ACCEPTING BROTHER'S MEDALS

Bob and Don Randolph Jr. accepted the medals of their brother Sgt. Richard Randolph who was killed in combat in Vietnam Feb. 1. Sgt. Randolph was awarded the Bronze Star Medal with V Device for heroism. Making the presentation is Cpt. John C. Burke, assistant professor of Military Science at Michigan State.

It's official-- another election for Bath Township

BATH TWP—It's now official. Bath Township voters will trudge to the polls again soon, making it the third election this year.

This time, voters will decide the political fate of Gerald Shepard, current chairman of the Clinton County Board of Commissioners. Petitions demanding the recall of Shepard, a former township supervisor, were certified this week by Ernest Carter, county clerk.

"I have checked over the petitions and they did file a sufficient number," Carter said. "So an election will be called."

Carter said the next step would be for his office to notify the county Election Selection Committee to establish a date for the election. The date cannot be any sooner than 45 days after the Committee meets to set the election time, Carter said.

"I have contacted two of the members and we should meet sometime this week," he said. Members of the committee are Thomas Hundley, St. Johns city clerk, Richard DePond of Ovid and Leo Reasoner, Bath Township clerk.

The recall drive is another in a series of political fistfights that have plagued this southern Clinton County township since January.

At that time a recall bid was started against Duane Smith, then township supervisor, by a group which called itself Citizens for Better Government. The petitions were certified and a special election was called in April in which Smith was ousted from office.

Roy Van Sickle was picked by the board of trustees as interim supervisor until another election could be scheduled. In the meantime, Donald Finels and Carl R. Crofts announced they would run for the office.

In the June 12 election, Van Sickle was the apparent winner after a last minute write-in campaign was started.

But a recount demanded by Crofts showed that some voters had written Van Sickle's name incorrectly. Those votes were thrown out, creating a tie between Van Sickle and Crofts. On July 13, a drawing was held to break the tie and determine who should head up the township board.

Van Sickle's name was drawn, which apparently ended the dispute. However, the old pro-Smith forces, headed by Mrs. Virginia Eisinger, started up the recall machinery again against Shepard.

Their main point of contention against Shepard, printed reports have indicated, is that the former supervisor was not "doing anything to bring the factions together." The charges claim he would not attend township meetings when invited, and did not act as a liaison officer between the township board and the county board.

Carter had indicated earlier that the new election will probably be held sometime in October.

Shepard denies allegation

BATH TWP—Gerald Shepard, currently chairman of the Clinton County Board of Commissioners, has denied allegations by his opponents that he has deserted the voters' wishes or failed to show interest in the feelings of the township's citizens.

In an interview Monday, Shepard, who is chairman of the Clinton County Board of Commissioners representing Bath Township, said the statements issued in the recall petitions "were not true statements."

"I have attended many township meetings," Shepard said, "and I still attend them."

The petitions claimed that Shepard did not take an active interest in township affairs; that he has failed to act as a liaison between the township board and the county board; and that he had continually failed to attend township board meetings.

He said the group that was demanding the recall was the "group that backed (Duane) Smith." Smith was recalled in April from the township supervisor's post

Bronze Star awarded to slain hero

EAST LANSING—Sergeant Richard D. Randolph, late son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald D. Randolph, Yallup Road, St. Johns, has been posthumously awarded the Bronze Star Medal with "V" device, first and second oak leaf cluster and the Purple Heart Medal.

The medals were awarded for heroism and meritorious achievement while participating in ground combat operations in the Republic of Vietnam. Captain John C. Burke, Assistant Professor of Military Science at Michigan State University presented the awards to Mr. and Mrs. Randolph of R-4, St. Johns in a ceremony at the University Thursday afternoon.

Prior to his death SGT Randolph had been awarded the National Defense Service Medal, Vietnam Service Medal, Vietnam Campaign Medal, Combat Infantryman Badge, Expert Badge with rifle bar, Sharpshooter Badge with automatic rifle bar, and the Marksman Badge with machine gun bar.

The Randolphs also accepted these awards on behalf of their son.

The Bronze Star Medal citation read in part:

"Sergeant Randolph distinguished himself by exceptionally valorous actions on 1 February 1971 while serving as an assistant Squad Leader with Company E, 5th Battalion, 46th Infantry.

"On that date, the company was at a defensive position in the vicinity of Chu Lai when it was assaulted by a large enemy force. Taking immediate action, Sergeant Randolph began directing his efforts to repelling the insurgents until his fighting position in the tower was hit by an enemy rocket.

"Recovering quickly from the initial concussion, he moved to a position on the ground beneath the destroyed tower and continued to engage the advancing insurgents despite the loss of his weapon.

"With complete disregard for his personal safety, Sergeant Randolph began picking up the numerous enemy hand grenades landing inside the perimeter near his location and hurling them back on the insurgents before they could detonate. Ignoring the danger involved, he continued to effectively engage the hostile sapper teams in this manner until he was mortally wounded as a grenade was triggered before he could release it.

after a long and bitter campaign that split the township into two camps. "Now the group is blaming me for what happened to him," Shepard said.

Shepard, who held the township supervisor's post from 1956 to 1969, said he thinks the backers of Smith were angry because he didn't step in to smooth down ruffled feelings of those involved. Shepard contends that once that recall battle had started there was little he could have done to stop it.

"It's not my job to tell the township board what to do," Shepard said. "I do report to the township when county matters affect the township."

He said that the factionalism in the township developed over the fight to oust Smith. "No one is ever quite satisfied with the way things are handled and the elected officials get blamed," Shepard said.

Shepard said that he had no official group backing him at the moment for the election which would be held sometime in October.

"I have had friends call me and said they would like to help."

He expressed confidence that he would remain in office.

"I think the people are behind me in this," Shepard said. "It is a vote of confidence."

"Sometimes the people will recall someone and then wish they hadn't which I think they discovered in the township election," Shepard said.

If Shepard should be turned out of office, the board of commissioners would select someone to take his place for the remainder of his term. If that should happen, Shepard would be eligible to run again for the post at that time.

"This has to hurt the district and township," Shepard said. "I know that I am not indispensable, but they do need someone with experience."

St. Johns, Fowler pass millage test Increase defeated

ST. JOHNS—Barring teacher strikes, St. Johns Public Schools will open their doors Aug. 31, just four weeks away, following the passage Monday of a 14.5 mill operating proposal. A second proposal of 2.5 mills, designed to augment the current operational millage, was defeated by a 2-1 margin.

The 14.5-mill package attracted 1,661 yes votes and was rejected by 887 voters, a near 2-1 mandate. However, the increase was defeated 1,714 against and 836 in favor.

"This means we can operate this year, but on a limited scale," Earl Lancaster, school superintendent said Tuesday.

He said the millage question was just one of three factors that will determine the quality of education in St. Johns for the coming year. The others, he said, were the pending legislative state aid package which would distribute at least $5 per student to the district and up to $40.

The other factor, Lancaster said, was the outcome of contract bargaining. He noted that the district must negotiate with five groups, the largest being the St. Johns Education Association.

Monday's election improved the school's bargaining position, the superintendent said, since they now know just how much money there will be locally.

"The voters rejected the idea of an increase. Last year we went $100,000 in the hole, but this year we are going to operate on the money we have."

Lancaster said the schools would not try to make up that deficit this year but balance the budget for the 1971-72 school year.

"This election just vindicated the trend in Michigan of the June 14 elections. Then the people sustained the present millage level but said no to an increase," Lancaster said.

"We would have had no chance at all on a 17-mill question," he said. The millage went down to defeat in June when both the current operational millage and the increase were combined into a single proposition.

The feeling remained constant against the increase in St. Johns, as only 836 voted for the increase Monday, while 829 voted for the measure in June. This election attracted about 300 more voters than the June election.

Lancaster added that the teacher contract negotiations have been stalled pending the outcome of the vote, although each side had agreed to open the schools Aug. 31 if the millage was approved.

At Fowler Monday, voters passed a 16-mill operational package by a vote of 273-202.

"This expresses the confidence people have in our schools and in the board of education," Supt. Don Smith said Tuesday. "We are very pleased."

The proposal, which was defeated June 14 called for a 1.5-mill increase above the current 14.5 mill level.

"I think that we were honest in the first presentation, but the people were issuing their displeasure," Smith said concerning the June 14 vote.

"I do feel that our state senator and representative should be conscious of these millage votes and listen to what the people are trying to tell them," Smith said. He added that he hoped tax reform would come during the current legislative session, through "amendments or whatever form they decide upon. But the people are very unhappy."

School will open Aug. 30 at Fowler, Smith said. "If the state aid formula is passed then I can see no trouble in operating on a full program. It will be a tight ship since we're trying to reduce our debt," Smith added. The debt totals $39,000.

The superintendent noted that with the approval of the millage question, teacher contract negotiations will resume Aug. 12 at 7:30 p.m. with the Fowler Education Association.

"I don't expect any problems in the negotiations," he said. "I feel that there will be no real stumbling blocks."

St. Johns voters turned out Monday to pass a 14.5-mill request for school operation. At the same time, they defeated a 2.5-mill increase under a second proposal. Here Robert Conn, right, prepares to cast his ballot. He is being assisted by election worker Rudolph Mohnke.

DeWitt gets rec funds

LANSING — Up to $4,741 has been allotted from the State Recreation Bond Fund for development of Riverside Park in the City of DeWitt, State Sen. William S. Ballenger (R-Ovid) announced today.

Ballenger said work on Riverside Park will include the construction of a picnic shelter.

