St. Johns board to set new millage

ST. JOHNS—Members of the St. Johns Board of Education will meet Monday, July 12 to set the millage amount for the Aug. 2 special election.

The meeting is also being called to reorganize the board for the coming fiscal year as required by law. The new school board officers will be named at the meeting.

The St. Johns schools are without any extra voted operating capital because of the June 12 defeat of the 17 mill proposal. That proposal called for a renewal of 14.5 mills, which had been in effect for the past two years, and an additional 2.5 mills to cover increased expenditures.

The district only has 8 mills, as allocated by the county, for operation at the present time. The 8 mills are not enough to qualify the district for state aid. Last year, a district had to have at least 10 mills to qualify for minimum state aid and 12 mills for maximum. That may rise slightly this year.

AS OF YET, THERE is no official word on what the final state aid situation will be.

However, Sen. William Ballenger told the Clinton County News Thursday that action has finally been initiated on the state aid bill. Ballenger is a member of the Senate Education Committee which reported out Senate Bill 804. The bill must still get by the House Education Committee, the House and Senate Appropriations Committee and both full houses of the Legislature.

Ballenger made a calculated guess on the amount of state aid per child for the St. Johns schools, indicating it could be an 11.9 per cent raise of $44.51 per child.

Supt. Earl Lancaster said the district could not qualify for the state aid if there was no extra voted millage.

"Right now we have enough money to open in September and run for about four weeks," he said.

If voters refuse to pass the needed millage, the school district would have to be closed. If that should happen, the present school board could resign and the district would come under the control of the intermediate school district, and would probably be assigned to another district within the county.

"What we do if the millage falls will have to be the decision of the board," Lancaster said.

Lancaster said he did not know what action, millage wise, the board would take Monday night. He cited the large no vote turnout in the June 12 election, saying the board did not know at this time what they were going to do.

He speculated they may have a two-ballot proposal, possibly one for 14.5 mills and one for 2.5.

"If, and only if, the state aid bill which Sen. Ballenger is speaking of is the one we get, we could survive on the 14.5 mills without the increase," he said. "We could probably hold the program on an even keel."

"However, if that state aid is less, and we do get 14.5 mills re-voted, we would then have to make cuts in our program."

Fall out shelters named

ST. JOHNS—The County Board of Commissioners recently adopted a formal plan for protection of county residents in the event of a nuclear attack. The plan included the designating of shelter locations throughout the county.

Under the plan, the east wing of the court house would serve as the Emergency Operations Center. The 3,300 square foot basement contains enough room to handle the 30 member emergency staff working a two shift operation.

Other areas in the courthouse basement and corridors will provide shelter space for 205 persons. The area has been stocked with shelter food and medical supplies to sustain the 205 occupants for 14 days.

Communications plans are being made to insure radio contact with all law enforcement agencies, neighboring counties and state officials and the plan also includes how radio broadcasts will be made to residents.

Shelter annexes have been designated as: Most Holy Trinity School and the Chevrolet Garage in Fowler; Fulton Elementary School in Maple Rapids; the Eureka Medical Center, Eureka; Elsie Junior High School, Dancers Dept. Store and the MICO

Mfg. Co., Elsie; Michigan Milk Producers Plant and the Junior high school, Ovid; Bath Junior High School; DeWitt High School, Franciscan Retreat House and Friary and the Michigan Beef Co. Plant at DeWitt; St. Mary's Church at Westphalia.

The west end of Capitol Airport and the terminal building there are also designated as shelter areas.

In St. Johns the shelters are: Dean's Hardware, Hotel Sissi, Volunteers of America, a vacant building in the 300 block of N. Clinton Avenue, Clinton National Bank, Parr's Rexall Drug, Rehmann's Clothing, a vacant building at 110 E. Higham, Clinton Theatre, Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School, Central School, Clinton Memorial Hospital and its power house and nurses' home buildings.

The county social services office on S. Oakland and the county juvenile home on S. Swegles, the post office, sheriff's office, General Telephone Building, City Fire Department facility, county garage on M-21 and the sewage pump house on US-27 are also listed.

SWEET SUMMER

Little Pamela Mathers, 5, of DeWitt finds the warm air, cool water, summer grass, and a small friend a pleasant way to learn her new environment at the Easter Seal Society's Camp Chippewa in Lansing. Pamela, who is totally blind, is the only child from Clinton County participating in the camp for handicapped children at the Beekman Center. For a complete report on the center's summer camp see page 3A.

DeWitt Master Plan ready for public

By TIM YOUNKMAN

DEWITT—Citizens of the City of DeWitt will have a chance to discuss their views Thursday July 22 at a public hearing on the recently completed comprehensive Master Plan proposed by the DeWitt Planning Commission.

The Master Plan, written by the commission and its planning consultants, Scott Bagby and Associates of Grand Rapids, covers the projected growth, needs and directions the City of DeWitt will demand during the next 20 years.

Citizens will have the opportunity to question city councilmen and planning commission members on the plan, which could be adopted by council vote once the hearing is held.

The planning commission began formulating the Master Plan in 1965 and contracted the consulting firm in September, 1968.

In an introductory letter, Orla E. McGuire, commission chairman, urged DeWitt's citizens to take an active interest in the planning and future of the city.

"This Master Plan report is the culmination of monthly meetings of the planning commission over the past two and one-half years and a vast amount of work by the planning consultants. It is most important that the people of DeWitt carefully read this report and become familiar with its many provisions and long range goals, especially over the next 20 years."

McGuire added that the Plan, while operating as a guideline to development, could be subject to revision.

"Naturally, some revisions will be necessary as time goes by," he said. "It is our hope and trust, however, that all proposed changes will be carefully considered and fully justified so that the value of this report will be preserved and the good of the community as a whole will always prevail."

"THIS MASTER PLAN report should result in a planned and orderly development of our community which will forever be ample reward to the city council, the planning commission and to the consultants whose efforts and foresight made this report possible," McGuire said.

One of the predominant points brought out by the commission report is the estimated population growth of DeWitt and DeWitt Township during the next 20 years.

According to the Master Plan, the City of DeWitt's population will more than double before 1990. The current population figures for DeWitt show 1,829 residents, and the projected population will be 4,360—an increase of almost 150 per cent.

DeWitt Township, including the city, currently has 11,738 residents, but that figure is expected to jump to 29,600 by 1990, or an increase of about 150 per cent.

According to the 1970 census and its projection for 1990, DeWitt Township will comprise more than one-third of the entire Clinton County population. Figures show an expected 71,150 county population in 20 years, with DeWitt Township having almost 30,000 persons.

The problems of population growth were examined in the opening of the Master Plan, and a listing of existing challenges for the community and goals to be undertaken was presented.

UNDER "EXISTING challenges," the commission cited the following problems:

—Most soils in DeWitt and the surrounding area present substantial limitations to development at urban densities without adequate storm drainage and complete public sewer and water services.

—A severe shortage of rental and sale housing for new families in the community, coupled with a lack of speculative housing construction.

—Lack of full street and drainage improvements causing a poor impression of otherwise attractive neighborhood streets.

—As the population increases, the present lack of adequate parking in the business district will become acute.

—Insufficient expansion room in the central business district to accommodate new business enterprises.

—High proportion of residents commute to jobs outside DeWitt, with job opportunities within the community continuing to be limited.

—Many area roads are inadequate for the volume of commuter traffic they must carry.

—Construction of an interstate highway connector across DeWitt Township from I-96 in Watertown Township east will alter present travel patterns. It will accelerate growth because of improved access to DeWitt and the township.

—The population of southern Michigan will increase. The three major metropolitan centers in the Detroit-Lansing-Grand Rapids corridor will grow more than 40 per cent.

"We must realistically evaluate these forces to avoid any errors in the foundations of the planning program," the report advised. The report pointed that report advised. The report pointed the challenges as internal problems that can be offset. "How well we succeed in doing this can mean the difference between a community which will become increasingly attractive and convenient and one which will be stagnant and fall to improve in times of general prosperity."

The commission also listed goals, it said, "to serve as a guide in the varied future endeavors which will be undertaken by private citizens, public officials and concerted community action. They are:

—Protecting and improving existing development. Nothing will be gained if existing values decline or are destroyed as new growth takes place, the report said.

—DeWitt, and the township must work together and utility problems must be resolved. The report added that it would be essential to work for the vital interests of the populace despite the boundary lines.

—Modernization of the business district should have the support of all the citizens of DeWitt, including ample parking, safe circulation, expansion room for new stores and greater diversity of services to benefit everyone in the community.

—Home neighborhoods must be attractive, protected and fully improved which would be a prime consideration of families looking at DeWitt as a possible place to live.

—DeWitt will require a public water supply for fire protection and general household needs in the city and surrounding area.

—Taxes should be set at a reasonable level to provide for continuing community improvement. The report said the city should have a properly phased program to build storm sewers, curbs and gutters, sidewalks and improved streets to enhance the attractiveness and livability of the community. "Every dollar spent above the amount needed for 'bare essentials' will be returned many times over by new citizens who will be seeking an improved community as a good place in which to live," the report said.

—DeWitt should anticipate greatly increased recreational needs and preserve its natural waterfront areas. It cited the Looking Glass River will become an increasingly valuable asset. "The larger future city cannot replace what we allow to be destroyed. Acquisition and improvement of facilities for both organized and informal recreational activities should be diligently pursued," the report said.

THE MASTER PLAN stressed the importance of organizing present and future land use into eight zoning districts. It showed that only a portion of the M-1 Industrial District is in the city. Existing industrial uses already exist and the proposed area is completely buffered from

Parks program begins in DeWitt

DEWITT—The second annual parks program at Lions Park here will begin July 12 for DeWitt area children between the ages of six and 14, Tom Mauro, park supervisor, announced Friday.

The recreational program will include quiet games, arts and crafts and team softball, Mauro said.

The program will be held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. from July 12 through Aug. 13. The program will include mixed softball teams featuring an all-star game at the end of the season.

Assisting Mauro in undertaking the supervisory positions are Paul Mulford, Jeff Schafer, Tim Farr and Andrea Melanfant.

The program was made possible this year through the DeWitt Board of Education and the DeWitt City Council who contributed $200 to the plan, Mauro said.

He added that permission slips for attending the program will be available this week at the city clerk's office or the Shiny's Shack restaurant.

"It's going to be a bigger and better program this year," Mauro said. "Many parents have been asking about it and it has been subsidized better."

AND THE WINNER IS, . . . . .

The St. Johns Fire Department gave away a steer from the Richard Woodhams Farm Monday night during the final day of the carnival which they sponsored with the Rotary Club. Richard (Sonny) Cornwell (left) and E. O. Hylar (right) watch Mark Doty draw the lucky ticket. The winner was John Baumer of R-4, St. Johns. Doty is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Doty of St. Johns.

General Telephone will raise rates

MUSKEGON—The Michigan Public Service Commission today authorized General Telephone to increase its rates for both business and residential service. The increase, the first since 1961, will be effective beginning July 6. Detailed information concerning rate changes will be included with the first bills that reflect the change.

"The company has greatly improved and expanded service to its customers in the past decade, spending over $228 million for new construction to do the job," General Telephone President T.A. Saunders said. "The new rates, which will produce approximately $6.5 million of additional annual revenue should enable us to attract the additional new investor capital needed to continue our service improvement and expansion program at the same or at an even higher level."

The utility president added that the company plans to spend over $200 million for scheduled construction projects in the next five years.

Serving over 450,000 telephones in 136 Michigan communities, the company's market area extends into 41 of the state's 83 counties.

Clinton billboard to come down

LANSING — Legal action to remove 93 billboards along Interstate freeways throughout the Lower Peninsula was announced today by State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth and Attorney General Frank J. Kelley.

