

Clinton County 4-H Fair opens next Monday

Hours, weeks and months of preparation by hundreds of 4-H members of Clinton County will materialize on Monday when the Annual Clinton County 4-H Club Fair opens.

Included in this year's listing of exhibit categories are: livestock, horticulture, home economics, crafts and science, agriculture, conservation, photography, safety, teen leadership, automotive, cultural arts, dog care, weather, recreation, veterinary science and animal science.

Competition for awards in the various categories is limited to exhibitors ages 10 through 18. Anyone in this age group, who will not reach 19 years of age as of Sept. 30 will be eligible to enter judging.

All articles exhibited must have been made or grown, or animals cared for during 1968.

ANIMALS EXHIBITED must be owned by the exhibitor, except horses. No bulls or stallions will be accepted.

Western horse exhibits will be registered from 9 to 10 a.m. Aug. 12 and exhibits not housed at the fairgrounds will be released at the end of the horse show. English horse and pony exhibits being housed at the fairgrounds will be checked in from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Aug. 12. Others will be checked in Aug. 13 from 9 to 10 a.m. and will be released at the end of the horse show.

On Monday, the receiving of entries and setting up of exhibits will commence at 9 a.m. and a western show will start at 10 a.m. After lunch, a tractor operator's contest will be on at 2:30 and throughout the afternoon the exhibitors will be entitled to free swimming at the pool.

Monday evening, an all-star softball game is on the agenda at 7:30 p.m. At 8 p.m. the St. Johns High School Band will present a concert.

Tuesday's events include the display of vegetable and flower garden exhibits which will start setting up at 9 a.m. and should be completed by noon. At 9 a.m. the judging of all entries with the exception of dairy cattle will start. Another horse show featuring English horses and ponies is scheduled for 10 a.m. and a swine showmanship contest will be underway about 10:30. At 11:30 a sheep showmanship contest will be held. By 1 p.m. the judging of beef cattle entries should be on and the flower show will be from 1 to 2 p.m.

County hits health unit on perc tests

County supervisors, who have at least inwardly been critical of county health department approval of building sites, voted Monday to knock $8,000 off the department's appropriation in October unless a change in policy is made.

A resolution to that effect passed on a voice vote, with only one dissenting vote being heard. The resolution actually mentions no alternative to the $8,000 cut in the appropriation to the Mid-Michigan District Health Department, but supervisors seemed to want to use it as a lever to get the situation corrected.

The controversy is over health department approval of building sites on land which the supervisors and County Drain Commissioner Dale Chapman contend don't provide an adequate soil percolation test.

Supervisor Earl Barks of Olive Township led the criticism, aimed at G. Robert Yager, registered sanitarian with the health department. Barks contended that too many percolation tests were being approved on land which had been turned down several times previously.

"I don't feel we're getting dollars and cents received for our expenditures" from that department, Barks commented.

THE MID-MICHIGAN DISTRICT Health Department was to get $37,976 under the proposed county budget adopted in April. That would probably be pared, anyway, before the final budget is adopted in October, but the supervisors' resolution would chop $8,000 off of that figure. A like reduction in pro-rated contributions from Gratiot and Montcalm counties (others figuring in the department) would hurt, supervisors said.

Yager said Tuesday morning he was unaware there was any problem of this magnitude.

"We've been using what I've felt to be standard percolation tests," he said, "and I can't think of any places we've approved where the septic system has gone totally bad."

As to the number of approvals, he said "It seems like we've been turning more down lately than we've allowed to go through."

Chapman, county drain commissioner, was called to the board meeting at Barks' request. He said "We're facing a critical problem with the health department." He said he disagreed with the method of taking perc tests and contended the job was not being done the way it should be done.

Barks' main concern seemed to be over the need for repeated visits to a prospective building site. Supervisor Herman Openlander of Watertown Township suggested some sort of limitation be put on the number of inspections.

Gerald Shepard, Bath Township supervisor and a member of the Mid-Michigan District Health Board from Clinton County, said he has brought up the problem to the board on several occasions, but nothing is being done to implement a change. "I'm not happy over the situation," he said, and he indicated his next move might be to resign unless some action could be gotten.

Authority over 4-H buildings resolved

The board of supervisors and Extension Agent-in-charge F. Earl Haas have apparently reached a meeting of the minds concerning authority over 4-H buildings.

The board seems to have won out, being backed by a written opinion from the county prosecutor to the effect that the board of supervisors was wrongly bypassed in the decision to locate and construct the new 4-H horse barn.

The question of authority came up last month when the board was (Story continued on Page 2-A)

Sunday liquor-by-glass approved

The Sunday sale of liquor by the glass at county restaurants holding liquor licenses was approved by the board of supervisors Monday afternoon, but by only a 13-8 vote.

The board passed a resolution allowing liquor by the glass after 2 p.m. Sundays following receipt of a sample resolution provided by the state and letters from Fred Evers and Al Daley, restaurant owners in Valley Farms and Bingham Township.

The resolution was introduced at the morning session, but was tabled until the afternoon. Considerable discussion occurred then preceding the vote.

Voting in favor of the resolution were Supervisors Gerald Shepard of Bath, Bill Hufnagel of Dallas, Reginald Nelson of DeWitt, George Moore of Duplain, Russell Howe of Eagle, Derrill Shinabery of Greenbush, Walter Nobis of Lebanon, George Austin of Ovid, Norman Thelen of Riley, Walter Thelen of Westphalia, Thomas Hundley and William Kemper of St. Johns and Gerald Lankford of the City of DeWitt.

Opposing the Sunday sales were Supervisors Maurice Gove of Bingham, John Setterington of Essex, Earl Barks of Olive, Claude Underhill of Victor, Herman Openlander of Watertown, Elden Smith of the City of DeWitt, Rex Serrine of St. Johns and Ray Mayers of Bengal.