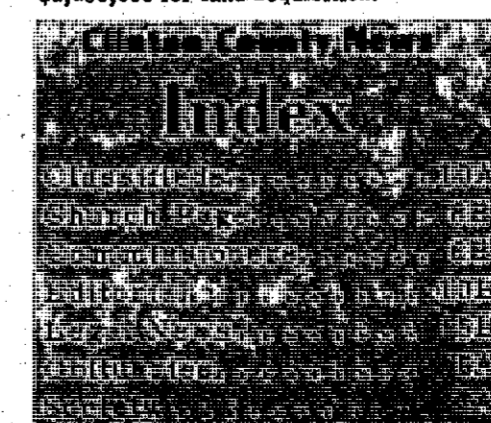

Final park block cleared by court

LANSING—The Circuit Court of Clinton County removed the last obstacle in the path of a six-year-old plan to develop a 2,700-acre state park within 15 miles of Lansing.

By court action, through condemnation, the State received title to the final 154 acres of a tract in Clinton County designated in 1965 by the Natural Resources Commission as Sleepy Hollow State Park. All other acreage had been purchased, but development remained at a virtual standstill until completion of the final acquisition.

A feature of Department of Natural Resources plans for the park is a 412-acre lake to be created by impoundment of the Little Maple River. The lake project has built-in flood control features and will be undertaken with cooperation of the Soil Conservation Service.

Development of the park will be financed with federal funds and the state's Recreation Bond money. Total cost is estimated at approximately $2,800,000. This includes $1,100,000 for land acquisition.

WILLEMEN GOTINK

Willemien finds world of difference here during exchange visit

By ANNETTE WHITE
News Society Editor

DeWITT—Willemien is quickly learning the difference in life styles among Americans and her native Europeans.

Willemien Gotink, 22, a youth exchange representative from Vorden, The Netherlands, discussed her impressions of America during her first two weeks here as guest of the Orvest Davis family of DeWitt.

Miss Gotink is spending the summer in the United States as part of the International Farm Youth Exchange program. In two weeks she will leave to spend 2 1/2 months with different families in Iowa.

While on the summer tour she makes herself available to speak to service clubs or civic organizations and also visits schools, showing slides of her country and its customs.

A graduate of Teacher's Training College, she teaches social studies and home economics. "The school system is very different here," says Miss Gotink.

dog) and also how mobile the Americans are. "It isn't easy to travel in my country because of passports and language barriers."

A trip to Michigan's Tahquamenon Falls with her Clinton County family provided a memorable time for her since it was the first time that she had seen a waterfall. "The land in the Netherlands is used mostly to house its people and is the most heavily populated country per square mile in the world with 960 people per square mile," she added.

A member of the Dutch Reformed Church, she fluently speaks four languages, Dutch, French, German and English. Back home she holds memberships in the Young Farmers' Club, International Club and was active in the College Club.

Her trip was made possible through the efforts of the International Farm Youth Exchange program conducted by the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

"Our children attend schools to fit their needs and not their location. After a child completes the sixth grade he is tested and directed into either a vocational school, or general education school, depending on the results of the testing.

"The value of this kind of system is that the child has the most opportunity to show his own ability," she added.

Not all the families that she will visit live on farms, although this is her main interest, living on a 120 acre farm with parents and three younger sisters.

Among her many, many special interests are 4-H Clubs, wheat production, cattle breeding and the educational system, especially audio visuals used in educational programs in schools.

Other things that Willemien has claimed to be different in America are the food (she never heard of a hamburger or hot

Open Letter from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family.

The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Respectfully,

Van W. Hoag

Breathing hazards

Aerosol Annes can unwittingly jeopardize the health of their families, said J. Irvin Nichols, Executive Director of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Today's housewives tend to be aerosol Annes, Nichols said, squirting air fresheners, antiseptics, hair sprays, deodorants, spray starches and insecticides all day long. What they don't realize, he said, is the fact that inhaling the mist from aerosol cans can do damage to the lungs.

Always read the directions printed on the cans, Nichols emphasized, and follow them carefully. Almost always they will tell you to use the spray in a well ventilated area. Although certain cosmetic sprays are unavoidable breathed into the lungs, try to avoid breathing them, he cautioned. Be sure you are breathing air, not aerosol.

Follow the directions for disposal. They are never to be incinerated, he emphasized.

Remember that a spray on isn't a toy, he continued. Keep them away from children, just as you would strong solutions and medicines. At the same time exercise precautions with your use of plastic bags. All too often we read of a small child suffocating while playing with a plastic bag.

Don't wait for a tragedy to happen before you make your home a safe one, he urged.

LANSING -- Responding to the sudden onset of demands for medical care when a disaster emergency of some magnitude occurs, and doing so with precision and competence, doesn't just happen. It comes about because of an investment of many hours of intensive planning and organizing by and for hospital personnel, civil defense and other disaster relief workers.

The development of a disaster plan, however, is not enough. Procedures require updating from time to time to meet changing needs and to achieve uniformity of action within a disaster area.

It was for this purpose that the Michigan Department of Public Health played host this week to a conference on hospital disaster planning for a subcommittee of the Tri-County (Ingham, Eaton, Clinton) Emergency Services Clinton Emergency Medical Services Council.

Besides personnel from the area's hospitals, attending were representatives of the Michigan State Police Emergency Services Division and Civil Defense Directors of the tri-counties and the City of Lansing.

IN OPENING THE conference, Dr. Hermann A. Ziel, Jr., Chief of the State Health Department's Bureau of Health Facilities, stressed the need for cooperation among all responsible agencies for the development of uniform disaster planning.

In keeping with this charge, the conference addressed itself to the standardization of certain procedures and codes which are used in times of emergency, mutual aid procedures, and methods for the handling of persons injured by radioactive materials.

Captain George Halverson, Deputy State Civil Defense Director and Commanding Officer of the State Police Emergency Services Division, underscored the need to revise and update the guidelines for hospital disaster planning to keep them pertinent to today's problems.

Recommendations covering the standardization of codes, emergency procedures, and mutual aid guidelines which are developed by the conference and to be submitted to Dr. John G. Wiegstein, Chairman, and the Tri-County Emergency Medical Services Council for their consideration and possible adoption.

First Nighters meet with Buddy Ebsen

TRAVERSE CITY--A meeting with national television star Buddy Ebsen and his family was the high light of a recent trip made here by the St. Johns First Nighters.

The 13 members of the local drama group motored to Traverse City June 19 for the performance of "Take Her, She's Mine."

Following the performance at the Cherry County Playhouse, the First Nighters went back stage to meet Ebsen, his wife Nancy and their daughter Bonnie.

The group enjoyed a leisurely dinner and took a double decker bus tour of the area.

ANOTHER GROUP OF members is planning another trip to the Playhouse in August where Carl Betz of the Donna Reed Show and Judd for the Defense fame will be appearing in The Girl in the Freudian Slip.

Ebsen's first claim to national fame was in the middle 1950's when he started with Fess Parker in Walt Disney Productions "Davey Crockett." He is of course the star of the Beverly Hillsbillies, playing the role of Uncle Jed Clampett.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE News Advertising Manager

Bob Schafer of Westphalia, Mike Boog of Ashley and Art Hoebecke of St. Johns all have something in common. They all owe me. And I'm going to collect.

Not only am I going to borrow Mike's new grass clippers to trim my lawn...and show up at Art's for a cool glass of ice tea or whatever but I'm going to take a week's worth of dirty dishes over to Bob's for cleaning.

The reason for all this is really quite simple, it weren't for me, Bob wouldn't have a new G.E. Dishwasher, Mike wouldn't have a new electric grass clippers and Art wouldn't be serving ice tea in a new beverage set.

I was the fellow who drew their names in Kurt's Appliance Center's Anniversary Sale drawing.

It was just about then that I realized that Kurt doesn't trust me. He wanted to see the slip of paper.

I drew again. "Alice Preville" I said. Again Kurt wanted the slip.

I drew the final time. "Alice Preville" I said as he grabbed the slip.

Kurt wrote down the winning names as I tried to explain that Bob Schafer, Mike Boog and Art Hoebecke sure looked like "Alice Preville" to me. Oh, well, I guess fair is fair but I'm still going to visit those guys...they owe me.

The "Smile" buttons now being seen all over town are part of a new promotion by Central National. The smiling little critters proclaim "Happiness begins with a smile and banking at Central National."

Dick Parsons was waiting for me Friday. I walked in Fowler Plumbing to do a little bragging about trout fishing up north...and he was waiting for me. Dick says he's not too much of a trout fishing fan...walleyes being his favorite for catching and eating. And on a recent trip to Canada he wasn't "a day or two early or late". Dick and his party hit "em...one evening in about three hours they caught (and released most) over 100 walleyes.

I told him about a little stream, a beaver pond and a trout we caught but after listening to his tale, my heart just wasn't in it.

Kathy Hazle, right, and Willemien Gotink, International Farm Youth Exchange from the Netherlands, left, displayed a Holland exhibit, sponsored by the Scattered Southeast 4-H Club.

Clinton's 4-H has international flavor

ST. JOHNS—"International Flavor" was the theme for 80 4-H members and leaders as they participated in a foods program last Tuesday at Smith Hall. Four 4-H Clubs had booths showing some favorite foods, costumes, games, music, traditions, etc., related to that country where the group would tour through the afternoon.

The Elsie 4-H Corners 4-H Club members had their exhibit on Czechoslovakia showing many different costumes used by the people on special occasions.

These costumes were brought to this country from Czechoslovakia by an Elsie area lady and her family. The girls explained about the clothing, the customs, the music and passed out some pastry samples that the country is well known for preparing.

The Scattered Southeast 4-H Club had their exhibit on Holland with Kathy Hazle dressed up in a traditional Dutch costume used by girls in some parts of the country. Samples of different kinds of cheese and other foods were passed out to the group.

One special highlight at this stop was having Willemien Gotink an International Farm Youth Exchange Student from the Netherlands who is staying in the country till August 8, answer questions about her home country. Later in the program Miss Gotink showed slides and talked about her country.