The action represented the broadest attack yet taken by the state against illegal billboards. Removal of the signs, all put up in 1970, will more than double the numbers taken down by the state since enactment of Michigan's 1966 Billboard Control Act.

Stafseth sent notices both to the owners of the signs and the property on which they stand. Sign owners have 30 days to take them down. Those not removed by July 31 will be cut down by the Department of State Highways and the owners billed for the expense.

Kelley said: "We will continue to use the present law, as ineffective as it is, until we have a meaningful replacement for it. The effort the time and the cost to the state in proceeding under the present law is immense and would be greatly reduced if the bill which I have proposed for effective public regulation of billboards is passed.

"Nevertheless, the problem of illegal billboards is so severe that we must take whatever steps are available to us to meet the current situation. Therefore, we will use all of the resources available to us now to continue to make a frontal attack on visual pollution in this state.

"At the same time, I join with the governor, environmental groups and thousands of citizens in this state in urging the Legislature to resist pressures which they face from special interest groups and to pass effective billboard legislation in the public interest."

Forty-eight of the boards to be removed are along I-69 Freeway, 42 in Branch County and 6 in Calhoun County. Location of others is as follows:

I-75 Freeway — eight in Cheboygan County, 6 in Bay County, 2 in Saginaw County, 9 in Crawford County and 1 in Ogemaw County.

M 76 (To become I-75) — 4 in Arenac County.

I-96 Freeway — two in Kent County, 3 in Ionia County and 1 each in Clinton, Eaton, Ingham and Livingston counties.

I-196 Freeway — One each in Berrien and Van Buren counties.

Pamela finds new world at Camp Chippewa

OUTDOOR CLASSES

Field workers are allowed to conduct classes in nature study outside much to the pleasure of the students. Here they learn about using a compass to tell directions and one aide is about to show the children a toad found in the near-by grass.

GOING FOR A RIDE

Little Pamela, center, is off for a ride by the pond with two of her classmates.

COOL FUN

The center sports a good-size swimming pool for use in the therapeutic rehabilitation programs for handicapped children and adults.

LANSING—To a Clinton County farmer, 53 acres may not seem like an extremely large amount of land, but to a little five-year-old DeWitt girl, it could be the whole world.

Little Pamela Mathers didn't know what to expect when her family enrolled her in Camp Chippewa, a day camp for the orthopedically and visually handicapped. But after a little more than one week, Camp Chippewa has become her "day" world.

Pamela, who is totally blind, has found an entire new world of activities including arts and crafts, music, nature study, swimming, learning camping and outdoor skills and an occasional hour just sitting near the camp's pond, listening to the water and birds.

The camp, located at Beekman Center, 2901 Wabash Road, Lansing, was established last year through the combined efforts of the Ingham County Easter Seal Society and the Lansing Board of Education.

Pamela, a kindergarten student at the Michigan School for the Blind, is one of 51 handicapped children who are attending the five-week camp. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mathers, 5525 Howe Road, DeWitt.

"This is a unique venture on how a school system and a non-profit agency such as ours can provide the needed services to this minority population," commented Jack D. Oliver, recreational services director for the Easter Seal Society.

He said that 150 invitations were sent out to parents of handicapped children with 51 agreeing to enroll their children in the program. Pamela was the only child from Clinton County participating in the camp.

"The program is part of a new thrust to set up therapeutic recreational services for handicapped children," Oliver said.

He added that those eligible for the camp were children of school age from the Lansing area orthopedic schools and students from the School for the Blind. While not a regional organization, the society does include Clinton and Eaton counties in its service area.

Pamela and her friends are being supervised by the 17 staff members including four special education teachers from the Lansing School District, field workers from Michigan State University and Western Michigan University, and other high school and college student volunteers.

recreation director

Oliver said the staff members specialize in areas of physical education, occupational therapy, physical therapy and human ecology.

The program is continued during the year, mainly for adults and older children.

Camp Chippewa:

"Unique venture

in establishing needed health services to a

"We run adult programs such as arts and crafts and social adjustment classes," Oliver said. He noted that the most popular of the therapeutic programs is the swimming class conducted at the center and in other pools throughout the Lansing area.

The camp has gained more interest this year, judging from the attendance figures, he said. Last year the camp attracted only 18 children, but the number almost tripled this time. The program could include as many as 60 students this year and the organization hopes to expand the camp next year.

Through the efforts of the Easter Seal Society and the school board, Pamela Mathers and her friends have found a whole new world opening up for them at the camp. Though Pamela was too shy to talk much about the camp, her smile told observers the whole story.

NATURAL BEAUTY

The Beekman Center complex features a small pond with ducks and a little island in the center.

A BUSY DAY

Crowds flocked to Westphalia on the Fourth for the 135th Anniversary of the Village and St. Mary's Parish. There were games and rides for the kiddies and adults alike, plus delicious food and beverages, sky divers and fire works. If you missed it, mark it on your calendar for next year, July 4th.

FAMILY AFFAIR

Bingo was a popular past time at the Westphalia celebration and as you can see, it attracted players of all ages.

THE GAYLE DESPREZ FAMILY

meet Gayle Desprez, Clinton National Bank

Gayle's title of vice president and cashier doesn't really tell about all the things he does at Clinton National Bank. In addition to routine responsibilities Gayle also oversees the personnel and operations departments as well as lending a hand in most of the activities which have surrounded our current remodeling project.

But then it's not unusual that he'd be doing all these things. He's been with Clinton National since November 1956 and has been a part of the team which has seen the bank almost triple in size during these years.

Gayle is a native of Clinton County and graduated from Rodney B. Wilson High School. He has completed a number of banking courses and regularly attends professional meetings and seminars which keep him abreast of banking changes. He has also been active in mid-Michigan American Institute of Banking programs and currently serves as a director of that group.

Despite his involved schedule, Gayle has time for other interests and these - like his work at the bank - are varied. He's an avid sports fan, particularly interested in auto racing and he finds relaxation in tinkering with sound equipment. The latter probably is an off-shoot of his association with a well-known musical group in which he plays drums.

Gayle and his wife, Sally, have three daughters, Sherri Annette, Michelle Rene and Lisa Gale. The family lives on Price Road.

You may not see Gayle every time you visit our bank but when you consider his number of duties you can just bet he'll be somewhere around. And like all other Clinton National people, he'll be working with you in mind.

GOP seeks members, and money

ST. JOHNS - Clinton County Republicans began a massive membership drive at a meeting last week in St. Johns. In an effort to boost membership and meet State Party financial assessments, a minimum of 485 sustaining memberships at $10 each is required, according to James M. Palmiter, Clinton County Republican chairman.

The membership drive is being held in conjunction with a State-wide Republican membership drive.

Four hundred eighty-five memberships amounts to only 1 per cent of the total county population and is only the first step in revitalizing the Party in Clinton County.

According to Palmiter, "although the Republican Party in the State has been estimated to be approximately 20 per cent of the voters, in Clinton County the percentage has been approximately 80 per cent, and in order to maintain this high percentage, we need the cooperation of people in all aspects of Republican political life.

"Therefore, in addition to the 485 memberships, I expect every Republican office holder and political appointee in Clinton County to purchase a membership," Palmiter said.

Mrs. Paul Nobis, Clinton County Republican vice-chairman has been named to head the membership drive which will last through August.

Mrs. Nobis said, "for every $10 membership purchased in Clinton County, $5 will be forwarded to Republican State Central for use in the 1972 State and Congressional campaigns and $5 will remain in the County Organization for use in the 1972 County elections."

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for the annual Republican Chicken Barbeque to be held in September.

LANSING—Michigan's Department of Natural Resources this week will launch releases of 250,000 yearling rainbow trout in open waters of lakes Superior, Michigan, and Huron to mark the start of accelerating plantings of the fish in the state's Great Lakes coastal areas. The DNR's current stocking effort, hopefully to be stepped up to one million yearling rainbows next year, is pinpointed at boosting angler returns in protected areas of the Great Lakes, notably those zones being managed for sportfishing and rehabilitation work.

As a forerunner to this month's broader, larger-scaled plantings, the DNR released 25,000 yearling rainbows in Little Traverse Bay and 45,000 fingerling rainbows off the tip of the Thumb area several weeks ago.

Under releases starting this week, open waters of Lake Huron will draw heavy emphasis—115,000 yearling rainbow trout—to capitalize on areas, many along the Thumb, which are "jammed" with forage fish. The 6-7 inch rainbows going into those areas should thrive on smelt, alewives, and other forage species, and they also will benefit from the degree of lamprey control gained on the Lake Huron side, reports John Scott, in charge of the DNR's Great Lakes section.

Some 10,000 yearling rainbows will be stocked offshore in each of these Lake Huron areas this month: St. Martins Bay, Hammond Bay, Thunder Bay, Tawas Bay, Caseville, Port Hope, Harbor Beach, Forestville, Port Sanilac, and Lakeport. The Cedarville area in northern Lake Huron will receive 15,000 of the fish.

On the Lake Michigan side, the DNR will release 10,000 yearling rainbows in each of these areas: Big Bay de Noc, Thompson, Platte Bay, Ludington, South Haven, and Benton Harbor. Little Bay de Noc, the east arm of Grand Traverse Bay, and the west arm of Grand Traverse Bay will each be stocked with 15,000 of the fish. Lake Superior's Huron, Marquette, and Munising bays each will be planted with 10,000 yearling rainbows. Scott says the DNR plans to increase releases of yearling rainbows in the Lake Superior area when its hatchery production is raised to make more fish available.

"At this point," he explains, "we are stocking the fish in the choicest spots which draw heaviest fishing pressure. We have placed our main planting emphasis on rehabilitation and sportfishing zones where these fish have the best growth potential, where waters are protected to provide maximum angling opportunities, and where commercial gill nets are prohibited to work in favor of rainbow survival."

Scott reports that the 6-7 inch fish being released this month should grow to minimum keeper size or larger (10 inches in the Great Lakes) by late this summer or early fall.

THE STATE NATURAL Resources Commission last week accepted a gift of 240 acres from the Michigan Archeological Society and dedicated those lands as part of the new Sanilac Petroglyphs State Historic Park northwest of Carsonville in Sanilac County.

Judge Ira Butterfield of Bay City, a trustee of the Michigan Archeological Society, presented his group's gift to the DNR and observed that the aboriginal Indian engravings—petroglyphs—found within the donated 240-acre tract were the only ones known in this state or, possibly, east of the Mississippi.

He added that the new Sanilac Petroglyphs State Historic Park, which ultimately will cover 640 acres, embraces unique geological features such as the outcropping of bedrock and offers an unusual blend of other natural values including a stretch of the Cass River which flows through part of the area.

Judge Butterfield and DNR parks officials said that the purpose of establishing this area as a state historic park was to preserve the rare Indian engravings and to use these markings and other features as focal points for drawing Man's appreciation to his cultural and historical heritage to his relationship to the environment.

DNR Director Ralph A. McMullan praised Michigan Court of Appeals Judge Louis D. McGregor of Flint for his instrumental role in arranging the Michigan Archeological Society's gift of the 240 acres.

State Representative Quincy Hoffman of Applegate said to the MAS's gift to the DNR represented a "great day in Michigan history," and added that the people of Sanilac County are "tremendously proud" of the petroglyphs site. He thanked the DNR, MAS, and Judge McGregor for their cooperation in dedicating the area for historic recognition, and added that the site had drawn widespread interest among Michigan citizens.

Samuel A. Milstein, the DNR's Deputy Director of Recreation, reported that the Sanilac site will be a relatively inexpensive project, explaining that its cost of development and land acquisition will run only about $500,000 to $750,000 as against the figure of $5-6 million for most state parks.