OPPOSITION TO THE resolution was on moralistic grounds, while those speaking in favor cited economic reasons.

Supervisor Gove, opposing it, said the issue was greater than the value of dollars and cents. He contended that a major portion of cases going through circuit court have alcohol involved; he said there are an estimated 10,000 alcoholics in the tri-county area; and he said alcohol costs industry $2 billion annually in lost man hours.

"We should be trying to prevent, rather than having to cure, this problem," he said.

Supervisor Barks said he opposed the resolution because "the morals of our nation are going down fast enough. We should stand up for anything that we can do to keep morality high." Three persons in the audience spoke in opposition to the Sunday sales.

Supervisor Nelson, who voted in favor of the resolution, admitted the moral issue was great, but he said it is also an economic situation. "The problem of alcoholism can't be solved by saying what day you can buy it," he commented.

William Kemper of St. Johns claimed that an underlying pathology is the cause of alcoholism and not strictly alcohol itself. Walter Thelen of Westphalia commented that "it is not up to us to legislate morals."

The restaurant owners, in their letters to the board, pointed out that Sunday sale of liquor by the glass was being permitted in other areas, and the "dry on Sundays" tag was hurting their business.

State law now provides that counties may allow Sunday sale of liquor by the glass upon passage and filing of the model resolution. City taverns and restaurants are not affected under the law, and in fact only about four restaurants in the county are affected.

The Sunday sales go into effect immediately.

Tornadoes swirl over area

Political emphasis shifted to weather emphasis Monday evening as Clinton County residents waited out a tornado warning that lasted almost two hours.

Several funnel clouds were sighted aloft in the southern part of the county and in Lansing, and the DeWitt City Fire Department confirmed at 10:08 p.m. that a tornado had touched down near the Capital City Airport in DeWitt Township.

For the threat that it did pose, the storm did little damage, according to reports Tuesday morning. A tree was blown down on a car on Coleman Road east of US-27, and three homes in the Bath area were struck by lightning; damage was reported minor.

Clinton County Civil Defense Director Charles Frost said the warning procedure "went well across the county, as far as I'm concerned. It was the best response we've ever had from the whole county."

WARNING SIRENS were not sounded in St. Johns under a plan to blow them only in the event the city is directly threatened. Police Chief Everett Glazier sent spotters out on the west and south sides of the city, and both policemen and firemen participated. Sheriff's department vehicles were spread out across the west side of the county. St. Johns firemen stood by at city hall.

Frost said the official tornado warning came at 9:05 p.m. via telephone from the U.S. Weather Bureau. He said no warning was ever received from state police sources.

Although the sirens didn't sound in St. Johns, it seemed practically everyone was aware of the tornado warning, and residents were out on every street in town scanning the skies warily.

Heavy clouds and almost constant sheet and bolt lightning hung over an area south of the city (Story continued on Page 3-A)

REX SIRRINE

Serrine, Gove, Cobb supervisor winners

Clinton County residents nominated, and for all practical purposes, elected 11 supervisors Tuesday to represent them on a new board of supervisors starting Jan. 1.

Seven of 11 current supervisors running for the new posts were elected, including Claude Underhill, William Hufnagel, Gerald Lankford, Gerald Shepard, Walter Nobis, Maurice Gove and Rex Serrine.

Serrine was elected in District 4, which includes much of the city of St. Johns. He gathered 416 votes to beat out Kenneth A. Penix with 240 votes and Raymond Kentfield with 206.

Derrill Shinabery of Greenbush Township was defeated in his bid for the District 1 supervisor's seat from Greenbush and Duplain townships. Former state legislator Andrew Cobb of Elsie won the nomination with 277 votes to 198 for Shinabery and 83 for Carl Bates. Cobb carried Duplain Township by nearly 140 votes, while Shinabery won in Greenbush.

Patterson polls well, wins renomination as sheriff

Clinton County Sheriff Percy J. Patterson breezed to a renomination victory in the primary election Tuesday, outscoring the nearest of three competitors by a better than 4-3 margin.

Patterson gathered a total of 2,633 votes in what was described as a relatively light turnout of electors over the county. Ramon Terpening, a former deputy under Patterson, was the closest competitor, piling up a total of 1,835 votes.

Bruce Angell II, DeWitt Township police chief, polled 1,497 votes, and Anthony Pohl, former Ingham deputy sheriff, came in with 641 votes.

Patterson, who has been sheriff for 20 years and with the department for 43 years, is almost assured of election in the November general election.

There were no Democratic candidates on the ballot, and only a few write-in votes appeared.

Patterson ran strong in almost all parts of the county, although Terpening carried precinct two in St. Johns by three votes, Riley Township by 23 and Eagle by 40 votes. Patterson gained big headway in Duplain with a 167-55 margin.

Angell ran strong in his home township of DeWitt but failed to make any impression elsewhere. Pohl never was able to get started.

THE SHERIFF'S race was the only competition at the county level. All other candidates ran unopposed.

County Clerk Ernest Carter drew a total of 5,506 votes; Treasurer Velma Beaufore got 5,201 votes; Drain Commissioner Dale Chapman had 5,262; Willard Krebel received 5,204 votes for register of deeds; and Van Hoag with 4,205 votes and Leo Rummel with 3,537 were nominated as coroners.

Clinton County residents approved all three proposals for constitutional amendments. The first passed 3,837-1,931; the second was OK'd 3,120-2,702; and the third passed 3,574-2,322.

Ballenger, Allen winners

Republicans William Ballenger and Richard Allen will lead their party in the 87th and 88th districts, respectively, come November after scoring impressive victories in Tuesday's primary election. Their Democratic opponents, who also won victories Tuesday will be Richard Dusenbury in the 87th district and Joseph Davey in the 88th district. Dusenbury, according to unofficial tallies won a close race against fellow Democrat Sanford Volker.

