

County to host 19th state Farm Management Tour

Clinton County will be host for the first time next Tuesday to the State Farm Management Tour, and four farms in the northeast part of the county will be the specific topics. Up to 1,500 visitors are expected from all over the state.

This year's is the 19th annual management tour, but never before has it been held in Clinton County. It is sponsored by the Department of Agricultural Economics, and the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University in cooperation with the Clinton County Extension staff.

Earl Haas, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent, is in charge of local plans and has a large committee of local farmers and business leaders cooperating with the arrangements.

Four farms are listed on the formal tour plan. Two are alternate stops at 9:15 a.m. — the 400-acre combination beef and mint producing farm of Robert Halsey and Richard Woodhams north and east of St. Johns, and the F. Lee Ormiston Guernsey dairy farm on Walker Road east of Chandler.

Detailed stories and pictures on the farms involved in the management tour appear on Page 1-B and other pages in Section B this week.

At 10:45 a.m. the Green Meadow Farm at Elsie will be in the spotlight, and it is there that lunch will be available and Lt. Gov. William Milliken will speak briefly.

Three miles west of Elsie is the Moore Seed Farm, the last farm on the management tour, with a 2:30 p.m. time set for this visit. Of interest to the ladies will be a tour of the Robert Moore home where paneling in the different rooms are of four different kinds of native wood cut from the family woodlot.

EDWARD SULKA

Sulka to head Sealed Power's Mexico City plant

Edward Sulka, plant superintendent at Sealed Power Corp.'s St. Johns plant since 1950, has been promoted to plant manager of Sealed Power de Mexico at Mexico City.

The announcement was made this week by Lawrence Sexton, plant manager at St. Johns.

In his new capacity, Sulka will have direct responsibility for manufacturing and engineering functions of the corporation's Mexican subsidiary and will report to Lee Hollingsworth, general manager of Sealed Power de Mexico.

SULKA SAID the Mexican plant employs about 150 or so employees and includes the complete operation—machine shop, foundry and sales offices.

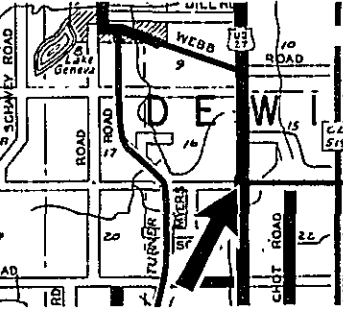

He and his wife were in Mexico City last week to look over the plant. He said it is a little bit larger in total size than the St. Johns plant. He and Hollingsworth are the only Americans in the plant.

He will start there about Sept. 1. The Sulkas and their daughter, Jan Marie, 10, will move to Mexico just as soon as he can be relieved of his responsibilities in St. Johns.

SULKA MOVED to St. Johns with Sealed Power Corp. in 1946 as machine shop foreman and was appointed to his current job of plant superintendent in 1950.

He is a member of the First Methodist Church of St. Johns, where he is past chairman of the finance committee, past trustee and member of official board. He is a member of the St. Johns Planning Commission and Zoning Appeal Board. Sulka is also a member of the Masonic Lodge, Lansing Industrial Executive Club and Exchange Club.

The Sulkas have two sons—Albert, a teacher in Arizona, and Robert, who works for Curtis Publishing Co. in Los Angeles.

WHERE ACCIDENT HAPPENED

5th county fatality recorded

Clinton County chalked up its fifth road fatality of the year and its second in a week Monday at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Lettie Kremer, 74, of Chapin was killed when the car which she was driving was struck broadside by another vehicle driven by Zeno Budd, 25, of Lansing.

The accident occurred at US-27 and Clark Road. Mrs. Kremer, traveling west on Clark, had stopped at the intersection of US-27. Apparently not noticing the Budd vehicle approaching, she drove onto the highway and into the path of the Oncoming car.

Mrs. Kremer was taken to Sparrow Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival.

The body was taken to Carter Funeral Home, Elsie. Obituary information can be found on Page 7-A.

Car hits telephone pole, breaks nose

Dennis Boak, 19, of R-1, Fowler, suffered a broken nose when the auto he was driving hit a telephone pole adjacent to Wright Road near the intersection of Colony Road in Lebanon Township Sunday.

Boak told Clinton County sheriff's officers he fell asleep at the wheel. He also said the vehicle just missed striking a tree head-on, thus averting a more serious accident.

Boak was taken to a doctor, treated and released.

Water fund ruts keep city paving program jouncing

St. Johns may or may not do some new street paving this summer.

If there is any done, it might be the whole program as originally planned. Then again, it might be only half of what was planned.

The fate of the paving program is still up in the air this week—all dependent on whether the city commission can resolve the financial problems of the city water fund.

The water fund — strange as it may seem—is the key to the pavement program.

If the commission can increase water revenues some $62,000, then the water fund can repay the general fund $35,000 (one-third of what it owes the general fund) and this can be used for the paving program.

City Manager Ken Greer pointed out the alternative: "If the city commission does not solve the financial problem of the water fund it then appears that the only solution to our paving program is to completely drop it for this fiscal year."

THE MORE-THAN-100 persons who attended a public hearing on the paving program last Tuesday evening favored dropping it, too, as an alternative to paying $1 a foot assessments on the streets affected.

But the audience was left with some hope that some of the streets would be blacktopped this year. To put the cap on a lengthy discussion between the audience and Mayor Charles Coletta and the commission, Commissioner John Furry made a motion that as many streets be paved as possible and that the streets that had been curbed and guttered the longest would have top priority. His motion passed.

The motion followed the lines of a suggestion from the audience by William Luecht who said he thought it was the only fair way to proceed.

MENTIONED BY MAYOR Coletta but pretty much overlooked by the audience was the possibility the city couldn't do any of the paving this year.

But if the money does become available, City Manager Greer has offered a solution to what should be done about the paving.

About 25 blocks on the 11st streets could be done in a prime. See WATER FUND, Page 3 A

Residents nix charges

Property owners along some 40 blocks of unpaved St. Johns streets didn't leave much doubt last Tuesday night about how they felt concerning paving assessments.

They didn't want to be assessed, and they didn't mind waiting awhile longer for the pavement if it meant avoiding the assessment.

Former Mayor Jack Smit set the tone of the public hearing when he jumped up first and said what seemed to echo the feelings of all the property owners present. He said the commission had

Bingo prize, chances improve

Because several holders of winning bingo cards neglected to check them out and turn them in last week, the Clinton County News' Newspaper Bingo jackpot for this week has climbed to $100.

The chances of winning next week will be even greater, too. Fifty-seven numbers—instead of 55—are distributed in the advertisements of participating merchants in this week's issue of The News.

If more than one person has a winning card, the $100 will be divided equally among the winners. The prize is paid off in Bingo Bucks, certificates which are redeemable at any of the participating merchants.

This week's bingo cards are orange. They're obtainable for the asking (one per visit, please) at any of the participating merchants. If you can match up 24 numbers on your card with numbers found in this week's ads, you're a winner. Cards must be turned in by next Monday evening at 5 p.m. at the News' office in St. Johns.

The Clinton County Chapter No. 64 of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) had a leadership change July 1.

Named to the four top posts were: Carl G. Light, commander; George Gavenda, senior vice-commander; Kenneth Walker, junior vice-commander; and Merle Carpenter, treasurer.

Also included in the slate of officers were: George Gavenda, executive committeeman; Hubert Hilton, alternate committeeman; Timothy M. Green, veterans trust fund for Clinton County; Paul Vitek, Rex Baker and Clifford Squiers, Ovid Veterans Memorial Board; and Lyle Silvernall, auditor for the board.

In addition to the installation of officers, the chapter commander announced his appointments to various county DAV positions.

Named as adjutant was Carl G. Light, while the assistant adjutant's chair went to Herbert C. Estes. The new service officers are Carl G. Light and Cal Bal-

Mrs Thelen to head Chest

Mrs. Alvin (Marie) Thelen of 4351 W. Parks Road has been elected president of the Clinton County Communities Chest for the coming year.

Other officers are Harold Green of Ovid, vice president; Mrs. Richard (Helen) Kohls of St. Johns, secretary; and Charles Huntington of St. Johns, treasurer.

The election of the officers came at the recent annual meeting of the Clinton County Communities Chest.

Terms of five board members expired, and three were reelected for a three-year period. They were Huntington, Charles Hengesbach of Westphalia and Arthur Newman of DeWitt. Newly elected members of the board are Steve Bakita and the Rev. Gerald Churchill, both of St. Johns. They replace Leon Brewbaker and Robert Serrine, who are leaving the board. The new members' terms are also for three years.

St. Johns bids to buy Queen Mary (for $1 plus 81,237,000 navy beans)

The City of St. Johns has put in a bid to buy the Queen Mary! In a letter to the Cunard Steamship Co. in London, England, City Manager Ken Greer submitted a bid of "$1 and other valuable considerations for this Dear Old Girl of the Seas (F. O. B. St. Johns)."

The "other valuable considerations" offered would be 81,

237,000 Michigan navy beans.

"It is our understanding that this would equal one bean for each two pounds of the Queen Mary," Greer wrote. "We assure you that Michigan navy beans are almost as well known over the seas of the world as the Queen Mary, and it is our continued hope that THEY never will be retired from service."

Greer's tongue-in-cheek letter was prompted by recent news stories that both the Queen Mary and her sister ship the Queen Elizabeth will be retired from service by the Cunard Lines. The Queen Mary will be retired this October after 31 years of service.

Cunard says both ships are worth about $2.14 million as scrap, but if someone offers more and agrees that the ships will not be "degraded" or used in competition to Cunard routes they will be saved from the scrap yard.

The 81,237,000 Greer is offering on behalf of St. Johns is certainly more than the scrap price, although it is in beans rather than dollars.

But, Greer assured Cunard that "our city would not 'degrade' or use this 'Dowager Queen' in competition to the Cunard Line." As a matter of fact we would permanently place the Old Girl in dry dock, as we don't even have a small creek nearby.

"OUR PRINCIPLE USE OF the Old Lover would be as an amorous tourist rendezvous. We would ensconce the Old Girl in our city park along with our 80 acres of trees and weeds. This would certainly upgrade the neighborhood at the city park even to federal urban renewal standards, which would qualify us for a loan or grant to buy the other valuable considerations.

"British and Commonwealth citizens would always be granted full visitation rights," Greer promised.

The city manager was non-committal about what he thought the prospects were for buying the ship, but it was generally felt his chances aren't worth beans.

Recommend abandoning 1 of city's 5 oldest wells

Two of the city's five oldest operating water wells have been repaired and modified in the last step of the $1 million-plus water improvement program in St. Johns.

A third well is just about done. Another one should be abandoned, engineers recommend.

So far the total cost for repairing and modifying wells No. 1, 3 and 6 is $16,700, or about $4,900 per well. In the water bond issue passed in 1964 some $20,000 was planned for well modifications.

Considerable work was done on the three wells, engineer Dave Griffith of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May told the city commission last week. Primacord was used on Well No. 1, and it increased the pumping ability of the well by 50 per cent of its pre-test capacity, Griffith said. Well No. 3 had not dropped off in production too far since 1963, he said, and its capacity was improved by chlorinating it.

GRIFFITH RECOMMENDED a second shot of primacord in Well No. 6, which had dropped off considerably prior to the repairing and improved only slightly

THE REVAMPING of the wells includes the installation of monitoring and measuring devices that will record the exact amounts of water pumped. The old wells have not had this equipment. Griffith pointed out to the commission that the cost of the modifications is a one-time cost, but repairs and replacement of well parts will be a normal and continuing thing.

previously agreed that the paving of the streets went with the curb-gutter cost which had been partially assessed against property owners already. He suggested that if the city doesn't have enough money to do all the paving then they should wait for another year.

THE HEARING WAS held to determine whether property owners along the streets involved in the planned paving program would be willing to pay an assessment of about $1 per foot in order to get all the paving done this summer. When Mayor Coletta polled the audience street-by-street, not one person was in favor of paying an assessment.

The mayor then pointed out two possible alternatives: drop the blacktopping this year and add those streets to next year's paving program, or do about half of the program this year on some kind of a priority basis. He pointed out that it would be difficult to know right away how much could be done, because the price the city would have to pay for the blacktopping would be at a higher per-foot rate because the total job would be smaller.

