

3 township contests highlight primary election

Local interests are expected to stir up a comparatively good turnout for next Tuesday's primary election in Clinton County, although political observers don't see any massive rush to the polls in store.

Three intra-party contests for supervisor and several other offices on the township level will highlight the election in the county and should draw better than average turnouts in DeWitt, Olive and Greenbush Townships, where the contests will take place.

The Williams-Cavanagh struggle for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator is expected to pull Democrats to the polls in good numbers in the southern part of the county where the party is the strongest. The Democrats' only local-level state of officers is up for nomination in DeWitt Township.

POLLS WILL BE open from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. at all Clinton County polling places next Tuesday. Complete election returns will be available in next week's Clinton County News.

New channel for the Maple at Elsie

The Maple River is in a new channel at Elsie, and the new Island Road bridge over the river is practically finished. Work on the approaches will consume most of the remaining construction time leading up to opening of the bridge hopefully by Sept. 1. The new channel now skirts the pond area which shows up now as a marshy area behind the dam.

Youngsters sought as blood donors

Newcomers to St. Johns and young women between the ages of 18 and 21 are being urged to consider donating a pint of blood at the next Bloodmobile visit to St. Johns Aug. 18.

The Bloodmobile will be held from noon to 6 p. m. in the basement of the Congregational Church. Women of the church will have charge of the canteen.

Mrs. Ken Spicer, St. Johns Bloodmobile chairman, said the young people are being asked to give blood now on the summer visit of the Bloodmobile, because many are away at college during the winter visit. This is a good healthy age, she said, when they should be able to give a pint of blood with little trouble.

NEWCOMERS TO THE community are urged to stop in at the Bloodmobile Aug. 18 and see the operation in a blood-bank county. Clinton County is a member county of the Red Cross Bloodbank, whereby all residents may obtain blood free when it's needed anywhere in the United States. Continued good turnouts of donors at Bloodmobile visits like the one next month keep the county in the Bloodbank program.

Youngsters aged 18 to 21 will not need a consent form if they are married, but unmarrieds will have to have a consent form filled out and signed by their parents before they will be allowed to give blood. The necessary blanks have been made available at Boron's in downtown St. Johns and may be picked up and returned there before Aug. 18 or brought with the person when he or she comes to donate blood.

WHILE THERE IS a special drive for the younger donors and newcomers to the community, other recruiting efforts will also get under way in the next few weeks. The American Legion, Federal-Mogul and Sealed Power will conduct their own recruiting of blood donors.

New Catholic priest starts here Aug. 10

Father William Hankerd, pastor of St. Mary's church in Williamston for the past nine years will become pastor of St. Joseph's parish in St. Johns, effective August 10.

Fr. Hankerd will succeed Bishop M. Joseph Green who is going to St. Mary's, Star of the Sea, parish in Jackson.

FR HANKERD was born near Pleasant Lake in 1920. He entered Jackson Junior College on a pre-dentistry curriculum, but later decided that it was better to save souls than teeth.

Having made this decision, Fr. Hankerd entered Sacred Heart seminary in Detroit, paying his way with summer resort jobs.

AFTER RECEIVING his B.A. in philosophy, he entered Mt. St. Mary of the West, Cincinnati, for 4 years of graduate work. He was ordained in April, 1949.

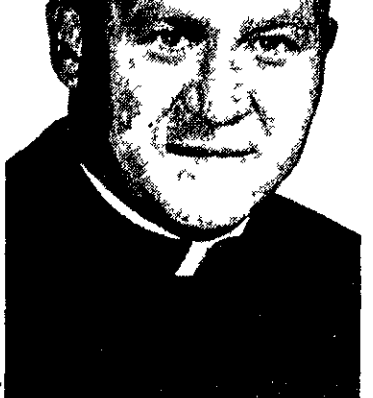

Fr. Hankerd's first assignment was at St. Mary's Cathedral in Lansing where he taught for four years, and in his position as athletic director, had one state championship team. From Lansing, Fr. Hankerd moved to St. Mary's in Jackson, also as a teacher. From St. Mary's in Jackson he went to St. Mary's in Williamston.

will call previous donors and ask for a pledge of a new pint of blood. The callers will be Nancy Puetz, Thelma Acton, Joanne Hopko and Sharon Stone. They'll work at the General Telephone Co. office, which has been offered for that purpose by District Manager Bill Graef.

Because of the low supply of O-negative blood, Mrs. Spicer is putting out a special call for all persons with that type to donate at the St. Johns bloodmobile.

FATHER HANKERD

Hankerd says, he likes golf, hunting and fishing. In his nine years at Williamston, Fr. Hankerd's parish grew from 120 families to 350 families.

During this time Fr. Hankerd was also vocational director of the fifteen county Lansing Diocese. Over 360 boys have entered the seminary during his nine years and this past year Fr. Hankerd had the pleasure of seeing five young men ordained that he had worked with prior to their entering the seminary.

Woman runs for commission

If elected in November, Mrs. Robert C. Rand will become St. John's first woman city commissioner, according to the memories of numerous long-time residents.

At least, she is the first woman to seek the office since 1958. Mrs. Rand's petitions of candidacy were placed in the city clerk's hands Monday afternoon.

Eight years ago, another local housewife, Mrs. Harry (Millie) Scranton, received 196 votes but lost to Jack Smit's 584 and Maurice Horski's 404.

Mrs. Dale Finch, past city clerk, and Gerald R. Danley and O. B. Moore of South Oakland Street—all long timers in the city—said they had never heard or known of a woman being elected to the commission.

MRS RAND, who lives at 303 South Oakland, has held no previous elective or appointive office in the city.

She is now executive secretary of the Michigan chapter in this area of the American Red Cross and has been secretary of the Swegles Street PTA.

In announcing her candidacy, the fourth person to do so within the past week, she said:

"I'm interested in the people and have enjoyed contact with the people as Red Cross secretary; helping people has brought me a great deal of personal satisfaction and a commission seat would give me a perfect opportunity to help more of the people.

"No one comes for help without a valid reason, and everyone is entitled to simple courtesy and understanding.

"Although I feel all requests cannot be determined in the affirmative, there is certainly a diplomatic way of handling every issue."

VALID PETITIONS have been returned to the city clerk for Mrs. Rand; John A. Furry of 103 South Whittemore, a school teacher who lost a sticker campaign in 1962; and Douglas S. Carpenter of 502 South Kibbee, an executive at Federal-Mogul Corp.

Kentfield's first campaign statement, last week, included a statement similar to Mrs. Rand's: "I hope we can create a much better feeling between government officials and the public."

Deadline for submission of petitions is 5 p. m. Aug. 2. Two commissioners will be elected Nov. 8.

Candidates for the six-year terms must be qualified voters residing in the city. Petitions require at least 50 and not more than 75 signatures of qualified registered voters. They must be returned to the office of the city clerk.

Clinton National Bank now offering Michigan Bankard charge plan

Clinton National Bank & Trust Co is now participating in the Michigan Bankard charge plan, according to an announcement this week from John A. Rumbaugh, executive vice president and cashier.

Participation in the Michigan Bankard program means that Clinton National will enroll merchant members and accept applications for charge cards from individuals throughout the bank's service area, Rumbaugh said.

MORE THAN 300,000 Michigan residents are cardholders and some 8,000 establishments are already members of the charge plan, according to Rumbaugh.

Although some business places in Clinton National's service area are already members of the charge plan, it is anticipated that merchant participation in St. Johns, Elsie, Fowler and Valley Farms will increase in the next few months, he said.

PERSONS applying for Michigan Bankard credit privileges will receive a Merchant Directory in addition to their charge cards. Listings cover the full range of consumer needs.

Cardholders pay no membership fees or dues and there is no service charge when the bill is paid within 25 days of the statement date. If the cardholder prefers, he can budget his payments by paying as little as 10 per cent each month, plus a service charge on the unpaid balance.

CARDHOLDERS do not have to have an account in any of the more than 40 Michigan banks participating in the plan, and the cards are honored all over the state.

For the merchant, the Michigan Bankard plan offers several benefits, Rumbaugh explained. By receiving immediate cash credit for every Michigan Bankard sale, the merchant has access to working capital that would otherwise be tied up in accounts receivable.

RECORD KEEPING, credit checking, charge card issuance, billing and collecting are all handled by the Michigan Bankard Center, relieving the merchant of these burdens and protecting him against credit risks.

"Our charge plan will cost the merchant less than if he set up his own credit operation and less than any comparable type of national card system," Rumbaugh said.

City passes livestock law

An ordinance controlling the keeping of livestock within the City of St. Johns was approved last week by the city commission.

With an effective date of Aug. 8, the new law was brought about by some complaints received by the police department within the past couple of months, said City Manager Ken Greer.

The ordinance reads, "No cattle or swine shall be kept in any dwelling or part thereof or on the same lot or premises with a dwelling, or within 500 feet of a dwelling within any part of the city."

Excepted are public zoos, livestock auction barns established before the ordinance, and areas specifically zoned as agricultural.

Violations carry a fine of not more than $100 and/or a 90-day jail term.

The ordinance states, "Violations . . . are declared to be public nuisances and to constitute a threat to the public health."

Young driver cut as car hits tree

David L. Diehl, 16, of R-3, St. Johns, was treated at Clinton Memorial Hospital for arm and head cuts after a truck he was driving swerved into a tree on DeWitt Road south of Marshall Road Monday about 1:55 p.m. He said the truck first went left and then right, leaving the road, going into a ditch and hitting the tree.

New welcome sign OK'd south of town

That "welcome" sign on south US-27 is going to be rebuilt, with the cooperation of the city and the Chamber of Commerce. An advertising company will accept full responsibility on a three-year contract for $810 a year.

The city commission last week approved a 50-per-cent share of the cost, with the Chamber paying the other half. Motion was by Commissioner Ray Kentfield, supported by Charles Coletta.

Rental of the site at $100 a year is currently two years in arrears; the commission said it would recognize a claim for $100 of this.

WHEN THE question came up last spring, the city decided not to repaint or repair the dilapidated sign because of the high expense involved, City Manager Ken Greer said.

Two weeks ago, the Clinton County News ran an editorial which said in part: "We checked (the sign) the other day with a local businessman and found that a couple of nails and a coat of paint would do wonders."

The Chamber also felt the sign should be repaired and took bids on the job. They totaled more than $1,200, as reported at last week's commission meeting by Chamber Vice President James R. McKenzie.

This was a little steep for either the city or the Chamber, so McKenzie suggested the $810-per-year contract with the advertising company, and the two bodies split the tab.

