DeWITT DRUG RAID NETS MATERIALS VALUED AT $500

DeWitt City policemen Friday night arrested a 16-year-old youth and charged him with possession of marijuana. He was arrested at a home in DeWitt where police also confiscated more than $500 worth of marijuana and other drugs, plus drug injection equipment. The youth was taken to the juvenile home in St. Johns. DeWitt Police Chief Charles Anderson (right) checks the evidence from the raid with other officers who assisted. They are, from left, Duane Smith and Jeff Wilcox.

St. Johns school district operating in the black

By RON KARLE
Editor

The St. Johns School District is operating in the black for the first time in four years.

A summary of general fund receipts and expenditures for 1969-70 was presented to the Board of Education last week and showed the district with a balance of $2,634.12.

Two key factors were the reception of more state aid than anticipated and complete reimbursement from the state for special education, said Supt. Earl Lancaster.

When preparing the budget, the board and administration had anticipated $1,355,350 in state aid but because of increased enrollment the district received $1,421,527.

The district, in theory, is supposed to be reimbursed 75 per cent of the cost of special education, while the intermediate school district furnishes the remaining 25 per cent.

But this depends on the availability of state funds, said Lancaster, and often the district doesn't receive the full 75 per cent from the state. Last year, for example, the district received only 69 per cent of the 75 per cent expected.

Going into the last fiscal year, the district had a deficit of $40,448 which is approximately one per cent of a proposed budget of $2.5 million.

In fiscal 1969-70 the district received $1,071,881.76 from local sources, $15,603.80 from intermediate sources, $1,421,527.85 from the state and $71,880 from the federal government for a total of $2,580,893.48.

These receipts, when added to $63,464.87 in accounts receivable due June 30, total $2,634,358.35.

From this, expenditures of $2,591,726.23 are subtracted leaving $43,082.12 in excess cash receipts and accounts receivable.

When last year's deficit of $40,448 is subtracted from the $43,082.12, the district shows a surplus of $2,634.12.

In other action, the board: -Approved the building site and financial report which shows earnings of $446,429.79 in interest on bonds as of July 8. This is money which was invested before it was spent to pay off construction bills for the new high school.

-Approved an annual salary of $24,500 for Lancaster, who has been superintendent for the last 18 years. The salary is an increase of $1,500 over last year.

-Ratified a contract for custodial and maintenance and employees. On a seven-year scale, salaries for custodial and gen-

Last chance to honor your servicemen in News annual salute

Only five more days.

That's how much time is left if your serviceman is to be honored in the Clinton County News third annual Salute to Servicemen.

The deadline is Monday, July 20.

If you have a son, husband, relative or friend serving in the Armed Forces, send us his picture and the information requested on Page 3A.

Although we'll try, we can't promise that your serviceman will be included in this year's issue if we have not received a photo and details by Monday.

But there's still time if you start now.

So why not fill out the form on Page 3A right now.

And don't forget to send us his picture.

Then watch for him in the third annual Salute to Servicemen coming your way Aug. 5.

If a member of your family has died while in the service this past year, we would like to pay tribute in his memory, too. If you would send us information and a picture, we will publish it in the Salute to Servicemen.

Board re-elects Parr

RAYMOND PARR

Raymond Parr was unanimously re-elected president of the St. Johns Board of Education at the annual meeting Monday night.

Although he appeared pleased, Parr who has served on the board for 13 years—including the last five as president—indicated he has given some thought to retirement when his present term expires.

"I might say that in another year someone else might seriously think of taking the job," he told fellow board members.

"I'll know in a year if I am going to run again," said Parr. "If not, someone should have a year's experience."

Parr is beginning the third year of a four-year term. The board also unanimously re-elected Fred Meyer secretary and Alden Livingston treasurer.

Meyer has served on the board for the 10 years, including the last five as secretary.

Livingston has been on the board for the five years and has been treasurer for the last two.

In other business at the annual meeting, the board changed its monthly meeting date.

Beginning next month the board will meet on the second Wednesday evening of the month.

Meetings from October to April will be at 7:30 p.m. and meetings during the rest of the year will begin at 8 p.m. This is unchanged from before.

The board set the meetings for later in the month to allow at least one week to elapse after the first of the month in order to have time to prepare statements of financial condition.

The next regular meeting of the board is Aug. 12.

No combat for Ovid youth; mixups delay official notice

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

Two months ago, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sloat, 1400 Leland Road, of rural Ovid, received oral assurances from Washington officials that their son would not be sent to Vietnam.

The Sloats told the News Friday that they have finally received official notice that their son, Robert, 20, will not be sent into any combat zone, including Vietnam and Korea.

"We have received several letters and two phone calls from Sen. (Robert P.) Griffin," Mrs. Sloat said.

She said Griffin sent her a statement from the Army stating that when a member of the family is killed in action, no other members of that family will be sent into combat.

The action to keep Robert from the war zones stemmed from the death of another son, Bennie, who was killed March 19 when his armored personnel carrier was destroyed by an enemy land mine in Vietnam.

Since that time the family has been writing letters and calling various local, state and federal officials to receive an answer to their plight.

Sen. Phillip A. Hart encouraged the family in May when he indicated that he had received assurances from the Army that Robert would not be sent into combat.

Hart's spokesman, Press Secretary Jerry Kabel, said that formal written notification would be sent to the Sloats with which they could notify their local draft board in St. Johns.

Mrs. Sloat said last week that they had not received the information from Hart's office.

Interviewed by telephone in Washington Friday, Kabel said he sent out the formal notices in May but they might have been held up along the way.

He said he would send another letter to the family immediately. "The main thing is that this matter is finally straightened out," Kabel said when told that the family had been notified through other channels.

The Sloats had been informed earlier by Lt. Robert Sealey, U.S. Army advisor in Lansing, that there was nothing he nor the Army could do. He had indicated that Robert would be sent to Vietnam within 12 months after induction.

The letter that Griffin included from the Army stated that Sealey was operating under an old policy which claims that a family that has sustained a loss in the war could only receive a 12-month deferment from combat duty.

The Griffin letter also included the new Army policy that states the other family members, though not draft exempt, would not be sent into combat zones, currently including Vietnam and Korea.

The young man, when inducted, should submit a request for non-combatant duty which "will be honored."

Mrs. Sloat said she had written both Hart and Griffin in April, and sent another letter to Griffin on May 1.

She said Griffin replied on May 6, apologizing for the delay. "I was deeply shocked and saddened," Griffin said in the letter concerning the death of Bennie.

"I regret you were caused any undue worry," he told the Sloats about his delayed reply.

Mrs. Sloat said Griffin called several times, to make sure everything was going smoothly regarding Robert's status.

She said that she has not received any other word from the draft board and that Robert is still at home.

"We love our country," Mrs. Sloat said earlier, "but we feel that we have sacrificed a great deal and have contributed enough."

"I don't think that he'll be drafted now," Mrs. Sloat said. "Although, he still is eligible until August," she added.

The Sloats have another son who served in Vietnam. Ricky was stationed near Pleiku with the Fourth Division during 1968 and part of 1969.

No parking on Park St.

The St. Johns City Commission has decreed that from now on there will be no more parking on Park Street.

But only between Morton and Saw Mill Alley, that is.

In covering a rather light agenda Monday night, the commission also decided to make two other temporary parking control orders permanent.

They made McConnell a stop street at Morton and Baldwin a street at Morton.

In other action, the commission:

-Took none concerning a request for a beer and wine take out license for a Mini-Mart store at the corner of U.S. 27 and Sturgis Street. The matter was tabled when Police Chief Everett Glazier told the commission that he has been unable to gain entry to the building for an inspection.

-Selected City Manager Harvey Weatherwax as a delegate to the Michigan Municipal League Convention in Detroit this September. City Clerk Tom Hundley was named as alternate.

-Closed White Street between M 21 and Walker. The road reverts to property owners with land adjacent to the street.

-Accepted a blanket permit allowing maintenance and repairs on U.S. 27 and M 21 within the city. Before, the city had to obtain a permit and inspection from the state each time repairs were needed which caused a delay.

Clinton Red Cross office to close July 15

The Clinton County office of the American Red Cross will be closed beginning Wednesday, June 15.

Jeanne Rand, who has been executive secretary of the Clinton branch for the last six years, says a lack of funds has resulted in the closing.

"We've known for two years that we were going to phase this job out," she says.

Mrs. Rand, who operated the office at her home in St. Johns, says that after July 15 all calls to the Red Cross should be made to the Mid-Michigan Chapter office in Lansing.

Branches of Clinton, Eaton and Ingham counties are members of the Mid-Michigan chapter.

The office in Lansing is located at 1800 W. Grand River and may be called toll-free at Enterprise-6923. The office is open 24 hours a day.

The three counties merged in 1965 to become the Mid-Michigan chapter but Clinton was the only branch with a county office.

Included among activities of the Red Cross are Bloodmobiles, servicemen canteens, and hospital volunteer work.

Mrs. Lawrence Merignac is Bloodmobile chairman, Mrs.

JEANNE RAND

Doris Prowant is hospital volunteer chairman and Charles Shinnee is disaster chairman.

With the closing of the office in St. Johns, Mrs. Rand's job as executive secretary will end.

In the past, families of servicemen would call her when it was necessary to contact the serviceman when, for example, there was a death in the family or some other emergency.

Other activities of the local branch will continue.

Roads were biggest expense for Clinton Salary formula set

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

Road construction and maintenance costing $1,401,731 accounted for more than one-half of the total expenditures for Clinton County during 1969, according to an audit report from the state treasury department.

The report showed a total county expenditure of $2,586,860 with 54.19 per cent of the total going for road expenses.

Next in line for county expenditures was general funding for the county government with $284,429 or 10.99 per cent of the budget. Social welfare costs amounted to $237,631 or 9.19 per cent while judicial expenses cost the county $149,141 or 5.77 per cent.

Other county expenses listed in the total were legislative costs of $43,273; public safety, $144,419; health, $42,746; county drains and maintenance, $60,176; libraries, $49,922; retirement and social security, $35,562; public works, $8,342; county fair, $3,273; advertising and promotion, $3,458; other expenses, $40,882; capital outlay, $78,776; and the interest on debts, $3,090.

In two areas, airport costs and recreation programs, the county was listed by the treasury department as not having expenses.

In the revenue column, Clinton County was credited with an income of $2,610,215, which was $23,355 more than expenditures.

The largest source of county revenue was from "other agencies" accounting for $1,440,137. Second highest was taxes at $854,430.