No one objected outright to doing only part of the paving this year, but there were questioning probes from James Prince of the St. Johns Development Co. He said he would like to have blacktop to help in the development of his subdivision (Prince Estates No. 2) since he had paid for all the other improvements. He suggested the city borrow the money necessary to do the whole job. He pointed out blacktop would save money in maintenance and that increased valuation of property along the paved streets would result in more money over the long run "enough to pay the interest on the money borrowed."

SMIT SPOKE OUT again, saying that if the city commission wanted to start assessing for paving of the streets, they should start the new policy with the next curb and gutter project. . .

There were several suggestions on how to decide what streets to do if any could be done. William Luecht suggested that the streets that had curb and gutter for the longest time should be the ones to get pavement first. Timothy M. Green suggested the commission draw lots to determine what streets to pave.

Mayor Charles Coletta took a show-of-hands vote on the two alternatives, and the majority of people in the audience favored paving the oldest curb-gutter streets first. The mayor then polled the commissioners, and they also thought this was the best approach.

But Smit objected to having just an opinion polling of the commission and demanded the commission pass a resolution to that effect. Commissioner John Furry moved to do just that, his motion passed, and the hearing was adjourned.

YOUNG VANDALS SPREAD HAVOC AT KINCAID SCHOOL

County sheriff's officers have apprehended four youngsters aged 6, 7, 9 and 10 in connection with vandalism at the Kincaid School in Riley Township last Thursday. Lawrence Fish, maintenance supervisor for the St. Johns Public Schools, surveys the damage Monday. The vandalism amounted primarily to scattering books and papers and overturning desks, but there was other physical damage to the building. The vandalism was discovered Sunday.

Seven injured man ticketed

Seven persons were injured, several of them seriously, when two cars collided at US-27 and Alward Road in Olive Township Sunday.

The two drivers were Clifford Dale Estey, 34, of Jackson and Michael W. Logan, 22, of East Lansing.

Clinton County sheriff's officers said Estey was stopped on the US-27 crossover waiting to get onto the highway and then suddenly drove into the path of the Logan auto.

Logan's car was forced into another passing vehicle driven by Virgil E. Scholl of Ypsilanti. Scholl escaped injury, but his car suffered minor damage.

Estey's wife, Shirley, and sons Clifford, 13, and Michael, 6, suffered injuries, as did Logan and three passengers in his car: Nancy White, 21, and Spencer A. Silk, 23, both of East Lansing, and Carol J. Emmett, 20 of Lansing.

The injured were taken to Lansing hospitals. Estey was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Federal-Mogul, Sealed Power express 'concern' over new water rates

New St. Johns water rates affecting the four biggest water users in the city prompted an appearance before the city commission last Tuesday night by Edward Idzkowski and Lawrence Sexton, plant managers at Federal-Mogul and Sealed Power, respectively.

Both said they were "seriously concerned" over the new rates and the effect they would have on the operation of the two plants. At Federal-Mogul the extra cost of getting water from the city will be $16,000 above what it has cost in the past.

"We're willing to carry our share," Idzkowski said, "but this ordinance is one that causes us great concern for the future. It is one of the few indications of concern we have had with the city."

SEXTON POINTED out that there was no indication to the public at the time of the bond issue about new rates, and he added that "many of the advantages of coming to St. Johns (particularly taxes and water rates) have been eliminated" since Sealed Power located here in 1946.

City Manager Ken Greer answered the two industrialists by saying that the new rate for the heavy users was identical to a rate which engineers had recommended to the city in 1964 at the time of the bond issue but that the commission had chosen to forego such a rate until now. The engineers also recommended at that time that residential water rates be considerably higher than they are now.

The new rates affect only those water customers using over 1 million gallons of water or more per quarter. The ordinance establishing the rate at 20 cents per thousand gallons over 500,000 gallons was passed at the July 5 city commission meeting and was not merely given a first reading as stories in the July 13 Clinton County News said.

THE NEW RATE will increase city water revenue about $20,000, far short of what city administrators say is necessary for proper water fund operations.

The commission admitted to Idzkowski and Sexton that there is no assurance the new rates will not have to be adjusted even higher at some time in the future. Idzkowski pointed out that Federal-Mogul doesn't need treated water in most of its operations and asked whether or not they can get untreated water. Greer said it was possible, but it would mean new mains direct to the plant from two more new wells.

Commissioner Gerald Irer told the two men that "There isn't one of us on the commission that isn't concerned about industry's plight," but he said they were also concerned about the city's plight.

In other business last Tuesday:

- * Robert Conn questioned the commission about a two-mill garbage service tax assessed against his business (Boron's) at 122-124 N. Clinton Avenue. He said he didn't believe the city had a right to assess the tax when the garbage service "is neither offered nor rendered."
- * With an approximate $20 million valuation, this tax would produce about $40,000, he said. "Do you use all that to pick up garbage?"

Mayor Charles Coletta told Conn that the garbage service tax also goes to pay for such things as the operation of the city landfill, as well as just pickup of garbage. "Until we get a ruling otherwise, we'll have to assume this (tax levy) is correct," he referred the matter to City Atty. Harold Reed.

Water fund 'ruts' affect paving and double seal program, he said. The other 17 or so, because of traffic, drainage and base construction problems, would need to be done with a two-inch bituminous mat.

"In this manner the streets of St. Johns would receive the greatest benefit," Greer said, "and most of our citizens wouldn't really know whether their street was a bituminous matted street or one in which a prime and double seal had been installed."

PRIME AND DOUBLE seal streets are not the best solution, he admitted, but they do provide an alternate that has proven to be fairly satisfactory throughout central Michigan. St. Johns has a few such streets—a block on North Mead, two on Garfield, seven or eight blocks on Church Street and three on South Ottawa, for examples—and has had no real problems with them, Greer said.

"They are actually easier to repair than streets with bituminous mats," he pointed out. "Their principle fault is that they are not nearly as smooth as bituminous mats, but on most residential streets the slower-moving traffic doesn't require this perfection..."

Such streets eventually could be matted anyway, he said, but the prime and double seal now would afford a cheaper and quicker way to get the streets paved.

HOWEVER, DRAINAGE, heavy traffic and condition of the base gravel rules out prime and double seal on some streets. Greer recommends a bituminous mat on the following streets—half of which were curbed and gutted in 1964 and half of which were done last summer:

North Swegles between Steel and Gibbs; Lincoln between Mead and Swegles; South Traver between Baldwin and Kibbee; East Sturgis from US-27 east about 2 1/2 blocks; South Lansing between Sturgis and the end of the curb; Oak Street between Swegles and the end of the curb; South Swegles between Lambert and the end of the curb; and South Clinton Avenue, between the end of the present paving and the end of the new curb.

"The other streets on the program could take a prime and double seal."

GREER IS SEEKING some quick action by the commission because of the rapidly fading summer. "Paving is dependent upon long stretches of dry, hot weather, and we are near the end of firms' commitment periods," he said.

Under a prime and double seal program, a complete paving program could be done for about $40,000, Greer figures. Separating those streets that were curbed and gutted in 1964 from those that were done in 1966 and installing mats on the 1964 streets would cost about $35,000.

Greer pointed out another problem of doing just part of the streets.

"Attempting to assign priorities to streets would prove to be rather difficult in that curb and gutter was installed either during the '64 period with additions added on in '66. Some of the streets were done by private developers who paid 100 per cent of the total construction cost of putting in the entire street, and in other areas the same developers were required only to pay 10 per cent along with all other property owners for those that were installed under the city programs."

To get maximum attention, it's hard to beat a good big mistake.

Notaries receive appointment

Clinton County Clerk Paul Wakefield has submitted to the secretary of state the second quarter names of those people he has commissioned notaries public.

NEAT TRICK FOR SHORT-BREAK

One of the disadvantages of some wall telephones may be the inability of a person to leave the telephone temporarily. Not so with this instrument, notes General Telephone Co. Muskegon operator, Helen Piotrowski. The handset can easily, quickly and safely be tucked behind the hookswitch while the lady of the house goes to turn off the oven.

White fined $100 for July 1 incident

Norman White, former Clinton County prosecuting attorney, was fined $100 plus $13.70 costs Friday in St. Johns Municipal Court on a charge of malicious destruction arising out of an incident the night of June 30 at an apartment house on the south edge of the city.

White had been arrested by city and county police at 12:30 a.m. July 1, only minutes after his resignation as Clinton County prosecutor had taken effect. No warrants were signed until last week.

'Stay under' contest not safe one

The danger of drowning from extended breath-holding under water was emphasized today by Mrs Robert Jones of the Mid-Michigan chapter of the Red Cross.

Mrs Jones said her warning was addressed to children and teenagers who compete with each other to see who can stay under water the longest.

"Youngsters who play this game are simply asking for trouble—and possible tragedy," Mrs Jones said.

"Hyperventilating"—taking several deep breaths before going under water—is a dangerous practice. This is what happens physiologically," she pointed out.

"After a period under water, because the carbon dioxide does not build up fast enough to trigger the breathing urge, the swimmer tends to stay under too long and may black out. Then, unless help is at hand to get him to the surface quickly, drowning will result."

She urged that parents make these facts known to their children and instruct them not to play the "holding-the-breath" game.

The same principles apply to swimming under water for long distances, Mrs Jones said.

When the Lord took Adam's rib, he created the first conversation piece.

Barnes-Gladstone racer attains new mark during English dragster festival

Bud Barnes of St. Johns broke his own personal elapsed time record while racing in the British-American Drag Racing Festival in England in late June and early July.

On one of his 12 runs during a 28-day stay in England, he covered a quarter mile in his fuel dragster in only 8.04 seconds — an average of 197 miles an hour!

The car Barnes drives is owned jointly by himself and Robert Gladstone. Gladstone is the mechanic and Barnes does the driving. They both went to England on the trip, invited back for the second year in a row. A team of seven different types of dragsters from America was sponsored by Goodyear and Valvoline Oil. They were chosen on speed and dependability of running.

Barnes' and Gladstone's fuel dragster was the only one of its type on the American team.

The drag racing was done against the time clock, rather than in direct competition, at Santa Pod Dragway at Poddington, 65 miles northwest of London. The racing took place the weekends of June 17-18 and 24-25 and July 1-2.

The trip lasted seven days longer than originally planned because a rainstorm washed out one weekend of racing. Barnes and Gladstone flew to England June 8 and returned home July 3. Between racing engagements the drag racing team toured American air bases in England to display their cars.

Barnes said the owner of the drag strip in England has offered to pay his and Gladstone's expenses for a trip back again next year.

City recreation notes

CITY PARK
Supervisor, Jane Springer

Besides the usual sit down games, a bike hike, a hike through the park, and a hike around the city entertained the children throughout this last week. In arts and crafts the children learned how to make puppets and last Friday afternoon a puppet show was held. Each child operated his own puppet. A talent show was scheduled for last Tuesday but due to the rain it was cancelled.

PERRIN PALMER

It was an ordinary week at Perrin - Palmer with the children enjoying the usual games. Thursday afternoon sides were chosen up and a game of flag football ensued. Later in the game the recreation director, Mr. Douglas, and his assistant George Spicer, lived up to the game with their knowledge of football. Mr. Douglas's team fought a tough but losing battle for his greatly outnumbered team who lost 54-42. Friday was a day of recuperation for all.

Local Adventists prepare for big annual camp meeting

Sabbath school and church leaders of the St. Johns Seventh-Day Adventists Church on North Lansing Street are laying plans this week for local participation at the 99th annual camp meeting of Seventh-day Adventists at Grand Ledge July 28-Aug. 5. Dr. R. L. Wohlers, Sabbath school leader of the church, said that local members will participate in two Sabbath school sessions at the grand convocation on Saturday, July 29, and Saturday, Aug. 5.

"Our members will transfer their regular Saturday program to this great religious meeting," Wohlers said. "Our offering will be given there and officials of our Sabbath school will function there if asked."

C. B. MOSHER, elder of the local church, said that worship services for local members would also emanate from the Grand Ledge campsite for the two weekends. He indicated that members will hear top church officials at the two Saturday morning services.

One feature which will occur on Sunday, July 30, at 4 p.m. will be the appearance of John Weidner—World War II leader of Dutch underground. Credited with saving lives of 1,000 he escaped from prison two hours before execution time. Highly decorated by many countries and organizations, he is the subject of recently published book on these experiences called "Flee the Captor."

