Fireworks draw 10,000 people here

Thousands of Americans came to St. Johns over the weekend to celebrate Independence Day, and local sponsors of the three-day event at the city park called it the biggest here in recent history.

Estimates of the size of the crowd Monday evening at the talent show, carnival and fireworks display ran from 10,000 on up. Several police and auxiliary police officers said they had never handled or seen as many people in the park at one time.

After a cool, rainy start, July 4 turned out a perfect evening with a star-filled sky as a backdrop for a big fireworks display shot up by the St. Johns Fire Department.

THE BIG CROWD of the weekend was on hand that night to watch. Grandstands on both sides of the football field were filled, and the field itself was liberally dotted with people sitting on blankets watching the display. Thousands of others watched from their autos or backyards or rooftops from as far away as downtown St. Johns.

Police were almost handcuffed by the throng of cars leaving the park after the show. But while it took time to clear the autos out, there were no major problems.

At least two persons were hurt when someone on the football field threw a firecracker into the bleachers during the fireworks display. Ruth Farlay, 24, of Owosso, and Linda Gross, 16, of Anna, Ohio, were treated at Clinton Memorial Hospital.

THERE WERE NUMEROUS other reports of minor injuries caused by thrown firecrackers.

But the general tone of the evening — and all three days of the celebration — was jovial. An estimated 1,500 or more people sat on the hillside overlooking the park bandshell Monday evening for an amateur talent show featuring nine different acts. Ralph Lynam of the St. Johns Lions Club was master of ceremonies.

Judged the best of the acts was a medley of piano numbers by Susan Diehl of rural St. Johns. She was awarded a $25 merchandise prize.

OTHER TOP PRIZE winners were: second place, "The Bent Scepters" of DeWitt (Dave Parker, Brad Ward, Roger Kaminski, Rich Cole and Mike Moller of DeWitt High School playing modern contemporary pop music), $15 merchandise prizes; third place, Scott Younglove, boy soprano of rural DeWitt, who sang three numbers, $12.50 merchandise prizes; fourth place, Nancy Hartman and Jean Fritz of DeWitt with two vocal numbers (accompanied by Mr and Mrs Hartman on the guitar and accordion, $10 merchandise prizes; and fifth place, American Flappers, a tap dance team of Ruth Willette, Linda Cole, Pam Moore and Wendy Ward of St. Johns, $8.

Other acts received gift certificates for having appeared. They included Connie Burnham of rural St. Johns with two vocal selections; Connie and Pat Burnham with a piano and organ duet; Meredith Jones of the Sally Sue Gale School of Dancing at Owosso with two tap dance routines; and Sam Younglove, DeWitt pianist.

RHONDA WOODBURY, last year's first place winner, entertained before show time and opened the show with two numbers on the electronic organ. Wendell Law and his western square dance group entertained with a demonstration of calling and dancing while the judging was taking place.

The fire department, Lions Club and Rotary Club sponsored the weekend program. The carnival show was provided by Crown Amusement Co.

Fire hits ready-mix plant here

Welders sparks apparently touched off a fire early Saturday evening that destroyed a tin shed and put the Randolph Red-Mix plant out of operation for a few days.

Company officials estimated damage at between $3,000 and $4,000.

The shed was at the base of the big elevated mixer, and all the wiring that controlled the plant's operations was destroyed in the fire. St. Johns fireman raced to the scene about 7:30 p.m. Saturday and prevented the fire from spreading to the main building about 15 yards to the west.

A BOTTLED GAS tank pushed flames out nearby to the building when firemen pulled down the sides of the tin shed. One of the two fire trucks taken to the fire had to return to St. Johns for additional water during the two-hour fire operation. Sunday morning about 11:30 firemen were called back to douse some smoldering embers.

None of the mixing plant equipment appeared to have suffered serious damage because of the fire, but the wiring to operate it was completely burned up. An electrician worked on the Fourth of July and Tuesday on repairs. Officials hoped the plant would be back in operation by Wednesday morning. In the meantime, Randolph's was "batching" out of Ithaca and their mixer at the Ovid-Elsie school site.

FIREMEN SAID sparks from an electric welder apparently shot into a sidewall but didn't burst into flame until after workers had gone home Saturday.

Summer tax bills ready to go out

Former area man drowns

Stanley Pewoski, 45, formerly of North Alport Road, R-2, St. Johns, drowned Sunday afternoon at Houghton Lake when he and a niece stepped into a deep hole while wading at the south end of the lake.

Pewoski and his niece, Pamela McCoy, 12, of Lansing, yelled for help, which brought Pewoski's sons, Stanley Jr., 20, and Larry 17. Stanley pulled Pamela to safety, and Larry grabbed his father but was unable to hang on.

HIS FATHER slipped from his grasp in about 15 feet of water some 150 yards from shore. His body was recovered about an hour later by a state police underwater expert.

Mr Pewoski had lived at 200 E. Thomas Street in Lansing for the past year and worked in the shipping department at Motor Wheel Corp.

DeWitt OKs $10,000 to beef up school library

DEWITT — Allocation of $10,000 for additional library books and the implementation of an improved social studies program with learning aids and materials were approved by the DeWitt Board of Education last Tuesday evening.

The action was new steps toward accreditation of DeWitt High School by the University of Michigan. Accreditation involves meeting minimum standards in curriculum quality, courses offered and the number and quality of books in the school library.

IN OTHER business last week, the DeWitt board officially selected architects to handle the $400,000 building program which voters approved June 13. Warren Holmes Co. of Lansing will design the addition to the Scott Elementary School and site work at the high school. Manson, Jackson and Kane, Inc., of Lansing will handle the refurbishing of the C. H. Fuerstenau Junior High School.

Resolutions of gratitude for service were adopted for retiring Supt. Fuerstenau, retiring board President Herbert Hardtke and retiring trustee Marshall Warren. Hardtke has served eight years on the board and Warren six years.

Supt. Hobart Jenkins presented informational reports to the board on the "Title I" (counseling) program, the local Neighborhood Youth Corps program and the local Head Start program. DeWitt's first summer recreation program and the first local summer school program.

The summer school offers classes in reading, social studies, English and arithmetic.

Southwest area school site selected

The St. Johns School Board has taken an option on a 10-acre site at the corner of Lowell and Pratt roads in Riley Township for the new 13-room elementary school to serve the southwest part of the school district.

The property is owned by Robert Law and Richard Rossow and is on the southwest corner of the intersection. The site is a mile south of the Jason School.

Supt. Earl Lancaster said the site was the first choice of three sites the board had considered in the southwest area of the district. No location for the seven-room elementary school in the southeast part has been selected yet, but negotiations are progressing on several possible sites.

PLANS FOR THE additions to the Eureka and East Essex schools were given tentative approval by the board of education at a meeting last Thursday night. The plans, drawn up by C. Douglas Pardee, St. Johns architect, have been submitted to the state board of education and the state fire marshal's office for approval.

Lancaster said it was hoped plans for all four rural elementary building projects would be finalized and ready for submission for bids by Oct. 1.

Permission for the sale of $5.4 million in bonds approved by voters May 7 is now awaiting approval of the Municipal Finance Commission. Getting the approval is just a matter of time, Lancaster said.

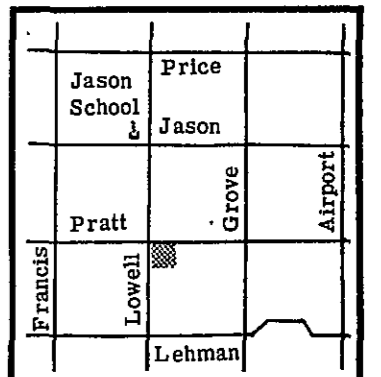

There are these other developments in school news this week:

* RURAL SCHOOL STATUS: If bids on the new rural elementary schools can be taken by Oct. 1, it is possible that not very probable some of the new buildings could be ready for occupancy by the start of school in the fall of 1967. Supt. Lancaster said everything would have to work like clockwork in order to construct a project of this scope in 11 months.

At any rate, it appears the next school year will be the last full year for the one-room school house in the St. Johns district. The new buildings most certainly will be ready before the 1967-68 school year is over.

Meanwhile, the rural schools will operate next year pretty much as they have been, with only a few changes anticipated. Details of the change will be announced later when they are finalized.

* MOBILE CLASSROOMS: Four more mobile classroom units will be put into use in the St. Johns city schools this fall. One will be located at East Ward School where a fourth See SCHOOL SITE SELECTED, Page 2-A

Bob Gay resigns from Chamber board

Robert Gay of F. C. Mason Co. has resigned from the board of directors of the St. Johns Chamber of Commerce, pointing out his work requires him to be away from St. Johns much of the time. Chamber President Leon Brewbaker will announce a replacement on the board soon.

GEORGE W. SMITH

George W. Smith, associated with Investors Diversified Services, Inc., has been elected commander of Edwitt T. Stiles Post No. 153, American Legion of St. Johns. Other officers are: Lial Knight, first vice commander; George McCurry, second vice commander; Walter Russell, adjutant; Percy Carris, financial officer; Pete Welter, sergeant at arms; Lloyd Peterson, chaplain; Keith Mishler, Don Low and Dale Robinson, executive board; and Art Hicks, historian.

grade class will use it. This is a departure from normal, because there hasn't been a fourth grade at East Ward for a number of years; fourth graders in that area have been shuttled to Swegles School. Lancaster said the mobile unit there will handle the East Ward area fourth graders and others being bussed in from the rural areas.

A second mobile unit will be at Swegles School and will handle a combined fifth and sixth grade, taking the pressure off those two grades at Swegles. At Perrin-Palmer School, a mobile unit will be set up for a fifth grade class. Another unit will be set up at the high school adjacent to two mobile units used during the past year; the new building will be used for commercial classes.

The new mobile units were expected to arrive this week. They are 20 by 40 feet in size and are electrically heated. The school will furnish the desks and chairs. Concrete foundations are already in to handle the mobile units.

* FIRST GRADE AT ST. JOSEPH: With a lower first grade enrollment anticipated this year, the public school will operate only two sections of first grade at St. Joseph School instead of three as was necessary last year.

* TEACHER SITUATION: As of last week the contracted teaching staff in the school system was about 16 short. School officials are busy interviewing and contacting prospective teachers in an effort to fill the staff vacancies by the start of school. The exact number of new teachers will not be known until July 8, the deadline by law when teachers must return contracts for the new year. Right now about half the shortage of teachers exists in the rural schools.

Needed are teachers for high school English, mathematics, Latin and girls' physical education; sixth grade elementary teachers; eight rural teachers; speech correctionist; and a stringed instrument teacher.

* BUILDING AND GROUNDS: Between $7,000 and $8,000 worth of alterations are being undertaken at the high school and Central School in St. Johns at the request of the state fire marshal.

At the high school a new door into the hallway is being put in at the east end of the upper-floor library; a partition is being removed between the agriculture room and laboratory; the gymnasium doors are being equipped with synchronizing self-closing hardware; and the entire electrical system is being checked over by the state electrical inspector. Work at the high school will cost around a couple of thousand dollars.

About $5,000 in work is being undertaken at Central School. Wood partitions are being removed, and fire doors are being installed in the hallways.

Car accidents few in county

Three cars were involved in collisions on US-27 at Taft Road Monday in two of the few auto accidents on Clinton County Roads over the long Fourth of July weekend.

The US-27 accidents occurred at 7 p.m. A car driven by Betty B. Averill, 44, of Adrian, stopped quickly to permit a vehicle ahead to make a left turn. Earl D. Baker, 47, of Huntington, Ind., driving behind the Averill car, could not stop in time or swerve because of heavy traffic, and he hit the rear of the Averill car.

MRS. AVERILL and Mrs. L. A. Middaugh, 71, of Rockford, Ohio, one of four passengers in Baker's car, complained of pains.

Shortly after, a car driven by Joseph D. Bennett, 18, of Newberry, rammed the rear of the Baker car. He was taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital for treatment of an arm injury.