A SAMPLE piece of the sign was brought to the meeting, Greer said. "I wanted the local governing body to see we couldn't just drive a few nails in to fix it."

Alluding to the News editorial, he added, "$1,200 is a lot of nails and paint. And you can quote me!"

North Shade EUB marks 60th year

The North Shade Church of the United Brethren in Christ will observe its 60th anniversary this Sunday, July 31.

After the morning worship service at 11:15 an "anniversary dinner" will be held in the Johnson schoolhouse one mile south of the church at 12:45 p.m. This will be potluck; friends are asked to bring their table service and a dish to pass.

At 2:15 a special anniversary service will be held in the church. Featured will be special music, the history of the church, and the guest speaker, the Rev. J. H. Roland, a former pastor. All friends of the church are invited to attend these services.

New tavern-minor ordinance under study

The St. Johns City Commission may pass an ordinance at next week's meeting withdrawing the prohibition against minors ever being in a tavern.

The proposed ordinance amendment would stipulate that those under 21 would be allowed in a tavern if with adults and for the sole purpose of using the dining facilities there, said City Manager Ken Greer.

The proposal has been referred to the city attorney for study. St. Johns now has four taverns.

Pedestrian 6th traffic victim

A Lansing pedestrian, Emerson Chingman, 40, of 4920 Stafford Street, Lansing, was killed last Thursday afternoon while crossing US-27 south of Clark Road in DeWitt Township.

He was the sixth person to be killed in traffic accidents in the county in 1966.

Mr Chingman was struck by a car driven by Edward T. P. Young, 34, of 210 N. Bridge Street, DeWitt. Young told state police officers he did not see the victim. Mr Chingman was dead on arrival at Sparrow Hospital in Lansing.

TROOPERS SAID he had been visiting a friend at the Capitol Trailer Park north of Clark Road intersection. About 9 p.m. he crossed US-27 south of the intersection toward a store, and that's when the accident occurred.

Young was not charged with any violations. There were no witnesses to the accident, state police said.

Sealed Power sales hit new high

Paul C. Johnson, president, announced sales by Sealed Power in both the second quarter and six months of 1966 rose to an all-time high for these periods. Earnings, however, continued the trend established during the first quarter of the year and declined from the corresponding periods in 1965.

With second-quarter sales volume totaling $12,162,000, up 3 per cent over the same period last year, net sales for the six months reached $23,918,000, increasing by 7 per cent over sales of $22,312,000 in the first half of 1965. Contributing to these sales gains were heavier shipments to the automotive vehicle producers and initial shipments of our newly added line of engine bearings to the replacement market.

NET EARNINGS for the first half of the current year amounted to $1,695,000, a decline of 12 per cent from last year's record total of $1,932,000. Such earnings were equivalent to $1.20 per share on 1,417,113 shares outstanding on June 30, 1966, and $1.37 per share on 1,415,080 shares outstanding a year earlier, adjusted for the 10 per cent stock dividend declared in 1965.

Johnson stated earnings this year have been adversely affected by an unsatisfactory pricing structure on a new type molybdenum-filled piston ring, which has been adopted by automotive producers at an accelerated rate during the past two years. While this new ring provides improved wear characteristics in certain engines, it is a more expensive ring to produce than the chrome-plated ring it replaces. Until now, however, prices of the molybdenum ring have not reflected this cost differential.

To correct this unfavorable economic condition, Sealed Power has announced price increases ranging from 2 per cent to 17 per cent on molybdenum rings effective Sept. 1. While this action has been taken reluctantly, it is deemed necessary in light of manufacturing experiences during the past two years.

"We are viewing the period ahead with confidence," said Johnson. "Although business activity of the automotive industry in recent months has dipped below the record levels of the previous year, the current demand for vehicles is still relatively strong as the 1966 model year comes to a close. With the introduction of 1967 model vehicles during the third quarter and assuming a continuing favorable economic climate, we expect good business activity by Sealed Power for the balance of 1966."

During their July 19 meeting, the board of directors declared the regular $.25 per share quarterly dividend to be paid Sept. 12 to shareholders of record on Aug. 22.

The present Michigan Legislature is the highest paid in the nation ($10,000 salary, $2,500 expenses). Then they voted themselves a 25 per cent increase in salary. They were going to make it 50 per cent until Governor Romney threatened to veto it. This legislature has been the wildest spending body in the history of Michigan. They have also passed more laws infringing on the rights of the individual than ever before. The present Representative of the 88th District says he has been opposed to many of these laws.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD

Lloyds Inc. of East Lansing has compiled the voting record for the 1965 session. There were 1097 roll call votes in the House of Representatives. These roll calls are the official votes on proposed new laws and are recorded in the House Journals. The incumbent has a distinguished record for absenteeism—having missed 456 (41.6 per cent) roll calls in this one session. How could he register opposition to bad legislation when absent?

Awarded "Golden Rule" membership

The Osgood Funeral Home, 104 East Cass Street, St. Johns, has been accorded membership in the Order of the Golden Rule for the eighth consecutive year. The Order is the largest controlled-membership organization of funeral directors in the world.

Reaffiliation with the Order was granted Osgood Funeral Home after thorough investigation and re-evaluation of its services, facilities, policies and prices.

Ovid forms planning commission

OVID—A new ordinance has been passed by the Ovid Village Council creating a village planning commission.

The commission will consist of nine members appointed by Harvey Darling, village president, with the approval of the council. Members will hold no other municipal office, except one member may be on the zoning board of appeals and one member on the council.

COMMISSION members will be elected annually during April. Members will receive no compensation.

The commission will meet once each month, and five members will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

A secretary may be hired who is not a member of the commission, and an annual report will be made to the president and the council before or on March 15.

The commission will be responsible for an economic master plan for the development of the village and will make recommendations for the planning and development of the surrounding area.

The plan includes the consideration of the sewage disposal system, water, education, transportation, recreation and all public requirements.

Each displays a symbol of a knight in armor, holding a shield which carries the motto: "Service measured not by gold . . . but by the Golden Rule."

AND EACH adheres to this motto by offering complete service to all families, including those who are without the funds to pay for it.

2 cars collide at rural corner

Two cars collided at Parks and County Farm roads in Bingham Township Monday afternoon, resulting in cuts and bruises for one of the drivers.

She was Eulah Marie Falor, 37, of County Farm Road. Two passengers were unhurt. The driver of the other auto, Robert W. Lange, 45, of Parks Road, R-4, St. Johns, and a passenger in his car were unhurt.

Lange said he was crossing the intersection headed west on Parks and when he saw the other car he turned to avoid the crash but was too late. The Falor car was driving north on County Farm Road. The accident occurred about 12:45 p.m. Monday.

Nearness of urban renewal decision brings out caution flag

St. Johns businessmen have been advised to hold off any remodeling until the fall, when the city's federally-financed rehabilitation study is completed.

"There's just that unknown element which might be brought out by these studies and later affect any decision to remodel," City Manager Ken Greer said.

A relocation study is nearly done now, with the planners' analysis to be turned into HUD by September. Other steps include: engineering, which must wait for the site design; reuse plan, which must wait for the site design; financing, which must wait for engineering costs; and legal and miscellaneous steps, which will be required only if the commission makes a final decision to proceed with urban renewal.

TARGET DATE for completion of the study, for which the city has received about $76,500 in federal monies, is Nov. 1. Then the city commission must decide whether to approve the study and make application for a rehabilitation grant.

Rehabilitation is slated for the business blocks along Clinton Avenue and State. The studies will hopefully lead to a project which will attempt to "maintain and conserve" the business area, Greer said.

THIS "rehabilitation" project is only a small portion of a total proposed renewal project consisting of six downtown blocks, bounded by State, Brush, Spring and Railroad Streets.

Noting numerous phases of the total project, Greer said, "Finally we've reached the state where we have fitted all the outside pieces of the puzzle together; now we've got to fit in the interior."

Many of the studies will be completed in September. A structural analysis is already done, with a review on it to be done by the Housing and Urban Development Authority by September.

1,617 women took Pap tests

Some 1,617 Clinton County women took the Pap cancer detection tests last spring, according to a final report released this week by County Nurse Mrs Luella Cantfield.

The number included women of all ages, both married and single, and they came from all parts of the county. The tests were given during February, March, April and May.

The Michigan Department of Public Health provided $4,500 to take care of the laboratory expenses of the tests for 1,500 of the women. The Clinton County Cancer Society provided $351 to meet the lab expenses of the other 117 women.

The tests were given by individual doctors, with the women taking the tests paying for the office calls. The Pap test program in the county was conducted under the auspices of the Clinton County Medical Society, the county health department, the Cancer Society and the Department of Public Health.

Water is safe, users assured

The city's water supply is "safe, potable and not harmful for human consumption," St. Johns residents will be assured in a letter going out next week with water billings, said City Manager Ken Greer.

The letter was drawn up for the 1,800 customers after some had been heard to question the "overabundance of rust, iron bacteria and a peculiar odor of sulphur," Greer said.

Though admitting these are objectionable, the city's letter states they do not make the water harmful for human consumption. "They will eliminate themselves in time, with the construction of the new plant," the letter adds.

Greer said this problem is a "50-year accumulation, which started when the first well was put in the city."

THE WATER PLANT, he said, is completed with the exception of painting and minor electrical work. The city is also waiting for a transformer sent out to be rebuilt after it was struck by lightning a few months ago.

The plant was scheduled for completion last Feb. 26. With numerous work delays since then, Greer would not attempt to estimate when the plant would finally go into operation.

General Telephone microwave relay system extended

General Telephone's $2 million high-speed switching center and microwave relay site at Roscommon, equipped to handle both military and civilian communications needs, was "cut into service" today according to an announcement by T. Austin Saunders, president of the company.

Following several months of testing the highly sophisticated switching equipment, data and voice circuits were turned over to the Defense Communications Agency (DCA) to be included in their Automatic Voice Network (AUTOVON), a world-wide communications system.

Truck-car crash injures drivers

Two persons were hurt last Wednesday evening in a car-truck collision on US-27 north of Centerline Road.

According to the sheriff's department report, a car driven by Wayne J. Larson, 30, of R-5, St. Johns, hit the rear of a truck operated by Max F. Ballinger, 43, of R-4, St. Johns. Larson suffered cuts and bruises, and Ballinger complained of pains as a result of the crash.

Both vehicles were traveling north on US-27. Ballinger had entered the highway from East Centerline Road and was about 800 feet north of the intersection when the accident occurred. Larson was ticketed for careless driving and having a mutilated drivers' license.