"This is the most looked-forward-to religious occasion of the church," Mosher said of the coming convention. "Members will hear spiritual messages from outstanding church officials, fellowship with other Adventists and friends from throughout Michigan, and will re-emphasize the spiritual direction of their lives."

Elsie

By Mrs Neva Keys

Bannister family at Expo - 67

Among the recent visitors to Expo-67 were Mr and Mrs Alex Dunay and daughter Patricia Bannister, who joined a group of 100 from Swartz Creek, Flint and Owosso.

By means of three chartered buses, they covered the 1400 miles. Their trip took them through London, Toronto and along the St. Lawrence to Montreal where they toured the city, and visited the Church of Notre Dame, Wall Hall, Mt. Royal Catholic Shrine and the University of Montreal. They were present at the same time as Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain and were able to secure some pictures of her.

The crowds were heavy, they reported, but the Expo Express which carried guests to five stations and the Mini Train and its Skyline Drive were very helpful in the transportation problems while seeing Expo.

WLOSEK REUNION The ninth annual Wlosek family reunion was held at Green Meadows Park Sunday with approximately 36 members attending. Following the picnic dinner there were games and gifts for the children and bingo games for the adults. Mrs Edward Galco of rural Elsie was chairman of the picnic committee this year and Mrs Erwin Thiel, of Chesaning was elected chairman for the 1968 reunion. Members of the family attending were from Chesaning, Davison, Flint, Houghton Lake and Elsie.

WAGNER REUNION The 16th annual Wagner reunion was held at the St. Johns Park in the pavilion last Sunday with 78 in attendance. Following the dinner, a brief business meeting was held and games and visiting enjoyed. Guests were present from Cadillac, Flint, Mount Morris, Lansing, Allegan, Grand Rapids, Laingsburg, Ashley, Elsie and Martin Ohio.

Mali Schreiber

Mali Schreiber leaves for Germany Friday

Mali Schreiber, who has been living with the Raymond G. Parr family of 207 W. Cass Street, St. Johns, for the past year will begin her trip home to Germany Friday (tomorrow).

Mali is from Rotenburg, Germany and has been here as a part of the Youth Understanding program.

WHILE ATTENDING Rodney B. Wilson High School, she found government the most interesting of the six subjects she took. Mali maintained an A and average for the year.

She did, however, spend a great deal of her time studying. It is possible that when she returns to Germany that she may receive credit for some of the courses she took here as her marks were good.

MALI IS STILL planning to practice medicine after she completes her schooling which will take about 10 years yet.

She had a few problems with the language when she first arrived here but after a while eye found the high school slang easy to understand.

MOST OF THE students accepted her as a fellow student she felt. They were for the most part interested in her and what her country was like.

Mali said she would like to return to the United States someday.

Movies shown

Filmed at many locations around the world and viewed by over a million people at the New York World's Fair, the film will also be featured with another film entitled "Copenhagen Crusade."

Michigan moms at college

by Helen B. Meach Home Extension Economist

Many Michigan moms are not at home this week. Why not? Because Michigan homemakers are attending college at Michigan State University.

This is the week of the 40th College Week for Women which is open to all Michigan homemakers. The theme for this year's event is built around our state, "Michigan—Yesterday and Today".

Women in all parts of the state have spent months searching for these facts and costumes of the history of their particular regions. They'll present the culmination of their efforts in a pageant Thursday evening during the week's events.

TAKING AN ACTIVE part in the pageant presentation will be Freda Bottum and Marie Ford, both members of the Clinton County Extension Study Group Council. Ilah Martens, council chairman, will attend special classes and events during the week. She has, also, served on the state planning committee.

Cordelia Bashore, Shirley Mygrants, Mildred Whitaker, Eleanor Thornton have notified our office that they are also registered for College Week attendance.

APPROXIMATELY 1000 homemakers do register each year for this popular educational event, where they may attend special assemblies, programs and classes.

Each class meets three times during College Week. Homemakers may indulge in such varied interests as psychology, literature and genealogy.

On a more practical plane, College Week classes offer help with planning meals for large groups, exploring the changing world of the consumer, and understanding design in the home environment.

THE WOMAN WHO takes an active role in the community—or would like to—might tackle the problems of natural beauty, water pollution or citizenship opportunities.

In addition to classes, the homemakers will hear Howard R. Neville, provost of MSU, speak on the place of Michigan's land-grant university in the state today.

Completing the Michigan history theme, artist Robert Thom will use his own illustrations and research of the state's history. Dirk Gringhuis, artist with the MSU museum, will trace history from prehistoric times up to 1900.

Attendance scholarships are available for homemakers through County Extension Councils and other community organizations. Mrs Larry Salters and Mrs Dennis Kentfield both young homemakers of our County have been selected as two of the 30 recipients of Women's National Farm and Garden scholarships for College Week of 1967.

Wacousta area phone work starts

WACOUSTA—Construction has begun on General Telephone's service improvement program in the Wacousta area, according to General's District Manager A.M. Goodney.

The program, recently rescheduled to Feb. 4, 1968, and affecting all present Grand Ledge telephone customers living north of the I-96 expressway, will result in the transfer of some 46 square miles from the Grand Ledge office to the new Wacousta office, which is presently receiving its switching equipment. "We have about 600 customers in this area at the present time," said Goodney. "However, our forecasts indicate that the area will gain many more residents in the coming years. Our new office and service upgrading plans are designed to accommodate these anticipated customers."

Urban grades of service will be offered in 15 square miles of the new area, while phone lines in the remaining rural areas will have minimum line fills.

Installation work in the central office of the new switching equipment is progressing on schedule, while construction crews are placing 36 miles of new outside cable to handle the anticipated demand for private lines to the new urban service area.

Dennis Wiggins is wearing a jumper made for him in Nigeria from cloth bought in the market place. Seated are his parents, Phyllis and Boyd Wiggins and his brother, Doug.

Boyd Wiggins family found Nigeria friendly

The Boyd Wiggins family, presently residing at 902 E. Sturgis Street, Apt. 4, were until recently living in Nigeria. Wiggins was on the staff of the University of Nigeria which is being developed by Michigan State University.

They were in Africa for 17 months of what would have, under normal circumstances, been a two year tour of duty. With tribal war ready to break out, the Wiggins family was ordered out of the country. Mr. Wiggins followed them after a short while.

THE EVACUATION came so rapidly they had to leave many things behind as they were allowed to bring out with them a suitcase a piece.

When they left for their tour of duty they took almost everything in the way of personal belongings with them, with the exception of furniture. Still in Nigeria are their dishes, cooking ware, clothes, a freezer and even a pool table.

The latter two items were probably the most useful items they took with them. The freezer enabled them to shop for meat only once every two weeks and the pool table brought many students and villagers into their home.

THE UNIVERSITY of Nigeria is located in the eastern section of the country, the part which recently seceded and declared its independence. In the eastern section are members of the Ibo tribe. Presently the Hausa and Fulani, northern tribes, are trying to force the Ibo and the eastern portion of the country to reunite.

Trouble began in Nigeria shortly before the Wiggins arrived there in February 1966 with the military overthrow of the government.

WHILE AT THE University, Wiggins was an advisor in continuing education, community development. He worked with university faculties, students, villages, government and non-government groups to help develop programs for use in the villages to help improve their standard of living.

The average family income per year is $85. There men still buy their brides and have as many wives as they can afford. The women do the farming and marketing. Children are considered a source of wealth, as if they are girls they can be sold to their future husbands and boys can work.

THE NIGERIANS find no sacrifice too great for education. Whole families, brothers, sisters, parents, aunts and uncles, will help put a child through school. It is a continuing process, when some complete school, he begins to help put another family member through.

The Wigginses found the natives living in the eastern section to be very happy and very moral people. They loved children and a child would be safe anywhere and at any time. The punishment for stealing is death but that is not really so bad they feel because when they are reborn the thief will be an honest person.

Nigeria is no place to go, according to the Wiggins family, if you don't like people. They want to touch you and shake your hand and are easily able to tell whether or not you really like them.

THE COUNTRY is confronted with many problems among them are the many languages or dialects spoken by the people, poor communications, a lack of employment and tribalism. Their main exports include rubber, palm oil, some yams and petroleum.

Mr and Mrs Wiggins have three sons, David 17, Doug 15 and Dennis 10. The two older boys attended International School while in Nigeria. The enrollment there was made up of about 50 per cent Nigerians and the rest of other nationalities. Dennis went to the elementary school on the campus.

WIGGINS HAS been affiliated with Michigan State University since 1954 and previous to going to Nigeria was part of the Cooperative Extension Service of MSU and located at Coldwater. He will be given a new assignment in a few weeks.

Mrs Wiggins is the former Phyllis Monroe of St. Johns. When asked if they would care to return to Nigeria if they had the chance an emphatic yes was their answer.

Congregationalists call new minister for Maple Rapids

MAPLE RAPIDS — The Rev Robert E. Meyers of Huntington, Ind., has accepted the call to serve as pastor of the Maple Rapids Congregational Christian Church.

Rev Mr Meyers will preach his first sermon in Maple Rapids Aug 20. He replaces Rev Donald H. Voss and his father Rev Henry D. Voss who have served the church six years and three years respectively. The Vosses have accepted positions elsewhere.

The church membership voted July 16 to ask Rev Meyers to take the pulpit in Maple Rapids and he accepted.

He attended Huntington College and received his pastoral training at Huntington College Seminary. For the past four years he has been on the staff at the college, two years as director of alumni relations and two years as director of admissions.

IN SEPTEMBER he will begin studies in the graduate school at Michigan State University, working toward a master of arts degree and PhD degree.

Rev Donald Voss has accepted a teaching position at Slippery Rock College in Slippery Rock, Pa. He received his PhD degree from MSU last December and has been teaching the past year at Lansing Community College.

Rev Henry Voss has accepted a call to the Congregational Church at Lawrence, Mich., southwest of Kalamazoo.

Rev and Mrs Meyers and their two daughters will reside in the parsonage in Maple Rapids after Aug 20.

Former Ovid pastor named Guard division chaplain

CAMP GRAYLING — "My only reason for being here is the enlisted men," says a former Ovid minister who has been named division chaplain for the 46th Infantry Division of the Michigan National Guard.

Lt Col Harold A. Kirchenbauer of Jackson was appointed to succeed Lt Col Harold A. Jacobs of Grand Ledge, who passed away unexpectedly June 1. Chaplain Kirchenbauer's promotion from the rank of major was concurrent with his appointment.

He is encamped with 5,300 men of the 46th Division on two-week annual field training exercises at Camp Grayling.

LT COL HAROLD A. KIRCHENBAUER

THE PHILOSOPHICAL and humorous chaplain is also a news-film cameraman and has been an amateur prize fighter and a pilot.

"It's the little people who count," said Lt Col Kirchenbauer. "The chaplain is the only officer in the service who isn't rating the enlisted men; if it were otherwise, the effectiveness of our office would be lost."

"A rather privileged position for the chaplains and for all people in the service, it's the kind of relationship we should be willing to lay down our lives for if need be."

Over the years, Lt Col Kirchenbauer noted, the use and effectiveness of the division chaplain's office has steadily progressed.

"Concern for the personal and moral lives of the men has increased," he said.

A minister for 29 years, Lt Col Kirchenbauer is pastor of Greenwood Avenue Methodist Church in Jackson. He has formerly served as pastor of churches in Grandville, St. Louis, Cadillac and Ovid.

His hobby, shooting newsfilm in the Jackson area for various TV stations, can be directly related to his career as a chaplain and pastor.

"On these news assignments, I'm in close contact with people as important things are happening to them; I see how they react," Chaplain Kirchenbauer began.

"They first identify me as a newsman, only later as a clergyman. But by then the barrier is down and I've already become acquainted with them on a person-to-person basis. Under these circumstances, I get to know a lot more people and can easily identify with them much more closely."

"It provides good background for my sermons, and it helps me to keep the sermons more realistic."

CHAPLAIN KIRCHENBAUER feels his work in the news media is valuable to him as a minister: "There's a whole segment of people we as clergy are not reaching; but as a newsman I can become one of them."

The chaplain said he is "amazed" at how religious-minded many non-church-going persons are.

Reminiscing during a two-hour interview, Chaplain Kirchenbauer thought back to the depression years, back to 1932 when he had enlisted in the Michigan National Guard.

He was "just one of the guys" then. During 14 of the 15 days at his first summer encampment, he admitted, he received "disciplinary" work details as a result of the various "pranks" "Nobody would have expected my becoming a chaplain, let alone a division chaplain," he commented.

