlands to take over the parish of San Pedro, Juli in the State of Puno.

Later he became local Superior in Puno, Director of the Cursillo House outside of Puno and finally he returned to Arequipa where he is pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Parish.

For the last 12 years he has also formed part of the Regional Council of Maryknoll in Peru, a three-men board responsible for the personnel and finances of Maryknoll in Peru.

When asked about the recent earthquake in Peru Fr. Koenigsknecht said that although his area was not affected he was shocked by the extent of the tragedy. Most of Maryknoll personnel work in Lima, Arequipa and in the Andean Highlands of Puno. Maryknoll had but one man in the disaster area but by now it has sent more into the disaster area, since a relief committee had been set up before he left Lima he explained.

"The real disaster area begins over a hundred miles north of Lima, the capital of Peru, although that city also felt the 45 seconds of terror when the quake struck," he said. The cities of Chimbote and Casma and inland cities in the Huaylas Valley bore the brunt of the disaster.

"Although many were killed by the quake many more were buried alive by the tremendous landslides formed by rocks, mud and water from Mount Huascarán, the second highest peak in America and Lake Llanganuco, which is located just below it," he said.

"The death toll is at least up to 50,000 and rising as more names appear on the missing list and the aftermath of disease takes its toll.

"The homeless have been calculated at 800,000. It seems incredible that the beautiful Huaylas Valley has been changed into a graveyard. The valley has been called the "Switzerland of Peru" because of its rugged beauty, because of the two mountain ranges on either side of the valley, "the cordillera negra" (the black range) on one side and the "cordillera blanca" (the white range) on the other.

"On my two trips into the valley I made friends there. Please remember them."

Before returning to the states,

Fr. Koenigsknecht visited Sister John Cassian, a Sister of St. Joseph of Nazareth, Mich., who was injured when her convent in Chimbote collapsed and two other Sisters were killed.

Although she was buried in the rubble of the convent she had one arm free and was able to attract the attention of rescuers who pulled her out. She is making a recovery in a hospital in Lima.

After a recent survey of Clinton County by the Social Security Administration, Roger W. Seamon, district manager, announced that benefits paid to residents of Clinton County totaled more than $344,000 a month as of Dec. 31.

He added that a benefit increase which became effective Jan. 1 has since raised that monthly rate of payment by 15 per cent for the 3,970 Social Security beneficiaries in this area.

A further breakdown of the survey showed that in Clinton County, 1,983 retired workers were receiving $203,000 while 168 disabled workers received almost $20,000 per month as of Dec. 31.

Other categories of beneficiaries such as dependents and survivors receive an additional $121,000 per month.

Seamon noted that although the majority of Social Security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60.

IT'S JUST GOOD BUSINESS TO JOIN THE UAW

The Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Sheil Catholic Bishop once said: "If a Non-Union worker in a partially organized industry is receiving a good income, it is quite probably because his Non-Union employer, in order to keep the Union out, meets, or nearly meets, the higher wage and hours standard of Union establishments. Clearly such Non-Union employees are eating the fruits of others sacrifices. The workers in the Union shops perhaps risked their jobs to get their Union recognized, and pay monthly dues to keep it going. It is a categorical injustice for Non-Union employees, enjoying the common benefits, to refuse to carry their share of the common burden".

Unprecedented Geller is honored twice by society

Roman F. Geller, formerly of Fowler, received an unprecedented two awards in two days from the American Society for Testing and Materials (ASTM) at their annual meeting in Toronto, Canada June 23-24.

Geller received a certificate of election to Honorary Membership in the society June 23 at the President's luncheon held during the 73rd annual meeting at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto.

He received the second award, the ASTM Award of Merit, the following day at an awards luncheon.

Honorary Membership is one of the society's highest awards and is conferred upon persons of widely recognized eminence in the fields of work covered by ASTM or who have rendered especially meritorious service to the society, according to Hank Hamilton, public relations director for the society.

Hamilton indicated Geller will receive the award for "long and devoted service to ASTM advancing the knowledge of ceramics, particularly for his guidance and leadership as a founding member of Committee C-21 on Ceramic Whitewares and Related Products."

The Award of Merit is given to recognize individuals who have rendered distinguished service to the society. Geller received this award, according to Hamilton, "as an influential founder of the ASTM Committee C-21 on Ceramic Whitewares, who has devoted his entire technical career to research, testing and the setting of standards in the field of ceramics."

Geller joined the National Bureau of Standards in 1918 after receiving his degree in chemical engineering from the University of Michigan that same year.

Geller was chief of the Whitewares Section of the bureau of a pilot size electrically heated tunnel kiln and a laboratory furnace for high temperatures in oxidizing atmosphere.

Geller resides at 4977 Battery Lane in Bethesda, Md.

Leo Thelen wins $655

Leo Thelen, Federal-Mogul press-room set-up man was awarded $655.53 through the Federal-Mogul Suggestion Award program.

Thelen's suggestion consisted of using an air cylinder rather than a spring load pin to activate the pressure pad in the semi-form punch on certain press dies. Besides increasing press efficiency, this suggestion will reduce press set-up time.

Thelen said he will use his award for a camper for family enjoyment this summer.

In the last year and a half there have been 25 suggestions awards given to Federal-Mogul employees under this plan.

Masacek indicated the total cost of the uniform proposal would be about $1,800, although the booster club could furnish the balance.

Money for repayment of the loan would come from activities and donations sponsored by the band booster organization.

Athletic program is prospering at DeWitt

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

Don Melvin, DeWitt High School athletic director, painted a prosperous picture of the athletic department in his annual report to the board of education Tuesday night (June 23).

Melvin indicated the major sports programs' revenue helped create a surplus of $68,73 for the school year 1969-70.

The athletic department income for the year was $9,873.74 while expenses took away $9,805.01.

Largest money making event was varsity football with an income totalling $3,449.40 and the junior varsity added $410.85. Total football income reached $4,845.00 and included a powder puff game, sports banquet, and season ticket sales.

Basketball income was set at $2,442 which included varsity and freshman gate proceeds.

Melvin projected the same results for the 1970-71 school year with an estimated $9,450 income and $9,327.70 expense budget producing a surplus of $122.30. Proposed future additions and improvements in the athletic department sports program include a season ticket for basketball and football, a single "all-sports" banquet instead of several throughout the year, night baseball games, a girl's basketball team, a 20-team invitational golf tournament, and the state baseball tournament.

Ovid-Elsie and Haslett have been added to the basketball schedule next year, Melvin indicated.

"This should give us some stronger competition," he told the board.

Melvin said the department was having difficulty with the shortage of adequate storage space for all of the sports equipment. He suggested that the spring sports equipment could be stored elsewhere during the fall and winter months and replaced during the spring sport season.

"This is the only difficulty we're having, though," he added.

He noted that the department was able to purchase 66 game jerseys and 50 practice jerseys, nine footballs and paid $417.50 for football officiating.

"This was the turning point," said Swears.

And this was the search that led to it.

Swears, Cowan and 'justice' prevail

Drama in Thursday golf league

By RON KARLE
Grudge Match Editor

Upset—that's the name of the game. Any game.

In baseball you had the Mets; in football, the Kansas City Chiefs.

Those were minor upsets of the century after Thursday at the Clinton County Country Club.

The Number One twosome in the 4 o'clock Golf League, Steve Bakita and Earl Lancaster, were up against a spirited pair who made their place elsewhere in the standings, Brub Cowan and Bill Swears.

Bakita took in a 42 average, Lancaster 46. "Cowan" and Swears weren't saying.

But the handicap was 11 strokes.

Bakita had a little trouble finding the fairway off the first tee.

On the second, Cowan had trouble finding his own ball.

Bakita, a strict constructionist, pointed out that you lose two strokes when you hit someone else's ball.

Swears bristled. Lancaster was showing all sorts of good, although silent, sportsmanship in the matter.

His shot off the second tee had landed three feet from the cup.

Par is four for the 365 yards on the hole.

But it was the third hole that Swears terms the turning point of the match.

He teed off and the ball was last seen going over the horizon in the direction of a strategically placed creek.

For five minutes a search party scoured the bubbling little brook.

Of course, there was a bit of good-natured bantering which unfortunately cannot be printed in a family newspaper.

Just as Swears was about to relent and break out his spare ball, Cowan discovered the object of the search nesting on the bank across the stream.

"I'll bet you guys cried when my partner found that ball," said Swears making little effort to contain his jubilation.

And straddling the stream, he took a seven-iron and blasted out of danger.

On the fourth tee, the good-natured bantering continued, undeterred by the thwack of clubs hitting balls.

"They consider people rude who hit while they talk," said Swears of his opponents.

