

Two districts face Aug. 2 millage votes

Voters in two Clinton school districts will go to the polls Monday Aug. 2 to decide the fate of three millage issues.

At St. Johns, voters will be voting on the renewal of 14.5 mills which expired after two years and they will be voting on a 2.5 mill increase to cover additional costs for the coming year. The proposals will be listed on separate ballots.

AT FOWLER, VOTERS will decide the fate of a 16 mill proposal. The proposal represents a renewal of 14.5 mills from last year and an additional 1.5 mills. The millage question will be on one ballot.

At St. Johns, the 14.5 mill proposal must be approved in order for the 2.5 mill proposal to be valid. The district currently has no operating funds with the expiration of the 14.5 mills this year. The only funds available are the allocated 8 mills allocated by the County Tax Allocation Board.

Supt. Earl Lancaster said the board of education is planning across the board conditions if the millages do not pass. If the 14.5 mills is approved, the board would be able to operate a "limited" program. The Board has said it will need both the 14.5 renewal and the 2.5 additional increase to operate a program similar to the one the district had this last school year.

At Fowler, Supt. Don Smith said the district would only have the 8 mills allocated by the county if the millage was defeated. The proposal is for 16 mills, a renewal of 14.5 and an additional 1.5

"THE ADDITIONAL 1.5 will just about cover the costs of the books and supplies we are now required to provide to the students at no charge," Smith said. "We are hoping that staff reductions and an increased enrollment and possible higher state aid will cover the increased costs of education."

Smith said the district ended the fiscal year with an approximate deficit of $39,000. To cover the deficit would take an additional 5 mills, over and above the 16 mills being sought.

"At this time, we don't know how we are going to pay the deficit off," he said.

The deficit breaks down into a $17,000 loss on the Supreme Court decision on free text books, a $3,600 loss in state aid payment cutbacks, a $3,200 loss on the mentally handicapped program, a $4,300 loss in transportation reimbursement from what the state had estimated they would pay, and a carry over deficit of $11,000 from the previous year.

SMITH SAID THE board had not decided what they would do if the millage was turned down.

"We would probably open and go as long as we could," he said. "But I don't think it would be more than one month." At St. Johns, Lancaster said the district could operate for one month on the county allocated funds.

Polling places will open at 7 a.m. Monday and remain open until 8 p.m. For St. Johns District voters, Precinct I (St. Johns, Bingham and Bengal Townships) voters will vote at Rodney B. Wilson Junior High School.

PRECINCT II voters will vote at East Essex School, while Precinct III will vote at Eureka School. Precinct IV will vote at Olive Center School and Precinct V will vote at the Riley Township Hall.

Fowler voters will cast their ballots in the high school gym. The Clinton County News will carry the full details of the election in next Wednesday's edition.

Master plan now official

ST. JOHNS—The city of St. Johns gained an official master development plan last Friday when a recently adopted document was recorded in the office of county register of deeds. The action culminated almost two years of effort in updating a similar plan drafted in 1950.

The plan outlines use of land within the city based on projected economic and social factors and will serve as a foundation for zoning ordinance and map currently being prepared for public presentation. Both the master plan and ordinance are under the jurisdiction of the city planning and zoning commission. Serving on that group are Charles Coletta, Roy Ebert, Thomas Hundley, William Morris, Gerald Wilcox, Lyle Huntoon, Rollin Huard, James Moore and Mayor Robert Wood. Huard and Moore serve as chairman and vice chairman.

The master plan, presented in public hearing in May, was accepted and approved by the city commission on June 3. The 71-page document is divided into six major segments which specifically outline subjects and considerations of the study. Following opening segments which deal with observations of the present condition of the city and an introduction a third section points out the mechanics employed in working with the plan and the considerations given to arrive at the final compilation.

The other three major divisions include a general analysis of community problems, the development plan and accomplishment of the master plan. On the subject of community problems such considerations as population, economics, land use, recreation and transportation were included. Also presented in this section are proposed needs for public services, such as utilities, hospital and government facilities.

THE FIFTH PHASE, development plan, dealt with land use including traffic patterns and circulation requirements while the final segment of the plan proposed implementation methods along with coordination with county, state and federal programs.

The master plan takes an overall look at the community in light of present trends and attempts to project from current conditions what might be ten years hence. As noted by commission members, the prepared plan of 1960, which projected to 1970, was not too far off from actual conditions. With the exception of the location of the new high school and a few minor zoning changes the 1960 planners did quite well.

"We hope our updated version will stand the test as well," commented Chairman Rollin Huard. "There has been an extended effort on the part of every commission member to explore every possibility before a decision was made. No one can see into the future, but this group studied long and hard in attempts to determine just what might happen in the next ten years."

Huard expressed praise for members of the planning and zoning commission for their two-year project. "Everyone worked hard on this thing," he said, "but I'd be remiss as chairman if I failed to mention a couple specifically. I don't believe over the two-year period that Lyle Huntoon missed a single meeting and it was Bill Morris' initial volunteering for drafts of the opening sections that got us off the ground. Of course I think the members of the city commission kind of helped us out in our schedule by breathing down our necks the last few months. Two years is quite a long wait, I guess."

COMPLETION OF THE master plan heralds the final phase of the current planning and zoning project, which is adoption of a zoning ordinance and zoning map. At present members of the planning and zoning commission conduct work sessions each Thursday evening and anticipate that by early September a finished proposal can be submitted to the city commission.

The zoning ordinance will be an updated and amended version of one adopted a number of years ago but was found in 1968 to be illegal because of an administrative oversight in its preparation. The ordinance will specifically outline approved use of land within the general areas outlined by the master plan and the zoning map itself. The zoning map, for the most part, will be completed on the findings of the master plan coupled with current and anticipated uses.

Both the zoning ordinance and zoning map will be presented to residents in a public hearing prior to acceptance.

Meeting set

FOWLER—There will be a public meeting at the Fowler High School tonight, Wednesday, to discuss the upcoming millage election.

Supt. Don Smith said all persons in the district were invited to attend.

"We are going to present the facts," he said. "And we are going to be there to answer any questions people may have." The meeting starts at 8 p.m.

Fund set up for burn victims

MIDDLETON—A Love Offering is being taken in this community for two members who were severely burned July 7 when a bottle gas company building exploded.

The collection is being taken to help defray medical costs of Larry Chick and Rev. Bert Cole of the United Methodist Church of Perrinton and Pompell.

The two were injured July 7 when leaking gas from a bottle that was being filled ignited. The blast leveled the building occupied by White's Gas Co. of rural Pompell.

Report are that both men are improving. Chick is at Carson City Hospital and Rev. Cole is at Ann Arbor in the Michigan Burn Center.

Persons wishing to make donations may call Mrs. Janice Hinton of Perrinton, at 238-7378 or Mrs. Linda Burr of Middleton, 238-7339.

Royal Oak man heads O-E district

OVID—The Ovid-Elsie Board of Education has announced the hiring of a Royal Oak man to fill the vacancy created by the June resignation of Supt. Robert Beauchamp.

The Board announced that Donald D. Kenney, of Royal Oak, has been hired as superintendent of the Ovid-Elsie School District. Kenney was the acting superintendent of Clintondale Community Schools in Mt. Clemens prior to coming to Clinton County.

Kenney's career began as a social studies teacher at Detroit in 1953. He was named head of the social studies department in 1959.

He served as guidance counselor at Tappan Junior High School from 1963 to 1965 before being named elementary principal at West Bloomfield Schools in 1965. Two years later he was named junior high principal at Orchard Lake. Kenney was named assistant superintendent at Clintondale in 1968 and acting superintendent in 1970.

HE ALSO SERVED as alternate on-camera teacher of world history on television and was a guest lecturer at Eastern Michigan University. He has also had extensive experience in contract negotiations.

Last year, he was recognized by the school district and the Michigan Department of Education for his "outstanding contribution to vocational education and the inspiration, leadership, support and understanding," he had given the youth of his community.

He is currently a doctoral candidate at Wayne State University where he received his Bachelor's degree in 1953 and Master's degree in 1959.

Kenney, 40, is the father of three children, David, 18, Cindy, 17, and Kathy, 13. He and his wife Christine plan to move to Ovid soon.

$1.25 million for renovation

ST. JOHNS—City Commissioners were told Monday night at their regular meeting that a cost estimate of $1.25 million has been established for the renovation of the city's waste water treatment plant.

The cost estimate was made in accordance with specifications by the Michigan State Health Department on a projection for future demands on the system. City officials are investigating the possibility of obtaining federal grant funds but it is believed local money in the amount of approximately $330,000 would be needed. The information on the cost estimate was presented in a letter from the engineering firm of Hubbell, Roth and Clarke.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax told commissioners St. Johns will receive $41,061 in state recreation fund money. He said the projects on which the money will be used includes improvements in the main city park, a senior citizens' park, water tower play lot and Kibble-Traver play lot.

In other business transacted Monday night, it was agreed to review all city insurance in regards to need and recommendations then made following the insurance audit.

Commissioners authorized Richard Kramer to replace Richard Bolyard as the responsible adult for the operation of the city park's concession stand.

The city water superintendent was authorized to seal all water meters in accordance with Ordinance No. 85. Action followed a report which indicated some water meter tampering by residents was taking place.

First hearing was held for the proposed Ordinance No. 242 which would rezone the Assembly of God Church from residential to M-C1.

Also the first hearing was held on the special assessment water and sanitary sewer project on Giles Street. Preliminary assessment roll is tentatively set to be presented at the August 9 meeting of the Commission. Project cost is $6,400.

Commissioners recessed a public hearing concerning the Oak Street curb and gutter special assessment project until August 9.

City Manager Weatherwax reported he would meet with Federal Builders regarding a request by Fedewa for installation of storm tile on North Morton Street.

The Commission authorized St. Jude's Children Research Hospital to have a teen march Sept. 19 from 12-noon to 4 p.m.

Norb Rehmann, Wayne Banner and Phil Benson of the Chamber Retail Committee are cutting prices in preparation for Sidewalk Days, Thursday and Friday, in downtown St. Johns.

Sidewalk days open

ST. JOHNS—Shoppers from throughout the Mid-Michigan area will descend on downtown St. Johns tomorrow and Friday in droves for the annual Chamber of Commerce sponsored Sidewalk Days.

Beginning with normal business hours Thursday, St. Johns merchants will move their wares out on the streets, with values galore. In addition to normal retail participation, a number of outside groups and organizations will be operating booths for the sale of merchandise or refreshments, turning downtown St. Johns into one huge open marketplace.

Business will close at 5:30 p.m. on Thursday and resume at normal business hours Friday morning. The bargains will continue on the street until 9 p.m. Friday evening.

Should it rain either of the two days, Saturday has been designated "rain day" and the sale will continue. However, the sale will end on Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

A NEW FEATURE this year will be the leasing of sale and display tables from the Clinton County 4-H Chapter. In the past, the Retail Committee of the Chamber has rented the tables from a Lansing concern. This year, the estimated $400 in rental fees will be turned over to the local 4-H Chapter.

There will be music on the streets, provided by the remote unit of WREJ radio, which will be broadcasting from downtown during the duration of the sale.

All of the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce members will be participating in the sale.

So gather up your shopping bags and plan to be on the streets Thursday and Friday.

The Friends of the Bement Public Library will sponsor their annual Used Book Sale during Sidewalk Days and will be located at the usual spot in front of Clinton National Bank.

FFA stock sale set for Aug. 3

ST. JOHNS—Early August annually marks an important event for FFA beef, swine and lamb feeders. These FFA members have put their best efforts into producing top quality animals for the FFA Market Livestock School and Sale held at the Wolverine Stockyards in St. Johns. This year is Tuesday, August 3.

In the forenoon animals are unloaded at the yards and graded by MSU and animal industry personnel. This is followed by a program which includes grading demonstrations and contests for FFA members. Chapters with outstanding projects appear on the program to tell how their feeding projects were carried out. Jim Prince, President of the Wolverine Stockyards Company, will discuss merchandising and promotion of meat.

At 3 p.m. the auctioneer rings the bell and the sale is underway. Animals are sold by market grade to buyers representing companies from near and far. Last year 163 head of beef, 392 swine and 21 lambs were sold. Early entries indicate that beef and lamb numbers will be about the same as last year while the number of swine will probably be somewhat higher.

Donald Munger, St. Johns agricultural instructor, is general chairman. Student chairman is Elmer Gowell, State FFA treasurer from the Montague chapter. Handling of beef animals will be under the supervision of Dick Barnes, Merrill chapter advisor, Bill Lasher, Owosso advisor, will supervise swine and Grant Fetting, Grant advisor, will be in charge of lambs.

GRADING CONTEST awards will be furnished and presented by Jim Prince. The George A. Brown Memorial Trophy, won by the St. Johns chapter for the last two consecutive years, will be presented to the chapter earning the most points by the number and quality of animals brought to the event.

All star game Friday at little league field

ST. JOHNS—Two teams of St. Johns Little League All-Stars will meet two Lansing League championship teams in a two-night double header at the Little League Field in St. Johns Friday, July 30.

The first game will start at 6:30 p.m.

These games will close the official Little League program for the season. Admission will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. The proceeds will go towards paying off the balance still owed on the lighting of the Little League Field.

Tonight, Wednesday, the Little League World Series will be held at the field featuring the winners of the playoff games held Monday and Tuesday.

Draft register continues

ST. JOHNS—Selective Service System Executive Secretary Opal Podolak, who manages Clinton County's local board 19, says the current Congressional impasse over extending the induction authority has created great uncertainty among area draft-age men.

Selective Service Director Curtis Tarr has recently stressed the importance of explaining to our draft-age men the high probability that draft calls will resume in the near future and that the current impasse in the Congress is not likely to affect any registrant's chance of being drafted.

"Our local board has been specifically instructed to continue to register and classify men, and to order for preinduction physical examinations those young men who may be needed to fill draft calls in the coming months," Mrs. Podolak said.

Men with lottery numbers through 125 were eligible for induction in June in order to fill draft calls.

SINCE THEN, THE Defense Department has asked Selective Service to draft 16,000 men in July-August. This request is being held by Selective Service headquarters pending final Congressional action on the

ST. JOHNS SIDEWALK DAYS THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

The above map outlines general land use proposals for the city of St. Johns through the year 1980. The city is divided into eight segments for ease of handling planning suggestions, but land uses proposed in the master plan are only general in nature. The proposed uses, however, do serve as a guide in preparing a more detailed city zoning map currently under consideration by the planning and zoning commission which should be submitted to the city commission sometime in September.