Then there were those six years of prize fighting in the mid-30s. He won numerous titles on his way to state featherweight amateur champion in 1936, during the "bootleg amateur days," the chaplain said.

BUT HE TIRED OF the grind. He would eventually have had to lick Hammer Henry Armstrong, then world featherweight and welterweight champion. It was then that Chaplain Kirchenbauer decided to enter the ministry, receiving his local preacher's license in 1938.

Just before World War II, in 1940, he took time out from the National Guard to participate for a short period in the Air Force's civilian pilot training program. His wife leaned to fly at the same time.

"The war came along then, and I decided I wanted to be a chaplain," Kirchenbauer said. He finished his training at Garrett Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill., graduating in 1945.

But the Army no longer needed more chaplains then, and Chaplain Kirchenbauer, returned to the Guard. He noted that he and Maj Gen Cecil L. Simmons, commanding general of the Michigan National Guard, "were sergeants together back in the old days."

Prior to his new appointment as Division Chaplain, he was staff chaplain for the Third Brigade of the 46th Division.

THE DIVISION NOW has eight chaplains. "It should have been 19," Lt Col Kirchenbauer said.

A man of many interests and accomplishments, the chaplain's next aim is a post chapel for Camp Grayling. All services are now held in tents.

"The initial appropriation for the structure itself would probably have to come from the State Legislature," he said. "But we could get enough together for the furnishings and trimmings." That's Lt. Col. Kirchenbauer's latest "dream," just one of many in his storybook career from enlisted man to Division chaplain, from prize fighter to newsman.

Pastor turning carpenter

Pastor Bernard K. Mills of the St. Johns Seventh-Day Adventist Church on North Lansing Street has forsaken his ministerial duties and will turn carpenter and general handyman to help prepare for his church's 99th annual camp meeting which convenes in Grand Ledge today (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Pastor Mills is joining more than 300 ministers, Bible workers, and other church employees from Michigan at the 54-acre campus of Grand Ledge Academy, 10 miles west of Lansing on highway M-43. He will help prepare for the 5,000 persons who will live on the grounds and between 10,000 and 15,000 additional week-end visitors for the annual 10-day religious convocation.

He will be busy until opening day, putting up direction signs, placing thousands of chairs, equipping more than 600 family tents, stringing electrical wiring, and doing a host of other duties required to prepare the huge campsite for the convention. During the actual camp meeting session Pastor Mills has been assigned duties with the ushering committee.

"ST. JOHNS ADVENTIST church members are expecting one of the biggest and most important camp meetings ever held by the denomination at Grand Ledge this year," the pastor said in reference to his unusual duties, "and the ministers and other church workers are going to do all they can to make these expectations come true."

"The purpose of this great convocation is to re-emphasize spiritual values and to renew consecration of church members. With God's help and our own labors this year's campmeeting will fully realize this purpose," he said.

Make same service available to Guard

"The same Red Cross services available at American military installations around the world are being offered to organized Reserve and National Guard units on active duty this summer," Leonard Peters said today.

"Families of men on active duty are asked to call the Mid-Michigan chapter if an emergency arises which requires the serviceman's assistance or presence," Peters said.

Traditional Red Cross services to the armed forces include counseling; assistance with government benefits; reporting to enable the military to act on requests for leave, transfer, and reassignment; help with communications involving family situations; and emergency financial aid.

Most sermons are worthwhile, but nothing beats good example.

Expect 1,500 farmers for management tour

Between 1,000 and 1,500 farmers from throughout Michigan are expected for a four-farm tour through northeastern Clinton County next Tuesday, Aug. 1, on the annual State Farm Management Tour.

"Planning and management are probably two of the greatest keys to success in farming today," F. Earl Haas, county Extension agricultural agent pointed out. He believes there's so much to be learned about farm management by taking the day-long tour.

"Farmers should be looking for new ideas on how to plan their farm program and then how to manage their plan."

The four farms selected for stops on the tour are recognized as leaders in their particular phase of agribusiness. And, in keeping with the theme of "Partners in Progress," all the farms are family-type businesses.

TWO EARLY-MORNING stops give the choice between a beef-mint growing enterprise and a 65-cow Guernsey dairy farm.

The 400-acre combination beef and mint-producing farm of Robert Halsey and Richards Woodhams, two miles northeast of St. Johns, will be one of the farms. Woodhams is a son-in-law of Halsey, and they have a unique farm partnership.

The F. Lee Ormston Guernsey dairy farm, east and a mile north of St. Johns, will be the alternative stop. Ormston and his father, Frank Ormston, own the 65-cow herd, but since the father's retirement, Lee Ormston manages the 327-acre operation. A new calf housing center, electrically heated and ventilated, is a feature dairy farmers will want to see at this tour stop.

At 10:45 a.m. the state's largest dairy operation—Green Meadow Farm, Elsie—will be toured. This is one of the largest purebred Holstein farms in the world and is operated by Merle Green and sons Duane and Velmar. This 2,700-acre farm milks "around the clock," with more than 1,000 cows in the milking string producing 35,000 pounds of milk daily.

AT THE NOON PROGRAM, following lunch which will be available at the Green Meadow Farm, Lt. Gov. William Milliken will speak briefly, and visitors will learn about the Green farm operation which employs 25 men.

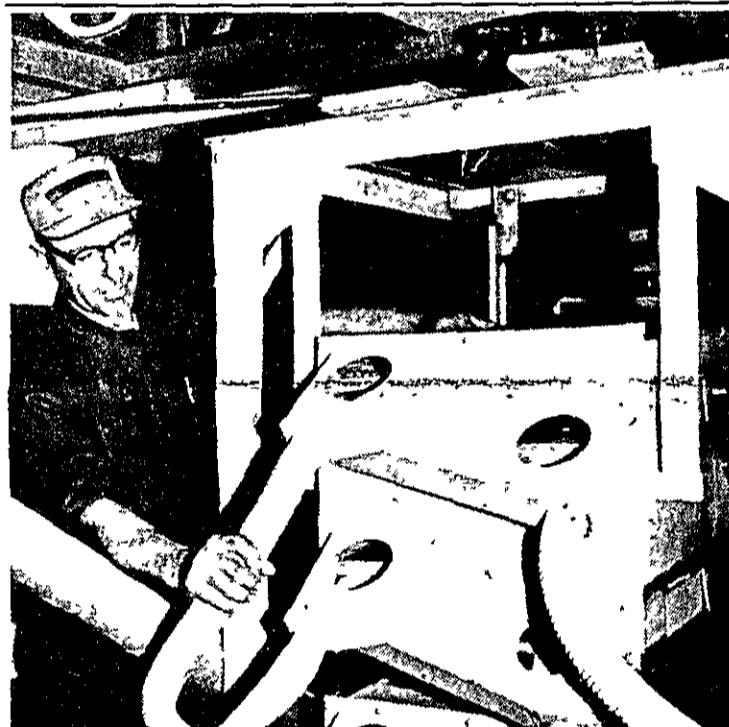

Certified seed wheat, oats, peabeans and corn are produced at the Moore Seed Farm four miles northwest of Elsie, which will be the afternoon stop. Here visitors will see the meticulous care taken in growing, grading and processing grain for seed purposes.

A feature for the women will be a tour of the Robert Moore farm home. Woodwork and wall paneling are made from wood cut from the Moore woodlot and cured and cut to specifications.

This 19th annual State Farm Management Tour is sponsored by the Department of Agricultural Economics and Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University in cooperation with the Clinton County Extension staff.

Map locates the four farms which will be visited by upwards of 1,000 persons next Tuesday on the State Farm Management Tour. By numbers they are: 1) Halsey-Woodhams farm at the corner of Kinley and Scott roads; 2) R. Lee Ormston farm at Walker and Chandler roads; Green Meadow Farm on Hollister Road; and 4) Moore Seed Farm at Upton and Gratiot County Line roads.

Robert L. Moore checks the seed cleaning equipment at the Moore Seed Farm near Elsie before cleaning seed for processing and sale as certified seed to Michigan growers. The seed production and processing operation will be the afternoon stop on the State Farm Management Tour Aug. 1.

★ ★ ★ Growing seed exacting

George and Robert Moore take more than the normal precautions when they plant crops each year, because the success of the growth and the quality of the harvest mean profit to not only themselves but eventually to many, many other farmers.

The reason is the Moores produce seed corn, seed Navy beans, seed wheat and seed oats. Special care and handling are in demand during the entire production process. Fields must have isolation, be rogued and inspected according to rigid rules.

The details of this important job are the topic for the afternoon visit on the farm management tour for Aug. 1. The Moore Seed Farm on County Line Road north and west of Elsie will be the "teaching station."

THE MOORES produce seed at three levels—breeder's increase, foundation seed (for producers of certified seed), and certified seed.

The harvested crop is a valuable one and must be properly dried to permit proper storage without hurting germination. For this the Moores have four 700-bushel gas-wagon box dryers, and new drying for corn may be added this year. All storage bins and equipment are meticulously cleaned to prevent mixing of varieties and to control insects and disease pests. Temperatures of stored seed have to be watched to maintain quality.

The Moore Seed Farm is indeed a family operation. George Moore, who is Duplain Township supervisor, and Robert Moore, chairman of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District, have charge of the place, but Robert's sons Carl and Calvin are renting 80 acres of land on their own where they are producing seed beans, oats and wheat on contract for their dad and grandfather. They use their father's equipment but pay the cash costs.

The boys are also in the hog feeding business, using the odd-

Cattle development biggest interest at Green Meadow

Green Meadow Farms at Elsie has long been noted as Michigan's largest dairy farm, but not nearly so many people realize milk production is not the primary interest of owners Merle Green and sons Velmar and Duane.

Instead, development and marketing of purebred cattle is the "first love" of the trio. The equivalent of three men for three months of the year is devoted to showing cattle. A considerable amount of time and effort is devoted to the purchase and sale of cattle. During the past year cattle have been marketed in 23 states and foreign countries.

The herd is on the DHIA testing program, and present indications are that they will make 14,000 pounds of milk and 500 pounds of fat for 1967. The most recent official herd classification made in May showed 38 cows rated excellent, 187 very good, 535 good plus 317 good. There are 1,077 cattle.

ABOUT 100 OF THE top animals are housed and cared for in the main stanchion barn. The balance are in the loose housing unit. This consists of eight barns, five of which are equipped with 770 free stalls. The other Velmar Green of Green Meadow Farm at Elsie discusses cattle feeding with Earl Haas, county Extension Agricultural Agent, in preparation for the State Farm Management Tour Aug. 1. The big dairy enterprise will be the featured noon-day stop for the annual tour.

Plan tour specially for ladies

"Something special for the ladies" — that's what is planned as an additional attraction for the annual State Farm Management Tour Aug. 1 in Clinton County.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore who live on Gratiot County Line Road north of Elsie, have invited the ladies to "tour" their farm home while the men are learning about the processing equipment of the Moore farm. This all takes place following the noon stop-off at Green Meadows Farms near Elsie.

Now this home is special—there is not another like it to be found anywhere. If you wanted to duplicate it, you would have to ask for the Moores' help. Here is why. The Moores actually planned their home from homegrown products. The largest share of the wall paneling throughout the house is made from the trees which were grown on the very farm where the house stands.

THERE ARE WALLS of walnut, oak, maple, and sycamore throughout the house. Each room is different. The blending of the woods is delightful, and the contrasts are unusual. Five years were spent in the planning and for the preparation of the woods. The cutting and planing were done locally with finishing and trim completed at a mill near by.

This lovely limestone house was built with the plan in mind for a "heap o' living" to be enjoyed by the Moores and their six children. Efficiency and spaciousness are obvious throughout the house from living room to the kitchen and utility room. With only a few steps the living areas

Halsey-Woodhams farm partnership is unique

One of the alternate early morning stops on the State Farm Management tour next Tuesday is the Halsey and Woodhams farm at the corner of Kinley and Scott roads, a mile north and one mile east of St. Johns.

This farm program emphasizes an unusual but effective partnership and transfer program in which Robert Halsey and Richard Woodhams operate on a 50-50 basis but each partner pays his share of the expenses and capital purchases independently. Woodhams is the son-in-law of Halsey.