Other sources of revenue listed in the report were licenses and permits, $49,621; fines, forfeitures and penalties, $42,312; use of money and property, $33,049; current services, $126,654; sales, $13,871; reimbursements, $28,865; and refunds and rebates, $21,056.

The per capita cost of county operations amounted to $59.06, a jump of $10.74 from the 1968 per capita sum of $48.32.

The audit report issued a listing of state and federal aid to the county. Highest state aid contribution was in highway construction and maintenance amounting to $992,387.

Clinton County also received state aid from the income tax totaling $140,783.

Other state aid items were social welfare, $33,639; health services, $432; probate judge, $5,000; veterans' trust, $3,365; and liquor law enforcement, $816.

Federal aid areas were civil defense, $3,213 and roads, $3,492.

State aid, totaling $1,176,422 accounted for 45.07 per cent of the total county revenue for the year ending Dec. 31, 1969.

would be earning $240 a week. This would figure out to $11,520 for an administrator working a 48-week year.

If his responsibility factor were 10 this would be multiplied by the B.A. maximum ($10,500) for an additional $1,500 in responsibility pay.

The $11,520 added to responsibility pay of $1,500 totals $13,020 or an increase of $3,020.

The board, however, has approved raises of only 50 per cent for next year before going to the full 100 per cent the following year.

Thus, using these theoretical figures, the raise this year would be $1,510.

Administrative salaries cannot be determined for 1970-71 until a new contract is signed with the St. Johns Education Association.

Until that time, administrators will continue to receive the same pay as last year. Once the board reaches agreement with the teachers' association, however, administrators will be paid any increase in salary retroactive to July 1.

The administrative handbook is based on what is called the "management team concept."

This includes "a delegation of managerial responsibilities to that administrative level assigned to best directly carry out those responsibilities within the framework of the philosophy of the school district as conceived by the people, school board and school administrators."

Under this concept, it is pointed out that the superintendent "is ultimately responsible to the Board of Education for administering the operation of the schools and must remain accountable for this responsibility."

OEO program seeks jobs for area youths

If you are between the ages of 16 and 25 and looking for summer work—believe it or not, someone is looking for you.

A new program funded by the office of Economic Opportunity is attempting to assist young people from low-income families, in finding summer work. The program, however, is not limited to only young people from low-income families.

In an attempt to assist young people from the rural areas, in addition to the agency's traditional emphasis on metropolitan areas, the program is directed to four counties in this area—Clinton, Eaton, Shiawassee and Ingham.

Representing the office in Clinton County is Steve Parker, of St. Johns.

He is attempting to set up a youth council in Clinton County to work with other young people in setting up programs aimed at obtaining work.

There are four areas in which Clinton youths may find work—chore crews, wedding and business photography, adaptive clothing for the handicapped and vocational crafts.

Many of these projects need not be limited to summer work only says Parker. It is hoped some young people would become involved in projects which would provide year-round income.

OEO will provide youths with materials to work with in addition to aiding in obtaining jobs through the youth council.

Low-income people will be considered first for these projects.

For example, the program will seek out low-income people who may want their home painted but are unable to afford to have such work done.

OEO would furnish young people to do the job plus paint and other materials. OEO would then pay the youths a salary for the job.

For additional information, contact Steve Parker at 224-4218 or the Office of Economic Opportunity in St. Johns, 224-3302.

Fowler girl injured in auto accident

Diane Koenigsnecht, 19, Bauer Road, Fowler, was listed in good condition Monday at Clinton

Memorial Hospital after a two-car weekend accident.

She suffered facial injuries Saturday night while riding in a vehicle driven by Linda M. Schaffer, 19, 10874 North Drive, Fowler.

The Schaffer vehicle collided with an oncoming auto on Bauer Road North of M 21 after striking a bridge railing, according to the sheriff's reports.

The driver of the other auto, Barbara A. Thelen, 17, 1808 Townsend Road, St. Johns, and her passenger, Germaine Smith, 17, Bauer Road, Fowler escaped injury.

Miss Schaffer was treated for minor injuries at Clinton Memorial Hospital and released.

According to the sheriff's reports, Miss Thelen said she saw the other car approaching, started across the bridge and was struck by the other vehicle.

Miss Schaffer said she saw the Thelen vehicle and tried to pull to the right, striking the bridge. The impact turned her car into the path of the other auto, according to the reports.

Both drivers were ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

Tri-County Planning Commission prepares attack on area problems

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

Housing, water and sewer systems, solid waste management, transportation and information systems are among the problems to be tackled this year by the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission.

Already creating some controversy in the county, especially with officials, the planning commission plans a continued study of landfill sites and sewer systems.

The continuing housing study, the commission indicated, will attempt to "lay the groundwork for overcoming the obstacles encountered in attempting to provide a decent home for each resident within the region as required by the Regional Development Plan."

The comprehensive regional water and sewerage system plan "is intended to lead the way to better management practices and organization and will result in more effective and economical ability of the Commission, for in the everchanging urban area there is a need to refine transportation data so it reflects the needs of all people of the Region and meets changes occurring in the Tri-County area."

An information system program for the Tri-County area has been proposed to keep current the data needed to assist in making both private and public development decisions.

"The information generated is also to be used as resource data for use in updating Regional and local comprehensive plans," the report noted.

Local assistance programs include preparation of a comprehensive development plan for the city of Mason and Alaledon and Vevay Townships, preparation of a comprehensive development plan for Bath Charter Township, and zoning reviews for the Ingham County Coordinating Zoning committee.

The commission also announced a tentative work program schedule for 1970-1975.

Plans for 1971 include a surface drainage study of the region, recreation and open space study, regional information dissemination system, and a metro-center plan.

systems," according to the commission's report.

The commission also indicated that this plan would guide the direction, rate and character of land development, encourage an orderly and efficient pattern of growth, help preserve natural resources and insure that an adequate number of sites are available for housing all of the region's residents.

The regional solid waste management system program would provide for a more thorough analysis of the solid waste disposal considerations leading toward the development of a regional solid waste management system for the Tri-County region, providing an improved organization and management system for the disposal of solid waste, the report indicated.

The commission statement on transportation planning noted that "this function is the responsibility of the Commission, for in the everchanging urban area there is a need to refine transportation data so it reflects the needs of all people of the Region and meets changes occurring in the Tri-County area."

The 1973 plans include natural resources conservation studies and resource conservation practices.

Serving on the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission for Clinton County are Roy F. Andrews, treasurer; Andrew W. Cobb, Gerald V. Wilcox, and Walter C. Nobis, ex-officio.

Questions & answers on Social Security

By ROGER W. SEAMON
District Manager
Social Security Administration

Editor's Note: Roger Seamon is the Clinton County representative for the Social Security Administration. Each week he will answer questions in this column on Social Security pertinent to this area. He also invites questions of general interest from readers of the News. Send your questions to him in care of the Clinton County News.

I get social security benefits and I expect to move soon. I don't want any delay in getting my check after I move. What should I do?

Answer: Notify any social security office as early in the month as possible so that your next check will go directly to your new address.

Did you mean any social security office, or the social security office in my present neighborhood?

Answer: You can notify any social security office in the United States. But, you must also be sure to notify your post office of your change of address, and ask them to forward your mail. So if the social security office doesn't receive your new address early enough to change it on your next check, the post office will send your check to your new address.

When I notify a social security office about my change of address, what will they want to know besides my old and new address?

Answer: The social security office will ask: (1) the name of the person or persons about whom the report is being made, (2) the correct social security number. It is a nine-digit number followed by a letter A, B, C, D, E, F, or H. This number is shown on all letters sent to you about the benefits you are receiving, (3) the date you are moving.

In what way must a parent be dependent on a son or daughter to draw benefits on the son or daughter's social security record?

Answer: Although survivor benefits are the only type of benefits payable to a dependent parent (i.e., upon the death of the son or daughter), the time at which dependency can be established can be at the time the insured son or daughter retired (at least age 62), became disabled, or died. Usually, the parent would have to have been receiving 1/2 support for a full year before either of these events.

Is the only requirement for entitlement to dependent parent's benefits that the parent was dependent on the deceased son or daughter?

Answer: No. There is an age requirement for the parent. Although the age of the parent has no bearing on establishing dependency, the parent must be at least age 62 before benefits can be paid.

Penn Central RR ordered to clear, repair Southern Clinton crossings

By TIM YOUNKMAN
News Staff Writer

The Penn Central Railroad has been ordered to clear and repair its grade crossings and install some automatic protection devices in southern Clinton County.

The ruling came after a report of railroad property conditions was presented to the Commerce Department's Michigan Public Services Commission, ruling and enforcement authority for public utilities, rail and motor transport firms.

The board was informed of the various crossing conditions by the Clinton County Road Commission and the Supervisor of Bath Township, Duane Smith.

The areas affected, in Bath and Victor Townships, include the intersection of the rail line and Cutler and Upton Roads, Drumheller Road, Watson Road, Main Street and Walnut Street in Bath, Clise Road, Angle Road, Howe Road, Center Road and Hollister Road.

Another order issued by the commission calls for a relocation of existing signal protection on Clark Road, due to the road widening project.

The commission, during a June 22 session, indicated that an inspection of the Upton and Cutler Roads crossings was conducted by a commission representative with representatives of the railroad company and the county road commission.

The inspection group was requested to investigate the other crossings and signal improvements a week later.

The commission ordered Penn Central to complete the clearing of vegetation and leveling of all earthen mounds or embankments on its right-of-way for a minimum of 500 feet each direction from the grade crossings.

The commission also ordered the Clinton County Road Commission to clear its right-of-way for distances of up to 300 feet from the crossings.

The railroad line and county road commission were given 90 days to complete the work.

The railroad line was ordered to "repair, rebuild, or reconstruct and extend" the physical surfaces and materials of the grade crossings. They were given 90 days for this project, according to the commission's written report.

Credit union to retain architect

Federal Mogul Employees' Credit Union, Building Chairman Roy Ebert reports that they have retained Mason, Jackson & Kane, Inc. as architects on the building to be erected in the area of Andy's IGA.

Work on design and development is progressing, and they expect to put the job up for bids in September.

Plans are anticipated to be in the area of 2,000 square feet.

A spokesman for the commission said Friday that the rail improvements would probably be scheduled by the company within 60 days.

Crews have started work on the crossing at Main Street in Bath, improving the road and crossing surface.

If the railroad company fails to comply with the commission orders, "the commission could take any action," according to Tom Farrell, public information director for the commerce department.

He indicated that the commission could levy a stiff fine, but the other party could appeal the order to the circuit court.