This was later confirmed by Lancaster who explained, "I think people ought to understand the etiquette of golf and not hit while we're trying to talk."

But Swears and Cowan were not to be the victims of etiquette.

There was an upset brewing. Not one to take his golf game too seriously, Swears did let it slip that "We had them actual strokes going into the eighth."

"And they said they would have those 11 back by the third hole," he slipped further.

As it wound up Lancaster and Bakita did beat them by two actual.

But the 11-stroke handicap was figured into the final tally and the rest is history.

Or as Swears put it, "Justice prevailed."

And from the camp of the fallen leaders: "Sandbaggers."

Although individual scores are a personal matter and probably shouldn't be printed in a family newspaper, a source close to Swears did let it slip that he did lead all four with a 41, five over par.

"Justice prevailed," intoned the source.

"Justice prevailed . . ."

Michigan State All-America basketball sophomore Ralph Simpson scored more than 32 points in 12 different games in 1969-70 with his top production a 42-point output.

Zimmerman shoots an ace --his fifth time out

There are some folks around town who still find it hard to believe.

But it's true.

Harold Zimmerman, of St. Johns shot a hole-in-one--the fifth time he ever played golf.

It happened on the fifth hole at Highland Hill Golf Course.

Using a three iron on the par three, 170-yard hole, Zimmerman's shot hit the green on the fly, bounced once and hit the cup.

With him at the time was Henry Skopek.

And state championship, too

St. Johns bowlers win $4,000 in state tourney

A certified or cashier's check in an amount of $18,000.00, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the School District, must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid is accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail. Payment for said bonds shall be made in Federal Reserve Funds.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified approving opinion of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, Attorneys, 2600 Detroit Bank and Trust Building, Detroit, Michigan, a copy of which opinion will be printed on the reverse side of each bond, and the original of which will be furnished without expense to the purchaser of the bonds at the delivery thereof. The School District shall furnish bonds ready for execution at its expense. Bonds will be delivered without expense to the purchaser at a place to be designated by the purchaser. Said bonds will be delivered within sixty (60) days from the date of sale and if said bonds are not delivered by twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the sixtieth day from the date of sale, the successful bidder may withdraw his proposal by serving notice of cancellation in writing on the undersigned in which event the good faith check shall be promptly returned.

In the event that prior to delivery of the bonds the interest received by private holders from bonds of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal Income tax law, ruling, regulation or court decision, the successful bidder may, at his election, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase the bonds, and, in such case, the deposit accompanying his bid will be returned.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds."

ana, working on initial construction, has told Ritchie earlier that "we would be shut off," with no access to the building.

Ritchie said that the road commission's Engineer - Manager Donald C. Haske indicated that Shavey Road or an alternate route would remain open for vehicles.

In other action the board: -Announced that bids would be accepted for the electrical work on the bus garage and the new middle school.

-Heard Ritchie report on the first scheduled teacher contract negotiations which was held from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday June 22.

He said that the Michigan Education Association (MEA) announced that its building in East Lansing would not be available for negotiations. It had been determined earlier that contract meetings would alternate between the superintendent's office and the MEA building.

Meetings will now be called at the Fuerstenau school building in DeWitt, Ritchie said.

Ritchie said he delivered a proposed contract to the negotiators, but nothing was offered by the bargaining committee for the teachers for consideration.

The teacher's committee only offered three points for consideration but did not offer a complete contract to school administrators.

to correct in later years. Federal aid for half of the elementary counselor's salary will come under renewal of Title I of the Elementary Secondary Education Act.

A federal grant of $32,747 will also finance two teacher aides, a nurse, a nurses aide and a remedial reading skills teacher.

Supt. Earl Lancaster said the district has been participating in the Title I project for the last five years. The program basically is geared to improve education for underprivileged children but is now expanded to the entire system.

In other action, the board approved an agreement with cafeteria workers which includes a salary schedule and work rules.

Although the group of 14 employees is not organized as a union, school officials and the workers both were in favor of getting "something in writing."

The salary schedule ranges from $2.15 an hour for head cook baker and salad maker to $1.85 for part-time employees and cashiers.

All other full-time employees are paid $1.95 an hour. School officials said these wages were not increased from last year.

New employees will begin at 10 cents less an hour but will be given five-cent raises after working 30 and 90 days.

Also included in the agreement are three paid holidays—Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Memorial Day.

At an earlier meeting, workers had requested five paid holidays but Fred Meyer, board secretary, had opposed the proposal.

In other action, the board:

-Appointed Dorothea Barnes as chairman of the business department succeeding William Swears who was named assistant high school principal last year.

Swears, had held the post for the past five years and for the last year has assumed the duties on a temporary basis.

gional Planning Commission. He said the Clinton County Planning Commission surveyed "what the problem was and tried to present a workable plan that was politically acceptable."

Root said there are "political resentments on the boundaries" causing difficulty among the counties.

Original plans called for a landfill site on an 80-acre tract along U.S. 16 near Interstate 96 operating under a seven-year permit.

A golf course was proposed for the area when the permit expired, although work could have begun within five years.

The county zoning commission and William Coffey, zoning administrator, had approved the plan, but were over ruled by the board of commissioners June 15.

Lawyers for the construction firm indicated they would appeal the commissioners' decision.

Green Tee

June was a busy month for members of the Clinton County Green Tee. Regular Wednesday morning golf winners for the month were: June 3, Esther Stoller, low for the day with 15 puts; June 10, winners were Jolie Becker and Margaret Stachel; June 17, prizes went to Nelda McWilliams, Jane Beach and Liz Nobis.

Field Day at Ionia was held on 16 and the Invitational in Portland was held June 22 with Elsie Dickenson, Jolie Becker, Margaret McKay and Doris Munger placing in fourth place.

Crazy Day was held June 24 with several members costumed for the occasion. Golf was played in teams of three with only one ball in play per team. Due to the severe weather nine holes could not be completed so prizes will be awarded for best costumes.

Upcoming events include a Field Day at Portland on July 8 and the Central Michigan Tournament also at Portland on July 29-30. At least eight members are needed for this tournament and anyone interested in playing should call Lili Tiedt as soon as possible.

IN MEMORIAM

DURBIN - In memory of Larry Durbin who passed away 1 year ago June 22, 1969. One sad and lonely year has passed, Since our great sorrow fell, The shock that we received that day, Will always with us dwell, You bid no one a last farewell, You said good-bye to none, Your boyish heart had ceased to beat, Before we knew it you were gone, No one knows the heartache, Only those who have lost a child can tell. Of the grief and the tears shed in silence, For the boy we loved so well. Sadly missed by Mom and Sisters 9-1p

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE
News Advertising Manager

Our apologies to all who have been trying to call the News office and repeatedly got only a busy signal. One lady told us that she wanted to advertise some puppies but it took so long to reach us that they're full grown hounds now. We didn't think it was that bad. We investigated the telephone tie-up and decided it was due to either our circulation gals calling customers or our editorial department moonlighting as bookies. Anyway 224-2361 is a working number again.

Strout Realty, Inc., will open a branch office near Carson City, it was announced this week.

Mr. Chester Splece of Carson City will join the office according to information received by the Clinton County News from the Company's Home Office in Springfield.

The new address is: R-1, Sheridan, Mich. 46684 and Carson City, Ph. 664-3284.

If you need some attention from Bee Chevrolet's Service department, don't go to the old downtown location because there's no one there. The parts and service department has been moved to the new location on South U.S. 27. By the way, if you know what a "creeper" is, raise your hand; if you don't, watch this column for big news about Bee's and "Creeper's."

For those who know we live in Alma and used to work at the Alma Record we say, "yes, yes, no, no and yes." For those who couldn't care less where we live or used to work we'll explain. Yes, we know four men were arrested Friday night in Alma on charges of possession of counterfeit money. Yes, we know Henry (Bucky) Walters, owner of Alma Record Printing Co., one of the men arrested, quite well. Bucky was a friend of ours. We've eaten at his table, drank his beer, played cards at his home and ours and never dreamed of charges like this. No, we don't know how much, if any, funny money got passed out or why the law suspected them. No, the Alma Record Printing Co. is not a part of the Alma Record newspaper. It was at one time but was sold to Bucky about two years ago. And yes, we were surprised. Shocked really. Bucky was a personable fellow. Hard-working, generous, always ready with a smile and a good word.

DeWitt High School Principal Donald Mueller, left, and School Supt. James Ritchie display the rotary press donated to the school's graphic arts department by the Lansing State Journal. Mueller said the press will allow students to print all sports and entertainment programs, tickets and announcements for the school.