Larry J. Fowler, 20, of East Lansing, suffered cuts and bruises and drew a ticket for careless driving as a result of an accident about 9 p.m. Monday on Chandler Road south of Ballantine Road in DeWitt Township.

Witnesses reported helping Fowler get his car out of a ditch on Ballantine Road where he had run off the road. When he got the car out, witnesses said, he took off at a high rate of speed without lights on. He reportedly turned the lights on just before he swerved from the wrong side of the road, crossed Chandler, hit a culvert and rolled over.

All too often when a stroke of good luck brings a few extra bucks into one's grasp, a corresponding stroke of bad luck uncovers a need for its immediate expenditure.

Bank branch's open house set

A three-day open house at the new Valley Farms office of the Clinton National Bank & Trust Co. is scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, July 13, 14 and 15.

Robert LaFave, office manager, and his staff will welcome visitors during the three-day event at the new bank building near the Big E Shopping Plaza on US-27, two miles north of Lansing. Open house hours will coincide with banking hours on those days—10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday and 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday.

THE NEW 26 x 50-FOOT bank building houses a spacious lobby with three teller stations, a conference room and employees' lounge. There is also a drive-up window at the rear of the building, a night depository and after-hours envelope depository for the convenience of bank customers.

The present bank structure is designed for temporary use, bank officials say. A new permanent building is planned for a location east of the present site.

In addition to Manager LaFave, the staff at the Valley Farms office includes Mrs. Dawn Frost and Miss Mary Witt, tellers.

C. Jack Richards of St. Johns has been awarded a diploma from Colgate Rochester Divinity School, Rochester, N.Y. One of 48 men and women who completed programs in preparation for the Protestant ministry and church vocations at Colgate Rochester this year, Richards received the bachelor of divinity degree.

He is the son of Mr and Mrs W. F. Richards of St. Johns and is a member of the First Congregational Church here. He graduated from Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo in 1962. Richards will become minister of the First Congregational Church at Coloma Aug. 1. He will be preaching in the St. Johns Congregational Church this Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

O'Neill play next at Ledges

The Ledges Playhouse will present a third kind of comedy next week, its third week of production in Fitzgerald Park, Grand Lodge. Eugene O'Neill's "Ah, Wilderness!" will be featured, a play O'Neill called "a comedy of recollection." It will open Tuesday evening, July 12, and run through Saturday, July 19.

This play is of particular interest to young and old alike. About the Miller family in the year 1906, it demonstrates that the conflict between parents and teenagers is nothing new. Young Richard Miller, played by Jay Davis, is just at the age where he feels he must rebel against everything — including parental control. He thinks he's fallen in love, if he just knew what love was all about.

His parents, portrayed by Nancy Cole and Richard Thomson can only worry and threaten to punish a boy who is almost a man.

And when Richard comes home drunk, after his first try at drinking, the family is in an uproar. Only Uncle Sid, played by John Peakes, is capable of understanding—Uncle Sid has a drinking problem of his own.

SEAMAN GILMORE

Seaman Recruit LEE C. GILMORE, 17, USN, son of Mr and Mrs Leo B. Gilmore of 310 W. Stoll Road, DeWitt, has completed seven weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

In making the transition from civilian to sailor, he was taught and supervised by experienced Navy petty officers. He learned the basic skills of seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other basic subjects.

Upon completion of his recruit training, he was assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires, and the needs of the Navy.

Barrier helps solve most home moisture ills

If you have a moisture problem in your home—whether too much or too little—the basis of the problem may be a moisture barrier.

Carlton Edwards, agricultural engineer with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service, says every home must have a moisture barrier. The purpose is to control desired moisture's escaping.

A moisture barrier is usually built into new homes. In new construction it is often a plastic sheet under the plaster board or paneling on all outside walls.

IF YOUR HOUSE is older and doesn't have a barrier, you can add one to help control the moisture problem, Edwards explains.

To create a moisture barrier, give all outside walls two coats of aluminum paint. You'll do the painting on the WARM side, or the inside, of the wall. You'll need to use the aluminum paint on the outside walls and ceilings of each room. The partitions that divide up the interior space don't need moisture barriers.

When the aluminum paint is dry, you can cover it with whatever type and color of decorative coat you wish, Edwards adds.

THE MOISTURE barrier will keep moisture inside the room from escaping into the walls. If moisture reaches the insulation, and it becomes damp, the insulation becomes a conductor of heat, rather than an insulator, Edwards explains.

Seaman Recruit RICHARD D. VARDON, USN, son of Mr and Mrs Harold S. Vardon of 400 Wight Street, St. Johns, has completed seven weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of his naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or at his first shore station.

Upon completion of his recruit training, he was assigned to a school, shore station or ship, according to the results of his Navy classification tests, his own desires, and the needs of the Navy.

Eleven members of the class of 33 students were present; 10 other members have died, four others could not be contacted and the others were not able to attend. This group got together early last Wednesday afternoon at Daley's Restaurant, read letters from those unable to attend and talked over the 50 years since graduation. Left to right are: seated, Ruth Hall LeGros of Detroit, Sadie Jones of Grand Ledge, Eris Lyon Winslow of Kalamazoo, Florence Foley Thornton of Troy, Robina McAuslan Copley of Birmingham, and Mabel Gower Reynolds of Seal Beach Calif.; standing, Julia Lee and Roland Lee of St. Johns, Zora Becker Randall of St. Johns, Maude White Miller of Grand Rapids, Lewis Thornton of Troy, Ann Miller Baumann of Lansing, and Arlington Reynolds of Seal Beach, Calif.

An interesting planter can be made from eggs hollowed out first by blowing. Draw a circle about the size of a nickel on the side of the egg. File this hole out to size of circle. (A three cornered file works best.) Rinse with water and let dry thoroughly. Glue egg to a homemade pedestal made by gluing a detergent bottle cap to any shallow can lid. When dry, paint egg and base with various colors of enamel. When dry, fill the shells (do not pack) with good garden dirt. About a week before Easter, plant three bean seeds in each shell and water. Be careful not to water too much. Place in a sunlit window for seeds to sprout.

Fire damages ready-mix plant

Firemen "mop up" after quelling a blaze that caused between $3,000 and $4,000 damage Saturday evening at the Randolph Ready-Mix Plant north of St. Johns. Sparks from a welder's torch were blamed. The fire shut the plant down for half a week while wiring was repaired.

DeWitt, Bath GOP group formed

Bath and DeWitt township Republicans formed a new club June 23 when 20 persons became charter members of the Bath-DeWitt Republicans Organization.

Don Ewing was elected chairman. Other officers are: Virgil Zeeb, vice chairman; Marge Karger, secretary; and Eileen Cable, treasurer. Directors are Warren Dobson, Walter Lusk, Celia Morgan and Phil Thomas.

The officers and directors constitute the governing body of the new club, and they held their first meeting at the home of the chairman June 30. A standing membership and program committee was appointed.

THE FIRST GENERAL meeting of the new organization is scheduled for July 26 at the DeWitt Township Hall (Brook Street and Welland Road). The meeting has been designated as a "meet the candidates session," with 28 candidates for township or state offices being invited to come and introduce themselves.

Isn't it wonderful what a bang people (on TV) can get out of coffee, tea, cigarettes, headache tablets, and breakfast flakes, not to mention beer and armpit deodorant?

TIPS ON BUYING PRINTING

1. CONSULT YOUR PRINTER BEFORE YOU MAKE FINAL PLANS. Your printer's experience can serve you well in achieving desired results with the greatest possible economy. But his experience goes unused if you call him in after all elements of the job have been finalized beyond possibility of change.
2. ALLOW SUFFICIENT TIME FOR QUALITY THAT WILL MAKE YOU PROUD. In spite of wide-spread automation, printing is a craft that makes valuable use of human skills, talents and judgments. THINKING needs time. Ink needs time to dry. Chemicals etch plates at fixed rates of speed. Even the fastest presses have limits on their per-hour production capacity.
3. SAVE MONEY BY VOLUME BUYING. Unit costs drop substantially as copies increase in number. You can avoid repeat start-up costs by planning your printing purchases to accommodate your long-range needs. Under-buy-
4. PREPARE EXPLICIT INSTRUCTIONS. Inprinting as in all other manufacturing, errors and vacillating decisions can be expensive. State your requirements clearly . . . and, whenever possible, in writing. If any doubt exists, consult the supplier. A few words of explanation at the right time can save hours of production time.
5. PROVIDE THE NECESSARY MATERIAL AT ONE TIME. "Copy to come" is said to be the most expensive phrase in the language. COMPLETE copy and COMPLETE art work results in complete satisfaction and utmost economy.
6. WHEN OBTAINING ESTIMATES — BE REALISTIC, BE FAIR. Only when you provide the estimators with uniform and detailed specifications, can the estimates have real meaning.

Farm fires take human toll, too

Not only are many animals, buildings and crops destroyed annually by fire, but far too many people lose their lives in those same fires.

Statistics show that in 1963 alone over 600 people lost their lives in farm fires, relates Richard Pfister, Michigan State University Extension Safety engineer.

Pfister suggests that before a fire kills someone very dear to you, have all electrical outlets, electrical equipment and farm equipment inspected for possible fire hazards.

Ministry began in Canada in 1910 Pair wed June 25

The Rev. G. Moore Morgan came to St. Johns in 1945, 35 years after he was ordained at Pro Cathedral by Bishop Cyprian Pinkham of the Diocese of Calgary of Western Canada.

The first assignment he was given after his ordination was at Gladys and Dinton, about 45 miles south of Calgary in Western Canada. After being there about 18 months he was assigned to Munson.

It was a new district just being opened up for homesteading. A railroad was being built to Munson.

WHEN FATHER Morgan arrived there Nov. 1, 1911, there were only about 50 people living in the town proper. In the town was a small group of frame buildings which included a general store, a drug store, a livery barn, a boarding house, a pool-hall, a Chinese restaurant and a post office.

There were two houses in the town and several shacks and the rectory was one of the latter.

HE WAS IN CHARGE of four missions while based in Munson. Verdant Valley was 12 miles east; Cook's School House, six miles east; Drummeller, nine miles south and Hannah, 45 miles east.

Munson was the only place with a church building. The other services were held in school houses or on the prairie.

The only reliable means of transportation in the area was by saddle horse.

FATHER MORGAN recalls many times being out on the prairie going from one settlement to another with the thermometer at 35 below zero or lower.

Around Munson at the time there were many English boys, younger sons who had come to Canada to seek their fortunes. It was the custom at that time in England to send boys who could not make good at home to the colonies. A family in the professional class would lose face if their sons had to work in the trades.

The Mounted Police was made up mainly of the younger sons of British aristocracy.

IN JUNE OF 1913 Father Morgan was called back to his home in Toronto due to serious illness in his family. It was during this time he renewed his acquaintance with a girl he met five years earlier.

His vow to remain single was pushed aside and he and Alice were married at St. Stephen's Church of Toronto July 9. Practically the whole town of Munson turned out at the railroad station to see his bride.

About a year later they moved to a more "civilized" area, Stettler, a town of 1500.

By the time they made their next move to Surrey Centre, British Columbia, in 1917, they had two children, George Edward and Margaret Elizabeth (Peggy). George died during WWII in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines.

SURREY CENTRE had been a logging area but by the time they moved there the logging days were over and the people were making their livings from bush farming.

These war years were hard on the clergy as living costs skyrocketed and it was difficult to make ends meet.

Their third child, John Emilie, was born in 1918 while they were at Surrey Centre.

THEIR NEXT MOVE was to Sardis. In Sardis they had a rectory which was a modern home and they recalled it was a nice change after all their pioneer type homes with few if any modern conveniences. Their youngest child, Richard, was born there.

It was 1923 when they left Sardis and went to Gleichen. It was a small dusty almost treeless town about 50 miles east of Calgary on the transcontinental railroad.

A Blackfoot Indian tribe reserve bordered the town and was separated by the railroad tracks. There were over 800 on the reserve.

THEIR FINAL move in Western Canada in 1924 was to Mirror.

He and his family moved to the United States shortly after and spent the Depression years in Iowa.