GOP drive raises money

ST. JOHNS—The Clinton County Republican Committee launched their membership drive July 1 under the direction of Mrs. Paul Nobis, County Republican Vice-Chairman.

Mrs. Nobis said, "We are still in the process of contacting as many county residents as possible in an effort to attain our goal and would gladly provide information to anyone contacting me."

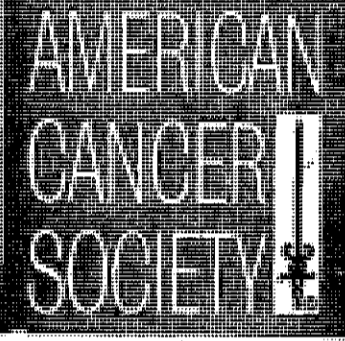

In a statement, James M. Palmiter, Clinton County Republican chairman said, "we are very pleased with the response to the County Republican membership drive so far. We are confident that all Republicans in Clinton County will support Senator Griffin and Congressman Garry Brown and Charles Chamberlain for re-election in 1972."

Five dollars of the $10 membership fee is sent to Republican State Central for use in the Congressional Elections and $5 is retained in the county for use in County Republican elections.

PALMITER ALSO SAID, "we have agreed to accept Five Dollar memberships from any newly enfranchised voters in the 18 to 21 age group. Although this $5 will be sent directly to Republican State Central, Clinton County will receive the credit toward its assessment from State Central Finance."

This membership drive will be an annual event, Statewide, to insure that the Republican Party will not have to go into debt as it did in the past year.

Free books, less aid, more students

ST. JOHNS—Why are 2.5 mills more needed this year over last year?

Because, like everything else, the cost of education is going up. "And if we are to continue to offer the kind of quality education we feel our people want their children to have, we are going to have to be willing to pay for it," said Supt. Earl Lancaster.

"If the voters will give us an approval of the additional 2.5 mills, we feel we can pretty much provide the same program as last year," he said.

LANCASTER ADDED HOWEVER, there would still be some planned economy moves within the system including staff cuts at some levels.

But even if voters gave approval Aug. 2 to the 2.5 mill request, it would not be valid unless the 14.5 millage request, scheduled for the same election, is also passed.

"We can't even consider operation this year if all we have is the eight mills allocated by the county and the 2.5," Lancaster said. "We have to have the renewal of the 14.5 we have had for the past two years."

But why the 2.5? THERE ARE LOTS of reasons, but three real big ones are the main cause.

1. The Supreme Court ruling last year, that textbooks and school supplies would have to be provided to the public school children at no cost, ended up costing the school, and you as a taxpayer in the St. Johns district, an additional $70,000.

The decision came after school budgets had been figured for the year and after most of the millage elections for 1970-71 operational monies had been held. Thus nearly all of the state's school districts were caught with additional expenses.

2. Another factor in the added costs, was the Legislature cut-back on state aid payments in March which resulted in a loss of an additional $21,000, to the district.

AS LANCASTER SAID, "The 2.5 mills would not have been necessary if the Legislature had not cut the state aid payments and if they had continued the state aid program that they have had for the past several years."

3. There was another major factor this year. With the defeat of parochial on the state scene, the local Catholic School was forced to discontinue their seventh and eighth grades.

The students of course came into the St. Johns secondary system requiring the addition of three staff members to cope with the added students. The cost to the district was $16,000.

When the Board of Education took their vote to set the Aug. 2 millage level, two board members voted against the two separate ballots. They felt the district needed more than 17 mills.

AND THEY MAY have been right.

Lancaster says, "Even if the two millage proposals are passed and we get a total of 17 mills, we still won't break even on June 30, 1972. But like I've said for the past few years, and been wrong every time, this is the year the Legislature is going to do something to relieve this extremely bad situation of financing our schools exclusively by the property owner."

And he may be right.

Both the Senate and the House have reported out education bills which would give more state aid to the schools. However, the financing of both bills is tied to the proposed increase in state income tax payments.

Senator Bill Ballenger has predicted state aid payments for the St. Johns schools will increase 11.9 per cent when the final state aid bill is approved.

BUT THEN AGAIN, that's anybody's guess.

draft bill, which is expected within several weeks.

"Those young men with relatively low lottery numbers who are eligible for induction this year, particularly those with numbers below 175—the current processing ceiling—have a very good chance of being processed for induction after draft calls are restored."

"Many young men," said Mrs. Podolak, "seem to think that the Selective Service Act has permanently expired and that they probably will never be drafted. Some of them also think that the entire system has stopped. They are wrong since it is only the induction authority that has expired. They, therefore, may be unintentionally breaking the law by failing to register at age 18, by not keeping their local boards informed of their current address, or by failing to report, if ordered for their preinduction physical examinations."

Mrs. Podolak stressed that local boards are continuing to consider CO, hardship, and student deferments and to take other classification actions.

"Young men who had planned to submit requests for deferments or exemptions are encouraged to do so." "The expiration of the induction authority does not affect our responsibility to classify young men," she said.

Mrs. Podolak may be contacted at 2011/2 N. Clinton Ave., St. Johns the office of local board No. 19.

Everything has returned to normal. The Upper Peninsula may never be the same again but our kin up there have survived our sons' yearly visit. Friday when I arrived home I announced that we would leave for the North immediately, if not sooner. Big Mama, who had planned on leaving Saturday morning reacted with calm that lasted while I loaded the car (forgetting 80 per cent of the things we were going to take), the dog and her. Then she got mad. The only words she spoke directly to me during the entire trip were, "Don't expect me to drive" and "Stop. I'm hungry."

berries for pies, tarts, and pancakes. I even made blueberry soup. . . but Alice fed it to the little forest creatures. What surprised me was the level of several of the inland lakes, High, Very High. One lake, Highbanks, is a trout lake and had a sign on the beach saying so. That beach and sign are now under 3 feet of water.

These area students have returned to St. Johns after completion of a four-week period of intensive rehearsals, applied music lessons and group activities at Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp. The activities included concentrated study in their own talent field and outdoor recreation. Pictured with Gilbert F. Stansell Sr. of Blue Lake Camp are Erin C. Wood, Barbara J. Penix, Wendy S. Wood and Lynne D. Furry, all of St. Johns.

THE BOYS WERE happy to see Pluto and Grandma and Aunt Barb were happy to be relieved. We swam and fished, visited the Pictured Rocks, Tahquamenon Falls, the Soo Locks, Canada and the Tumble Inn. We had a marvelous time. Especially at the Tumble Inn, or in Uncle John's case, the Tumble Out.

One thing we really enjoyed was Alice's wild blueberry pancakes. The blueberry crop this year is the largest and finest in many, many years. We all picked

Msgr. Bolger announces Autumn holiday tour

PEWAMO — A three-week autumn holiday tour of Europe by air has been announced by Monsignor Thomas J. Bolger, pastor of St. Joseph Parish, Pewamo.

Ordained in 1936, Msgr. Bolger was given the rank of domestic prelate in 1957. After ten years as superintendent of schools for the Diocese of Grand Rapids, he has spent twenty years in parish work.

Under his direction tour members will fly across the Atlantic on October 11 to visit principal scenes of interest in Ireland, France, Italy, Austria, and England.

From Shannon the party will travel through the "ring of Kerry" and Killarney, Adare, Cork, Limerick, and Waterford.

PAUSING TO KISS the Blarney Stone at Blarney Castle, the group will continue to venerable Dublin, from where Msgr. Bolger and his group will fly direct to Lourdes. Over three million come to Lourdes each year. Msgr. Bolger and his pilgrims will join in devotions with thousands of others from all over the world. Then over the Pyrenees and across the Mediterranean the party will fly to Italy.

"Italy has more faces than any other country in Europe," says Msgr. Bolger. "They include those of the Roman empire and the renaissance; those of grand opera, industry, and fashion; and those of sun, lakes, and mountains.

"The capital of these many Italies is Rome. Bathed in its rosy golden light, it is both stylish and rich. It is the Eternal City. Throw a coin into the fountain of Trevi and, legend has it, you will certainly return one day.

"ROME IS PACKED with monumental and significant sites," says Msgr. Bolger, "and we intend to visit just about every one of them.

"But the Vatican itself will be the focal point of our interest. We have scheduled guided tours of every part of it available to us. Of course, the highlight will be our audience with the Pope."

The group's first full day in Rome will begin with Mass at St. Peter's, followed by a detailed examination of the interior of the vast structure.

According to Msgr. Bolger, the best place in all of Rome to buy rosaries, medals, and religious articles is located on the roof of the Basilica of St. Peter itself. It's a fair-sized shop tended by an Italian community of smiling multilingual nuns.

A STEEP SPIRAL stairway leads from the roof almost to the very top of the dome of St. Peter's, from where tourists may enjoy in all directions the panorama of the Eternal City.

Catacombs, squares, historic edifices, and major basilicas will be examined by the group under the guidance of veteran Roman tour conductors, according to Msgr. Bolger.

Stopping for a noonday Mass and visit at Assisi, the birthplace of St. Francis, tour members will drive north on the new AT VIENNA THE members superhighway (Autostrade del Sol) to Florence and out to climb the leaning tower of Pisa.

By way of Bologna and the shrine of St. Anthony of Padua, they will arrive at Venice, where they will use gondolas to explore the picturesque island city. Over the snow-capped Alps the travelers will continue to Vienna for three days among its castles, gardens, and coffeehouses.

AT VIENNA THE members will visit the eight-hundred-year-old Cathedral of St. Stephen, with its connecting catacombs and the great organ.

From Austria the party will fly across the continent of Europe to the capital of the British Empire, London. "When a man has tired of London he has tired of life," said Dr. Samuel Johnson. Msgr. Bolger's party will understand what he meant when they visit Parliament and other sights of the world's biggest city.

At Tyburn Convent they will pause to commemorate the recently canonized Forty English

Martyrs. The tour will conclude with a genuine medieval banquet at Bunratty Castle in Shannon, served in the style of the middle ages. A DAY-BY-DAY illustrated itinerary folder will be sent by Msgr. Bolger to those who address him at St. Joseph Rectory, 106 East St., Pewamo 48873. His telephone number is 824-2421.

Duplain-Rochester Colony

By Mrs. James Burnham Phone 224-4045

"Man! What a God" was the sermon topic Sunday morning at the Duplain Church of Christ. Scripture reading was from Hebrews 12:1-2 and special numbers in song were "Victory in Jesus" by the adult choir and "Mustard Seed Faith" by Coni Burnham. Sunday evening Dennis Gaertner brought the message. Greeters for the day were Mr. and Mrs. Orin Acre.

Jeff Burnham from the Duplain Church of Christ and Randy Willett from the St. Johns Church of Christ spent last week at Rock Lake Christian Assembly. Mick Hood and Troy Bancroft are spending this week at camp.

Mrs. Mary H. Petro returned to her home in St. Louis after spending three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. James Burnham and family.

If you were an Irishman you'd enjoy life in a thatched and whitewashed cottage like this, snug in winter, cool in summer. Wide fireplace and all, it's typical of those to be seen all over Ireland by members of Monsignor Thomas J. Bolger's autumn holiday tour.

Dear friends,
It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family.
The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Respectfully,

'Space' visitors drop in ST. JOHNS—There's a young boy in Chicago who may win a new bicycle. That's because a St. Johns man noticed a couple of yellow balloons blowing around his back yard Sunday morning. Lloyd Ford, of R-3, went out into his back yard and gathered up the balloons. "At first I thought some kids had been fooling around and they'd lost them out of a car," he said. "But then I noticed this little card attached to them that said 'please mail me'."

THE BALLOONS WERE launched Saturday from Eggers Woods by John Gibson of Chicago. The note attached said, "Please mail me back, I may win a bicycle." "I don't know if he is going to win or not, but I sent the card back. I hope he does," said Ford.

BATH—Saddle horse enthusiasts from nine Mid-Michigan counties have organized the new Central Michigan Horseman's Association and have named Richard Ash of Bath as president. The new association represents about 900 owners and other amateur riders interested chiefly in showing horses. Throughout the state there are other regional groups which help coordinate the activities of local saddle clubs. CMHA not only works with local clubs in scheduling arrangements of show dates, but they also work to improve the quality of such shows through uniform rules and a uniform point system, Ash said. POINTS CAN BE accumulated in 30 different classes toward an annual CMHA champion in each class.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF BATH TOWNSHIP BOARD REPORT

July 19, 1971
The Mid-Monthly meeting of the Bath Charter Township Board was held on July 19, 1971 at the Township Offices.
All members present.
Minutes of the July 6, 1971 meeting were approved.
Planning Commission minutes of meeting held June 28, 1971 were read and placed on file. The Commission approved the up-dated 1966 sewer study plans but it was noted, "It was the consensus of the Commission that the facilities as presented were inadequate regarding any future development and we believe the possibility of a larger system should be fully examined prior to spending these funds for a stop-gap measure."
Road Agreement for Upton and Herblson Roads having been approved by Clinton County Road Commission was accepted and placed on file.
State Tax Commission advised board that the assessed valuation of the Township is as follows: Real Estate $9,882,170.00, Personal Property $1,475,280.00 making Total Valuation $11,357,450.00. Bath Township will not have a factor this year.
Michigan Department of Natural Resources advised the board that the Recreation Bond Fund application submitted by Bath Township for Project B-1029-AD, Bath Village Park, has been approved in an amount not to exceed $7,802.
Supervisor advised the board as follows: "I discussed the weed and brush problem with Bob Eldridge, Wednesday morning July 7, 1971 and the following was the gist of his opinion. If anyone desires to cut weeds or brush on their own property, including road right of way they may at anytime without any permission. Tree removal or any other permanent type work should be on a permit basis. If anyone desires to cut weeds or brush on other persons property they should get the owners permission to avoid trespass problems. The road commission has no objections. Naturally if anyone is injured while engaged in such activity it is not the responsibility of either this township or county government.

Park Lake Improvement League Lease was approved.
Board discussed the answers received on the ad for an assessor and it was noted that outside assessing would cost the township between $25,000.00 and $37,000.00 for a complete job.
Special board meeting set for Thursday July 22, 1971 to meet with Leon Thelen, Clinton County Equalization Director.
Permission was given ALSAC for a Teen-March September 19, 1971.
Vouchers No. 7122 thru No. 7138 were approved for payment.
Paul Thompson, Township Sanitation Engineer was present to up-date the board on the sanitary system for the township.
Board approved the request of Mr. Thompson to discuss the possibility of connecting up with DeWitt Township as suggested by County D.P.W. and to develop detailed plans for the sewer system within the Township.
Meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

Waterloo to open

ST. JOHNS - Starting July 30 at the Clinton Theater for a three day run the film will be "Waterloo" based on one of history's most significant battles. The movie depicts the battle that changed the face of Europe, sent an emperor into exile from which he never returned and made Britain the world's greatest power for the next one hundred years.