Printing department expands

DeWitt High has a new press

DeWitt High School has a new addition to its growing graphic arts department—a rotary printing press.

The press, donated by the Lansing State Journal, will be used by students to print stage show programs, sports programs, banquet announcements and tickets and some commercial printing, Principal Donald Mueller said.

In fact, the whole idea of a graphic arts department is unique to a school the size of DeWitt High School.

"I don't know of a Class C school in the state that has one," Mueller said. "I know it is the only one in Clinton County," he added.

He pointed to West Bloomfield Hills school district near Detroit as one of the elite districts in the state, "and they do not have one," he said.

The department boasts the new rotary press, an offset press, a small hand-operated press and future plans include a fully equipped darkroom for photography.

Mueller said a room has been set aside for the purpose of photographic equipment, and it may be in operation during the next school year.

About 20 students enrolled in the graphic arts course during 1969-70, with other units from the Industrial education course using the equipment.

"We are attempting to continually expand the entire program, which includes three stations," Mueller said. The drafting, industrial arts, and graphic arts departments are located in one huge auditorium-size room.

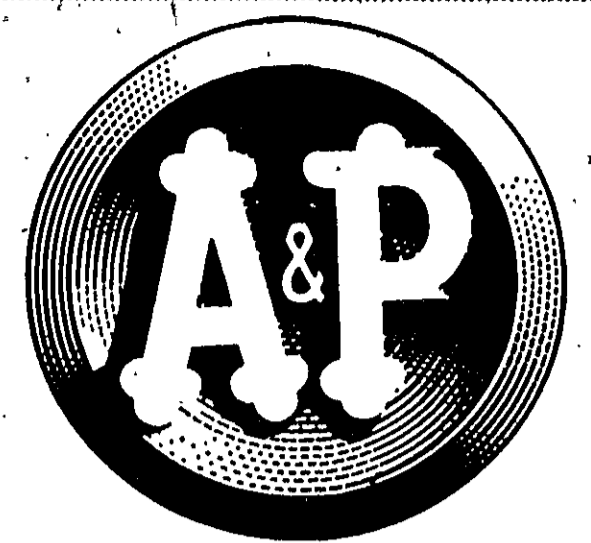

He indicated that future plans call for a partition in the large room to block noise and dust from the industrial arts section, creating the departmentalized atmosphere.

Current instructor of the graphic arts department is Raymond Unger.

NEW TOWER FINANCE OFFICES

John Renneberg, manager of Tower Finance in St. Johns, stands at the entrance of his new offices at 306 N. Clinton. Renneberg said the re-location is part of Tower's expansion program, currently serving Clinton County area residents from St. Johns, Owosso and Ithaca.

Veda Forward: the 'something' that pulls them together

By RON KARLE
Editor

Veda Forward's Yesteryear's Party this summer was a success for the 15th time.

Former Wacousta residents from 13 Mid-Michigan communities, plus Florida and California attended the annual get-together where acquaintances have been renewing since 1956.

But Veda, who was 63 when she organized that first party, says she just isn't up to it anymore and this year's party was probably the last one.

This year's party drew at least 70 people, including five who are 85 or older.

They were Nellie Allen, 85, of Grand Ledge; Laura Cameron, 87, of Eagle; Sadie Doty, 87, of Grand Ledge; Ernest Craun, 87, of Concord; and Ivy Greenfield, 89, of Williamston.

"We want to get the ones 75 and 85 to attend," says Veda. "These are the ones we especially honor."

You had to be at least 60 to qualify for an invitation.

"It's a get-together or visitation day," stresses Veda.

"There's something that pulls them here and it isn't a senior citizens group, either—it's a renewing of old, old friendships," she adds.

This year she says when she introduced a gentleman to one of the ladies, he said, "Oh, I remember you as the first girl I tried to kiss."

"They're both in their seventies now," says Veda.

"They come here so jolly... a pat on the back... a 'you remember when?' she recalls. There still may be something organized for the group next year, says Veda.

She says she gave her mailing list to the minister at the Wacousta Community Methodist Church where the event has been held.

They said they'd be willing to carry on but not to the same extent, says Veda.

"But I don't want them to call it 'Yesteryear's Party'—I named that," she says.

Veda Forward recalls 15 years of good times at her Yesteryear's parties in Wacousta.

Communities represented at this year's party included Lansing, Grand Ledge, Holt, DeWitt, Eagle, St. Johns, Lyons, Haslet, Greenville, Clare, Williamston, Concord and Wacousta.

"The day of the party I had six young friends come in and help me with the serving," says Veda.

They were Mrs. Pauline

Walker, Mrs. Cheryl Avery, Mrs. Phyllis Avery, Mrs. Dorothy Bergans, Mrs. Thelma Dickin-son and Mrs. Mabel Brace.

These six presented Veda with a corsage which she wore for the day.

Veda led the group in the last stanza of "America."

"I always tell them to sing it prayerfully and as you sing those words I want you to think of what each word means," she says.

After Veda offered a prayer, Mrs. Dale Shattuck, of Clare, presented a piano solo.

"She's been a neighbor for 30 years and they just moved up north, doggone 'em—we used to have such good times," says Veda.

Veda also led the group in singing, including "Blessed Are The Ties That Bind and 'Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here."

And there was dancing, too. "Up until a few years ago, anyone who danced was going to hell," says Veda. "I never agreed to that because you've got to select your dances.

"I asked the minister if he minded if they got up and shook a leg and he said it was alright," she says.

The dancers ranged in age from 70 to 87.

Irving Ruby, a detective with the Lansing Police Department, performed magical feats for the group and the afternoon was concluded by singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," led by Mrs. Lora Ainslie.

The five who were 85 or older were each presented with three long-stemmed red rose buds and a box of homemade cookies.

All those 75 or older were honored with one long-stemmed red rosebud.

Both are traditional at the party.

Veda was especially thankful for items donated or discounted from the Rexall drug store, the IGA market and Doty's Florists, all of Grand Ledge.

"For all 15 years Dean Doty has given red rosebuds for those we've especially honored," says Veda. "He's always given them and wouldn't take one cent for them."

To be sure, many people have contributed to the success of the Yesteryear's Party.

But none more than Veda Forward.

"I wanted a big free party for the older people," she says. "I wanted the older people whom I love to visit and exchange stories of the past."

That's the "something" that pulls them to Wacousta every year.

"That's Veda Forward."

Environmental program is urged for rural areas

The Michigan Agricultural Development Group has called for expanded environmental protection in rural areas and the protection of natural resources as a vital part of any government Agricultural Conservation-Environmental Program.

Nick Smith, head of Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and Chairman of the Development Group, announced that final action was taken approving the Development Group report.

The report recommends changes in USDA policy and will directly affect the administration of Michigan Agricultural Conservation policy.

Smith said the objectives of the report are:

1. To assure emphasis on clean air, clean water, more open space, and more and better wildlife habitat.
2. To assure effective conservation accomplishments.
3. To provide emphasis on conservation and environmental improvement activities having wide public benefits.

Smith said that in light of new environmental quality goals, the report of the Development Group stresses that ASCS conservation activities must be further directed to help American farmers to do an even more effective job of improving the environment while conserving and building the nation's soil and water resources.

The Development Group includes representatives of the major farm organizations, from the Governor's office, ASCS personnel, the Soil Conservation Service, Department of Natural Resources, Forestry, Game and Fish, and other related agriculture representatives.

Before the State Development Group meeting, each county held a similar meeting with many of the same agencies represented by county leaders. Smith said that the results of these meetings have been most beneficial.

A review shows that the farmers of Michigan are concerned about the quality of our environment and submitted many suggestions as to how to curtail pollution in rural areas.

Among the suggestions for future programs were: (1) high priority to pollution abatement practices that provided the greatest benefit to the most people, (2) more public access to rural lands, (3) higher priority for wildlife practices, (4) help for problem of solid waste disposal in rural areas and private land, (5) establish practices that will dispose of animal waste from feedlots and barnyards, (6) expand the eligibility rules and make all land owners eligible to receive cost-share payments for practices carried out on rural lands, (7) provide long-term contracts with annual rental payments for land owners who are willing to establish and maintain buffer strips (green belts) along water courses and public roads.

Smith further relates the consensus from the county groups and the State Group was that conservation and environmental quality improvement must be emphasized in any future Agricultural Conservation environmental program.

Apple measles

A little lime or boron spray could cure "apple measles," Michigan State University Horticulturists recommended leaf analysis to detect imbalances that could cause this nutrient disorder. They've found that lime applications at planting time will help prevent "measles." Applications of boron in deficient trees will also correct the situation.