The Morgan family spent 12 years at Creston, Iowa, before they moved to Bad Axe, Mich.

In 1945 they moved to St. Johns and have remained here into retirement. Father Morgan retired from the active ministry in April of 1956.

More than 50 percent of Michigan's total land area is still classed as forest and wild land. Forests help make Michigan unexcelled as a tourist state.

Fruit for company low calorie, good

by HELEN B. MEACH Extension Home Economist

The next time you have the gang at your house... keep the refreshments simple. Probably most of your guests are counting calories... or thinking they should. So skip the gooey foods and turn to the fresh fruit displays at your store—plus those from your garden.

Here's one idea... start with a fresh cantaloupe... cut it in rings. Then lay your cantaloupe ring on a base of bright green leaf lettuce. Of course you have removed the rind... so that the yellow meat is all that remains on the lettuce. Now fill the center of the cantaloupe ring with other fresh fruit.

YOU COULD INCLUDE big, dark red sweet cherries, tiny green seedless grapes, strips of fresh peaches and maybe some watermelon balls. The salad looks prettier if some of the fruit spills over to the outside of the ring. And it tastes better if you serve it with a sweet fruit dressing.

Then get prepared to receive compliments on your fresh fruit salad... because it looks pretty... tastes good... and because you didn't overdo the calories! An assortment of fresh Michigan fruit is now coming into season.

FISHING LINES

By DICK WOLFF

Two fishermen can go to a tackle shop, buy identical lures, fish the same lake — even from the same boat — and one may consistently outfish the other. There are reasons why.

First, the successful fisherman avoids "getting into a rut." He varies his retrieve on successive casts, experimenting to find the most productive speed and action for his lure. For instance, he may reel in an ABU-Reflex spinner slowly, so that the blade barely revolves. He may let his Finlandia plug float quietly for a few seconds, twitch it several times, then begin an erratic floating-diving retrieve. He varies the depth at which his lure runs, too, until he finds feeding fish. His fishless companion probably reels at the same unproductive speed and depth.

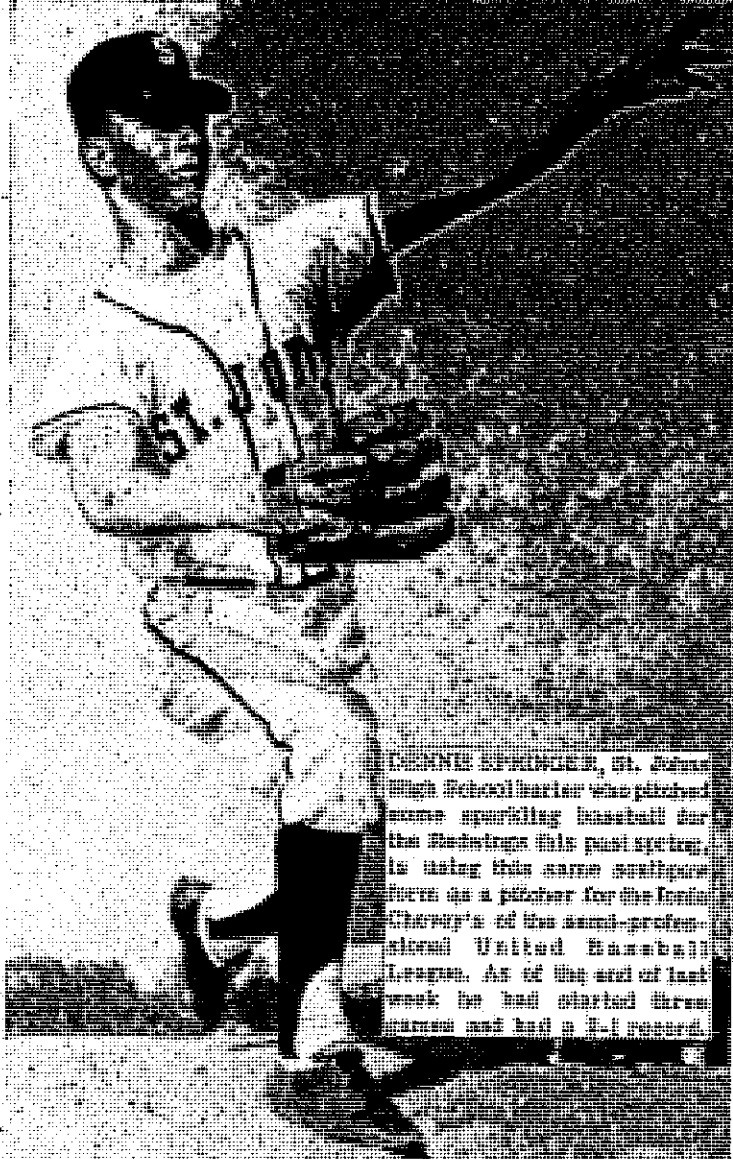

Second, the successful angler has studied fish environments and habits carefully. He's learned some parts of a lake are as barren of fish as a bathtub, while other spots are favorite "hang-outs." He knows that rocks, sunken reefs, brush piles and weeds are good hiding places for fish. He casts very close to them. He knows how long to let a lure sink to get it at the right depth for retrieve. The successful angler keeps alert for tell-tale signs of fish like wakes in shallows or splashes in deeper water as the big fish chase careless frogs or pursue schools of minnows.

A third factor is proficiency with tackle. The expert plans to cast within inches of a brush pile, and puts his lure right on target. The fishless angler may lack the skill to come so near and fails to provoke lurking fish into striking. The expert sets the hook smartly when he gets a strike, keeps his line tight, yet doesn't "horse" the fish to the boat.

A fourth reason for success is care of tackle. The successful angler is likely to clean and lubricate his Mitchell reel and wipe the ferrules of his rod after a day on the water. He checks his line for frayed spots. As a result, he wastes no fishing time cleaning his gear in the field. He knows that everything will work perfectly when he hooks a big fish.

Finally, there is the "luck" factor. Or is it luck? Occasionally, the duffer may take fish when he seems to be doing everything wrong. The expert may go fishless. The expert, however, will observe and make mental notes of the "mistakes." Next time out, he may use the "mistakes" as a basis for a new fishing technique. Lots of successful new methods have started like this.

In these ways, the thoughtful fisherman "makes his own luck," and depends lots less on chance. He consistently gets more fish, too.

Dennis Springer, St. Johns High School senior who pitched the winning game for the team in the St. Johns Class A Softball League, is taking this rare snapshot of himself as a pitcher for the team. Springer is the semi-professional United Baseball League. As of the end of last week he had pitched three games and had a 3-1 record.

Springer pitching in semi-pro league

Dennis Springer, who graduated from Rodney B. Wilson High School in St. Johns last month, is continuing his baseball career this summer with the semi-professional Ionia Chevys of the United Baseball League.

As a pitcher, he has already compiled a 2-1 record after starting and playing in three games as of the end of last week. Sunday he was scheduled to pitch the second game of a double header between Ionia and Ann Arbor.

IN HIS LONE DEFEAT early last week, Springer struck out 14 opposing batters and attempted to help his own cause by hitting a home run. But he lost the game 5-3.

His victories included a 5-2 win in which he pitched the first six innings, and an 8-2 four-hitter in which the opponents' runs were all unearned.

Springer was assigned to the Ionia squad by Walter Schweitzer, baseball scout for the Boston Red Sox.

Recreation boys lose 10-5 ball game

The St. Johns Recreation baseball team of youngsters aged 9-12 took it on the chin last Tuesday night, dropping a 10-5 decision to Lansing. Dick Brunner pitched a five-hitter for St. Johns and fanned seven batters, but the defense behind him was "shaky." Tom Pung and Ken Schueller got the only St. Johns hits; bases on balls and heads up base-running accounted for St. Johns' five runs.

Sox. The United Baseball League consists of Ionia, Grand Rapids, Muskegon, Adrian, Wyoming, Ann Arbor, Angola (Ind.), and Toledo (Ohio) teams.

THE SEMI-PROFESSIONAL teams are watched closely by scouts, with the better players being assigned to minor league baseball teams.

Springer is the son of Mr and Mrs Russell Springer of 405 Meadowview Drive.

Eureka nips girl softballers 14-13

St. Johns girl softballers lost another high scoring game last Wednesday night, this time to the Eureka Senior Co-Eds, 14-13.

For St. Johns, Linda Berkhausen, Jan Fowler, Janie Barger and Dorothy Williams had two hits each. Fowler and Barger had three-baggers, while Berkhausen, Williams and Jean Muckie had doubles. Barger was the losing pitcher in relief of Fowler.

For Eureka, Eakins, Clark, Lorraine Harger and Renie Jorae had three hits each. Harger had two three-baggers and Clark had a home run. Renie Jorae was the winning pitcher.

St. Johns collected 11 hits to Eureka's 14.

BOWLING NEWS

COFFEE CUP LEAGUE — The last week of summer bowling proved to be an interesting one when the two top teams split the tie, with the Hot Shots dropping four games to put the Pin Heads in first place by a half-game. The Cookies Cuties had the highteam scores of 459 game and 1212 series. Teams in order of finish were Pin Heads, Hot Shots, 3 of Us, Cookies Cuties, Pin Pals, Starlighters, Fireballs and Merry Markers.

Car rolls, collides

A car owned by Charles W. Ostaszeski, 47, associated with the King Bros. Circus, rolled backwards out of the Standard gasoline station at US-27 and M-21 Friday morning and hit an auto driven by Danon E. Harnah, 17, of Ionia. No one was hurt.

Dean's rapped out a 3-0 victory over Bee's last Tuesday evening to start out the week of play in the St. Johns Class A Softball League. Larry Sharick gave up two hits and fanned 11 men. Rich Randolph was the losing pitcher. Morris Sharick had a double and Hallard hit safely twice for Dean's.

In the second game Benson's outlasted Davis Cycle Shop 11-10. Miller was the losing pitcher, and Snider picked up the win in relief of Mohnke. Reed had three hits and Miller and Micka two for the Cycles. Gary Bashore had a triple. Benson's hitting was led by Bob Every who had two safeties. Davis had 11 hits to 10 for Benson's.

LAST WEDNESDAY night saw Co-Op and Roadhouse play to a 3-3 tie with the game called because of the time limit. It will be rescheduled from the point of finish. Crosby and Love were hooked up in a pitcher's duel when the game was called.

Benson's, in another close one last Wednesday, edged Bee's 7-6. Bakita, Hambleton and Farrier each had two hits and Al Hayes collected three to lead Benson's 12-hit attack. Bee's got five hits off Snider, the winner. Rich Randolph absorbed the loss.

Benson's won their first game of the second round last Thursday by stopping Dean's 5-3. Bob Every, Dan Bakita and Al Hayes had two hits each. Morris Sharick had two hits for Dean's, Dick Pung started for Dean's, and Jerry Sharick came on in the third inning. Benson's rapped out eight hits while Dean's collected six. Snider recorded the victory, and Pung got the loss.

Becker's, behind Larry Kohagen, edged Davis Cycle Shop 7-6 in the second game. Becker's jumped off to a 5-0 lead in the first inning on a home run by Jim Barker, his third of the year. Tom Hufnagel had two hits, along with Barker and Kohagen. Bensinger and Larry Kelly had two hits each for Davis Cycle Shop. Kohagen was the winning chucker, giving up eight hits; Jack Kelly gave up 10 hits and was charged with the loss.

No 'sure-fire' cure yet for motion sickness

Life has its ups and downs, as any homespun philosopher will assure you at the drop of an elevator. But even philosophers can lose that mellow outlook when caught in the up and downs of a storm-tossed ship or plane.

Not long ago the scary specter of motion sickness decided the shape of many people's vacation plans. But in recent years seasickness, air sickness and related horrors have been yielding to new medical knowledge.

NOT THAN ANY surefire cure has been found. Once the dreary malady has marked you for its own, there is little to do except perform the ancient rituals that so amuse people when they're happening to the other fellow. But in the field of prevention it's hardly too much to say that a corner has been turned. Drugs now available are so effective that hardly anyone need fear the billowing wave or the stormy sky provided he takes his medicine at the right time.