Ballenger set a brisk pace in his home county of Shiawassee to overcome an early reverse lead set up by Robert Dittmer and overtook his Clinton County opponent 3,266 to 1,877. Dittmer tallied heavily in the city of St. Johns and (Story continued on Page 16-A)

Supervisors seek fixed millage November vote

The Clinton County Board of Supervisors wants to place a proposal for fixed millage before the voters in the November election.

The board adjourned their regular session Monday afternoon about 5:30, with the next meeting subject to the call of the chairman. The aim is to have the meeting in time to act on a hoped-for resolution from the county allocation board in time to meet legal requirements for the November election.

The fixed millage question came up during the last hour of the board's meeting Monday. There was a checking of the laws to determine the time element involved, but no discussion as to what amount of fixed millage should be asked.

That, apparently, would be up to the county allocation board, which must initiate a petition requesting a fixed millage for the county. Under such a plan, millage allocated to the schools, county and township would remain the same every year. As it is now, the allocation board meets every year to divide a 15-mill total among the various branches of government.

Finance Committee Chairman Derrill Shinabery brought the question up at the July board meeting, and he recommended then an 18-mill base.

FIRE AT DOCTORS' OFFICE

St. Johns firemen race into position to conquer flames which broke out last Thursday afternoon in a rear storage room at the offices of Dr. S.R. Russell, MD, and James M. Grost, MD, at Oakland and Walker Streets. Damage was estimated in the thousands of dollars, mostly from thick, black smoke which reached into every corner of the house. Firemen have not yet determined the cause of the blaze. Cleanup started immediately, however, and office hours were maintained Friday afternoon in a few of the rooms of the house.

Authority over 4-H buildings resolved

asked to approve a $2,225 contribution to finish the barn. There was considerable grumbling at that time that the board had not been informed of the project in advance and that they would be asked for money. They finally voted to approve $2,000. Monday morning Haas was present at the meeting of the board and asked for clarification of just who had the authority in doing the building. He said he was under the impression that the proper channels had been followed and cited examples of other construction on 4-H buildings that had been done in much the same manner and without raising a fuss among supervisors.

The project had been planned and carried out by a Clinton County Building Committee consisting of representatives from various 4-H, home economic, Farm Bureau and Grange groups as well as the Extension agents and the chairman and a committee from the board of supervisors.

HAAS SAID IT WAS his impression that the committee had long ago been delegated such powers by the county board, and he said if such were not provided then the committee should be abolished.

Greenbush Township Supervisor Derrill Shinabery referred to Aug. 6, 1956, minutes of the board in which the chairman of the board, the chairman of the building and grounds committee, and the late Roscoe Smith (former Extension agent for whom Smith Hall is named) were named to a committee to establish rules and regulations concerning the hall.

"This board is not anti-4-H or anti-Extension," Shinabery said, "but we do question how much authority this committee has."

Haas said he knew nothing about the formation of the committee Shinabery referred to, only of the existence of the larger committee. It consists of two members from the 4-H Council, two from the Family Living Council, one from each of the Farm Bureau, Farm Bureau Women and Grange, all of the resident Extension agents, the agricultural committee of the board of supervisors and the board chairman.

Haas contended that several members of the board were at committee meetings when plans for the horse barn were made, when the site was authorized and when bids were let. He said there was nothing illegal about the procedure of bidding, because certain rules of the state Fair Board had to be followed so that state contributions could be received.

HE SAID THERE was a $1,500 range in bids on the building and about a $1,000 range on electrical work, and that the low bids were accepted by the committee.

"If this is illegal, then there's a lot of things that have been done in the past up there that were just as illegal."

Prosecuting Atty. Rolland Duguay's written opinion on the situation was read, and it backed up the board's contention that the authority to have the building constructed should have been with the county board. The opinion said that no group other than supervisors are authorized to select a site or OK the building, regardless of what had been done in the past.

Duguay suggested no official action to sanction the building or the site, but he said the county's $2,000 contribution could still be considered proper.

Haas questioned the contention of the site and said there could be no better one. Shinabery didn't disagree with that but he said the authority should be with the board and the opening of bids should have been done at a public meeting.

The board did place in the minutes of Monday's meeting the prosecuting attorney's opinion on the matter and also amended the 1956 motion making the three-man regulating committee the county board chairman, chairman of the building and grounds committee and the Extension agent-in-charge.

Since the larger committee that has been doing the actual running of Smith Hall was not apparently appointed by the board of supervisors, there was no action concerning the possible fate of that body.

In other business Monday: *The supervisors concurred with a resolution from Iosco County, opposing national fire-arm's registration and legislation, not only on the basis of constitutionality but on the high cost of administering it.

*Permission was granted for the county engineer, county drain commissioner and prosecuting attorney to attend conventions of their associations.

*A request for air conditioning for the county welfare building on South Oakland Street was referred to the building and grounds committee for investigation of costs.