The two men farm 200 acres of upland soils predominately clay loams and 200 acres of muck. Last year they got 18 tons of corn silage per acre off 20 acres, 80 bushels per acre for 92 acres of corn for grain, 53 bushels per acre for 19 bushels of wheat, 6 tons of hay per acre off 37 acres, and 36 pounds per acre off 102 acres planted to mint. Corn acreage is down this year while wheat and mint have been increased.

THEIR MACHINERY investment amounts to about $27,000, or $75 per tillable acre.

Corn is marketed through steers fed in the 220-head capacity feedlot.

Corn production management practices are considerably different for the upland and muck soil areas. Different analysis fertilizer is used, and weed control methods also differ. Corn can be planted earlier in the upland area because frost damage is less likely than in lowland areas. Corn for grain is harvested as high moisture ear corn and put in 20-by-50 foot air-tight silos. However, a new combine purchased this year will allow harvesting high moisture shelled corn for use in the beef feeding operations.

All the sparmint is grown on muckland soil. The first cutting is harvested about mid-

Ormston dairy calf housing unit called one of finest in Michigan

One of Michigan's finest dairy calf housing units will be on display next Tuesday at the R. Lee Ormston farm—one of two alternate stops on the farm management tour.

The calf housing unit was built into a corner of an old barn on the Ormston farm in 1965. The 800-square-foot area has insulated walls and ceiling and electric heaters holding the temperature at 62 degrees in the winter.

The year before Ormston started in the new calf housing facility, he lost 17 of 46 dairy calves. In the first year in the new heated and well-ventilated unit, only one of 53 dairy calves died.

The housing system has four individual calf cribs for newborn calves. These have raised, expanded metal flooring. From the individual pens the calves "graduate" to a larger pen where they are kept for several weeks. Then are moved into a third pen and kept until they are large enough to be vaccinated and turned outside.

ORMSTON KEEPS ONLY his helper calves and sells bull calves soon after their birth.

The Ormston farm is located just east of the intersection of Walker and Chandler roads and on the north side of Walker. The program there begins at 9:30 a.m.

Dairy farming is the prime concern of Ormston, and his all-registered Guernsey herd was started back in 1912. He now has 65 Guernseys, with the herd averaging 4.8 per cent butterfat and just under 10,000 pounds of milk per cow last year.

Lee Ormston presently operates the farm alone, with some assistance from his father, Frank Ormston, and a 14-year-old neighbor youth. A formal partnership with his father was dissolved in 1959 when the elder Ormston reached 65 years of age.

Until Lee Ormston's marriage in 1954 he had farmed with his father on an informal wage arrangement for 10 years. Then the partnership with his father

Until Lee Ormston's marriage in 1954 he had farmed with his father on an informal wage arrangement for 10 years. Then the partnership was set up in 1954. Lee now cash rents from his dad his interest in the farm real estate and dairy herd (each has an undivided half-interest in the herd), and he owns all the machinery and equipment.

IN 1966, ORMSTON divided his 270 acres of crop land as follows: corn grain, 32 acres; corn silage, 30; oats, 46; alfalfa hay, 74; wheat, 19; soybeans, 69. A modified minimum tillage program is used with some fall plowing.

Alfalfa is not pastured but is dry-lot fed. Grass silage is made in a tower silo early in June for summer feeding and lasts until September when corn silage is available. Hay is field-chopped and blown into the hay barn for self-feeding. He prefers chopped hay to baling because of labor savings. Since Ormston purchased a field hay conditioner, he has not found it necessary to use the mow dryer.

After corn silage and soybeans are harvested the land is drilled to rye for a winter cover crop.

THE ORMSTONS HAVE had an all-registered Guernsey herd since 1912. The 65-cow herd averaged 4.8 per cent butterfat and just under 10,000 pounds of milk per cow last year.

Until 1956 the herd was housed in a conventional basement barn with 18 stanchions. Then expansion began, and a modern milking parlor with five stalls was built.

The dairy herd expansion has been steady since that time and loose housing was added. An 80-foot auger bunk was built in 1962 to provide automatic

See CALF HOUSING page 14-B

R. Lee Ormston (right) finds his new electrically heated and ventilated calf housing center saves him much work and many calves. With his father, Frank H. Ormston, who owns half the 65-cow herd but is retired, and part-time help from a student, Ormston operates a 324-acre farm northeast of St. Johns; it's one stop on the morning Farm Management Tour Aug. 1.

Pictures are made by fools like me. But it took an architect-friend to help me appreciate this one.

"I'm always impressed," he said, "when someone puts beauty and meaning where otherwise there would have been nothing. That's what God did when he made this tree!"

Photographers like to pretend they're philosophers. So I titled my picture Where There Was Nothing.

Next Sunday my architect-friend invited me to church. A bit overwhelmed by this sudden solicitude for my long-neglected spiritual welfare, I went. And there a remarkable discovery awaited me!

It is a drab expanse of broad, flat years which I call my life. And only God seems able to put beauty and meaning where otherwise there was nothing. Every Sunday a new truth grips me. Every Sunday I discover a new tree!

Capt. Lankford cited by Guard

DeWITT — Capt. Gerald Lankford, 39, of 402 W. Main Street, DeWitt, has been cited by the 46th Infantry Division of the Michigan National Guard, which completed its summer training at Camp Grayling last week.

The citation was for two years of outstanding leadership as commander of the administration company at division headquarters in Lansing.

Capt. Lankford, a member of the Guard since 1949, was recently promoted to division liaison officer and attached to the chief of staff section.

He received the Maj. Gen. Gordon MacDonald Plaque, symbolic of the top company commander, from Gov. George Romney Saturday during the divisions, annual parade and review.

New Marines for special platoon sought.

At least 22 young men from the Lansing area will begin their Marine Corps recruit training at San Diego, Calif., Aug. 22, as members of the Southern Michigan Platoon.

This "special" platoon will be made up entirely of men who have enlisted in the Marine Corps at the Lansing, Jackson and Kalamazoo recruiting offices.

Thirteen area men have already enlisted for the platoon under the 120-day delay program. More men are ready to go to Detroit next week to be sworn in.

OPENINGS ARE still available and Marine Recruiting Sgt. Fred Spoon of the Lansing office said he hoped to be able to include all who want to enlist in this special platoon.

Sgt. Spoon may be contacted at 118 W. Lenawee Street, Lansing, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and at other times by appointment.

Those St. Johns area men who wish to contact Sgt. Spoon may do so every Tuesday from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the local draft board at 200 W. State Street.

Sgt. Spoon also advised that because time is running out to volunteer for the Marine Corps under the two-year enlistment program, any fellow who wishes to make this commitment should contact him in the near future.

paper by Monday 5:00 p.m.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS: Each week (adults only, please) pick up your FREE Bingo cards from any of the sponsoring merchants listed below. Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. However, you may make as many visits as you wish each day of the week. THE MORE CARDS YOU PLAY THE BETTER ARE YOUR CHANCES OF WINNING.

HOW TO PLAY: To play, check the ads in each week's issue of the CLINTON COUNTY NEWS. The ads of the merchants listed below will contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol (shown above). Occasionally numbers, in the "Bingo Bug" symbol, may be found elsewhere in the newspaper. IF YOU CAN MATCH (JUST CIRCLE OR "X" THE MATCHING NUMBERS) ALL 24 NUMBERS ON ANY ONE OF YOUR BINGO CARDS - YOU HAVE A "BINGO" - AND YOU ARE A WINNER!!

AT LEAST $50 WEEKLY!! Winners will share a weekly prize of $50 issued in "Bingo Bucks" that spend like cash at any of the sponsoring merchants. If there is only one winner, he or she wins all of the $50. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share the $50 in equal amounts. If there are no winners any week, the $50 weekly prize money will be added to the following week's prize fund.

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE CLINTON COUNTY NEWS: Each game is complete in each week's issue. A new game will start each Thursday and be completed the following Monday. A new set of Bingo numbers will be published each week in the sponsoring merchants' ads and possibly elsewhere in the paper and these new numbers only must be used. A new color of Bingo cards will be available at the participating stores. To be eligible to win, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week's game. The color of the cards for each week's game will be announced on this page.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER: If you have a winning Bingo card, ON WHICH ALL 24 NUMBERS HAVE BEEN MATCHED WITH THE NUMBERS APPEARING EACH WEEK IN THE CLINTON COUNTY NEWS, write your name, address, phone number, and the name of the store where you got your winning card on the back of your card and mail to The CLINTON COUNTY NEWS. The envelope containing your card must be received by 5 p.m. Monday of the following week; or bring your winning card to the office by 5 p.m. Monday of the following week.

Understanding your HEALTH

By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director Michigan Department of Public Health

When you swim in a public swimming pool in Michigan you can do so with the assurance that all necessary precautions have been taken for the protection of your health. One of the many functions of your Michigan Department of Public Health is the approval of construction permits and the setting of operating rules to assure the adequate filtration, water recirculation, and chlorination necessary to safeguard and prevent the spread of disease in public pools.

Private or "backyard" swimming pools require these same health safeguards but are not subject to state health department licensing or inspection. Fortunately, although some counties and cities have local ordinances, many of these home pools (at least the better ones) do incorporate adequate filtration, recirculation and chlorination facilities.

THERE IS, HOWEVER, a potential health threat in SOME of these backyard pools because they do not have such facilities—and there is a potential health threat with ALL of the small plastic wading pools for the toddlers. If the same water is used repeatedly without these safeguards, chances are it can become a source of various infections.

A simple way to prepare a solution is to mix up one-half cup of liquid household laundry bleach in about a gallon of water. Then the proper amount of this diluted solution should be stirred into the pool, about an hour before it is to be used. The amount of disinfectant employed depends on the size of the pool—but a good rule of thumb is to use about a pint of your diluted solution, to every 50 gallons of water.

LIFE-SAVING EQUIPMENT is a must for all pools where the water is over the head of any user.

There are a few things I would like to suggest which should be helpful in reducing the possibility of infections in your unfiltered and unchlorinated backyard swimming pool, or backyard wading pool.

As nearly as possible, you should restrict the use of such a pool to members of your own family. But if playmates are allowed in the pool, make sure that they are in good health, are clean, and have gone to the toilet before they get into the Travel to St. Johnsbury, Vt. through the Green Mountains and Portland, Maine, where they spent the morning at Great Stone Face and at the top of Cannon Mountain at Franconia Notch was ended with a drive through the White Mountains to Longfellow's House.

The next morning they left New York and spent their last overnight stop at Breezewood on the Pennsylvania Turnpike. New blinkers planned on US-27

New flashing signal lights will be installed soon on US-27 at Clark and Round lake roads in DeWitt Township, the State Highway Commission reported last week.

The new signals have lenses that are 50 per cent larger than the standard size lights now in use at the two intersections.

At the Clark Road intersection, signals will be suspended over both the northbound and southbound lanes.

Dimmer switches will be installed on the new signals so they will not blind motorists at night. Installation is expected to be completed within 30 days.

Cost of the new lights will be shared equally by the Highway Department and the Clinton County Road Commission.

Calf housing unit finest in Michigan silage feeding. Older heifers are housed in a converted 30-by-60-foot barn and fed chopped hay and some corn silage, but are not pastured.

In 1965 a freestall barn 50-by-105-feet with 108 stalls was added. Ormston hopes to gradually build the herd to near 100 head, and will do so by raising his own heifer calves.

ORMSTON IS ABLE to operate the $175,000 investment with an average of 1.8 men throughout the year, by employing a 14-year-old neighbor boy after school and in summer, by adding some other help during engilling and haying time, and by having his father handle the dairy calf feeding.

Michigan State University agricultural economists point to the high efficiency of the operation. Machinery investment per tillable acre is $68 and the value of production per man is approximately $25,000. The farm sells $543 worth of milk per cow annually and the total investment per cow is $2,682.

ORMSTON, 40, AND HIS wife Grace have two daughters, Lori, 8, and Lisa, 7. He is a member of the board of directors of the Clinton County Farm Bureau, chairman of District VI of the Michigan Milk Producers Assn., delegate on the Ovid local of MMPA, member of the Ovid Township Board of Review, Sunday School superintendent of the St. Johns Free Methodist Church and a member of the board of directors of the Federal Land Bank Assn.

Lee has planned since boyhood to farm. He was active in FFA at St. Johns High School, from which he graduated in 1944, and also had a couple of years experience in 4-H work. He is a graduate of Michigan State University short courses and attended an eight-week course each winter for four years.