In the past, the commission has ordered certain rail lines to continue passenger operations, Farrell said.

"We have had some court cases and we get quite a few with the utility companies on rate increases," he said.

Vondrasek at EMU

William J. Vondrasek, Sr., of Route 1, Bath, recently completed a week-long "Leadership Development Workshop in Cooperative Programs for the Disadvantaged" held at Eastern Michigan University, last month.

Vondrasek is cooperative coordinator and vocational teacher in Bath Community Schools.

The 16 teachers, counselors and coordinators from across Michigan that attended the workshop were concerned with vocational education, with a major objective of preparing the group to initiate or extend vocational programs for the disadvantaged.

Recognized specialists made presentations, and the group visited the Detroit Inner City and industries with programs for hiring and training the disadvantaged.

Each participant will return to Eastern on Aug. 1 to examine proposals each has written to meet the needs of the disadvantaged in his school district.

Co-directors of the workshop were Jerald A. Grless, associate professor, and Herbert Wilson, assistant professor, both of the Department of Industrial Education at Eastern.

Phillies eliminated from Pony Tourney

The St. Johns Phillies were eliminated from the St. Louis Recreational Council Invitational Pony League Tournament last weekend.

first two games in the tourney... including a 1-0 no-hitter by Jim Schumaker... were defeated 7-6 in a rain-delayed game Sunday.

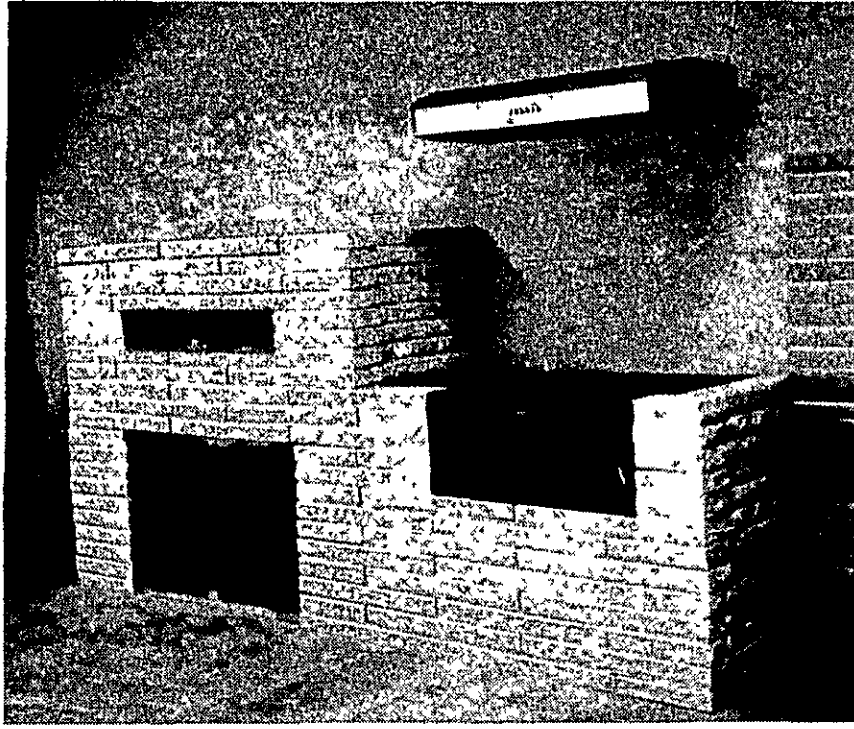

The Phillies lost to St. Louis in a game which began Saturday. The Saturday game was postponed after three innings with St. Johns ahead, 5-2.

Pitcher John Lundy added his own cause against St. Louis with a three-run homer while John Worstler and Schumaker added a pair of solo shots.

St. Louis hitters were finding the seats, too, with four homers. Against the Merrill A team Thursday, St. Johns won 3-2 in 10 innings.

Lundy hit a two-run homer to give the Phillies a lead which was erased in the fifth inning when Merrill scored a pair.

In the 10th inning, Jeff Gentry cracked a singled through the center to score Bruce Irish.

We were asked recently why we call our petite wife Big Mama. It's easy. It fits her. Not her size but her disposition.

We try to keep on the good side of her because when provoked she's a romping stomper, meaner than a stepped on snake.

Ever been plagued by a flash camera that didn't flash because the batteries were dead? No more. Ray Parr has the new line of cameras that take flash pictures without batteries. The secret is a spring operated "Magcube". It looks like the flash cube of old but doesn't require batteries.

Back Home Dept.—Have you ever seen Rodney Dangerfield? He is the comic who has appeared on Ed Sullivan, Johnny Carson, numerous daytime shows and always complains, "I don't get no respect". Well if belief and respect are the same, we are in the same boat with Rodney. . . nobody believes us.

We're from Raco, Raco, Michigan. . . you know in the Upper Peninsula. Thirty miles from the Soo, eight miles from Brimley, a million miles from nowhere. The sticks. . . boondocks. . . the town that makes Podunk look good. Mind you, we're not ashamed or complaining. . . we're proud to be from Raco. We're not too wild about living there but it's a great place to be from.

Now you believe that. Everyone believes that. Where the problem comes in is when we start talking about friends and events we knew and took part in while growing up and returning to visit.

Would you believe "Two-Toes" Teeple. . . "Dirty Alice" . . . Wild Bill the wine-o. . . Little Joe who carried his left ear around in his wallet. . . The Wilcox boys who once tried to steal an occupied out-house?

How about a full fledged drive-in bingo game that still draws hundreds today. . . the six-pack shack massacre that accounted for more broken bones than World War I. . . the night-lovesick Ambrose after consuming unknown quantities of homemade hooch and listening to "Ode to Billie Joe" at least $4 worth on the Juke Box, jumped off the Waiska River Bridge 27 times? He was so depressed when no one tried to rescue him that he shot himself in the foot.

See what we mean. We start talking about the old days back home and no one believes us. Well, we don't blame you, we saw it, we lived it and there are times we don't believe it either.

Princess adopts a family

About a week ago Richard Ettinger's dog, Princess, gave birth to a pup which died the same day.

Two days later, one of his pigs gave birth to a litter of eight.

And on that day the mother pig and Ettinger's two other sows died.

So Princess, a year-old German shepherd, adopted all eight piglets, and has been nursing them.

And she's become very protective of her new family, says Mrs. Ettinger.

When anybody picks up one of the little pigs, it sets up an ear piercing squeal until let go to return to Princess.

If the little pig isn't set down immediately, Princess begins to growl at the offending person.

She used to carry them around by the scruff of their necks just like puppies, says Mrs. Ettinger. But she found she was hurting them and doesn't do that any more.

At last report, mother and "family" were reported doing fine.

The Ettingers live south of St. Johns on Townsend Road.

Anti-DDT campaign underway in Michigan

An intensive campaign to remove all remaining DDT products from retail stores has been launched by the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

B. Dale Ball, Department director, said the nine field inspectors of the Laboratory division are being assigned to check retail outlets in their respective territories for DDT formulations.

With an estimated 63,000 retail stores in Michigan, about 60 days will be required to complete the inspection, Ball said. The director emphasized that many stores have already voluntarily complied with the department's request to remove DDT products from their shelves.

Director Ball outlined the procedures which will be taken during the next 60 days:

"The inspector will inventory stocks containing DDT and attempt to gain voluntary withdrawal of the products, verified by a signed release from the vendor.

"If there are only a few packages, the release will be made to the inspector for disposal. If a large quantity is involved, the release will be to the Department of Natural Resources for collection and disposal. Materials collected by inspectors will be turned over to DNR for disposal.

"If voluntary release is not obtained, the inspector will place the lot under seizure as a misbranded economic poison. Samples will be submitted to the laboratory for analysis and to be used as evidence, and the label will be examined to assure that the product is misbranded. A complaint will then be filed seeking a court order of condemnation and disposition."

Ball said notices mailed a month ago, seeking voluntary compliance, have brought commitments of cooperation from many associations of retailers. The current campaign is expected to complete disposal of remaining stocks which were on hand when DDT registrations were cancelled by the Department a year ago.

Leaching studied at MSU

Phosphorus tends to accumulate in the surface layer of soil. And considerable leaching of potassium may occur when fertilizers are applied to the surface of sandy soils, according to P. E. Rieke, Michigan State University turf specialist.

"The rate and distance of phosphorus movement in soils is small and normally not important because of its low solubility in soil water," explains Rieke.

In test plots on sandy soil, some potassium leached beyond the 10-inch depth. Irrigation increases leaching.

Such extreme leaching would not likely occur in soils with higher clay content because they would have sufficient capacity to hold the potassium.

Soil testing can indicate movement of nutrients in soils besides providing sound basis for fertilizer recommendations, reminds Rieke.

Hairiness beats bugs

Cereal leaf beetle resistance in wheat has been shown to be directly related to the hairiness of the plant's leaves. Using bristly varieties collected from all over the world, Michigan State University crop scientists are now trying to breed the bristly leaf characteristics into Michigan commercial wheat varieties.

State Crop Report

By MICHIGAN CROP REPORTING SERVICE

FOR WEEK ENDING JULY 4

Warm weather along with an adequate supply of soil moisture speeded crop development in the Southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

Good progress was made with hay making and other field work. Soil moisture varied from short in much of the Upper Peninsula and Northern Lower Peninsula to surplus in some South Central areas. Soil moisture was mostly adequate elsewhere.

The State averaged 5.1 days suitable for field work.

Dry bean and soybean planting has been completed on most farms. Some soybean fields have been replanted in the Southern counties because of damage from heavy rains. Most early planted dry bean and soybean fields are developing well.

Winter wheat is maturing rapidly and a few southern fields are ready to combine. Local storms have caused some lodging of wheat.

Oats are mostly headed in the Southern half of the Lower Peninsula and are starting to head in the Upper Peninsula.

The development of corn, sugar beets and potatoes is generally good to excellent. Farmers with irrigation equipment are irrigating potatoes.

More than 90 per cent of the first cutting hay has been made in Southern Michigan, but only about one-third has been made in the Upper Peninsula and 60 per cent in the Northern Lower Peninsula.

Pastures continue to supply average to above average amounts of feed in most of the Lower Peninsula, but pasture feed supplies are less than average in many Upper Peninsula localities and the Northwestern Lower Peninsula.

Most vegetables including snap beans, onions, carrots and cabbage are making a good to excellent growth.

The harvest of celery is active in the Zeeland and Muskegon area.