Motion sickness is due mainly to stimulation of the complicated inner ear apparatus (doctors call it the labyrinth) caused by changes of direction or speed of motion. The more sensitive the labyrinth, the greater proneness to motion sickness. Plenty of fresh air, a light diet, and moderation in the use of alcohol will lessen your chance of becoming a victim.

IF YOU ARE susceptible to motion sickness, consult your doctor (not your druggist) about preventive medication. Most such medications should be started before embarking; follow your doctor's advice.

Most important of all: take only what the doctor recommends. That way you will avoid the danger of serious side effects from a drug that might be all right for some others, but all wrong for you.

39 guests at Country Club June 29

All clubs day at the Clinton County Country Club was held Wednesday, June 29. In the morning 72 played golf and 39 were guests from Alma, Clare, Portland and Ithaca.

Rolls and coffee were served at 8:30 a.m. and a luncheon was served at 12:30 by the committee consisting of Doris Munger, Marge Irish, Retha Cook, Maxine MacLueckie and Barbara Wirick.

After a short business meeting Portland was awarded a golf plaque for winning the invitational June 20.

Green Tee Club awarded prizes to Lillian McKinley of Ithaca for low actual score of 44 and Dorothy Newberry of Alma for low putts.

Doris Hicks had low actual score of St. Johns, Margaret McKay had low handicap and Helen Judd, low putts.

Three tables of bridge were in play in the afternoon with Agatha Mankey with high score and Vira Montague, low.

Unless they are hemmed in by man, all streams will flow in curves, reports the U. S. Geological Survey. Natural channels are seldom straight for more than a distance of 10 times their width. Thus, a stream 100 feet wide will have straight stretches no longer than about 1,000 feet.

Salt once was so scarce and precious that it was used as money. Roman soldiers received part of their pay in salt. This portion of their pay was known as "salarium," and it is from this word that the word "salary" is derived.

A farmer with a modern tractor can cultivate as much corn in two hours as he could year with a team of horses in an entire day.

The estimated rate of population growth in the U. S. last year was 1.21 per cent. The Census Bureau reports this is the lowest figure since 1945.

4th of July decorations wrapped up

This is hardly what Mr and Mrs Richard Cornwell of 300 E. Higham Street, St. Johns, expected in the way of Fourth of July decorations, but they got a big bang out of it anyway. Friday night while the Cornwells slept with windows and doors open to beat the heat, youngsters quietly wrapped and twirled toilet tissue between the porch railings and over the shrubbery in front of the home. This type of thing seems to be a fad in the Lansing area; the Cornwells had quite a chuckle over it, even while taking it down, but point out to youngsters many others might not feel the same way.

MANY NEW PUBLIC CAMPSITES IN MICHIGAN

Nearly 1,700 new public campsites have been opened in Michigan this year in an effort to meet the growing interest in camping vacations, according to the Michigan Tourist Council. More than 1,200 campsites have been added in state parks and recreation areas and nearly 470 in state and national forest campgrounds.

The 1966 Michigan Campground Directory lists 17,331 prepared campsites in 350 parks, recreation areas and campgrounds, maintaining the state's position as one of the nation's leading camping areas. THE TOTAL includes 12,144 campsites in 65 state parks and recreation areas, 2,291 in 139 state forest campgrounds, 1,638 in 86 national forest campgrounds, and 1,258 in 60 county, township and city parks.

Making its debut this season is a new state park, Tawas Point on Tawas Bay near East Tawas. The park has 202 campsites and features an excellent beach, hiking, swimming and boating.

Great day at Westphalia

Westphalia area folks had a great time Sunday when thousands of them turned out for the annual St. Mary's Parish Festival. These scenes during the afternoon were duplicated in the evening when big crowds attended musical programs, a dance and fireworks display.

Plan ahead—make your vacation more enjoyable

Careful advance planning can mean the difference between an enjoyable vacation and disappointment, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

It isn't too early to start thinking about a Michigan vacation, and the Tourist Council suggests you take advantage of balmy spring weather to shop for a summer hideaway.

The look-before-you-book practice is a sound one and early vacation shoppers will find many spring events on tap between now and Memorial Day, including:

MAPLE SYRUP festivals, Shepherd and Vermontville; National Trout Festival, Kalkaska; blossom festivals, Benton Harbor-St. Joseph and Traverse City; Tulp Time, Holland; mushroom festivals, Lake City and Boyne City, and the re-enactment of the Fort Michilimackinac Massacre, Mackinaw City.

Sportsmen will be in the spotlight with trout, walleye, muskie and pike fishing, and several canoe races.

Vacation shoppers will also find a variety of activities scheduled throughout the state during Michigan Week, May 15-21.

Part of the fun of any vacation comes in planning where to go and what to see. With a wide variety of accommodations, from plush hotels to rustic lakeside cottages, there is something to fit nearly every pocketbook. Many resorts offer "package vacations" with the price including both lodging and food.

VACATIONERS can do themselves and resort operators a favor by writing early for reservations. The operators will be more able to book choice accommodations if contacted in early spring.

Vacationers should be specific in outlining vacation plans when requesting information. The number in the party, arrival time, meals and services desired will aid a resort in making reservations.

Don't hesitate to ask for advice on the kinds and amount of clothing to bring.

IF YOU ARE traveling by auto the route to and from the area is a prime consideration. Highway maps and travel guides will help in planning these routes and side trips to interesting historic sites and scenic vistas.

MONUMENTS AT Ludington, Marquette and St. Ignace pay homage to Father Jacques Marquette who established an Indian mission in the latter community in 1671 and was buried there following his untimely death in 1675 at the age of 38.

Baraga County in the western upper peninsula commemorates the name of another of northern Michigan's best remembered religious workers, Bishop Frederick Baraga. His original mission, pulpit and altar, more than a century old, are preserved at Eagle Harbor. Two days after the French explorer Antoine Cadillac founded Detroit in 1701, a missionary priest established St. Anne's Church, the second oldest continuously maintained Roman Catholic parish in the United States.

FATHER Gabriel Richard, St. Anne's pastor in the early 1800's, is remembered as a leader of efforts to establish educational facilities for Indians and whites, as the only Roman Catholic priest to serve in Congress and as publisher of Michigan's first newspaper. Father Richard and Reverend John Monteith, a Presbyterian, organized the University of Michigan in 1817.

Ninth Street Christian Reformed Church in Holland is a reminder of early Reformed and Christian Reformed movements in America.

Indians deserve thanks for highway routes

Michigan travelers follow paths once trod by Indians as they zip over modern highways to their favorite vacation haunts, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Centuries before Columbus discovered the new world, Michigan Indians were carving the narrow trails that would be used by explorers, settlers and highway builders.

The Indian trails, as do highways today, connected major villages and led to the best hunting and fishing areas.

BEST KNOWN OF the Indian routes was the Sauk Trail, the forerunner of the Detroit-Chicago Pike, which made possible the stagecoach runs of the 1800's, and became US-12.

Other famous trails were the St. Joseph Trail, a predecessor of Interstate 94, and the Grand River Trail, a forerunner of Interstate 96. The Saginaw Trail is closely approximated by today's Interstate 75.

The Straits of Mackinac, the five-mile expanse of water separating Michigan's two peninsulas, was an obstacle for the Indians, but a Chippewa legend foretold of a day when an Indian brave would fell a huge pine tree that would span the water.

THE $100 MILLION Mackinac Bridge, completed in 1957, realized that dream. It connects modern counterparts of two Indian trails, the Mackinac in northern Lower Michigan and the Sault-Green Bay across the Upper Peninsula.

Other well-known Indian trails in Michigan were the Notawasee and Flight of the Shawnee in Lower Michigan, and Lac Vieux, L'Anse-Marquette and Carp River in the Upper Peninsula. All are approximated today by state highways, attesting to the red man's skill in selecting the best routes.

Before the white man came to Michigan, the Indian trails were only wide enough for single file traffic. Trappers and explorers, with their pack horses and bulky roads, widened the paths by breaking off tree branches and brush.

WHEN SETTLERS moved to Michigan, their ox-drawn wagons opened the trails still further, but the paths bore faint resemblance to anything we would call a road.

The evolution from Indian trail to superhighway saw several advances in the early 1800's.

Michigan's first champion of good roads was Rev. Father Gabriel Richard, pastor of St. Ann's Parish on Mackinac Island and the only priest ever elected to Congress.

Father Richard argued in 1825 for construction of a military road between Detroit and Chicago. Such a road, he told Congress, would open the Michigan Territory and the West to settlers from the east, and the sale of land would enrich the national treasury.

CONGRESS appropriated $3,000, double the amount sought, and construction was started that same year. The government survey party planned to build a straight road, but when that proved impractical they followed the well-marked Sauk Trail, located on high ground, along watersheds and streams.

Corduroy roads were another early development, usually built in swampy areas by laying big logs side-by-side, as close together as possible. Depressions between logs were filled with smaller logs. The roads were rough at first, but got smoother as the tops of the logs wore off.

The corduroys didn't last long, however, as the logs rotted and became dangerous for horses and uncomfortable for people in wagons. Strangely, they were called "pleasure roads."

PLANK ROADS were next and a national sensation when introduced in the 1840's. But they also rotted, caught fire, were swept away by floods, or carried away by building material.

Mark Twain, on a lecture tour that took him over a plank road to Grand Rapids, was asked how he liked his trip.

"The road wouldn't have been so bad if some scoundrel had not now and then dropped a plank across it," he quipped.

The plank road companies—Michigan had 121 of them—soon went out of business. Railroads came to the Midwest and road-building was neglected until the turn of the century.

THE HORSELESS carriage revived interest in highway construction, but it was a bicycle enthusiast, Horatio S. Earle, who started the ball rolling for creation of the Michigan State Highway Department.

The department was formed in 1903 and "Good Roads" Earle became its first commissioner two years later. He was given a budget of $30,000 and a mandate to "get Michigan out of the mud!"

Michigan's road building activity in the 20th century has enjoyed national prominence and today the state has more than 1,200 miles of superhighway to help make vacation travel more enjoyable.

For information on how to use Michigan's present network of roads, highways and superhighways to take advantage of a wide variety of recreational activities the state offers, write the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, Mich., 48926.

Delta county farmers in Michigan's Upper Peninsula have set state and national yield records for the growth of nonirrigated potatoes, more than 1,040 bushels an acre.

Site for new Ice Land arena identified

"There are no chiefs, but a lot of Indians behind Ice Land of Greater Lansing, Inc.," says John R. Barnes, president, at left, Barnes and Jack D. Gunther, president of Greater Lansing Amateur Hockey Assn., right, prove the statement by putting the finishing touches on the sign that identifies the eight-acre site on the west side of Okemos-Mason Road, midway between I-96 and Okemos. The sponsors hope to sell 10,000 shares of stock, at $10 each, to get the finances necessary to secure adequate mortgage money to construct the $400,000 indoor ice arena, which will serve Clinton County as well as Ingham and Eaton.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The board of Clinton County road commissioners has made several changes in supervisory personnel lately.

The changes began in May when Clayton Fisher became ill with heart trouble. When it became apparent Fisher would be off for some time, Glen Schlarf was appointed to take the maintenance foreman's work on the east side of the county. Clayton Fisher started work at the road commission in October 1932 and became east side maintenance foreman in 1958. Glen Schlarf was a scraper truck driver before he was moved up to foreman. He comes from the Ashley area and now lives near Maple Rapids; he has been with the road commission for 14 years.

ANOTHER BIG CHANGE became effective July 1. Fred Crowell, construction foreman and state highway foreman, has retired. Crowell started to work on Clinton County roads in March of 1938 and became foreman in 1953. He is a long time resident of St. Johns.

His place is being taken by Orville Jones, who comes from Wacousta and has lived on North Lansing Street in St. Johns for many years. He has been long associated with road work with state highway and road contractors. His first road job was on the original paving of old US-16.