Eight Clinton 4-H'ers at training workshop

Eight Clinton county 4-H'ers participated in the Multi-County Camp Counsellor's Training Workshop held June 24-27 at the Algonquin 4-H Youth Center near Hastings.

During the training workshop the counsellors discussed their role as a counsellor, problems and situations they might run into and participated in learning skills in indoor recreation, outdoor games, vespers and candlelighting, camp fires and flag ceremonies, crafts and conservation.

During the eight weeks of camp beginning June 29 and ending August 21 those who attended the training workshop will serve as counsellors.

Each week eight to ten counsellors will work with the permanent adult staff to help the campers to have a lot of fun during the week of camp as well as learning new skills and meeting new friends.

The permanent staff consists of Bart Ingraham as Camp Director, Pat Johnson as Assistant Program Director, Gail Hewitt and Ron Kirkpartick as WSI's, Glenn Gilbert as Maintenance Engineer and Clarabelle Barman as head cook, an assistant cook and a nurse will be on the staff also.

The camp has camp facilities to handle 100-125 campers each week, a new $30,000 dining hall built in 1969 and a heated swimming pool. The camp week runs from Monday afternoon till Friday afternoon. The cost per week is $21 which covers the cost of food, lodging, insurance and part of the craft supplies.

The only week now completely filled is July 13-17 so anyone interested in attending camp should contact the Extension Office in St. Johns - 224-3288 for an application or more details. A youth doesn't have to belong to 4-H to attend camp.

Wildlife conservation is aided by farmers

Conservation of wildlife has been substantially furthered by the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Through ACP cost-sharing, farmers have established wildlife food plots or habitat, shallow water areas, ponds, and several other types of wildlife conservation practices.

Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, says that last year in Michigan more than 1,100 farmers carried out wildlife practices that improved food and habitat for wildlife on 2,700 acres. Many of these practices provide extensive outdoor recreational opportunities and increased scenic beauty to farm and nonfarm people throughout the country.

Some farmers were joined in the development of wildlife areas by sportsmen's groups who assisted with stocking of game birds and fish, and often paid the cost of additional needed conservation measures.

In addition to being a direct benefit to wildlife and recreation, many of these practices have a direct bearing on pollution abatement, Smith said. Building dams in gullies creates impoundments which curtail erosion and prevent sediment from reaching our lakes and streams, as well as providing water for other uses.

Often gullies and steep hill-sides are planted to shrubbery, which also curtails erosion and sedimentation.

It is anticipated that as many or more farmers throughout Michigan will be establishing these same practices during 1970, which will be a direct benefit to both rural and urban people. Any farmers who wish to improve our environment or divert some of their land to recreational uses should contact their local County ASAC Office.

State Crop Report

BY MICHIGAN CROP REPORTING SERVICE

CROP COMMENTS FOR WEEK ENDING JUNE 20

Field work was slowed by rains and wet fields in the South Central, South Eastern and Thumb areas of the State, but field work made good progress elsewhere.

Soil moisture supplies were short in the Northwestern Lower Peninsula, surplus in much of the South Central, South Eastern and Thumb areas and mostly adequate elsewhere. An average of four days were suitable for field work in the State.

About 80 per cent of the dry bean acreage has been planted, a little more than usual for June 20. Soy bean planting is nearing completion.

Making of first cutting hay was slowed by wet weather in the South Central, South Eastern and Thumb areas of the State.

For the State as a whole, nearly 45 per cent of the first cutting has been made.

Locally serious infestations of alfalfa weevil continue common in the Lower Peninsula. Pastures continue to furnish average to above average average amounts of feed in most areas.

Sugar beet blocking and thinning is nearing completion. This crop is developing well. Potatoes are also making a good growth.

The asparagus harvest has been completed in most areas.

Earlier warm weather speeded the ripening of strawberries. The fresh market harvest is close to completion in Berrien county and picking for processing is in full swing. Strawberry picking is also in full swing in the Manistee area, but is not expected to start in the Alpena area until about June 26.

The harvest of celery hearts has started in the Muskegon area.

Harvest of early cabbage for fresh market has started in Monroe County.

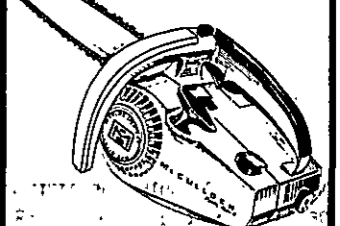

Tree fruits continue to develop well. Tart cherries are coloring fast in the Southwest. A heavy drop of sweet cherries is reported from the Northwest Lower Peninsula.

More like it

The proportion of workers of Negro and other races in each occupation is becoming more like their proportions in the total labor force. By 1969, when 11 per cent of the employed were of Negro and other races, 10 per cent of the teachers and seven per cent of the craftsmen and foremen were of these races. However, a larger than proportionate share of the lower-paid, less-skilled jobs were still held by Negroes and other races in 1969.

State milk production is increased slightly

Michigan milk production in May is estimated at 417 million pounds, according to the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

This is slightly above May 1969 and one per cent above May 1968.

May milk production per cow was 890 pounds, up one per cent from a year earlier.

The number of Michigan milk cows on farms in May at 468,000 head decreased one per cent from a year earlier.

U.S. milk production in May is estimated at 11,019 million pounds, about the same as a year earlier.

Daily average production for May was up three per cent from April, compared with a four per cent gain a year earlier.

May output provided 1.73 pounds of milk per person daily for all uses, compared with 1.66 pounds a month earlier, and 1.75 pounds a year earlier.

Production during the first months of 1970 was about 0.4 per cent more than a year earlier.

SELECTED DAIRY STATISTICS

Milk cows were fed an average of 2.4 tons of hay during the 1969-1970 winter feeding period, unchanged from a year earlier. Alfalfa or alfalfa mixtures accounted for 73 per cent of all hay fed, the same as a year earlier.

Clover or mixed clover was next in importance with 15 per cent of the total, up one percentage point from a year earlier.

Coastal Bermuda made up two per cent of the United States total and lespedeza, one per cent. Other hay amounted to nine per cent of the total, down two percentage points from a year earlier.

Silage fed during the 1969-70 winter feeding season averaged 3.9 tons per milk cow, the same as a year earlier.

Corn silage was the leading type, representing 80 per cent

Saranac tops

Saranac leads the list of recommended alfalfa varieties for Michigan. Results of MSU Experiment Station trials show Saranac to be the best, all-around Michigan variety with yields up to six tons per acre, fast recovery after cutting, wilt resistance and acceptable winter-hardness.

of all silage fed during the 1969-70 winter feeding season. Grass silage, at 14 per cent of the United States total, was next in importance.

The percentages of both corn and grass silage were unchanged from a year earlier.

Sorghum silage accounted for three per cent of the total, down one percentage point from a year earlier.

Other silage at three per cent of the total, was up one percentage point from a year earlier.

New high $165,000 in premiums for State Fair exhibitors

The Michigan State Fair will offer an all-time high $165,000 in premiums to its 1970 exhibitors, says E. J. (Jeff) Keirns, general manager.

The previous high was last year's amount of $151,000.

Farm produce and livestock premiums will total $115,000 with $7,500 earmarked for junior exhibitors.

Exhibitors in the 15 horse shows will be offered $40,000. The balance of $10,000 will go to exhibitors in home arts and fine arts and for special events.

The deadline for entries in all categories is Aug. 1.

Keirns said that premium books listing the prizes are being distributed by mail this month to former exhibitors.

Others desiring to be placed on the mailing list may write the Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48203.

Since there are three sections of the premium book—agriculture and livestock, horse show, and community arts requests should indicate which sections are desired, says Keirns.

Returns increase

Celery co-operative turns tide of battle

Until the Michigan Celery Promotion Co-operative was organized in 1962, celery growers were fighting a losing battle.

A Michigan State University Research Report, "Group Action in the Michigan Celery Industry," gives the case history of how celery producers coped with their problems.

Michigan's principal competitors in the celery market were California and New York. Pricing competition, high production costs and variations in product quality caused Michigan's celery market to decline relative to the national market.

The cooperative was formed to increase returns to celery growers, to expand demand and to develop more effective handling and merchandising methods. Price, volume and quality of celery shipped in or out of Michigan also are regulated by the cooperative.

Programs on advertising and promotion are also part of the total marketing effort of the cooperative. The report emphasizes the importance of this type of cooperative effort for other agricultural groups with similar problems.

Copies of Research Report 92, "Group Action in the Michigan Celery Industry," are available at county offices of the Cooperative Extension Service or from the MSU Bulletin Office, P.O. Box 231, East Lansing, 48823.