(AUTOVON), a world-wide communications system.

EQUIPPED TO carry both national defense and regular customer messages, the switching center and microwave network have undergone several months of intensive testing since the completion of construction in December, 1965.

The new 180-mile microwave radio system extends from Roscommon south to Parma and provides one of several AUTOVON links planned for Michigan with routes bypassing large metropolitan and industrial centers. Tower relay points along the network include the General Telephone exchanges of Houghton Lake, Mt. Pleasant, Alma, and St. Johns.

THE ROSCOMMON site will provide geographically separated routes for trunks to additional AUTOVON switching centers in Michigan and other states and an alternate long distance route out of Alpena via an existing microwave link through Lewiston to Gaylord.

In a microwave system, hundreds of telephone conversations can be transmitted simultaneously by super-high frequency radio signals which are focused like a beam of light and transmitted from point to point over line-of-sight distances. The radio signals can be received and transmitted from one microwave relay tower to another.

5 youths hurt in 1-car crash

Five youths were treated at Owosso Memorial Hospital following a one-car crash on Maple River Road in Duplain Township last Wednesday evening. Kenneth G. Baese, 18, of 229 W. Maple, Elsie, driver of the car, told sheriff's deputies loose gravel on a curve threw his car into a ditch where it hit a tree about three quarters of a mile east of Shepardsville Road.

Baese suffered cuts and bruises, as did passengers Gilbert Rios, 14, of 169 E. Main Street and Steve Melvin, 13, both of Elsie; Terry Latham, 14, of Knollton Street, Elsie, and Richard Stambersky, 14, of Pine Street, Elsie, both suffered bruises.

"Under Milkwood" at Ledges

The entire acting company at the Ledges Playhouse is involved in this week's production of "UNDER MILKWOOD," July 28-July 30. A cast of twenty is required, plus a group of eight children, to portray this examination of the lives of those who inhabit a small town.

The play is by Welsh poet Dylan Thomas, in which he takes the audience on a tour of a fishing village, Liareggub. Beginning in the early morning, winding through the day, and ending at bed time, Thomas gives the audience a look into the lives of a wide panorama of characters.

EACH ACTOR has to play several roles in this production. "UNDER MILKWOOD," was written for radio, but prior to its broadcast, was staged in New York and has been staged many times since, always to enthusiastic audience response.

It is often called the Welsh, "OUR TOWN." BUT UNLIKE the American play, "UNDER MILKWOOD," is peopled by such unforgettable characters as No Good Boyo, the village renegade, Lord Cutglass, who minds his collection of clocks, Mrs Ogmores-Pritchard, who dreams of her dead husbands, Old Captain Cat, haunted by his memories, and many more.

Two narrators lead the audience through this marvelous day. The first will be played by Peter Arnott, a native of England who was educated in Wales. He brings to his part all the richness of language which so brightens "UNDER MILKWOOD," and makes it an uproarious look at life. Like all small towns Liareggub appears quiet on the outside, but is seething underneath. The private lives of even the most proper citizens are nothing like their public lives.

"UNDER MILKWOOD," marks the half-way point in the Ledges' tenth anniversary season.

THELL WOODS

In the forthcoming Primary Election the Republican Party of Michigan takes its first step toward a comeback. Although we have succeeded in electing a governor it is quite clear that we should and we must elect a Republican Legislature and a Republican Ad Board.

We are among those who believe that to do this we must elect persons of youth, of vitality, and of dedication. It is for this reason that we endorse Thell Woods who is a candidate for the House of Representatives for the 88th District. Thell seeks political office as the commencement of a political career, a calling for which he has trained in college and graduate school and to which he will bring integrity and devotion.

The incumbent has demonstrated that he is ready for retirement. Our party cannot afford any lame ducks. In the 1965 session of the House he was absent 37 full days and parts of 7 others and missed 456 or over 41 percent of the roll calls. His absences were tops for all legislators, including both the House and the Senate.

If you agree, we would appreciate it if you would write friends urging them to vote for Thell Woods.

Ovid man becomes State trooper

John C. Elliott, son Mr and Mrs Beryl Elliott of 409 Main Street, in Ovid, was sworn in with forty other Michigan State Police probationary troopers last Friday at the sixty-third recruit school graduation in East Lansing.

Trooper Elliott has been assigned to the Bridgeport post near Saginaw.

Lt. GOV. WILLIAM G. MILLIKEN gave the principal address to the new officers, their relatives and friends.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, State Police director, who also spoke to the group, administered the oath of office and presented the graduating troopers with their badges.

Lt. Col. MELVIN G. Kaufman, deputy director, announced the assignments for the troopers who report to their posts July 27.

A special feature was the presentation by Colonel Davids of the Gerstacker award for "Trooper of the Year" to Tpr. Dean A. Van Natter of the Manistee post. He earned it for outstanding activities and services in 1964. He is the fourth winner of the award provided several years ago by Dr and Mrs Carl A. Gerstacker, Midland.

New epidemic: motorcycles

Healthy young men and women are increasingly falling victim to a new and frightening "epidemic"—motorcycle-itis. Within a few weeks of each other the American Medical Association, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and the Greater New York Safety Council all issued alarming reports on the toll taken by motorcycle accidents.

The number of deaths among cyclists rose 60 per cent between 1961 and 1964, and the total number of deaths last year is expected to reach well over 1,000, according to the insurance company.

IN NEW YORK alone, the Safety Council points out, motorcycle accidents killed 72 persons in 1965, an increase of 63.6 per cent over 1964. The number of injured increased by 100.8 per cent.

Three Maine doctors, reporting on motorcycle accidents in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association observed, that "the victims are young, otherwise healthy persons... who must be regarded as a most important group in our society."

THEY OFTEN suffer severe head and neck injuries, compound fractures that become contaminated, severe internal injuries, and multiple injuries. Paralysis and blindness are not uncommon.

Experts agree that reduction of this toll necessitates the following steps: Motorcycle driver training programs in schools; educational safety campaigns; obligatory wearing of protective equipment, strict licensing.

TWO RECRUIT class awards were presented by Lieutenant Colonel Kaufman to Tpr Jack P. Beeson, of Lansing, for scholarship and to Tpr Robert J. Dyke, of Traverse City, for marksmanship.

The invocation and benediction were given by a department chaplain, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Jerome V. MacEachin, East Lansing.

The graduation brings the department's enlisted strength to 1,396, the highest it has ever been but 67 under the authorized complement of 1,463.

Thirteen of the graduates had previous police experience. Three of them have college degrees, several others have had college courses. One of them, Tpr William J. Pertner, of Lake Leelanau, has a brother, Allen, who is a trooper at the Calumet post. The graduates represented 27 counties, two of them in the Upper Peninsula.

THE NEXT recruit school is planned to start the latter part of September with another due about the first of the year.

Bath peddlers must obtain sales license

BATH—The board of trustees has approved an ordinance to license peddlers in Bath Township.

Any person, firm or corporation peddling merchandise in the township must obtain a license from the clerk, at a fee of $7 for six months and $10 for a year.

Each license will specify where a person may sell goods, such as streets, sidewalks or in public places, and will describe what merchandise can be sold.

Sales will be permitted from 10 a.m. to one hour before sunset on weekdays. No peddling may be done on Sundays.

Non-profit organizations must obtain a special license, but the fee can be waived by the township board.

Fines from $5 to $100 were set for violation of the ordinance.

Summer program at Fowler

Sister Sharon is giving reading instructions to Steve Thurston, Rita Koenigsnecht and Renee Thoma.

The Fowler Elementary School is a busy place this summer as 132 students are enrolled in various summer programs. A summer library is also in progress.

Forty-six youngsters are enrolled in a reading improvement program. Margaret Pung and Sister Sharon are teaching the classes. They feel the instructions are very worth while as the children are increasing reading speed and comprehension.

AN ARITHMETIC program with Sister Rosalie and Sister Sharon as the teachers has an enrollment of 51 students. This gives the child who is having difficulties, a chance to receive individual attention.

Twenty elementary students are enrolled in a speech class with Miss Sue Kistler as the teacher. Those with speech problems are given assistance in overcoming their difficulties.

Fifteen pre-kindergarten students are enrolled in a Head Start program. The child learns the routine of school life and socialized play. They enjoy a warm breakfast soon after reaching school. The class is under the direction of Mrs Ethel Huot with Mrs Marcella Edinger as the teacher. The teacher's aid is Miss Carol Sue Piggott. Mrs Helen Fox is the cook.

ALL SUMMER programs will run for a six week period with classes in the forenoon. All classes except Head Start began June 21 and that started one week later.

The summer library program is under the direction of Mrs Helen Hungerford. The library is open from 9-11:30 each day except Wednesday when it is open from 7-9 at night.

Handle food with care in summer

By HELEN B. BEACH
Extension Home Economist

Meats-salad mixtures, sandwich mixes and improperly refrigerated foods common in summer may mean increased chances of food poisoning for your family. Food poisoning is possible at any time of year. However, it is more common in summer because bacteria causing food poisoning need warmth to grow. Bacteria can grow in a 45 degree temperature. However, they grow faster in warmer temperatures. Bacteria also need food and moisture to survive.

Handling and storing food safely is the best way to prevent food poisoning.

FREEZING DOES not sterilize food. The number of organisms in and on food must be reduced and kept at a minimum before the food is frozen. This means maintaining cleanliness of food and utensils in the kitchen and on yourself. The food should be frozen promptly and prepared and served promptly after thawing, since bacteria will start multiplying again.

The best preparation and packaging won't be effective if the temperature in the freezer or compartment rises above 0 degrees. Even at that temperature, certain changes take place slowly in the eating quality and nutritive value of frozen foods. The rate of change goes up with the temperature.

THE HOMEMAKER who has had her freezer accidentally disconnected does have a real problem. She calls to ask if it is safe to refreeze the food.

It is impossible to judge the safety of thawed foods unless you know approximately how long each food has been thawed. Try to estimate how long the freezer was off and how long frozen foods have been thawed. If the food still contains some ice crystals, it may safely be refrozen.

FRUITS - You can refreeze thawed fruits without danger if they still taste and smell good, although the flavor and quality will not be as good. Fruits usually ferment when they start to spoil. A little fermentation will not make fruits dangerous to eat but may spoil their flavor.

MEAT AND POULTRY—Meat and poultry become unsafe to eat when they start to spoil. If packages of meat and poultry still contain some ice crystals, they may safely be refrozen. If the odor of thawed food is bad or questionable, throw the food away—it may be dangerous!