Jones started with Clinton County Road in April 1940. He moved into the shop as mechanic in 1949 and became shop foreman in 1950.

THE VACANCY HE leaves as shop foreman will be filled by Don Koonter, the senior mechanic. Koonter has lived in the Laingsburg area for many years and came to County Road from Bob Rourke Auto Sales of Owosso in 1950.

So, besides the engineer-manager and clerk, the supervisory employees now line up as follows:

Orville Jones, foreman, construction and state; Jay Barrett, foreman, maintenance west half; Glen Schlarf, foreman, maintenance east half; Don Koonter, foreman, shop and equipment; Bruce Woodbury, stock clerk.

Low-boy hits side of municipal truck

A low-boy trailer truck belonging to the Michigan Building Assn. rolled backward out of a vacant lot and into the side of a City of St. Johns pickup truck on South Traver Street last Tuesday morning. No one was hurt.

Frank VanAmberg, 55, was in charge of the city truck. The truck was left unoccupied behind a barricade on South Traver while the driver was inspecting some construction work. The low-boy was driven by William Weaver of Grayling.

When farm disasters occur, such as this fire on a farm near Pewamo, the Cooperative Extension Service stands ready to provide assistance in planning for rebuilding.

Extension role changes in times of disaster

The Cooperative Extension Service is an educational agency, a branch of Michigan State University and the educational arm of the USDA, but they can change this image in times of emergency. This was dramatically portrayed just over a year ago when they assisted the tornado disaster areas of Branch, Hillsdale and Lenawee counties. Both state and county extension staff members, including one from Clinton County, were quick to move in and assist the people in their time of need.

The local agents in those counties played a major role during and after the emergency. The Extension Service is vitally interested in civil defense and preparedness for disaster, whether it be tornado, flood, radioactive fallout, fire or from any other cause. One of the local agents is a member of the County Defense Board and meets regularly to plan the necessary action which must be taken in case of any disaster in the county.

WHEN DISASTER such as fire hits an individual family they are just as interested as if it was a large part of the county. At the time Marvin Thelen's barn was burning, an agent stopped in and Thelen asked for assistance in plans for rebuilding. This agent visited with the Thelens on several occasions to discuss plans for the future and to draw up a detailed building plan. Other farms were also suggested as places to get ideas and these visits were very important in the final plans that were decided upon.

The above situation is only one example of where the Extension Service has helped someone in time of need. Within the past month, three visits have been made across a county line to assist another family who also lost their barn in a fire. Working with his extension agent, a complete change in the livestock enterprise and farm program has resulted and new buildings have been planned to fit these changes.

EDUCATION IS the primary role of the Extension Service but in times of emergency that role will change to one of service. In case of any disaster, whether it involves a family, an area or the county the Clinton County Extension Service will be available to assist in any way possible.

Poultry graded, inspected for quality, safety

Housewives sometimes are confused by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's round inspection mark and shield-shaped grade mark that appear on officially inspected and graded poultry. They ask, "What is the difference between the two marks? What do they stand for?"

The inspection mark is a symbol of safety, and the shield-shaped mark denotes quality, say marketing specialists at Michigan State University.

THE CONSUMER and Marketing Service of the USDA is responsible for inspecting all poultry passing through interstate and foreign commerce. The agency also conducts a voluntary grading service for processors and handlers on a fee-for-service basis. The agency applies the marks to poultry.

MSU marketing specialists say that the round inspection mark means that poultry — chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks or guinea — was examined by a federal inspector to determine that it is wholesome. The symbol also means that it was processed in a plant meeting strict requirements of USDA for cleanliness, that it is not adulterated, and that it is truthfully labeled.

The shield-shaped grade mark shows that poultry has been certified by official graders under supervision of USDA. Poultry cannot be graded until it has been first inspected for wholesomeness.

U.S. GRADES FOR poultry are:

Slatted floors for hogs

William Biergans of 10905 W. Howe Road finds these slatted floors in the finishing barn work well in his extensive hog operation. The finishing barn was completed last year, with Biergans doing the work.

Food industry in danger

FB president warns

"Michigan's multi-billion dollar food industry would be seriously damaged if several of the recommendations included in the report of the national Committee on Food Marketing should be instituted," is the opinion of Elton R. Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Recent developments in the national wheat program and our probable failure to meet world food commitments next year have demonstrated the inability of a Washington committee to plan, direct and control even one agricultural commodity. Now comes this new report which recommends, among other things, placing all commodities under 'boards' empowered by government to regulate production and marketing of virtually all food products," Smith said.

THE FARM LEADER pointed out that when given a fair chance to vote in referendum, farmers have repeatedly rejected board or committee control of most farm products. In 1963, Michigan wheat farmers rejected by a 4 to 1 margin a system of controls and subsidies for wheat.

"The present proposal goes far beyond anything yet proposed," he said. "Farmers are already using regional marketing orders for several commodities to insure a smooth, more efficient marketing process, but

A, B and C. They are based on meatiness of a bird and freedom from defects. Poultry marked "USDA Grade A" is the highest table quality.

Livestock feeding
big '65 problem

The extreme drought during the summer of 1965 created a feed shortage in Clinton County. This brought on many problems as far as livestock feeding was concerned. Some of the silage did not have grain in it and with the heavy rains of the fall much of the silage was not put up until the corn was very dry. There was also a shortage of hay and grain crops which made changes in the feeding programs necessary.

For several years the Extension Service has been encouraging the use of urea in corn silage to increase the protein content and to cut down on protein supplement. This practice was widely adopted last fall even though many people questioned the advisability with the late filling of silos.

A FIELD STUDY conducted during the past year from Michigan State University included a number of Clinton County farms and the results with urea in corn silage was proven to be very beneficial and a cheap source of protein feed.

The shortage of feed or shortage of certain types of feed brought more requests for feed programs on individual farms.

Clinton County Annual Extension
Report
PART II

This information was provided at meetings and at farm visits and office calls.

THROUGHOUT THE years the Extension Service has tried to provide more efficient feeding of livestock. One means to accomplish this has been the increased use of corn silage to improve the amount of feed per acre. Census figures show this has been adopted since the corn silage tonnage increased 60 per cent from 1959 to 1964 even though fewer farms are using silage because they have discontinued the livestock program.

High moisture corn for both dairy and beef has also been encouraged, and this practice has been adopted by many Clinton County producers. Further advance in the use of this practice is sure to follow within the next few years.

OUTDOOR FUN DAY MOVES INSIDE

Outdoor Fun Day this year was spoiled by heavy rain showers. Instead, Indoor Fun Day gave boys and girls, their parents and leaders an opportunity to take a close look at nature and to learn of conservation. This event showed the wide range of 4-H conservation projects, many methods of conservation, some of the problems included in the field, an appreciation of nature, and hopefully instilling an interest in looking and being able to see the small as well as the large in birds, insects, soil, water, fish, trees, plants and flowers. Here George McQueen explains about leaves.

Projects mean learning for 4-H boys, girls

Spring 4-H Achievement Days have great importance to boys and girls of Clinton County. Throughout the fall and winter months adult project leaders have spent many hours meeting with these young people and helping them achieve knowledge and skills to serve them for a lifetime.

Among those on exhibit at Smith Hall during achievement days. These same clothing and knitting projects were featured at the annual style revues and many will be in evidence at fair time.

EARLY IN THE fall under the direction of her project leader and her mother, each girl (and a few boys) decide the type of garment or garments they wish to sew or knit. A good many of the club members both sew and knit and are thus able to coordinate their garments into a total wardrobe. This of course is the ideal project since knitted sweaters, hats, scarfs, mittens, dresses etc. are garments and are worn as a part of our clothing. Buying knowledge is successfully incorporated into these projects also.

Patterns and fabric or yarn are selected and the club member starts work on her particular project. Each person draws on her previous years' learning, on experimental procedures, on practice and on advice to fashion an outfit for herself, or occasionally for someone else in her family. Her final accomplishment is achieved when she styles in the young miss, the junior miss or the senior miss revue.

THIS YEAR there were 15 senior miss girls selected by their judges to receive style revue pins and be named to the styling honor group. Of these, six will represent Clinton County at the week-long Michigan 4-H State Show activities at Michigan State University later this summer. Six junior miss girls were selected to attend this same event for one day. Three alternates were named in each division. Girls enrolled in 4-H Clothing-Knitting projects learn much more than is evidenced at achievement time. Through the efforts of their leaders they have learned color co-ordination, care of fabrics, special techniques for special fabrics and designs and other useful things including poise and good grooming.

MANY HAVE developed a consumer's awareness when buying other garments also. But perhaps most important of all is their learning to get along with other people, their learning to share, to assume responsibility and to grow up to be productive citizens in today's world. 4-H teaches skills, but it also teaches physical, mental and spiritual growth and development of a human being. Instrumental in this growth and development are the devoted leaders and parents. Without such leadership boys and girls would not have these special learning opportunities.

Census Shorts . . .
The number of farms in Clinton County with dairy cows dropped from 1,090 to 740 but the number of dairy cows increased from 14,511 to 15,629. Value of dairy products sold by Clinton County dairymen increased from $4,193,475 to $6,356,045 which is an increase of over 50 per cent. With many Clinton County farms going out of livestock production, hay has become a cash crop with sales of over $400,000

177 boys signed up in handicraft projects in 4-H

4-H Club members enroll in many 4-H work projects. Boys in Clinton County enroll in handicraft projects in large numbers. One-hundred and seventy-seven boys learned how to use hand tools, power tools, how to finish wood, sand wood, select wood, read simple plans, and work together in their community. The boys meet during the winter season once a week under the supervision of volunteer 4-H leaders. The volunteer leader, plus the interest of the 4-H parent, is the key to successful work with boys and girls. The job of directing boys in the handicraft program falls on the shoulders of mostly men who take time out from their already busy schedule.

LEADING 4-H CLUB handicraft projects are: Les Botmer, Don Devereaux, Russell Morrison, Ron Motz, Harvey Thornton, Leonard Koeligskecht, Dennis Koeligskecht, Russell Libey, Alpha Grubaugh, Emerson Dunham, Bob Risley, Clair Wilson, William Parker, Ray Peck, Floyd Taylor, Clyde Peck, Karl Schaefer, Louis Dankenbring, Ed Rose, Ben Weber, Robert Fox, Ardis Sibley, Charles Silm, Ward Wakefield and Clare Swanson. As with many of the other 4-H projects, club members in handicraft are judged at the fair and win ribbons for good work. Many have an opportunity to compete for trips provided each year for club members who achieve the most. Some of the best exhibits are sent to the State 4-H Show to be put on display and evaluated.

Cash-grain farms were the only type showing an increase in numbers in Clinton County between the last two census years. This largely reflects the part-time farmer who went out of livestock.

THE "WHAT IS IT" table exhibited lots of "oh's" and "ah's". The 4-H'ers could look, feel, smell and taste the foods. No one had all the correct answers. You can guess why when you learn that the foods included were freeze-dried strawberries, egg-nog mix, chocolate cheese, dry yams, instant onions, dehydrated blue cheese, prune flakes and dehydrated Michigan red tart cherries.

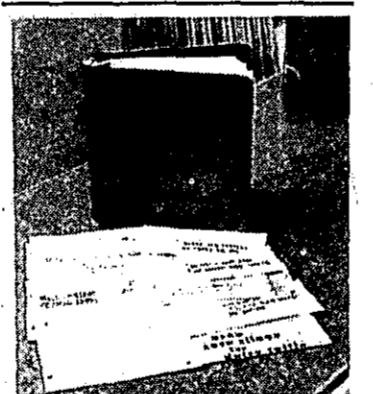

Good corn yields in '65 weren't just by accident

Good yields of corn were produced on some Clinton County fields in 1965: It wasn't just by accident or luck. How was it done? It was done by using all of the practices recommended for top profit production.

Every field was naturally well drained or tiled to SCS standards. For many heavy soils this means tile spaced 50 feet apart even over hills. Where comparisons were possible it appeared fields properly drained yielded 50 to 90 bushels per acre more.