Bruce Seyfried joins breed organization

Bruce E. Seyfried, DeWitt, has joined the junior membership ranks of Holstein-Friesian Association of America. More than 13,800 youngsters are now actively enrolled in the breed organization's program.

To qualify, member candidates must be under 21 years of age and have enrolled in a 4-H or vocational agriculture dairy project. Individual ownership of at least one Registered Holstein is also required. Junior members of the national Association are entitled to all privileges except voting. They may register and transfer their animals at member rates and receive regular reports of breed and organization progress.

More than 49,700 young Holstein breeders have participated in the program since its start in 1923.

Farm labor facts

How are things down on the farm?

In 1969 the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that 2,571,000 people worked as hired farm workers and 1,824,000 of them were casual workers—working less than 75 days a year.

Of these, 1,106,000 worked less than 25 days. Among these casual workers are 1,086,000 students, 325,000 housewives and 181,000 unemployed or other non-regular laborers.

Although casual workers make up 70 per cent of the total farm work force, what they earn in a few days or a few weeks of the harvest is often averaged in with earnings of the much smaller regular farm workforce to obtain an "average annual farm wage" which of course comes out abnormally low and is meaningless. . . much as if you averaged what you paid a boy to mow your lawn twice a month during the summer with the wages of a second boy working full time in a supermarket.

What about migrant farm workers? Many people mistakenly think that all farm workers are migrant. Actually, of the total farm work force of 2,571,000 only 257,000—less than one in ten—are migrants.

The migrant work force has been declining steadily as farmers continue to mechanize operations. The numbers of migrant workers declined 12 per cent in 1969 from the previous year.

What about wages? Most farm workers are paid on a piece rate basis. For the first time the USDA is reporting average piece rate earnings, which averaged, as of January 1970, $2.24 an hour.

When the piece rate is averaged with wage rates paid on straight time basis, the U.S. average for all farm workers in January 1970 was $1.85.

More farm workers are employed in California than in any other state, and farm wages there are among the highest in the country. New USDA piece rate reports for individual states are not yet computed, but the average wage rate for California farm workers paid on an hourly basis, without board and room, was $1.81 in 1969.

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that earnings of piece rate workers exceed those of workers employed on a time basis by 54 per cent. This would indicate average earnings of $2.79 an hour for California piece rate workers.

A review of individual payroll records indicates many piece rate workers in citrus, grapes, and other fruits and vegetables earn up to $4 an hour.

Grape worker income for 10 months or more a year is $5,000-$9,000 and can climb to $9,000 if other family members work during the harvest period.

4-H Chatter

4-H'ers in Washington

By JOHN AYLSWORTH

Five Clinton County 4-H'ers left Saturday to participate in the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course, June 27-July 4 at Washington D.C. They are Jim McQueen, Kam Washburn, William Parker and JoAnn Kanaski of St. Johns and Patty DeMarco of Eagle. Mrs. George Hazle of St. Johns is one of the chaperones. They will join 4-H'ers from Gratiot, Shiawassee, Monroe, Lenawee and Washtenaw counties to make up a bus load.

While in Washington they will be learning more about their role and responsibility as a citizen, learn about democracy at work, hear outstanding speakers, visit their congressman on Capitol Hill, attend sessions at the State Department and Department of Agriculture and visit many historical places such as Mt. Vernon, Lincoln and Jefferson Memorials, Washington Monument, Smithsonian Institute, White House, Bureau of Printing and Engraving and Federal Bureau of Investigation and others.

The Michigan 4-H'ers will stay with about 250 other 4-H'ers from five states at the University of Maryland. On Thursday they will visit the National 4-H Center in Washington and view the present buildings and see the expansion plans for the future center. When the group returns home they will be available to speak to your group regarding the National 4-H Citizenship Program and their experiences.

The National 4-H Center has started work in its new 8 million dollar Expansion Project. When completed in 1973 the Center will accommodate 800 people who will be attending various training programs. At the present time the National 4-H Center can handle only 300 people. Michigan 4-H'ers pledged $75,000 which is about $1.00 per member on a fair share basis. Clinton County's 4-H enrollment in 1969 was 1501 so our fair share will be $1501.00 over a three year period. A check for $350 was sent in last week from contributions made earlier by 4-H clubs in the county. Contributions this week include $15 from the Elsie 4-Corners 4-H Club, $50 from the Fowler Busy Bees 4-H Club and $100.00 from the 4-H Saddle Horse Clubs in the county. With these donations we have reached 1/2 of our goal of $1501. Many other clubs are making plans to raise their fair share contribution for the National 4-H Center Expansion.

The County 4-H Horse Show held June 21 at the Fair grounds in St. Johns was a success with 64 different members entering a total of 196 classes. Top honors of the show went to Annette Pederson of the Saddlemates 4-H club won the English trophy, Kim MacLuekie of the Double M 4-H Club won the Fitting and Showmanship trophy and Kurt Stimson of Owosso won the Western Showmanship trophy.

The winners in each class area follows: (1) Fitting and Showmanship—14 years and over—Kim MacLuekie; (2) Fitting and Showmanship—13 and under—Andrea Harris; (3) Fitting and Showmanship for ponies—Julie Chant; (4) Western Pleasure—14 and over—Bonnie Johnson; (5) Western Pleasure—13 and under—Kurt Stimson; (6) Western Pleasure for ponies—Julie Chant; (7) Western Horsemanship—14 and over—Mary Lee Gorman; (8)

Western Horsemanship—13 and under—Kurt Stimson; (9) Western Horsemanship for ponies—Deborah Webster; (10) English Pleasure—Kim MacLuekie; (11) English Equitation—Annette Pederson; (12) Horse Trail Class—David Ketchum; (13) Pony Trail Class—Laurie Jones; (14) Horse Pole Bending—Ron Strouse; (15) Pony Pole Bending—Laurie Jones; (16) Horse Cloverleaf—Ron Strouse; (17) Pony Cloverleaf—Laurie Jones; (18) Horse Suit Case—Mike Ketchum; (19) Pony Suit Case—Benny Bennett. Gordon Johnson of Charlotte was the Show Judge. The 4-H Horse Show was sponsored by all the Clinton County 4-H Horse Clubs.

The 1970 Dairy Science "V.I.P." Day will be October 8 at Flint. The Dairy Science Fair Exhibit winner for Clinton and 40 other counties throughout the state served by McDonald Company will have the opportunity to participate. The winners will be guests of the dairy for a tour of the Dairy and Ice Cream plant, visit points of interest in Flint tour a TV Station and a special banquet. Winners from previous years indicate the V.I.P. day is quite rewarding. All members taking the dairy science project are urged to start work on their fair exhibits. If they would like some suggestions for exhibit they should contact the Extension Office.

4-H'ers are reminded of the 4-H Day at Tiger Stadium on Saturday July 25 when Detroit plays Chicago White Sox. Tickets are available to 4-H members and their parents for 50 cents each. Reservations and money must be in the Extension Office by July 1 to be sure of a ticket.

Members must secure their own transportation to the game. Letters have been mailed to the 4-H members who won the Barry County 4-H Award Trip, July 18 and 19 at Hastings. Members are urged to return their cards by Wednesday, July 8 if they plan on attending. Adults are needed to drive and help chaperone the weekend camp.

The Scattered South East 4-H Club members have elected Tom Bracey as their president for the new year, other officers include—Vice-President—Jeanne Striz, Secretary and News reporter—Sue Striz and Treasurer—Marty Musoff. The clubs next meeting will be July 7 at the home of George Hazle. Most of the members are planning on attending the July 25 baseball game, at Detroit on 4-H Day.

Age 65: it isn't less life - - it's just a different life

By LORRAINE SPRAGUE
Extension Home Economist

Life doesn't stop offering new and exciting experiences at either age 21 or age 65. But those persons approaching age 65 may need to develop new interests and decide on new routines if retirement from an active job is in the picture.

Most people, young and old, are aware of certain characteristics of increasing age: income tends to decline, the body begins to lose strength, house mortgages may be paid up and fixed payments, such as social security and insurance, end. Many durable goods are already purchased, and tax exemptions broaden.

These and many other considerations are a part of the new life of retirement. It isn't necessarily less life—just different. It takes adjustment and different planning.

Perhaps for the first time in your life you will have more time on your hands than you've ever had before. Or on the other hand you may find yourself involved in so many civic, church and social activities you long for the more scheduled life you've been used to.

Whatever the case may be, especially for the newly retired individual, setting up some sort of a schedule may be helpful both in taking care of that "spare" time and in regulating the numerous "volunteer" activities you engage in. Be sure the schedule allows for some variety. Plan for some new things in your life to add zest and interest.