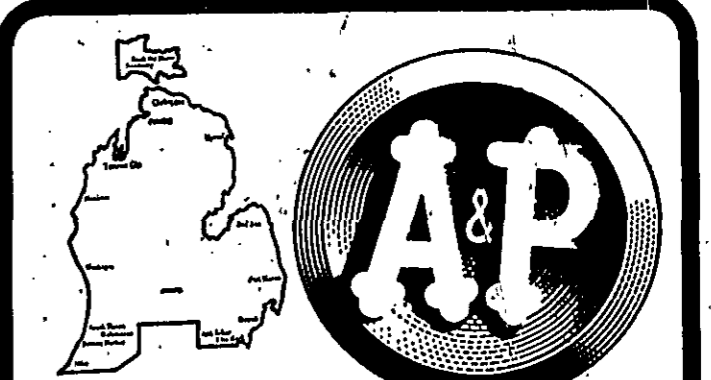

The Battle of Waterloo, which pitted Napoleon against the Duke of Wellington in 1815, was filmed under the supervision of Europe's Dino De Laurentiis, who also produced previous spectaculars as "The Bible," "Barabbas" and "War and Peace."

It's Free Fair time!

IONIA—The Ionia Free Fair once again has a blockbuster lineup of attractions for the more than 500,000 fairgoers expected during its July 30th through August 8th run.

Canadian singer Anne Murray and Sonny and Cher are among the headline attractions that will appear in the fair's evening grandstand shows.

Miss Murray, who became a major star during the past year with her recording of "Snowbird" and numerous national television appearances, will be featured August 2-3-4.

Sonny and Cher, superstars in the rock music world, will go before the footlights August 5-6-7.

Joining Anne Murray and Sonny and Cher will be comedian Paul Lennon, Lou Prohut and The Prohut Family Dancers, Diane Shelton, a national champion baton twirler with many national TV credits; The Colstons, comedy dancers; Empress, The Performing Elephant; Henry's Canines, and the Keith Killinger Band. Each show will be followed by the "Our America" fireworks display.

Country music fans will be happy to know that Carl Smith and Billy Walker and the Tennessee Walkers will star in two country western shows Saturday evening, July 31, and that Mel Tillis, featured often on the Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour, will be on hand for two more country shows Sunday evening, August 1. Joining Mel will be singer Melba Montgomery.

Stock car racing will be featured the evening of July 30 and in the afternoon on August 6 and 7.

Danny Fleenor's Hurricane Hell Drivers will display their death defying antics in front of the grandstand August 1 and 2.

The All American Hell Drivers will make their first Michigan auto thrill show appearance August 8.

Harness racing holds the afternoon spotlight on August 3-4-5, with $20,000 going to the winners in purses and trophies.

Back for the seventh consecutive year is the Deggeller Magic Midway, one of the largest carnivals in the nation with 75 rides and shows.

There will also be hundreds of agricultural and commercial exhibits, along with such free morning grandstand attractions as tractor pulling, team hitch competition, horse pulling, and a Free Kiddie Grandstand Show on August 5.

Bringing the nation's 21st largest fair to a close will be the World's Largest Demolition Derby, Sunday evening, August 8. This has been the biggest crowd-pulling event in years, with the overflow spilling over into the infield.

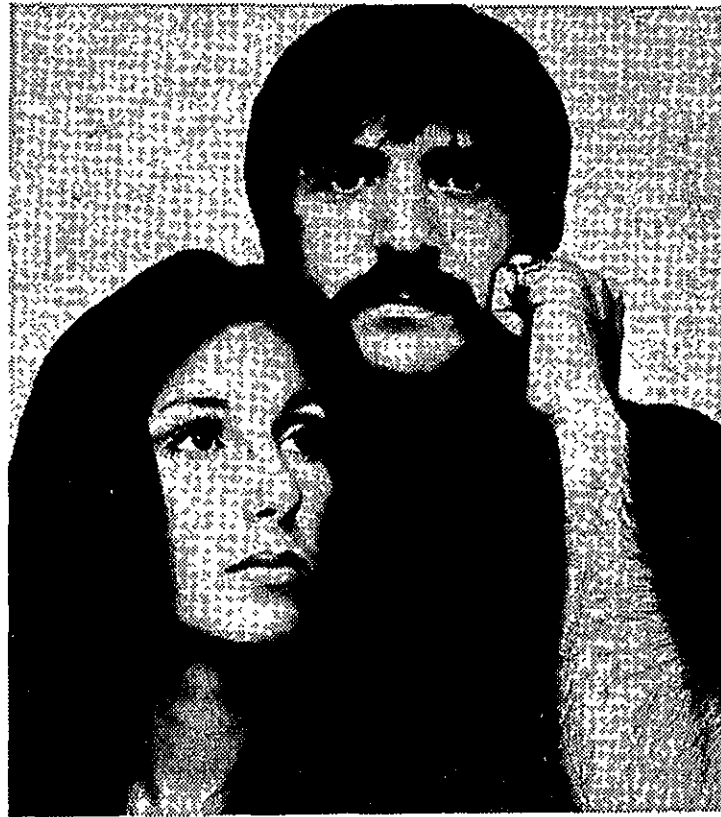

Kalamazoo area residents may wish to reach Ionia by taking U.S. 131 to Grand Rapids and then either M-21 into Ionia or I-96 to the Ionia exit on M-66, seven miles south of the fairgrounds. Battle Creek residents desiring to take M-66 to Ionia may have to take a country road detour due to highway construction. An alternate route would be M-37 through Hastings and then M-43 to M-66. The Free Fair Grounds is located on M-66, about two blocks south of the Ionia business district.

ANNE MURRAY
TOP VOCALIST AT FREE FAIR

Singer Anne Murray will be the headliner in the Ionia Free Fair's evening grandstand shows August 2-3-4. Miss Murray rose to fame during the past year when her recording of "Snowbird" raced to the top of the best-seller charts in both the United States and Canada. The recording won her a nomination for the coveted Grammy Award. She has been a frequent guest on network television shows, including several appearances on the Glen Campbell Goodtime Hour. On the same bill with Miss Murray will be top professional variety acts that will also appear with Sonny and Cher when they star at the Free Fair August 5-6-7. The fair runs July 30 through August 8.

SONNY AND CHER AT FREE FAIR

Singers Sonny and Cher will star in the Ionia Free Fair's evening grandstand shows August 5-6-7. The talented couple skyrocketed to the top of the music world when their recording of "I Got You Babe" sold close to three million copies. They have appeared on countless

Area Jaycees seeking stamps

LANSING—On Sunday, September 12, the Local Area Junior Chamber of Commerce Groups will sponsor the 15th Annual "Harvest Home Festival."

The purpose of the Festival is to raise needed funds for the benefit of the patients of the Ingham County Extended Care Facility.

As in the past, the J.C.'s are asking that trading stamps be donated in order that they may be redeemed to provide prizes for the Festival.

The stamps should be mailed to the attention of Barbara Thorburn, Ingham County Extended Care Facility, 3822 Doble Road, Okemos, Michigan 48864.

ICBM to be displayed

IONIA—America's first line of deterrence against enemy nuclear attack, the Air Force Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missile, will be on display at the Ionia Free Fair July 30th through August 8th.

The Minuteman was America's first three-stage, solid fuel ICBM and became operational late in 1962. Currently, 1,000 of these deadly missiles are standing alert in protected underground launch complexes.

The deployment of Minuteman and 54 of the larger and more powerful Titan II missiles, supports the United States defense policy of the "mixed force". These strategic missiles, combined with manned bombers of the Strategic Air Command, and submarine launched Polaris missiles of the Navy, give the government a variety of options of response to all levels of military aggression.

Positive control procedures guarantee that the Air Force has unquestioned control over the missiles while they are on alert and through the time they might be ordered by the President to be launched. Before Minuteman, or any missile, can be launched, more than one missile control officer and his deputy must authenticate launch orders and activate necessary controls. All launch crew personnel must work separately and individually, but within very close time tolerances to carry out their tasks.

As part of a modernization program, the Minuteman force is being updated with newer models. About half the force is now made up of the improved Minuteman II and Minuteman III which began to replace Minuteman I in mid-1970.

Florists invited to show wares

IONIA—Several commercial florists have indicated their acceptance to enter an exhibit at the Ionia Free Fair from Friday, July 30, to Monday, August 2.

The invitation for florists to exhibit has been extended by D. Sheldon Crossman, Secretary-Manager of the Ionia Free Fair. The commercial exhibits will be in the Floral Building and are intended to be an attraction for fairgoers before the amateur competitive flowers come in Tuesday morning, August 3. The commercial flowers will not be judged.

Each commercial florist will be provided an eight foot table with a pine tree background. The display may be any type of floral arrangement, or may be composed of artificial pieces and gift items.

Commercial florists wishing to exhibit should contact the Free Fair office to make arrangements.

Highway signs modernized

LANSING—Modernization of highway signs on I-96 from the Ionia-Clinton County Line to Cedar St. in Lansing were among 35 highway projects awarded recently.

The work includes replacing all rigid sign supports with the improved break-away safety supports that snap under impact. The low bid went to Bemis and Son Inc. of Kalamazoo with a bid of $49,275. The work is expected to be completed by October of this year.

Six Clinton youths visit Washington

ST. JOHNS—Marie Blakely and John Dunham of Elsie, Lori McQueen, Marcia Tait, and Steven Thelen of St. Johns, and Fred Thelen of Fowler returned the 10th of July from Washington, D.C. where they participated in a Citizenship Short Course at the National 4-H Center.

They were six of 36 4-H members from Michigan attending the week-long session. Delegates from Arkansas, Florida, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota, and Virginia were also there. During the summer more than 5,000 teenage 4-H members from throughout the United States take part in the training sessions which are conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in behalf of the Co-operative Extension Service of the State Land Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The course is designed to provide insight into individual responsibility for citizenship and to develop skills and knowledge that help young people relate their role in society to their community, their nation and their world.

Discussion and seminar sessions feature current topics of interest to youth and methods of dealing with problems through positive action.

The six youths said they gained much from the discussions they had with the other delegates. They made the following comments: "I found out that the South is more integrated than the North."

"I saw myself more clearly, and I found out that I'm not the only one with problems."

"I realized that it is very hard to set up a list of the ten most important problems which have to be taken care of first when the U.S. has so many problems."

"I got a better understanding about how other people feel on today's issues. Also, other people, who are not from Michigan, have parallel ideas."

THE YOUNG PEOPLE had a chance to see democracy in action and to study their American heritage through field trips to historic sites and Capitol Hill.

A highlight of the day on Capitol Hill was a visit with a Michigan Congressman. The young people visited their district representative, Garry Brown. They asked him questions about the 18-year-old issue, taking cigarettes off the market, who was most likely to run for what office in 1972, how he answered his mail, and other issues of today.

All six young people agreed that one of the most interesting features about the short course was working together with 4-H members from other states, about specific ways in which young people can take action and design projects that reflect their concern and interest in citizenship.

Such projects include: trying to be overall good citizens, informing everyone about their trip through the newspaper, showing slides, and giving talks, helping their environment e.g. litter pickup and glass recycling, keeping the public informed about the various 4-H activities, and besides working on their own community projects, supporting other groups'.

THE 4-H MEMBERS also had an opportunity to see the rapid progress being made on the nearly completed first phase of expansion of the National 4-H Center. Members and business leaders from throughout the United States have contributed to expanding the Center which will mean increased training opportunities for all of 4-H and Extension.

Extension 4-H Youth Agent, Pat Reynolds from Montcalm County, and Mrs. Faye LeCureux of Owosso accompanied the group from Michigan to the Short Course. The young people traveled by a chartered Indian Trails bus, Chief Crow, and also visited Fort Bedford, Penn., and the famous battlefield in Gettysburg, Penn.

Teens attend Ferris citizenship seminar

BIG RAPIDS—If 18 year olds can vote, next they will be running for office.

Preparing for that day local area high school students took part in mock political campaigns at the coeducational Michigan Farm Bureau Young People's Citizenship Seminar at Ferris State College, Big Rapids, July 19-23.

Among the nearly 200, 11th and 12th grade students representing this area were Keven D. Hayes, 904 S. Lansing St., St. Johns, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes; Michele A. Lenon, 509 S. Lansing St., St. Johns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lenon; and Tom O. Morris, 15699 Wright Rd., Grand Ledge, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Morris.

In tune with the "new age" the 5 day seminar helps teens prepare to actively take part in local government. The theme of the seminar is the under-

Two graduate

ALMA—Two Clinton area women were among the graduates of the Alma Practical Nurse Center receiving certificates July 1 at the Alma High School gymnasium.

Elizabeth Riggle, R-1, St. Johns and Elaine Burham, 121 N. State Road, Pompeii were members of the graduating class from the center which is sponsored by the Alma Board of Education.

MSU has more openings in equipment course

EAST LANSING—High school graduates interested in working with farm machinery can still enroll in Michigan State University's 18-month "earn while you learn" Farm Equipment Service and Sales program beginning in September, according to Steve Bolen, program coordinator. Under the program, students begin classwork in September and continue until spring, April through August is spent in placement training. Students work with skilled and experienced personnel in selected equipment dealerships, earning wages to finance their education.

According to Bolen, the most valuable part of the program is the supervised placement training. In a recent survey of graduates, over 90 percent rated placement training as a good learning experience.

"The real value in placement training is having an opportunity to put into practice some of the principles, concepts and techniques learned during the first six months on campus," Bolen explains.

"They find that portions of textbook, lecture and laboratory material are easier said than done and don't readily solve all job problems. It raises many questions that they can bring back to the classroom for discussion during the last six months of the program."

While in the classroom, the student receives both technical and business management instruction. Approximately half the time is spent working with machinery and learning about its operation, maintenance and service.

THERE IS also instruction in communication skills such as business letter writing and public speaking, and lessons in agricultural economics and marketing.

The following March the student completes his course work and is awarded a certificate. In all, he spends approximately 1,000 hours in the classroom and another 1,000 hours on the job.

"The graduating student is thus ready to become involved in many mid-level management decisions as parts managers, service managers or assistants," Bolen says.

The program is administered by MSU's Institute of Agricultural Technology and guided by an advisory council of dealers and branch personnel. Scholarships ranging from $50 to $150 per term are provided each year by the Michigan Farm and Power Equipment Association members.

Persons interested in additional information on the course should contact Steve Bolen, Department of Agricultural Engineering, Michigan State University, East Lansing, Mich. 48824.