Two major things she has noted different between the United States and her country is the food and the age young meet Charlie Halfmann, another long-timer at CNB&T

THE CHARLES J. HALFMANN FAMILY

Charlie Halfmann could easily be numbered among our long-timers here at CNB&T. He began his banking career with the former Fowler State Bank and just marked his twenty-second year the first of August. The time has provided Charlie with opportunities to work with many bank customers from his native Fowler area and in recent years with many others as a loan officer in the St. Johns office.

Charlie's title is assistant vice president and his work involves all types of loans from real estate mortgages to auto loans, commercial loans and personal loans. As can be readily seen he's no newcomer to the loan field and these years of experience have been supported by completion of an American Banking Association course in commercial lending at the University of Oklahoma. In addition he has successfully completed accounting and commercial law courses offered by the American Institute of Banking.

On top of all this, Charlie has been active in Fowler community affairs as recorder of the Knights of Columbus and president of the Holy Trinity school board. But when he's not taking care of these tasks or arranging a loan, you might hear that he's off fishing or hunting. Then again he might be bowling or sharpening his iron game on the golf course.

Charlie and wife Marilyn have four children ranging in age from fifteen to four years. David and Debra are students at Fowler high school. Cheryl attends Holy Trinity while the school years still await Pamela.

We're pleased that Charlie chose, then stayed with CNB&T... he's our kind of people. The kind who are interested in their families, their community and in CNB&T customers. If you've ever worked with Charlie you'll know the latter is especially true.

Great experience

By JOHN AYLWORTH

"It was a great experience" was the comment by the 34 members and six leaders from Clinton Gratiot and Shiawassee counties as they returned from their 4-H Exchange Trip to Faribault, Minnesota, July 8-16.

Each of the members and leaders lived with different host families in the county. While in Rice county, Minnesota, they participated in family living experiences, the State Black and White Show, All Star Softball Games, 4-H Club Tours, Square Dancing, Demonstration Day plus many other activities.

The members are now making plans for the Rice county, Minnesota 4-Hers when they come to Michigan in 1972.

4-Hers stayed at Camp Upham Woods which is the Wisconsin State 4-H Camp at the Wisconsin Dells, visited the Indian Ceremonial performance and toured the Upper Dells water area. On their return trip home they crossed the upper part of Wisconsin and stayed overnight at Escanaba, Michigan. The group toured the Mead Paper Plant at Escanaba where they saw the process of taking raw pulp wood to the final product of paper for magazines. These youth have their slides ready in the near future and will be available to talk to any 4-H group that would like to hear them.

70 4-H members enjoyed their weekend trip to Barry County, July 17 and 18. During the two days the members were able to swim, have recreation and get better acquainted with other youth in the county.

New officers of the Fowler Busy Bees are as follows: Kenneth Spitzley - President; Kathy Spitzley - Vice-President; Dennis Spitzley - Treasurer; Cindy Hengesback - Secretary; Carol Koenigsnecht - Recreation Leader and Brian Thelen - News Reporter. The club voted to raise some money with the boys selling light bulbs and the girls selling family tree hand lotion. The club held a combined meeting and party at Crystal Lake.

The Four Corners 4-H Club members are preparing a float for the Fair Contest. Lisa Baese gave a safety talk and reported on the club's garden tour. Mrs. Andrew Cobb gave a report on health. The club held a swimming party on July 19 at the Ovid Elsie High School.

THE KOUNTRY KOUSINS 4-H members will hold their annual 4-H club picnic on August 8 at the St. Johns Park. The hay ride will be postponed until the fall. The club is selling pot holders for a money making project. Since the older members are breaking the wood softball bats with their mighty swings, the club voted to purchase an aluminum bat that would be unbreakable. Frank Falvor and Steven VanVleet reported on their experiences on the State 4-H Youth Exploration Days Program. GERALYN Falvor gave an account of the recent garden meeting which included a tour of the member's garden and the flower show held at the Clinton National Bank. Demonstrations given at the meeting included Dale Devereaux's on "Making a soda float out of candy" and Jeff VanVleet on "How Plants Grow".

The Family Affair 4-H Club members held a special dinner before their meeting where all the cooking members prepared the meal showing their creative talents on various food dishes. A number of members attended the Gala Foods Go Round Program, July 13 at Owosso. Their next meeting will be a dinner also where each member will try a different type of dish for their part of the meal. Following a dinner the members will adjourn to the Ovid Elsie High School for an evening swim.

The Bath All Purpose Club members discussed their education tour. A committee consisting of Tim Carlson, Cindy Tarrent, Jeannine Seeger, Kirk Baudt and Brian Brook was appointed to organize the float and litter barrel exhibits for the County Fair. Each member reported on their Fair project progress. Demonstrations were given by Cindy Tarrent on "How to Have Ground Beef Three Times a Week and Love It" and by Sarah Seeger on "Parfaits".

The Nimble Fingers 4-H Club members have voted to use Brenda Bancroft's idea and design for their litter barrel at the County Fair. The club will have participants in the Public Speaking, Demonstration Day and food activity events. The members with vegetables and flower projects participated in an identification contest on July 18 and will hold a flower tour on August 13.

THE MERRY MAKERS 4-H members enjoyed a club swim at the Ovid Elsie High School and the Gala Foods Go Round at Owosso presented by the Consumers Power Company. The members are working hard on their projects in preparation for the County Fair, August 16-18.

Six members of the Tail Waggers 4-H Club participated in the State 4-H Dog Show, July 17 at Michigan State University. They participated in the Sub-Novice Dog Obedience Class A. Ann Graham received a second with her dog in the class 14 and over while Sandy Webster in the class under 14 placed second with her dog. Debbie Webster, LuAnn Thelen, Jeannine Seeger, and Mark Bruhn received thirds in their classes. It was their first appearance in showing their dogs in competition and will help prepare them for the County Fair in August.

The next two weeks will be busy days as Clinton County 4-H members are preparing their projects for the 1971 Clinton County 4-H Fair, August 16-18 at St. Johns. The members will also be participating in county and district 4-H activities that will provide them many learning experiences in their project areas.

The County will have five entries in the district Share the Fun contest, August 4 at St. Johns High School starting at 9:30 a.m. The five acts include an instrumental from the Eagles 4-H Club, an instrumental from the Bengal Community Club, the Cheerettes from Olive 4-H Projects Club, and two individual dance acts from the Nimble Fingers 4-H Club. The members and acts will be evaluated and rated as a blue ribbon group if the quality is excellent.

The district Public Speaking contest will be held on August 4 at 1:30 p.m. at St. Johns High School with Vickie Thelen of Bengal Community 4-H Club and Charles Tail of Kountry Kousins 4-H Club representing Clinton County. They will give a 5-7 minute talk on their choice of topic that they won in the County contest July 25. The district winners will compete in the state contest August 21.

The County Demonstration and Action Exhibit contest will be held on Tuesday, August 10 at Smith Hall in St. Johns starting at 1:00 p.m. All members wishing to compete in the contest should notify the Extension Office so we know how many entries will be participating in the program.

Friday evening opened the County 4-H Softball Playoff Tournament with six teams entered in the Green League and nine teams in the White League. The championship games for both leagues will be played on Friday, August 6 at the St. Johns City Park. The White League game will be at 7:00 p.m. and the Green League will be at 9:00 p.m. For the District Playoff the White team winner will play a team from Muskegon County and the Green team winner will play a team from Grand Traverse County.

Saturday, August 7 is the next 4-H Glass Collection day at the Fairgrounds from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. The 4-H Teen Leaders would appreciate the people bringing in the glass in the morning if possible. Last month a truckload of glass weighing 12,940 pounds was taken to Charlotte bringing the total pounds of glass collected to date of over 138,000 pounds.

The County 4-H Gun Safety Shoot contest will be held on Saturday, August 14, 1:00 p.m. at the gravel pit located on Colony Road just east of the Ovid-Elsie High School. Jack Schwark, a 4-H Gun Safety leader will be in charge of the contest. All members participating will receive a ribbon. Members will shoot both in the standing and prone position.

Clinton County 4-Hers hosted a group of 28 4-H members and 2 leaders from Newaygo County on Monday, August 2. The Newaygo 4-Hers are participating in a Michigan Heritage trip. Following a rap session and breakfast on Tuesday, August 2 at Smith Hall the group visited the Michigan Farm Bureau Office and State Capitol at Lansing before returning home to Newaygo County.

The Tail Waggers 4-H Club members will hold a special meeting on August 9 to check out final details before the Fair and meet Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Taylor of Fowlerville, Michigan. Mr. Taylor, who is blind, has donated two dogs to the Leader Dog project that Sandy and Debbie Webster are training. At their last meeting the members discussed their showing at the County Fair on August 17 at 3:00 p.m.; they will have their dogs in the project parade on August 18 with a banner. All new dogs were measured and weighed. Two new members, Cheryl Ginther and Glenn Baese of Elsie joined the club to raise a leader dog project. August 19 is a big day for several members as two dogs from the club will leave for Rochester, Michigan for additional training for acceptance as a Leader Dog for the Blind.

Additional contributions to the National 4-H Center Expansion Drive in Washington have been given by two Clinton County 4-H Clubs: The Family Affair-$12.00 and the Bath All Purpose-$14.50. The Center began using the new dormitory on July 18 for the delegates attending the National 4-H Citizenship Short Course Program.

The Trailbreakers 4-H Club members will enter a float and a litter barrel exhibit in the County Fair contest. The members filled out their Fair entry slips, discussed who would keep their horses at the Fair, and how the barn stalls would be decorated. During the winter the members plan to study different breeds of horses including touring different farms. The members plan to hold one practice each week till Fair time. Connie Cordes gave a demonstration on "Correct Mounin and Dismounting of a Horse".

Cool it in summer

EAST LANSING-In hot weather people-and their dis- positions-suffer.