Learn to enjoy the commonplace in life—observe a beautiful sunset or watch a small child at play. Pursue those special projects and hobbies you've been putting off for so long. Don't depend on your family for entertainment, work out an interesting life of your own. Be community minded.

Keeping physically fit is the best insurance for many happy years. Your doctor should be one in whom you have full confidence. Visit him regularly, even when you feel good. Then he can spot ailments early enough for cure or control. Take care of your hearing and eyesight.

If corrective measures are necessary, wear those hearing aids and glasses with a sense of satisfaction knowing you are taking care of yourself. Such corrective measures no longer are a sign of aging. Look around you for those much younger who use them also. They, like you, are just smart in giving themselves the very best care possible.

Physical exercise suited to each individual, plus a good diet, are all-important to your well-being. Once again, your Doctor is the best person to advise you.

Try to make new friendships as well as restore and hold on to old ones. Relations with others are at their best when you have developed both conversational and listening abilities. Show interest and affection for others and both will return double or more to you. Above all, avoid self-pity.

Personally, don't let yourself down. Accept responsibility, keep on learning, and follow your own good philosophy of living.

Two excellent publications are offered at no charge from your Co-operative Extension office. Get "Before 65" and "After 65" for enjoyable and helpful reading.

 Section 10. In the event the moneys in the Receiving Fund are insufficient to provide for the current requirements of the Operation and Maintenance Fund, a sum sufficient to pay securities in other funds of the System, except sums in the Contract Payment Fund derived from tax levies, shall be transferred to the Operation and Maintenance Fund to the extent of any deficit therein.
 Section 11. Moneys in any fund or account established by the provisions of this ordinance may be invested in obligations of the United States of America, in the manner and subject to the limitations provided in Act 94, Public Acts of Michigan, 1933, as amended. In the event such investments are made, the securities representing the same shall be kept on deposit with the bank or trust company having on deposit the fund or funds from which such purchase was made. Income received from such investments shall be credited to the fund from which said investments were made.
 Section 12. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this ordinance.
 Section 13. All ordinances, resolutions or orders, or parts thereof, in conflict with the provisions of this ordinance are, to the extent of such conflict, hereby repealed and annulled.
 Section 14. This ordinance shall be published once, in full, in the Clinton County News, a newspaper of general circulation within the boundaries of the Village and qualified under state law to publish legal notices, within two (2) weeks after its adoption, and the same shall be recorded in the Ordinance Book of the Village and such recording authenticated by the signatures of the President and Village Clerk.

Much to gain

Development of a sanitary sewer system is indeed a long and sometime tedious assignment. In past times installation of such facilities generally were situated in urban areas or locations of concentrated population. Today, however, far-sighted planners are looking to satisfy future sewage needs by encouraging plans and installation for systems in rural and less populated areas.

In Clinton County, fast-growing DeWitt Township is a fine example.

Many months of planning by various county officials preceded the actual work which is currently being pursued. Ultimately the area will be served by an effective and modern facility which residents and the entire county can look to with pride and satisfaction.

But it was not entirely accomplished by officials alone. Much support and acceptance in any project of this size must come from the families to be served. They must have faith in the estimates for their future needs and be willing to accept what is proposed as a solution to existing difficulties.

The DeWitt Township project can be one which other areas of the county can examine for application to their needs. Particularly the Bath area, where sanitation problems have existed and have become more intense in recent years. There is no question but what a critical condition exists, but no effective progress can be made until citizen support joins with official goals.

There is much to gain in the recognition of sanitary needs and in efforts to meet those needs.

Congrats to Roy

A belated congratulations to Roy Fedewa, the pride of Westphalia.

Winning the soap box derby was something, but when you look at it from the standpoint he had half the younger population of Westphalia to compete against the victory is all the more sweet.

We're not sure at what age they begin driving in that community but if their entries and successes in derby competition are any indication they use race cars as cribs.

Without tongue-in-cheek, however, we do extend best wishes to Roy in future competition and encouragement for the rest of the participants to look forward to next year.

And if you're really serious about being near the top, maybe you better move to Westphalia. . . if you can meet the competition.

Horsepower

By W.E. Dobson

'Mong the old time recollections That recur from days of yore 'Fore we boasted modern speed-up In the doing of each chore; When the garden got too weedy Memory oft serves to repeat Scenes of horse-drawn cultivator And a nag with four big feet

When the vegetables were tiny Rows perhaps a bit untrue Horses oft required a leader If a straight course you'd pursue Check rein served to curb the grazing And wire muzzle made complete Plant protection as we followed Clumsy nags with four big feet.

Garden time is fly time always Any nag despises flies So they'd switch an' stop n' kick a little While your temper'd start to rise Tugs 'n whiffletrees oft suffered Calling us from our retreat To replace the damage suffered By the nag with four big feet.

There's no dearth of gay nostalgia For the days that used to be But I swear I'd not care ever To return to tug and whiffletree I am happy with my Putt-Putt And shall be calm and discreet If I never till the garden Via a nag with four big feet.

Dr. A. C. Henthorn was about to mark his 50th anniversary in medicine. He practiced for another 10 years in St. Johns before his retirement earlier this year. He died shortly after. Herman J. Smith, 64, was killed in a collision at the intersection of Oakland and McConnell streets. Smith, a life-long resident of Clinton County, was employed at Clinton Memorial Hospital. Another tragedy took the life of 8-year-old Deborah Jones, of Laingsburg. She was fatally injured when she was thrown from and pinned under a tractor. There was some brighter news however—the St. Johns firemen promised an "action-packed" Fourth of July holiday program, including a parade and fireworks.

A trial balloon, holiday plans, war loan drive and a fast train—these were headlines of the past

One Year Ago

July 2, 1969

After more than one year of operating on austerity budget programs, St. Johns city commissioners would loft a trial balloon in efforts to test the winds of public reaction. The trial would come in the form of a civic advisory vote Tuesday, July 15 question residents on their feelings about a city income tax.

Two sanitarians were named to positions with the Mid-Michigan Health Department. Receiving assignments with the health unit were Darwin Root from rural Lakeview in Montcalm County and Arnold Minark of Elsie.

The final honor roll from Rodney B. Wilson High School was announced marking the end of an era in St. Johns. The new St. Johns High School was to open its doors the following semester in the fall of 1969.

State Rep. William S. Ballenger of Ovid lashed out at the proposed $4 million appropriation for start of construction on a new State Capitol building, terming it "irresponsible" and "clearly inimical to the public interest."

Saturday was the grand finale of a week's activities at the Ovid Centennial. The beard judging contest preceded the spectacular parade. Plaques were awarded to seven groups like 4-H and churches that entered the event, including eight band entries.

The St. Johns firemen would serve up an action packed Fourth of July holiday program featuring three days of festivities for young and old, chairman Al Northouse announced. The program would open with Children's Day Saturday and included the traditional Independence Day parade and presentation of a new flag on Monday.

Go-cart racers were given the green flag by Circuit Judge Paul R. Cash to run at Willow Creek track, but only on Saturday and Sunday. Judge Cash restricted a temporary restraining order banning racing at the track.

A start on fitting tri-county needs to the region's limited water resources was to be made July 13 at the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission offices in Lansing. Alan R. Dean, commission chairman, said the meeting was the first step toward developing practical, over-all recommendations for Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties on future water resource use.

On July 1, Dr. Gerald Osborn, a St. Johns High School graduate, moved into the president's office at Western Michigan University upon appointment as acting president. The club also voted to sponsor a new advanced troop of Boy Scouts consisting of boys 15 and older. The group named Lawrence Fish troop leader.

Clinton County responded magnificently to a last-minute appeal for additional purchases of War Bonds and exceeded its quota for the Seventh War Loan drive by more than $43,000, according to Edward W. Fehling, chairman of the county war savings committee. The county received credit for nearly $400,000 in bond sales during the final week of the drive. Individual bond buyers went over the top on the county's "E" bond quota by more than $65,000. With a quota of $344,000 in "E" bonds, county buyers purchased $409,482.25 in this type bond.

Two Clinton County farms were the first in Central Michigan to install barn hay drying equipment. Machinery for processing hay in the mow has been installed during the past week in barns on the Livingston farm, north of St. Johns, and the Matthews farm, southeast of St. Johns.

Thirty-three tons of waste paper and more than two tons of rags were brought into the village and city collection centers in the county-wide salvage drive.

Al Rehmann was chosen as president of the St. Johns Exchange Club at the organization's annual election of officers meeting. The club also voted to sponsor a new advanced troop of Boy Scouts consisting of boys 15 and older. The group named Lawrence Fish troop leader.