FARM SAFETY WEEK

2401 JULY 71 M.P. 60

LOOK TO SAFETY ON YOUR FARM—IT PAYS

Your farm — it's your life's work, pride and happiness, and it's your private piece of the world. That makes it worth worrying about . . . worth caring for. Take the extra time to check safety features, to assure yourself that all equipment, building and electrical components are in A-1 shape. Keep eyes on lookout for fire hazards. Make sure lofts, ladders, silos are secure to avoid injury. Store tools away carefully for added safety.

Keep a constant look-out. When precautions are followed diligently, there is less room for error. Farm safety-checks, most importantly, guarantee your family a financially sound future.

FAMILY TREE

Robert Walling of St. Johns, displayed his genealogy chart which covers nine generations and five years of work, at the Bement Library. Walling made the chart for his family reunion which was held Sunday at Sleepy Hollow.

Clan lines traced on six-foot 'tree'

ST. JOHNS—When members of the Walling family got together last Sunday for their annual reunion, they had a pleasant surprise waiting for them.

One of the clan, Robert Walling of 107 N. Morton, St. Johns, unveiled a six-foot genealogy chart which traced the family tree back nine generations to the Revolutionary War.

Walling has been working on the chart for the past four months and the chart represents at least five years of research work by himself, two cousins, Aura Condit and Catherine E. Walling, and many, many others.

Most of his research was done at the Bement Public Library in the city, and last Friday he dropped in to show assistant librarian Cleo Despréz the fruits of his labors.

Walling, who is retired, is also making genealogy studies of other families in the area.

"I did it to promote family unity and ties," he said modestly. "After all, that's what these reunions are all about."

Country ham meaning clarified

CHICAGO, Ill. — Should the term "country ham" mean the meat was processed in the country—or that it was processed in a special way?

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, at the request of a group of North Carolina ham producers, has proposed changing Federal meat inspection regulations to establish minimum ingredient, aging and curing requirements for hams and pork shoulders labeled "country" or "country style." Public comments are being sought.

Current regulations set no specific curing and aging time or conditions for hams and pork shoulders to be labeled "country" or "country style." They allow use of the unqualified term "country" only on products actually prepared on a farm or in the country. "Country style" products need not be produced in the country or on a farm. Officials of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service said the proposal would not affect current minimum treatment requirements for destroying live trichinae.

Materials supporting the request submitted by the North Carolina pork producers are available for public review in the office of the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. Public comments on the proposal should be sent in duplicate to the Hearing Clerk by September 15.

Copies of the proposed regulation change, which will be published in the July 17 Federal Register, are available from the Meat and Poultry Inspection Program Administrative Group, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

1971 crop wheat loans key to orderly market

EAST LANSING—This week saw the Michigan wheat harvest in full swing in spite of some intermittent showers according to Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

Wheat already harvested, he stated, is of good quality with medium moisture. However, yields have been lower particularly in the southwestern and central part of the State hit in recent weeks by severe drought conditions. He reminded producers of the orderly marketing feature of the price support loan program. Smith cautioned producers to keep currently informed on market conditions because of the anticipated short crop of Michigan soft white wheat.

The 1971 wheat crop is estimated to be about 20 million bushels which is down about 11 million bushels from Michigan's average crop and the third year in a row for a short crop of Michigan white wheat.

Current market prices, he added, are above the support loan levels but may dip as the harvest progresses. About 76 per cent of the Michigan wheat farms with domestic wheat allotments, Smith stated, have been signed up under the 1971 Wheat Program. He noted that producers who signed up under the 1971 Wheat Program and complied with the set-aside provision are entitled to price support loans on their entire 1971 wheat production.

MANY 1968, 1969 and 1970 crop wheat producers who stored their wheat benefited handsomely from the increased market prices in the spring of 1971.

Orderly marketing, Smith added, can be the key to more profitable wheat prices.

Eligible farmers can obtain price support loans through their local county ASCS offices on wheat stored either on-the-farm, in acceptable storages or in approved warehouses. Loan rates for U.S. Grade No. 1 wheat in Michigan's heavy wheat producing areas vary from $1.12 to $1.27 per bushel, the same as for the 1970 crops.

If the wheat harvest is delayed because of poor weather, wheat may be seriously damaged. Loans will still be available, Smith pointed out, at a discount even for damaged wheat if it will keep in storage. Smith emphasized the fact that the ASCS program benefits consumers and processors as well as the farmers.

The loan program, he added, assures the general public of an adequate supply of wheat for bread, the staff of life, and other wheat products. The orderly marketing feature, he noted, is to lessen the wide fluctuations in the market prices which in turn tend to stabilize wheat production and prices for wheat products. Any increase in the last 20 years, he stated, in wheat products such as flour, bread and pastries, has not been due to increases in wheat prices.

THIS PARTICULAR feature of this price support program is probably the least understood by consumers, he added, since it is an indirect benefit and would probably be noticed only when there are wide fluctuations in market prices for wheat products.

Hay production reported down

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County farmers harvested 33,500 acres of hay in 1970, according to Arvin Budge of the Michigan Crop Reporting Service.

Production amounted to 81,000 tons, an average of 2.42 tons per acre. This compares to the 1969 crop of 84,000 tons from 35,000 acres.

Budge says that Clinton is one of the larger hay producing counties in Michigan.

A lonely man?

One of the loneliest men in the Michigan Republican Party family these days is Don Riegler of Flint. Lonely for the lack of official affection amongst the party leaders.

But Don Riegler, U.S. Congressman, has one thing still going for him. He is gaining more and more constituents to his side of the family tree. And after all, what's more important today for good leadership—party blessings or people approval.

This isn't to say that Riegler will be able to make it alone without party backing. Few politicians have ever succeeded. And Riegler's feet stomping on President Nixon these days isn't the best route to greater things down party lines.

We have heard some longtime, hard-working Republican leaders locally ask the question, "We just don't know what's the matter with Riegler these days?"

Well, for one thing, he might be smarting just a bit after the Republican leadership turned away from him and mistakenly endorsed Lenore Romney for an ill-fated senatorial race. The picture of the outcome was pretty much known before the first campaign word was spoken. And, it was obvious that Riegler's efforts to step up a notch was being blocked by some pretty powerful forces.

If the truth were really known, Riegler's wanderings away from the Republican party leadership is endorsed by a large segment of the voting population. He is voicing opinions that aren't popular for Mr. Nixon's image. His maverick maneuvers, however, are making an impression on John Q. Public. And he will, most definitely make an impact on the new voters who will be joining the ranks at the polls next election—the 18 to 21 year old citizen—who may find in Don Riegler a representative voice that they can believe in and an ear that will receive their ideas. And he has already wooed over a large number of the "establishment" who, in his own district, have been giving him greater support each time his name appears on the ballot.

We need it

When Clinton County was theoretically blown off the map recently, key volunteer personnel in the county civil defense program got their first taste of what survival is all about. And they handled the job commendably.

After getting over the first "opening night" jitters, they settled down to perform tasks most of them had only read about. And they learned many valuable lessons, that just could save thousands of county lives.

However, one need was pointed out. There is a severe lack of coordination between the many fine fire departments within the county, especially at a time of natural or nuclear disaster.

It was recommended the fire units form a county association, similar to the regional and state associations they belong to. It was felt such an association would do nothing but promote the efficiency of these units.

We applaud the recommendation. And we urge the county firemen to seriously consider such a move, not only in the interest of increased public safety, but in the interest of brotherhood.

Such an association would not only provide for better, closer professional relations, but could also provide opportunity for mutual training and social functions.

It could even promote inter-county competition in such contests as waterball, hose laying and hydrant hook-up.

Such contests do attract people, and who knows, maybe someday Clinton County could host the State Firemen's Association convention.

Plans for a new industry which could bring up to 200 new jobs to St. Johns were unveiled before the City Commission this week. The St. Johns Area Development Corporation told the commission that Stylemaster Homes, Inc., of Fort Wayne, Ind., is keenly interested in locating a new plant on the city's west side.

Local draft boards, resting quietly in the news background since the cessation of the hostilities in Korea in 1953, will likely be in for a share of the news spotlight in the next few weeks. The sudden attention to Selective Service calls was brought on by President Kennedy's Tuesday night radio and TV message which said in part that the nation's military strength will be increased substantially within the next few months. A check with the local draft board revealed the effects of the proposed military buildup have not yet reached Clinton County.

Imaginings and reality

By TIM YOUNKMAN

This week we are to experience another in the long-term "space-age" miracles.

Apollo 15, streaking for the moon and new important data on rocks and other things, will capture the imagination of awestruck adults and casual glances by conditioned youngsters.

We know too well what dangers there could be for the three space heroes, especially after the recent Russian tragedy where three of their cosmonauts were found dead after reentering the earth's atmosphere.

For the youngsters, raised on such startling events as moon-walks and space stations, the whole affair might seem rather commonplace.

It's a sign of the times, however. A time when 18-year-olds could be elected to almost any political office at local and state levels; when radical youths can sway international decisions; when veterans can return from war and tell how it really was.

There was a time in most of our lives when day-dreaming brought us to distant lands on our own earth. Or an H. G. Wells novel could conjure up visions of weird and frightening creatures—though totally plausible.

Now the young have had all the myths exploded by science and television. Our communications system has grown so great that the imagination is left stagnant.

Yet, somehow, the young people seem to be more capable, more intelligent, and more interested in our own social conditions. This is where the imagination of our juniors is turned on.

With all of the billions of dollars we're spending on making our own dreams and childhood illusions come true, I think it's time we turned to the newly enfranchised population, to try to make some of their dreams come true. We've nothing really to lose—and a whole world to gain.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

I got no culture

By JIM FITZGERALD

Only one thing bugs me about driving to Detroit to see the Tigers or ogle the go-go girls; I can't get there without passing by Oakland University where they have the Meadow Brook Music Festival every summer.

"We have got to go to that festival sometime," my wife always says. "Sixteen Ehrling is conducting the Detroit Sumpnone orchestra next Sunday, with Pinchas Zukerman on the violin." "Yeah, we really gotta," I say. But, deep in my beer-can heart, I know it can never happen. Wrong. It happened. An invitation came from Donald O'Dowd, president of Oakland University. He wanted my wife and me to join him for cocktails and dinner at his home, after which we would all go to the concert.

"I think it's time we got some of that culture," I told my wife. "You just can't resist the free booze and food," she said.

I don't know how I ever married a dame with so little couth. Anyway, that Sunday, after watching the Tigers blow one in the 10th to the lousy Senators on TV, we were off to Oakland U. in search of culture.

President O'Dowd appears amazingly young to be head of a large university. "You don't look a day over sixteen," I said, chuckling at my clever use of a pun to demonstrate that I knew the name of the band leader.

My wife nudged my gently, spilling my drink. "Sixteen Ehrling is not conducting tonight; Arthur Fielder is," she whispered in my ear as I licked my gin off the table. This set me to thumbing through a brochure which listed all Meadow Brook attractions for 1971. She was right. Fielder was waving the baton that night. A few fays later, Andre Previn was taking over, and then Mitch Miller, followed by Skitch Henderson. Sixteen was also scheduled several more times.

What surprised me was that all these guys lead Sixteen's orchestra—the Detroit Symphony. "You mean guys like Previn and Fielder don't have their own groups? They just come into town with a little stick and take over some other guy's band?" I asked my wife.

"Lick your gin," she answered. "Major League baseball should look into this idea. They could station 2 teams permanently in each city. Only the managers would travel around, taking turns managing each team against each other. They'd save millions in transportation costs," I said. "And managers are as important to baseball teams as conductors are to orchestras. If changing leaders can make the same violinists and horn blowers sound different, why wouldn't switching managers improve a 3rd baseman's throw to first?"

"Quiet," my wife said, "someone might hear you. Any idiot knows that different conductors conduct different types of music and that's what makes the same orchestras sound different."

"At $5 a seat, it smells gyp to me. These traveling conductors are only in town for a day or so. The musicians read every note off the sheets. The conductor could mail them his orchestrations and it wouldn't make any difference who waved the stick," I said. "Did Glenn Miller lead Tommy Dorsey's band? No. They all traveled from town to town in buses, with Betty Grable singing in the last seat."

Our discussion ended when the music began. And my wife gave me a triumphant look every time she caught me tapping my foot to Arthur Fielder's pop tunes.

"You did enjoy it, didn't you?" she insisted as we headed back home.

"Yes," I admitted, "but I would have enjoyed it more if the Tigers had won today."

"You just ain't got no culture," she said.

Washington Reports

Congress says no

Rep. U.S. Garry Brown 3rd. Congressional Dist.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Floor action in Congress last week was highlighted by the House's refusal to approve a contempt citation and the Senate's upholding of President Nixon's veto of an emergency employment act.

Action in the House: CONTEMPT CITATION: By a 226-181 vote, the House sent back to Committee a motion to cite the Columbia Broadcasting Company (CBS) and its President for contempt for refusing to produce for Committee review film outtakes from the making of the television documentary, "The Selling of the Pentagon."

Supporters of the motion contended that the Special Subcommittee on Investigations of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce had properly issued a subpoena to CBS to appear before the Committee with the film outtakes, CBS's refusal to do so raised one issue: whether Congress would enforce its orders. Opponents, on the other hand, contended that—regardless of whether the subpoena had been properly issued—the request for the outtakes was in violation of the free press guarantees of the First Amendment. No further attempt to cite CBS is expected.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT/CHIEF JUSTICE: The House approved and sent on to the Senate legislation that would provide an office of Administrative Assistant to the Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court. In the last 20 years, the number of cases filed before the court has tripled.

Besides his judicial workload on the bench, the Chief Justice is by law required to oversee much of the Federal judicial system, including, among other duties, serving as Chairman of the Judicial Conference of the United States. The Conference is composed of nearly 30 committees and is responsible for recommending to the Congress changes in the law affecting the judicial system.

Action in the Senate: PUBLIC WORKS ACCELERATION ACT: Last week the Senate voted to uphold the President's veto of the Public Works Acceleration Act. The act was part of a larger legislative package which included extension of the Appalachian Regional Development program and the Public Works and Economic Development Act of 1965. While a presidential veto necessarily must extend to the entire bill, the President specifically stated in his veto message his support of the latter two programs. Congressional backers of these two programs have indicated that they will be reintroduced in this session of Congress.

Opponents of the Public Works Acceleration Act argued that it would primarily reach the construction and allied industries and while they were not opposed to these workers receiving assistance, they thought that it should not be provided at the expense of failing to help effectively and selectively the areas of highest unemployment. It was further contended that the bill would not reach the neediest among minority groups.