EARLY PLANTING was possible on the well-drained fields. Moisture supply was favorable early and by planting shallow soil temperature was also favorable for germination and growth.

Planting immediately after plowing became very critical if planting was delayed into the second week of May. Each tillage operation dried the soil more and

Handbooks aid farm businesses

A number of different kinds of businesses provide supplies, equipment and services for Clinton County farmers. These businesses frequently have the need for unbiased and accurate information related to their product and its use by customers. To do this the Extension Service has provided many of the agricultural businesses with a handbook and other reference material to enable them to give the very best and latest information.

Your Extension Service assists county elevator and fertilizer dealers, and credit agencies by providing them with information concerning their products and its use by farmers. It provides recommendations for efficient operation and use and sometimes assists in organizing more efficient facilities for farmer convenience. Often business projection and anticipated farmer needs provide valuable insight into future planning for the various businesses to enable them to better serve the rural community.

Youngsters and adults test foods and take notes at the 4-H Food Frolic, an annual event for Clinton County 4-H'ers.

Clinton 4-H Food Frolic always exciting, educational

The 4-H Food Frolic in Clinton County is always an exciting, active and educational day!

Over 175 4-H members, leaders and mothers attended this event. In addition, there were visitors from Ingham and Kent counties.

The new National Dairy Assn. film called "A Good Egg Deserves a Break" began the day's program. Following the film showing, the youngsters judged eggs. One of the "boy chefs" won first place. He accurately explained to the others how he knew a good egg from a bad one.

THE "WHAT IS IT" table exhibited lots of "oh's" and "ah's". The 4-H'ers could look, feel, smell and taste the foods. No one had all the correct answers. You can guess why when you learn that the foods included were freeze-dried strawberries, egg-nog mix, chocolate cheese, dry yams, instant onions, dehydrated blue cheese, prune flakes and dehydrated Michigan red tart cherries.

Guessing, too, some unusual plant foods caused some funny answers. Included were difficult-to-identify sassafras, eggplant, nectarines, a pomegranate, a mango, an avocado, artichoke, quince, lime and rutabaga.

ploring New Ideas with Bananas; Breakfast, Study for Teenagers; Study of Sandwiches, Simple, Hot, Frozen, Diet and Meal Type; Food Travels, Herbs & Spices; A Study of Ground Beef; Let's Look at Molds; Freezer Care and Preparation of Food for Freezing; Study of Vitamins; Study of Apples from Varieties, Nutritional Value and Ways to Prepare and Serve; Cookies International, Foods International - including complete meal planning and serving (A few of the countries included were Holland, Japan, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Mexico and Poland).

A SCRAMBLED table gave the members a chance to test their meal management skill. A menu was printed on the board. A conglomeration of dishes, silver, napkins and other articles were on display. Five minutes planning time was allowed, then groups set up the table using and placing the articles correctly. This was a popular test and a good learning experience well conducted by a home economics teacher assisted by four 4-H leaders.

The 4-H members went shopping for pizza. They studied labels on the packages, then comparisons were made between this and homemade pizza.

A professional demonstration using small appliances and top-of-the-stove baking was given by Frances Lough, home service director, Consumers Power Co.

MISS MURIEL BRINK, nutritionist, and Mrs. Eileen Bell, Consumers marketing agent, both from Michigan State University, assisted with the planning and presentation of this program.

What does an event of this kind do for the 4-H member? It helps him to stretch his imagination and makes him aware of the different and unusual which surrounds all of us. Many of these unusuals we all take for granted. It gives this young person a fresh outlook for the club program.

A good professional demonstration challenges the member to polish up his own story which he tells and shows as an important part of his 4-H activity and achievement.

LEARNING ACTIVITIES did take place through the summer projects following this event. Only a few can be briefly listed here, but they are typical of the many excellent projects 4-H'ers complete each year. Only the titles are listed: Nutrition in Every Day Life - A Study of Milk; Ex-

4-H Fair book now available

The Clinton County 4-H Fair Book and entry blanks are now available at the Extension office in the courthouse in St. Johns. The 4-H club leaders are urged to check the book for job assignments for themselves and their members.

There are a few changes in the fair book from a year ago. F. Earl Haas, county Extension agricultural agent, pointed out, and Extension office personnel will answer, any questions that may arise.

Entry blanks for the fair are due in the Extension office by July 28. "It is important that this deadline be met in order to make up the judging books," Haas said. One type of entry is used for all livestock and dairy projects, another for all other projects.

Wayne county, which contains Detroit, is world-known for its industries, yet it leads all of Michigan's 83 counties in production of sweet corn.

4-H Fair reflects much work The results of the 4-H club members' years of work show up at the Clinton County 4-H Fair each year. More than 3,000 exhibits were on display last year. The county fair is an educational event and provides youth with an opportunity to show others what has been done. The 1965 fair involved 1,300 club members in Clinton County and many volunteer leaders, parents and friends. Indicative of the increasing size of the fair is the growth in the number of exhibits and contests. The 1965 figures showed the judging divided in 63 sections and 282 classes. In 1964 there were 57 sections and 265 classes. EXHIBITS RANGED from dairy cattle and general livestock to horses, vegetables, foods, clothing, knitting, handicraft, entomology, photography, automotive, dairy and livestock judging. The largest project exhibit at the 1965 Fair was foods exhibits with 500 4-H members enrolled. Clothing is in second place with 475 4-H members enrolled. A youth event of this kind could not possibly happen if it were not for the many volunteers who help in the various departments. Plans have already been made for the big 1966 event. The Clinton County 4-H Council, the Clinton County extension office and many developmental committees assist in organizing and conducting this event.

Ormston calf starting barn modern

Lee Ormston, Walker Road farmer in Ovid Township, checks a ventilation controls panel in the remodeled part of his barn which he uses for starting calves. The section of the barn is insulated, draft free, ventilated and dry in an effort to give calves the best start possible. Individual stalls (foreground) and small grouping pens are used, based on design recommendations of the Extension Service.

ASC PROGRAM

Changes noted in grading for price-support wheat

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

There has been a change in grading 1966 crop wheat delivered to an approved warehouse for storage under the price support program.

Beginning with the 1966-crop wheat loan and purchase program, an official grade certificate will be required on all wheat under price support stored in or delivered to CCC-approved warehouses.

1966-crop wheat warehouse stored loans will require that the class, grade and quality be determined by a licensed inspector; the grade will be based on a sample which the producer and warehouseman agree to be representative. An official grade certificate must accompany each warehouse receipt presented for a loan.

EACH SAMPLE of wheat sent to a licensed inspector for inspection for grade shall be identified by the name of the producer and a sample number, and the name and address of the warehouseman submitting the sample. Each sample shall be at least two quarts (approximately four pounds) in size and shall be sent in a polyethylene or other container that will preserve the moisture, test weight, odor and shrunken and broken kernel content of the grain.

Producers who are interested in storing their wheat for price support loans can contact our office for more details.

WE ARE MAILING your 1967 wheat allotments today. It is increased approximately 15 percent over last year's allotment. Allotments are mailed to the farm operator on record in our office. If you fail to get your allotment notice, please contact our office at 100 S. Ottawa Street, St. Johns.

We will have the wheat certificate program next year, so wheat producers should consider staying within their allotment if possible.

The Commodity Credit Corp. will hold a storage bin sale at the Caledonia binsite, located on Duncan Lake Road across from the new high school in Caledonia, Michigan. The grain storage structures will be sold, completely dismantled, "as is, where is" by public auction at 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, July 14.

THERE WILL BE 16 3250-bushel rated capacity steel bins, 18 feet diameter by 16 feet high. These bins were manufactured by the Kilby Manufacturing Co.

Last week we sold 3,400 bushels of corn from our Elsie binsite. High bid was $1.30 and low bid accepted was $1.28.

What's new in family fabrics?

Homemaker study groups find out

A shopper aware is "in the know" and "buys with care." The yard goods departments of yesterday are the fashion fabric shops of today. We find that women are buying fashion by the yard today. Today's homemaker is a fashion customer; she is fashion conscious; she is a fashion sewer. Today's homemaker may sew to save dollars, but often she sews for the joy of being creative and to have an exclusive wardrobe.

STATISTICS TELL us there is truly an increase in home sewing. Much of this is an outcome of mass production. Besides the advantage of an exclusive wardrobe, Mrs. Homemaker prefers well fitted garments and those that are well constructed. She is more assured of these when she sews for herself and her family.

Forty Clinton County women enrolled in a two-day workshop on pattern fitting and altering. Miss Bernetta Kahabka, extension specialist in clothing and textiles, instructed these women in selecting styles and patterns best suited to their individual proportions. Since most human figures do not conform exactly to "standard" measurements used by all pattern companies, it is necessary to make certain alterations in many patterns to insure the very best fit. Miss Kahabka demonstrated basic alterations, and then supervised alterations for each individual in the workshop.

THESE WOMEN now have learned how to fit and alter patterns for themselves. They can assist others with similar problems and those of the group who serve as 4-H clothing leaders will find the information most valuable in working with the girls in their 4-H clubs.

Home Economics-Family Living group project leaders, after a training program conducted by Mrs Helen Meach, extension home economist, presented the topic "Textile News and Views" to their study group members. Emphasis was placed on the value of the consumer knowing the general characteristics and expectations of the basic fiber families. From such knowledge she can then determine the best care and wearing possibilities for the many fabrics she comes in contact with daily in her home. Homemakers are instructed to read all fabric labels to determine both fiber content and recommended care.

NO ONE TODAY can hope, nor even expect, to keep up-to-date on all of the developments in the field of fibers and fabrics. Even those persons who have devoted a full life-time to the subject admit they can not know it all. Our best hope is to be aware of changes in the most common fields with which we have contact—namely yard goods or fashion fabrics, clothing, and home furnishings textiles.

Some of the newer fibers and fabrics available today include the olefins, modified rayons, glass fibers, and synthetic leathers. The many synthetic fibers are used alone or in blends with other synthetics or natural fibers. Special processes, specific fibers and certain construction techniques have given us such things as stretch fabrics, shape retention knits, shrinkage control, durable press, and other desirable qualities. But the consumer must assume a certain amount of responsibility if these qualities are to retain their acceptability on the market.

This means the wise homemaker today keeps informed by constant review and constant study of new products. Her Home Economics-Family Living study groups offer this opportunity.

The "featherwing beetle" is one of the smallest beetles known. The minute insect is smaller than some single-celled protozoa, yet it has compound eyes, segmented antennae, complex mouth parts, wings and all the other essential parts of its larger relatives. It rarely is more than a 1/25 of an inch long.

Ladies taking the home economics bus tour of the three-county area listen to F. Earl Haas (left) and Velmar Green explain some of the functions at the Green Meadows Dairy Farm at Elsie, where the tour started.

Bus tour gives women good picture of total ag situation

A perfect day in May—that was the day of the Home Economics Spring Bus Tour.

That was the day when approximately 120 study group members packed their brown bag lunch and gathered at the Green Meadows Dairy near Elsie to begin a 150-mile trip.

Bus tours are new to extension homemakers, but this was not a usual trip where they might drive 150 miles to some different or new spot. This tour was right around home, and planned specifically to learn about the rapid changes taking place in the three-county home area of Clinton, Shlawassee and Gratiot.

THE TRIP WAS arranged by the area home economists with the detailed plans and areas of travel outlined and coordinated by the agricultural agents who know about soils and the land use in these counties.

The day began with a tour of the Green Meadows Dairy operation which has the largest registered Holstein milking herd in the United States. Boarding the buses the tour first went east along the Shlawassee River area to Owosso.

A short visit to the McCurdy Park Casino in Corunna gave the ladies an opportunity to see this fine community center.

of Alma. Additional points of interest were the factories and so called "Million Dollar Lane" of farming land on Wesner Road.

The story all along the way was the permanent and often poor use of land in contrast to the few examples of some excellent planning which shows that county and community planning is essential to orderly development and good land use.

All this is important to families and family living decisions for today and in the future.