Slicing cucumbers are being picked in Berrien County and the cabbage harvest continues in Monroe County. The strawberry harvest is at a peak in Emmet County and picking has started in the Southern Upper Peninsula.

The tart cherry harvest is at a peak in Berrien County, but picking is not expected to begin until July 13 in Oceana County. Tart cherries are coloring rapidly in the Northwest.

Sweet cherry picking is nearing completion in Berrien County and picking is active in other southwestern counties. In the Northwest, sweet cherries are about ready to pick. Other tree fruits are generally developing well.

Wing, Miller attend MMPA tour in Detroit

Scott Wing and Robert Miller, both of St. Johns were among more than 60 4-H boys and adult leaders from throughout Michigan who learned about the mechanics of milk marketing and the purposes and organization of Michigan Milk Producers Association during a two-day visit last week at MMPA headquarters in Detroit.

The tour was sponsored by MMPA with the cooperation of the Michigan State University Extension Service.

In addition to a tour of the MMPA office, the 4-H members and advisors visited the huge Kroger Dairy in nearby Livonia to learn about fluid milk bottling and the manufacture and packaging of other dairy products.

Glenn Lake, MMPA president, described the association and its purposes while Jack Barnes, MMPA general manager, told of the organization's role in price bargaining.

Other program participants included Larry Johnson of the MSU Dairy Department, Jake Wamhoff of the MSU extension department, and Norm Peterson, MMPA director of membership relations.

The tour participants attended a banquet Wednesday night at the Fort Shelby Hotel in Detroit and then saw the Detroit-Boston baseball game.

During the Thursday session, the 4-H members divided into groups to discuss and formulate answers to problems faced by dairy cooperatives.

Howard Fiebig of Sebawaing and Ron Stahlback of Zeeland Road, Capac, served as junior leaders. As such, they chaired the various sessions during the two-day event.

4-H horse owners reach all-time high

Handicappers figure odds on horses by combining a lot of figures: age, track time, starts, wins, post position, weight and so on.

Another handicapper has figured out how many horses there will be in the United States starting with seven million in 1970, which averages about one horse for every 30 people.

By 1977 he predicts that the horse population will reach 10 million, when 82 million people are expected to ride a horse at least one year.

Among those 82 million will be a sizable number of ex-4-H members who learned to ride, train, show and take care of horses as teenagers. They were in the national 4-H horse program supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Enrollment in the 4-H horse program has jumped 600 per cent in the last 10 years. Now 225,000 boys and girls between 9 and 19 years of age own or have access to one or more horses.

Two years ago, according to the Extension Service, nine of the 50 states reported horse program enrollment of less than 1,000 members. Today there are only four states in that category: Alaska, Delaware, Hawaii and Rhode Island.

But small in number does not necessarily mean small in performance. Last year one of six national 4-H horse scholarship winners was a Delaware girl.

Four states reporting the highest total membership enrollment ranging from 16,800 to 12,300 are Michigan, Tennessee, Ohio and Oklahoma.

This marks the fifth year that the 4-H horse program is sponsored nationally by Merck & Co., Inc., of Rahway, N. J.

The company has cooperated with the Extension Service and the National 4-H Service Committee in producing 4-H manuals on horse science and horsemanship.

The sponsor also provides funds for six annual scholarships of $600 each, hosts the top state winners at the National 4-H Congress in Chicago and pays their expenses. The county horse medal last year was won by 7,846 young equestrians in 2,450 counties.

The 4-Hers benefit not only from guidance of leaders in their horse clubs, but from cooperation of horse breed associations.

Besides fun, comradeship and pride of ownership inherent in the 4-H horse program, there is preparation and conditioning for part-time jobs, or full-time careers in the fast growing equine industry.

4-H projects help span generation gap

There does not seem to be a generation gap between 4-H youths and their parents, according to reports from 4-H sources.

One of the reasons, observes a 4-H spokesman, is that 4-H boys and girls are always doing things, a requirement of 4-H membership.

Since 4-H is a "learn-by-doing" educational process, the youngsters decide what they want to do, talk it over with their parents, and DO it. And parents get involved, too.

For example, members working on a field crops science project are learning how to make things grow where they did not grow before, or improving crops on the family farm.

Whether 4-Hers live on a 1,000-acre spread or a one-acre place, they study soil testing, planting, weed and insect control. They experiment with seed germination, effect of weather and light on plant growth, and different types of soil.

During the course of the project, parents learn new things, too. County extension agents and other specialists working for the Cooperative Extension Service supervise the 4-H program. What's more, dad or mother frequently volunteer as a project leader.

Helping to close the generation gap between industry and youth is the field crops science program sponsor, Amchem Products, Inc., of Ambler, Pa. Amchem officials, through the National 4-H Service Committee, are kept informed of achievements in the nationwide program.

The sponsor also provides annual incentive awards at the county, state and national levels. This year's awards consist of up to four medals per county, and a certificate of honor for the state winner.

Four national scholarships of $600 each will be presented to the highest ranking individuals chosen from the four geographical sections of the United States during the 1970 National 4-H Congress, Chicago, next fall. The four national champions will be guests of Amchem.

Projects vary according to interests, needs and availability of land. A work unit entitled "Exploring the World of Plants and Soils" outlines fascinating experiments for non-farm 4-H members and rural youths as well.

Information on how to be a part of the 4-H scene can be obtained from the county Extension Service office.

Each county's delegates will work out special projects or activities for their local community to promote good environmental conservation practices.

Colleen is a member of the Parker's Workers and Brush and Halter 4-H Clubs and James is a member of the Bengal 4-H Community Club.

meeting will be held on Thursday, July 16, 8:00 p.m. at Smith Hall in St. Johns. Plans include showing some films on gun safety, discussing the county gun shoot contest on Aug. 15 and the gun safety project.

The Kountry Cousins 4-H members are going to have a car wash as a fund raising project. A committee of Jane and Jerry Smith and Bruce Irish was appointed to work out the details. The members interested in helping to plan the float met Monday evening. The club will hold their 4th annual club picnic on Sunday, Aug. 9. Demonstrations were given by Nick Pytiowany on tractor safety; Pat Wilcox on sheep shearing; Ted Ashley on washing a lamb and Dennis Smith on motorcycle safety.

Steve VanVleet volunteered to give a demonstration for the county contest on Aug. 5. The club is interested in participating in the state 4-H Parliamentary Procedure Contest.

The Olive 4-H Projects members will be meeting on a number of project meetings during the next weeks. The rock members met Tuesday, July 14, the Exploring Foods girls will meet on Thursday, July 16 at Kathy Davis's home, the rabbit members are to meet on July 16 at Virginia Davis's and the Garden members are to meet on Tuesday, July 21 at Riley School at 9 a.m. with a tour to begin at 10 a.m. Members are to bring a sack lunch.

The Bath All Purpose 4-H members elected Brian Geisenhaver as their president for the coming year. Other officers include: Vice-President, Pat Yerkie; Secretary, Brian Brook; Treasurer, Jeanna Seeger and Newsreporter, Dawn Geisenhaver with Recreation Leaders, Allison Kaufman and Natalie Brook. The flower and garden members met Thursday at Bill Brook's. Mr. Sleight gave an interesting talk about veterinary medicine at the club's last meeting.

The We-Hah-Kay-Asta 4-H members worked on western pleasure and horsemanship at their last work session. The members practiced their different leads, how to back a horse, mount and dismount their horse. Karen Olson gave a demonstration on "How to Saddle a Horse."

The Family Affair 4-H members heard demonstrations by Bonnie Kimball on a "Corn Beef Casserole;" Gayla Acre on "How to Clean Vegetables" and Tim Acre on "Making Grape Drink." The members discussed the progress of their vegetable gardens and decorating litter barrels. Bonnie Kimball gave a report on the county training meeting for food members on How to Give Demonstrations and Making of Visuals for posters.

Scott Wing and Robert Miller of the Prairie 4-H Club represented Clinton County at the State 4-H Milk Marketing Conference on July 8 and 9 at Detroit. The boys felt the trip was very good and worth their time in attending.

4-H members with flower projects should plan on attending the flower training meeting, Thursday, July 30, 7:30 p.m. at Smith Hall.

Fred Flaflag of the Barnes Floral Shop in East Lansing will discuss how members might select specimens for their fair exhibit, how to condition flowers for a show, how to transport the specimens to the exhibit and some ideas on flower arrangements. This training meeting should be quite helpful to the members and leaders coming just two weeks before the fair.

How would you like to give a five to seven minute talk on any subject? If you would be interested make plans now to enter the County 4-H Public Speaking Contest on Aug. 12 7:30 p.m. at the Central National Bank in St. Johns. The winning boy and girl in the county will have the opportunity to compete in the state contest on Aug. 26. Members must be 14 years or older to enter the contest.

The French's Corners 4-H Club members have contributed $8.00 toward the National 4-H Center Expansion Drive in Washington, D.C. The National 4-H Center is owned by the 4-H members throughout the country and used for 4-H training programs.

Any youth interested in attending camp at the Algonquin 4-H Center near Hastings should contact the County Extension Office for an application and more information. A youth does not have to be in 4-H to attend. The five day camp costs $21 which covers meals, lodging, insurance and crafts. The camp reports there are openings in the week of July 20, 27 and Aug. 3.

Prices recieved index down 5 points in state

The Index of Prices Received by Michigan Farmers, as of June 15 was 274 per cent of the 1910-14 average, according to the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

The index declined five points (2 per cent) from the mid-May level.

Prices declined for all hay, wholesale milk and wheat.

The mid-June index was unchanged from June 15. Prices of calves, milk, wheat, soybeans, oats and corn were higher than a year ago, but prices of dry beans, hogs, beef cattle, chickens and eggs were lower than a year previous.

The national index of prices received by farmers declined one point (1/3 per cent) during the month ended June 15 to 281 per cent of its 1910-14 average.