Miss Chapko wins Bentley scholarship

BIG RAPIDS -- Two Ferris State College freshmen enrollees Elaine M. Chapko of Elise and Patrick J. Heinbeck of Comstock Park—were among the recipients of Alvin M. Bentley Foundation scholarship awards for the academic year of 1971-72. Miss Chapko will study toward the B.S. degree in Medical Technology. Heinbeck is seeking a B.S. degree in Accountancy.

The foundation has announced scholarship awards in the amount of $56,000 bringing the total contributions during the administration of its scholarship program to more than $600,000.

Scholarships were given for excellence to students who had graduated or were graduating from Michigan high schools who applied for scholarships at 63 Michigan institutions. Selection of the winners was made by the scholarship committees of the colleges and universities.

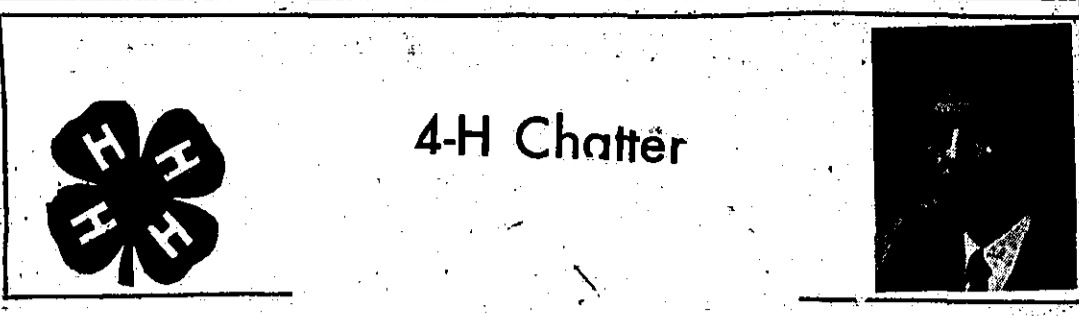

Trustees of the foundation determine each year which Michigan educational institutions will benefit from the foundation's program to "administer funds for science, education and charitable projects." Recipients of the scholarship award in senior universities and colleges each receive $750 and those in junior and community colleges receive up to $500.

Regulations governing the foundation scholarship awards for excellence are for one year only, but a student may apply for a renewal in subsequent years.

EVER WONDER how big a pile of 125,400 pounds of glass would make? I don't know but that is the amount of glass that has been collected, sorted and hauled to Charlotte during the past nine months for recycling and not been taken to a land fill or dumped along the road. In June alone over 21,200 pounds of glass were collected and shipped for recycling. Ron Prater of the Owens Illinois Glass Company says that the plant received over 200 tons of glass collected to be used for recycling into new products. The teen leaders were working in force Saturday collecting, sorting and crushing more glass for their project.

THE 4-H TEEN Leaders will be taking a weekend canoe trip, July 31 - Aug. 1 near the Gaylord area. The committee will be sending further details to teen leaders shortly on the trip for reservations. # Few accidents reported

ST. JOHNS -- Sheriff's Deputies reported an apparent safe and sane Fourth of July weekend in Clinton County with only four accidents being investigated by the Department.

The driver of an ice cream truck received bruises Friday when the brakes apparently failed as the vehicle approached McNeil Rd.

Deputies said the driver, James A. Cochran, 29, of Dallas Tex. told them the brakes failed and the truck missed a curve, went into a five-foot deep ditch and rolled over. Cochran sought his own treatment for the injuries.

In other accidents, a car driven by Ronald L. Vanalstine, 27, of Grand Ledge, collided with a deer Monday on Wright Rd, north of Clark Rd.

A car driven by Larry D. Morrison, 32, of Ft. Wayne Ind., went out of control early Tuesday morning on US-27 at Round Lake Rd. and spun out in the median. Morrison was not hurt.

Benny H. Barber, 16, of Eagle, escaped injury Friday, when the brakes on the car he was driving failed and he hit a tree. Deputies said the youth decided to hit the tree rather than try and make it through the dangerous intersection at Chadwick and Wright Rd.

No tickets were issued Tuesday when cars driven by Alvin N. Olney, 26, of Westphalia, and Patrick W. Pfaff, 20, of Williamston, collided on Price Rd. west of Grange Rd.

Glenn W. Ries, 17, of Portland, was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law Tuesday when the car he was driving failed to negotiate a curve on Grange Rd. west of Herbison Rd. and it rolled over. Ries was not hurt.

High grass and weeds at the intersection of State and Jones Rd. was blamed for causing a collision between vehicles driven by Warren A. Waldron, 19, of Eagle and Kenneth J. Wheeler, 41, of Eagle on June 28. No tickets were issued and no injuries were reported.

WESTPHALIA

by GARY A. KLEINHENN
MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

It was reported recently that out in Salina, Kansas, a supermarket placed a sign in the window that said, "If you think beef is high, cigarettes are $6.59 a pound."

Compare the price of milk and beer, milk and whiskey, apples and phonograph records, potatoes and shampoo, eggs and candy. You will find that the nourishing foods are always much cheaper than the "extras."

One of the most vicious myths in our economy today is kept alive by the gagsters, comics and cartoonists with their funnies such as mortgaging a daughter to buy a steak, etc.

As farmers keep saying, but the message doesn't seem to penetrate where it's most needed, food today is the cheapest it has ever been in terms of how long the wage earner has to work to feed his family.

Today the grocery bill takes 16.4 percent of the take-home pay. Back in the depression years of the 1930's, eggs were ten cents a dozen, milk eight cents a quart, hamburgers were a nickel each, and butter was 30 cents a pound.

But, it took 30 percent of the average wage earner's pay to buy it. Even today, in Europe it costs a wage earner 25 percent of his pay to buy food for his family, and 50 percent for the average Russian.

And while the average food buyer is getting a real bargain, the nation's farmers are averaging only three-fourths of the income enjoyed by the rest of the working population. Because of this situation, Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin recently said that he hopes food prices increase so farmers can share in higher returns for their products.

As expected, housewives and other consumers protested in reams of letters to him. It is too bad that most folks go to the supermarket and lump detergents, phonograph records, tools, cutlery, and power mowers, or anything else they can buy there with their grocery bill, and then raise Cain about the price of food.

As Pogo's famous quote goes, "We have met the enemy, and they is us." Current welfare reform legislation if passed in Congress will steal the dignity of yet still more Americans. It will steal the dignity which even more Americans still have the opportunity to capture.

If still further locked to the dole by the actions of Congress, welfare reform for the recipients will be as self-defeating for them and the nation as the worst narcotic is to the addicted.

But yet some politicians proclaim with empty sing-song phrases that welfare reform as proposed is good and wholesome. These politicians are building their constituency, building their self-perpetuations. They're luring welfare hopefuls to fill ballot filled boxes for support for their reelections.

Recent political quote on welfare reform: "It will help those in need of public assistance and it will help the states. It will help to keep families together and to move people off welfare rolls and onto payrolls. It will mean tremendous savings for the states in annual welfare costs."

In the name of "help for humanity" it is commendable. Who could argue against these words? We can't, but we wonder what is to be saved in dollars if not human values.

"THE NUMBER of people eligible for welfare payments under federally financed programs would double by 1973," as reported by U.S. News and World Report.

People collecting welfare payments in Michigan would increase by 63 percent, from 516,000 recipients to 841,700 recipients. Every state in the union would increase its dole rolls.

True much of this would be federally financed, but don't be duped into believing it won't come from still higher taxes. Nothing is being given away except your hard work.

If welfare reform is passed, in just midwestern states record breaking numbers of welfareers would be added to the taxpayers' burden. Welfare enrollment in Illinois would jump 70 percent; Indiana up 159 percent; Iowa up 137 percent; Kansas up 164 percent; Minnesota up 159 percent; Ohio up 116 percent; and Wisconsin up 154 percent.

Can we afford it?

Clinton harvest

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County farmers harvested 9,300 acres of oats for grain in 1970, according to Arvin Budge of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service. Production amounted to 567,000 bushels, an average of 61.0 bushels per acre.

This compares to the 1969 crop of 800,000 bushels from 10,000 acres.

SCD to enter competition

ST. JOHNS -- Clinton County Soil Conservation District has set its sights on top honors in the 25th annual Goodyear Soil Conservation Awards Program, according to Stanley Baldr, DeWitt, district chairman.

The district will match its 1971 accomplishments with other districts in the state in the competition sponsored by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company in cooperation with The National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD). An independent judging committee of conservation leaders will select the first and second-place districts in the state.

Each first-place district wins expense - paid, vacation-study trips for its outstanding landowner-cooperator and a member of the governing board. Representatives from 53 winning conservation districts nationwide will be guests at the 10,000-acre Goodyear Farms The Wigwam, resort hotel, Litchfield Park, Ariz.

The awards also include recognition of the outstanding cooperator who will be chosen from the 950 landowners who are enrolled in the local district's program. Clinton Soil Conservation district has participated in the awards program 9 times and was the state's first place district in 1968. District supervisors are Clarence Manning, Eagle; William Mayers, St. Johns; Kenneth Loudenberg, Fowler; Robert Moore, Elsie.

Persons wanting to contribute to the relief of the East Pakistan refugees now in India should send their contributions to CROP Box 206, Lansing, Michigan 48901. CROP is also hoping to ship relief materials into East Pakistan (East Bengal) as soon as the situation will permit.

MENTAL ATTITUDE
The pathway of life is always wide enough for the man who wishes to go straight.

LAWN MOLES CONTROLLED
To get rid of moles, get rid of their main food source, suggests William Wallner, Michigan State University entomologist. Moles feed mainly on grubs. The recommended method of destroying grubs is properly applying granular chlordane. This works both as a control and at reducing environmental contamination.

TENDER LOVING CARE FOR ROSES
Dr. William Carpenter, Michigan State University horticulturist, says that roses need extra care if they are to look their best. Proper cultivating, mulching, watering and disbudding will lead to prettier roses throughout their blooming season.

PEST CONTROL RUNS ON TIME
The time insecticide is applied not the amount, may be the key to effective garden insect pest control, says Dr. William Wallner, Michigan State University entomologist. Insects spend their lives in cycles and most cycles have a "weak link". Failure to control at the proper time may lead to disappointing results.

CROP aids refugees

LANSING—CROP, —the community hunger appeal of Church World Service, is sending food and medical supplies to India to help care for refugees from East Pakistan, according to David C. Bower, Michigan Director for CROP.

Bower said CROP is shipping four carloads (320,000 pounds) of split beans to help feed the refugees who are flooding India at a rate of more than 70,000 per day. A carload (80,000 pounds) of non-fat milk is also being rushed to the stricken area.

Last week CROP made $10,000 available through Church World Service to purchase medicines for cholera victims and to purchase tarpaulins for temporary shelters. Bower said Church World Service is shipping one million water purification tablets, five Pedi-Jet inoculation guns, 10,000 syringes, 105,000 doses of cholera vaccine and 9,700 pounds of hypertonic saline solution, in addition to the $15,000 sent earlier for immediate refugee camp needs.

The 4-H tour participants also heard Glenn Lake and Jack Barnes, MMPA president and general manager, respectively describe MMPA and its purposes and the organization's role in price bargaining.

Other program participants included Glynn McBride of the MSU agricultural economics department, Don Murray of the MSU dairy department, and Ray Gillespie of the MSU 4-H department.

The 4-H group attended a banquet Thursday night at the Pick-Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit and then saw the Detroit-Cleveland baseball game.

During the Friday session, the 4-H members divided into groups to discuss and solve problems faced by dairy cooperatives.