Tourist Council requests action on scenic roads

The Michigan Tourist Council has called for immediate action to preserve the beauty of Michigan's many scenic highways for the enjoyment of vacation travelers.

In a resolution delivered to federal, state and county highway officials, the Tourist Council urged "that appropriate highway funds be employed immediately to identify scenic highways and preserve them for their beauty, special nature or appeal to visitors."

The council said that recreational travel is Michigan's second largest industry with tourist spending this year expected to top the billion-dollar mark, and that more than 90 per cent of this travel is by auto.

"Not all of these many travelers are interested in driving on Michigan's many miles of excellent freeways," the council said. "Every effort should be made to enhance the beauty of the state for all vacation travelers."

In 1963 Michigan's record bean crop filled nearly 8 1/2 million hundred-weight bags, far out in front as the Navy bean leader but also a producer of some colored varieties.

THE MORNING ride covered the City of Lansing Recreation Area and city building sprawl along US-27 to DeWitt and the man-made development of Lake Geneva.

Lunch hour and rest stop was at Smith Hall in St. Johns, where the Home Economics Council of Clinton County was hostesses. A special treat was provided for the touring members in the form of gift bags filled with products manufactured in the area.

The Maple River flood plain and the Rainbow Lake area were first seen following lunch.

GRATIOT COUNTY highlights included driving the Alma College Grounds, Masonic Home and the central city development area

ABOUT THIS STATE OF OURS

A County News feature

There's a wide variety of events for summertime travelers about the state again this week, according to listings of the Michigan Tourist Council.

Recent bicycle accident victims have been lucky

During the previous two weeks we noted, with a great deal of mental anguish, two traffic accidents involving bicycles and cars.

Had they been unfortunate, the two youngsters could have ended up in the hospital, or even worse, the grave.

All too often we have seen youngsters on bicycles shoot through an intersection without heed for other traffic.

Parents must assume the major responsibility for the safety of their children. Parents must see that their young riders are taught when and where bicycling is safe.

It is important to help your child work out safe bike routes to and from school, the park and other areas where he customarily rides.

THE BICYCLE Institute of America offers some safety rules—

- * Observe all traffic regulations—red and green lights, oneway streets, stop signs.
* Keep to the right and ride single file. Keep a safe distance behind all vehicles.

Two-way unselfishness is key to democracy

"Democracy is the most difficult and perilous form of government because it calls for unselfishness on the part of the officers and voters alike."

We believe this quotation from Mr Hooking is very apropos for our day and age. Voters and our elected officials, from city to federal level, would do well to remember it.

In our constitution it says "Government of the people, by the people, for the people." Today too many of our elected officials have narrowed this down to "for the people."

These are selfish reasons that in the long run do not make for a democratic way of life.

Then again, we as voters should not be so selfish with our time that we neglect to find out about the candidates and issues; that when we vote, we vote as if we were blindfolded.

Voters should not be so selfish as to deprive themselves of their voting privileges by not taking the few minutes necessary to register and to go to the polls.

To maintain the democratic way of life our forefathers fought to give us will take the unselfishness of not only our elected officials but of every voter.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

As I have noted many times before, writing a regular column every week does kind of tax the creativity of the brain at times, and in those moments of desperation the columnist looks frantically about for something to write about (or copy).

Last Tuesday someone, undoubtedly with Rink's liking of peanut butter on his mind, left on my desk a Hollywood column from the Detroit Free Press of that morning. It was a story about actors Robert Culp and Bill Cosby and concluded by commenting that the two had worked together so long they almost think alike.

"MAN CANNOT live by bread alone," said Cosby. They (Cosby and Culp) added the punch line in unison: "He must have peanut butter."

Turning now to other gems of thought: "Here is the secret of inspiration. Tell yourself that tens of thousands of people no more intelligent than yourself have mastered problems as difficult as those that now beset you."

"Such courage as I have in business springs from this source. The prospect of hard times sometimes alarms me, but I conclude that if I go under I will have plenty of company. I do not see how I can fall while hundreds of others no more industrious or alert succeed."

"NONE OF US needs to fear anything except the consequences of our own shiftlessness and folly. The world may not feed us if we refuse to make ourselves useful, but neither the world nor nature intends that the struggle for existence shall be an unbearable tax on human strength and spirit."

A philologist says that nine words account for a fourth of all that we say or write, and that an additional 34 words account for half. The nine most-used words are: and, be, have, it, of, the, will, I, and you.

The 34 that, with these nine, do half our literary work are: about, all, as, at, but, can, come, day, dear, for, get, go, hear, her, if, in, me, much, not, no, one, say, she, so, that, there, they, this, time, though, we, with, write, and you.

Because they get tired of looking at and speaking these one-syllable words, professional men have to spice their literary product with such words as proliferation, escalation, disestablishment, obfuscation, appendectomy and ophthalmologist.

"FEW OF US REALIZE the degree to which newspaper headlines influence the language." "Headlines do not just happen to fit the columns easily and perfectly. The writer gets his headline by trial and retrial. Letters are counted and recounted. When a line is long or short, a synonym must be found for one of the words."

"This is the reason why 'corruption' has been replaced by 'graft,' 'detective' by 'sleuth,' 'conference' by 'parley' and 'investigation' by 'probe.'"

"The headline writer is keen for short words because he can handle them more easily. Among his favorites are jilt, booze, plan, sheik, rout, bandit, rites, fight, war, clash, crash, and loot. These expressive words are worked day and night and Sundays."

"Since everyone is a headline reader, the tendency is for the words that frequently appear in headlines to enter rapidly into circulation."

25 YEARS AGO From the Files of July 10, 1941

Completely remodeled and re-equipped, the Matthews Dairy store and restaurant in St. Johns, out of business since the downtown fire of May 20, was reopened Tuesday, July 8. The building boasts an attractive new front and is greatly improved throughout.

Flames leveled the Cecil Porter farm residence one-half mile east of Eagle village about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The fire started when a gasoline stove exploded.

Beginning next Tuesday, July 15, and continuing for the balance of the month, the Clinton county 4-H club camp, located on a wild section of the Wright farm in Lebanon township, will be one of the busiest spots in the county. Four different groups, children and adults, will make short visits to the camp during the 16-day period.

50 YEARS AGO From the Files of July 6, 1916

The second annual reunion of the family of J. E. Plozman was held at the home of Mr and Mrs J. N. Plozman and family of Bingham on Wednesday, June 28. The forenoon was spent in playing games and visiting. About 12:15 a bounteous dinner was served. After dinner a fine program was given and a business meeting was held.

The famous Ben Greet Woodland players are to present Shakespearean plays in the outdoor theatre at Mt. Pleasant, on July 13th and 14th.

July 4th, the home belonging to Clarence A. Parks, on section 33, Riley, caught fire from a spark and burned. The contents of the house were mostly saved. The house was valued at $1,500 and was insured at the Farmer's Mutual for $900.

Beginning that it would be virtually impossible to raise this much money through donations to put on a fireworks show. But the fact we did reflect real community spirit on the part of everyone, and we think the community should be justifiably proud of itself.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rev Crotser, family, thank area people

I have been wanting to take a few minutes to write a note of thanks to all of the people of St. Johns who were our privilege of knowing while serving the St. Johns Bengal and Bingham churches. Our seven years were wonderful times for us. We were treated well by our church people as well as many other people who were not connected with our churches. The many things that our church people did for us could not possibly be listed in this letter, because the list would be too long. We will treasure these wonderful acts for many years to come.

I guess the best times we had outside of the two churches was with the St. Johns Ministerial Assn. It was a privilege to work with the ministers of the town. The thing that I appreciated most was getting to know the priests of the St. Joseph's Church. I have always felt that the churches worked together in many ways. I was glad to be a part of that fellowship. During the seven years, I saw many pastors come and go, but I believe the group of ministers who are there now are the finest I have ever worked with while being in the ministry.

ALSO I HAD THE privilege of knowing many people outside of our two churches. They were lay people in other churches. The fellowship I had with these people will always be cherished. This group included Catholics as well as Protestants.

If any of you ever get out this way, be sure you drive around to the west side of Phoenix, Arizona, and say hello to us. Our address is 2538 N. 53rd Avenue, Phoenix, Ariz., 85035.

Thanks again to the people of St. Johns for making the seven years of our lives meaningful.

Sincerely, REV AND MRS NORMAN CROTSEY AND FAMILY

Firemen thank all for fireworks funds

It is impossible to thank all the contributors who helped make our Fourth of July fireworks show the big event it was. But there are a few major ones we would like to call attention to.

All the industries contributed to the fireworks fund—Federal-Mogul, Burton Mixer, Advance Castings, Sealed Power, F. C. Mason Co., Saylor-Beall and Clinton Tool and Engineering. We would also like to thank all the business places and the many individuals who contributed.

OUR GOAL FOR MONEY to spend on fireworks was originally $700. We received in excess of $1,100, which was spent entirely on fireworks. Some money was left over, and it has been put in an escrow account for next year's celebration.

We'd also like to give a special thanks to Spud Heathman, Jim McKenzie and Leo Snitgen, the pavement pounders, who did a swell job in helping get the money. Many people said in the be-

I like to see folks happy, And the whistler does his share In helpin' folks to laugh and love And lift a load of care; I know there's dark 'n gloomy days, But the whistler has a gift In helpin' folks forget the bad 'N laugh, 'n love, 'n lift!

Should the draft be centralized? Hearings are now being held in the House Armed Service Committee to study this draft dilemma.

Many congressmen will answer this question with a "yes" and "no" in the same breath.

MANY WOULD like to see the selective service system centralized on the state level, instead of on the local level. Others feel that this Federal bureaucratization of the draft will weaken the selective service system.

Rep. Hollifield of California stated the "national directives must be uniformly interpreted by each local board and the only way this can be done efficiently is to run the selective service at the state level."

REP. SCHWEIKER OF Pennsylvania goes even further by asking for a "national manpower pool" to be established to replace the 4,061 separate local manpower pools now existing. Our honorable representatives in Washington have a definite problem to cope with, but as usual their thoughts seem to run down the same old road. If something on the local level is not being run the best way possible, then it should be run from Washington.

I DISAGREE. I still maintain that a selective service system can be handled better on the local level. At least on the local level each case can be handled on its own merits.

For the young men who are subject to the draft, it seems that they would have a better chance to be heard and would be given more consideration on their individual problems from a local board that knew them, than from a state or federal board that neither knew them or cared what their problem might be.

IF I can remember correctly, some twenty odd years ago when I received my draft notice it began something like this: Your friends and neighbors have ---- etc.

When it comes to having someone decide how you are to spend a few years of your life, personally I would rather have my friends and neighbors decide, rather than someone who never heard of me or knew I existed except on a roster.

IT HAS BEEN 15 years since the selective service system has been revised. It should probably be updated to a point where it reflects today's concepts, but it should be left on the local level for administration.