Carlton Edwards, housing specialist with Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service, says that most people think first of air conditioning when considering cooling systems.

"However, if you're living in a rented home or apartment, installing an air conditioner may take an agreement with the landlord. If you're buying a home, you may not have the extra dollars. And some people object to the air conditioner's power consumption from an ecological standpoint," the specialist adds. He suggests several alternatives.

Good room fans can help. Attic and window fans can do even more. And a dehumidifier can make the atmosphere more comfortable.

Even if you don't have any cooling equipment, you can make your home more comfortable by opening the house at night to allow the cool air to come in. Then close windows and doors and draw shades and draperies during the day to keep the hot outside air from coming in. Some homeowners claim they can keep temperatures 5 to 10 degrees lower this way.

"When you decide on a room fan, attic fan or dehumidifier, remember that they do their best when size is suited to the space they must cool or the air they must handle," Edwards cautions.

Fans are rated by the number of cubic feet of air they move per minute (listed as "c.f.m.").

IF YOU CONSIDER an attic fan, consider the air inlets, horsepower of the motor and your wiring. But generally, you can estimate what you need by this method:

Find the volume of the area you want to cool. Multiply the length of the room by the width. Then multiply that figure by the room height. Then, for Michigan, multiply the total volume by 1.5. This will give your minimum c.f.m. requirement for fans and homes.

If you choose an attic fan, Verrette's design for their Fair float project. Members participated in a club exchange with the Tail Waggers 4-H Club. The Club members and families will visit the Ingham County Fair on August 4. Demonstrations were given by Ron Bauerle on "Rock Specimens"; Debbie Burnham on "Everything Possible with Ground Beef"; and Pat Zeeb on "Artificial Insemination". Members who attended 4-H Exploration Day Program at MSU gave reports on their experiences and activities there.

The Happy Hustlers 4-H Club members held their annual family picnic at the St. Johns City Park. The leaders discussed the County Fair and made sure all members knew what classes they would be entering and what requirements were needed for their exhibits. The next meeting will be August 9, 8:00 p.m. at the Central National Bank.

normally a 1/3 horsepower, (30-36 inch fan) will provide 40 air changes per hour for a three-bedroom house. That is sufficient in Michigan.

Window fans are usually smaller. They range from 20-30 inches and provide 23 air changes per hour in a three-bedroom house.

Attic and window fans are often used after the sun sets to draw warm air out of the house and cool air in. To get the best cooling, Edwards recommends placing the fan on the side of the house away from the wind.

Then open windows farthest from the fan, on the opposite side of the room or house, depending on the fan size. Opening windows near the fan will cause a "short circuit of air" because the breeze will not cross the room, Edwards explains.

An attic fan can help cool the house during the day also. Temperatures in an attic can range 15-25 degrees higher than the outside temperature. Even if insulation is adequate, this can warm the rest of the house. If the attic has adequate air inlets, an attic fan operating during the day can remove the hottest "top layer" of air, Edwards says.

In the evening, if the attic can be opened, the fan will draw air through the rest of the house when the lowest windows are opened.

Even people with air conditioning units find attic fans helpful. They can be connected to a thermostat, timeclock or manual switch.

Cooling with fans can make some people more comfortable. However, they do draw dust and pollen into the house. They are noisy. And, Edwards reminds, a good, large fan can cost almost as much as some air conditioners. Remember, a fan cannot make your home any cooler than the temperature outside.

Farmers, soil experts at work solving environmental problems

Eureka

Mrs. Gordon Waggoner

NEW HOLLAND, Pa.—Recent interest in environmental subjects has brought about some name changing in the jobs people do, and soil conservation is one of those areas. Today, conservation might be better termed environmental protection to fit in with the times.

But, regardless of the name, new emphasis is being placed on improving our soil and water systems and the air we breathe. And this emphasis is going to bring great changes to farmers and farming in the 1970's, according to agricultural scientists.

Frank Viets, Jr., chief soil scientist for the United States Department of Agriculture regional soil and water conservation laboratory at Fort Collins, Colorado, is worried about the attacks on fertilizer as a pollutant of streams, lakes and water supplies. Restricting fertilizer use so we would have to expand our intensive cropland base would be a national disaster, he warns.

However, Viets doesn't give nitrogen and phosphate fertilizers a completely clean bill of health as non-polluters.

RATHER, HIS theme is that soil erosion and uncontrolled rain runoff are the real villains when it comes to agriculture.

related pollution. He feels farmers, generally speaking, should aim for top yields and use more, not less, fertilizer; on their best fields. Then, they can concentrate production on land that is least subject to erosion and retire poorer land to less intensive use.

The great strides made in erosion control and in increased agricultural productivity during the past 20 years have let us retire more than 50 million acres to grass and less intensive use where the hazards of erosion and pollution are less, he reminds. He predicts by further intensifying agriculture, we can retire another 20 million acres.

This last, he believes, will require more use of technical know-how by farmers, larger capital inputs into farming, and probably a continuing trend toward consolidating smaller farms into larger ones.

Thomas Beaver, vice president and general manager of the North American Division of Sperry Rand's New Holland farm equipment division, located here in one of the nation's finest agricultural areas, says that throughout the nation, farmers and teams of agricultural scientists are working out the shape of things to come in conservation and better land use.

THEIR EFFORTS are directed toward new and different ways to "harvest" more of the rain that falls, and to tillage and management systems that improve soil structure and reduce erosion. They are studying the uses of chemicals to directly and indirectly promote the cause of conservation.

The Soil Conservation Service has high hopes that no-till, minimum-till and modified tillage systems for row crops will make a great contribution toward protecting soil and water resources and increasing farm productivity during the 1970's. An SCS spokesman reports about 7 million acres were planted under the no-till method last year, compared with less than 10,000 acres just five years ago. And no-till can cut soil erosion 65 to 95 per cent.

New and improved terracing methods also are coming into the picture. Last year, the SCS reports it helped landowners install 30,000 miles of terracing.

Of this total, some 7,000 miles were the new parallel systems that make it much easier to use big multi-row farm equipment. Five years ago, there were few terraces of this type to be found.

Further improvements in terracing are being developed and tested by engineer C.W. Richardson and others at Blacklands research centers at Temple, and Riesel, Texas. They're installing systems of graded furrows that make possible wider intervals between terraces and also eliminate point rows.

"Futuristic" describes some of the work of William R. Gill and his associates at the National Tillage Machinery Laboratory at Auburn, Alabama. In part, it's a further development to minimum tillage research and is designed to find out whether reducing vehicular traffic can increase yields. Gill's men are trying to discover how to improve traction efficiency, cut soil compaction, and make fewer trips around the field. Savings in soil, tractor time, and in gasoline are involved.

IN IOWA, soils researcher William C. Moldenhauer is testing low-cost chemicals sprayed on the soil in very small amounts to protect against surface sealing by raindrop action, and the resulting erosion. Four chemicals show promise and may be tried, mixed with herbicides, in the next series of experiments. New and better ways to apply herbicides also enter the soil and water conservation and anti-pollution picture. In Texas dryland areas, soil scientists and engineers are using a modified root plow for applying herbicides to roots of water-hogging, hard-to-kill woody shrubs. Roots, not surface applications, are where you really get the action.

In Oregon, agronomists are building a herbicide safety zone for weed-free grass seed plantings by applying bands of activated charcoal directly over the seed rows at planting time. And, at Beltsville, Maryland, USDA research center biologists and soil scientists have found chemical additives for herbicides that may lead to more effective weed control with fewer applications at lower herbicide rates.

Air pollution and soil losses from wind erosion are still with us in the 1970's. But tests in humid Ohio and in dryland sections of Nebraska show minimum tillage of such row crops as corn, along with a sod or crop residue cover on the field, can prevent wind erosion and bring higher yields, even on highly blowable soils.

In the Nebraska Sandhills, 150 bushels of corn to the acre, and more, have been grown recently under irrigation on soils that wouldn't support a corn crop before. The secret is not irrigation alone. Sod planting of corn to control blowing on these light soils is what makes the irrigation workable.

CMU joins conference

MT. PLEASANT — Central Michigan University has been added to the Mid-American Conference.

At a July 20th press conference in Columbus, Ohio, the conference disclosed that CMU and Eastern Michigan University had been extended invitations to join the present six members: Miami University of Ohio, Bowling Green State University, the University of Toledo, Kent State University, Ohio University and Western Michigan University.

Officials of both Eastern and Central Michigan were quick to accept the invitations.

The announcement was greeted with excitement on the CMU campus in Mount Pleasant. Dr. William B. Boyd, the University's president, said:

"CENTRAL IS DELIGHTED to join what is clearly one of the nation's finest athletic conferences. In academic quality and athletic competition, the universities of the Mid-American Conference are excellent associates for CMU."

Athletic Director Daniel P. Rose commented:

"We were visited by conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby, Miami's president Dr. Phillip Shriver and its athletic director Dick Shriver Friday for a final review of our application for membership. The last thing Dr. Shriver said was that CMU has competed with members of the Mid-American Conference for the past 34 years and in that time they had always regarded us highly as a strong academic school and a quality opponent in athletics. Certainly that was a high compliment."

Rose continued:

"I WANT TO THANK personally Dr. James Miller, the president of Western Michigan University, Dr. Joe Hoy, its athletic director, and the WMU coaches for all that they have done in supporting us and making this come true."

Assistant Athletic Director Ted Kjolhede, who stepped down as the CMU basketball coach this year after 15 seasons, noted: "This new league alignment marks the end of an era in CMU athletics and the beginning of a new one. Joining the Mid-American Conference will bring University Division athletics to the Mount Pleasant area in all sports and this should be very beneficial and appealing to our students, faculty, alumni and other friends of the University. National powers will be competing on our campus soon, and this will be both a challenge and also a source of pride for everybody connected with Central. It is a commitment to be associated with these people in both athletics and academics."