(On Monday, July 12th, the President signed into law yet another employment measure, the Emergency Employment Act of 1971, which according to the best estimates will provide 150,000 jobs in the first year and 200,000 in the second. Supporters of this measure claimed that it meets the objections raised to the Public Works Acceleration Act.)

SCHEDULED ACTION IN THE HOUSE THIS WEEK:

Legislation to establish a Joint Committee on the Environment will be considered next week. I favor and have sponsored legislation to establish a standing committee on the environment in the House since a joint congressional committee would have only limited legislative powers while a standing committee would be fully empowered to act to meet our environmental crisis.

Other matters to be considered include: Veterans Drug Treatment Act, Veterans Administration Medical School Assistance Act, Egg products Inspection Act Amendment, Motor Bus Width Limit on Interstate System, Military Construction Authorization.

Tell Us the Truth!

You who despair of the "lost generation", You who with "politics plus" has been fed, List to the new voice alive in the nation Have courage and hope for the days yet ahead; Too long we have drifted in calm resignation, Seeking a miracle in political booth Now we're fed up with the pap and palaver Where are the leaders to tell us the truth?

You who have witnessed the shifting of power Away from Democracy's early ideals Where can we go to restore truth and vision? But to new leaders even now in the fields? When credence in those who betrayed us as leaders Has led us to discard the fang and the tooth, Our patience is thin for political patter We're seeking for men who will tell us the truth!

Why must we govern free people in secret? Hiding the facts that should challenge free men? Are not our decisions all free and above board Why need they gag and blindfold us again? Hear us again as we seek for new guidance! Help us respond with the vigor of youth, Rise up ye men of the new generation, Make us to know the freedom of truth!

July, 1971

Yes sir! Can do!

By REV. HUGH BANNINGA

In the 20th chapter of Matthew's gospel we read about James and John asking Jesus for special favors. Jesus' response to them is, "Fellows, you're asking the wrong guy. I'm not in charge of that department. It is God Himself who chooses those who are given special honor."

Yes, James and John tried to secure the top positions of leadership in Jesus' new kingdom and they assured Him that they could drink from the same terrible cup He was about to drink from. They said, "Yessir! We're able. We can do it."

Yessir, that's real Christian commitment! We make a radical commitment to follow Christ in our lives, and then too often the picture of our lives turns out to be you and me sacked out on a "Serta-Perfect-Sleeper" mattress. A beautiful picture indeed!

James and John and their mother showed their lack of understanding of who Jesus really was. They had seen Him as an outstanding teacher and more importantly, as a leader with great charisma. He had the ability to gather the common people to Him, and with the common people he could overthrow the hated Roman occupation forces and anyone else who stood in His way—anyone who would try to prevent His establishing the messianic kingdom predicted by the Old Testament prophets.

That was really a laugh, wasn't it? James and John thought they were ready to follow Jesus, but at the time He needed them most, they "copped out"—they fell asleep. And not once, but three times! No, they weren't ready and able. They couldn't make good their undying profession of faith.

NO, MY FRIENDS, we are not ready. We are not able. If any Christian thinks he has earned the right to sit at the head table in God's kingdom, he is greatly mistaken—as mistaken as James and John were. No one earns the right, because no one can. No one can measure up on his own. As Jesus told James and John, "Those places are reserved for the persons my Father selects."

So James and John thought that it would be wise to make plans for the future. They were already special disciples of Jesus, so why not try to get the top jobs in the new society? Why not ask Jesus if He would appoint them to the number 2 and 3 positions in the new government? Why not try for chief presidential advisor and Secretary of State?

Sounds a lot like you and me today, doesn't it? We've made our profession of faith in Holy Baptism. We have said, "We renounce the Devil and all his works, the vain pomp and glory of the world, all covetous desires, and the sinful desires of the flesh." We have said, "We believe in Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God." We have said, "We accept Him and desire to follow Him as our Savior and Lord."

Yes, God makes the selection; not because anyone merits it, but because of His own great love. (Note: Vacation time is on me, so I suspend my writing for the next few weeks.)

WELL, JAMES AND JOHN tried, but they were politely "shot down." Jesus told them those positions were reserved seats and only God would issue the tickets. God Himself would select the persons worthy for those seats.

YES, WHAT we have said is the same thing James and John said to Jesus. We have said, "Yessir! We are able. We can do it."

Stockman-Horton Grange will meet at the church on Friday evening with a potluck supper served before the business meeting.

Douglas Huyck has been spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Huyck before returning to his Navy Base in Hawaii.

Notice the question Jesus asked James and John. "Are you able to drink from the terrible cup I am about to drink from?" and James and John both said, "Oh, yessir! We're able. We can do it!"

But then after our baptism has come the daily challenge of putting our profession of faith on the line. We are challenged every day to back up our fine words with equally fine actions.

Yes, we're very much like James and John. We say at one moment, "Yes, we'll follow You to the end." But the very next moment we feel tired and say, "I'll think I'll take a nap."

But Jesus knew they weren't ready. Recall the scene in the Garden of Gethsemane on the eve of the Crucifixion. Jesus took Peter, James and John from the other disciples and went off to another part of the Garden. And He told them, "My soul is crushed with horror and sadness to the point of death...stay here...stay awake with me."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Against millage

Editor: First, I would like to thank all of the citizens who voted for me on the recent School Board election, thank you.

Secondly, I would like to explain that I am a factory worker, one of the countless tax payers who are expected to pay, but not to be heard. I think that it is time for that tradition to be broken, and for that reason, I am taking a stand against the proposed two and one-half mill school tax increase.

Mr. Lancaster likes to compare our school system to private industry, by saying that the St. Johns School District is the second largest industry in Clinton County, that it is next to the Federal-Mogul in payroll; Mr. Lancaster, it is a cold, hard fact of life, that in times of an economic slump, private industry makes out backs and layoffs. Nobody likes it, but it is a fact of life.

WE HEAR OF THE elimination of an Assistant Superintendent, but we also hear of a job created by the title of Elementary Counselor, filled by the same ex-assistant superintendent, if that is a cut back and a promise of more economic measures to come, then we do not need them, not when it comes to creating jobs. For years, our school system has been like the sacred cow of India, inviolate and untouchable, it is time that is changed. The tax payers can no longer afford deluges like that.

Mr. Parr mentioned at the recent public meeting that the steel industry was asking for a thirty-one per cent increase over a three year period and that they were going to get it, but at least they work twelve months a year.

The chief negotiator for the St. Johns Education Association was questioned by concerned citizens as to what the union demands were concerning salary increases in the coming year. They were told that it was better if the public were not informed of the union demands. In other words, tax payers, it is alright for you to pay the taxes, but keep your nose out of school business. It is no wonder that the public automatically votes no on millage proposals. The taxpayer is not an inexhaustible supply of money, nor do they receive manna from heaven—we work for our money and we work twelve months a year also, we have a right to know where our tax dollars are going to go.

In closing, I would like to say that the tax payer is taxed almost to the hilt now, we can afford no more. So, I urge concerned tax payers to vote no on the proposed two and one-half mills school tax increase. Thank you, Sincerely, GALE VANBURGER

Candid comments

I had not intended to complicate the thankless task of the school board with another letter before the special "election" of August 2. But continued failure of our legislature to face up to the basic problems of education financing, even though they are now apparently going to pass an income tax increase, still leaves responsible citizens with the unpleasant task of deciding how much, and for how much longer can they afford to pay for the wrongs of those in our society who refuse to discipline themselves, and since even the kids have been marshalled to try to promote the increased millage I must try to present the following information for the serious consideration of all voting citizens at this time.

On July 19 I spent nearly an hour with Michigan House Speaker William Ryan, leaving him a copy of the material I read before the special school meeting, and telling him all the things so many of us feel about being "fed up to the ears" with a legislative body whose most consistent accomplishment seems to be raising their own salaries and remodeling the capitol without following through and doing their basic job.

Since I feel that our big unions have also been guilty of many of the same practices, and Speaker Ryan has been associated with the U.A.W. in the past I felt I might be laying it on the line so frankly that he would be unwilling to grant me another interview, for I told him that these unions had become morally bankrupt, citing as proof the steady increase in imports of such items as watches, sewing machines, motor cycles, electronics equipment, many autos, and now steel, as evidence that their inflationary strikes have largely priced the U.S. out of its own domestic market, and that continued brainless strikes could lead to national suicide. He didn't accept these thoughts at face value, but he surprised me with his tolerance and some of his statements and an invitation to come back when I had something about which I felt it necessary to contact him again.

MR. RYAN IS AN humanitarian first, and he has seized upon the inherent soullessness of big corporations as the whipping boy for the social injustice he feels is prevalent in this country today, while as yet failing to recognize that the corporation can be no better than the men who do its work, and if they lie and cheat and steal, as both management and labor does when it fails to deliver an honest day's work for a day's pay, then there is little chance that the corporations will ever rise to the occasion, and of course as I pointed out to him they would very likely face anti-trust action for the kind of cooperation necessary to do the things he feels they should do. I also suggested that he might better serve the indigent if he did not carry his concern for their welfare to the point where it placed intolerable burdens on those in our society who still believe in working for a living.

But the Speaker convinced me that there is little glory in working for the cause of the poor and downtrodden. He feels as I do, that someone should do it, and few will accept so thankless a task. As in so many other public service jobs he finds it much easier to arouse interest in a project if there is some money in it for someone. And we must admit we are indeed a selfish materialistic nation, much more interested in "the little world of I" than in assuming the proper responsibilities of good citizenship. Consider the horrible examples we set by big show off weddings too frequently followed by divorce, a spectator sports mania that has created an oversized parasitic professional athlete business, and a dollar worshipping egomania which drives us to seek status symbols and become in effect money changers addicted to creature comforts to the extent that too many lose sight of responsibilities for the welfare of their fellow man and even the education of their own children! As a Roman philosopher once said of his people: "O venal city! Wouldst sell thyself if thou couldst find a buyer." And we all know what happened to Rome. We could learn from her example, but we probably will stupidly refuse to do so!

Speaker Ryan also said in this context: "Education is for the rich." While I disliked the statement I had to agree that generally it is the children of the better to do families who go to college, more is spent on schools in more "affluent" communities, and in fact we use the term "enrichment programs" to justify asking for more millage in too many cases. But those of us who take our living from the soil have to recognize the limitations God places upon us and the rest of you had better begin to recognize these limitations too if you wish to be survivors. Many farmers in the northern part of the St. Johns school district would be foolish to support either of the millage proposals now being offered in the face of the severe drought they are experiencing. This catastrophe to them could become a catastrophe to the rest of us if food should disappear from the supermarket shelves, yet I'm sure most of you will immediately forget their plight if you get your millage, and so though this is also a thankless task I'm going to keep reminding you that we should as a state and nation be intelligent enough to foresee and avoid a very possible famine.

I'm not making any recommendation on this millage vote, but as one who has come to believe from my experiences that we are getting out of schools and governmental units just about what we put into them in the caliber of students, teachers and so-called "public servants", I have the following thoughts for various segments of society found in this school district:

1. TO THOSE OF YOU in labor unions who have participated in strikes to force wage increases I would suggest setting aside a portion to help pay for the education of your children instead of continuing to expect the farmers of the area to do it while you spend these wage increases on play items. And I would further suggest letting your union leadership know that their power carries the need for some civic responsibility along with it.

2. To you potential late teens brides, soon to be come full citizens under the 18 year old vote law, and the poor young fellows who will stand with you through that highly commercialized ceremony from which you expect to receive many gifts, I suggest you may soon come to regard that wedding as a funeral where you smelled your own flowers if you don't learn how to avoid bringing too many children into the world. I have heard a young father of four in the district remark that he disciplined his wife by keeping her "Barefoot and pregnant." He meant it as a joke of course, but it isn't funny unless he is able to pay the cost of educating those kids.

3. To you young home builders enthused about the loan which permits you to build your new "cracker box" I must suggest that you defer starting your family until you have learned to save a little from your wages and to say to the salesman offering credit: "It's cash, you idiot, if I can't pay for it I can't afford it," because 18 percent interest will soon destroy any chance you may have of providing any future for your kids, and if everyone becomes conformists as you have done and spends their income too far in advance the great depression of the early thirties, which hasn't taught you because it was before your time, will go down in history as a Sunday school picnic compared to the one you will experience. It is your future kids; from six to sixty you will either have to stop acting like kids, or bear the inevitable lumps for kid behavior. Contrary to what some politicians try to tell us there isn't any political solution to the problem. We all have to work at something useful hard enough to earn what we get, and spend it more wisely than we have been doing. And we must examine whether the job we are paid to do has staying power in an economic crisis, or if it is a parasitic occupation likely to be dropped when the going gets tough. The true cause of inflation is that too many of us are always ready to go with the crowd, and so like a flock of sheep we seem near to stampeding off the edge of the economic cliff.

4. To young mothers, belatedly concerned that the school may not be able to provide the day nursery you had come to take for granted, I would suggest No. 1 that you seriously consider foregoing any further additions to your family, and No. 2 that you spend more time at home properly rearing and helping to educate those you already have!

5. TO THOSE OF YOU who have the means to want to show off a bit, and think your community school is a good place to do it, I suggest a gift to the school of the amount of extra taxes you feel you can afford, rather than a vote to saddle all of us with an "enrichment program". And as an added community service I suggest you become more active in putting education reform pressure on your government. You are the logical ones to do it, yet I was surprised to learn by a direct question to Senator Ballenger in his office in your town July 23, that he has received very little extra pressure for education reform as a result of the school millage defeat. Superintendent Lancaster does it of course; that is a part of his job, but apparently there is very little volunteer effort.

At Egans, shopping for an A-1 Used Car is a pleasure, even in the rain. The protected lot is one of many ways Egans say, "Welcome".

If you're thinking of a new or used car, camping equipment or a boat the loan staff at Clinton National Bank is waiting to help you out. They have the answers to your financing questions and can advise you on the appropriate loan plan to fit your budget.

Are You In As Good Shape As Your Car Should Be?

It's one thing to get your car in good condition for that vacation trip. It's equally important to make sure you are in good condition — both physically and mentally — for those long hours behind the wheel.

The following are suggestions on making sure your trip will be a safe one as well as a pleasant one:

- If you are tired, stop driving. Pace yourself; apply common sense.
- Eat lightly to avoid sluggishness.
- Don't rely on drugs or pills to prevent drowsiness. Keep something handy to chew. Light snacks help keep you alert.
- If you are driving alone, talk, sing, whistle or play the radio. This also keeps you alert.
- Never drive more than three hours without stopping for a stretch or a cup of coffee.
- Avoid driving at a constant speed. By varying your rate of travel slightly, you can help combat "highway hypnosis."
- Keep at least one window or vent open for a steady flow of fresh air.