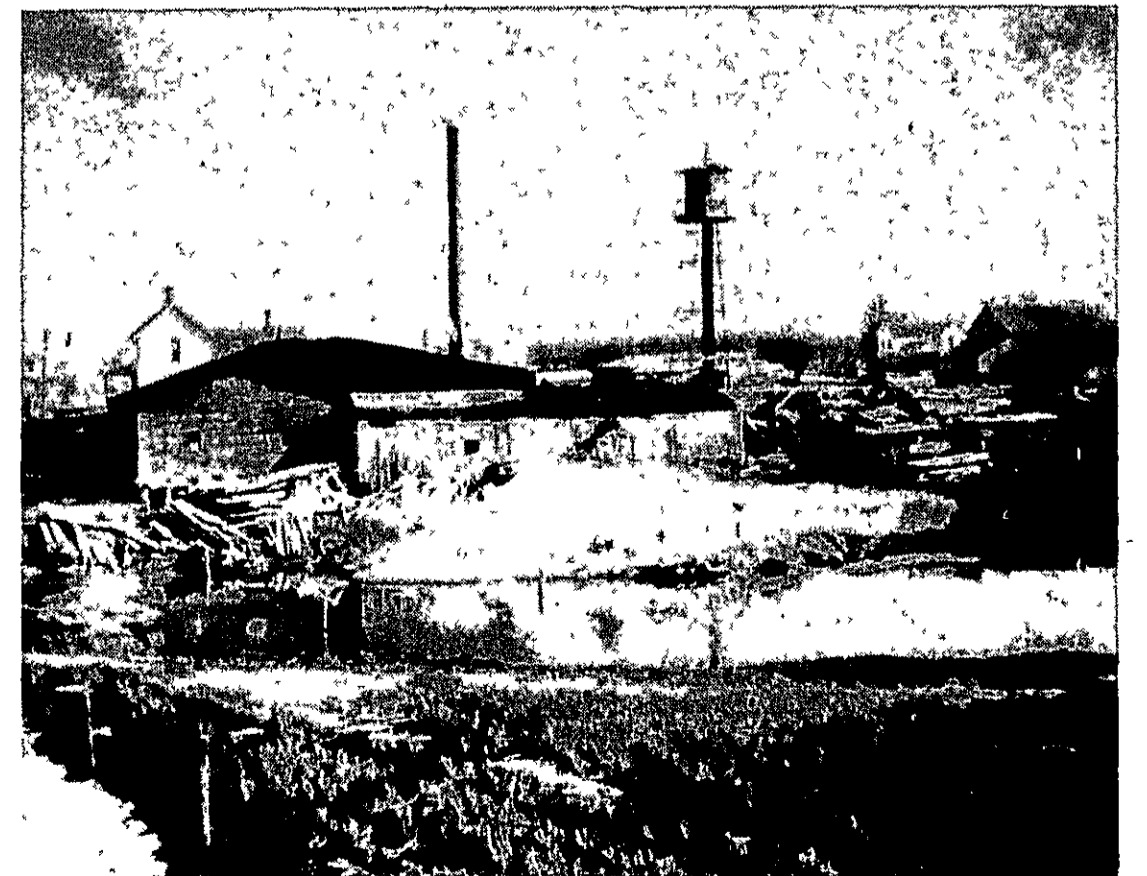

I RAN across this letter to the editor the other day. WHODUNIT

The title refers to the misplaced hemline of women's skirts but I must hasten to add that I do have a clue. Top designers of women's clothes are clever, sophisticated men and they know full well that where there is a hem there is a her. Let us subtly convey to the couturiers that we wish to return to the frothy, frilly concoctions that made a woman look so entrancingly feminine. Many laws on state's books are mere 'busy work'

Laws which duplicate others or cannot be enforced seem a waste of time and money.

One enacted this year involves an edict to school districts to review their textbook purchases to ensure fair treatment of the races.

It tells the local districts, in effect, to be sure that the teaching tools they use do not reflect badly on minority groups such as Negroes, Jews and Indians. It empowers the State Board of Education to check periodically to be sure the local boards are following the law.

Missing, however, is any power for the State Board or any other governmental unit to punish school units which choose to stick with old books which, for example, never picture a Negro or Indian child in a group picture.

WHILE THIS IS NOT a duplicate of any law, a formal policy statement to this effect was issued some years back, however, by then Supt. of Public Instruction Lynn M. Bartlett.

In addition to being sent to the various school districts in the state, it was brought to the attention of the textbook publishers and distributors which serve Michigan districts.

Presumably in the three or four years since this policy was circulated, most schools have purchased new textbooks incorporating the policy.

For all purposes, the new law will not likely mean any change in practice. Any school districts which have not followed the policy handed down by Bartlett will feel little pressure to change now since the 1966 law has no enforcement provision in it.

A SEEMINGLY IRONIC problem is reported by the State

Corrections Department: Michigan's prison administrators are having a difficult time finding necessary labor to keep the prison industries operating well.

The problem arises partly because of changes in the frequency of paroles and shorter sentences being given criminals. Another factor is the type of criminals housed in the prisons, which operate 14 separate industries.

Today's inmate is much younger than previously. In many cases he has little education and has done little or no work during his lifetime. He is frequently hostile and unwilling to accept discipline. He is not inclined to be a good worker.

PRISON INDUSTRIES are operated at Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson, Michigan Reformatory at Ionia, and the State House of Corrections at Marquette.

Other corrections facilities, mental institutions, and some other state government units in the past depended greatly on the prison industries for cloth, work clothing and shoes, office furniture, road signs, cleaning supplies, and canned goods produced from prison farm goods. Most familiar prison industry by far is the auto license plate business.

THE MOST NECESSARY and meaningful change being attempted to correct the labor problem is an effort to find ways to get the youthful, "difficult" inmates to work.

As one department spokesman said, "Since work is a part of living on the outside, suitable work habits and skills, where possible, should be instilled in the inmates while they are inside."

SPEEDING DRIVERS are the primary target of a new attack on highway accidents. It likely is one of the most expensive traffic safety moves which could be undertaken, but it could be effective.

Involved in the new program to enforce driving laws are three airplanes based at Lansing, Traverse City and Marquette.

Carrying from two to four men, planes are equipped with speed-time charts which translate stop-watch fractions of a second into vehicle miles per hour.

Working in conjunction with the highway department, 20 sections of roadway which were frequented for special markings. These consisted of painted lines measuring a 660-foot strip of road.

By timing a car traveling the 660 feet, a stop-watch held by a policeman in the plane marks the exact speed of the vehicle on the ground.

IF THE SPEED IS over that allowed by law, word is relayed to a patrol car not far from the marked strip. The motorist is stopped and ticketed or warned.

Cost of operating planes is great. State police decided to give the air spotting system, used in several other states, a try in an attempt to discourage speeding and other violations, such as improper passing and following too closely.

Air spotting could prove to be very effective. As one of the first men stopped noted, "I guess you guys really did me a favor."

He was traveling over 90 on a freeway, where the legal maximum is 70 miles per hour.

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record By Joe Crump

Readers want truth about Viet Nam war

Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (Ill.) "In the interest of listening to both sides I include in the Record at this point a recent statement by Wes Gallagher, general manager of the Associated Press." (The condensed statement from the Chicago Sun-Times follows).

The press always has been attacked in wartime because its reports frequently clash with government views and with the image government would like to present. And reporters, too, must bring unpleasant, confusing and discouraging reports to the public, which reacts, as all people do, with irritation.

There are two immutable rules on press criticism which are as inevitable as the tides.

1. CRITICISM of the press by government rises in direct proportion to the amount of adverse news printed which may not be in line with government policy.

2. Criticism by the public rises in direct proportion to the amount of news read which undermines what it would like to believe—above all on such emotional issues as the conflict in Viet Nam.

Out of the early confusion and argument of the American buildup in Viet Nam has come a workable press-armed forces relationship. Westmorland has laid down a set of guidelines on security matters, such as troop movements, casualties, etc., which are adhered to by the correspondents.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT too, that the working relationship between the war correspondents and fighting men in the field has been excellent in contrast to the hullabaloo from Washington.

What then is the difficulty? It is the war itself, confusing and the most controversial in American history.

First there is the fighting. There are no measuring rods that a correspondent can use to show who's winning and losing each day. No towns are captured, accepted and put behind the lines. There is no front, few battles by the standards of every other war. Small units strike at the Viet Cong, who strike back from ambush. U. S. forces claim a victory and the Viet Cong mortar the Saigon air base and blow up a hotel in the middle of town to dispute the claim.

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Hila Boss

Patriotic stories are not so very common these days, and so it seems refreshing to have a whole book of them come into Bement Public Library this week. Selected by Albert B. Tibbets, the anthology is called AMERICAN HEROES ALL. It is a collection of stories of our servicemen in action, from the American Revolution to Korea.

On the first story, "Bells of Freedom," the time is July 3, 1780, the Revolution is still being fought, and the boy who tells the story is a spy for Gen Francis Marion, the Swamp Fox. There has been a movement among the patriots to usher in the fourth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence with the ringing of bells.

A RUMOR OF THE plans has gotten to Col. Tarleton, British commander, and his troops are all set to stop any such demonstration and incidentally, take some prisoners at the same time. The story of how the boy-spy helped General Marion, an how they rang the bells as the Fourth of July dawned, makes inspiring reading. This story is by Paschal N. Strong.

Another Fourth of July story takes place in Vermont in 1848, and was written by Dorothy Canfield. Everyone is feeling depressed because the last Revolutionary soldier in the community had died. Then there is word of an old soldier who lives at the other end of the "hollow" who says that he actually fought at the Battle of Bennington.

The story of this old soldier and why he was different makes

Heart of summer - and all of Nature is on schedule

HAYDN PEARSON

This is the good old summer time. Fields and meadows, upland ridges and mountain shoulders reveal that already many of Earth's humbler plants have finished their cycle. It is part of Nature's inscrutable wisdom. A brier growth, blossom, and fruition time guarantees seeds which insure another generation when winter has passed.

The solstice has come and gone and the sun is retracing its path toward the horizon. The heat waves are ahead. It is a time of pale blue sky and blazing sun while ripened grasses on uplands turn a deeper amber. Corn is knee high and pushes toward tasselling time. Apples are swelling on the bough and acorns fill out filagree saucers.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Our chance of winning the war in Viet Nam are summed up in Joseph Alsop's article, "Why We Can Win in Viet Nam," in the June 4 issue of the Saturday Evening Post. It was the result of 16 trips to that country since 1953.

Are you confused by the short radio news flashes? Do the newspaper items seem to have a certain sameness? Do the one and two minute films used by TV newscaster to pad out their half-hour stints add little to your understanding of the big picture? If so, it's worth the effort to locate and read Mr Alsop's article.—J. C.

THE OLD FARMER'S Almanack, July 1875, had good advice. "The true way to go through the hot weather is to keep the mind so occupied that we shall not notice the condition of the atmosphere." This is indeed the heart of summer, and at high noon heat often lies like a hot blanket on the countryside.

There is soft beauty at dawn when gray mists resemble fluffy blankets above the swamps and swales, and slanting rays paint thin-hued pictures on the hills.

When day is done and the shadows gather, it is good to sit on the farmhouse porch and watch fireflies stage a ballet over the lawn. Whippoorwills call from the pasture lane and cowbells in the night pasture tinkle in the moist darkness.

JULY BEGINS the downward trek to that shortest day in the last month; but during long hot days and quiet nights, the forces that govern our flowering world push forward on schedule.

$60 in change stolen from pool

Between $60 and $70 in change in two green money bags was stolen from the St. Johns City Park swimming pool last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. Recreation Director Ron Dugas reported the theft to city police Thursday. A foot-square window on the north side of the building was broken out to gain entry to the building. The money was taken from both the girls' and boys' locker rooms.

NEWS in Brief

Wyoming's fourth annual Wild West Rodeo Aug. 4 will be preceded by a "rodeo on wheels" July 30. Area motorcycleists have been invited to participate in a strictly non-professional motorcycle scramble. Both rodeo events will be held at Lamar Park on Chicago Drive at Byron Center Avenue in Wyoming.

Robert Spencer of 103 S. Swegles Street, St. Johns is presently participating in a five-week summer institute for educational media specialists at MSU. One of the aims of the course is to increase the teachers' ability to locate, evaluate and use educational media more effectively in the classroom. Spencer, a high school teacher at St. Johns, will direct the school system's audiovisual department on a part-time basis next year.

The St. Johns Chamber of Commerce board of directors is awaiting prices and recommendations for replacing the "welcome to St. Johns" sign on US-27 south of Parks Road. The existing sign has deteriorated and is in bad shape.

Sidewalk Days in St. Johns, a retail sales promotion, has been scheduled for Aug. 4 and 5.

St. Johns firemen were busy last Wednesday and Friday. About 6 p.m. June 29 they answered a call to put out a fire in a Randolph Ready Mix truck at French Road and US-27. About 11:15 that night they received a call from the Shiawassee County Road Patrol to answer a fire call at the James Peno residence on Hollister Road southwest of Lake Victoria in Victor Township. A clothes drier fire was out before they arrived. Friday afternoon a grass fire along M-21 a mile east of the city was extinguished in a couple of minutes.