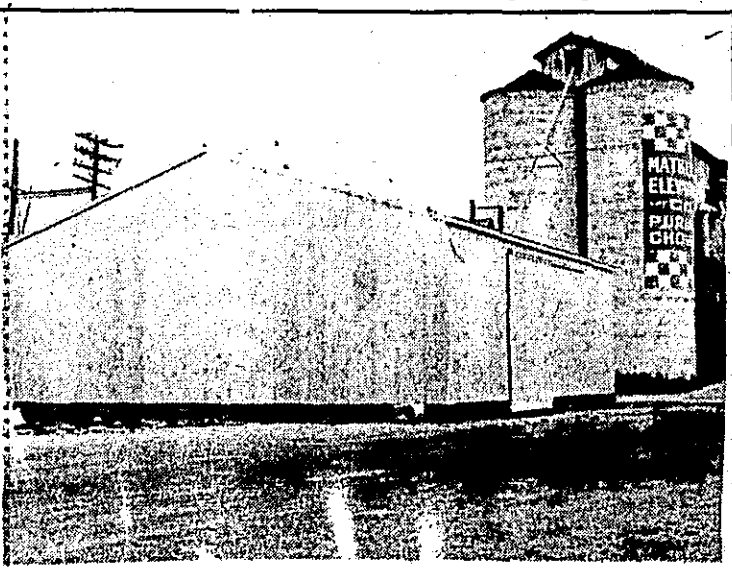

Contributing most to the decline were lower prices for commercial vegetables, milk, and wheat. Higher prices for fruit were partially offsetting. The index was the same as a year earlier.

The Index of Prices Paid by Farmers for Commodities and Services, including Interest, Taxes, and Farm Wage Rates advanced to 390, a record high. The index is 14 points (4 per cent) above last June.

Two Ovid-Elsie High students to attend Farm Bureau seminar

Two young ladies from the Ovid-Elsie High School will attend the Farm Bureau Young People's Citizenship Seminar to be held at Central Michigan University July 20-24.

They are Linda Cox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cox of Ovid and Carolyn Woodard whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Woodard of Rural Elsie.

The students were selected because of their scholarship and leadership abilities.

Miss Woodard, 16, will be a junior next year. She plans to be an elementary teacher or a beautician after high school graduation. She has been active in many school affairs and has several interesting hobbies.

Miss Cox will be a senior next year. Her favorite subjects are English and Sociology. She was class representative in her freshman, sophomore and junior years and has been reelected for next fall. She has been active in many ways both in school and in her church. She was selected for membership in the National Honor Society this year. She plans to attend either Grand Valley State College or Central Michigan University, and will pursue a career in teaching or social work.

Members of the Farm Bureau Citizenship committee which includes, Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Moore, of Laingsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Irish, of St. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reese, Jr. of DeWitt township, Mr. and Mrs.

LINDA COX

CAROLYN WOODARD

Robert Hebler, Jr. of rural Ovid and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Henretty of Eagle were responsible for the awarding of the scholarships in Clinton County.

Each year an area school is selected for participation. One student's tuition will be paid by the Clinton County Farm Bureau and the other from donations by interested agri-business and agri-service organizations in the county.

The seminar will include about 180 students from all over the state who are selected in a like way by County Farm Bureaus and school leaders.

Businesses who have contributed to the scholarships to date are Ovid Roller Mills, Michigan Hybrid Seeds, Inc., Ovid Cooperative Elevator, Ovid Oil Company, Zeeb Fertilizers, L. W. Merlman, Co., Agricultural Implements; Harry Patterson & Son and Clinton County Farm Bureau.

Dry beans donated to lunch programs

More than 12.7 million pounds of dry edible beans were purchased last week by the U.S. Department of Agriculture for domestic donation according to Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The entire purchase, he stated, is for distribution to schools under the school lunch program and needy persons.

Purchases are financed with Section 32 funds to the Secretary of Agriculture provided by law from import duties collected under customs laws to encourage domestic consumption of farm products.

About 9.3 million pounds of the 12.7 million pounds purchased were pea beans, commonly known as "Michigan navy beans."

Distribution of three million pounds to school lunch programs will be in 50-pound packages while the 9.7 million pounds for distribution to needy persons will be in two-pound packages similar to the packages in local grocery stores, he stated.

Purchases were made on a competitive bid basis and three Michigan packaging firms, J. P. Burroughs, Inc., Agricultural Division, Saginaw; Michigan Bean Company, Division of Wokes Corporation, Saginaw; and Michigan Elevator Exchange, Division of Farm Bureau Service, Lansing, received orders for about 3.5 million pounds of the 9.3 million pounds of pea beans and 1.8 million pounds of pinto beans.

The beans, Smith stated, were for delivery during the months of August and September and for destinations ranging across the United States from Maine to California. Michigan destinations include locations at Flint, Boyne City, Iron Mountain, Lansing, Cadillac, Holland, Saginaw, and Marshall. These are central locations from which additional distributions will be made.

With this week's purchase, a total of 78,997,482 pounds of dry edible beans has been purchased under this program since October 1969.

Smith pointed out that while this is classified as a farm program, the direct benefit in this instance is to the consumer, a fact often overlooked in discussing farm programs and a very beneficial use of funds provided to the Secretary of Agriculture.

Irradiated food

Using a cobalt-60 source Michigan State University food scientists are irradiating meat to keep it fresh longer.

The radiation destroys spoilage microorganisms and delays the natural spoilage process. It would allow you to keep foods longer without the need for refrigeration, for example.

But the process must await approval from government agencies before it becomes part of commercial meat marketing operations.

Coffee break tidbits

A cent and a half won't buy a cup of coffee from the vending machine but that's what it costs the housewife to brew according to a recent edition of Coffee Economic Impact, published by the World Coffee Information Center.

Even though it may be a small cup you're drinking from, next to petroleum, coffee is the largest world trade item going. Once more, an estimated 20,000,000 people in Latin America, Africa and other countries depend on your coffee appetite.

Gulp this one down: a one-cent-a-pound drop in price of green (raw) coffee amounts to an annual loss of approximately $65 million in foreign exchange earnings for the 41 coffee exporting countries around the world.

But let's look at it from another angle.

The report says, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, coffee has only increased 1.6 per cent in the 1960-1969 decade and the average price of 85.6 cents a pound is about the same as 19 years ago!

Don't you wish the rest of the economy would take the hint. In 1960 further evidence of the good buy is that it required 21.6 minutes of labor (U.S. factory worker) to buy a pound of coffee in 1969, only 15.1 minutes.

Skeptics may say, so what, what's it doing for the country? It is true the United States bought products from these countries valued at more than five billion dollars, but the balance of trade still came our way by more than $175 million in 1969.

Furthermore, coffee products in this country generate $24,000 jobs and $4.8 billion in earnings—just to keep your pot parking, so that's not too bad.

In turn, these same countries buy 16.2 per cent of all U.S. exports as reported by the U.S. Department of Commerce.

This represents third ranking behind Canada at 23.4 per cent and the Common Market at 17.6 per cent buy U.S. goods.

Michigan ranks third of all the states as a leading exporter to these countries, just slightly behind Illinois and Ohio at $388,733,000! The foreign trade stimulates 38,878 jobs for Michiganders and more than $227 million in wages.

Think about this at your next cup of coffee . . . the bean does more than grease the cog, that gets the mind rolling for the work at hand in the morning. Now, if these facts fail to impress and if you're a gardener, one contributor relayed this last tidbit, that coffee grounds make great fertilizer.

Michigan CROP funds aid Peru rehabilitation

Money contributed by Michigan residents provided immediate relief for victims of the Peru earthquake, and will be used in the months ahead for rebuilding and development of the devastated areas, says David C. Bower, Michigan Director of the CROP program, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service.

Food, blankets, clothing, water purification tablets, and vaccines were air lifted for immediate relief of stricken people, but the relief phase of the operation has now concluded. Voluntary agencies, coordinated by the Government of Peru, now need specific types of rehabilitation materials for rebuilding programs.

CROP (CWS) was asked to provide 100,000 pounds of textured vegetable protein, a soy meat-substitute, to supplement local feeding programs. The U.S. government has provided a special allocation of food to CWS to feed 100,000 persons up to three months.

Families will receive food as payment for participation in community rebuilding projects, such as schools, medical centers, sanitation facilities, roads, and village wells.

"The 'food-for-work' concept is a regular program for CWS in developing countries," stated Bower (a former CWS program administrator in Pakistan and India), "as it is designed to help people to help themselves."

CWS has had a continuing program in Peru consisting of food-for-work community development projects, nutrition education, pre-school feeding centers, and family planning clinics.

The CWS staff is being expanded to administer incoming resources from Protestant churches around the world. The Peru Government requested $1-1/2 million from churches around the world for the total relief and rehabilitation operation.

Other church agencies participating in the rehabilitation are Catholic Relief Services, Seventh-Day Adventist World Service, Lutheran World Relief, and Mennonite Central Committee. These agencies are providing specialized personnel to help the Peruvians administer the long-term program of rehabilitation.

The long-term program, while centering around rebuilding communities, will also provide technical programs in agriculture, irrigation, and cooperatives. CROP will continue to provide needed supplemental foods and project support for about 100,000 persons until the time of the next harvest.

Be sure to designate "Peru CROP" is able to respond to natural disasters because people from Michigan and more than 20 other states share their resources each year through community appeals and their churches.

The main investment of CROP is in solutions to the root causes of hunger in many countries, but we are usually able to respond to emergencies when requested to do so. Persons wanting to participate in the Peru rehabilitation program should send their check to CROP, Bx 208, Lansing, 48901.

Be sure to designate "Peru CROP" if you want your gift to be used by CROP in Peru.

Cherry boon

A Michigan State University horticulturist has found a chemical that could make mechanical harvesting practical for sweet cherries. By applying the experimental chemical, 2-chloroethylphosphonic acid, as a foliar spray seven to 10 days before harvest, the force needed to remove the fruit is cut in half. Thus, the chemical might make it possible to mechanically harvest sweet cherries with very little damage to the fruit.

Michigan 1st

Michigan ranks first in dry field bean production with about 40 per cent of the total United States production, according to Michigan State University agricultural economists.

Discover America

Summer is here, and millions of Americans are once again taking to the roads in the family auto to see the wondrous sights of our great land. Nothing the prophets of catastrophe can say will ever obliterate two unique advantages enjoyed by U.S. citizens—a country of vast distances and the mobility to explore those distances.

This year, on behalf of the petroleum industry, the American Petroleum Institute is sponsoring a series of advertisements in a total of 212 U.S. newspapers designed to tell American families how to "Discover America Best by Car." The advertisements are appearing in every state except Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia. They provide detailed routes and maps, and describe the scenic and historic attractions for specially planned one-day or weekend motoring trips in the newspapers' respective areas. The petroleum industry is also participating in a campaign to promote "100 Perfect Vacations" in all 50 states.

Naturally, by promoting travel, the oil companies expect to increase their business, but no one should begrudge them this plus in the ledger in exchange for an opportunity to become better acquainted with the real face of America—the wonder of her mountains, plains, deserts and farmlands. And away from the wide open spaces, America's great cities offer the excitement of new discoveries in the theater, world renowned museums, architecture and a glimpse of a way of life that visitors will find fascinating. The discovering of America is something that a lot of people need to do.