One of those working hardest to receive the invitation was football mentor Roy Kramer, about to enter his fifth season.

"WE'RE TREMENDOUSLY pleased by the invitation. It's a great opportunity and at the same time challenge for our University programs. Our chief goal in the next few years will be to make ourselves worthy of the recognition the conference has given us. "We know this is an extremely fine football conference," Kramer added. "This will be a real test for us now to recruit the material we need to lift our program to the level of the Mid-American teams. "I might add we are very pleased that Eastern Michigan is coming into the MAC with us. This will provide the opportunity to develop some great intrastate rivalries among EMU, Western Michigan and ourselves!"

Baseball coach Dave Keltitz, who led the Chippewas to the runner-up spot nationally in his first year as head coach this past spring, also expressed his pleasure at the move.

"AS FAR AS BASEBALL is concerned, we are very happy to be in the Mid-American Conference because it is one of the top baseball leagues in the country. Among the schools in the league there isn't one with a weak baseball program; and it will be a challenge to finish near the top each year.

"We'll continue to play our traditional rivals each spring, although approximately half of our schedule will be conference games beginning in 1973."

According to the announcement made by Commissioner Jacoby, CMU will begin competing in the MAC in all sports except football and basketball during the 1972-73 school year. This will include cross country, wrestling, swimming, golf, tennis, baseball, and track.

Competition will begin in football and basketball as soon as full schedules can be arranged. The conference has also added soccer as a varsity sport but doesn't expect to begin competing in it prior to 1972-73.

GYMNASTICS PRESENTLY is not a conference sport; however, CMU, Eastern, Western, Bowling Green, Kent State and Miami belong to the Lake Erie Gymnastics League.

New facilities for intercollegiate athletics are now under construction at Central.

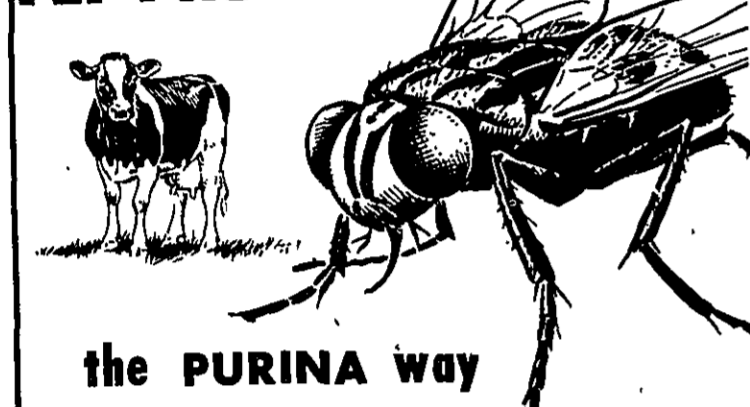

This spring, the University broke ground for a new $5.6 million Health, Physical Education and Recreation Building. When completed in 1973, the facility will house three basketball courts which can be converted into an arena seating 5,400 for varsity basketball, gymnasiums for gymnastics and wrestling, a six-lane pool plus a diving pool seating 1,000 and eight outdoor hard surfaced tennis courts.

Plans also are underway to upgrade existing baseball and track facilities and to build a new football stadium.

THE STADIUM, TO BE constructed in time for competition in 1972, will initially seat 19,500. Lighted for night competition and intramural use, it will include modern press, locker and concession facilities and artificial turf as well as adjacent parking for 1,000 cars.

Installation of an artificial track surface and permanent seating and fencing at the University's baseball field are included in plans to upgrade present facilities.

Hirt and band at homecoming

EAST LANSING—Al Hirt and his band will lead Michigan State University's Parade of Bands concert homecoming weekend, Ticket Office. The seats will be reserved. Rates are $5, $4 and $3.

The very popular, king-size trumpeter, along with Short Legs and the Saints, will perform twice at MSU—at halftime during the MSU-Iowa football game and in the Parade of Bands concert at 8:15 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 23, in the University Auditorium.

The Parade of Bands will include the 110-piece Symphonic Band and the Spartan Marching Band. The major attraction for this program, said Bloomquist, will be Hirt and his group.

A student of classical trumpet since he was seven, Hirt was known as a "good jazz trumpet" only in his native New Orleans until the late 1950s.

His road to fame opened with an engagement at a Bourbon Street club, at first only on weekends, then full time. His fame grew, and he was booked into the Dunes in Las Vegas.

Other club engagements, national TV appearances and an RCA recording contract completed the success story.

Hirt is one of the few musicians ever to have three gold albums in a single year.

One of Hirt's biggest recording moments was his performance with the Boston Pops under Arthur Fiedler. His performance of Hayden's "Concerto in D" won the praise of Roger Voison, dean of the world's classical trumpeters and first chair trumpet with the Pops.

Tickets for the Parade of Bands concert will go on sale in mid-September at the MSU Union Ticket Office. The seats will be reserved. Rates are $5, $4 and $3.

Bloomquist said there will be special rates for high school groups.

Clinton County Commission Proceedings

TUESDAY, MAY 4, 1971

The Clinton County Board of Commissioners met Tuesday, May 4, 1971 at 9:00 a.m. Prayer was offered by Ernest Carter. A Pledge of Allegiance was given to the flag. Roll was called and a quorum reported. Present were Andrew Cobb, Maurice Gove, Robert Dittmer, Duane Chamberlain, Claude Underhill, William Hufnagel, Robert Montgomery, Gerald Lankford, Roy Andrews and Gerald Shepard. Commissioner Nobis was excused.

Minutes of the April 27th meeting were presented. Corrections were made. It was moved by Montgomery, supported by Cobb, to approve the minutes as corrected. Voted and carried. Communications were read.

A letter from Richard Allen, State Representative, seeking the commissioners opinion on designating a Michigan by-way or slow-use road for hikers, bicyclists and horse back riders. Discussion followed. The consensus of opinion was not favorable to the use of public roads for this purpose. The clerk was instructed to send a reply to Mr. Allen.

An invitation from the Grand River Watershed Council to attend the annual meeting, to be held at Grand Haven, Michigan on Thursday, May 13th was read.

A letter from Roy Smith, State Representative to the 52nd District, requesting an opinion on his proposed tax reform program was read. The present system of taxation being unfair and inequitable, it was moved by Lankford, supported by Gove, that this Board does favor the concept of changes which would relieve the present burden of taxes on property. Voted and carried.

A letter of resignation from Gerald Wilcox as County Drain Engineer was read. It was moved by Lankford, supported by Hufnagel, to accept the resignation and to place on file. Voted and carried.

House Bill 4489, which would require County Boards to record their votes in committee as well as meetings of the full board, was read. Discussion followed with a general feeling of opposition to the bill prevailing.

The Board recessed for committee meetings at 10:00 a.m. Upon again coming to order, Lloyd Campbell, representing Soil Conservation Service, appeared and reported on the progress of the Soil Conservation Survey being made in the county. He presented the completed survey as made for Westphalia Township and explained with the aid of illustrated maps the soil structures of Westphalia Township.

Marvin Johnson, District Wildlife Biologist with the Department of Natural Resources, and Bud Jarvis appeared. They seek the opinion of the Board on establishing the deer hunting season for Clinton County. They invited the comments and opinions of the County Commissioners.

Commissioner Gove presented and moved, supported by Dittmer, to accept the following resolution. Voted and carried unanimously.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED, We the duly elected Clinton County Board of Commissioners meeting in regular session Tuesday, May 4, 1971, after due consideration, do hereby go on record in opposition to House Bill 4489, which would require County Boards to record their votes in committees as well as meetings of the full board for the following reasons:

1. It is biased and discriminatory in as much as it applies to County Boards only, not city, school, village or township boards nor to legislators.
2. It would create a considerable and undue burden upon the Board and also upon the County Clerk's Office. The minutes of the meetings would be much longer and the cost of printing and binding these minutes is very costly to taxpayers.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this be mailed to our Governor, State Senators and State Representatives and Michigan Association of Counties.

The Board recessed for lunch at 12:00 noon.

P.M. SESSION

Upon again resuming session, commissioner's expense accounts were presented. It was moved by Montgomery, supported by Hufnagel, to approve commissioner's expense accounts as presented. Voted and carried.

Commissioner Cobb, Chairman of the Building & Grounds Committee, reported that the Social Services Department are in urgent need of more office space.

Commissioner Andrews briefed the Board on the controversy between Capitol Area Comprehensive Health Planning Association and the Tri County Regional Planning Commission.

Herbert Malers, Director of Tri County Regional Planning Commission feels that there is a lack of communications and cooperation between the two organizations.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, it was moved by Montgomery, supported by Andrews, to adjourn at this time, subject to the call of the chairman, and to meet again June 1, 1971 at 9:00 a.m. Voted and carried.

Meeting adjourned.

Clerk

TUESDAY, JUNE 1, 1971

The Clinton County Board of Commissioners met Tuesday, June 1, 1971, at 9:00 a.m. Prayer was offered by Robert Dittmer. A Pledge of Allegiance was given to the flag. Roll was called and a quorum reported. Present were Andrew Cobb, Walter Nobis, Maurice Gove, Robert Dittmer, Duane Chamberlain, Claude Underhill, William Hufnagel, Robert Montgomery, Gerald Lankford, Roy Andrews and Gerald Shepard.

Minutes of the May 4, 1971 meeting were presented. It was moved by Gove, supported by Lankford, to approve the minutes as presented. Voted and carried.

Communications were read.

Letters from Governor Milliken, Senator VanderLaan and Representatives Trezise and Allen, acknowledging receipt of the Board's resolution in opposition to House Bill 4489 were read.