A committee of three women representing various city women's organizations indicated, through the Clinton Republican, that they wanted a woman on the school board. Among the eight reasons listed were:

—New life is needed and closer supervision and both can be supplied by putting a wide awake, intelligent woman on the school board—not one but two of them.

—It is a general complaint that our students are impractical and unfit to enter business upon leaving high school. Too many impractical problems are given, while problems needed in ordinary business are not emphasized enough. The methods used are not those used by business men.

—The majority of our teachers are women and recommendations they might wish to present to the board could be brought about more easily by a woman, as in the case of sanitary conditions.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

Just for sport

By JIM FITZGERALD

There should be a wolf at every door so a sportsman could shoot it without getting his boots dirty.

This thought occurred to me while watching a SearsRoebuck commercial on TV. I know that sounds strange, Doctor, but I really haven't been feeling well since Agnew became a household word. My neck is sore from typing antiadministration columns while looking back over my shoulder.

Anyway, Sears is selling "sonic fish call" for only $9.95. It's battery operated, you see, and hangs on a line. You drop it in the water and the fish come swimming, lured by some sort of mating sound. And when the fish gets to the sound, and doesn't find another fish waiting with open gills, you know what he does. He bites your hook.

"You'll catch more fish than you ever did before," Sears promises.

Gee; that certainly is marvelous.

Now if Sears could just do something for those wolf hunters. I learned about them via TV, too. Let's face it TV is a splendid source of education. If it weren't for the tube, I wouldn't know anything. I wouldn't even know that Doris Day is hazardous to the health of diabetics.

But about the wolves; This travel-adventure film showed a pack of them running across the snow in Alaska. They were being chased by a low-flying airplane. The wolves didn't have a prayer. The plane swooped down and a man leaned out and pointed his high-powered rifle. Bam, bam, bam. Dead wolves all over the place. What fun!

But it's work, too. And dangerous. That shooter might fall out of his plane. It would be nice if Sears could develop a sonic wolf call. Bring the wolf to the hunter.

Or how about this idea? Play say, sad music in the woods. Constantly. This would depress the animals. They would commit suicide. The hunter's toughest job would be strapping the carcass to his fender or airplane wing. Sears could use the animal's suicide notes in their advertisements.

Of course, animal suicides might take some of the glamor out of the great TV show, The American Sportsman. That's the one where movie stars in armored tanks risk their lives shooting jungle animals with telescopic cannons.

But perhaps the Great White Hunter could prove his virility by standing nearby and actively encouraging the suicide. From the bottom of a cliff he could holler up to a tiger: "Go ahead and jump, you bum."

So he wouldn't have to get too close, Sears could sell him a megaphone. Battery operated. Onward and Upward.

TAKING FIVE

Dope vs bingo

By RON HUARD

My grandmother was three years old when she discovered bingo. From that time until she died some seventy years later there wasn't a bingo game within a radius of ten miles from Bay City that she didn't attend. Some old folks are plagued with arthritis, but her crooked fingers were caused by the bingo bends, a disease brought about by pinching the markers in tense anticipation of each call.

The old lady, or "Mimmie" as we called her, had little else to look forward to in life outside her regular bingo outings. Her husband lost both eyes in the short span of a year and whatever social life they had, before the accidents, it was cut to almost nothing. The mere mention of the work "keno" set Mimmie stuffing a black straw hat on her silver hair and she would head out the door with her heavy coat snapping behind.

I guess she wasn't too alone in her enthusiasm for the game. Back in those days almost every church, organization or group wanting to raise a few extra bucks would hold a bingo and keno parties were like race horses; taking in every event staged. It was a pastime that old ladies loved and in their widowed, waning years, it provided an escape that few other activities could.

Then the guys who encourage such things set about making bingo illegal. The little old ladies might lose up to three dollars on a bad night, but for their own protection we enforced the laws and instead of spending a couple of bucks a week in exchange for pleasure, the little old ladies sat home; not even caring to soak their crooked fingers cuz their playing days were over.

But the horse racing continues. And the lawmakers also continue.

Now they're in the process of relaxing legal guidelines and penalties for possession and use of marijuana. It probably won't be long before we establish a state dope control commission and grant licenses to select merchants to peddle the stuff.

But we won't let old ladies play bingo. It might drain their meager resources and spoil their ethics.

I don't happen to be one who looks with favor on the use of drugs as a social practice so consequently I have little use for trends toward such a thing. Generally I am agreeable to social change but increased acceptance of dope is degenerative rather than progressive, and there is little obvious value in aiding the stuff to become socially acceptable.

It took a long time to find out cigarettes were bad. We already know dope is, but there are those who would still push for relaxed guidelines.

I don't suppose my grandmother, or any of the other grandmas who've gone to their great reward, would have cared about sucking on a marijuana stick. They were too sweet. But not so sweet they wouldn't be raising hell in Lansing. Because, with their common sense, they would be unable to understand the reasoning in our laws.

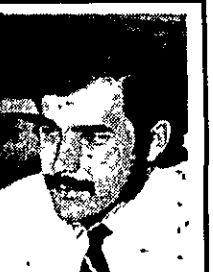

We can't allow bingo games—even if controls are needed—but we're on the verge of allowing controlled use of narcotics. I may not have the common sense Mimmie had, but I don't understand it either.

I'd much rather see a group of golden agers oouung and aashh-ing over the calls of a bingo game than I would a younger person whose mind was so spent from narcotic use he couldn't tell bingo from jaja-lal! Oouus and aashhs are human sounds. Vegetables don't make noises.

Saturday's forgotten man

By TIM YOUNKMAN

The Fourth of July, American Independence Day, mom, flag, country, George Washington, freedom and liberty, the greatness of our people and the brightness of our future.

These will be the topics of discussion Saturday at parades and picnics in every city, in every state of these United States.

Red, White and Blue, Betsy Ross and Francis Scott Key and "One nation indivisible with liberty and justice."

But who remembers the one man responsible for most of these subjects?

Who knows the name of the man who galvanized the Thirteen Colonies, each wishing an end to the blows delivered by King George but each with a different plan or no plan at all?

Who can be called realistically and true the "Father of American Independence"? The same man caused two world-shattering revolutions that have changed the course of human existence, and within the span of a short 20 years.

The man is Thomas Paine.

This was not meant to be a fun guessing game, it is a mild reprimand. It seems odd that in this nation of hero-worship and folklore, the man Thomas Paine and all but a few of his words remain obscure.

What made Paine's efforts so significant?

The nations of the world, from 1776 all of the way back to the foundations of civilization in Egypt—over three thousand years, had accepted monarchy as THE way of governing. The notable exception of Greece also had Alexander the Great.

Paine not only called for a separation of one nation, from another, thus creating two monarchies, which many of the colonists, such as Alexander Hamilton, had in mind. He wanted to see a nation free of kings and titles and the landed gentry. He demanded it.

He hammered away at the British King through newspapers and pamphlets: "Every quiet method for peace has been ineffectual. Our prayers have been rejected with disdain; and only tended to convince us, that nothing flatters vanity, or confirms obstinacy in Kings more than repeated petitioning . . ." He demanded revolution.

"Wherefore, since nothing but blows will do, for God's sake, let us come to a final separation, and not leave the next generation to be cutting throats, under the violated unmeaning names of parent and child," he cried.

"Small islands not capable of protecting themselves, are the proper objects for kingdoms to take under their care; but there is something very absurd in supposing a continent to be perpetually governed by an island. In no instance has nature made the satellite larger than its primary planet," he said.

He called these words "Common Sense." In these and thousands more demanding he formed the basis of this country.

After America declared independence and faced outright war, Paine worked up the nation's anger to a white heat.

In that miserable winter as Washington retreated in the face of a larger and militarily superior army, Paine wrote the first notes of his "American Crisis" on a drumhead.

You remember: "These are the times that try men's souls."

General Washington ordered the words read to his men. Afterward they not only resisted the British but mounted a devastating counterattack.

After the successful American Revolution, Paine challenged another monarchy in France. It fell.

Although a radical in every sense of the word, he was not without morals and human compassion. He was horrified at the Jacobins and Robespierre and the Reign of Terror. But he was blamed by the Americans for stirring up trouble for our former allies.

He died obscure and forgotten.

It would be an important contribution to American freedom and understanding of real liberty if Thomas Paine would be re-admitted to the history books. We are a nation based on the philosophy of equality and liberty.

It would be helpful this Fourth of July to learn and understand the "Common Sense" behind our ideals.

Meeting the government

By RON KARLE, Editor

It was a real grass roots type thing.

The People were up in arms and demanded an audience, face to face, with their government.

The mission involved a delegation from St. Johns—three housewives, the city manager, the editor of the county paper and the state representative. Everybody had his assigned task.