VEGETABLES, Shellfish and Cooked Foods—You can't tell by the odor whether vegetables, shellfish and cooked foods have spoiled. Bacteria multiply rapidly in these foods even at 50 degrees. Do not refreeze any of these foods if they have thawed completely. If ice crystals are still in the food, it is safe to refreeze it immediately although the quality may suffer. If the condition of the food is poor or questionable, get rid of it. It may be dangerous!

The homemaker who is informed and alert to possible sources of food poisoning is more able to make safe and sound decisions in food buying, storing, handling and preparation. A new extension publication called, "Prevent Food Poisoning," is available at your county extension office at the courthouse in St. Johns. Ask your extension home economist for Bulletin 411.

Sister Rosalie explains fractions, using a flannel board, to Suzanne Van Ells, Glen Feldpausch and Kent Brunner.

Mrs Helen Hungerford is in charge of the elementary summer library. She helps Bruce Schomisch and Clair Thelen choose the right book.

Michigan State University home economists point out that verticle slots are ideal for storing mixing bowls and baking pans. These kitchen storage aids prevent taking out a stack of bowls or pans to get just one.

Tipton-Caeser vows spoken

MAPLE RAPIDS - Margarete Louise Tipton of rural Fowler and Daniel Alvin Caeser of rural St. Johns were married at Maple Rapids Congregational Church Parsonage Wednesday, July 13. Rev Henry Voss officiated at the single ring ceremony.

The new Mrs Caeser is the daughter of Mr and Mrs John Tipton Sr., of R-1, Fowler. The groom is the son of Carl Caeser of rural St. Johns.

The bride was attired in a street length dress of pink for the wedding. She wore a short veil and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

DONNA Rittenburgh was the bride's only attendant and wore a blue and white street length dress. She carried pink carnations.

Gary Caeser was his brother's best man. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Tipton was attired in a pink and white ensemble.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the American Legion Hall of North Star Saturday evening, July 16.

THE NEW Mr and Mrs Caeser are presently making their home in St. Johns.

The bride is a graduate of Fulton High School and the groom is employed at Oldsmobile of Lansing.

The nation's first closed-circuit television traffic control system was installed on a 3.2 mile section of Detroit's John C. Lodge freeway in 1961. Fourteen TV cameras and electronic control signals allow traffic engineers to monitor and regulate traffic on this heavily-traveled freeway from a central location.

Now it's just an antique, a relic of a bygone era. Formerly it served a practical purpose, a special need. Today, Grandfather's horseless carriage is completely outmoded. Some philosophies are also out of date. New ideas grip our minds and challenge the intellect. We would not want a "horse and buggy" philosophy in this modern world of growth and change. Some things do not change, for they are eternal. For example, man's soul and his need of God. No modern invention can ever make God and the Church obsolete. Society is different today than it was in Grandfather's day, but man's spiritual needs are the same. Discover the value of the timeless in the midst of time. Worship God in your church this week and find the eternal truth which spans the ages.

WHERE'S DADDY?
By WILLIAM ROOS

Tom Wade came home to Westport off the 6:02 on a Wednesday evening and told his wife he had quit his lucrative advertising job to write The Great American Novel. Em had been a good wife for 12 years—she reeled a bit but was determined to support her husband in his aim, while their son Gordy, an enthusiastic Little Leaguer, was simply thrilled to have Daddy home for evening practice. But the neighbors, who had always trusted Tom, were hurt and horrified.

Bob Talbot, their closest friend, spoke for the whole community of Madison Avenue—community when he insisted Tom was already one helluva writer. "There hasn't been as brilliantly sustained writing in America in the past twenty years as your Frozyumum Copy."

The Wade liquor bill soared to $140 in a month and the cleaning woman quit because, of course, Tom hadn't written a word, but had started out waxing the floor, defrosting the refrigerator, ironing slips, planning a study, beginning his literary journal and daydreaming about agents, publishers, producers and movie stars.

LIFE WITH A future Salinger soon palled on Tom's wife and son and Em was coming close to leaving her husband when he suddenly booked passage for the Wade family on a tramp steamer to Spain.

"What a place to write!" Tom exulted when they arrived. "No wonder Don Quixote is so long!"

THE WADES settled down near Torremolinos in a colony of non-writing writers and soon Tom's defection was to spearhead a job - quitting movement that threatened to drain the Avenue of all its available talent.

The solution to this problem, Tom's involvement with a couple of smuggling night-club girls and Em's loyal search for her lost husband up and down the casbah in Tangier, sweep this riotously funny novel to its happy conclusion.

State Board increases school bus aid formula

The State Board of Education has approved a proposed increase in the state reimbursement formula for operation and purchase of public school buses.

The new School Bus Transportation Code calls for increases of two to five cents per mile traveled and a 14.3 per cent increase in state funds available for purchase of new buses.

STATE BOARD Member Donald M. D. Thurber said the proposed change in the formula is designed to match increases in costs that have occurred since the formula was last adjusted in 1957.

"Most of these increased costs have been for operation, higher salaries for drivers and higher cost of gasoline, tires, lubricants and repairs," Thurber said.

THE STATE Department of Education reimburses school districts for up to 75 per cent of the cost of school transportation. Last year, this amounted to about $18 million in state funds.

"The proposed change in the formula will increase the amount of state reimbursement by approximately $2 million," Thurber said.

THURBER SAID the reimbursement rate under the proposed formula ranges from 21 to 31 cents per mile compared to the present reimbursement of 18 to 26 cents per mile, depending on the number of pupils living along the school's bus routes.

Michigan is served by 26 railroads operating on 6,752 miles of tracks and using car ferries which cross the Great Lakes between Canada and Wisconsin.

Paul H. Todd spoke at Elsie

ELSIE—Michigan's Third District Congressman Paul H. Todd from Kalamazoo was honored Monday night at the Elsie Village Inn. Sponsored by the Clinton County Democratic Committee, a turkey dinner was served at 7 p.m. to 80 guests from Clinton, Gratiot and Shlawassee counties.

Todd, a member of the banking and currency committee of the U.S. House of Representatives, spoke on the government's role in the farm problem.

UNITED STATES shipments to needy nations should be continued, he said, with particular mention made of the famine-threatened people of India. Todd, who had been in service with the OSS in China and India had been appalled by the slum streets filled with half-starved children.

A study of population statistics and food production convinced him that health of mothers and children was one of our most important programs and cooperation in these programs should be one of the rules for this aid.

TODD MADE it clear that he is concerned with highway safety, conservation of natural resources and civil rights. He has also supported the President's policy in Viet Nam, stating that from a military point of view, it is going well but North Viet Nam is not yet ready to negotiate. We must be patient to win a political victory, he added.

Michigan State University economists predict that by 1980 farming in Michigan will be BIG business. The average commercial farm will have more than $130,000 invested. Sales will average over $25,000 per year per farm.

The 1964 USDA census figures will show that of the nation's 3,000,000 farms, 10 per cent produce more than half of the nation's produce. Less than 50 per cent of these farms account for 90 per cent of all farm product sales.

County farmers at work ...

As the dry weather stayed with us late last week, Clinton County's farmers were in the fields harvesting their wheat. Throughout the county were scenes similar to these as farmers worked late into the evenings in their fields.

Farm Loan Act marks 50th anniversary

For more than 6,000 people who make their living from agriculture in Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee counties, July is a testimony to the fact that they—and most other farmers—have turned out to be good businessmen.

$50 Million to Michigan farmers

Mr. Frank Light, Chairman of the Michigan State ASC Committee, announced that 1966 wheat and feed grain payments will exceed $50 million. This is approximately a $10 million increase over 1965 payments. He added that Michigan County ASCS Offices are now starting to distribute the first of about 60,000 payment so Michigan farmers who participated in the 1966 production adjustment programs.

To qualify for payments, Mr. Light stated, the participating farmers, as a matter of public welfare, voluntarily agree to reduce the acreage they normally planted to wheat and feed grains. Eligible feed grains include corn, grain sorghum and barley. Reports reveal that Michigan farmers will keep close to 1 million acres out of wheat and feed grain production this year. Government payments compensate farmers in the program for their reduced production and the income lost on such production.

According to Mr. Light, payments at the national level will be close to $3.5 billion. Although much of the money will be utilized to pay off debts incurred in spring planting operations, much will be utilized to boost the economy with an increased flow of business in many communities.

Current legislation provides for a continuance of the wheat and feed grain programs through 1969. However, in view of the current wheat and feed grain supply situation, the Secretary may, within his authority, provide for some modification in future programs.

Agriculture has a dubious 'first'

The evergrowing number of deaths occurring on the farm has given agriculture the dubious distinction of ranking first in total work deaths.

More than 8,000 farm family members die in home, highway and farm work mishaps annually, according to Richard Pfister, safety engineer at Michigan State University.

Nearly 750,000 suffer disabling injuries each year, many of whom are crippled for life.

which put farming on a business basis in the United States for the first time in history. Farmers at last were able to borrow money at reasonable rates and put it to work as a production tool.

FLOYD PARMELEE, manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of St. Johns, said that lenders at the turn of the century were prejudiced against farmers in the money market.

"No one would lend them money to operate the way a businessman must if he is going to grow and contribute to his community," he said. "Interest rates for farmers were considerably higher than for city businessmen, and the loans were for very short terms."

"Three presidents—Theodore Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson—studied the problem, and finally the Farm Loan Act was signed by Woodrow Wilson on July 17, 1916. This act created the Federal Land Bank System, through which farmers could obtain long-term, low cost real estate loans from their own organizations."

The Federal Land Bank Association of St. Johns was created in 1918. It is one of 77 associations affiliated with The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul, which in turn is one of 12 Federal Land Banks that serve the 50 states.

"Nationally", Parmelee said, "the Federal Land Bank System has loaned more than $12 billion to its farmer - members. The farmers in North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan have borrowed over $1.8 billion from The Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul since 1917. Our own association closed 250 loans for over $4,500,000 during 1965."

"NOT ONLY have farmers proven to be excellent loan risks—Land Bank foreclosures are almost unheard of today—but, given money to work with, they have proven to be production geniuses of a quality rarely found anywhere in American business," Parmelee said.

"There are half as many farmers today as there were 50 years ago, and they're feeding a population that has doubled in this century," he said. "They rank among the greatest users of technology the world has ever known. Anyone who doubts it should visit a modern farm today."

"I don't know of another industry in the country that is producing with today's methods and selling—for the most part—at 1955 prices."

Most of the loans in the Federal Land Bank Association of St. Johns have been used to purchase more land, improve and modernize farm buildings and equipment. The average size loan made by this association in 1965 was $18,000.