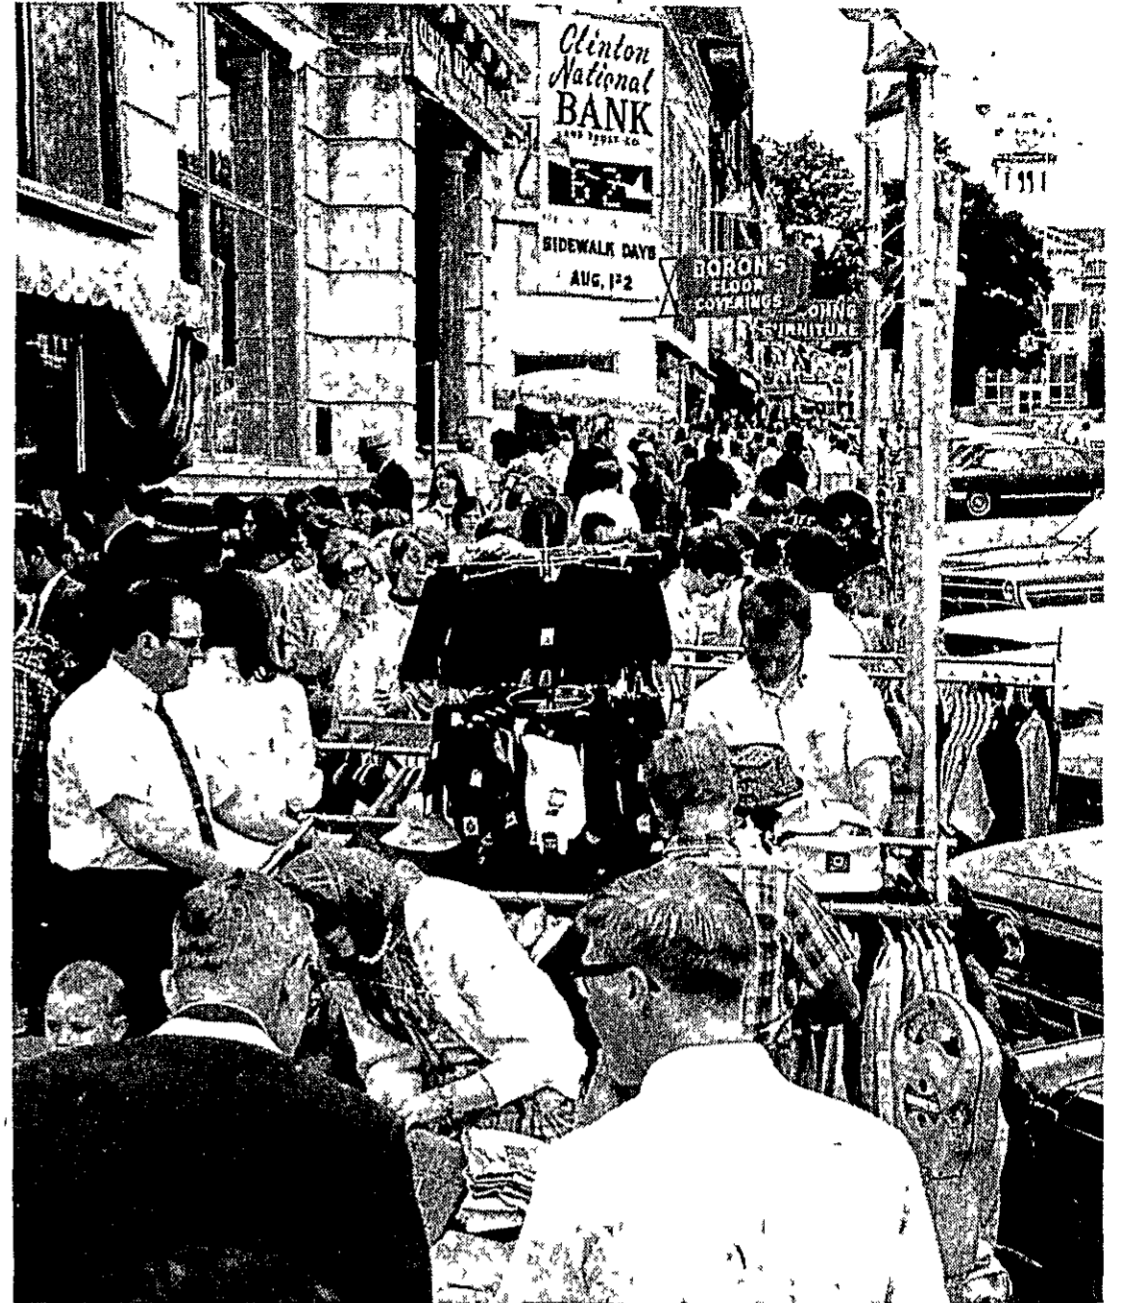

*The board will advertise for bids for a replacement for a pickup truck used by courthouse and county building maintenance personnel. The present truck is on its "last legs," Supervisor George Austin reported, and should be replaced.

*The board discussed but took no action on a resolution requesting state legislation to make mandatory rehabilitation of lands mined for gravel or other natural resources in Clinton County. Action was delayed pending approval of the new county zoning ordinance, which will provide more "protection" than the present ordinance.

*The board approved the use of the former probation office on the west side of the courthouse as a private office for the circuit court reporter. Mrs. Joanne Miller will use the office for transcribing her shorthand notes, and it will also be available during court sessions for attorney conferences.

*Mrs. Almond Cressman was reappointed to the Clinton County Library Board for a four-year term.

*More study will be undertaken by committees on proposals for a part-time county office for the Youth Opportunity Center and for a county-wide joint radio communications set-up.

$23,683 goal set for Chest drive

A quota of $23,683 has been set for the annual Clinton County Communities Chest fall drive, announces Ink White, campaign chairman. The quota represents an increase of $1,445 over the $22,238 raised last year.

Clinton County's quota is a part of the $1,933,866 goal set by the board of directors of United Community Chest for the campaign in the Greater Lansing area. The goal is a 6.5 per cent increase, or $118,029, over the $1,815,839 raised last year. The increase in the overall goal is designed to meet rising operating costs necessary to meet the demands for increased services.

This marks the first year Clinton County has been included in the Greater Lansing area goal. In June the Communities Chest merged with the United Community Chest of Ingham County, Inc. The United Community Chest area now includes all of Ingham and Clinton counties and Grand Ledge.

White said that each chest would conduct its own campaign this fall, with funds pooled and allocated by a central budgeting committee, comprised of persons from both counties. With exception of St. Vincent DePaul Society and the 4-H Fair Fund, all of the Clinton Chest agencies are among those being funded by the Ingham Chest. Both local agencies will continue to be funded under terms of the merger, noted White.

makes Clinton County residents eligible for all of the services and programs being provided by United Community Chest agencies," stated White.