The gals—Jan Bensinger, Sharon Rochon and Carol Maples—represented a local group of people who wanted a traffic light installed where the highway through town intersects a side street. A 12-year-old boy was hit by a car there four weeks before. He died and the town, or at least many in the town, wanted something done.

So here were these gals with 1,700 signatures on their petitions, and they wanted to present them to someone who could do something. That someone was named Henrik E. Stafseth. The title on his letterhead lists his job as state highway director.

The city manager, Mr. Weatherwax, had a resolution to present. It was from the town's city commission which wanted the area studied.

The local representative, Bill Ballenger, had arranged the meeting and was in charge of introductions.

The country editor was there with pad, pencil and camera (with the flash that wouldn't work) to record all and assure that justice was done or at least a proper hearing was accorded.

I got down to Lansing a few minutes early, parked across in a lot across from the Capitol Building for something like 40 cents for half an hour which would hold you for about eight hours in downtown St. Johns.

In case you haven't been down to the seat of our state government in recent weeks, summer is treating it well. The grass contains a perfect shade of green, the flower beds are just so with red flowers dotting the landscape and the trees have a proper stateliness about them.

Walking up the steps (there must be 50 of them) you are a little awed by the structure when you frequent the place as seldom as I do which probably played a part in my tripping on the second step from the top.

The gal at the information desk said Representative Ballenger's office was around the corner, up the stairs to the right and down a hallway and so on.

Well, I made it around the corner before I got lost. I went up one stairway and another and was on the wrong floor. So back down stairs and around a corner and I was back where I began. I set off again and darned if I didn't wind up right back in the same spot.

By then people were looking at me funny.

Somehow it didn't seem like My State Capitol at all; it was theirs and I was lost in it.

But off I went and turned the right corner and kept going to another receptionist. She knew about Mr. Ballenger and assured me she could fetch him and wouldn't I have a seat.

While I was having my seat Mr. Weatherwax arrived with two members of the delegation and announced to the receptionist that he was Mr. Weatherwax, City manager of St. Johns and that he was here to see Representative Ballenger.

The receptionist looked confused and at me and then at Mr. Weatherwax and said it could be done.

This necessitated the bringing in of more seats. I was given a folding chair with Representative Jim Brown's name written with a red marking pencil on some masking tape across the back.

Jim Brown is not my favorite representative of the people and for a moment I considered asking if one of Ballenger's folding chairs or maybe one of Dick Allen's was handy.

I mean, if I'm going to be mistaken for somebody in the House...

But I didn't and I wasn't.

Another member of our delegation arrived and then Ballenger sort of popped out of nowhere looking like he was very busy attending to our interests among his colleagues.

He smiled and shook everybody's hand and said something about a caucus and a roll call vote or something and shortly we were on our way to a building behind the Capitol. It was the most intimidating building I have ever been in. It is made of massive stone and looks like they must keep the money in the basement.

But it had an underground parking garage.

Our business in this building, a new one, took us to the third or fourth floor, where we turned right when we got off the elevator and into an office where a receptionist directed us down a hallway and into a carpeted conference room.

The conference table was made of polished, genuine fake wood with a lot of spotless glass ashtrays on it.

Everybody sat down at the table in these black easy type chairs and we waited for the Man Who Could Do Something.

It seemed like a long way away from the intersection of highway U.S. 27 and Sturgis Street in St. Johns, Michigan. And it was.

REV. HUGH BANNINGA

Rev. Banninga to write a column for the News

Beginning this month, the Rev. Hugh Banninga, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, will provide another and unique viewpoint for the Clinton County News editorial pages.

In these turbulent times, the view of an aware, local clergyman is especially relevant on a myriad of issues—abortion reform, Parochialism, student unrest, the war, church reform—to name but a few.

Rev. Banninga invites readers to submit questions on these and other issues on which he will offer his comments and opinions. Just send your thoughts and questions to him in care of the Clinton County News.

Banninga is 36 and just this month celebrated his sixth anniversary as pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church. He and his wife, Lynn, and their three children Garth 8, Gretchen 6, and Gwen 2 1/2, live at 406 E. Walker St.

Originally from Youngstown, Ohio, Banninga graduated from the University of Michigan with a degree in sociology in 1957, studied theology for a year at Boston University and for the next three years attended Bexley Hall, an Episcopalian seminary formerly associated with Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio.

He was ordained in 1961 and spent the next three years as assistant minister at St. Charles Episcopal Church in Detroit before coming to St. Johns.

Some moral questions and the hundred and one details of health conditions.

The Grand Trunk restored fast train service to Detroit on the D & M division besides adding new trains on the main line. The fast train left St. Johns at 8:51 a.m. daily.

Before one of the largest crowds of the season, the Hayes baseball team more than evened the count with Maple Rapids by taking the long end of a 7-3 score in the second game with the Rapids club.

Guest Editorial from the Grand Rapids Herald: "The presidential ticket which has come from the long and earnest sessions of the seventeenth Republican national convention is superb in every particular and will merit the united and enthusiastic support of all the Republican and most of the Independent voters of Michigan. Without a whit of reservation or equivocation, The Herald is proud to endorse the work that has been done by the Chicago convention. If United States Senator Warren G. Harding of Ohio and Governor Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts become, respectively, the next President and Vice President of the United States..."

Hot dog quality

By REP. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

Michigan's attempt to defend its stringent meat quality standards against a legal challenge from several out-of-state meat packing firms attracted support last week. Joining the suit on the side of the state were the State of Kansas (attempting to protect its own quality standards) and the United Auto Workers Union. The suit is being contested in United States District Court in Grand Rapids.

Three companies—Wilson, Armour, and Hormel—are challenging Michigan's right to impose tighter restrictions on meat quality than the federal government does. If the suit is successful, in other words, meat packers could send products into Michigan which conform with the softer federal rules.

Michigan now has one of the toughest meat quality laws in the nation. In my opinion, the federal standards should be upgraded to the level of protection we offer our residents, not vice versa. In any case, the various states should have the right to provide better meat quality standards.

This attempt by the companies to evade our meat quality standards seems indefensible to me. On the one hand, these companies splash advertisements throughout the media about the "quality" of their products. At the same time they are fighting tooth and nail against meat quality standards.

This seems to call into question the sincerity of their concern over quality products.

These companies want to use animal parts in such ground meat products as hot dogs, sausages, and hamburgers—parts of which are now specifically banned from products sold in Michigan. I seriously doubt whether Michigan residents want their hotdogs stuffed with such unappetizing features as snouts, ears, lips, udders, lungs, stomachs and eyes. Our laws now require unadulterated meat in ground meat products. I think we should keep it that way, and I hope the federal court does too.

A pre-trial hearing on this matter has now been held. According to reports, the next couple of months will be devoted to legal research on the various aspects of the case.

The House last week struck a small blow for women's equality. We passed a bill designed to give women the right to pay alimony and child support in divorce cases.

As you know, this is a privilege we men have selfishly kept to ourselves for quite some time.

The bill specifically strikes all references in our divorce law to "husband" and "wife." It leaves up to the discretion of the court which spouse will be responsible for payment of alimony and support.

The sponsor of the bill, my colleague Dick Allen, has explained: "It simply eliminates those sexual references, which women's rights leaders find so offensive, from the old laws. Custody of children has always been left to the discretion of the judge, but the law always specified that the husband must make payments to the wife. That may on very rare occasions have caused injustices."

Well, even though some of the comments on this bill have been somewhat tongue-in-cheek, it does have a serious purpose. In our rapidly changing society, the husband is not always the bread winner. In many families both the husband and wife work, with the wife supplying a higher income. In such cases, if the children are awarded to the father, the court may well decide that the mother should pay support.

It's interesting to note that five of the six women members of the House voted against this bill when it passed. The sixth was not present. All six had previously supported other attempts to eradicate discrimination against the fair sex.

The measure now goes to the Senate for further consideration.

Letters to the editor

A question of priority

To The Editor

The "People Who Care" committee of St. Johns again wish to urge you to write our state representative, senator, and the Highway Department asking their support in our effort for a safer community.

Do not think that your letter really doesn't matter. If enough people care enough to apply this much effort and write urging the safety of our community to be taken into consideration and urging acceleration of by-pass plans, those at state level must at least recognize both our needs and desires in this area.

We are not asking the impossible. Plans for a by-pass are already made, it is merely a question of priority. If enough people show our state officials that our community's safety matters to us, it may well be the impetus needed at the state level to get these plans activated. We very much need your help. Now is the time when you can be of service to your community as well as to yourself if you are among the many who must use the highway to travel and shop. Please write.