FOR THE ROAD

- Rely on reflectorized road markings for visual clues. Use shoulder lines to keep "to the right" of roadway, specially on two-way roads.
- Keep glancing across the road surface between center and shoulder lines to keep eyes alert and functioning properly. Don't focus your vision on a single light or line ahead. This tires eyes.
- Drive slower at night to compensate for darkness.

Cutting Down on Emissions

Further reduction in harmful emissions from automobile engines will be gained soon by the introduction of catalytic converters.

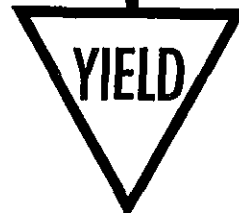

According to Arvin Automotive Aftermarket, a catalytic converter can eliminate most of emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide by oxidizing them.

One of the Arvin experimental converters contains a bed of catalytic pellets through which the polluted gases pass. As the gases go through the bed, the catalytic action of the converter causes combustion or oxidation of these pollutants into harmless gases.

Two such experimental converters were successfully used in 50,000 and 68,000-mile tests in cars operating on lead-free gasoline.

The converter in which the catalyst is placed can be a muffler-like container located near the engine compartment. A conventional muffler and exhaust system is still needed to reduce noise levels from the exhaust to a low level.

One car manufacturer has already indicated that some 1973 models will be equipped with a version of catalytic converter.

We see warning signals every day of our lives, whether at work, at home or on the road. How many do YOU take heed to?

To be a safe driver you must take heed to warnings when you are faced with them. If you don't your family might be having supper alone tonight because you won't be able to make it.

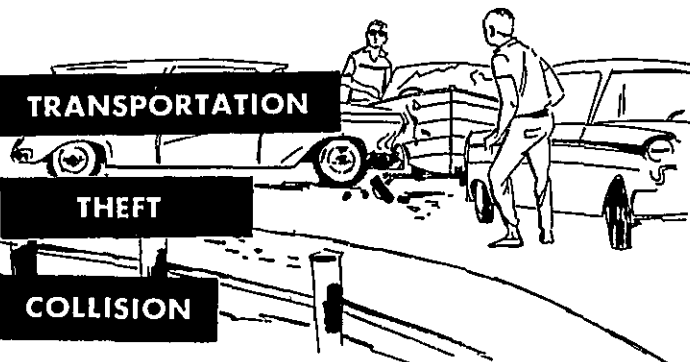

You might just have an accident and have to spend the evening elsewhere.

"Pre-Flight" Check by Car Driver

Lots Easier Than for Pilot

"Dear, will you round up the children while I check the car out? We have to leave in five minutes."

Can you imagine yourself — or any driver — going through a formal check-up procedure every time you use your car? However, if you were an airplane pilot, you would be required to check a number of things before every take-off.

Called a pre-flight inspection, this pilot's check-up involves scrutiny of fuel and oil, control surfaces, instruments, ignition system, carburetor heat control, this switch and that lever. It is pretty complicated until you know your airplane. But know it you must before you are granted a license to fly.

These checks become routine to a pilot, because he is personally responsible for the condition of his aircraft. He cannot blame anyone else if he runs out of oil at 10,000 feet or, worse, out of power as his wheels leave the ground.

It would be impractical for a driver to go through a pilot's complicated pre-flight check every time he decided to drive around the corner, but a few simple precautions can save you untold inconvenience . . . possibly agony.

TIRES . . . Take a walk around your car to see if any tires look low. Watch for bulges, cuts or bruises they may have suffered when you hit a curb or drove over a rock. Spend a few minutes occasionally taking a close look at the tread. Even when tread looks all right at first glance, it may not be deep enough to keep you out of trouble on a wet, smooth surface.

STEERING . . . A pilot's directional controls are his rudder, aileron and elevators, which he must check before every flight. A driver can check his steering in seconds: A hand on the steering wheel as you get into the car is all it takes.

Move the wheel two inches to see that the front wheels respond. If your car has power steering, make your test with the engine running. Listen, too, for the squealing noise that warns of impending trouble in the power steering pump or belt.

LIGHTS . . . In nearly all vehicle safety inspections, lights lead the list of defects. They are either out of focus or just plain out.

Imagine a pilot saying to his passenger during a night flight, "I must remember to get those identification lights fixed one of these days. Would you mind watching for any planes that seem to be coming too close?"

This pilot's chances still would be better than those of the driver who, because he forgot to have a light fixed, hopes other drivers will see him. A walk-around light inspection takes only a few seconds. Your service man will do it for you (including a check of the brake lights and turn signals) if you ask him to.

BRAKES . . . If our brakes stopped us short of the rear wall when we pulled into the garage last night, we assume they will stop us today. Don't count on it. Instead, make these two easy checks before leaving home:

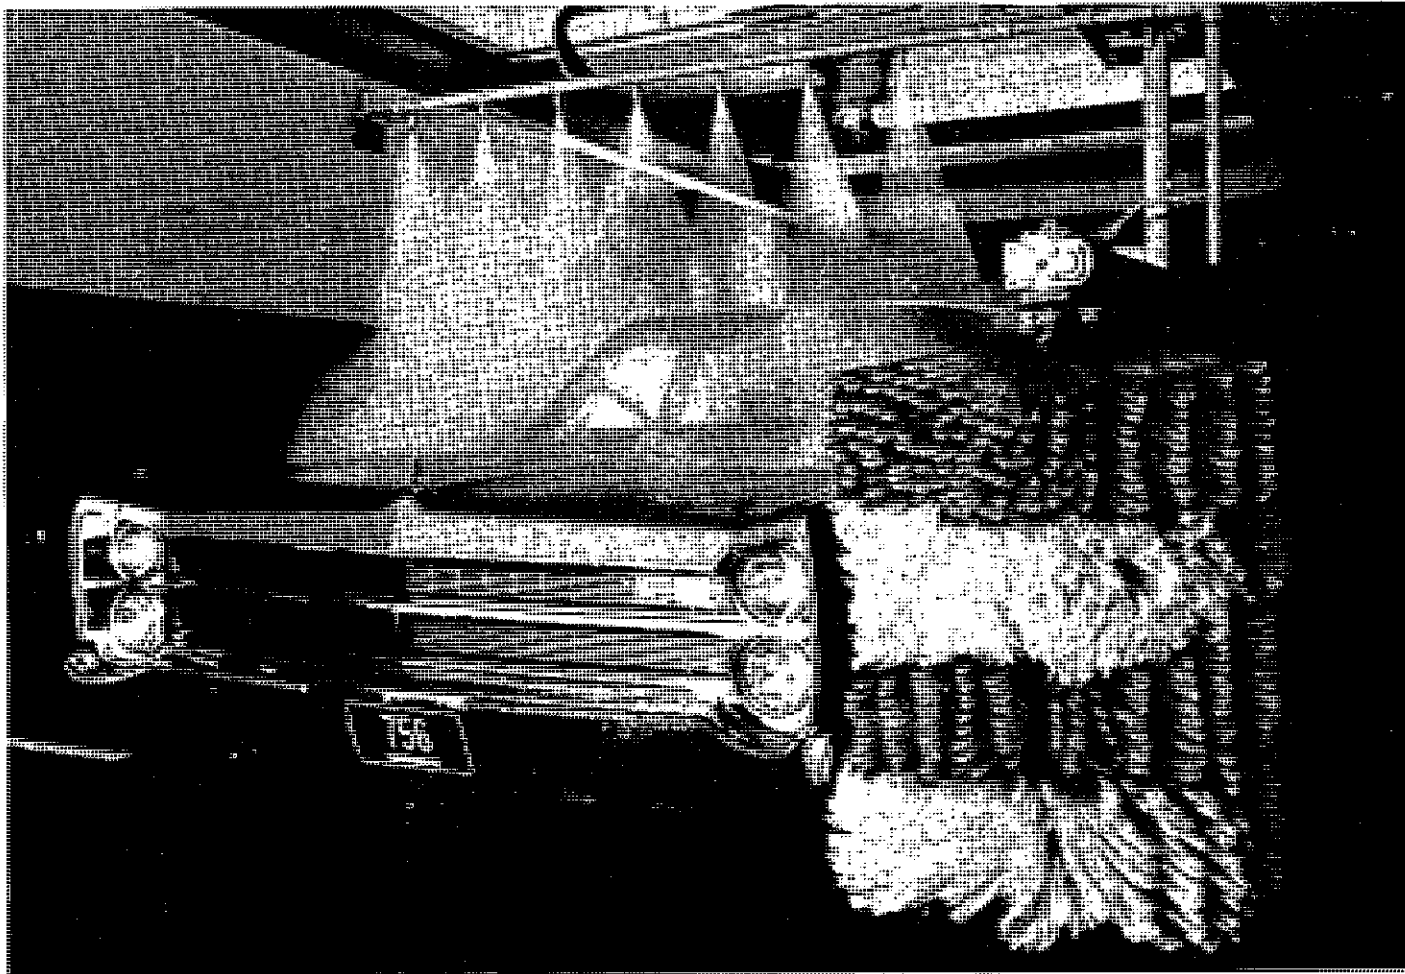

First, hold steady pressure on the brake pedal for 15 seconds before moving the car. If the pedal feels spongy or fades toward the floor, your brakes need immediate attention.

Second, before you have to jam on the brakes on the highway, see that the car stops straight and true at home. Brakes that pull to one side or the other because of overnight dampness can be your undoing. Fluid leakage can develop unexpectedly, too, and this can catch you with an abrupt grab to one side.

About 80 percent of all families own at least one automobile. One out of three own more than one car.

WE HAVE WHAT IT TAKES

To wash your car thoroughly in minutes!

Anytime you need your car washed, just drive on out to Randolph's Speedy Car Wash. They're open 24 hours a day to serve you. You'll find eleven self-service bays and one automatic for those who like speedy, clean wash jobs. The automatic bay has three processes. (1) washes, (2) rinses, and (3) waxes, all in just two minutes and for only $1.00. Reasonable? You bet! Whenever you feel like washing your car, day or night, just stop at Randolph's. That'll do the job.

Want to Enjoy a Picture-Perfect Trip? Have Car and Camera Fully Inspected!

Before leaving on a motor trip, the average driver is likely to have his car inspected to make sure it is running properly and smoothly.

In the same vein, the camera depended upon for the vacation record should also receive the same careful inspection. There is nothing as aggravating or disappointing as discovering those fabulous pictures you thought you took are all a blur or nothing at all.

The easiest way to check the camera, especially if it has not been used for a while, is to shoot a test roll of film. If the pictures are satisfactory, you can be reasonably sure your camera is working properly. If not, take it to a dealer and have him check it.

Photo Inventory

A profitable "before-leaving" photograph is one picturing the things you are taking with you. While a photo inventory will not prevent you from losing something, it is one good way not to leave things behind. Each time you move on, check the photo and see if you have everything. The same photo record could also be handy

Chance of Mishap Is Estimated By Safety Council

What are a driver's chances of having an accident in his lifetime? According to the National Safety Council, it depends partly on the distance he drives.

A person who drives 12,000 miles a year has one chance in three of having some kind of an accident. There is one chance in four that damage will be limited to property, one in 40 that there will be at least one injury, and one in 1,300 for a fatality.

One who travels 8,000 miles a year stands one chance in five for any accident, one chance in six for a property damage accident, one in 55 for an injury accident, and one in 2,000 for a fatal one.

A driver who goes 4,000 miles a year has one chance in 10 for any accident, one in 11 that only property will be damaged, one in 110 that there will be personal injuries, and one in 4,000 that it will result in death.

A driver must keep his car — and himself — in the best possible traveling condition to improve those odds, the Council says.

when filing an insurance claim for lost or stolen property.

Instead of "packing" your camera for the trip, keep it out of suitcases and handy for any scene that presents itself during the trip. Seeing a photographic scene is worthless if no camera is available.

Facts on Film

A word of advice — film is perishable. Heat and humidity are particularly harmful and have the greatest effect on color film. In summer, don't place your camera or film in the trunk, glove compartment or on the rear deck. The best place for the camera is on the seat beside you. Extra film can be carried in a cooling chest.

Don't Clown Around Behind The Wheel!

Drive Carefully . . .

Accidents Are No Laughing Matter!

An automobile is no place for you to be the life of the party or play the clown! Every time you get behind that wheel you take upon yourself the responsibility for your life as well as the lives of others . . . that's why driving is a privilege not a right. Don't abuse your privilege by risking human lives through silliness or carelessness . . . remember, there's no fool like a dead fool. An untuned car is also a menace to you and others. Be smart, not dead. Make sure your automobile is in condition for safe driving.

Anti-Pollution Devices Are Built Into '71 Cars

Starting with the 1971 models, all new cars sold throughout the United States feature fuel evaporative control systems to help reduce air pollution that may be caused by automobiles.

Unlike exhaust or crankcase emissions which become a factor only when the engine is running, the evaporation process is a continuing one and is a factor when a vehicle is at rest, as well as when it is under power.

Evaporative emissions from the fuel tank and carburetor are believed responsible for 20 percent of the total emissions of hydrocarbons from cars that do not have controls. Hydrocarbons, parts of fuel not burned in the normal combustion process, are released into the air by both the exhaust system and by evaporation from the fuel tank and carburetor.

The evaporated fuel, which formerly was vented into the atmosphere, now will be eliminated by a system which stores the vapors in the crankcase or in activated charcoal canisters until they can be drawn into the engine and consumed in the combustion process.

Federal Requirement

Evaporative control systems were required for new vehicles sold in California starting with the 1970 models. Their introduction, under federal requirements, on a national scale is the third big step auto makers have taken in the past decade to eliminate emissions as a factor in air pollution.

The first two steps were eliminating emissions from crankcase ventilation and reducing pollutants that emanated from the exhaust pipe.

On cars built prior to the introduction of emission controls in the early 1960's, 60 percent of hydrocarbon pollutants were traced to the exhaust pipe, 20 percent to evaporation and 20 percent to crankcase ventilation.

Pollutant Reduction

Improvements in the design of engine components and modification of many engine adjustments resulted in sizeable reductions of pollutants emitted through the exhaust pipe.

Hydrocarbons which were formerly released into the atmosphere from engine crankcases are now sealed and recirculated for burning in the combustion process.

The motorist can now do his share towards obtaining cleaner air by maintaining his car.

California Survey

The accident report was terse. Driver — Male — Age 49. Car ran off freeway — rolled down embankment. Weather clear. Pavement dry. D.O.A. (Dead on Arrival.)