Lesson in economics

The current recession, although mild measured by previous pauses in the nation's growth, lends emphasis to one economic fact of life. Contrary to the school of dreamers that sees something evil in the idea of business making a profit, the moment profits start to decline, the first to be hit in this era of high taxation are the tax revenues that provide the lifeblood of a welfare state. U. S. Treasury Secretary Kennedy predicted some time ago that there would almost surely be a budget deficit in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970, and observed that there is not much that can be done about lower corporate tax receipts since the drop in corporate profits is a necessary part of controlling inflation.

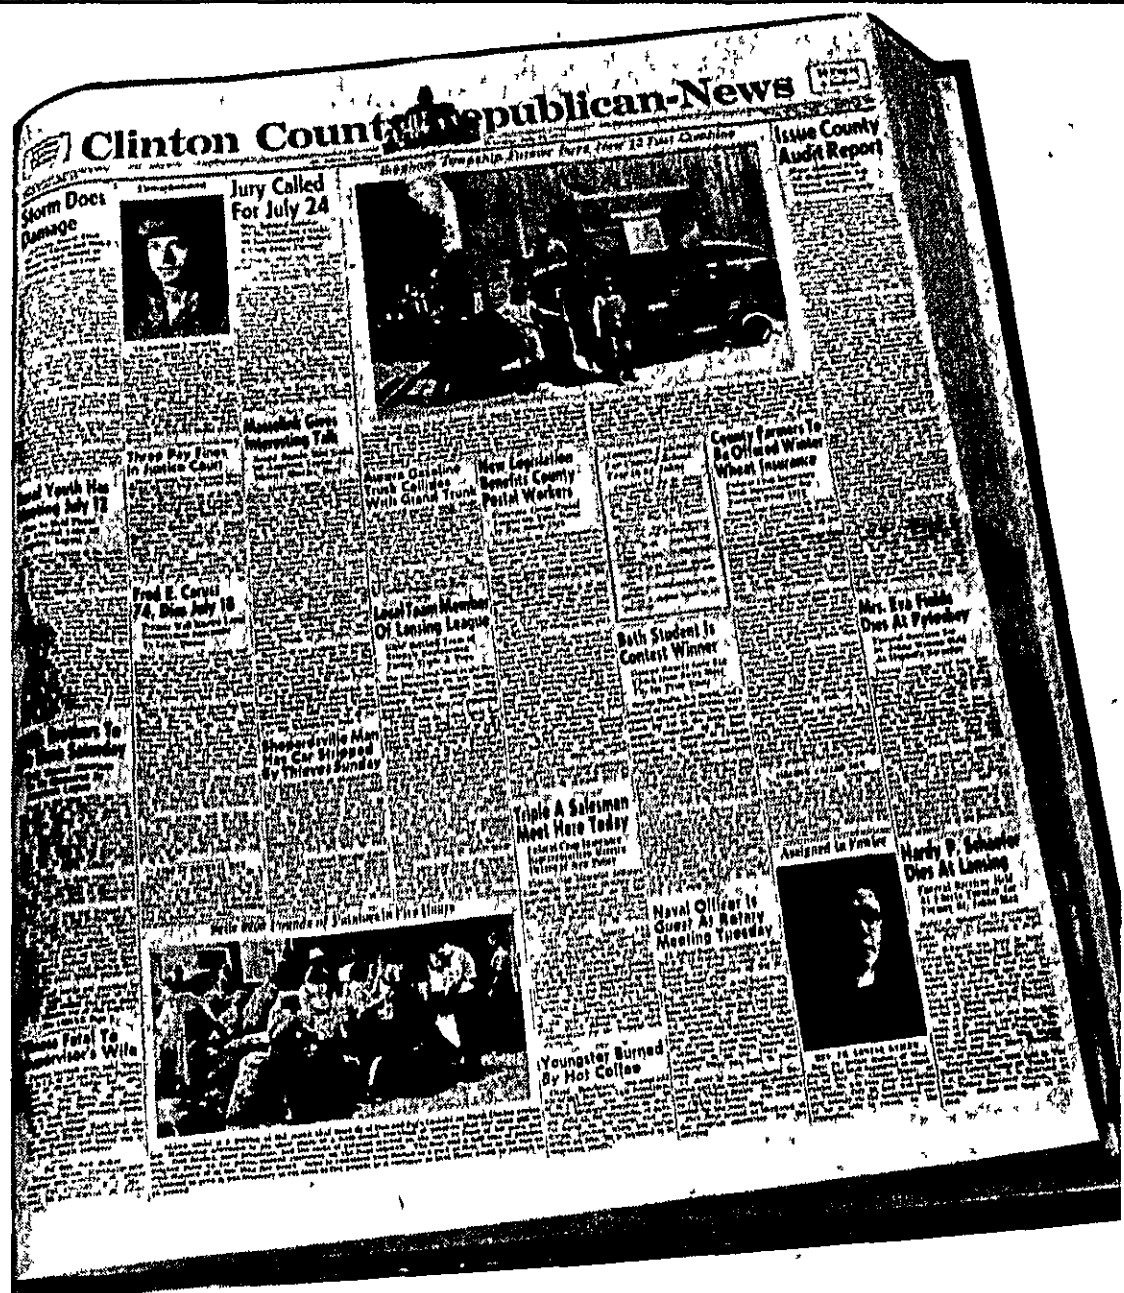

This little lesson in economics should not be lost on those who profess to see no relationship between business profits and government spending capability—to say nothing of the bearing which profits have on the jobs and living standards of more than 200 million U.S. citizens. Preservation of the right to profit from one's efforts, whether individual or corporate, is the starting point of all human endeavor.

Deadlines

Because we haven't heard of a newspaper that suddenly materializes with all news, advertising copy and pictures in place and in A-1 condition, it becomes necessary for the Clinton County News to impose deadlines to insure a smooth flow of copy so that as much material as possible may be printed in proper form. Toward this end, these deadlines are now in effect:

- Display advertising.....Monday noon.
- Classified advertising.....Monday noon.
- Letters to the editor.....Thursday, 5 p.m.
- News for farm pages.....Thursday noon.
- Wedding stories, pictures.....Monday noon.
- Other contributed pictures.....Monday noon.
- Church and fine arts items.....Thursday, 5 p.m.
- Regular columns.....Friday, 9 a.m.
- Sports page items.....Monday, 5 p.m.
- Teen activities page items.....Thursday, 5 p.m.
- Other contributed items.....Monday, 5 p.m.

Earlier submission of news items is greatly appreciated, with the result that more attention can be given to them. Items will be accepted after the deadline, but will be used ONLY if time and space are available. Requests for pictures to be taken by the County News staff should be made as soon as possible and never less than 24 hours before the picture time.

PAGE ONE—25 YEARS AGO, July 19, 1945

The three fellows in the picture at the top of the page are Glen Davis, his brother Donald (left), and another brother, Duane in the driver's seat of their new giant 12-foot combine, "the biggest in Clinton County" at the time. At the top of column two is Lt. Richard J. Murray, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Murray of St. Johns. He had just received his commission in the Army. At the bottom of column seven is Rev. Ernest Keilen, of Westphalia, who had just been appointed assistant to Rev. George Esper of Fowler. The three-column photo at the bottom of the page is of a crowd of "potato-starved customers" who bought 4 1/2 tons of spuds in five hours at Don and Peg's Grocery on North Clinton Avenue in St. Johns.

Back thru the years

Bank robbery, rash of barn fires, serviceman's memorial proposed in news of Clinton County's past

One Year Ago

JULY 16, 1969

The Clinton County supervisors stood firm in backing a former resolution to drop the Mid-Michigan Health Department if the unit failed to improve within several months. A light number of St. Johns voters went to the polls to turn down an advisory proposal for a city income tax, 498-589. While the total ballots cast was far short of approximately 2,800 registered voters, the gap in sentiment was markedly indicative of the voters' attitude toward an income tax.

According to a report submitted to the Clinton County supervisors by District Court Judge Roland J. Dugway, a total of $60,049.71 had been divided between various governmental agencies after being taken in by the court during its operation from Jan. 1 through June 30, 1969.

It didn't take long for excitement to show up at the new building housing the Federal Land Bank. Less than three weeks had passed since employees first began work in their new quarters when a break in the routine came in the form of an attempted robbery. Quick action by local law authorities resulted in the capture and arrest of a Detroit man on charges of armed robbery.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelly, chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, announced that the commission approved $120,000 of 1969 Special Assessment Sewer Bonds for the city of DeWitt. Kelley said, "The proceeds will be used to defray part of the cost of constructing sanitary sewers in Special Assessment District Two."

Tuned to the times with the current need for real American entertainment, the Mills Brothers three ring circus was to come to St. Johns July 21, under the auspices of the American Legion.

Photo feature: "Front end view of the new 1946 Oldsmobile showing die-cast grille of new design and massive 'wrap around' bumper which protects fenders as well as the grille. The new Oldsmobile incorporates all of the many quality features which have distinguished the cars of America's oldest automobile manufacturer in the past, together with many new advancements which make for streamlined appearance, smoother performance and greater driving ease."

"Chief among the features offered by Oldsmobile is the new General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive which totally eliminates the clutch pedal and provides completely automatic shifting through all four forward speeds."

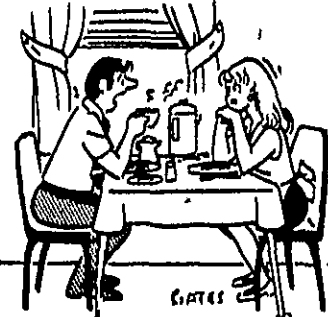

Appearing at the Clinton "God Is My Co-Pilot," starring Dennis Morgan, Dana Clark and Raymond Massey. Double feature next: "Sheriff of Cimarron" with Sunset Carson and Linda Stirling; plus "Dancing in Manhattan" with Fred Brady and Jeff Donnell.

At that time some suggested the erection of a building to be presented to the Clinton County American Legion, others suggested different plans."

'IF IT FITZ ...