Pesticides bug critics

Pesticides really bug some people. Mostly, these are the folks who hold fast to the belief that the chemical warfare being waged against bugs also threatens the extinction of the human race.

SUCH PRONOUNCEMENTS get the general public more than a little confused. And, in many cases, the resulting upheaval of protest gets aimed at the farmer. He becomes the guy who sprinkles poison on the nation's food.

In the face of this, few people probably realize how much of their security they owe to agricultural pesticides alone.

WITHOUT PESTICIDES, many of the foods we now take for granted would be luxury items available to only a few, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Commercial apple production would be impossible, as would be the production of grown peaches. Oranges and grapefruit would be infected with maggots, and the producers of potatoes and tomatoes would lose every second or third crop. The expansion of beef and dairy products in this section of the nation would have been impossible.

IN NORTH AMERICA, cultivated crops are attacked by over 3,000 important species of insects, an equal number of plant disease agents, and unestimated numbers of nematodes, rodents, weeds, and other competitors.

Estimates of the destruction caused annually by agricultural pests in the U.S. range up to $15 billion, an enormous portion of the nation's yearly production.

CHEMICALS, HOWEVER, have helped the American farmer to meet the challenge and keep his production ahead of consumer demands.

One agricultural authority points out that a ban on agricultural chemicals, which is suggested by some, would so reduce food supplies and upset the orderly movement of foods to market that the effects would reverberate throughout the entire economy.

AND THAT would bug us more than pesticides.

High grain feeding studied at MSU

Recent Michigan State University experiments showed high levels of grain feeding "were not detrimental to good herd health or high conception rates in dairy cattle."

This finding should bring a sigh of relief to many dairymen who were concerned about the effects of increased rates of concentrates.

THE DAIRYMEN had noted, for example, that grain feeding on Michigan dairy farms increased from 2,813 pounds per cow in 1960 to 4,472 pounds in 1965. And many dairymen believed that their herds had increases in mastitis, breeding problems and other diseases as a result.

To study the relationship, if any, of high grain feeding to herd health, complete health records were kept on the MSU herd since October, 1961, by MSU dairy scientists Dennis V. Armstrong, L.D. Brown and J. William Thomas, and MSU veterinarian Samuel M. Getty.

IN THE STUDY, the scientists compared 170 cows fed varying levels of grain ranging from 1,023 to 10,560 pounds per lactation. Then, the cows were divided according to low and high levels of grain feeding. Finally, the incidences of various diseases were compared between the two groups.

Scientists found almost no differences in the two groups of cattle in comparing incidences of mastitis, metritis, ketosis, indigestion, and services per conception.

"WE REALIZE this is a small sample and not under farm conditions," reported the scientists. "But the data suggests that high levels of concentrate feeding are not related to conception rate or to incidence of these diseases."

Slow moving emblem now required

Governor Romney has signed into law an act requiring the use of slow moving vehicle emblems on farm machinery, maintenance equipment, and other slow moving vehicles when operated on Michigan highways.

The use of the SMV emblem is currently required in Ohio and Nebraska.

AN EASILY recognizable standard device for identifying a slow moving vehicle on the highway was badly needed, contended Richard Pfister, Extension Safety Engineer at Michigan State University. He said many farmers with tractors have been "sitting ducks" for the unfortunate motorist who failed to recognize a slow moving vehicle on the road ahead.

The new triangular SMV emblem is 16 inches wide and 14 inches high with a fluorescent yellow-orange center and reflective dark border. The emblem unit is durable and easy to move. It has a standard mounting blade that fits into standard brackets or clips provided on the rear of most new pieces of equipment.

"THE SMV EMBLEM would be of little value to safety if drivers didn't know what it meant," said Pfister. "Therefore, it's important that a public education campaign accompany the use of these emblems on slow moving vehicles."

The National Safety Council, American Society of Agricultural Engineers and the Automotive Safety Foundation, joint sponsors of the emblem believe that rear end collisions with slow moving vehicles would be reduced substantially if the use was adapted on a nationwide scale.

Mystery of State's Waterfalls Explained by WSU Geologist

Michigan's major waterfalls are indicated by dots. Shaded areas indicate counties containing the five largest inland lakes in the State. Other counties which contain or border upon lakes over 15 square miles in size are: Ontonagon, Gogebic, Mackinac, Luce, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Benzie, Houghton, Crawford and Roscommon.

DETROIT—The "water wonders" of Michigan provide not only enjoyment to tourists but also reveal, to those with geological training, a facet of the State's physical evolution.

Especially intriguing to tourists and geologists alike are the 150 natural waterfalls of the Upper Peninsula's wilderness areas, now more accessible than in the past.

The abundance of waterfalls in the Upper Peninsula is explained by Prof. Andrew J. Mozola, of Wayne State University's geology department, in terms of differing resistance of rocks to erosion.

"The rocks which form a river bed may at different points be soft or hard," he points out. "It is these differences which cause the irregularities along the stream bed or profile. If the irregularities are large enough, a cascade of waterfalls is produced."

The bedrock in the Upper Peninsula, says Dr. Mozola, was already being eroded by streams when the glaciers came. The glaciers caused further erosion through gouging and abrasion. They then retreated, leaving so little debris that the bedrock was again exposed.

"The resulting condition was conducive to waterfall formation when the streams again began flowing," he says. "In the Lower Peninsula, explains Dr. Mozola, the bedrock is also irregular, but the retreating glaciers left it covered with an overburden of clay, silt, sand and gravel in a protective layer, which in some places is up to one thousand feet deep.

"Water flows more smoothly over this protective layer," says Dr. Mozola, "making waterfalls unlikely. It will be a long time before many rivers in the Lower Peninsula will wear through the surface layers to the rugged bedrock."

Only one sizeable natural waterfall is found in the southern peninsula—Ojibwa Falls in Presque Isle County.

On the other hand, the Lower Peninsula can boast two of the largest inland lakes in the United States. Houghton, with 31 square miles, and slightly smaller Higgins make the center of the State a tourist magnet.

"Michigan's many lakes, especially numerous in the Lower Peninsula, were formed when the glaciers melted. The water filled basins of different sizes which were created by the uneven distribution of glacial debris."

Counting the Upper and Lower Peninsula's attractions, the State has over 11,000 inland lakes, 6,000 miles of rivers and hundreds of miles of waterside campgrounds, Dr. Mozola points out.

Corn flies high

Corn our nation's most abundant agricultural commodity, has important jobs to do in our space program—both on the ground and aloft.

Corn starch, for example, simulates moon dust for Ranger moon project ground studies. A special free-flowing corn starch that shuns water has been chosen to help simulate the moon's surface so scientists and engineers can plan how best to land moon rockets.

ALTHOUGH CERTAIN leading scientists strongly disagree with the notion that the moon is covered by a deep dust layer, many contend that at least the moon's surface consists of pulverized gravel or rock dust.

We won't know who is right until astronauts actually get to the moon, but corn starch meanwhile is helping them prepare for the possibility of a landing in billowy moon dust.

MUCH MORE COMMON than mock rocket landings on starch, however, are space food applications utilizing products of corn.

An astronaut needs about 1.3 pounds of water-free food a day during space flight. This provides the astronaut with the 2,500 calories per day that his system needs. Astronaut feeding, therefore, takes a good deal of thought and study.

SINCE WE ARE limited in the payloads we can send aloft, we must use dehydrated foods instead of bulky, natural food items. Space capsules are petite and storage capacity is quite small. In addition, weightlessness presents some very special problems.

For these reasons, dehydrated food concentrates will probably accompany astronauts on early space trips lasting a year or more. Space flights of the future are planned to last that long. Experts talk, for example, about a flight to Mars and back that will take more than 400 days.

BECAUSE FAMILIAR taste is considered an important factor in space feeding, natural rather than synthetic foods are prepared for astronauts meals. Corn and products made from corn satisfy demanding natural food diet requirements in space. Corn starch is part of sauces and gravies. Other products of corn are used in many other ways.

In the weightless state, food and liquid particles can fly in all directions. This could become quite a problem inside the close confines of the space capsule.

STARCH COATINGS on dehydrated foods combat this. High amylose starch edible films surround bite-size food portions to prevent weightless crumbs from flying around inside the space vehicle.

Corn in other forms also feeds spacemen. Corn flakes compressed with freeze-dried fruits make up cereal fruit cubes. Thus, flavor variety is retained, more calories can be packed into each cubic inch, yet the texture is crunchy and inviting.

CREAM-STYLE corn has been found more adaptable to space food requirements than some other types of vegetables.

ASC PROGRAM

Wheat price support program now in order

W. M. SMITH
County ASC Manager

With wheat harvest about completed on most farms, details on the wheat price support program are in order.

In Clinton County, the county loan rate for No. 1 soft white or soft red wheat is $1.21 per bushel. Price support is guaranteed only to producers who signed up and complied with the 1966 wheat program. They will also be eligible for certificates at $1.32 per bushel on 45 percent of the normal production of the farm acreage allotment if that amount of wheat was planted for harvest as grain.

A PRODUCER can get a price support loan on his wheat stored in an approved warehouse or Corn's role in feeding astronauts grows as the U. S. space program continues its effort to put an American on the moon by 1970. As in other areas of space technology, successful applications in space feeding may well find their way into our life on the ground as well.

The Detroit Symphony, an orchestra of 100 musicians conducted by Sixten Ehrling, one of the world's great young conductors, has its home in the lavish Henry and Edsel Ford Auditorium on the banks of the Detroit river in the city's Civic Center. It offers a full season of concerts featuring outstanding great soloists. A summer series of almost equal stature is presented at Meadowbrook, a short distance to the north of the city.

There is no change from last year in getting a farm stored loan. Producer's must contact the ASCS county office and request a loan. The ASCS county commodity inspector will visit the farm and complete a worksheet to determine the number of bushels in storage. He will also check the storage to see that it will store the wheat safely during the loan period.

THE GREATEST problem we have with farm stored grain is to keep it free from contamination, by birds, animals, rats, and materials such as fertilizer. Grains must be kept clean if it is going to be sold for human consumption.

There is a change in the warehouse stored loan this year. Grains stored in an approved warehouse must be sampled on delivery and the sample submitted to a licensed inspector for official grade. This is very important, so any producer who thinks he wants a warehouse loan should be sure a sample is taken when wheat is delivered to warehouse.

THERE WILL BE a grain storage bin sale at the Chesaning bin site one mile north of Chesaning Thursday, August 4, at 1:30 p.m.

Fifty one, 3250 bushel rated capacity steel bins, 18 foot diameter by 16 foot high will be sold. These bins were manufactured by a Steel Company in Ohio.