... cle went out of control, hit a guard rail and struck a bridge abutment. The driver was killed.

Make sure your car is in top condition before leaving on your trip.

To those who read about the single car accident in the next morning's paper, that accident may have looked like another case of a drunk losing control of his car. But the California Highway Patrol wasn't satisfied with the explanation.

They studied the victim and his car as part of their investigation of the relationship between mechanical defects and single car highway fatalities.

A blood alcohol test showed he had not been drinking. A thorough check of the car showed the following:

The power steering belt and fan belt were loose.

The fan hub was loose on the water pump shaft, the right front lower ball joint shank failed at the edge of the right support arm. This caused the suspension at the right front wheel to fail.

Thus the driver lost control of his car and left the freeway, causing the fatal accident.

This case was but one in a detailed study of 409 fatal single vehicle accidents where 29% of the vehicles involved had one or more mechanical defects. Two out of three of these defects either caused the accident or contributed to it.

In 6.4% of the accidents investigated, a mechanical deficiency was directly responsible.

The two-year study disclosed 172 faulty mechanical systems in 119 vehicles. The most commonly observed problems were in braking systems, accounting for 35% of all defects found. Next were steering system defects at 26%, with tires ranking third at 21%. Additional factors, lumped together as miscellaneous (lighting, shock absorbers, exhaust systems, windshield wipers and others) accounted for 18%.

Nearly all reported defects were attributed to wear and lack of maintenance rather than design and assembly flaws.

Another accident reported by the California researchers involved a vehicle whose engine locked up when, at high speed on a freeway, a connecting rod broke. The vehi-Cains, Inc., located at 210 E. Higham is the home of the Mini-Brute, the Opel, as well as Pontiac, Buick and GMC trucks.

PLEASE

Help stop pollution.

You can help.

A recent tune-up clinic conducted by engineering students at the University of Michigan found that on average, a tune-up will reduce a car's exhaust pollution by 55%.

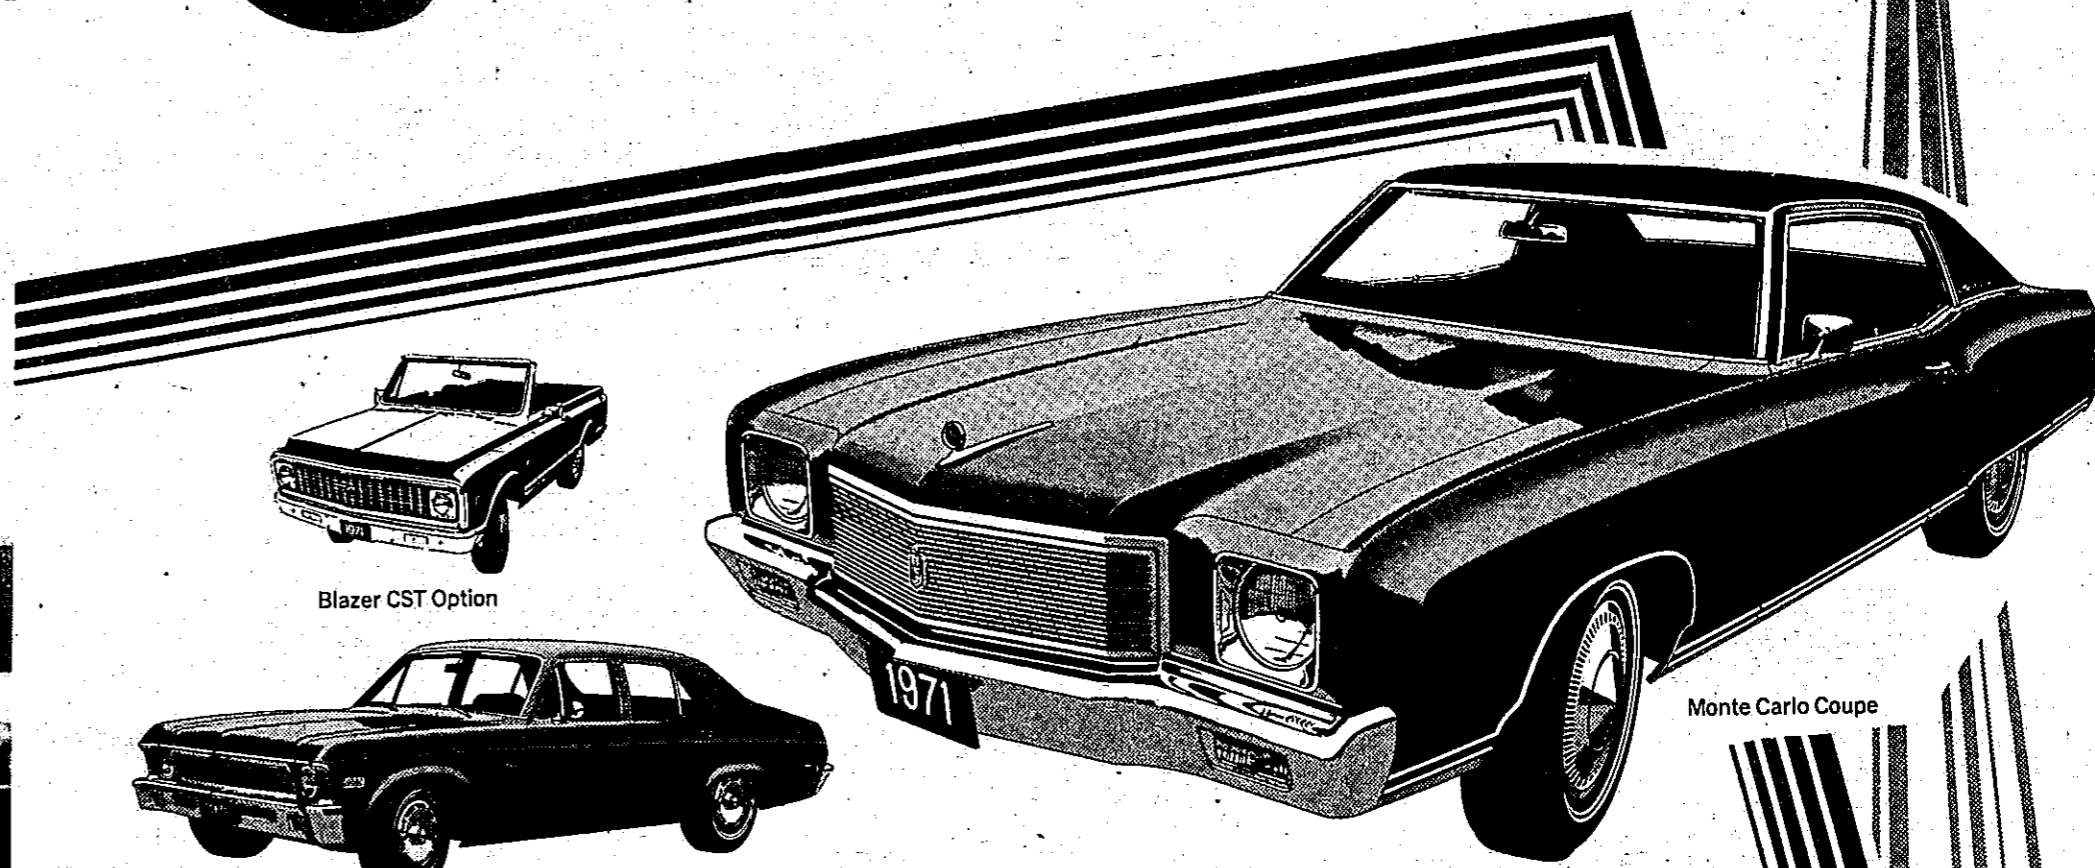

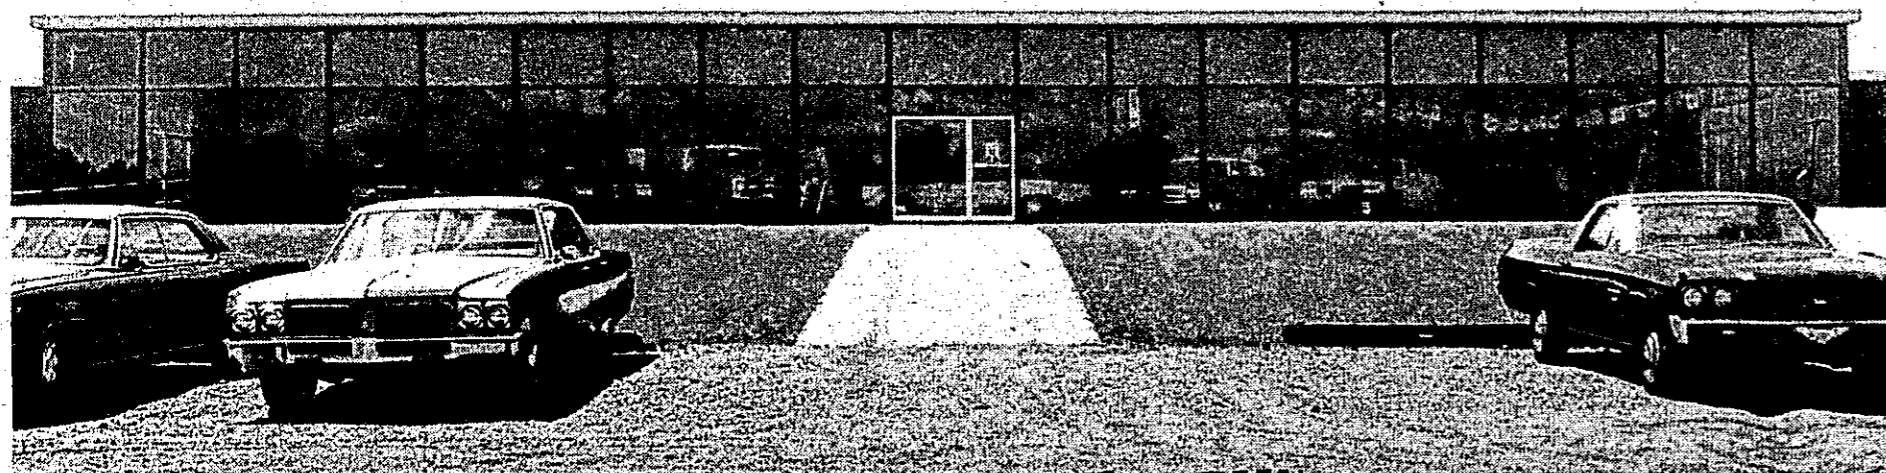

So please. Take your car in for a tune-up.

You'll have a better, smoother running, more economical car.

And you'll breathe easier.

"Lube Job"

Chances are you're also getting "anti-breakdown" insurance with every one, when service station makes

These Checks

When you get that pre-vacation lubrication at your favorite service outlet, you're likely getting more than a freshly-greased chassis. Chances are you're also taking out an anti-breakdown insurance policy.

According to Chek-Chart Corporation, more service outlets are conducting safety inspections every time the car is on the hoist for a lubrication. The importance of such inspection is increasing since extended lubrication intervals recommended by manufacturers mean that cars are on the hoist less frequently.

Chek-Chart recommends the following components be inspected during a lubrication and any necessary defects be corrected:

- Brake system
- Steering and suspension
- Shock absorbers
- Tires and wheels
- Exhaust system
- Fuel system
- Cooling system
- Drive line units
- Threaded fasteners
- Seat belts
- Electrical system
- Lights and horn
- Locks and latches
- Visibility items such as glass, wipers, washers, mirrors and defrosters

In inspecting these systems, a trained mechanic will check for various fluid leaks or low levels of lubricants. Particularly sensitive areas are brake fluid reservoirs, master cylinder leakage, power steering fluids, shock absorber and drive line lubricants.

If you spot any leakage on your driveway or garage floor, bring it to the attention of your mechanic.

Make Safe Skid Recovery With These Moves

Henk de Vries cites the following procedures to get the wheel rolling again:

Cut engine power but not so violently as to worsen the skid. The technique is the same for a rear wheel skid where the rear of the car tends to swing frontwards or the four wheel skid where all wheels are sliding.

In a car with manual transmission lift your foot off the gas and declutch (depress the clutch pedal). With an automatic transmission, all you need to do is take your foot off the gas and the torque converter will slow you down.

In a front wheel skid, usually induced by cornering too fast, the technique is different. With an automatic transmission, gear down and with manual shift, do not declutch.

Then, in all skid conditions, countersteer out of the skid by turning the front wheels in the same direction the rest of the car is skidding. Immediately turn the wheel around in the opposite direction or you risk a dangerous second skid.

If you had, tried to get out of a skid in the time it took you to read the above paragraphs, it would have been too late to help. That's why the skid school is so important to its students.

Auto Survey Advises "Know Your Car"

If the results of a survey just released by the U.S. Department of Transportation are any indication, many motorists are deluding themselves about the safe mechanical condition of their cars.

Three quarters of the 14,500 motorists surveyed described their cars as "very safe," yet vehicle inspection reports show over half the cars on the road need repairs to restore them to safe mechanical condition.

Twelve percent of the motorists answering the D.O.T. questionnaire called their cars only "somewhat" safe.

The study, conducted by Intext, Transportation Research Division, Scranton, Pa., involved a representative sampling of car owners in 50 states. Purpose of the survey was to determine the attitudes and habits of the motoring public, as related to vehicle maintenance.

Safer Drivers Know More

Significant among the findings disclosed by DOT: people who are relatively knowledgeable about their cars report 1/2 to 1/3 fewer accidents or near-accidents due to mechanical trouble than those who are not. The report also shows that the more knowledgeable owner is more likely to be conscientious about car care.

How do people feel about car care as it relates to safety? Eighty-six percent of those surveyed believed that regular maintenance helps prevent accidents. Ninety-one percent agreed that all states should have compulsory vehicle inspection.

Women's Communications

When asked where they obtained information about keeping their cars in safe mechanical condition, 38 percent said they draw upon their own knowledge. Twenty-eight percent relied upon their mechanics for their information. Twenty-two percent said their primary source was their owners manual.