William Miller of Conklin and William Lutz of Sebawa served as junior leaders. As such, they chaired the various sessions during the two-day event.

Clinton 4-H's attend confab

DETROIT --- Two Clinton County 4-H youths participated in a two-day visit to Detroit to learn about the intricacies of marketing milk and the functions of a dairy farmer cooperative.

The youths, Alan Cobb of Rt. 2 Elsie and David Seeger, Rt. 2 Bath, attended the meeting June 24 and 25.

The tour was sponsored by Michigan Milk Producers Association, a statewide milk marketing cooperative, with the cooperation of the Michigan State University Extension Service.

In addition to a tour of MMPA's Detroit headquarters, the 4-H members and advisors visited the huge Kroger Dairy in nearby Livonia to learn how a modern dairy plant bottles and processes milk and milk products.

The 4-H tour participants also heard Glenn Lake and Jack Barnes, MMPA president and general manager, respectively describe MMPA and its purposes and the organization's role in price bargaining.

Other program participants included Glynn McBride of the MSU agricultural economics department, Don Murray of the MSU dairy department, and Ray Gillespie of the MSU 4-H department.

Powdery mildew threatens apple orchards in state

EAST LANSING—Apple orchards in southwestern Michigan may be threatened by powdery mildew, a disease that has never been a major problem to apple growers.

According to Dr. A.L. Jones, Michigan State University fruit tree pathologist, mildew is now evident in many commercial orchards in southwestern Michigan and the Grand Rapids area. "Orchards of Jonathan and Idared seem to be especially hard hit," says Jones.

Jones lists several reasons for this year's higher levels of mildew infection. "Late spring rains postponed apple scab fungicide sprays. Since mildew doesn't need free moisture—like scab—for development, outbreaks occurred when no fungicides were present in many orchards."

"FAVORABLE MILDEW weather conditions during the last two growing seasons has enabled powdery mildew to build up to high levels."

"When spraying, the white fungal mats of powdery mildew must be completely wetted," says Jones. "A wetting agent that is compatible with the fungicide will help accomplish this."

He also reminds growers to plan on a three or four year spray program. "It takes that long to eliminate the disease once it is established," he says.

Powdery mildew is identified by white or gray powdery patches on the leaves. "Failure to control the disease can reduce yields, fruit quality and tree vigor," says Jones. "Severe infections can badly stunt young trees."

For control of powdery mildew after the blossoming period Jones recommends adding a mildew fungicide to each apple scab and insect spray.

To suppress disease development and prevent infection Jones recommends using wettable sulfur or dinocap (Karathane). Tests on Jonathan apples also show that Dikar or Benlate can be used for both scab and mildew.

"When spraying, the white fungal mats of powdery mildew must be completely wetted," says Jones. "A wetting agent that is compatible with the fungicide will help accomplish this."

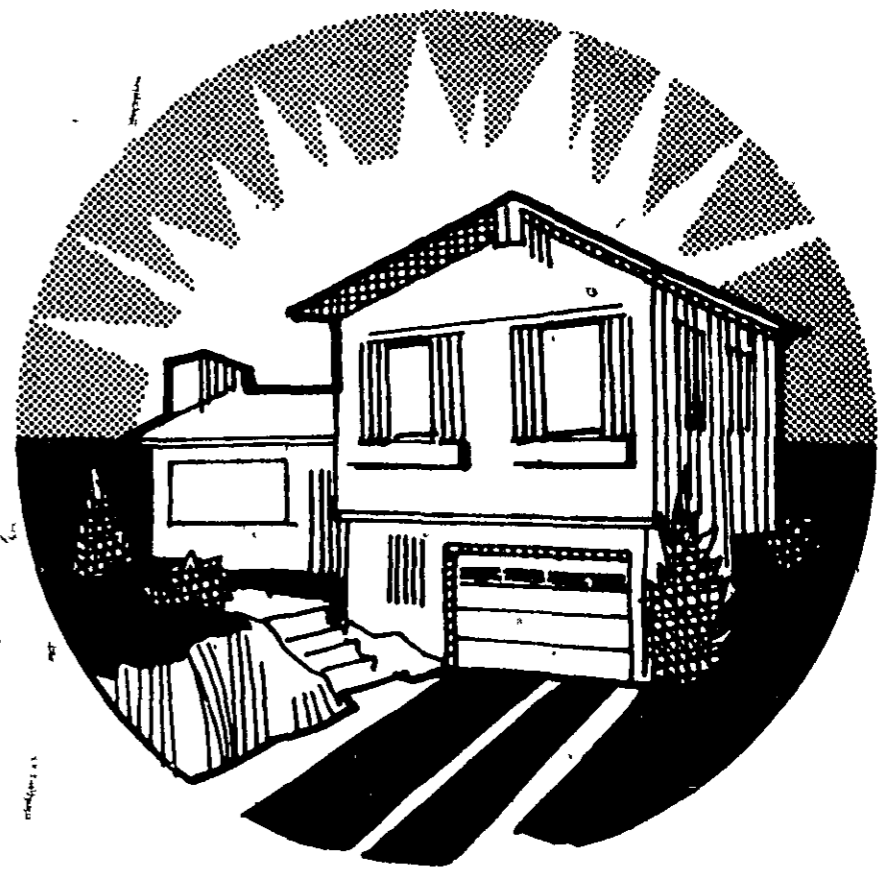

He also reminds growers to plan on a three or four year spray program. "It takes that long to eliminate the disease once it is established," he says.

LANSING--Michigan farmers were offered protection today from violating anti-pollution regulations due to the normal animal odors involved in their work.

State Representatives John M. Engler of Mt. Pleasant and Richard J. Allen of Ithaca successfully amended the air pollution control bills under debate in the house to offer the safeguards for farmers.

The Engler-Allen amendment specifies that ordinary animal odors associated with agricultural pursuits shall not be considered air pollution in areas zoned for agriculture. The amendment adds that the exemption applies as long as the numbers of animals and methods of operation are in keeping with husbandry practices for the area.

"We were worried that the passage of strict air pollution rules might result in some hardships for farmers, and possibly even some harassment," Engler said. Obviously, you have to have a certain amount of odor present if you're dealing with livestock. There's absolutely no way to avoid it."

"This amendment ties in with our attempt to set clear guidelines for livestock feedlots," Allen said. "We've already run into some problems regarding feedlots. In some cases it has been obvious that there were serious abuses of Michigan's air and water.

"We have no intention of protecting such abuses. But we do hope to protect the ordinary, responsible farmer from bitter neighbors or overzealous administrators.

"We're expecting that the committee we've requested to look into this situation will be appointed soon." The legislators added they have confidence that Michigan farmers will take all possible steps to keep animal odors within reasonable limits. But they noted that if there are instances of excess, the bill does provide authority to correct the situation, based on the merits of the individual case.

Making comfortable

By Helen B. Meach
Extension Home Economist

The little boy spent all his money on candy. Then he was disappointed when he didn't have enough left for a movie. Like the boy, adults sometimes forget that every decision carries a loss as well as a gain.

"This loss—'opportunity cost'—means that, for everything we decide to have or buy, there must be something we can't have or do or buy. In some cases, the sacrifice may be hard to make, even though the benefit is great. How would you judge decisions and their consequences in these situations:

Demand for garments that need little or no ironing brought permanent press clothing. But the grease stains are hard to remove, and some permanent press clothes require special laundry conditions.

The desire to use phosphate-free laundry supplies and thus minimize water pollution means that clothes may not be as clean and bright.

Beauty of suede coats or suede trim is balanced by costly cleaning bills with long delays because suede often has to be sent away to be cleaned.

Wage increases to meet the rising cost of living usually mean that the cost of goods and services goes up too.

Non-polluting, lead-free gasoline may cause greater engine wear in some cars.

Many important decisions in life have repercussions that are felt long after. Adolescents who are anxious to be grown up and on their own may find their roommates or housemates have different living patterns that are hard to cope with; they must spend more time than expected for shopping, cooking and cleaning; or their money doesn't stretch as far as they planned.

Parents, too are often surprised by unexpected results of decisions. You probably encourage your child not to go along with the crowd, to think for himself. Then, you must be prepared if he challenges your ideas about money management, education, politics, etc.

No one can have everything. You must be willing to give up something in order to get something else. Decision-making is not only a choice between alternatives; it often means deciding what is more important in terms of your goals and values.

Carpeting

Do-it-yourself carpeting offers still another choice in home floor decoration. Yes, carpeting is a part of your home decor in addition to providing comfort under foot.

Pre-cut carpet tiles were first introduced about five years ago in one size range—12-inch squares—with a limited color selection.

Now, the original squares are supplemented by 9- or 20-inch sizes, 18-inch rectangles and a new, non-geometric—a Moorish shape tile. Besides the original polypropylene fiber, they are made of acrylics and nylon.

The tiles come in joined patterns and embossed styles as well as shag. All of these dimensions help to conceal seams.

With enough tiles, a little time and a shears for fitting nooks and crannies, even the unhandiest do-it-yourselfer can lay an attractive floor covering.

Pre-cut carpet tiles eliminate installation costs. Each tile has an adhesive backing that will take several applications and removals without losing its stickiness.

If a tile becomes damaged, it can be taken up individually. The tiles are easy to clean and can be rotated to equalize wear. Besides being inexpensive (usually $5 to $10 a yard), they can be installed directly over existing floors.

One carton is usually adequate for covering a small bathroom or apartment sized kitchen floor.

Changing food costs

By HELEN MEACH
Extension Home Economist

A restaurant operator pondered—the price of the steak he purchased for his guests jumped from $2.94 to $3.26 a pound in one week!

Should he discontinue the item? Serve a smaller portion? Pass the additional expense on to the customer? Or try to make up the loss in some other manner?

This particular operator decided to maintain the quality and size of this menu item and pass the expense on to the customer. He catered to patrons in the top 20 percent of the income bracket in an area where there was a large enough population concentration to keep his food operation solvent.

To dine in one of these exclusive eating establishments is an "experience" and can cost you $10 or several times that much for an evening of pleasure.

We women think we have it rough to stay within budget bounds when feeding one family. Just think what a dilemma the restaurant operator is in each time food costs change when he feeds hundreds of families.

You'll certainly notice the different ways he meets the challenge when you go traveling this summer. In some places the quality of the food and service will be inferior to a year ago but prices won't be too different.

In other establishments, you, the customer, will be expected to pay the difference. No food operator will serve good at a loss to his operation. He must make a profit or go out of business.

Even if you decide to pull a camper on your trip and prepare your own meals, food this year will cost more than last.

The cost of food away from home has done little to discourage folks. Nearly half of the meals consumed are eaten away from home and the number is growing consistently. It is predicted that within a few years 60 percent of the meals eaten will be away from home even though the cost is considerably higher. It is convenient and time saving and you have a much wider choice of menu than you do at home.

There are other reasons for mass feeding operations. You and I as taxpayers are helping to support one of the biggest feeding operations in this country—the school lunch program. Its main purpose is to improve the nutrition of school age children. Whatever the reason, we tip our hats (and the waitresses) for the quality and variety of food available to us when we eat away from home.