THE GRAIN storage structures will be sold completely dismantled.

These bins may be inspected the day of the sale, or any other time by contacting the Saginaw County ASCS office from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

JULY 7, WE sold 3400 bushels of corn from our Elsie bin-site. High bid was $1.33 7/8, low bid accepted was $1.29. Anyone interested in bidding for corn must contact our office by 3:30 p.m. on Thursdays.

State Police get funds for CD trailer

Federal funds of $12,500 have been authorized to defray about half the cost of an emergency trailer for the civil defense division of the Michigan State Police according to Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director.

Approval was made by Warren P. Cleary, region four director, Office of Civil Defense, Battle Creek.

THE 45-FOOT all-aluminum vehicle will be a field headquarters and communications center in emergency operations. It will be 11 1/2 feet high and eight feet wide and be entirely self-contained.

Radio equipment, including two 40-foot antennas, will serve the state primary emergency communications system and also be able to link with networks of other law enforcement agencies. There also will be telephone tie-in facilities. An emergency power source will be a 30 kilowatt generator.

THE TRAILER will have a center office section with a curbside service window. A radio room will be in the front and a conference room in the rear. Heating and air conditioning facilities will be provided.

The new vehicle, replacing one in use since 1954, will be built by the Hudsonville (Mich.) Truck and Trailer Company with fall delivery expected. Outfitting with equipment will follow.

Don't skip the primaries!

By LESTER ALLEN
State Representative
88th District

The seemingly insignificant often proves to be most vitally important. Not quite 4 million of the eligible 76 million voters in this country turn out at the polls at primary elections.

Do you think it fair that less than 1/20th of the electors determines which candidates will be allowed to vote for in the general elections?

Most citizens would be outraged if such were the law—yet, they willingly relinquish their right and privilege and willfully neglect their responsibility to ensure nominations of the best-qualified leaders for election to the highest governmental offices in this nation—offices which control the life and liberty of every individual residing herein.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS are the real key to politics. There is no way for party candidates to get on the general election ballot except through the primaries. It is the exclusive gate through which all candidates must pass. Control of that gate in any community means control of the political situation in that community.

Primaries are crucial in our political process. It is here that we make our nominations, and if electors are really determined to make a dent in politics, they should concentrate on the primaries and nominate responsible, desirable, qualified candidates. To be politically effective, voters must start with the primary election and not wait for the finals, the general election.

PRESIDENT JAMES Madison said in 1817, "We have staked the whole future of America, not on the power of government—far from it—but on the capacity of mankind for self-government."

GOOD GOVERNMENT BEGINS WITH THE VOTER. There is much ado in election years to "exercise your right, your privilege, your duty." Go to the polls and vote. It is far more important, however, to be an informed voter BEFORE casting your vote. Know the issues, learn the facts, know your candidates.

KNOW YOUR CANDIDATE: Look into the background and merits of the persons running for any office; village, township, city, county, state and national. Check on such points as these:

- 1) Is he or she a person of conscience? Or does he make statements or take positions at the expense of conscience?
- 2) Is this individual a strong leader, able to make intelligent decisions under pressure? Or is he indecisive, evading important issues?
- 3) How about past performance? Has he administrative ability? Or does he merely say his has?

- 4) DOES HE, AND do his advisers, advocate realistic improvements? Or would their proposals, however well-intentioned, risk making a bad situation worse?
- 5) Does he show imagination and initiative—without being foolhardy or reckless?
- 6) Will he maintain sane fiscal standards which meet essential needs without opening the door to inflation, waste, graft or corruption?

- 7) As an elected guardian of the people's rights, would he uphold established law? Or is he inclined to believe he is a law unto himself?
- 8) DOES HE GET down to specifics? Or is he inclined to indulge in generalities, ambiguities or grandiose plans?
- 9) Does he effectively encourage citizens to shoulder local problems? Or would he shift their burden to centralized government—stifling personal responsibilities and individual enterprise?
- 10) Will he pursue a course of action based on moral and patriotic principles? Or does he "zig" with every new "zag"?

BE SUFFICIENTLY realistic to recognize the fact that no candidate will please you in every respect. Give your moral support to those with the needed character and competence who are considering making government service a career.

Speak up for an intelligent discussion of issues. Honest disagreement is one avenue to better understanding.

When voting, always strive to put the welfare of country before political party, financial advantage or personal interest.

A REPUBLIC such as ours, or "representative democracy," if you prefer, is a good form of government ONLY so long as we retain at least two strong political parties.

In choosing your political party, you will probably discover you are not in unanimous agreement with either of the major parties' stand on every issue; therefore, it is important that you choose the party which represents your thinking at least 60 per cent of the time. BEFORE you make your political party choice, learn the facts, first-hand. Find out the basic differences—the parties are not "just alike."

IT IS A FINE virtue to be independent, but Independent voters, because they have no connection with a party, often do not realize the decisive influence a political party has upon a person's voting behavior.

Independent voters are not only likely to misjudge candidates, but they fail to do their share PRIOR to voting by refusing all responsibility for the selection of candidates. They are real outsiders when it comes to politics because, by holding themselves aloof from political parties, they are excluded from any opportunity to help hammer out party decisions, participating in informal party discussions, caucuses, or any of the really "grass roots" political activities. Conventions and even primary elections are beyond their influence.

If every voter was a "mug-wump" or an independent, there would be no parties nor any candidates!

Vote next Tuesday, it is important

Next Tuesday, August 2, some of the people of the State of Michigan will be going to the polls to vote in the primary election. This is the first of two elections this year which will decide the destiny of our state for the next four years.

There are two major firsts in this election. This will be the first time the people of Michigan will have named a governor for a term of four years. It will also be the first time that township candidates and state officials have been on the same ballot.

Ours is a democratic country that gives the privilege of voting to all those of age. But too many people forfeit this right. This right to express their opinion on who will be the leaders of our state, county or townships.

This forfeiture of our voting privilege is especially noticeable in our primary elections. To many people avoid the primary, as if it were the plague, and vote only in the general election.

There are probably as many reasons for not voting in the primary as there are people. Unfamiliar with candidates, not important enough, or not wanting to take the time, are only a few.

All three of these are poor excuses in our day and age for we have many mediums of communication. Also every election, no matter how minor it may seem, is of the utmost importance to us and to our children.

To those who do not have the time, the polls are open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., time for everyone to make it if they tried.

If you are a registered voter, make your decisions. Then voice your decision at the polls next Tuesday. This is your right, your privilege, your duty to all those who have died in our many wars fought to preserve this right, not for themselves, but for you.

ACCIDENTS AT HOME hurt just as much as those at work. Your home and your family rate your best safety efforts to protect them from accidents. Enjoy your vacation—but don't knock yourself out putting in a year's recreation into a few short days.

Bicyclist should know the laws of the road

Within the past month, St. Johns has had three traffic accidents involving children on bicycles.

Lately we have had calls from interested adults who are concerned about the lacksadaical, king-of-the-road type of bicycle driving on our streets.

We don't blame the children as much as we do the parents. To give your child a bicycle is great. But, to give your child a bicycle without informing them of the correct and lawful way in which to ride it is wrong.

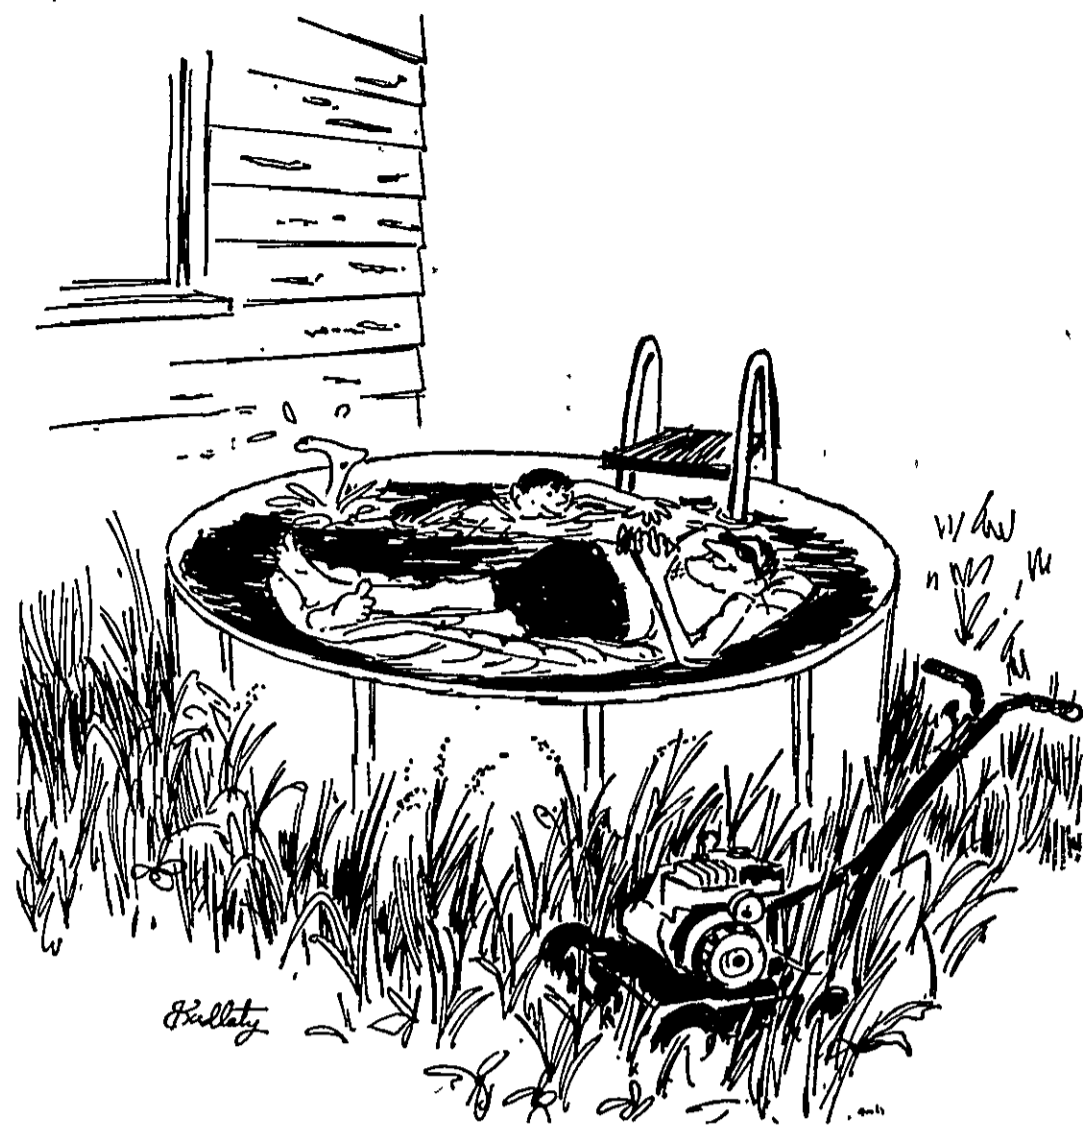

Driving a bicycle is more dangerous than driving a car, especially for those who are ignorant of the laws. We expect our children to know many things, but we suggest that all parents who have children with bicycles, sit down with them and find out if they know the rules of safe driving. If they do not, then to inform them so that they will know.