The female 'logic'

By JIM FITZGERALD

And then I wrote... A familiar answer was received when I asked Anne how come she cried when my wife had a sore throat. "You just don't understand women," she said. So true. My wife, Pat, had a rusty throat last week and when she talked it sounded like a screen door being opened for the first time in 50 years. Anne told Pat that she couldn't converse with her at any great length because her (Pat's) scratchy voice made her (Anne's) eyes water. This incredible empathy didn't surprise Pat. It's no wonder, she cries when she sees the beams of huge searchlights sweep across the sky because the gas station is having a grand opening and she is touched by the meaningfulness of the occasion. I have heard tales of husbands having sympathy pains when their wives were pregnant, but I have never actually known a man who has experienced this phenomenon. Myself, I didn't feel a thing until months later when Blue Cross rates went up. Therefore, I remain dubious about Jack gagging when Jill is choked. But there was no arguing with Anne; those were wet, real tears in her eyes. I asked how such a thing could be and that's when I got the standard you-just-don't-understand-women answer.

There is no reasonable retort an honest man can make when faced with this declaration of feminine omnipotence. A man can know a woman so well he can safely predict her reaction to a given situation—she will always prefer a restaurant 15 miles back, for instance. But he can never understand how, while passing at 80 mph, she can be absolutely certain the skipped restaurant served better food than is offered at the crummy dive where her stupid husband stopped. She even knows there is soap and clean towels in the rest room 15 miles back, and she has never poked her smart nose inside the place. If you ask her how she knows such things, she'll tell you it's because there was a cute baby sitting in a car parked in front of the restaurant. And if you get frustrated enough to drive 15 miles just to prove she is wrong, you'll find out she is right. So what man could understand? Take our dog, and someone did. We gave it away. This Monster Dog did nothing except bark and chase cars and it plainly needed a home in the country. Except at the actual time of delivery, there were few Fitz tears shed over the departure of Monster Dog. It was generally agreed, after considerable brainwashing by Old Dad, that big dogs do not belong in the city. Even softhearted Pat went along with the giveaway. "No more Monster Dogs for us," she vowed, looking at the table leg Monster Dog had chewed in half. But as I type these words, there is another Monster Dog on our back porch. It has been there several days. No one knows where it came from. I know where it is going—nowhere. My wife and children are feeding it. "If you feed that mutt, it will never go back where it came from," I said with usual male logic, all brilliant. "It's hungry," my wife said, "where's your heart?" "Yeah, yeah, yeah," said the kids who will feed that dog faithfully until I say it can stay and then they will never feed it again, I will. "But you said you'd never own another big dog," I whimpered. "This is different," Pat said with usual female logic, all dense. "Don't ask me to explain this. The only thing different about this brown and white collie is its bark—it's hoarse. Which brings us back to Anne and her empathy. She may be credible, after all, because every time that lousy dog barks, I cry.

TAKING FIVE

Watch the pin

By RON HUARD

Holy mackerell! If State Sen. Sander Levin is right we're gonna have a whole bunch of Ralph Naders running around. How will Time ever crowd 'em all on the cover of their magazine? Levin's reference to Nader was made following senate passage of a bill which will allow private citizens to take government and industry to court for acts endangering the environment. "Every citizen can be a Ralph Nader," Levin commented. Well that's nice.

While I don't disapprove of everything Nader does I see little need for a couple million of him running around crying "Pollution!" In the short span of a few months the word has become an emotional issue that threatens to replace motherhood and homemade pie from their spots atop the pile of sentimental image keepsakes. It's gotten to the point where jokes about bathtub rings are as taboo as the mention of "bomb" on an airline flight. If you don't change the water in your fish bowl at least once a day you'll probably have some pollution nut paint a black X across the front of your house. "People who make their living in such areas as conservation have long been concerned about pollution but those of us flapping our jaws today paid little heed. Now that our rivers ooze rather than flow and we have to chew the air before we swallow it we're suddenly and vitally concerned. We want everything to skid to a stop while we scrape away the crud. Well, I don't think it's gonna happen that way. We can legislate until the Grand Canyon is filled with tin cans but the presence of pollution will not be greatly diminished unless we forget about being a Nader and remember to practice a little common sense. Sure industry has contributed to the shape we're in but there's a lot of us little guys who've added our share.

A little thing like pouring gasoline or similar wastes into the sewer can cause damage to the process and result in pollution. Multiply the tsaue you throw out your car window yesterday by just the number of people you know who have oolds and you'll probably end up with the beginnings of a good paper drive. The point is that the war on pollution of all kinds isn't necessarily fought in Lansing. It's fought in the home and in the yards of the people who are truly interested in doing an effective job. It's fought through the efforts of concerned citizens providing for adequate sewage facilities, waste disposal areas and the encouragement for use of products and services which result in a minimum of pollution contributing residues. The new Michigan law may award each of us a shiny Nader button to wear on our lapel, but we better not stok ourselves with the pin while we're putting it on.

Battle cries to heed

By TIM YOUNKMAN

"Viva la Causal! "La Huelgal! "Chicano Power!" New cries from a desperate nation, a dispossessed people—the of the forgotten groups of Americans. The new slogans and battle cries from the Mexican-American people have stirred up the consciences of some Americans and the ire of others. John Steinbeck described the horror of being a Mexican in California during the bad years of the 1930's. Eight, ten, twelve people crammed into a one room, tin shack with no sanitary facilities, little food and no money. The irony is that many of our fellow Americans must still live under these conditions. They're expected to support their families, pay their taxes, fight for the nation and consider themselves lucky to be alive. Other Mexican-Americans, Puerto Ricans and Cuban-Americans have traveled north to settle down and find a better life than migrant farming. Like other minority groups, the only alternative to farming was the factory and the choking and dying metropolises.

They earn more money, but are bilked out of most of it due to language barriers and poor understandings of business dealings. Unscrupulous salesmen and businessmen have made small fortunes in the larger cities on the handicap with which society has shrouded some of our countrymen. In the past week, some events of importance have taken place to better the existence of the 10 million Spanish-speaking American citizens. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew endorsed a plan produced by the Cabinet Committee on Opportunity for the Spanish Speaking. A dozen Spanish-speaking leaders met with Agnew to discuss ways to inform America through the news media of the poor quality of life dealt the Chicanos. In the past few years, the Mexican-Americans have united in labor unions, under Caesar Chavez, to remove their sub-standard living conditions and second-class citizen status afforded many of these people across the country, including Michigan. But our people still don't understand.

Closer to home, a new summer school has started in St. Johns to aid the children of the migrant and ex-migrant workers in erasing the inequities of our system. The center, located in the St. Joseph's school, will be devoted to activities designed to develop and reinforce the communication skills in the English language, with several hours devoted to recreational activity. Health and dental services and meals will be provided. Children will receive a balanced breakfast and lunch and a late afternoon snack. Special workers will be assigned to aid the parents with home problems which affect the children and their education. It seems that we have two alternatives in this nation and community. One would be to ignore the problems completely and watch the battle lines form. The other alternative would be to support completely such programs as the Cabinet Committee and the local Migrant Workers school. Besides, our Pledge of Allegiance requires it.

Right on, Mr. Allen

By RON KARLE, Editor

After reading Dick Allen's column this week I can't help but admire his sense of fairness.

Allen is discontinuing his weekly report until the Legislature meets again.

He gives two reasons; one being that he is up for reelection this fall and wants to give his opponent a fair chance. "Incumbents have enough advantages without a continuing weekly column," says Allen.

I would take issue, however, with another reason given by Allen in temporarily dropping his weekly report.

Allen contends "that the public needs a rest from politics and politicians."

And, continues Allen, "Efforts by us to keep continually in the newspapers are designed more for self-promotion than public enlightenment."

I appreciate this candid appraisal on his part and as an editor am well aware that politicians are not adverse to self-promotion.

But measured against the value of a weekly report from our representative, the dangers of a newspaper being party to self-promotion of a politician are minimal.

Although it is refreshing to see a legislator who is not completely wrapped up in himself, I do not think the public needs—or should have—a rest from politicians.

The problems of our society do not rest and neither should the problem solvers or the people who elect the problem solvers.

With an election coming up, it is especially important that the electorate sift every bit of information available to help in determining our course over the next several months.

Perhaps the public expects to be spoon-fed.

If this is the case, people will soon be ready to throw up their hands and as the election draws near and the avalanche of information begins to overwhelm.

But the intelligent voter will sift through and attempt to sort out emotional appeal from the issues.

The intelligent voter will have a thorough knowledge of the issues before the election.

The intelligent voter will be familiar with every name on the ballot before he walks into the voting booth.

Sure, it's a difficult and time-consuming job and very few people will take the time to do it.

Which is why we have the representation we do on all levels of government.

And also why politicians—and this is a fact—purposefully skirt the issues in a campaign. Elections are won on emotional appeal, not issues.

And until people begin to exercise their franchise to vote in an intelligent, thoughtful way, we will continue to get just the kind of government we have been getting.

This year will be no different, of course.

But occasionally you will be fortunate enough to find a politician like Dick Allen, who despite the sham of the political process, cannot resist being candid.

And see what happens, some editor takes off on you for a simple candid statement.

Which, if I may be candid, is one reason I admire Dick Allen.

From the State House

The record

By REP. DICK ALLEN

The Legislature is closing up the 1970 regular session. We may return later in the year between the primary and general election or following the November election. However, it seems unlikely we will meet for long or attack any major issues.

The legislators are mentally exhausted, the public is fed up and if the lobbyists aren't broke, they should be.

So the record has been written for this year. Next year's legislature will be made up of different people. Some of the issues will change and some won't.

For a Legislature with the Houses split between the parties, I think the record shows we have met some major issues head on this year. No doubt you will not agree with all the conclusions, but here is how they came out.

Public Schools — The state will furnish a larger share of the operating costs of local schools, particularly in districts where the property valuation is low.

Over the next two years this should somewhat reduce the pressure on local property taxes. However, we will NOT in the foreseeable future completely replace the property tax as a source of school operating funds.

View from the 87th Survey findings

By REP. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

Responses to my legislative questionnaire mailed out about the middle of March, amounted to 1,981 by the July 4 cut-off date. A check of my mailing list indicates that my questionnaire reached about 8,690 homes.

The percentage of questionnaires returned was therefore roughly 22.8 per cent. This was a considerably better return than usual. (Most state representatives receive only a 10-12 per cent response on mailed questionnaires). But I am nevertheless moved to comment that it could and should have been better. After all, less than one home out of four which received my poll bothered to respond.

I should add, however, that overall I have to be pleased with the response to this, my second effort to solicit opinions from you, my constituents, on a wide variety of major issues. By way of comparison, the response to my first legislative questionnaire one year ago was 21.8 per cent. I plan to issue another legislative survey containing a different set of questions next year.

I might point out, too, that a higher percentage of returns probably wouldn't have changed the results of the survey significantly.