Find virus that speeds root rot

Root rot, which is caused by various fungi, has always been a serious threat to the production of Michigan peas, corn and numerous other crops.

But now, a Michigan State University scientist has found a virus that makes pea root rot even worse. Apparently, reports Dr. John Lockwood, of MSU's department of botany and plant pathology, the virus affects the mechanism of the plant and causes an accelerated escape of nutrients from the plant roots.

These escaping nutrients provide a food base for the root rot fungi and cause the disease to develop more quickly and extensively, comments Dr. Lockwood. This may make a bad situation even worse.

Milking is an "around the clock" operation at the Green Meadow Farm at Elsie, where three work shifts milk more than 1,000 purebred Holstein cows daily. The double-eight herringbone milking parlor allows 16 cows to be milked at one time.

Cattle development at Green Meadow

three barns are conventional loose housing and are used for bred heifers and dry cows and cows that have recently freshened.

Two loose housing units for heifers were constructed in 1966 and one in 1965. These have capacity for some 1,200 head. A 120 x 36 dairy barn was remodeled in 1966 to house 25 calves in individual raised stalls. During 1967 a furnace will be installed in this unit.

The farm has storage capacity for some 12,000 tons of corn silage. In addition, some 1,800 to 2,000 tons of green chopped corn is fed to heifers from the field. In a normal year the farm will produce about 2000 tons of hay and will purchase 2,500 to 3,000 tons depending on the number of cattle and hay yields at home.

Hay and silage is fed in fence-line bunks at the loose housing and heifer units. Feeding requires the equivalent of one full-time man. Silage is fed from self-unloading wagons. Much of the purchased hay is stored temporarily at the feed bunks or fed as it is hauled. The farm has moved toward more corn silage and less hay over the years, but will continue to feed both in the foreseeable future.

THE GREEN FARM totals 2,

700 acres, of which only 500 is non-tillable. On the tillable acreage, normally 1,000 to 1,200 is put into corn silage, 700-800 into hay, 80-120 to wheat, 80-120 for pasture (mostly barn lots) and 100-150 is allowed idle or fallow. The farm will produce $80 to $90 of crop value per acre in a normal year.

Although major responsibility for carrying out the decisions are made jointly by the family members, there is a division of responsibility for carrying out the decisions. Merle takes major responsibility for crop production; Velmar is responsible for the operation of the loose housing unit; and Duane is responsible for the stanchion barn, cattle, heifers, bulls and calves.

The farm hires the equivalent of about 25 men.

PRESENT management of the Green farm—located on Hollister Road just south of Elsie—dates back to 1922. Merle Green, who was born and raised in the immediate vicinity, bought the original farm of 250 acres in 1922. The Green family has always maintained a high degree of interest in the development of purebred Holstein dairy cattle. Prior to 1960 the farm carried a herd of 200 registered cows. The loose housing unit was started in 1960. It has been expanded gradually until at present the farm is carrying about 1,100 cows, 1,200 heifers and 10 to 12 bulls. All are registered animals. In addition to raising heifer calves and more promising bull calves, a substantial number of registered cattle are purchased for breeding and resale.

Mr and Mrs Green raised two sons, Velmar and Duane. Velmar was graduated from the College of Agriculture at Michigan State University in dairy production. Duane attended Cornell University in the dairy production course. The boys were trained and encouraged to maintain a high degree of interest in the farm business and were trained and encouraged to maintain a high degree of interest in the farm business gradually.

IN 1958 A PARTNERSHIP was formed between the boys, and presently they own the cattle, machinery and much of the land. Mr Green has continued to take an active part in the management and operation of Green Meadow Farms, but the responsibility of ownership and operation is being gradually shifted to the partners. An estate plan has been carefully developed to insure continuity of operation.

Halsey-Woodhams farm partnership unique

August. Occasionally a second cutting can be made in September. The partners have their own mint oil distillery. In a good year production will average 35 to 40 pounds of mint oil an acre. New fields are planted in the spring from roots plowed up from old mint fields in early November and put into pits for spring planting.

THE CATTLE feeding operation is based primarily on a fall purchase program with cattle coming through the Michigan Livestock Exchange and from northern Michigan feeder calf sales.

Four hundred to 450-pound heifers or steers are bought and fed silage and ground corn or corn-and-cob meal until reaching market weight of 1,000 to 1,050 pounds. Animals are marketed weekly through the Michigan Livestock Exchange.

Halsey and Woodhams have converted an old dairy barn into an efficient cattle feeding operation. They also have a "lean-to" on the rear of the barn. Along with two air-tight silos, they have two concrete stave silos they use for corn silage.

Plan good harvest system

When planning a corn harvesting system, dairymen must consider the number of hours a day they can spend in the field. Robert White, extension agricultural engineer, reminds dairymen that six hours a day is about the most time between "chores" they can spend in the field harvesting corn or corn silage.

Of course, if they have one person that can spend full time harvesting and not be involved with the milking chores this can speed up the corn harvest.

After the corn is planted is the time the dairyman should start thinking about his harvesting system and making plans to get it done in time.

"WHITE SAYS SOME rules-of-thumb will help the dairyman-corn grower determine his needs. A one-row picker will handle a 50-acre corn crop working six hours a day, or a 75-acre crop working eight hours a day. For a slightly higher investment a two-row picker will cut harvest time almost in half.

White said a two-row picker sheller or two-row combine will handle about 1.5 acres an hour if corn yields are averaging around 100 bushels an acre. From an economical standpoint, shelling usually becomes practical when the farmer has about 7,000 bushels to harvest.

High moisture corn can be harvested as ear corn and ground as it is placed in storage. It may also be ground as it is harvested in the field with a picker-grinder or a combine equipped to harvest and grind both corn and cob.

MICHIGAN GROWERS are advised not to plan longer than a four-week harvest period after operations begin. In some years the season is longer but on the average this is about the amount of good weather available for corn harvest in southern Michigan.

A strain is defined as part of a song, but in some cellar discotheques it's what the music does to your ears.

Someday there'll be a television weatherman who'll tell us simply whether the day will be hot or cold, wet or dry.

Clinton County Extension Agricultural Agent Earl Haas (right) agrees with Richard Woodhams that the alfalfa is "about right" for storage as haylage in the gas-tight silos in the background on the Halsey-Woodhams farm near St. Johns.

Growing seed exacting

sized and broken grain from the screening of the seed.

THE MOORE Seed Farm involves 253 acres of crops, 42 of which are rented. This year there are 126 in seed corn, 39 in seed wheat and 49 in seed oats. In addition they have contracted to grow foundation seed beans on 15 acres and wheat on 27 acres.

Robert's grandfather was one of the original settlers in this area. George Moore began farming in a partnership with his father. Thus, the family has farmed in this area for over 100 years although technically their farm does not qualify as a centennial farm. During the 30s this was a dairy farm which also grew navy beans. George began to produce seed wheat, oats and navy beans about 1938 and actually went out of dairying before World War II. The original partnership existed until 1943.

Robert was in 4-H and FFA and attended MSU as a regular student for five terms before entering the Army in 1943. He was awarded a state farmer degree in FFA.

RETURNING FROM the Army in 1946 he got married and decided to farm. A new 50-50 father-son partnership was formed. It was fairly easy to buy half of the personal property as there was no livestock and the machinery had depreciated out during the war years. Seed production on the 120 acres (owned by George) continued but did not produce enough income for two families. So 10 milk cows and a minimum amount of equipment were purchased in 1950.

In 1957 Robert and his wife bought 80 acres and Robert's parents gave them the 20 acres where their house was built. This was done mostly with their own labor and timber sawed off of the farm between 1955 and 1957. House building and more land forced out the dairy cows.

The seed business developed gradually with the original processing done in the barn near Robert's house. In 1948 the barn near his father's house was improved with a seed processing and storage area. In 1961 Robert began to produce seed corn with the processing done by McKenzies. Then in 1964 a corn processing plant was added in the buildings south of Robert's on the recently purchased 80 acres.

They are associated with Michigan Certified Seed Growers and now market through Great Lakes Hybrids Cooperative - the affiliated marketing agency which began in 1966. Robert is on the board of directors.

IN 1955 ROBERT and his wife bought 76 acres to the east. Since all of the corn seed operation belongs to Robert and his wife, he now buys three-fourths of the farm machinery and equipment.

This farm was one of the first titled in the area—every 6 or 7 rods. Since then more tile has been added and the newly purchased land has been tiled.

Robert's wife, Doris, does a lot of the book work and office work for the farm. (They are in Telfarm.) The couple have six children, Carl, 20, Calvin, 17, Carter, 15, Alan, 14, Kathleen, 10, and Cindy, 7.

expand to the swimming pool which was built by their 15 and 16 year old sons.

Robert's wife Doris graduated from Lansing Business University and worked in Lansing for five years. She is vice-president of the Elsie PTA and committee chairman of 4-H. The family belongs to the Baptist Methodist Church and the children are active in 4-H and FFA projects. The boys are in electrical and handicraft and the oldest girl in sewing.

Carl was recently awarded a "state farmer" FFA degree. He is currently a crop science major at MSU although this summer he is spending six months in the Army Reserve. Calvin is a junior director of the Soil Conservation District and president of FFA.

Potatoes: sick or healthy?

The scientists in Michigan State University's Potato Pathology Laboratory spend considerable time investigating potato diseases that growers don't even think are a problem. And, by doing so, they save growers a lot of money.

Dr. W.J. Hooker, MSU plant pathologist in charge of the laboratory, explained that many potato disease symptoms cannot be seen with an untrained eye, yet they can seriously cut crop yields. He emphasized that trained pathologists using modern disease detection techniques and equipment are often able to diagnose diseases that growers didn't know they had in their fields.

ASC PROGRAM

Slow moving vehicle emblem safety necessity

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

There are many things that can be said to remind everyone to think and act safely during National Farm Safety week.

I thought I would take this opportunity to discuss the slow-moving vehicle emblem which must be attached to all vehicles operating on public highways at speeds of less than 23 miles per hour.

Low speeds cause more, worse, and more costly accidents than average speeds. One-third of all highway accidents studied revealed that one driver was going at least 30 miles per hour slower than the other. Very slow speeds had the greatest effect on the number of accidents. As expected in these slow speed accidents, rear end and angle collisions tended to increase as the number of vehicles per mile increased.

SINCE MOST FARM tractors and machinery rarely travel long distances on highways, the more intersections and driveways there are, the more apt are there to be slow-moving vehicles on a given road. In Michigan in 1963 there were 11 fatal accidents and 159 injury accidents out of a total of 348 accidents involving farm tractors or farm equipment vehicles.

Motorists using the freeways usually fall to reduce their speed after they have made their exits and entered country roads, and are driving too fast if they should suddenly come upon slow-moving equipment.

In order to alert motorists of these slow-moving vehicles on the highway, the 1966 Michigan Legislature passed a law which became effective March 10, 1967, that required all vehicles operating on the highway at speeds of less than 25 miles per hour be identified with a slow-moving vehicle emblem.

THIS EMBLEM IS triangular, 14 inches high and 16 inches at the base. It has a dark red reflective border with a fluorescent yellow-orange center and designed to communicate a danger signal, much the same as railroad crossing signs. It provides a warning to approaching motorists at a distance of up to 800 feet or more, and can be recognized within 500 feet at any time of the day or night.

I would like to emphasize to motorists that they should become acquainted with this emblem and when they see it realize that they are approaching some type of equipment, which could be a road grader, tractor, or some other farm equipment, that is moving at less than 25 miles per hour.

The law requires that the slow-moving vehicle emblem be used both day and night on all public roads. It must be located on the rear of all slow-moving vehicles centered where possible, and mounted at a height of three to five feet in order to keep headlights in range at night.

The use of this emblem is prohibited on stationary objects and on trucks or cars that travel over 25 miles per hour.

IN MOST INSTANCES, when drivers approach a slow-moving vehicle with this emblem on it they will more than likely see the emblem before they see the outline of the equipment on which it is mounted. The emblem is particularly effective at night, because it will show up in the reflection of motorist's headlights before any slow-moving vehicle without this emblem would be visible.

These emblems are designed and packaged with a mounting bracket that makes them readily attachable to different types of equipment. They may be purchased at nearly any implement store in the state.

The Cooperative Extension Service at Michigan State University has prepared a bulletin, Number 568, entitled "The Slow-Moving Vehicle Emblem." This may be obtained at any County Extension Office or by mailing a request for it to the Cooperative Extension Service, Agricultural Hall, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich, 48823.