The increase in the overall goal is designed to meet rising operating costs necessary to meet the demands for increased services.

"I am confident that all sectors of the community will make the extra effort needed this year to meet our quota," said White. "By pledging our full fair share where we work we will be meeting our responsibility to our neighbors."

4-H Fair time is here

4-H sheep project big, small

By JUDY IRISH
Jolly Green Giants 4-H Club

Used for Tuesday is a general horse show which will be held at the arena at 8 p.m.

Wednesday is none the less full of activities. The day starts at 9 a.m. with the judging of the dairy cattle: Ayrshire, Brown Swiss, Jersey, Guernsey and Holstein. At 2 p.m. the dairy showmanship contest is scheduled to take place. At 3 p.m. the market livestock sale will be held at the fair grounds.

This year, John Aylesworth, 4-H youth agent, says that approximately 35 steers, five lambs and five market hogs will be offered. The steers will range in weight from 800 to 1,000 pounds.

According to Aylesworth, "If you cannot be present for the auction, please let us know and we'll have someone purchase an animal in your name. If you would like the animal processed for your locker, we'll make arrangements."

Aylesworth added, "If you don't want to take ownership of the animal, we'll sell it through a regular market and bill you for the difference." He said the difference on steers usually runs between $25 and $30.

Premium money will be paid to clubs for group projects rather than to individuals.

Wednesday evening, the exhibit parade by clubs by the band shell will take place at 7:30. At 8:30 the 4-H style review will be held. At 8:45 the variety show and presentation of awards will be on the agenda. These events are scheduled to be held at the football field.

At 9:30 the fair will come to a slow halt as the exhibitors retrieve their displays.

On Thursday, the livestock will be released starting at 5 a.m. and all 4-H'ers who were awarded state show positions will come together for a meeting at 1 p.m.

about 9:30 p.m., but gentle breezes from the southwest gradually blew the storm center eastward.

Patrons at the Family Drive-In Theater north of town were notified of the warning at 9:45 p.m., and the theater was cleared within eight minutes.

Frost said warning sirens were sounded across the south end of the county; and throughout the area communities had tornado spotters on duty west of the villages and cities. In Fowler, where a tornado hit in the spring of 1967, there was an abundance of people scanning the skies.

THE BATH AREA seemed to bear the brunt of the storm, and heavy rain and wind were felt there at about the time skies were clearing in northern and western sectors of the county.

The warning was instated after funnel clouds were reported sighted at I-96 and M-66 intersection south of Ionia and again south of Portland in Ionia County. Tornado warnings and watches were prevalent all across southern and mid-Michigan during the evening.

School furniture bids lower than expected

Low bids totaling $81,624 for new furniture and equipment for the new St. Johns High School were approved by the board of education last Wednesday evening.

The total is nearly $8,500 less than what the board had budgeted in figuring the $6.4 million bond issue passed several years ago. The budgeted figure was $90,000.

Three Lansing firms were the only bidders, and each was awarded contracts for various types of furniture. The three firms were Classrooms, Inc., Michigan School Services and McFadden, Inc. Newman Visual Aid of Lansing was awarded the contract for two language laboratories.

Other furniture purchased included chairs, desks, tables, files, shelving, office furniture, duplicators, art room furniture, total library equipment, care-teria equipment, accounting department furniture and home-making (living room area) furniture.

The school board also awarded contracts for the coming year for tires for the school bus fleet. Hub Tire Center of St. Johns won the contract with a low bid of $539.88 for B. F. Goodrich tires. Other bidders were Bee's Chevrolet-Olds, Uniroyal and Zuker's Tire Center.

Clinic held in St. Johns and Bath

On Aug. 21, a clinic will be held by the mid-Michigan District Health Department. Immunization shots including measles vaccine, vaccinations and tuberculosis tests will be administered by Dr. Franklin W. Smith, M.D., of St. Johns and medical director of the department.

The clinic will be held at the basement of the St. Joseph Catholic Church from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

A clinic will also be set up in Bath on August 14 at the township hall and will run from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

Infants through adulthood are welcome. Children must be accompanied by an adult as signed permission for each child is mandatory. Please bring a record of any immunizations which you have had in the past.

Dr. Smith strongly urges all children one year of age and over who have not had the hard measles or the measles vaccine to get their measles vaccine now, either at the clinic or by their family physician.

Dr. Smith will be assisted by the public health nurses for the clinics.

The kings of Portugal, England and France all turned down chances to back Christopher Columbus before Spain finally supplied him with the fleet that discovered the New World.

Kodak Instamatic cameras let you choose conveniences that exactly fit your picture-taking needs

- All models give you instant drop-in loading, easy flash with flashcube that turns automatically as you advance film, easy carrying with wrist strap or neck strap. All take clear, sharp pictures—color snapshots, color slides, and black-and-white snapshots.
- Electric eye sets lens automatically for bright, clear pictures on the 134, 314, 414, S-20, 714 and 814. The 134 costs very little more than the lowest-priced 124.
- Automatic film advance keeps you always ready for the next picture. You get it with the 174, 414, and 814.
- Faster lenses: f/8 on the 314 and 414; f/5.6 on the S-20; ultra-fast f/2.8 lenses and fast-action shutters on the 714 and 814.
- Slim compactness—with extra style, convenience, for travelers, outdoorsmen, women—in the S-10 and S-20.
- Extra power in the deluxe "do-it-all" 714 and 814 that "do practically everything for you automatically," whatever the subject, wherever you are.

• Lowest price, but it takes beautiful color snapshots, color slides, black-and-white snaps.
• No settings—aim and shoot. Gets sharp pictures from 4 feet on out.
• Easy thumb-lever film advance. Bright easy-to-use viewfinder.
• Maybe every member of the family should have one.