Too many children ride their bicycles as if they were driving a tank. Many pull out in front of cars as if defying drivers to hit them.

Most drivers will do everything humanly possible to avoid such an ordeal. But, the time occurs when a driver has no choice in the matter and an accident will happen.

Corral your bicyclist now and set him straight. When you have them corralled in a hospital bed, its too late.

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

One of the high points of my high school life—and I always figured it had many high points—was our senior skip trip to Washington D.C. It was a few days I'll always remember, and a lot of us in the Class of '57 have fond memories of it. But, as columnist Frank A. Cooper notes, the traditional high school graduation trips to Washington are dying out.

OUR MAGNIFICENT national capitol has become so crime ridden and tough that school officials fear to have classes visit the Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, the White House and the Nation Capitol. "Too tough for young graduates to call on their senators and congressmen. Too tough even to visit the FBI Even during the Cherry Blossom Festival in April, when normally reservations must be made weeks in advance, this year, reservations were 30 per cent off."

THIS IS THE SORRY picture suggested in a restrained way by Josephine Ripley, writing in the conservative, respected Christian Science Monitor. "Washington seems to be dying as a tourist center."

WHO IS TO BLAME? Well, Washington is governed by Congress. It has no mayor, city council or other elected officials, and the Washington police function under the eyes of Congress that rules through a committee.

SO WE HAVE the sorry picture of a congress that is trying to dictate to all American cities when it is unable to run its own city.

The Washington Board of Trade, an organization of hard-hit business men, presents a feeble defense. A spokesman said he did not think there was "much danger" to school groups considering their "Safety in numbers." But he agreed it would be advisable for groups not to separate or attempt to go out on their own.

ANOTHER FEEBLE defense comes from the Washington Police Department itself. It protests that "Washington is by no means the No. 1 crime city of the nation; but ranks 7th for its size in serious crime."

This may be true, but Washington IS the only city of any size governed directly by Congress, and therefore should be immune to graft, dirty politics and the harrassments of young thugs found in cities where officials are elected by assortments of minority groups, all with axes to grind.

WHAT IS Washington doing about it? Same old thing. For months they have been holding "Committee Hearings."

In the meantime high school grads are switching to Niagara Falls and New York; or just calling graduation trips off. Another nice institution becomes a thing of the past. —Rink.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IN RECENT WEEKS the newspapers have been full of articles regarding the corruption, underhandness, poor cooperation, income tax evasion, etc.; all of this pointed directly at elected public officials.

We get upset, and rightfully so, when we read these reports in the paper. How do these people get elected in the first place? Do they suddenly develop these traits or were the seeds there buried all the time? The adage "It was from a little acorn that the oak tree grew" is true. People don't change they just mature like the oak tree.

ALL VOTERS should be as well informed as possible about candidates before they vote. Any person having knowledge or withholding facts from the voting public is not doing their public duty.

This letter then is purposely written for the people in Olive township. Voters should check these facts which are taken from public records.

IT IS COMMON knowledge that Earl (Bing) Barks is running for supervisor in opposition to the incumbent Almond Cressman.

It is common knowledge that Earl Barks has been an appointed member of the board of review for the past several years. He was appointed by a majority of the township board as the successor to Walter March, who was not reappointed this year by the board, but instead was replaced by a young man, David Conklin, who is a son-in-law of the township trustee, Gale Boron.

IT IS COMMON knowledge the Yoh Company appraised all of Clinton County this past year and the County Board of Supervisors voted to accept the findings of the Yoh Company with a few exceptions and errors which were corrected by the supervisors.

It is not common knowledge but it is a matter of public record that Earl (Bing) Barks who is a member of the Olive Township Board of Review and is now running for Olive Township Supervisor, had his Yoh figure lowered in excess of $9,000.00—Nine Thousand Dollars. This is easily done by changing the classification of the land. If you had 80 acres of land class "A" valued at $260.00 per acre and it was changed to Class "B" at $200.00 per acre or Class "C" at $140.00 per acre it would make a big difference in the final figure. Of course the Yoh figures were the basis for computing this year's property and school taxes. In a twenty year school Bond issues this could count up.

WHO LOWERED this figure? It takes the majority of the (3) members to make a change. Mr Seyfried did not have his figure lowered. Mr Conklin did not have his figure lowered but his father-in-law had his lowered in excess of Three Thousand Dollars ($3,000.00). Does it seem like this was ethical? The State of Michigan passed Act 206 in the year of 1893 and the seriousness of this action is pointed out in Section 116. In all these seventy some years this law has never been amended or changed in any way.

For the past few months, wherever we go, we have been barraged with many types of election campaigning. This at times seems to be a drudge, but it is our "American way" of conducting an election.

The election that we have been hearing about will take place this coming Tuesday, August 2. It is better known as the primary election.

AS IN THE past, the prognosticators are predicting a fair turnout at the polls come Tuesday. If past history tells us anything, these men will be right. It has been very seldom that the American public has ever rushed to the polls to vote in the primaries.

There are many varied reasons why, we as Americans, seem to shun primary elections. But I have never heard of a really good excuse for not voting.

AMERICANS FROM Clinton County to wherever you go—ways seem to be demanding their rights as citizens. Still, when the most important right they have comes along, they seem to avoid it as if it were something that will hurt them.

Primary elections are as important, if not more so than the general election. For it is here that we pick the men who will oppose each other. Here is where we have the greater choice. The choice to pick who you believe will be the best man to represent you in Lansing or Washington.

SO PICK YOUR candidates, make your decisions and exercise your right to vote. It's painless, takes very little time, gives you a feeling of having done your duty and probably in the long run will be very beneficial. You never know, until you try.

THE HOPKO'S were invaded over the weekend.

We feel the people of Olive Township should check these facts and find out the answers and also check the integrity of a candidate before voting August 2nd.

THE MEMBERS OF the board of review owe the voters of Olive Township an explanation if it is possible to explain. And perhaps while they are explaining why Mr Barks had 80 acres of land down graded and another property owner with land within a few thousand feet had his land upgraded from Call "B" swamp land at $5.00 per acre (so classified by the Yoh Company) to Class "A" at $260.00 per acre by the Board of Review.

COULD THE REASON be that these taxable dollars must be picked up some where and somehow. Did the board of review smile or frown on you?

Let's check facts and background on the candidates and then all go vote on August 2nd.

Olive Township Fair Treatment Committee

We had all gone to bed Friday evening with the exception of our son Doug, who was probably watching "Just a little more TV".

THE DOOR BELL rang and Doug answered. Standing at the door two adults, 3 kids and a large boxer dog.

The adults were Joan's brother Jack and his wife Lili. The children were their offspring, Terry, Debra and Cindy. (The boxers' name is Lady).

Jack is a Chief Master Sergeant with the United States Air Force and has been in the service for the past seventeen years. His last assignment was at the airbase in Sweetwater Texas and has just been transferred to the airfield at Battle Creek, Michigan.

IT HAS BEEN about two years since Jack and his family have been in St. Johns and so it was not surprising when a call was put into my mother-in-law, up at Saginaw.

You are right! My mother-in-law arrived on the bus Saturday and added one more to the confusion of the Hopko household.

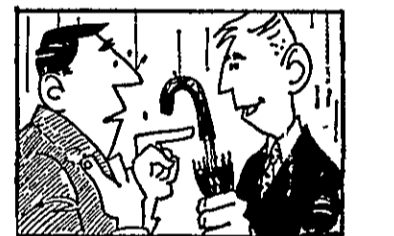

SPEAKING OF MY mother-in-law, I'll have to devote a column to her someday. She is probably a typical mother-in-law, but I've always maintained that I had the only mother-in-law, who at one time, wore suspenders to hold up her girdle. But, this is something I'll go into at a later time.

Actually it was a real fine weekend. It was more or less like old home week and I dare say we spent many hours just shooting the breeze and drinking coffee.

WITH JACK BEING stationed in Battle Creek, we'll probably be seeing more of them for a change. As for my mother-in-law, sometimes I see too much of her, sometimes not enough. So it goes.

Oleo—the substitute . . .

By DREW PEARSON In the Detroit Free Press April 13

Out in the big dairying state of Minnesota, farmers are wondering just how much influence their boy Hubert Humphrey, now Vice President of the United States, wields. Humphrey has long been the idol of the Farmer-Labor Party and touted as the farmer's friend.

But since his No. 1 friend, Lyndon, substituted oleomargarine for butter in the armed forces every dairy farmer is skeptical. Dairy farmers, who have taken a terrific beating in prices for about 10 years, were beginning to look toward a prosperous period when suddenly LBJ did his best to knock the props out of dairy prices by switching the armed forces to oleo.

ON TOP OF THIS, the White House has let it be known that more dairy products will be imported from New Zealand and Denmark to reduce prices further.

The states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and New York, all big dairy producers, went for Johnson and Humphrey overwhelmingly in 1964. The oleomargarine states of Georgia, Alabama Mississippi, Louisiana and South Carolina went for Goldwater. Dairy farmers now say that if Lyndon can switch to oleo, they can switch to the GOP.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

In Michigan, tax reform will rise again

Like the rebel's cry for the South, in Michigan' tax reform will rise again.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Zolton Ferency is making fiscal reform a major battleground against Gov. George Romney, although the GOP incumbent has largely ignored his opponent on this point to date.

ROMNEY DROPPED his plea for tax reform this year in deference to lack of cooperation from the 1965 Democratic-dominated legislature. Since the treasury was in good shape to carry through the current fiscal year, the pressure for reform was off.

When he announced he would not press a reform package this year, however, the Governor indicated the need would be present again soon, probably to make ends meet in the 1967-68 fiscal year.

THERE WERE SEVERAL indications last year that more Democrats might be inclined to get together with Romney on a reform program after the 1966 elections if they maintained their majority.