I would like to urge all motorists to become familiar with the slow-moving vehicle emblem and realize that they are approaching a slow-moving vehicle when they see it. I also wish to alert all operators of slow-moving equipment that this emblem must be mounted on the equipment before it may be legally operated on public highways.

NFO Views

By ELMER SMITH
Clinton County NFO

I recently read a letter from Roy Link, New Bloomfield, Mo., that bears repeating. Here it is.

"I have tried to tell people, especially representatives of feed companies, that a thousand-pound steer would eat half a bushel of corn a day and that there was no way a steer could pay for his feed at the present price of cattle.

"Several feed companies said they could feed cattle for 17 cents per pound. I told them they were wrong, but they kept on talking, so we tried it. Here is what happened: We put 35 good 775 pound steers on feed about Nov. 1. Their cost was $24.50 per hundred pounds, which is $6,619.90. We sold these steers on Feb. 9. They averaged 1,025 pounds and brought $23.50 per hundred pounds. They brought about $8,466. The steers gained about 2.7 pounds per day, a very good gain, and ate about 26 pounds of feed per day with cost 3 cents per pound.

"Well, if we subtract $6,619.90 (their original cost) from $8,466 (the amount they brought), we have $1,756 left. The feed bill was $2,853. Thus, $2,563 (the feed bill) less $1,756 (the difference in original and sale price) leaves $807 which is the amount of cash money for 35 steers lost, not figuring interest on money nor veterinarian cost.

"WE SOLD about 60 steers in August that cost about the same and brought about the same price. In January we sold 46 head that cost the same and brought $24.50 to $25 per hundred pounds. The first two bunches were fed the same supplement. We ground and mixed our feed with theirs and of course didn't lose quite as much money but just worked like hell for nothing and lost lots of money, too.

"Now, I am not trying to hurt the feed companies at home, because we need them. But I am trying to stop this false information by feed processors who are trying in any way they possibly can to put the cattle and hog breeders out of business, so they can steal our business like they have the poultry business. I think they have started a cattle and hog processing plant just as they already have in the poultry business with their processing plants.

"Now this $897 loss on the 35 steers alone is bad enough, but if this article can prove to the people of the city and others that we farmers are losing our homes and having to move to town, maybe someday the Lord will smile on us and we can Frickes Skyliner Judy 5198174, a five-year-old, produced 23,730 pounds of milk and 755 pounds of butterfat in 349 days. Flo-Na Shawana Mildred, a nine-year-old, had 18,190 pounds of milk and 661 pounds of butterfat in 365 days. Both are owned by Floyd H. Koerner Jr., of Lansingburg.

Bliss Acres Alcartra Shawana, a seven-year-old, produced 19,230 pounds of milk and 731 pounds of butterfat in 327 days. Re Vall Insignia Bess, a five-year-old, had 15,900 pounds of milk and 612 pounds of butterfat in 327 days. Both are owned by Leon Miller of St. Johns.

THESE NEW production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,513 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of butterfat by the average U.S. dairy cow, notes the national Holstein Assn.

Michigan State University supervised the sampling, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the Holstein organization's herd and breed improvement programs.

We're starting to feel the effects

The first tangible effect of the two-time defeat of a city charter amendment is about to be felt by residents along some 20 blocks of St. Johns streets.

The city commission voted last week to chop its street paving program for this summer about in half by continuing to pay full cost of paving. Residents on some 30 or more blocks of city street told the commission last week in no certain terms they didn't want to be assessed for part of the cost.

Such a response from the citizens was proper. When ordering in and assessing for curb and gutter on those streets, the commission told the people there would be no assessment for blacktopping. The citizens remembered, and the citizens wanted that promise kept.

Now it will be, but still not everyone will be satisfied.

The suggestion to assess for the street paving was unfair, but at the same time it was logical. Between 30 and 40 blocks of graveled and curb-gutter streets were ready to be blacktopped, and the more streets that could be lumped into that project at one time the cheaper the per-foot cost would be. Property owners along those streets had likewise been promised pavement as soon as the streets were in condition for it.

But paving costs money NOW, regardless of how much money it will save in maintenance over the coming years. The defeat of the charter amendment—which would have allowed the commission to continue assessing 16 mills for general fund—meant the city won't be able to raise enough money for the general fund to do all the streets it had promised—or to do a lot of other things essential to good government.

So, the commission was caught in a pinch. If people wanted the streets paved bad enough, the commission surmised, they might be willing to pay $1 a foot assessment to get it done this year. Otherwise, they said only half, or maybe less, of the paving could get done.

And so they called a public hearing, and they got their answer.

Certainly the commission should not be blamed too much for suggesting an assessment approach. Direct assessment certainly was the only way the whole program could have been undertaken this summer. And direct assessment will undoubtedly fit into the picture more and more until city voters decide waiting isn't worth the savings of one mill—the difference between last year's total levy and this coming year's total levy.

In the meantime, the austerity budget of the city will probably have its advantages. Maybe we can have a real look at what those tax dollars did when we had them and what must be sacrificed when we don't have them. Maybe we'll all come out of this with a better perspective of city government and its problems.

Don't become too familiar behind wheel

Three new signal lights were installed at the M-78, Hagadorf and Haslett intersection near Lansing at the first of the month.

Several sets of cross roads intersect there. Prior to the installation of lights, residents called the traffic patterns at that intersection complex and confusing, particularly to someone unfamiliar with the community.

Now there seems to be a case, against becoming too familiar with that area. No less than five accidents have occurred since that set of signals was installed.

People have been injured—two of them were 1- and 3-year-old children. Certainly not all of the accidents can be attributed to the surprise of a new traffic signal, but more than one driver indicated he didn't recall the signal light.

How about you? Check yourself on how you respond to a stretch of road which may have changed since the last time you traveled it.

Sure we've heard the safe driving pitch so much we're tired of it.

Sure the newspapers are harping on it. Sure we're more than familiar with the statewide death count from traffic accidents each weekend.

And sure we know the kids get out of school every summer and people will probably repeat that overly familiar slogan-watch out for kids.

But if we're so sure, why do accidents continue? Can it be that we're too familiar and just plain over-confident about our prowess behind the wheel?

from the HOPPER

By STEVEN HOPKO

The Hula Hoop is back ... with sound effects yet. This is the toy that was brought to market about nine years ago and sent the nation reeling with wild gyrations.

IT ALSO SENT many of the older generation, who attempted to use this simple little toy, to the medicine cabinet for the liniment or to bed with sore or strained muscles. The new hoops have small particles like BB's rattling around inside, giving them a shoop-shoop sound when the backflip is in motion.

ACCORDING TO the manufacturers, the new shoop-shoop sales have been fantastic in areas where they have been trying them out. A salesman stated that, "It's a whole new generation of kids. They have never seen them before." This is probably very true. Our oldest was in the hoop class when they came around the last time, and I hardly got past those days. But this new generation the salesman mentioned ... I also have a couple of those, but I think that if and when it comes time to give them the hoops, I'll watch quietly from the sidelines.

NINE YEARS isn't very long when you are a youngster, but after you pass 25 the years are not any longer, they just treat one a little different. They may bring the hula hoop or shoop-shoop on whatever the new name might be, but I think that if and when it comes to that area, I'll just stick to golf. (A good game for all ages).

SPEAKING OF GOLF. This Saturday is the annual best-ball at the Clinton County Club. This has come to be one of the finest best-ball tournaments in the Central Michigan area. The last few years the tournament committee has had to turn down entries because of the lack of room.

THE LOCAL tourney is a 27 hole event played on the one day. This limits the number of teams that can be allowed to compete for the many prizes available.

Many of the finest amateur golfers in the central Michigan area will be on hand to compete this Saturday, with the first foursomes teeing off around 7:30 in the morning.

IF YOU LIKE to watch golf being played at its best, this is a good chance to see it and it's free.

At the last check with the tourney committee, there will be 40 teams competing this Saturday. A full day of golf for the players and spectators alike.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Sometimes a little girl can be a big headache, but so often she becomes a lump in your throat—a big lump of pride that burns away every headache she ever caused. Your daughters are probably like that too, but let's take mine for instance.

Ever since we bought her a two-wheel bicycle in the spring of 1966 we have looked forward with only slight apprehension to the day when she could ride it all by herself without the training wheels. We quickly found out she was too young for that last year, and by this past spring she had worn out a set of training wheels.

Kathy was willing to try it without the extra wheels this spring, but she was leery of all the tipping going on as dad ran sideways beside her, and the few nights of training I tried to give didn't catch hold. We reluctantly bought another set of training wheels.

THEY WERE on only a couple of weeks—and constantly sliding out of kilter—when the influence of her own generation took over. Susie Shinnbery, who lives next door to us, began to give lessons to Todd Baribeau, who is the same age as Kathy and who lives the other side of Shinnberys'.

Susie told Kathy she would teach her, too, so Kathy insisted the training wheels come off again. They will never be back on.

Kathy rode and Susie walked and ran beside her, hanging on to the bicycle for all but a few seconds at a time. She had maybe three "lessons" before the Shinnberys went on vacation and Kathy sought me out as a substitute teacher.

Remembering the tiring runs up and down the block earlier in the spring, I was somewhat reluctant, but I didn't want to break her spirit.

The first night of running didn't last too long, but I was aware of a much better sense of balance in my daughter. "But I like Sue better. She's a better teacher," Kathy told me. I had to agree.

LAST WEDNESDAY night, for the benefit of her grandpa and two grandmas who were visiting, Kathy wanted another lesson. The work of running up and down holding onto the bike turned into fun for dad even as Kathy began pedaling for longer and longer distances without being held up.

On the third trip up the block, she went about a third of the way on her own, laughing nervously as I ran beside her. "Oh, no, I think I'm learning to ride!" she said, as if something had gone wrong.

Succeeding trips up and down the block (between rest stops for dad's sake) resulted in better performances by my 6-year-old. Finally we decided to try corners. She wobbled around the sidewalk corner at Traver and Baldwin as I had to grab hold and then went all the way to Kibbee without help. Mr and Mrs Clarence Damon watched us go by and called "Look's like somebody's getting his exercise." I waved acknowledgement but was too breathless to reply.

BACK AT Traver and Baldwin again, Kathy had her first accident, swerving into a tree before I had a chance to catch her. She struck her knee on the basket and tumbled onto the grass. There were tears, but she was soon back on the bike to show Todd how well she could ride. Around the other side of the block she ran into another bicycle parked on the edge of the walk. There was no damage to daughter or vehicles. Coming back she made it around the other bike OK.

Dad had about had it at that point, so I told her to stop at our driveway and take a bow to the grandparents. When she got off the bike, I took it from her and put the kickstand down. When I turned around she had her eyes closed and hands clasped in front of her face. I asked her what she was doing.

"I'm talking to God," she replied. A lump formed in my throat. "What are you telling him?" I inquired.

"I said 'Dear God, thank you for making me ride my bicycle all by myself.'"

I said "Amen" to that and added a P.S. to keep an extra eye on her now. She's got a few finishing touches to learn, such as starting and stopping by herself and turning corners, but essentially she's riding a bicycle. It won't be long before the sidewalks will be too tame and she'll be riding in the streets where she'll need the watchful eye of that somebody up there and a lot of drivers down here to keep her safe from harm.

But dad is going to be happy watching her training wheels rust in that corner of the garage.

But during the same period the costs of the federal government have soared 5,000 per cent, and the federal debt has climbed from $15 billion to $330 billion today — an indebtedness of $6,000 on each and every family in the nation. The cancer-like growth continues . . . The federal government employed, as of Dec. 1, 1966, a total of $2,964,687 people. That runs to about $20 billion a year in salaries alone. Property tax payments up 8.7%

Local property taxes for Michigan in 1967 have amounted to $1,129 million, an increase of $90.6 million or 8.72 per cent, over 1966. Michigan's local property taxes have increased 82 per cent in the last 10 years.

In addition to local property taxes, several cities levy a local income tax. In 1966 collections of local income taxes amounted to $68.1 million. As of July 1, 1967, eight Michigan cities—Battle Creek, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Flint, Lapeer and Saginaw—will levy income taxes. (Since 1965 some 11 other communities have defeated local income tax proposals at the polls.)

In the table below are listed, by type of governmental units, a breakdown of 1967 local property taxes. School taxes, which comprised 56.34 per cent of the total, show an increase of 11.4 per cent over last year.