134
• Electric eye sets lens for you—brightest, clearest pictures on bright or dull days.
• Needs no adjustments—gets sharp pictures from 4 feet on out.
• Signal lights up to tell you when to use flash.
• Easy thumb-lever film advance. Bright viewfinder.
• And it costs little more than the 124.

174
• Automatic film advance—always keeps you ready for the next shot. No need to wind after each picture.
• Automatic advance makes it ideal for snaps of children and other fast-changing subjects.
• And it costs little more than the 124.

• Fast f/8 lens and automatic electric eye give you extra picture-taking ability and precision—both on bright and dull days, and late in the day.
• Takes close-ups as near as 2 feet—ideal for children, pets, flowers, and any small subject.
• Close-up setting automatically snaps back to normal distance after you shoot—no forgetting, no distance errors.
• Signal lights up to tell you when to use flash. No lost pictures.

• Automatic film advance keeps you ready for the next shot.
• Fast f/8 lens and automatic electric eye give you extra picture-taking ability and exposure precision.
• Takes close-ups as near as 2 feet—and automatically snaps back to normal distance after you shoot.
• Signal lights up to tell you when to use flash.
• This "more for your money" camera combines all the advantages of the 314, 134, and 174.

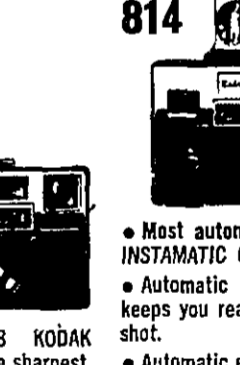

S-10
• Slim, smart design in a no-settings, aim-and-shoot camera.
• Slips easily into pocket or purse. Ideal for travelers, outdoorsmen, and style-conscious women. Easy to have with you at all times.
• Extra-sharp lens for crisp, detailed snaps and slides.
• Fast 1/125-second shutter helps sharpness—reduces effect of subject motion.
• Always ready. Front pops out for shooting, retracts for compact carrying. Shutter release retracts too—prevents accidental exposures.

S-20
• Electric eye for precise exposure—in a slim, smart, no-settings camera with extra-sharp lens.
• Slips easily into pocket or purse—goes where you go.
• Fast f/5.6 lens gives you extra picture-taking capacity on dull days and late in the day.
• Fast 1/90-second shutter helps you get sharper pictures.
• Electric eye sets lens automatically.
• Automatic signal lights up, tells you when to use flash.
• Front and shutter release retract for compactness and no accidental exposures.
• This camera combines the advantages of the S-10, 134, and 314—with an extra-sharp lens twice as fast as on the 314 and 414.

• Ultra-fast f/2.8 KODAK EKTAR Lens, for the sharpest, crispest snaps and slides—even in poor light.
• Fast-action shutter, 1/250 second, for sports and action.
• Quick, easy zone focus for distant shots and close-ups.
• Automatic electric eye sets lens. Shutter automatically adjusts when light is too dim.
• Automatic exposure control for flash.

• And many other automatic features.

Seven of the nine KODAK INSTAMATIC Cameras come in complete outfits—the 124, 134, 174, 314, 414, S-10, and S-20. Each is an indoor-outdoor outfit, ready to go—with film for color snapshots, batteries, flashcube, wrist strap, and instructions. Each outfit is handsomely packaged, and makes a perfect gift for any season, any occasion. This is the best way to buy your own camera—and if you are giving a gift, what could be more welcome?

a real VACATION

Copyright 1968
Kestler Advertising Service, Inc.
Strasburg, Va.

They had waited for this real vacation—this long trip—for years. But this time it was different, this time he wouldn't be going back to his job. At first, retirement seemed frightening, like being shut off from the mainstream of life. He had seen too many men age beyond their years, after their career ended. He had no wish to be on the sidelines. He and his wife could have moved to a warmer climate and just have taken it easy. He didn't want that. So, before he left home, he had a long talk with his minister.

He found that there was plenty a man his age could do. Financially secure, he could afford to volunteer for a job. In fact, through the Church there was work he could do that would spread to the farthest corners of the world. Right now, he is enjoying this vacation. He is savoring every moment of it. Because, when he gets home, he's going to lead a full and useful life. And that's the way he wants it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

St. Johns teacher will present organ recital

Noel E. Heinze, St. Johns High School English teacher last year, will present a farewell recital and lecture-demonstration of the Eastminster Presbyterian Church's (East Lansing) new three manual organ this Sunday.

The recital will be held at 4 p.m. The new organ was installed in time for Easter services earlier this year, and will later be moved into a new sanctuary which is expected to be completed sometime next year. It is one of the largest electronic organs in the state, and was manufactured by the Allen Organ Company of Pennsylvania.

Heinze, 28, received his early training in his native Cincinnati, Ohio, and has lived in Michigan for the past sixteen years. A graduate of Michigan State University, he has held organist-choirmaster positions since his high school days at Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills, at St. John's Episcopal Church in Howell, at the chapel at Fort George G. Meade during his tour of duty with the Army in Maryland, and most recently at Eastminster. He taught English at Rodney E. Wilson High School in St. Johns last year, and is moving to assume the duties of resident master in English and Dramatics at the Severn School in Severn Park, Maryland.

The program is designed to acquaint the audience with the capabilities of the new organ and with old and new music written for organ, and will include works by Bach and the famous blind French organist-composer, Jean Langlais. Mr Heinze will also perform several of his own compositions, including the "Redwing Fantasia", which is based on the high school fight song and dedicated to the Class of '69.

The public is cordially invited to attend. The church is located off Abbot Road just north of Saginaw-M78 in East Lansing.

2nd foreign student to study at St. Johns

A second foreign youth will be spending the coming school year with a St. Johns area family.