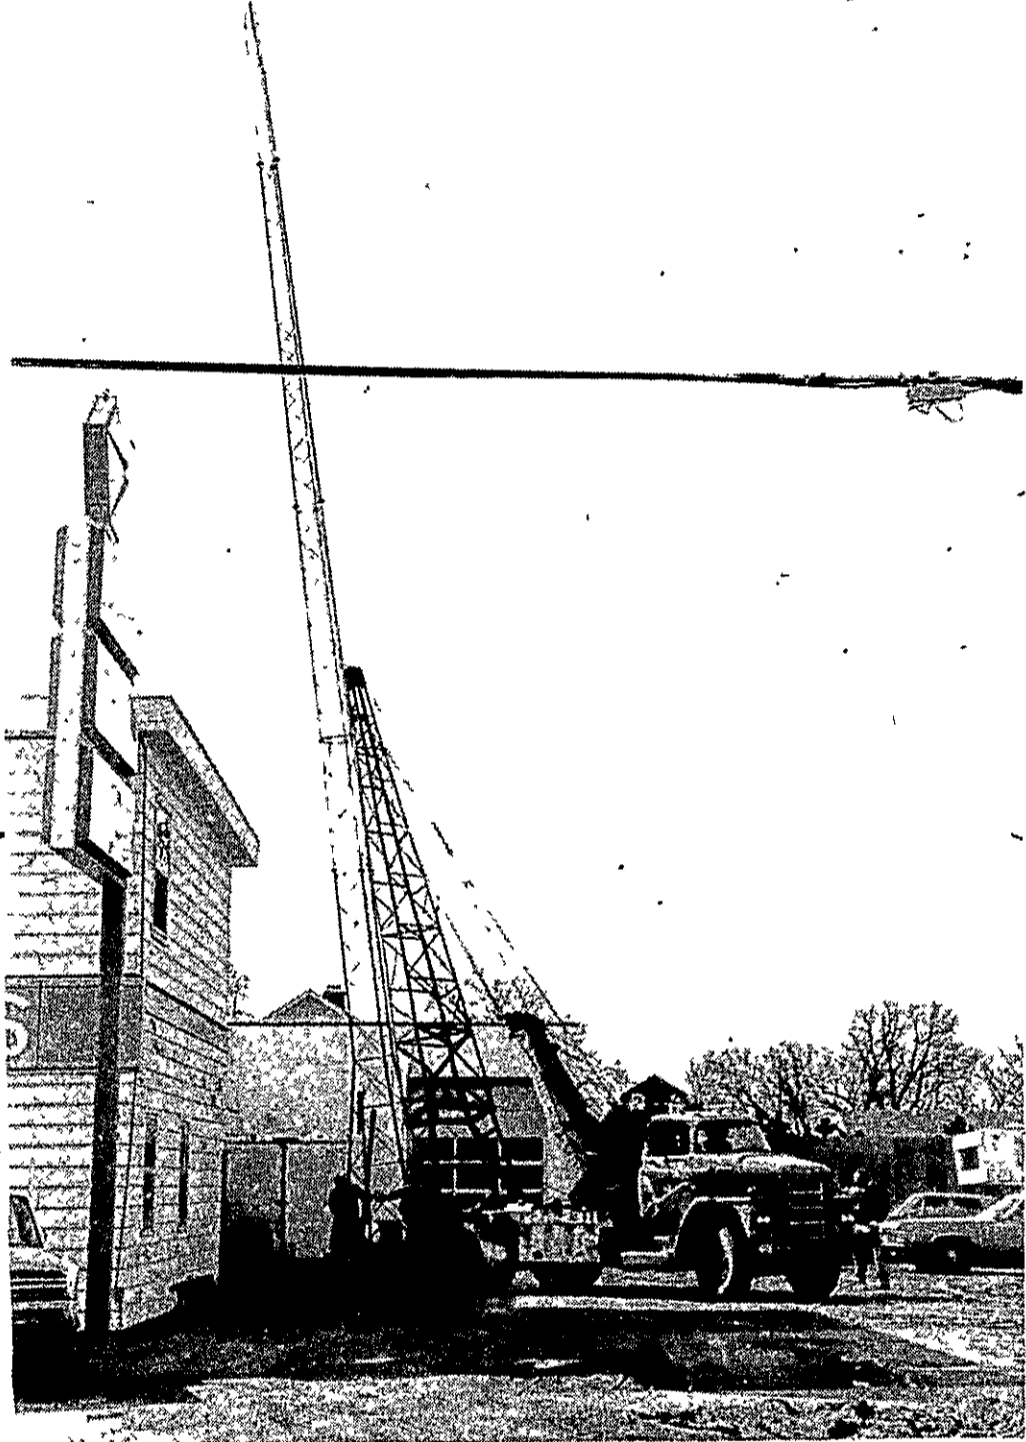

Eight out of ten correctly answered all questions related to mechanical knowledge of the car.

Women appear to be more conscientious about regular car maintenance than men, and they reflect more concern for automobile safety, according to Dr. Harold L. Henderson, Intext's Principal Investigator on the study.

"While female respondents reported having their cars checked more frequently, they did not rely on their own knowledge for these checks or for decisions on car maintenance. Their main source of expertise was service station and garage mechanics.

"If the general public could be successfully educated," he concludes, "then we could expect a considerable reduction in defect-related accidents among owners who, at present, lack adequate knowledge."

Most Tire Repairs Are Temporary

Careful drivers have their tire pressure checked regularly, as the National Safety Council advises. However, in the event of a flat tire, do you know how to have it repaired properly? Many of the tires supposedly receiving "permanent repair" do not meet safety tests.

The Council warns that external repairs on tubeless tires are good only for up to 100 miles of travel at speeds not exceeding 50 miles per hour. It is recommended that these temporary repairs be used only in emergencies.

For safe and permanent repair, a tire must be sealed from the inside. The use of an outside plug is only a temporary repair. Unless the tire is removed from the wheel, it is impossible to know if the inner layer is intact and not broken, damage which is critical to the tire.

Simple Steps Can Help Prevent

Theft of Car

While waiting for a special theft protection device to be installed on your new car or "old faithful," there are several things that can be done to prevent having your car stolen.

Keep your car doors locked at all times.

Never keep valuables inside your car.

Keep only necessary items in your trunk.

Another simple way to deter car theft is to keep your car parked under a light at night, if possible.

YOU DON'T NEED PULL

If your car begins skidding or pulling to the side when you apply your brakes, it may be a sign that your braking system needs attention. One brake is probably exerting less stopping force than the other — thus causing the skid.

Step for Safety Wear Seat Belts

American drivers are, in large number, fooling themselves into disregarding the biggest single step they can take to improve their own survival odds in case of an automobile crash, says the National Safety Council.

Harry Porter, Jr., NSC traffic safety director, pointed out that "the best estimates indicate at least 8,000 to 10,000 lives a year would be saved if every car occupant wore his safety belts, every time he got into a car."

"Beyond question," Porter said, "the full use even of the old fashioned lap belts would have a massive effect in saving lives and preventing injuries. And now that combination lap-and-shoulder belts are required on all cars sold in America, even greater protection is available."

Motorists who choose to sit on or beside their safety belts, instead of within them, in most cases are "relying on imitation excuses — not genuine reasons — to rationalize their behavior. Clear thinking will show that there aren't any real reasons."

Wise Driver Keeps Fire Extinguisher In Car

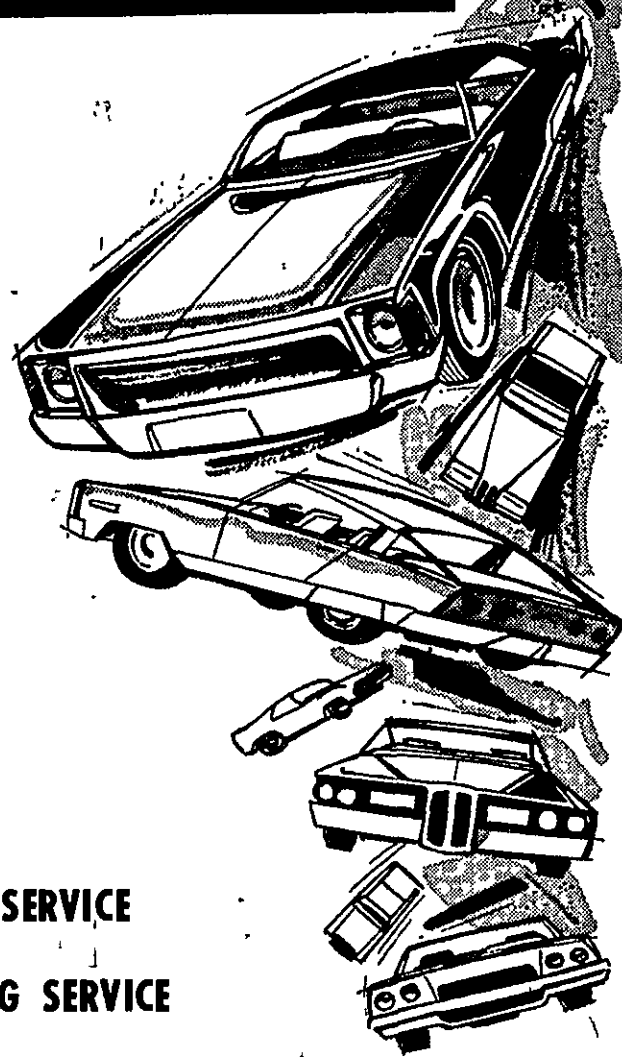

The wise motorist carries a fully-charged fire extinguisher in his car at all times. When you need it there is no substitute.

The preferred extinguisher is the stored pressure dry chemical type. This type can be used on any kind of fire and does not create toxic gases as do vaporizing liquid types. It should have at least 2½ pounds capacity.

Two kinds of such extinguishers are available. One uses a throw-away refill cylinder. The other must be taken to an extinguisher service shop for recharging. Either is suitable.

The extinguisher should be reserved for emergency use only. If you intend to use an extinguisher for other purposes, such as putting out a campfire, carry spares.

Front Wheels That Wander Like Dog That Won't Heel

Have you ever watched the owner of a poorly trained pup trying to walk his dog on a leash?

By the end of the stroll, they both are exhausted: the master from continually trying to pull his errant pooch back on the track, and the dog from tugging the other way and having walked at least twice the distance his master covered.

After a few sessions in a good obedience course, the pup heels comfortably and an evening's outing becomes a relaxing time for both.

This is not unlike the case of the car with faulty wheel alignment. The front wheels want to head for the gutter, while the rest of the car (under its driver's influence) tries to go straight ahead.

Tire Obedience School

By the end of a long day on the road, the driver is worn out and so are the wandering tires. They have been literally dragged sideways back on track every inch of the way.

Obedience training for wheels, of course, is accomplished in an alignment shop. A trained technician checks them for accuracy of toe-in, camber, caster and the other geometric factors that make the car steer and handle properly.

Pointers on . . .

Proper Tire Care

Proper tire inflation is essential. Underinflation causes extreme sidewall flexing, builds up excessive heat, and causes rapid wear on the tire tread's outer edges.

Overinflation causes tires to run hard, subjects them to damage and weakening of the carcass, and causes excessive wear in the middle of the tread.

Check your owner's manual for recommended tire pressure. . . .

Inspect tire exterior regularly for excessive or abnormal wear, fabric breaks, and cuts. Remove imbedded foreign matter.

Add an extra three or four pounds of pressure to cold tires prior to long trips where you anticipate driving at sustained high speeds.

Replace tires when tread is thinner than 2/32 of an inch, or the "wear indicator" on the tire appears.

Use the "air loss" method of spotting a potential tire failure. A tire that loses three or more pounds of pressure in a week or less, when the others remain the same, should be removed and inspected.

Carry a spare tire that is properly inflated and in good condition.

THINK

Driving with a burned out headlamp or broken tail light is thoughtless and dangerous. Give your lights a thought and light the way. Check them for condition and aim. Make sure you are seen in the right places.

Part of this project is a close examination of all the linkage and suspension parts involved in the steering and suspension system. Loose parts cannot be kept in alignment.

Tire Life Reduced

If your car has power steering, which does a lot of the struggling for you, you may be unaware of misalignment. One finger on the steering wheel keeps you going straight ahead. But your tires know the difference.

You may be reducing the life of your tires by 20 or 30 percent just trying to pull them back on course. Their increased resistance will cause your car to use more gas, too.

Unlike the educated pup, your car needs a refresher course every six months in the form of an alignment checkup and, if necessary, adjustment.

You and your car both will be happier for it.

Mack Webster, an employee at Hub Tire Center, located on N. US-27, shows one of the many tires now on display. Charles Weber, owner, and employees, specialize in front-end alignment and servicing of all cars and farm tractors.

YOU HAVE TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT!

New Handbook on Motoring Safety Says . . .

Cars Now Better Than Drivers

The Safe Driving Handbook; Grosset & Dunlop, 127 pages

Since the first self-propelled vehicle moved over a road, there have been thousands of improvements made in the car. In that time, there have been no basic improvements in the operator: man.

Based on this premise, the Aerospace Education Foundation, with an assist from the United States Air Force, has published The Safe Driving Handbook, which, it is hoped, is a step in the right direction to help improve the driver.

The foundation makes reference to the difference between the flyer and the automobile driver. They conclude that driving on a city street is more complicated than flying. Their reasoning is that conditions on the ground are more challenging than in the air.

The Safe Driving Handbook covers the whole spectrum of driving situations, including considerable emphasis on driver personality and attitude, important factors in the overall safety of the operator. It also states that boredom, a main reason for driver inattention, is involved in nearly every form of unsafe driving.

The handbook reduces safe driving techniques to basic fundamentals: where and how to sit in the driver's seat so you become less fatigued and therefore more alert; techniques in braking, speeding, passing and stopping; information on recovering from a skid; importance of conscientious automobile maintenance; estimating following distance for safe braking; right of way at intersections, and hundreds of other well-explained and illustrated tips.

The book also describes in detail how a driver can judge his own driving ability. This factor is important when you consider that even the worse drivers feel they are among the best, according to the authors. This observation was made when scientists interviewed drivers who were in bad collisions and it was learned that 80 percent of these drivers were convinced that the other driver was to blame.

When asked if they thought a refresher course in operating the automobile would help them avoid accidents in the future, only one in 20 thought it could teach them anything. Only two percent of these drivers thought that courtesy was important in any way when driving.

For emergency situations the handbook even has tips on "How To Choose What To Hit" to help avoid possible serious injury. Choose a utility pole, for instance, instead of a large tree or a boulder and the impact is cushioned.

The information in the booklet has been successful in reducing the number of automobile accidents among Air Force personnel and reducing fatalities by 25%. It is scheduled in the course of study for airmen. It could also be studied usefully by all drivers — whether they are just starting or have been driving for 30 or 40 years.

SMOKE SCREEN

If you're looking for another reason to quit smoking, consider your driving safety. Tobacco smoke leaves a dulling film on the inside of your windshield. The result is reduced visibility and stronger glare. If you do smoke, periodically clean the inside of the windshield with a solution of water and vinegar to wash away tobacco film.

Drive with care, and get there!