Conducting public business in private not American way

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

A new rash of efforts to conduct public business in private seems to be developing. It is especially apparent among school boards.

The law states that school boards, and most other public bodies, must hold their meetings in public but does allow for executive sessions. It stipulates that no formal action can be taken except at a public meeting.

Numerous "advantages" are listed for holding closed meetings. These include efficiency, expediency, the need to deal with personnel problems, and property purchases. Another "advantage" not heard so often but none the less pertinent is that board members need not worry about looking foolish in their deliberations in the absence of an audience.

IT MIGHT BE MORE efficient and more expedient for a board to meet in private. But American government is built upon the basis that the individual has a responsibility in making logical government decisions at the polls. He has a right to know how his elected representatives deal with public problems.

Newspapers lead the fight to keep meetings open and always win when people in the community back them. Without solid, local support officials are inclined to do as they please. It is the old story of people getting the kind of government they demand.

Some boards make too frequent use of the executive session as a means of conducting public business in private. There are records of boards which meet in private to decide what will be "decided" later in formal session. This has the effect of creating a very dull, cut-and-dried meeting.

ANOTHER WAY TO avoid the spirit of public meetings is for the board to call a special meeting. State law does not require much in the way of public notice. So a special meeting can be called following a regular meeting or at any time board members want to act officially without being subjected to the public eye.

Irresponsible or unconcerned citizens can expect that their governmental units will move towards more secrecy and more private decisions. After all, it is easier, quicker and more efficient. But it leads to poorer and poorer government with the rights of more and more people endangered. It means government by the few for the many who don't care enough about their collective business to be concerned until it is too late.

VAST AMOUNTS OF information are available to citizens of Michigan from state agencies. Six times a year the Michigan State Library in Lansing publishes a list of "Michigan Documents," a compilation of latest Michigan governmental publications.

Some are classified "for official use" and are not available, however, can be obtained by residents writing to either the State Library or the issuing office. Topics vary from specialized concern, such as "Potato Field Crop Report," to such general information as, "Welcome to Michigan's capital as a guest of your legislator."

Homeowners may be interested in such publications as plant pest control; suggested reading for children; recreation in various regions of the state; directories of private trade schools, business schools, institutes, nursing homes or homes for the aged; the outlook for deer season; Michigan guide to summer theatres.

Scholars might need information on Michigan's birth rate; attorney general opinions; Michigan Medal of Honor winners in the Civil War; the motor vehicle of the future; or county statistics.

Those involved in local school problems can obtain data on special education general school laws, higher education assistance, educational films, accounting instructions for intermediate school district.

Farm bulletins are numerous. Topics include agricultural prices on different commodities; general farm statistics, field crop reporting, livestock and cattle feed, chick hatchery, fruit trees.

Other publications include departmental year-end reports, general bulletins and directories of statistical research data.

Senators M. R. Young (N. Dak.) and The Arizona Republic, a Sunday magazine contained an article on the federal budget . . . written by Ben Cole . . . I ask consent that the article be printed in the Record. (The condensed article follows):

The first words Carl Hayden spoke when he went to Washington as a member of the House of Representatives were in support of an amendment to increase as appropriation for fire-fighting in national forests.

"When I finished my five minutes, I sat down beside Bob Talbot, who was one of the two surviving Confederate veterans."

"UNCLE BOB said, 'You just had to talk. That reporter took down every word you said and you can never get it out of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, so be careful about what you have to say.'"

Hayden took the old-timer's advice and became one of the least heard members of Congress.

But when the veteran Arizona senator does say something it is with authority: For example, when he speaks to those who consistently voice concern over increased federal spending and who appeal to him as chairman of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee.

Sen. Hayden is undismayed by the 'growth of the federal budget. There are more people he says, and people demand services and create problems. They cost money.

Contrary to popular belief, Sen. Hayden and his House counterpart, Rep. George Mahon, D. Tex., cannot wave their great powers as chairman and make the federal establishment vanish. Neither can they pare the federal budget to a nubbin and bring back the drowsy days of the 1920's.

8-tax collections set new record

Preliminary collection figures for the 12 months of fiscal 1967 indicate that eight different taxes of the Michigan Department of Revenue will probably break all collection records for those taxes to date.

Leading the parade is the state's 4 per cent retail sales tax. When final tabulations are completed the sales tax collections should show taxable retail sales of $15.3 billion, which accounts for about 58 per cent of Michigan's personal income.

The department's total collections passed the $1 billion level on Thursday, May 4, as compared to Tuesday, May 17 in 1966 and Tuesday, June 22 in 1965. With the exception of the chain store tax, collections for all taxes in the following list are the highest they have been since the taxes were originally enacted.

Public utility property taxes, highest in 62 years; motor fuel taxes, highest in 42 years; sales tax, highest in 34 years; use tax, highest in 30 years; chain store fees, highest in 29 years; intangibles tax, highest in 28 years; cigarette tax, highest in 20 years; business activities tax, highest in 14 years.

The "Low Down"
From the Congressional Record
By Joe Crump

Federal budgets getting smaller reasons why Congress is called on for increasing funds. For example between 1958 and 1966:

"The number of active urban renewal projects will have risen by over 250 per cent.

"The volume of mail delivered will have risen by nearly 40 per cent.

"The number of federal grants and loans to college students will increase more than four-fold to 2.2 million.

"THEN THERE ARE programs that did not exist 10 years ago. For instance, in 1966: Medicare will cover more than 40 per cent of the medical costs incurred by 20 million older citizens.

"The education of 8.5 million disadvantaged school children will be strengthened.

"The number of medical schools improved or constructed with federal support will total 71."

Anybody, Senator Hayden notes, can go down the list and pick out programs or items he can throw out. The trouble is that every program has its supporters, and budget-making is never merely an accounting exercise for the U. S. Senate. It is a political undertaking, and it requires getting compromises every step of the way.

A grassroots Comment

The federal budget gets smaller, depending on the bookkeeping method.

The interest on the national debt gets larger, and it makes no difference which bookkeeping method is used.—J. C.

THE WAR crest year of fiscal 1945 appropriations reached $98 billion—47.1 per cent of the gross national product of $216.8 billion.

This year the national debt is $327.3 billion, representing 42.9 per cent of the current gross national product of $762.5 billion.

According to this method of figuring, the public debt expressed as a percentage of the gross national product is decreasing, the same way the federal budget is decreasing in relation to the gross national product.

The Bureau of the Budget, in its booklet called "The Budget in Brief" lists some of the

Humor is soothing, psychologists say

Music may have charms to soothe the savage beast, but humor does it better, two University of Rochester psychologists report. In a study of 50 undergraduate men they found that anger and anxiety are significantly lessened by exposure to any kind of humor.

Paradoxically, they found, humor's soothing effects are greatest when the jokes are hostile, sarcastic and insulting—and that angered people tend to appreciate hostile jokes more than non-angered people do.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

A rose is a rose is a pasture rose

HAYDN PEARSON

The simple loveliness of the pasture rose, offers its beauty on thinsoiled pasture hillsides. The soft pink of the fragile petals forms patches of color along pasture lanes and on the banks of country roads. It is a humble trilling plant that has been called the "Martha" of the family; but it is the parent of all the beautiful roses that adorn gardens and parks.

Sometimes it seems that the loveliest colors in nature are wrung from adverse conditions. In light soil with little humus and in the acid soil of lowlands, some of earth's most appealing blossoms develop their beauty.

The wild pasture rose is a good example. Among rocks and boulders where grass is thin, the pasture rose thrives and spreads its loveliness.

The rose family has over 1200 species grouped in some 75 genera. It includes strawberries, hardhack, spirea, raspberries, blackberries and the cinquefoils. Until recently experts included apples, cherries, pears and plums in the family. It is good to know these facts, but to most persons, a rose means a flower that is the epitome of beauty.

The wild pasture rose does not pretend to compete with the large blossoms in the garden. It opens its five-petal blossom in the morning and closes the petals at night to prevent moisture sticking to its anthers and pistils. Recurved sharp prickles discourage cattle and mice from eating the foliage and seed hips. The pasture rose is a humble plant, but its colorful blossoms are an appealing addition to the flowers that give us a flowering world.

notes from the bookshelf

By HILA BROSS Librarian Bement Public Library

Something is missing around Bement Public Library these days. It's the presence of Mrs. Laurita Allison, whose service as assistant librarian ended last Saturday after 17 years.

Mrs. Allison brought to the library the kind of knowledge that only an inveterate reader can have. She had read a large percentage of the books in the library, and could tell you in an instant if a certain mystery story was worth taking home or not, or if a certain book covered the period of history you were writing a paper about.

She will be greatly missed by both staff and clientele of Bement Public Library.

Mrs. Cleo Desprez, who has worked in the library intermittently for six years, has been appointed by the board to replace Mrs. Allison. Mrs. Desprez brings to the library her own particular talents, which include a special knack for organization and an urge to "get the job done."

IN A RECENT SHIPMENT of books from the Central Michigan Library System, of which Bement Library is a member, there are seven books about various aspects of science.

THE PSYCHOANALYTIC REVOLUTION by Marthe Robert is the story of the life and achievement of Sigmund Freud. Miss Robert has drawn on Freud's own autobiographical writings as well as the material written by his contemporaries and references to him which have appeared in scientific publications over the years. The result is a comprehensive and extremely readable book.

THE MYSTERY OF TIME by Harry Edward Neal is the story of time from the first calendar made by the Egyptians over 6,000 years ago to the moon clock invented for use in the space age. The chapter entitled "Untangling Time" deals directly with the matter of establishing standard Time Zones in the United States, and it is most interesting.

This book is especially timely in view of the time Michigan has had lately regarding the change in time from Eastern Standard Time to Eastern Daylight Saving Time. (Just couldn't resist that sentence.)

AMONG THE RECENT acquisitions are four new books on space. Included are: TIROS, WEATHER EYE IN SPACE by John Jakes; UNMANNED SPACE FLIGHT BY John E. Naugle; BIO-MEDICAL ASPECTS OF SPACE FLIGHT by James P. Henry; and GUIDANCE AND CONTROL OF SPACECRAFT by Edward Hymoff.

In case any adult reader is feeling a little "lost in space" or at a definite disadvantage in conversing with a youngster, may we recommend PARENTS' GUIDE TO SCIENCE by Edward Edelson. The book purports to cover "Atoms, molecules, earth, life and space," as well as "the basic principles of math and science." It is a "Handbook to a revolution in education," and includes "a complete glossary and reading list, plus appendices on the elements, metric weights and measures, and geological eras."

Whew! And that's only the front of the book jacket!

Why don't you just come into the nice cool library and read an old fashioned, unrealistic mystery?

DeWitt solons to revise city laws

DeWitt—This city's laws will be scrutinized for revision and updating because of action taken by the city council at a meeting Monday night, July 17.

With the approval of the councilman, Mayor Eldon Smith will appoint a steering committee to supervise the project. Additional help will be sought from the Michigan Municipal League.

DeWitt Township Supervisor Reginald Nelson requested that the council grant permission to install a 24 - inch sewer line across the city to the river above the city park.

A petition bearing 140 names and requesting that tavern hours be extended to include the hours of from Sunday noon to 2 a.m. Monday was presented to the council by Don and Lisa Kern, owners of the Dewitt Bar.

No action was taken, but the council will seek legal aid on the matter contained in petition.

The council ordered a study be done by the city cemetery board on the needs of cemetery expansion.

Blame it on man

Man is responsible for nearly all the changes occurring in the Great Lakes, says a University of Wisconsin zoologist. He reports that the most important changes in the lakes are those taking place in the bottom sediments because of the addition of tremendous amounts of materials from outside the lakes, such as sewage and silt. Such materials greatly increase the nutrient content of lakes and, in turn, speed up the natural aging process of them.

Recent visitors at the home of Mrs Edna Nowlin were Mr and Mrs Henry Austin of Burkle, Calif., Mr and Mrs Perry Bartenfelder of Pom Pono Beach, Fla. and Mrs Thessa Sweet of Perrysburg, Ohio.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the family of Mrs Carl (Rita) Cox, who passed away Saturday. Funeral services are to be held at the Carter Funeral Home in Elsie Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Sunday visitors of the Robert Valentines were Mrs Irene Crowell and Dalo of Shepardsville, Mr and Mrs E. Russell Pope and family of St. Johns and Mrs William Rando and family of Ithaca.