Jens Bruun, 16, of Hammel, Denmark, will arrive next week to spend a year with the George McQueen family of 1802 E. Maple Rapids Road. He will be a junior at Rodney E. Wilson High School. Jens' father is head clerk of taxation authorities, and his mother is a housewife. He has studied the English language for four years and also speaks German, as well as Danish.

He is interested in football and gymnastics and is a member of the Hammel Gymnastics Club and the Youth Club in Hammel. He was in the Boy Scouts for five years and was a patrol leader. On coming to the United States he says:

"I WOULD LIKE to know the USA much better than I do, and I would like to talk and read English very well, because I, when I have gotten my education, perhaps will try to get a job in the USA. Of course, it is also because it will be a great experience." Jens enjoys reading about and trying to repair radios. He's presently working at a radio engineer's shop and wants to become an electrical engineer.

Jens will arrive in the U. S. next Tuesday, Aug. 13, at Detroit following a non-stop flight from Copenhagen, Denmark.

Peace Corps test held August 17

St. Johns area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 17 at room 217, Post Office Building in Lansing.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from post offices or from the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C. 20525.

Twelve thousand volunteers are currently serving in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Pacific Islands, working with the people of those nations in self-help projects ranging from food production to health to education. More volunteers are needed for programs which will begin this fall and winter.

"For heroism in connection with military operations against a hostile force," Army Specialist Four, DENNIS E. DUBENDORF, 19, son of Mr and Mrs William R. Dubendorf, R-1, St. Johns, received the Bronze Star Medal, June 20, near Tay Ninh, Viet Nam.

During an attack, "he and a comrade remained behind as a part of the company's rear security."

Open house to honor E. Carters

The new Mr and Mrs Ernest Carter will be the honored guests at an open house held in celebration of their recent marriage. The open house will be sponsored by the Watertown Charter Township Board members on Sunday, August 18 from 8 to 6 p.m. at the Wacousta Masonic Temple in Wacousta.

Mr Carter, the Clinton County Clerk and Georgia Basset of Lansing were married on July 19 and now reside at 14320 Airport Road.

Mr Carter has been the supervisor of the Watertown Charter Township, an active member of the farm bureau, past master of the Wacousta Masonic Lodge No. 359 and chairman of the board of Clinton County Supervisors before his appointment as Clinton County Clerk in 1967.

Through the attack, "although completely outnumbered, they calmly held their position and by well aimed rifle fire killed three of the enemy, including a platoon leader, and wounded three others. They broke the assault and routed the attacking force."

"Due to Specialist Dubendorf's valorous actions the mission was successfully completed and the enemy force defeated." Lieutenant Colonel Richard Simpson, commander of the 4th Battalion of the 25th Infantry Division's 9th Infantry, presented the award for the heroism in action against the enemy in December of 1967.