Keeping the house clean is a familiar laundry product on the market, homemakers find no problem in securing the one of their choice. A jar of liquid chlorine bleach near the kitchen sink and in the bathroom provides a quick easy clean-up and, at the same time is effective in combating infectious germs that lurk around drains and on the surfaces. Chlorine bleach also helps to wipe out a great variety of stains that accumulate in such areas. Use it in basins, bathtubs, showers. It is safe for tile, plastic, wood and glass. To disinfect, to deodorize and remove most stains a solution of 3/4 cup of the liquid bleach to a gallon of warm water will be adequate. One half cup of full strength liquid bleach poured into the toilet bowl, a swishing of the solution over the inside and a 10 minute wait before flushing, does the cleaning task so easily. The 3/4 cup of bleach and 1 gallon of water solution cleans the kitchen sink, drainboards, and stoves. It won't harm porcelain, plastic or enamel surfaces. Soak the dishcloth for 5 minutes in the same solution for a clean, disinfected cloth to use for the next batch of dishes. Pour the solution into the garbage can, swish it around the sides, let stand 5 minutes and rinse. No germs left. Two precautions regarding chlorine bleach. Store it and any solutions made from it well out of reach of tiny hands. Never combine chlorine bleach with ammonia or any product containing ammonia. It can be extremely dangerous, if not deadly. Stored properly and used properly there is no danger what-so-ever.

hood of Electrical Workers, have approved a new two-year contract with the company, General Telephone President T. A. Saunders said today.

The new contract provides for wage increases which will cost the company an additional $2 million during the first year in addition to added fringe benefits. Retroactive to May 5, 1971, the expiration date of the previous contract, the new agreement includes three-step wage increases totaling 35 to 59 cents per hour for the 2,400 bargaining unit employees. Included in the fringe benefit package is an additional paid holiday, Washington's Birthday, celebrated the third Monday in February.

The company also boosted its contribution toward hospitalization insurance and liberalized the vacation policy by providing three weeks vacation after nine years of service rather than the previous 10 years.

Under the terms of the new pact, negotiations may be reopened next May for consideration of wages only. Formal signing of the new contract by management and union representatives is scheduled to take place in Lansing on July 2, 1971.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE
News Advertising Manager

Grandmother Preville, also known as Granny Goodwitch, and her two grandsons are trying to find the Upper Peninsula. We don't know if that is because Granny has a tendency to get lost a lot or the folks in the U.P. hear they're coming and take down all the road signs.

But they're on their way northward for three weeks. Three weeks of swimming, fishing, hiking and for Granny, three weeks of wondering how she was conned into the trip again, and pondering if she'll survive.

Every year is the same with minor exceptions. This is Joe's year for an emergency trip to the hospital and a hundred or so stitches. Erik's year to get lost on Tahquamenon Island and Granny's year to lock herself in the out house and cry.

Every year Alice sends two suit cases full of clean clothes with them. Every year they return with two suitcases full of clean clothes and we burn or bury what they have on.

In a couple of weeks we'll join them...every year we arrive, just in time to save Granny's sanity.

Every year we do the same thing...swim in Highbanks, Arbutus, Avery, and Monacle Lakes...do a little trout fishing; Big Mama can bait her hook but refuses to take the fish off...climb the old lighthouse...climb the fire towers sit and swim in the lower falls...and hunt for the kids.

Sure hope they put those road signs back up.

We were homebodies over the 4th. Mainly because Big Mama tried to do us in. We think she is researching a new cook book, "How NOT to Bar-B-Que" and from that standpoint her research is doing quite nicely. Her roast looked more sunburned than cooked and the hot dogs were still frozen in the middle. It was a good week for the Alka-Seltzer people tho.

We did spend a little time at Loon Lake. While we were practicing for exploring U.P. lakes and towing the boys across and back our golden brown spouse soaked up more sun. We have to admit that she does have a nice tan.

So nice we've been debating about mixing up some of our special tanning lotion. You see, one year we did get he-manly tan. We were proud of that tan.

What happened was that we were working, roofing houses. On one particular day we were up to our elbows in tar.

Cleaning up that evening, we noticed the gas and tar mixture gave our arms a nice sunny bronze. So we didn't stop there. For that one summer we had a tan. We also had trouble getting a date and had to give up smoking but we did look good.

Master plan ready

residential uses by the Friary and the River, the report said. Residential uses are prohibited to protect this area for its intended use.

The B-C Central Business District is reserved for retailing and personal service business. Room for substantial expansion around the existing core of business development is proposed to the east and to the west along Main Street and to the north as far as Clinton Street and including both sides of North Bridge and Scott streets.

This area will be reserved for very compact retail and personal service businesses. New dwellings, gasoline stations, manufacturing and assembly operations will be prohibited from using this potentially valuable retail space, the Plan stated. All new uses in this district will be required to conform generally to an overall district development plan and to provide parking areas which will ultimately create a modern shopping center through private initiative.

The B-G General Business District will permit a wider range of business activities and accommodate uses not allowed in the Central Business District. The need in DeWitt, the Plan stated, to keep all business activities as centralized as possible for some time to come cannot be overemphasized.

"For this reason, every effort must be made to encourage potential investors to buy homes immediately to the south and east of the Central Business District for customary types of 'highway business' permitted here."

The study cited the need for establishing a zoning pattern for apartment complexes.

"In the last few years, a strong trend toward apartment living has developed, particularly for new apartments specifically designed to provide modern, attractive surroundings. As traffic volumes increase on major streets, these streets will become progressively less desirable for single family homes."

The R-A Apartment Districts have been selected to provide areas for the group apartment developments which may be anticipated and also permit more flexible use of homes along the major streets by permitting their conversion to multiple dwellings. Uses such as insurance, real estate and medical offices are also permitted.

The zoning map included in the Master Plan shows three one-family residential districts which are reserved exclusively for single family homes. The R-65 District recognizes the older platted areas of the city and requires that any new construction in these areas have a lot width of at least 65 feet to conform to the character already established, the report stated.

In similar fashion, the R-80 District will require a minimum average lot width of 80 feet in keeping with the character of more recently built homes which have been done predominantly in ranch style and attached garage designs.

The Private Service Area is zoned as the R-R Rural Residential for farms and home development on lots of at least 40,000 square feet.

Existing uses, which do not conform to the new Ordinance will be permitted to continue, the plan said, because the basic purpose of the ordinance is to avoid the creation of additional undesirable land use conflicts. However, if a building is vacant for more than one year, any subsequent re-use must be either a use permitted by the ordinance or a use which more nearly conforms to the general ordinance than the previous one.

The ordinance will require paved off-street parking areas for all new apartments and non-residential building. It sets forth the minimum amount of parking which can be accepted by the community to accommodate the increasing use of the automobile. Plans for parking areas and the location of all new multiple dwelling units and non-residential buildings will be reviewed by the planning commission before building permits are issued to make sure that undesirable or hazardous conditions are not created.

THE SCHOOLS

The planning commission indicated that by 1977 there will be 1,350 pupils in the high school grades nine through 12. It stated that there will be a need in the overall school picture of 52 new classrooms.

This view of school growth, however, is in conflict with a plan recently proposed by De Witt School Supt. James Ritchie which indicated that there will be at least 4,000 high school students and an overall enrollment of about 16,000 students.