Chairman Shepard read a letter from Lloyd Martin and Don Fox, representing VanBuren County, expressing their pleasure and mutual benefits derived from the Government Exchange Day on May 17th. A pleasant time was had by all.

Vice-chairman Lankford gave a very favorable report on Clinton County's observance of the special occasion.

The Board recessed for committee meetings at 9:40 a.m. Upon again coming to order, Commissioner Andrews introduced Roberta Lawrence, program-coordinator for Tri County Regional Planning Commission. Also present were Patrick Kelly, Prosecuting Attorney and Roger Shutes, Director of Social Services Department.

Mrs. Lawrence explained her purpose here, namely to assist the county in obtaining Federal grants for certain specific programs.

Mr. Shutes and Mr. Kelly further enlarged upon a proposed program, which could bring federal aid to assist in inducing fathers to pay support for dependent children, a major portion of which is now being borne by the county.

Specifically the program would provide for one additional assistant prosecuting attorney, a clerk and the necessary office equipment to operate the office. These persons would concentrate on the area of collecting support payments from absent fathers or those who are unwilling to assume their obligations.

These persons, assistant Prosecutor and Clerk, are to be county employees who will be paid by the county and upon proper billing the county will be reimbursed for their services.

Discussion followed.

It was moved by Andrews, supported by Montgomery, that the Board does adopt the cooperative reimbursement program and to also adopt the program budget as presented. On a roll call vote, those voting aye were Cobb, Gove, Dittmer, Chamberlain, Underhill, Montgomery, Lankford, Andrews and Shepard. Nays were Nobis and Hufnagel, 9 ayes, 2 nays. Motion declared carried.

It was moved by Cobb, supported by Underhill, to authorize the chairman and clerk to sign the necessary application. Voted and carried.

He reviewed the map of the final Solid Waste Plan with the requested changes being made to them. (Area, not specific property designated and corrected population figures plus errata sheets, Revised February 1, 1971)

It was moved by Nobis, supported by Hufnagel, to approve the Solid Waste Plan with the corrections as prepared by Commonwealth Associates, Inc. Voted and carried.

He then proposed that in the future, any proposed changes in land use coming before the Planning Commission, be submitted for review by the Land Use Committee of the Board of Commissioners.

Regarding the Future Land Use map, Mr. Koenigsnecht stated that some parts of it are obviously wrong and the Planning Commission will attempt to correct and up-date the plan hopefully to have this ready by 1972.

It was moved by Nobis, supported by Hufnagel, to adopt the Future Land Use Plan as prepared by Commonwealth Associates, Inc. Voted and carried.

'Wrong way' kills

LANSING—Drinking drivers are involved in well over half of the "wrong-way" accidents on Michigan freeways.

Analysis of such accidents on the more than 1,400 miles of freeway in the five years from 1966 through 1970 showed that between 50 and 75 per cent involved drivers who had been drinking.

A total of 219 wrong-way accidents were reported on state freeways from 1966 through 1970. They claimed 50 lives. The worst in state history occurred July 17 when an auto and a station wagon rammed each other on I-75 Freeway near Grand Blanc, south of Flint. Nine persons were killed and one permanently injured.

A LARGE PORTION of the accidents are caused by drivers who enter a freeway on an exit ramp. Others occur when vehicles cross a median or, rarely, when a car goes the wrong way on an entrance road to freeway rest area. Erection of median guard rail has helped prevent wrong-way crashes. However, no practical method has been developed to prevent vehicles from entering exit ramps. The main deterrents are warning devices.

On a standard interchange, two pairs of reflective black-and-white and red-and-white signs are installed on each side of the ramps. The first pair of 24-inch-wide signs warn the driver "Do Not Enter—Wrong Way." The second pair, 36 inches wide and placed farther down the ramp, say "Wrong Way." In addition, red reflector buttons, known as delineators, are attached to a series of small metal standards running down both sides of the ramp to give the night driver additional warning.

A team of traffic engineers from the Department of State Highways has investigated the area of the I-75 accident near Grand Blanc. They will issue a report on their findings.

RECORDS CHECKED from 1967 through 1970 showed no wrong-way fatalities on I-75 through all of Oakland County or in Genesee County as far north as M-121 (Bristol Road). There were 14 accidents with 19 injuries. In most of the collisions, one or both of the drivers had been drinking.

The Highway Department made a detailed analysis of wrong-way crashes on Michigan freeways in 1966. The 44 accidents that year claimed three lives.

An analysis of 200 drivers apprehended driving in the wrong direction led to these conclusions:

—Slightly more than 50 per cent of the drivers apprehended had been drinking.

—Fifty per cent of the accidents were caused by drivers with 10 or more violations on their driving record. Only six of the accidents involved drivers with point-free records.

—Eighty per cent of the accidents occurred after dark.

FOLLOWING ARE records for subsequent years:

1967—19 accidents with 36 injuries and 10 fatalities. Sixty per cent of the accidents involved drinking drivers.

1968—41 accidents with 43 injuries and 16 deaths. Seventy per cent involved drinking. 1969—55 accidents with 66 injuries and nine deaths. Sixty-nine per cent involved drinking. 1970—60 accidents with 66 injuries and 12 fatalities. Sixty per cent involved drinking.

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

On the throne sat the king. And he announced to the noblemen gathered about: "Why don't we all share our revenue like one big happy family?" And the noblemen looked at him, silently and in amazement.

It's just a jest of course, but there are some similarities in this jocular jab at the king and his noblemen to the revenue sharing plan proposed to the states by the present federal administration. The plan is essentially an administrative revision to attempt to spend our tax dollars more efficiently. It won't reduce taxes, but it does predict it will bolster the strength and responsibility of what many believe to be waning power of state and local governments.

THE PLAN IS AN alternative designed to bring more order to a complex system of government spending. Its plan is to make more dollars more easily available to state and local government and claims it will concurrently ease the economic strain of state and local governments. Available will be $16.1 billion.

1972 wheat program announced by USDA

EAST LANSING—Major provisions of the 1972 Wheat Program have been released by the Secretary of Agriculture, Clifford M. Hardin. This announcement was made by Nick Smith, Chairman of the Michigan State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

According to Smith, it is important that wheat producers be informed of these provisions in order for them to make their planting plans for their 1972 wheat crop. The Secretary has determined that the 1972 National domestic wheat allotment will be 19.7 million acres, the same as last year. This will result in most farm allotments being substantially the same as they were for 1971. There will be exceptions, however, where some allotments will be less than last year where the farmers did not fulfill the requirements of the 1971 program.

IN 1972, PARTICIPANTS in the program will be required to set-aside an acreage equal to 83 percent of their domestic allotments. This is the maximum provided by law. One very important change in the 1972 program, noted Smith, will permit the planting of soybeans as a substitute crop for wheat. This is in addition to the feed grain crops which were permitted in 1971 to preserve wheat allotment history. Another important change will provide for the inclusion of barley in the 1972 feed grain program. The major provisions of the 1972

About $6 billion represents new money.

A major hang up is that the plan which would make money easier to get would come through a federal redistribution process (get this) if the states agree to send their revenues first through the federal government.

But it is debated that since the feds already run an annual deficit rate of about $21 billion, it is setting up an untapped reservoir of dollars to increase its ability to borrow.

IF THE FEDERAL government were truly benevolent, why couldn't it simply keep state funds in the state and through tax credits, still give greater accessibility to needed funds? The same ends could be accomplished and states would get full benefit of their own monies. Deductions in federal taxes then could be easily relayed to state and local government funds. Tax credits would also return greater control and respectability to state and local government. And for Joe Citizen, results would still include more efficient use of his funds, as opposed to building yet another bureaucratic castle.

Feed Grain Program will be announced at a later date. They cannot be made until the status of the current corn crop is known.

For 1972, there will again be no limit or restrictions on the wheat acreage that can be planted. Also, there will be no change in the $1.25 National loan rate. In closing, Smith noted that the changes in the 1972 program providing for the use of soybeans as a substitute crop and classifying barley as a seed grain will give the farmer additional planting options which will earn him the best possible income with losing program benefits. ASCS county offices will soon notify wheat producers of their domestic allotments and the applicable set-aside acreage for their farms.

Rivard gets SBA loan

Detroit—Robert F. Phillips, District Director of the Small Business Administration, announced today that initial disbursements have been made on 134 loans to businesses in Michigan through SEA's loan program totalling $5,827,650.00 in the second quarter of 1971.

Phillips said most of these loans were made in cooperation with local banks utilizing SEA's blanket guarantee loan plan. Among the loans was Rivard Nursing Home of St. Johns who received $15,000.

The Olive 4-H Projects had their exhibit on Germany explaining the dress, types of food and passed out samples of cookies and recipes. The members taught the group some dances that are favorite with German people.

The Bengal Community 4-H Club had their exhibit on Italy where the youth and adults were able to taste some pizza made by the club. Also the members taught the group some games as well as learning more about the country.

The program was different this year from previous years as the main objective was to help the group to learn about some favorite foods and customs from different countries, sample their foods and sharing their traditions.

With these new ideas members are encouraged to try different foods in their 4-H foods project work sessions.

LANSING — A "package" containing 111,000 square feet of new office space was officially opened last week here.

Several hundred spectators watched as Governor William Milliken "unwrapped" the new Farm Bureau Center on West Saginaw Highway. A four-foot by eight-foot "card" attached to the giant ribbon display read "Do Not Open Until July 28."

Milliken and two Farm Bureau officials participated in the brief but unique dedication ceremonies for the new state headquarters. Following the program, tours were conducted for open house guests.

The three-story, T-shaped structure was sponsored and is owned by Farm Bureau Life Insurance Company of Michigan, one of four companies which comprise Farm Bureau Insurance Group; others are Farm Bureau Mutual, Community Service Insurance and Community Service Acceptance.