The November election will be the first at which the Governor and state senators are named to four-year terms.

ASSUMING THE Democrats maintain control of the 38-member Senate and 110-seat House, it would be easier to go along with tax reform in 1967 or 1968.

House members seeking reelection in 1968 could claim the Governor wanted reform and the Senate wanted reform so they were powerless to stop it. By the time the Senate members sought new terms, most of the electorate would be so used to the new tax structure they would have lost any anger-based intentions of "throwing the rascals out."

BADLY NEEDED:

Michigan State University's request for permission to operate a full-program medical school came as a surprise to some since its two-year human medicine program is just getting nicely started.

The initial program will begin with its first students this fall. It has been in planning for nearly six years and four years have passed since the legislature authorized its operation.

THE FORMAL request by the MSU Board of Trustees to the State Board of Education was actually, probably very well timed.

As expected, the State Board told MSU President John Hannah the request will need study in terms of the overall medical education available in Michigan.

Study, as President Hannah well knows, can and frequently does involve a number of years before any result is seen in terms of a program.

Thus by asking now for permission to expand the new two-year program, Michigan State probably stands a good chance of handing out its first medical degrees to the students who are enrolled this fall in the limited program.

HALF MEASURE!

"People have regular checkups by their dentist or doctor, but they won't get regular checkups on their cars until the law requires them to," stresses Garnet M. Griffin, managing director of the Traffic Safety Association of Detroit.

Michigan's legislature was not quite ready to require regular safety checks as urged by Griffin and others this year, but it did take a step which the experts believe will eventually lead to mandatory auto inspections.

TRAFFIC safety experts have claimed the states which do require periodic checkups of autos have seen a decrease in accidents.

Legislators were not convinced that mandatory inspections of all cars at state-approved garages would have such a beneficial result.

A SPOKESMAN for the Motor and Equipment Manufacturers Association says that over 50 per cent of the cars on the road do not meet generally accepted performance standards for safety. The figure is based on the experience in 20 states which have safety inspection laws.

This was the 15th year the Michigan legislature was asked to pass a compulsory inspection law.

DOUBTERS WON OUT, but they did go along with a spot-check proposal to allow state and local police to establish temporary safety inspection stations.

Motorists stopped and found with mechanically defective autos can be ticketed and taken to court.

SINCE THE BILL was not given immediate effect, it will not be used until early next year. Within a year or two after its initiation, this spot survey method is expected to provide data on which the legislature can determine whether mandatory inspection would be of value.

Michigan's longest state highway is US-31, which extends 368 miles from the Michigan-Indiana state line near Niles to Mackinaw City. The shortest is highway M-209 in Leelanau county, four-tenths of a mile.

Horses abused for show purposes

Senator Joseph D. Tydings (Md.) "... I refer to the widespread abuse of the beautiful Tennessee walking horse for the purpose of affecting its natural gait.

"Most of us at some time in our lives have attended a horse show and thrilled to these magnificent animals proudly prancing around a show ring. The Tennessee walking horse's back stride is long; its front feet barely touch the ground. As a matter of fact, our President's favorite mount, when he is on the ranch is one of this fine breed.

"UNSCRUPULOUS owners and trainers of Tennessee walking horses have discovered that if the horse's front feet are sore he will lift them quickly from the ground, shift his weight to his sound hindquarters and take the much desired long-striding step. This soreness usually is done by using chains or tacks inside the quarter boot or by applying a burning agent to the pastern, the area just above the hoof. These agents vary, but the most common are an oxide of mercury salve, known as "creeping cream" and an oil of mustard mixture called "scooting juice."

Another technique, recently adopted, is to drive a nail into the tender part of the hoof. This is more difficult to detect but equally effective and painful.

"THE TENNESSEE WALKING Horse Breeders' and Exhibitors Association of America officially prohibits the soring of Tennessee walkers for show purposes, and published a notice, effective September 15, 1964, announcing that "due to flagrant violations by exhibitors" it will take disciplinary action. The American Horse Show Association also prohibits the showing of horses "equipped with artificial appliances, such as leg chains, wires or tacks, blistering or any other cruel and inhuman devices"...

"A NUMBER of representatives of humane groups in my own State of Maryland, as well as others, have tried to put an end to the deplorable practice of soring a fine animal for show purposes. They have had little success. I think it is time to consider legislation to outlaw this practice.

"The bill I introduce today will prohibit the interstate shipment for the purpose of competition of horses that have been abused for the purpose of altering their natural gait. Since the shows of Tennessee walking horses attract animals from many States, this would be an effective method of curbing this deplorable practice of cruelty to animals."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

Although the internal-combustion engine has practically eliminated the horse from every day life, most people are emotionally attached to them.

The widespread interest in TV westerns is proof that interest in horses is not dead.

Horsemen are of the opinion that if the American Horse Show Association would strictly enforce their present rules, federal legislation would be unnecessary. — J. C.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

Grass flower is beauty in miniature

HAYDN PEARSON

Grass includes the important food crops of our planet: rice, corn, wheat, millet, sugarcane, barley and oats. But to most of us, grass means the slender-stemmed, short plants that produce hay for animals and covering for our lawns. To those brought up on farms, grass means timothy, June grass and clovers.

Grasses are Earth's most important plants. All grasses have stems with solid joints and two-ranked leaves, one at each joint. Names of native grasses are musical and imaginative: Sand Lovegrass, Needle and Thread, Little Bluestem, Meadow Fescue, Silver Beardgrass, Black Grama, Buffalo Grass, Weeping Longgrass, Blue Panic, Tobosa, Mutton Bluegrass, Foxtail Dalea, Crested Dogtail and Torpedograss.

GRASS FLOWERS are beauty in miniature. They have no petals and no sepals. One thinks of a tiny tree. The two outside leaves are called glumes; above these are the flowering glumes. Above each flowering glume is a pistil and three stamens. Grasses are wind pollinated and on the right day at the hour when the flower opens, a strong wind may lift clouds of ripe pollen grains. A grass flower opens just once in its life time and, then for only a brief time.

One does not need to know the technicalities to appreciate the beauty of the grasses. If you would enjoy a new nature experience, go forth on a sunny day and examine grass flowers beneath a hand lens. Grasses are the humble plants of Earth; but as meek plants they have inherited it. We live in an age of the spectacular, but for him who sees, there is beauty in the grasses that bend before a breeze and ripple like waves across the fields.

County man in Alaska

David Albert Lietzke of 11409 Airport Road in DeWitt is spending seven weeks, July 20 through September 5, on the Juneau Icefield in Alaska as a participant in Michigan State University's Summer Institute of Glaciological Sciences.

The summer institute was organized in 1960 and has been continued each year since then to provide academic and field training for potential polar and mountain scientists.

THE INSTITUTE offers eight courses designed to take full advantage of both the glacial and periglacial environments of the region for laboratory and field instruction.

In addition to the academic offerings, the institute provides experience in field work in a variety of sub-Arctic, high-Arctic and mountain environments.

DR MAYNARD M. Miller, professor of geology at MSU, and a member of the American Mt. Everest expedition, heads the institute.

Understanding your HEALTH
By Albert E. Heustis, M.D. Director Michigan Department of Public Health

How much would you pay for a bottle of aspirin? I would guess anywhere from 12 cents to 59 cents — depending on the brand name.

Well, there are people who pay as much as three dollars for the same amount and think they are getting the bargain of a lifetime.

THESE MISLED folks are arthritides who think they are purchasing a cheap "cure" for the disease.

They have been told by their doctors that such a cure does not exist, but in their desperation they are easy victims for the ballyhoo of the manufacturers of these relatively useless medicines.

Now, as there is no cure for arthritis, is it necessary for victims to suffer without respite through the possible long term of the illness?

The answer to that question is that arthritis can be treated, and life made a lot easier for its victims. As yet, the disease cannot be cured, but research is in progress right now to find the solution.

CONTRARY TO popular belief, arthritis is not a disease of old age. Although many are afflicted later in life, it hits hardest in the 20 to 45 age group — those in the productive prime of their lives.

It strikes at the very heart of family life victimizing three women for every man.

In addition, there are also 200,000 children who suffer from arthritis and other rheumatic diseases.

Although there are three distinct types of the disease, osteoarthritis, gout, and rheumatoid arthritis, the most severe form is the rheumatoid variety.

The signs of rheumatoid arthritis are pain, swelling, heat and redness in the joints. It usually begins as an inflammation in the soft tissues around those joints.

After some time, usually years, the space between joints may become bridged by bands of fibrous tissue, which eventually may be changed to dense scar tissue, or bone in severe cases. This causes the joint to become immobile and deformed.

WHILE THE DISEASE can become worse for no apparent reason, frequently the onset of an attack can be traced to some definite influence. This could be exposure to cold, illness, worry or tension.

In some people, rheumatoid arthritis is very mild and causes little discomfort or disability. But in others, the disease with its ups and downs lasts for years.

Every rheumatoid arthritic patient, no matter how mild or severe the disease, should have a basic regimen of rest and exercise.

In addition, folks suffering from the affliction are also treated with drugs — the cheapest and most useful being the salicylates, which includes common aspirin.

Let me again point out that the claims of magic arthritic "cures" you may hear about are utter nonsense. All the products will do is waste your money, and create the bitter anguish of disappointment.

The only person competent to treat the disease is a physician — he is the one to turn to for help.

Measle immunization needed by children entering school

The Michigan Department of Public Health will distribute $350,000 in measles vaccine to local health departments to aid in implementing a law signed this week by Governor George Romney.

The law now adds measles to the list of diseases that entering school children should be immunized against. It states that all Michigan children entering school for the first time must submit a statement showing they have been immunized against measles, in addition to smallpox, diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis, and poliomyelitis. TB testing of entering school children was added to the law last year.

IF A PARENT or guardian does not want his child to be immunized on the basis of religious or other grounds, a signed statement to that effect must be provided.

The child may be immunized by a private physician, or the parent can request that the local health department give the needed protective injections and diagnostic tests. The funds, approved by the state legislature, are to be used for this purpose.

IN A LETTER to local health departments, the state department of health noted: "The agreement under which this money was provided stipulates it is to be used primarily to assure that every child entering school for the first time this fall is protected against measles. The money will be distributed to the best advantage of its (local health departments) measles susceptible children. It is now the health department's responsibility to control outbreaks of measles." An official of the state health department said the law will cut down the incidence of measles among school age children and that in a few years, it may result in the relative absence of measles in school age children. The cost of absenteeism, loss of school funds, and home care far outweighs the cost of measles vaccine, it was noted.