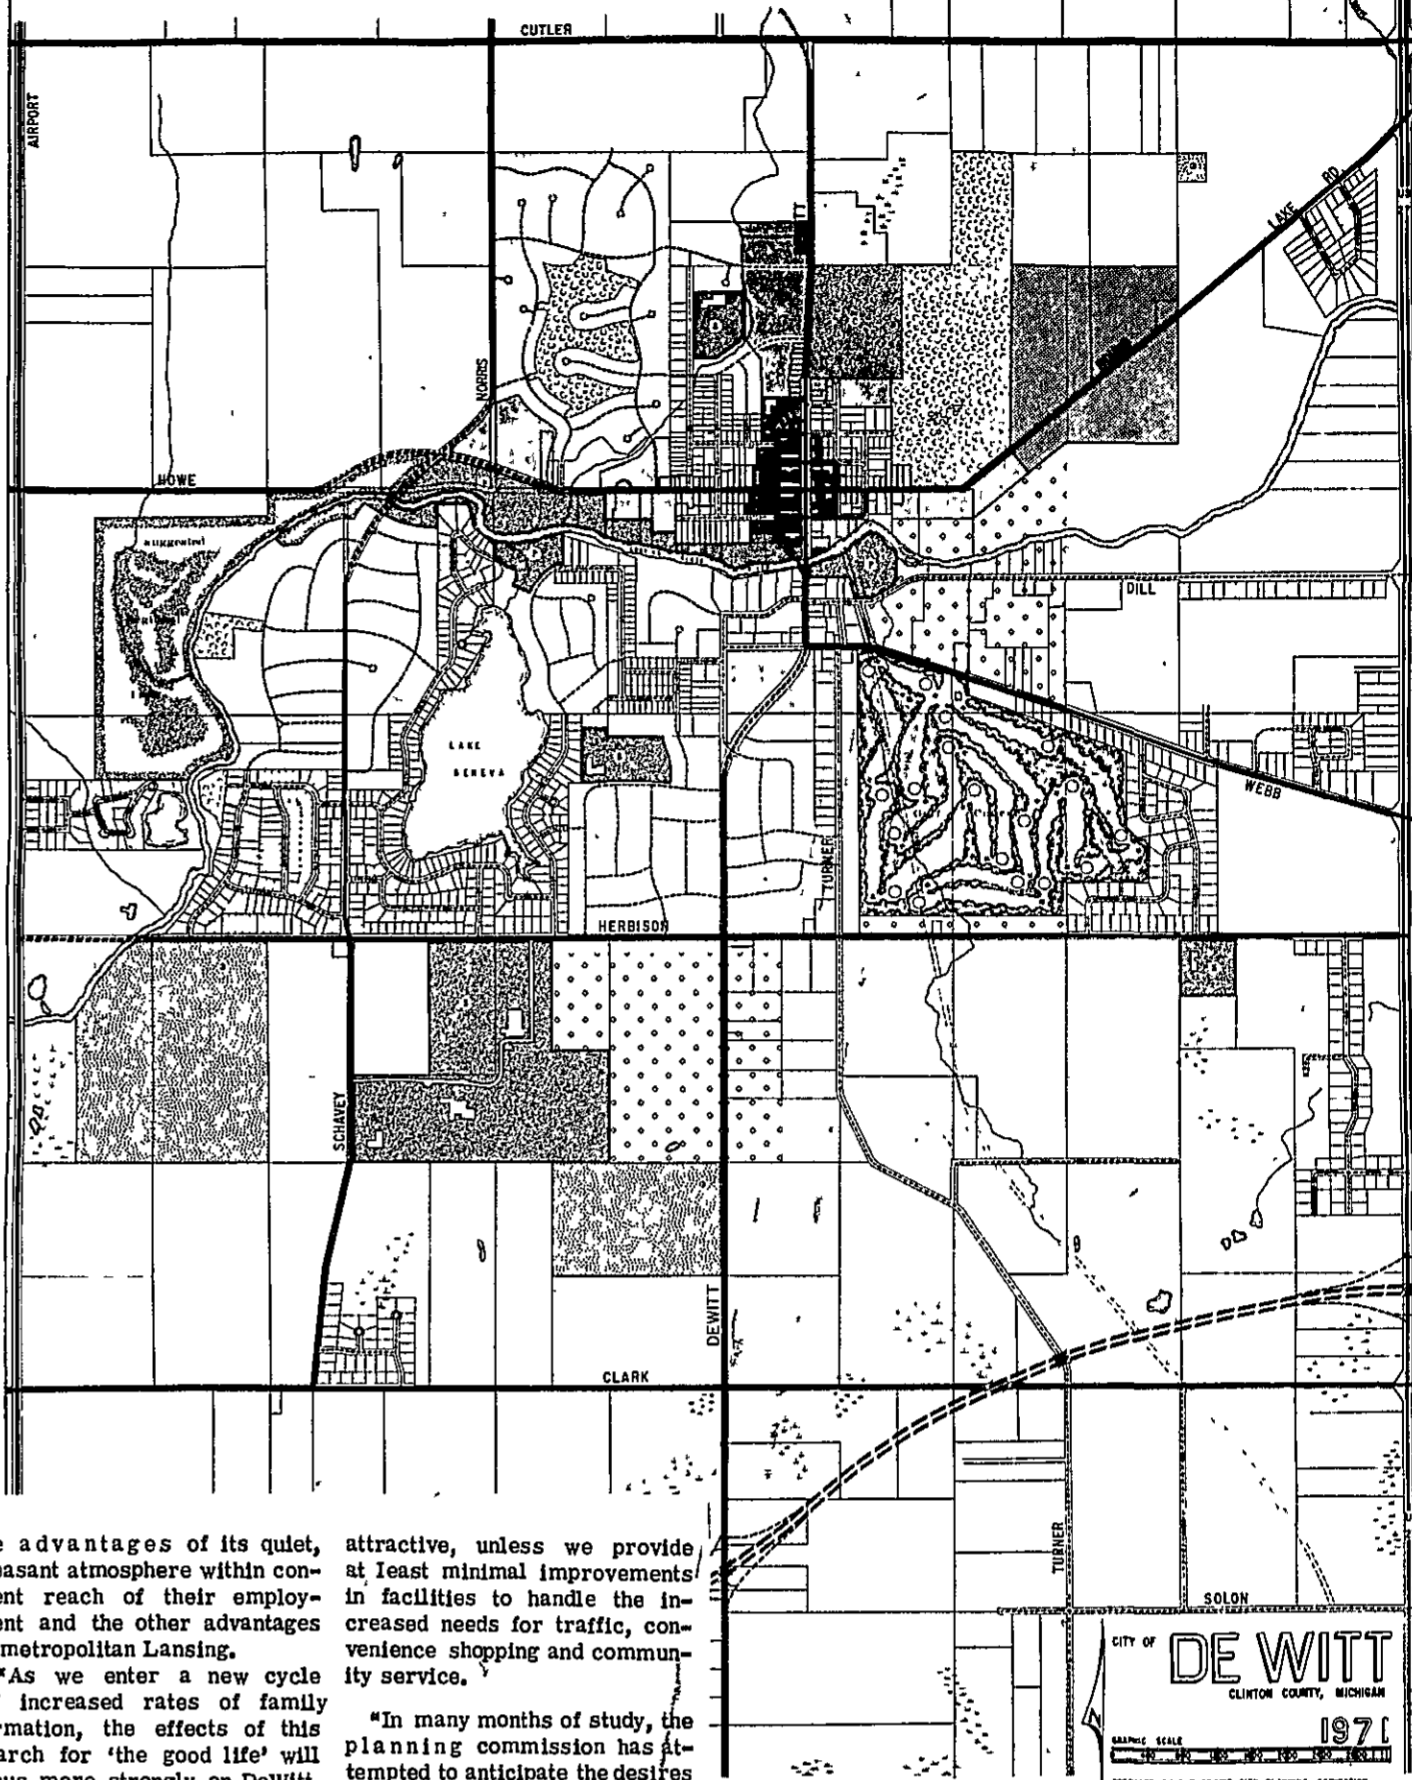

The Master Plan stated that by 1972, the junior high school with excess capacity, can be used for some time to relieve overcrowding. By 1977, a new 12 room Southeast elementary school will be needed and five temporary rooms at Scott School can be removed. At this time, the Plan said, a 10 room school addition will be needed.

In 1982, the Plan calls for an eight-room Lake Geneva elementary school, which should be constructed east of the lake. In 1985, a new 10-room elementary school on the high school campus should be built and a 14 junior high and eight high school rooms will be required, the report added.

The commission suggested that by 1987, school plans should include abandoning the present Furstenau building and erect 25 new elementary classrooms. By 1990, the commission suggested, 10 kindergarten rooms and 20 more high school rooms will be necessary. Beyond the 20 year period, the Plan calls for 18 junior high rooms and 16 new high school rooms.

The Master Plan concluded that the quality of the living environment in DeWitt "has been the dominant factor in producing growth as people have sought the advantages of its quiet, pleasant atmosphere within convenient reach of their employment and the other advantages in metropolitan Lansing.

THE MASTER PLAN

"As we enter a new cycle of increased rates of family formation, the effects of this search for 'the good life' will focus more strongly on DeWitt. Unfortunately, increasing numbers of families will cause a deterioration in the very qualities which now make DeWitt attractive, unless we provide at least minimal improvements in facilities to handle the increased needs for traffic, convenience shopping and community service."

"In many months of study, the planning commission has attempted to anticipate the desires and needs of the people of the future community so that the Master Plan will provide the necessary guidelines to coordinate each new home, each business expansion and each undertaking by city officials so as to produce an increasingly attractive and convenient community."

Bannister

By Mrs Robert Valentine

The following was written by Mrs. Ann (Guy) Fenley concerning the Benefit Dance held for Frank Cermak on June 20:

A BEAUTIFUL THING

Something nice happened in Bannister on Sunday, June 20th, a day that cannot go unnoticed and won't be forgotten soon, even though it was prompted by a sad accident.

It was a benefit dance and supper for Frank Cermak of Elsie who was seriously injured in a chain saw accident and, as a result of this injury, Frank lost a foot. But his spirits were lifted and his mind at ease as his friends came and danced and enjoyed themselves and gave most generously to help Frank.

There are real people in our community. REAL PEOPLE — whose hearts are prompted by generosity and unselfishness. Frank's cross is a heavy one but he is a true Christian man — good to his family — his faith will carry him through.

Kind neighbors came and put in his cross; Clara, his wife, keeps his TV shop running and cares for her home and family.

The Ecumenical spirit was shown that day, both churches joined hearts and hands to help a fellow man. No matter what religion we profess to, it's what is in our hearts that matters. A religion does not make a man or woman — it is ourselves and our principles.

As I watched those people come that Sunday and enjoy themselves, I couldn't help but think that God was smiling down on them. He must have been proud of the people who came on such a sweltering day to do this for Frank. Not everything is bad in this world of ours when such a spirit is shown.

The benefit was a success — somewhere in the sum of around $4,500.00 will be turned over to Frank to help pay his hospital and doctor bills.

These are my true feelings and I am proud that I am living in this community of warm-hearted people. REAL PEOPLE.

Young In Heart, Spirit

As this week marks the observance of our country's birth it is an appropriate time to reflect on our heritage. The following is an excerpt from a program recently presented by an area businessman. It provides considerable food for thought and also, it is well expressed:

It is said that no American ever makes his first trip to New England, for we have all been there before. This is where we came from—this is where, in pain and anger, we presided at our own birth.

For a long time, England had been under the impression that the periodic rumbling inside her stomach was only mild indigestion. But at last she wrenched in recognition when we started tossing tea into Boston Harbor. And before long, our rider came pounding through the night to tell us the hour was at hand.

By dawn we waited nervously at Lexington and Concord. Finally someone ran out of patience, squeezed his trigger, received an answer, and the labor pains started in earnest. Quickly they spread to Fort Ticonderoga to Bunker Hill, Harlem Heights and Bennington. With great shrieks of agony, rising in their wake, they moved on to Brandywine and Saratoga, to Valley Forge and Cowpens. The suffering seemed endless.

Then on a fine October evening the bells of Boston's old North Church rang out in exultation. Cornwallis had quit at Yorktown, and there we were, just like that, a brand new baby born to the family of nations. And now, as then, still young in heart and spirit as we approach our 195th birthday.

Whip the polluters

To those who think pollution is a new plague for mankind, this notice posted by the Jamestown colony in 1612 should be enlightening.

"There shall be no man or woman dare to wash any unclean linen, wash clothes or throw out the water or suds of foul clothes in the open streets within the fort or within forty feet of the same; nor rinse and make clean any kettle, pot or pan or suchlike vessel within twenty feet of the old well or new pump; nor shall anyone aforesaid within less than a quarter of a mile from the fort dare to do the necessities of nature, since by these unmanly, slothful and loathsome immodesties, the whole fort may be choked and poisoned with ill air and so corrupt (as in all reason cannot, but much, infect the same) and this they take notice of, and avoid, upon pain of whipping and further punishment as shall be thought meete, by the censure of a martial court."

Obviously, pollution and man must go hand in hand. So also must the latter control the former if he is to survive.

Anyone who has ever got himself across a hot wire knows what a real sense of power is.

July is the month which occurs between the last of the Christmas bills and the first of the vacation duns.

July is the month when there's more billing than cooking for the lovebirds.

Tell the boss how busy you are. He's looking for someone with gab-time they could use for working.

War's over

By TIM YOUNKMAN

"War ends." Should sound pretty good for a headline in tomorrow's edition. The only trouble is — we're not sure if the war is over.

According to the latest discussions at the Paris Peace Talks we've found ourselves listening to the same proposals that were presented by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong several times during that past two years. Only this time there's a twist.

If we get out of South Vietnam before the end of the year, or at least begin a mass pull-out, our prisoners in the North will be released.

Suddenly the hopes of millions of Americans appear to be coming true. Here we have a proposal by the enemy to actually cease fire and end the war. And we can only hope it will not be turned down by our leaders.

It can be imagined that, as told through the Pentagon Papers, there are top level arguments going on at this hour debating the fate of South Vietnam and the war. Should we pull out? Should we simply ignore the proposal and continue on our own timetable of limited withdrawal? Do we want to support a coalition government in the South? And there is probably one or two officials still bent on "winning" the war by invading the North.

It will ultimately be up to the president of the United States to decide.

For those of us who want the war ended now, the proposal of a coalition government and withdrawal is not too much a price to pay for the release of the Pentagon Papers and the image of how we blundered our way deeper and deeper into that war, there should be little need for discussion. Our nation cannot afford to continue involvement of any sort in that fiasco.

But we can hear the argument now.

"We can't support that communist government," someone would say about a coalition.

However, we did back a purveyor dictatorship in the Diem regime and supported the military takeover that followed, and, according to the Pentagon Papers, we wouldn't allow them to resign.

It seems that a coalition government in the South would be more representative of the people, both loyalists and Viet Cong. And if the Prisoners have to rot one more day than necessary in the North Vietnamese prisons, the President will be writing his own political epitaph.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

Bury me not

By JIM FITZGERALD

And then I wrote . . . A Massachusetts man has been buried beneath the 18th green at his favorite golf course. I guess he was dead.

If I am ever buried on a golf course it will be because I committed suicide there and no one would drag my body away.

Golf is an incredibly stupid game. Hit a ball and then look for it and then hit it again. I don't know why I play. Tennis is really my game but I can never get a court. It has been 24 years since I played tennis which will give you an idea how crowded the courts are—and how hard I've tried to get one.

I often tell people I was once tennis champ of Port Huron. Usually, I tell them after I play golf with them. I want them to understand that golf is too slow a game for an athlete of my vigorous abilities. Any old man can play golf, I tell them with a sneer as I pay what I owe for losing 18 holes, 3 balls and 1 friend who was my partner.

"Yes," the golfers with my money usually say, "but fat old men can't play tennis so it is easy to see why you switched to golf."

That's another thing I've discovered about golf—a lot of wise guys play it. They are always saying things that upset my game and my stomach.

For instance, I slam my usual drive smack down the center, at least 30 feet. "That won't hurt you," says Harvey Hustler.

What he means is that lousy drive won't kill me, it will just leave me maimed and limping. It is the loudest shout he ever saw and 15 more like it might get me on the green which is that pretty patch of grass with the hole in it in case I've never been there before.

ANOTHER THING Harvey often says is, "You had the distance." This means I should have hit the ball 200 yards and, by golly, I did hit 200 yards. The trouble is I should have hit it north but I hit it south.

The reverse of this comes when Harvey says, "You hit it right on the line." This means I pounded that ball straight at the hole, 350 yards away. But the ball went only 20 yards.