The experience of other state representatives reveals that a high or low percentage return on a mailed questionnaire does not necessarily make for great variance in results.

Furthermore, over the past few years there has been a marked similarity between the results of legislative polls like mine and the official results of referenda held on certain other key issues we've faced such as water pollution, daylight savings time, and the graduated income tax.

My questionnaire was so lengthy that I will have to report the results in installments. This week, I will report the results of the questions on "Justice and the Courts" and "Political Reform."

When asked if they agreed with the remarks of a recently resigned circuit court judge who contended that Michigan's divorce laws were "archaic and cruel," its penal code "illogical, ill-conceived, and ill-drafted," and its penal system "barbaric," the approximately 1,981 respondents answered: 50.2 per cent, Yes; 22.9 per cent, No; and 26.9 per cent, Undecided.

When asked if they supported the idea of the State Department of Licensing and Regulation (a part of the executive branch of government) taking over the policing of the legal profession, removing this authority from the State Bar Association (an arm of the Michigan Supreme Court composed entirely of lawyers), the response was: 72.7 per cent, Yes; 14.6 per cent, No; and 12.7 per cent, Undecided. The response to this question reinforces the rising criticism which attorneys in many areas of Michigan have been subject to for alleged unethical conduct and also the loss of confidence by the public in the ability of the State Bar to police its ranks.

In the field of "Political Reform," Clinton and Shiawassee county citizens revealed a general unwillingness to extend the voting franchise to anyone other than possibly members of the Armed Forces and veterans under 21.

The poll also reconfirmed the traditional and somewhat paradoxical American reluctance to strengthen the political party system, opting instead for the selection of a U.S. President through the no-holds-barred Presidential primary, life with unpredictable voter crossoverers, rather than the convention process.

When asked if they felt the voting age should be lowered to 18, the response was: 32.2 per cent, Yes; 61.5 per cent, No; and 6.2, Undecided.

When asked if they thought members of the Armed Forces and veterans under 21 should be allowed to vote as an exception, 53.5 per cent said Yes; 41.1 per cent said No; and 5.4 per cent were undecided.

When asked if inmates of jails and prisons should be allowed to vote if they meet the age requirements, 15.4 per cent said Yes; 76.6 per cent, No; and 8.0 per cent, Undecided.

When asked if they felt there should be a Presidential primary election in Michigan (an idea discontinued in this state back in the 1920s), thus binding delegates to each party's national convention to support candidates preferred by voters in each party's state primary, a surprising 54.7 per cent answered Yes; 26.2 per cent said No; and 19.1 per cent were undecided.

When asked if they felt that the state should undertake efforts to "encourage" all voters to join—not merely support—a political party, only 10.5 per cent answered "Yes" while a whopping 80.0 per cent were opposed and 9.5 per cent were undecided.

When asked if they supported the idea of the State Department of Licensing and Regulation (a part of the executive branch of government) taking over the policing of the legal profession, removing this authority from the State Bar Association (an arm of the Michigan Supreme Court composed entirely of lawyers), the response was: 72.7 per cent, Yes; 14.6 per cent, No; and 12.7 per cent, Undecided. The response to this question reinforces the rising

Are America's days numbered?

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In the Book of Daniel, chapter 5, Daniel interprets some mysterious handwriting on the wall for King Belshazzar. The writing was a triple-threat warning for the King.

The first one was, "God has numbered the days of your kingdom and brought it to an end."

The second one was, "You have been weighed in the balance and found wanting."

The final one was, "Your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

Commenting on the first warning, I would raise the question, "Has God numbered the days of America?"

It could very well be that He has.

You know the Jews in the Old Testament days were "one nation, under God, indivisible." We in the United States also call ourselves, "one nation, under God, indivisible."

In there any parallel between our country and the Jewish kingdom of old?

I think there is:

God warned the Jews that as long as they lived in integrity and uprightness and followed His commands and statutes, He would establish them permanently. But if they turned to other gods and scorned His laws and commands, then they would be an example to others of what happens to those who reject Almighty God.

It could very well be that God has numbered the days of America. It doesn't take but a quick look around to see that most people in our country have scorned the Almighty God.

Next, let's talk about the second warning, "you have been weighed in the balance and found wanting." Daniel pointed out to King Belshazzar that he was a long way from understanding the Almighty God. He pointed his finger at the king and said, "You have set yourself up against the Lord of heaven. You have praised the gods of silver and gold, of bronze and iron, of wood and stone, which neither see nor hear nor know, and you have not given glory to God in whose charge is your very breath and in whose hands are all your ways."

King Belshazzar worshipped power and riches.

Is this what God sees in the people of America?

Does He see us as spiritual relatives of King Belshazzar? Does He see us as symbolically prostrating ourselves before the false gods of power and riches? Does He see us as scrambling and groveling for more of the riches of the world? Does He see us figuring out our individual financial budgets with the emphasis on increasing our ability to go out and buy the newest "thing" on the market?

Is God seeing us trying to gain power with our riches, so we can have the upper hand over others? Is this what God is seeing in America today? Yes, I think He is seeing all of this—in many Christians and non-Christians alike.

Now there is nothing inherently evil about power and riches. It is how they are used by people that makes them either productive or destructive.

Wendell Wilkie once said, "Power goes to men's heads. When you see the bust of Napoleon on the desk of a business man, you'd better get out quick and sell him short. The same goes for government officials."

Another man once wrote, "Riches get their value from the mind of their possessor. They are blessings to those who know how to use them; curses to those who do not."

I have said that I believe that God is seeing many Americans worshipping the false gods of power and riches. However, what I am uncertain about is what is too much in God's eyes? Has America pushed God's patience too far? Have we in fact, as a nation, "been weighed in the balance and found wanting?"

Viewing the last 10 turbulent years in our country—increased violence, hatred and divisiveness—it looks like God has really numbered our days. It looks like we have been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Yes, it looks this way and in fact it may be true, but I still hold to the hope that we haven't pushed God too far yet. My hope is that during the decade of the 70's we will still have an opportunity to add to the credit side of the scales of God's judgment.

Finally, let's talk about the third warning, "Your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and Persians." It is certainly no secret that our country is divided today. There is division everywhere. In the area of race there are the extremists and the moderates in both the white camp and the black. There is division between black and white, black and black, and between white and white. It looks like racism will be around for a long while.

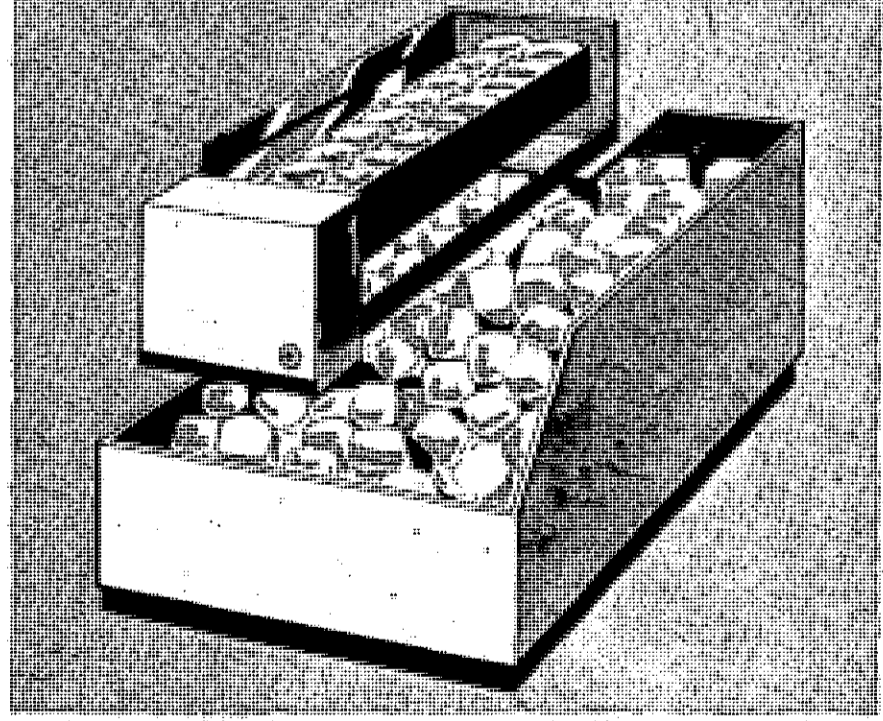

In terms of the Vietnam war there are the doves and the hawks—the "peaceniks" and those who support the President. Because of the length of the war and the hours of debate concerning our presence in Vietnam, we have the additional divisiveness of hawks turning into doves and doves turning into hawks. The war has fatigued all of us and so some of us want an immediate pull-out, while others think we ought to escalate to the point of invading North Vietnam.

Another area of divisiveness in America is the so-called "generation gap." The under 30's and the over 30's just cannot communicate any more. Young people have developed their own moral and ethical codes, which in some cases, are a far cry from the traditional codes of the older generations. So the over 30's get all "up-tight" when they look at the under 30's—and the under 30's think the over 30's are a bunch of two-faced hypocrites.

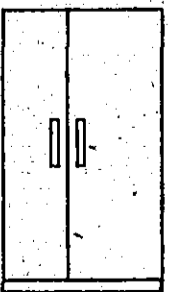

With all of the problems in our country does it still have a future? Yes, I think it does. As I stated earlier, my hope is that God will give us a chance to solve the many problems of our disunity as a nation. My hope is that He will turn the heart of the people from the many false gods they now worship to Himself, so that in the near future we will once again be "one nation, under God, indivisible."

Fire Dept. thanked for 4th

To The Editor:
It seems like anymore that all we can do is find fault and complain.
We just never find time to thank some of the nice people in town.
I started with Kiddies Day at the Park for a seven year old to have a ride on a big Red Fire truck.
He was so happy and then to win a beautiful new bike all in one day. It was just too much.
We want to thank the St. Johns Fire Department very much, for all the time and effort that they all put into the Fourth of July.
Mrs. Keith Rosekrans

The class presented its contribution at a ceremony in the Chamber of the House of Representatives, at which Speaker William Ryan and Representative William Ballenger spoke in recognition of this fine action.

Since the school year has now closed and we are accordingly unable to contact the Sixth Grade class directly, I thought you might find it suitable to print this letter as a means of informing the class members that their contribution has been used to purchase a supply of copies of a pictorial leaflet, "Working Together for a Livable Land," published by the Soil Conservation Society of America, for free distribution to school children. This leaflet focuses on the control of all types of pollution.

The Water Resources Commission was apprised of this generous act at its June meeting, and the members expressed