IN ADDITION to Farm Bureau Insurance Group, the complex also serves as state headquarters for the following organizations: Michigan Farm Bureau, Farm Bureau Services, Inc., Farmers Petroleum Cooperative, Inc., Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association, Michigan Agricultural Services Association and Michigan Association of Farmer Cooperatives.

Elton Smith, Michigan Farm Bureau President, delivered a welcome address to open house guests and presided over the dedication ceremony.

In comments preceding Governor Milliken's remarks, N.L. Vermillion, Farm Bureau Insurance Group Executive Vice President, outlined history of the construction project and the building's physical characteristics.

Located on a 20-acre site at 7373 West Saginaw Highway, east of the I-96 interchange, the building was occupied by Farm Bureau on May 21.

APPROXIMATELY 500

persons are employed in the new center. Another 1,500 agents and employees represent the organization throughout the State.

Formerly headquartered at 4000 North Grand River Avenue, Farm Bureau and affiliate companies have occupied several different buildings in the Lansing area. Originally, the organization was located in an old converted warehouse at 221 North Cedar.

The building at 4000 North Grand River Avenue was constructed in 1955 with a floor space of 44,000 square feet. Later, two additions were made, bringing the total space up to 65,000 square feet.

Helen Blakely of Elsie 4 Corner Club displays pastry samples that the country is well known for preparing.

Slap in the face

The political blackmail currently being instigated, and apparently with success, by the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives, should be considered a real slap in the face to all Michigan voters.

Republicans and Democrats in the House have been in a deadlock which has been blocking tax reform for years. Then last week the break began when a proposed constitutional amendment which would allow Michigan residents to vote in November on a property tax relief measure, was coupled with a proposal to eliminate the constitutional prohibition against a graduated income tax.

That's a real choice! The Democratic leadership's price for any property tax reform is a graduated income tax. You will remember the graduated income tax was put on the statewide ballot and overwhelmingly defeated by Michigan voters in 1968. And earlier, delegates to the state's Constitutional Convention turned it down. So voters either accept the already rejected graduated income tax, a tax which increases as a person's income increases instead of the present flat rate tax which takes a set percentage of a taxpayer's income regardless of how much the person makes, or there will be no property tax relief.

As the Lansing State Journal editorialized: "We hope the Michigan Senate will not be caught up in this effort to railroad a graduated income tax by dangling a property relief carrot in front of the voters' noses. The people of Michigan have a right to a real choice in this matter in the form of a second ballot proposal dealing separately with property tax relief.

When the proposal reaches the Senate, we hope the senators allow Michigan voters the right to vote on a separate property tax relief amendment at the November election. How else can the electorate express clearly what they want?"

-MacD.

The lighter side

Here's a bit of newspaper horsensense, or what have you, which may amuse you:

An editor is said to be a person who knows very little about a great deal and keeps learning less and less about more and more until he knows practically nothing about everything.

A reporter is a person who knows a great deal about very little and who goes along learning more and more about less and less until, finally, he knows practically everything about nothing.

A publisher starts out knowing practically everything about everything, but ends up knowing nothing about anything, mainly because of his association with reporters and editors.

And now you know everything there is to know about editors, reporters and publishers. We presume you could use this same course of description in other fields as well.

Guest Editorial

By Dale Stafford
Greenville Daily News

One of the advantages of growing old is that you get a chance to say: "See, what did I tell you years ago."

The forecasts that went awry can be forgotten since not many people recall them.

In any event the Editor spent considerable time in Southeast Asia in 1956. He sought to help Indonesians and others improve their newspapers. Along the way he wrote pieces for the Chicago Daily News Foreign Service and his own Daily News.

In one article he predicted: "The United States and Red China can't remain apart forever; the U.S. and the United Nations can't continue to ignore a country with by far the largest percentage of the world's population."

A few readers said: "I knew it; our Editor is a Commie." Finally, the great thaw is here and it will be climaxed by President Nixon's visit to Peking.

The first thing to remember is that the Chinese and most Asians view time in terms of centuries; in the United States we want instant everything. And if it looks difficult let us spend a few billions right now.

Totals, without the city of DeWitt were 2,323 yes and 2,727 no. Albert J. Fruchtl, 300 West Higham Street, St. Johns has recently completed an overseas assignment for the International Executive Service Corp. Fruchtl, a retired foundry engineer and owner-manager of J. Two local attorneys occupied a prominent place at the annual convention of the Michigan Prosecuting Attorneys association at Mackinac Island over the weekend. John C. Cary Jr., Clinton County prosecutor, was elected to the board of directors of the group for the coming year and Fred M. Lewis, former county prosecutor, served as toastmaster at the annual banquet at the Grand Hotel. Lewis introduced Gov. John M. Swainson, who was the main speaker for the occasion.

Donald J. Smith of St. Johns was elected by the 75,000 Michigan Legionnaires for the position of National Executive Commit-

Elsie Dickenson of St. Johns was qualifying medalist, but Ruby Garfield of Clare won the championship flight. Lillian McKinney of Ithaca was runner-up. Elsie Bancroft of St. Johns won the consolation flight and Doris Hicks of St. Johns was runner-up.

St. Johns firemen were called out on an unusual mission when an applicator tank containing about 300 pounds of anhydrous ammonia, a caustic gas used for fertilizer, was parked in the yard at Plant Food Services, Inc., on Railroad Street. Someone had opened a valve on the tank permitting the gas to escape. The firemen arrived within minutes after the dangerous seepage was reported, donned gas masks and closed the valve.

Distorting the facts

By TIM YOUNKMAN

Distorting the facts for one's own gain is not a new concept by any means. In fact, it is not necessarily a negative trait of American public relations.

However, an item that passed across this desk last week should have some special attention.

It was a little four-page newsletter, printed by the National Rifle Association, reporting on the main features found in the group's monthly magazine, The American Rifleman.

The item that attracted attention was the front page story on "How the 1968 Gun Act Caused A Shooting." Since the association has been violently opposed to any strong firearm laws, the story seemed worth reading.

It was a classic study in how a few facts can be carefully submitted, while sneaking past answering some other questions of equal import.

The item described a "raid" by investors of the federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division on a Silver Spring, Md., apartment June 7. According to the newsletter, the raiding party "shot down Kenyon F. Ballew in his home simply on seeing a gun in his hand."

The main point brought out in the title was related in the first of several conclusions issued by the staff of the magazine. They claimed that the first shot was "probably fired by an Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division investigator recruited in expanding the Internal Revenue Service field staff under the 1968 Federal Gun Control Act."

Thus the shooting, claims the magazine, was caused by the gun law. Even elementary school logic would dictate that the magazine's first conclusion is lacking in much detail.

Another contention issued by the magazine was that "official claims that the raiders fired in self-defense after first attempting to persuade Ballew to drop his replica revolver lacked any real basis." That is all the article states. It does not indicate whether an inflammatory conversation was held between investigators and Ballew. It does not indicate whether Ballew raised the gun as if to shoot. These questions simply went unanswered. Ballew did fire the weapon, a replica .44 cap and ball revolver, and the bullet went into a wall inches above the floor, but there was no indication as to which gun was fired first.

Ballew, the magazine states, was a lifetime member of the association and owned eight cartridge arms. None of which were illegal, the magazine added.

Another important point the magazine failed to establish was the intent of the investigators. There are hundreds of thousands of gun collectors in the United States, most of whom are never even questioned as to the purpose or intent of the collection. There must have been other circumstances surrounding the investigation of a small-time collector in Maryland who only owned eight guns.

There was no mention, or apparent attempt to learn, of the nature of the charges listed in the search warrant (or that any such warrant was issued). Agents of that department would obviously be empowered to investigate illegal sale, use or manufacture of alcoholic beverages or tobacco products.

It was pointed out that the agents used a police battering ram to break down the door to Ballew's apartment. They did not indicate whether the agents simply forced their way in without any warning or whether Ballew refused to open the door.

Some facts are certain. Ballew was shot by the agents. He was carrying an operable and loaded weapon which did discharge. The department agents were working for an agency created and expanded by the 1968 gun law.

To blame the misfortunes of Ballew on the gun legislation as proof that any further legislation would be detrimental to Americans (without any further research into the facts) would be a disservice to all of us. It is an even greater disservice to the association members.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

Gypped

By JIM FITZGERALD

Make way for youth, And all that jazz. But sometimes it gives me a pang. Not a pain; a pang. You get a pain in the neck. The pang pings your heart.

The other day Mark Beltaire, the Detroit Free Press Columnist, wrote about short railroads. He mentioned the Port Huron and Detroit Railroad which, he said, is privately owned by George and Jim Duffy of Port Huron.

I stopped reading in mid-paragraph so as to indulge in some incriminating nostalgia. About 30 years ago, I delivered newspapers to George Duffy's home in Port Huron. He was my best customer because he always paid several weeks in advance. The charge was 20 cents a week but, when Duffy owed 20 cents he'd give me a buck so I wouldn't bother him again for 5 weeks. But he never marked a calendar and he had a poor memory. I'd come back in 3 weeks, or whenever I was broke, and he'd give me another buck for 5 more weeks. And then I'd be back in 3 more weeks and so on...

I didn't consider this stealing. Stealing was copying dimes from your mother's purse, which I also did. But with Duffy, I simply owed him some newspapers. I figured that some day I'd be flush and I'd skip collecting from him for several months, but keep delivering papers, until my route book balanced. But I still haven't got flush and I had to give up the newspaper route to protect my eligibility for Social Security. I still owe Duffy 1,347 copies of the Port Huron Times Herald.

While nostalgating, I remembered that Duffy is about 7 foot tall and I immediately thought, columnist Beltaire should hear how my late dad once introduced Duffy to a friend. "This is George Duffy." Dad said, "the only railroad owner in the world who is longer than his track."