And at the end of the game as he takes my money, Harvey explains that I got a lot of tough breaks out there today, while he was lucky, and if a couple of putts had dropped for me it would have been a different story, fella, and my game is getting better all the time and I'm sure to get my money back next week.

Harvey knows it wouldn't help my game if I were Arnold Palmer's little brother. He knows if a long putt had dropped for me I would have got 7 on the hole, instead of 8. He knows I have been playing the stupid game for 15 years and I still address the ball as if I'm afraid it will attack my right foot. He knows all these things but he still mouths the bologna for fear I might quit playing him and he'd have to get his booze money by some more honorable means—such as pawning his mother's wheelchair.

The only time Harvey's language gets precise is when he asks for my score on a hole.

"Let's see," I say, and then I get a faraway look in my eyes and move my lips slowly as my mind backtracks through 2 traps, the right rough, the woods on the left, a rockpile, the freeway, the bushes by the pro shop and that lake where 2 fishermen threatened to sue. "I think I got a 5."

"You got an 11," Harvey says, and writes it down—in ink.

I don't know what bugs me worse, his fountain pen or the money changer he wears on his belt.

But back to the Massachusetts man, I wasn't kidding. His name was Edward Faber and his ashes are buried beneath the 18th green at Stow Acres Country Club in Stow, Mass. Cremation was necessary because the greenskeeper didn't want lumps in the green.

Faber requested the unusual burial site in his will. "He just loved the game so much and this is what he really wanted," his widow explained.

Owners of the club are so enthusiastic about the idea they plan to erect a plaque to mark the grave. The possibilities do appear promising. Why not a grave or two at every green, and perhaps some by the traps and rough?

A guy wouldn't mind attending a funeral if he could chip up onto the burying surface. Of course, the undertaker would have to add a few services—such as caddies for pallbearers—but I'm sure all such problems could be solved with a minimum of keening.

Just so long as slow funerals allow faster funerals to play through.

Onward and Upward.

Pay up

By WARREN E. DOBSON

If my real name were Uncle Sam
And I sold Medicare,
'N did collectin' in advance—
To have the money there,

If April brought a letter—
Which proved another dud,
Would they sit quietly the while
Or try to draw some blood?

Would I expect my customers
To pay the surgeon's fee,
'N keep 'em waitin' months 'n months
Before they heard from me?

When Sam asks me for income tax
Will he wait a year for pay?
Or does he tell me that he wants
It on an exact day?

On July billing should I wait
Till December's snows were over,
Then write my customer to ask
If I paid in October?

If I were running medicare,
And all the folks I'd hired
Couldn't give me better service,
I'll bet I'd get some fired!

If they responded P.D.G.
Advising my mistake
Would I advise them late in March
Still 60 days 'twould take?

But still I fold my hands 'n wait,
Perhaps some lucky day
I'll get the money due me?
Why need it be this way?'

All bills due and payable the first of every month. St. Johns, Mich., JAN 1 1971

Pursuit happiness

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In the second paragraph of the Declaration of Independence we read, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

I direct your attention to that last phrase, "the pursuit of happiness." Thomas Jefferson felt that every man had a right to pursue his own happiness. The question I raise today is, "Is that the way to achieve happiness—to pursue it?" To answer my own question I say that to achieve happiness, one must pursue it in the right way.

People miss achieving happiness in their lives because they pursue it in the wrong way. Someone has said, "If you observe a really happy man, you will find him building a boat, writing a symphony, educating his son, growing double dahlias, or looking for dinosaur eggs in the Gobi desert. He will not be searching for happiness as if it were a collar button that had rolled under the radiator, striving for it as a goal in itself. He will have become aware that he is happy in the course of living life 24 crowded hours each day."

Nathaniel Hawthorne once wrote about happiness. He said, "Make it the object of your pursuit and it leads you on a wild goose chase." Too many people make the mistake of pursuing happiness as an end in itself. They set out to be happy, and the way they choose is the pleasure-seeking way. They think that by experiencing pleasure, happiness will be theirs. So their pleasure-seeking leads them down all sorts of blind alleys.

You could all make your own lists, but just for today I'll give you a couple of "for instances." For instance, there are the blind alleys of smoking, drinking, TV, watching, being a spectator at athletic contests, buying new clothes, new cars, new boats, and taking a pleasure cruise to a foreign country.

Now none of these experiences are bad in and out of themselves, but if we use them as means to achieve happiness, then we only fool ourselves. These experiences bring only isolated, temporary pleasures and not real happiness.

There is the story of a ship steward who went around the world on a pleasure cruise. When he returned, he said he had never seen so many high-strung, nervous, bored people as he found on that ship. Well, you don't have to go on a pleasure cruise to find people like that. You can find them right in our own community.

Will Rogers used to tell of a druggist who was asked if he ever took time off to have a good time. The druggist replied, "No, but I've sold a lot of headache remedies to those who have."

Another writer says this about happiness and the pleasure-seeker, "Happiness cannot be found in worldly achievement or in the things money can buy, and the pursuit of it by these means is likely to end in failure. The reason for this is clear. People who deliberately set out to be happy begin by playing it safe, and before long, they are playing entirely too safe. They stop giving at the point where they can give without feeling it, and so deprive themselves of the joy that comes from giving that has reached the point of sacrifice. They stop loving when it begins to hurt, and so miss the supreme joy of a love that suffers long and is kind."

Happiness must be pursued in the right way, and pleasure-seeking is not the right way. OK, so what is the right way? The Book of Psalms in the Old Testament points to the right way. In Psalm 128 we read, "Blessed is everyone who fears the Lord, who walks in his ways. You shall eat the fruit of the labor of your hands; you shall be happy, and it shall be well with you."

At the end of the 144th Psalm we read, "Happy the people whose God is the Lord!" In Psalm 146 we read, "Happy is he whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the Lord his God."

So, the Old Testament Psalms tell us that the guy who is happy is the one who has Almighty God for his Lord and who tries to follow His commands.

Think about your "pursuit of happiness" this week as you celebrate the 195th anniversary of the founding of our nation. Are you a pleasure-seeker or are you genuinely happy?

Walter Mitty

By REP. DICK ALLEN

"Walter Mitty" dreams, those wild fantasies in which one is able to pull off some wild improbable scheme to the cheers or jeers of the populace. Probably most of us have a favorite dream of this type that occasionally reappears in our sleeping or semi-sleeping moments.

Mine involves a common scene in any number of towns in my area. A celebration, 4th of July or other such occasion, is in progress. A large parade progresses down main street, dominated by the Sheriff's Posse.

Posse members are proudly uniformed and mounted on beautiful well-groomed horses, snorting and dancing, obviously eager for more action than the slow-paced parade affords.

The scene shifts. A stealthy figure (me) is emerging from the local bank, a money-bag slung over his shoulder. He hops on a small, shaggy, pot-bellied pony and hops out of town, pursued only by two dogs and a fewurchins gathering coins leaking from a hole in the money-bag.

The Legislature, the Governor, and the public begin each legislative session with Walter Mitty dreams. Impossible accomplishments to be achieved to the wild acclaim of the public. Proposals are laid out in bold general form early in the year. They sound wonderful! Then the details begin to slowly trickle through -- like the cold glowing light of dawn on a Walter Mitty dream.

You won't like to hear this but . . . Educational Reform and Property Tax Relief is beginning to look again like a Walter Mitty dream.

The Governor's Program initially sounded great. Eliminate property tax for school operation and replace the money with income tax. For business and industry, initiate a bold new program, the Value Added Tax, to replace property taxes, corporate income taxes being too un dependable.

Initially there was widespread general enthusiasm and support. But as each detail comes forth, objections arise. Democrats want the whole thing tied to a graduated income tax and old line Republicans protest. Suburbanites want some property tax continued so they have an option to fund a much superior program. Those for "equal" educational opportunity object.

Many from high tax areas think a "cutback" to 15 mills for operating would be sufficient property tax relief. In many of the outstate areas, this would provide practically no relief and some of us object. The whole thrust is towards a much stronger role of the State in local school operation. Many of us object to this centralization and loss of local control.

So as we near legislative deadlines, you ask this question: will we have complete Education Reform and dramatic Property Tax Relief this year?

The answer: Will Dick Allen ride out of town with the money-bag as the Sheriff's Posse parades down main street?

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beck of Maple Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Foersch visited Mr. and Mrs. Steven Thelen of rural St. Johns on Wednesday evening, June 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Fritz attended an open house for their nephew, Ned Sandford's graduation at Gaines, Sunday afternoon.

Value added tax

Rep. Douglas Trezise
87th District

What is VAT? Nobody is sure just what it means but the term is working its way into a lot of conversation and the Capitol these days.

VAT stands for Value Added Tax, and depending on whom you talk with, it is either the salvation of our tax structure or it is a grossly unfair and inequitable means of raising money for government.

Simply put, the Value Added Tax is a tax on the difference between the purchase price of raw materials and the sale price of the finished product of a business or manufacturing concern.

In other words, it is a tax on the "value added" during the manufacturing or sales process.

In administration, it could be much more complicated. As it is now discussed, it would be applied to every business in the State and would have striking similarity to the Business Activities Tax which was repealed a few years ago.

The Value Added Tax is very popular in European countries -- I should say it is popular with European governments. I have yet to see any tax which is popular among the people who pay it; but, it is the principal means of support of many national governments in Europe and has been considered seriously in Washington as a source of federal revenue.

Why is the VAT being discussed in Lansing? Only because it has been proposed by Governor Milliken as a revenue source to replace the property tax on business for the support of schools.

As you recall, the Governor has proposed that the Constitution of Michigan be amended to remove the local property tax as support for the operation of our schools. If adopted, this amendment would require that approximately $1,118 million in locally raised revenue would have to be replaced with money from other sources. This is made up of $500 million from individual property taxpayers and $618 million from business property.

THE PROPOSAL is to replace the individual taxpayer portion with an increase in the individual income tax rate. If the $618 million on business were to be replaced in the same manner the corporate tax rate would have to go above 14 per cent which would be the highest rate of any state in the nation. This would obviously discourage the growth of industry in the state.

In addition, the corporation tax is a very flexible source of money and it is felt that financing anything as critical as education should be based on a more stable base, not subject to the variations which have been experienced in the corporate income tax.

For example, the revenue produced by the present corporate income tax was $247 million in the first year it was in effect -- 1967 -- and was only $140 million last year because of the business recession and the General Motors strike. Obviously, education cannot be reliably financed from sources as indefinite as this.

So, the attention is turning to the Value Added Tax. It is estimated that a rate of about two per cent would be necessary to produce the $618 million which would be lost by elimination of school support through the local property tax.

The exact formula for application of this tax is still being studied. Some exemptions for very small businesses would seem appropriate and this and other things are being reviewed. Generally, I would say I could not support the VAT as a new tax. But, as a substitute for the property tax, it has merit. Both must be paid even though a company does not make a profit and both are ultimately paid by the consumer as part of the cost of a product.

But, if we get a constitutional amendment concerning the property tax and schools before the public and if you accept that amendment, you can be sure we'll all be hearing more about the VAT in the months ahead.

State aid

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

At its customary snail's pace, the Michigan Legislature finally initiated action on the 1971-72 State School Aid bill last week--about five months late.

And even at that, we've taken only the first few halting steps, like clearing the first hedgerow in a steeplechase.

But progress is progress, and in the Michigan Legislature, you take it whenever and however you can get it. Last week's "progress" on State School Aid constituted reporting the measure (SB 804) out of the Senate Education Committee, of which I'm a member. The bill must now get by Senate Appropriations, the full Senate, the House Education Committee, the House Appropriation Committee, the full House, and the Governor before it can become law. Just when it will finally pass nobody knows.

And nobody knows how much of an increase per child the various public school districts throughout Michigan will receive in State School Aid during the 1971 - 72 school year under the provisions of SB 804. But it's my guess that they'll get pretty much what the Senate Education Committee hopes that they'll get. Oh, there will be a lot of haggling in the marketplaces and cloakrooms of the State Capitol.

The full Senate will probably cut back what the Senate Education Committee has recommended, but the House will probably restore all of that and then some, and the bill will finally have to go into a "conference" of legislators from the two different chambers to iron out the differences.

All in all, when the dust finally settles I think the citizens of Clinton County will find that the various school districts within its borders will get roughly the following increase in State School Aid per child in 1971-72 over 1970-71:

DeWitt Schools, $40.43 (up 9.1%); Fowler Schools, $37.81 (up 8.5%); Bath Schools, $40.95 (up 8.5%); Ovid-Elsie Schools, $36.06 (up 9.1%); Pewamo-Westphalia Schools, $48.96 (up 13.3%); St. Johns Schools, $44.51 (up 11.9%); Portland Public Schools, $64.47 (up 17.7%).

NOTE: PHONE BEFORE GOING. Information for this listing was obtained last fall. Rates and accommodations may have changed. Many of the campgrounds have a limited number of on-site sewage and water hookups. Others do not have electricity at every site or do not allow ground tents. Prices quoted are daily minimums and do not always include electricity or other charges. To be sure the campground is open and offers what you want at the price you are willing to pay, check by phone. This map and listing is intended only as a guide and does not rate campgrounds. Campgrounds spotted on the map are shown in general and not exact locations. The letter 'G' after numerical in the listing indicates the number of sites.

It's hot

Sure it's hot, but isn't that what we were asking for in those cold blustery days last winter? It won't last and I'll bet next winter we'll be saying "Oh for a few of those warm summer days." Isn't it funny how we seldom have just exactly what we want?

It is possible to make ourselves more comfortable, however, in this uncomfortable weather. Keep busy. When our minds are occupied elsewhere, we aren't so conscious of the temperature. Dress comfortably. Tight restricting clothing holds body temperature. Loose flowing garments allow for breezes to circulate around the body.

Absorbent fibers such as cotton are cooler than the non-absorbents. Through the process of fabric absorbing moisture, the body is cooled. In fact, light, loose absorbent clothing is cooler than no clothing!

Hot weather is the time for lots of fresh vegetables and fruits in your diet. Crisp tossed salads, shimmering gelatin molds, chilled desserts and light cool beverages not only "look cool" but actually help moderate body temperature.

Meats cooked in the cool of the morning transform into delicious platters of cold cuts. Hard cooked eggs, refrigerator-cool, are good "as is" or sliced and diced into salads. Don't forget the variety of fish and shell fish that make tasty summer dishes when chilled - salmon, tuna, shrimp, etc. Serve them alone or in combinations. Think of all the ways you can tempt!

St. Johns class of 1921 celebrates 50th reunion

ST. JOHNS — On Saturday evening, June 26 the class of 1921 of St. Johns High School celebrated its 50th anniversary with a dinner and social evening at Daley's Fine Foods.

Twenty of a class of 39 were able to attend, two were memorialized by lighting candles when their names were called. Arrangements were in charge of the local class members, Adele Livingston Jones, Bernice Blakeslee Rice, Dorothy Van Vleet Steves, Dana Antes, Gall Davis, Marshall Cook, Percy Patterson and Thelma Mehney Fillmore. The last two were not able to be present.

Tables were decorated with candles and flowers in blue and gold, the class colors, and a fine display of pictures and mementoes was laid out for all to enjoy. Evelyn Putnam and Mrs. Carlotta Cranston Putman were invited as guests, since each had spent part of her high school years in this class.

The evening program began with an invocation by Helen Shafley Woodard of Grand Ledge. When the dinner was over all joined in singing the choruses of "JaDa", "Over There," and other popular songs of their school days with Treva Hill of the class of 1920 at the piano.

Adele Jones, as mistress of ceremonies, invited each in turn to give a thumbnail sketch of his activities since graduation. Letters from absentees were read by Bernice Rice, our secretary and treasurer, and various class members answered for those who had passed away.

Following this the names were once more called so that each class member might recall for us some special incident or impression from high school days.

Over and over the former students expressed their deep appreciation for the excellence of the school which they had been privileged to attend and the dedication of the teachers under whom they had studied.

Dr. Gerald Osborn, our graduating class president, now retired from Western Michigan University, closed the evening with a brief class meeting and benediction.

50 YEARS LATER

County drawing $424,000 in Social Security benefits

LANSING -- Social Security benefits were being paid to residents of Clinton County at a rate of $424,000 a month at the close of 1970, Roger W. Seamon, social security district manager in Lansing, said today.

A benefit increase signed into law by President Nixon on March 17, raised the monthly rate of payment by 10% for most of the 4,189 social security beneficiaries in Clinton County, Seamon added. A small number of beneficiaries over age 72 who are not receiving regular social security cash benefits received a 5% increase.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in Clinton County, 2,672 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,038 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 397 are getting benefits as disabled workers or their dependents.

Seamon pointed out that although most social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under age 60. In Michigan, 239,740 people under age 60 are collecting social security payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits. Most of the 22,460 beneficiaries in Michigan between 18 and 22 years of age, are getting students' benefits under a provision in the social security law permitting the continuation of a child's benefits beyond his 18th birthday, and up to age 22, if the child is attending school full time.

Also in this 18-22 age group, Seamon said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that the social security program provides workers of all ages. A number are children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who will probably never be able to work and become self-supporting. The monthly benefits of these young people, severely handicapped by physical or mental disabilities, will continue indefinitely. Beneficiaries also include those who will be seniors in high school next fall and who may be interested in a naval career starting with a free college education at the U. S. Naval Academy, may apply now for admission.

fits are also payable to their mothers if the disabled son or daughter is in the mother's care. Seamon said that another relatively small but significant group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving benefits as disabled workers. Social security disability payments can be paid to a person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than 5 years of work under social security. As little as 1 1/2 years of work is required in the case of a worker who becomes disabled before age 24, Seamon said.

Standards for admission are based on a good scholastic record, participation in extra-curricular activities and leadership potential, as well as physical fitness. Further information on the Naval Academy program can be obtained from the U. S. Naval Academy Information Officer, Capt. Roland F. Woodcock, RR #1, Box 417, Richland, Michigan 49083.

Apply now for Naval Academy

Applications for nominations for the class of 1976 which will enter the Academy next June should be sent to Michigan's two United States Senators, Philip A. Hart and Robert P. Griffin and your United States Congressional District Representatives as soon as possible. Applicants need not know their congressmen personally to apply.

Alma college gets $21,439 grant for ecology

ALMA -- A $21,439 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to Alma College will enable the college, the Alma Public Schools and the community of Alma to participate in a program of ecological restoration along the Pine River.

The two-year project, which will involve a program of study and research within the Pine River watershed as well as restoration of several abandoned and ecologically desolate parcels of land along the river, will be conducted in two phases.

The planning phase of the program will begin this fall and will be carried on primarily in an interdisciplinary course at the college. The action phase of the project, involving Alma College students and faculty and Alma area residents who wish to participate, will begin in September of 1972.

Basic goals of the restoration program are to generate active participation of the college, the local schools, the city and as many community groups as possible in developing the sites and to provide a model for ecological restoration in other communities, according to Dr. Ronald O. Kapp, provost of the college and director of the project.

The $21,439 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation is in addition to a $5,000 grant to Alma College from the foundation earlier this year. That grant enabled the college to expand its collection of books in the field of environmental studies.

In announcing the grant, Dr. Robert E. Kinsinger, Kellogg Foundation vice president, said that it was one of approximately 25 being made to private liberal arts colleges throughout the United States as part of the foundation's continuing concern to find solutions to the nation's environmental problems.

Dr. Kinsinger added, "The foundation hopes that its support to these special projects will encourage the small, private liberal arts colleges, students and faculty, to consider in a practical way unique means by which the results of continuing insults to the environment may be modified or reversed."

Riverside sites included in the Alma restoration project include a former city dump, an abandoned oil refinery, portions of an abandoned airport and a former athletic field which has recently been used as a landfill.

Besides the interdisciplinary course at the college, the planning phase of the program will involve workshops and seminars which will bring in planning and technical consultants. City officials and members of the community will be involved in determining the most desirable use of the sites—for example, as picnic areas, neighborhood playgrounds, hiking trails and nature study areas.

THE INTERDISCIPLINARY course will consider the relation of the sites to the overall ecological problems in the Pine River watershed, land use patterns, zoning and environmental planning in the city, county and region. The workshops and seminars will concentrate on plans for dealing with specific problems at each site such as pools of oil, soil regeneration, solid waste control, periodic flooding, landscaping and cleanup of water pollution.

Student volunteers, as well as those enrolled in the formal study programs of the project, will participate with interested citizens in the action phase of the project.

Alma Public Schools will be involved in the ecological program through involvement of teachers, classes and selected students in research activity. Workshops and seminars at the college will be open to public school teachers and students. High school and middle school students will also be involved in restoration work, probably at a separate site adjacent to the ones being restored by the college.

The value of the project to Alma College, according to Dr. Kapp, is primarily the opportunity that it affords to expand environmental education through community based programs.

"The most obvious benefit to the city, and yet hopefully the least significant in the long run," Dr. Kapp added, "is the development of a portion of the Pine River Course as a beautiful greenbelt. Most importantly, it is hoped that the program will demonstrate the feasibility and desirability of the greenbelting concept."

"It is hoped," Dr. Kapp said, "that the project will serve to sensitize the community to the need for long-range planning and to the real possibilities for community environmental action. The widest possible community participation must be generated."

THE ALMA PROVOST pointed out that coherent environmental planning is as important in rural areas, villages and smaller cities such as Alma as it is in the metropolitan areas where ecological blighting may be more spectacular, primarily because of crowding.

For Alma College, the program is part of an expanding environmental studies plan. The college has developed a 100-acre tract, the MacCurdy Ecological Station, near Vestaburg for field study, research and experimental programs. In 1967 Alma College's American Assembly on the Population Dilemma brought 75 leaders from the fields of business, education, religion, social work and labor to the campus for discussions and policy formation concerning the population problem.

Alma student-faculty research teams have focused on basic ecological research and environmental problems during recent years. Within the past two years interdisciplinary seminars on human population and pollution problems were conducted. During the 1970-71 academic year two action oriented classes in the field of environmental studies were provided, one of them on techniques of pollution detection using Pine River as a field laboratory site. The other studied county and city comprehensive and zoning plans and their relationship to planning for optimum human environment.

A six-member steering committee — three Alma College faculty members and three students — will be appointed by Dr. Kapp this summer to serve with him in administering the project.

Members of the review panel which screened various proposals and developed the request to the W.K. Kellogg Foundation for funding of the program included three students — Paula Bottecelli of Fenton, Robert Madole of Pontiac and Thomas Shelham of Birmingham. Faculty members serving on the committee were: Dr. John Agria, political science; Craig Davis biology; Dr. Jacob DeYoung, chemistry; Dr. Lester Eyer, biology; Guile Graham, vice president for development; Kent Kirby, art; Louis Miner, English; Dr. Donald Oltz, biology; Frederic Surles, economics; Myron Utech, sociology; and Dr. Kapp.

A clump of grass fights for life in a pool of stagnant oil at an abandoned refinery site, one of four tracts in the city of Alma that are targets in an ecological restoration program made possible by a $21,439 grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to Alma College.