Then I returned to Beltaire's column and discovered that, by gosh, he had heard about Dad's wisecrack. There it was, in print for the first time. But Beltaire credited it to "Eddie Fitzgerald of the Lapeer Fitzgeralds."

And that's when I felt the pang.

There is an Eddie Fitzgerald who lives in Lapeer but he is not my father; he's my son. The Eddie Fitzgerald who knew George Duffy never lived in Lapeer. He was "of the Port Huron Fitzgeralds" and he never lived anywhere else in all his 71 years. His swinging widow still lives there, pretending she was his daughter.

All of which is a small mistake, and certainly understandable. Writing this weekly nonsense has gained me a certain amount of notoriety and "the

you. Dad wouldn't be miffed by Beltaire's mistake in geography. He'd just laugh. On the other hand, he'd be madder than hell to learn about me gypping George Duffy. Just thinking about his anger makes me feel like a little boy.

Which isn't a bad way to feel. I guess I just want to be my father's son for a few more years, anyway.

Make way for my youth.

While self-appointed experts glibly talk of the alleged tax breaks granted the oil industry through such measures as percentage depletion, it is instructive to read of history's first large-scale oil discovery. It occurred at 10:30 on the morning of January 10, 1901, near Beaumont, Texas, on a mound called Spindletop. These are facts of record, of course, which are widely known. The story behind this discovery is not so well known.

A man and his wife spent their last dime and sold the furniture from their home to raise money to drill first a dry hole and then a second hole that also promised to be a failure when drillers ran into sand and wanted to quit. The wife of the pioneer oilman insisted that they fulfill their contract and drill to 1,200 feet. Oil was struck at 1,160 feet. On that fateful January morning, the first great oil gusher blew in. Six tons of pipe came shooting out of the well, followed by a geyser of oil that towered more than 200 feet in the air. The well flowed at a rate of 75,000 to 100,000 barrels a day—compared to the entire output of all the oil fields in the United States of less than 175,000 barrels daily.

As a leading oil industry spokesman of today notes of the Spindletop discovery, "There was a roar like cannon fire. It turned out to be the sound of the Twentieth Century, born in a gusher of oil." And it came about because a man and his wife with a great deal of faith risked home and savings on a venture that most of the experts who prattle about tax loopholes would lack the vision or the courage to attempt. Thanks to the risk takers, the oil industry was able to meet a domestic petroleum demand in 1970 equal to 1,100 gallons for each man, woman and child in the United States—some 5.4 billion barrels.

Estimates indicate that an abundance of petroleum and gas remain to be discovered. But in recent years, the discovery rate has declined as the incentive to search for oil has been reduced through regulation and taxation. This is the "climate" which oilmen say must be altered with adoption of a new national oil policy if energy requirements are to be met in the future.

Try Again

Yesterday's paper is read and discarded, Yesterday's memos are old stuff today Yesterday's program is up for revision, Yesterday's people have faded away.

Yesterday's moods face today's new translations Yesterday's methods just will not suffice, Yesterday's travels are not for tomorrow, Yesterday's patterns today are "on ice".

Yesterday's prices are changed without notice, Yesterday's portions of turnips and squash Yesterday's records are filed and recorded So what do we do about yesterday's wash?

By WARREN E. DOBSON

July, 1971

Rep. Douglas Trezise
87th District

A crazy day

Dear Diary:

Today was the craziest day of my short tenure in the Michigan Legislature. I voted for something I have postured against for the past six months and voted against something I have advocated for several years. And then, with the work on the overdue budget less than half complete, I was told to go home and take a couple of weeks off.

Numerous GOP attempts to amend or modify the potential effects of such a tax structure were repeatedly voted down by Democrats. So, I made the decision that the voters in the 87th District still want the opportunity to vote on the property tax question in whatever form it can clear both houses of the Legislature; because, this is, by far, the overriding political consideration in our area.

HOUSE RESOLUTION "GG" was approved by the House of Representatives and sent to the Senate where it may or may not receive favorable action; subsequently, consideration by you at the polls in November. But, the completely inflexible position of the majority Democrats, and particularly its urban leaders, led to the other half of this seemingly paradoxical day. This involved the question of "aid to the cities" or "local revenue sharing" as it is sometimes referred to.

Before us was House Bill 4472, a proposal to revamp the procedure used to distribute state collected revenues to local units of government and, in addition, throw another $30 million into the pot for the same units. It is no secret that the net effect of this new distribution formula would be to put most of that new money into the city of Detroit and, with only slight improvement, juggle the remaining funds among the other cities, villages and townships of the state.

I have long been sympathetic to the problems of our urban areas and especially Detroit. In this column, in speeches and in the Legislature, I have advocated a concern by all of us for the needs of these areas. I was prepared to go along with the general intent of this bill; although, I did have some ideas about revision of the formula. But, I also feel that consideration for the problems of others is a two-way street and the complete disregard for the problems of the property tax burden to us in the outstate minority when the property tax resolution led me to cast a "no" vote when HB 4472 was before us.

The bill, incidentally, was defeated twice during the course of the day but will be back before us in some form when we return later in August. So, we came to the end of another day, or so I thought. But, before we left, the majority leadership had one more goody—a two-week vacation. We left without even considering a $35 million social services budget. School-aid plans have not yet been put before us nor have appropriations for the colleges and universities.

From the State House

A victory for your man

By REP. DICK ALLEN

A victory for your man, Allen. Sixty million dollars worth of tax credits have been returned to the suffering property owners! It looks like counties will get a fair share of the State Tax increase.

These have been my chief objectives since the beginning of the session. Actually my work on property tax credits began in 1970 even before they were repealed. Early in the session the goal seemed impossible with the strong opposition of the Governor and no particular support from the leadership of either party.

So this has been a satisfying week for me. Members of both parties in both the Houses and Senators have caused to slap me on the back or shake their head grudgingly. But political victories are somewhat similar to military ones. They have their price.

If a general or a president proudly announces a battlefield victory, I think it is well for the people to ask, "What was the price? How many dead and wounded? How much material lost?"

So I suggest you ask that the same question, "What was the price of your victory with property tax credits?"

A good question deserving of a full answer.

First of all, honorable legislators do not "trade" votes. But the process by which one achieves goals may at times come so close to this that you would say the difference is only semantics.

It went something like this. The budget message came out early in the year without return of property tax credits. I complained loudly to the Governor, the Press and my fellow legislators.

I researched the history of the credits and developed information favorable to their return. Almost weekly I circulated some of this to House colleagues. I talked to other members and began to develop a list of those that agreed with me. It was not large, but contained some important House members, including the Democratic Chairman of the Taxation Committee. I was temporarily pleased as the House Tax Committee reinstated the credits.

But word came from the summit (Governor's office and Speaker Ryan) that they had to come off. So the Tax Bill came to the House floor minus credits.

I had amendments prepared and submitted but with little hope of success. Sixty million dollar amendments without support of the leadership of either party of the Governor's office have a poor "track record" on the House floor. But I loudly proclaimed I had no intention of voting for the Tax Bill without the credits.

"Sour grapes," said some. Or, "Childish stubbornness." But the Tax Bill didn't move and finally a break. A leader came to me. "How many votes can you get for the Tax Bill if it includes tax credits?"

I was elated. "Maybe five," I said. "Not enough," he said. But I went to work campaigning for the Tax Bill if it included property tax credits. A few of us from both parties stuck together, our votes were needed, and property tax credits were returned.

But, I had to vote for a 40 per cent increase in the income tax and I am now supporting a compromise constitutional amendment that is not too pleasing to me.

Not because I had traded my vote on the issues for tax credits, but because my views on the credits were not likely to be considered unless I then supported the entire program.

Is there any essential difference between the process I describe here and blatant self-serving political trades? I'm not sure. I guess that judgment is best left to you.

Log jam

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

Up until this week, almost 2,600 bills had been introduced in the 76th Michigan Legislature since early January.

Of that number, fewer than 100 (or 4%) had been "enrolled"—that is, passed by both the Senate and the House of Representatives and sent to the Governor for his signature.

And even though there are indications of a break in the logjam of tax and appropriation bills that could signal completion of the year, more new bills continue to be tossed into the hopper with every passing week.

Increase allowable interest rates on village public improvement bond issues to 8 per cent and increase the time period for installment assessments for paying from five to ten years; Reduce the required vote for city charter or charter amendments from three-fifths to a simple majority; Provide for payment of federal and/or state funds to cover relocation costs sustained by persons displaced by acquisition of his property by the state or political subdivisions of the state; Penalize non-payment of garbage or rubbish collection fees by discontinuing garbage and rubbish collections; Protect public utility customers against discontinuance of service by default; Permit cities to levy a one per cent excise tax similar to a sales tax on all goods and services except food and drugs; Limit the deduction for personal and dependency exemptions from the state income tax to no more than two natural children from one marriage; Require that up to 50 per cent of harness racing revenues be paid to county and state fairs for special purses, premiums and lump sum allotments; Declare the general election day in November as a "legal school holiday"; Reduce the mandatory retirement age of state employees from its present 70 years to 65 years in five one-year steps until 1976; Allow employees of any parochial or private school to become members of the Michigan Public School Employees' Retirement System; Provide veterans' burial allowance only to veterans who are residents of Michigan at the time of their death; Require the State Department of Education to develop a K-12 program of training in the field of "human relations" with emphasis on "understanding of minority groups" and require the completion of such a course for graduation; Establish a Recycling Commission to study the need, problems and possibilities of recycling reusable resources and to study other aspects of solid waste; and Identify the mourning dove in Michigan as a game bird, thus making dove hunting a possibility in Michigan as it is in 33 other states at present.

THESE ARE JUST a few of the bills still coming in, and none of them can really be considered major items of state business. What are their prospects of passage? Probably about the same ratio as the fewer than 100 already passed of the almost 2,600 bills already introduced.