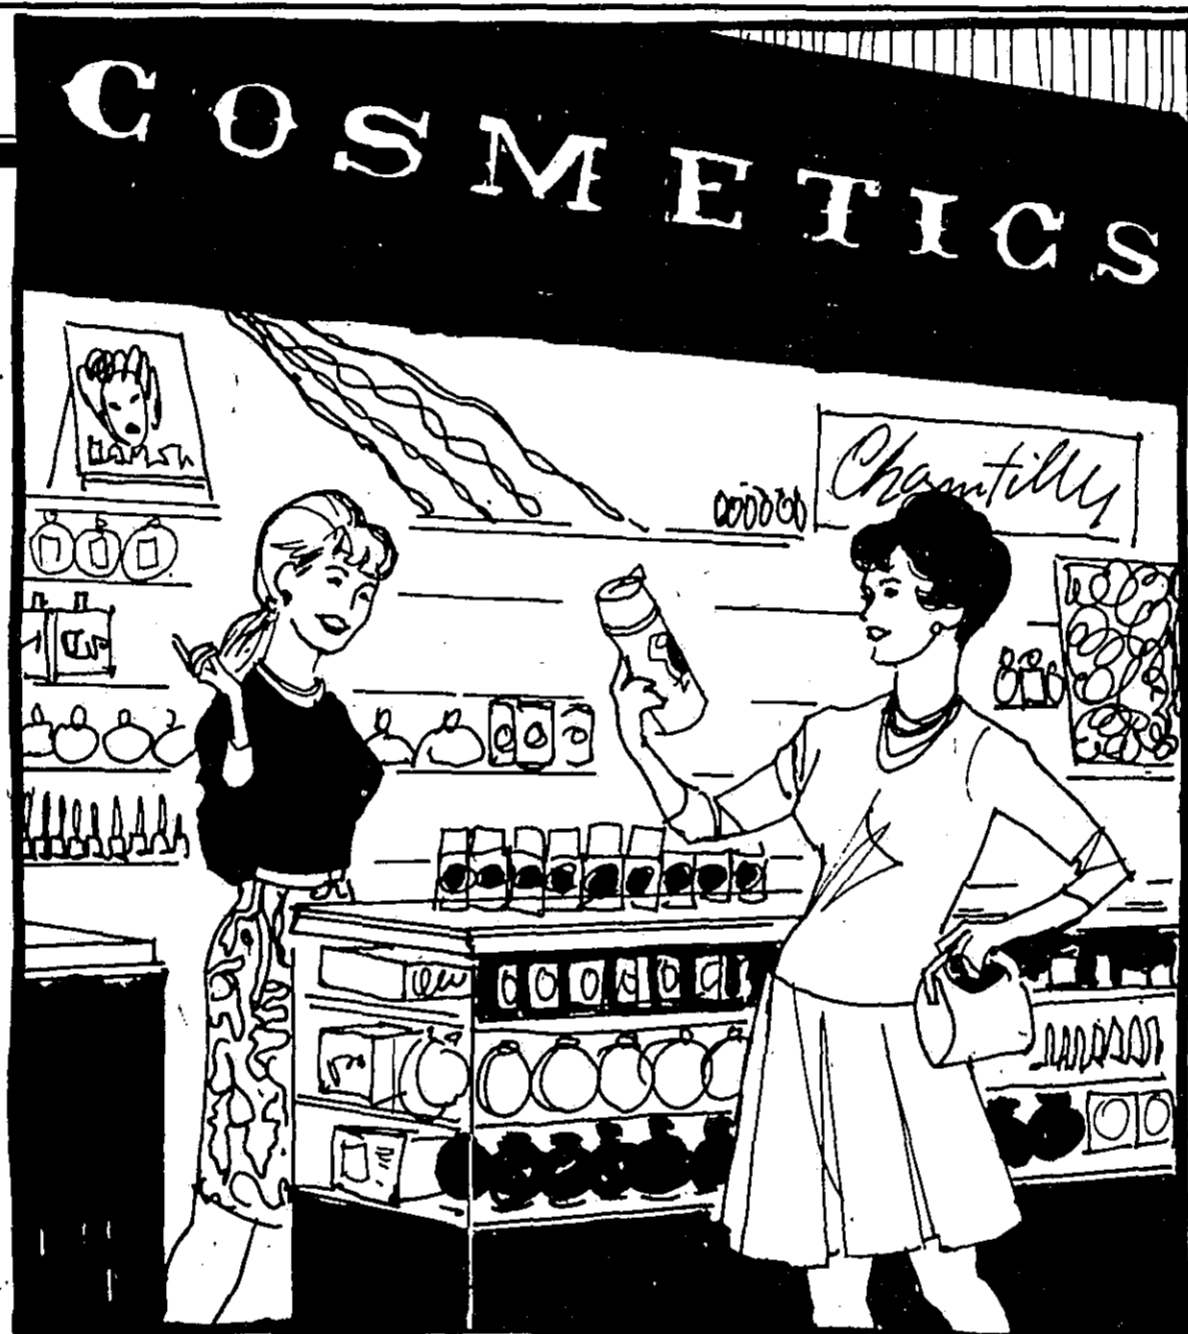

Spec. Dubendorf, a rifleman in Company C of the battalion, entered the Army in April of 1967 and completed basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky. He was stationed at Ft. Gordon, Ga., before arriving overseas in October of 1967.

The specialist is a 1967 graduate of DeWitt High School.

Zelma, Tremblay wed in Owosso ceremony

Miss Anette Marie Zemla of Owosso became the bride of AIC Gary L. Tremblay at St. Joseph Catholic Church in Owosso on August 3 in a 10 a.m. service.

Fr. Edward Lesko, cousin of the bride, united the son of Mr and Mrs C. E. Tremblay of Ovid and the daughter of Mr and Mrs Karl F. Zemla of Owosso in a double ring ceremony.

Music played by Mrs Thomas Ginther heralded the bride to the altar, escorted by her father. Mrs Ginther also accompanied soloist, John Jankye.

The bride was preceded by her attendants Mrs Daniel McClelland, her sister, Mrs L. P. Hilton, sister of the groom, and Miss Alice Murphy. Miss Betty Fisher of Owosso was maid of honor and Miss Lisa Hilton, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

Miss Fisher was attired in a pink dotted swiss gown with an empire waist outlined by a floral border. The back was a cage style flowing from the shoulders with two matching bows accenting the neck. Her matching headpiece was of lilies-of-the-valley and petals. The other attendants were dressed in blue gowns of identical style. The flower girl was dressed in a pink dotted swiss ensemble with a floral border trimming the neckline, bodice, and hemline. She wore a dotted swiss bow in her hair.

Each bridesmaid carried a casual flomish bouquet of cornflowers, miniature carnations, pink roses and feathered mums. The flower girl carried a basket including an arrangement of the same flowers.

The bride approached the altar in a silk organza, empire styled gown. The bodice and bell sleeves were fashioned of eyelet which also accented the hemline of the A-line skirt and formed the train. Anette's bouffant veil was secured with a cluster of lace and organza petals accented with small seed pearls. To complete her ensemble, she carried a cascade of white pom-pom mums encircling two white orchids.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs Zemla chose a silk organza over taffeta ensemble. The light aqua ensemble was worn with matching accessories. Mrs Tremblay was sheathed in a blue lined creation with embroidery trim at the neck and hemline. She accented her outfit with yellow accessories. Each mother was presented with a white orchid corsage.

Carl Zemla, brother of the bride, served as best man. Her brother-in-law, Daniel McClelland the groom's brother-in-law, L. P. Hilton and Dean Simpson were groomsmen. Nazarenes plan 'Labor Sunday' special service Members of friends of St. Johns Church of the Nazarene will participate in a special "Labor Sunday" service next month and a highlight of the event will be attendance by parishioners in clothing which they normally wear to their places of employment.

According to the Rev Wesley Manker, pastor of the church, the special labor service will be held Sunday Sept. 1 and the title of his sermon for that date is "We are laborers together with God."

An invitation has been extended to friends and neighbors of the church's members to attend the special "Labor Sunday" service and to wear clothing appropriate to the theme.

Approximately 25 cents of each dollar spent for food goes for red meats. In 1967, per capita consumption of beef in the U.S. was 105 pounds. Michigan State University home economists predict it will reach 125 pounds by 1980.

★ IN MEMORIAM

In loving Memory of my beloved husband who passed away one year ago the 10th of August, 1967.

Sad and sudden was the call of one so dearly loved by your wife.
A bitter grief and shock severe it was to part with one so dear. I often sit and think of you my dear. And speak of how you did.
To think you could not say goodbye before you closed your eyes. For all of us you did your best. Oh God, grant you eternal rest.
—Your Wife, Rose M. Stevens. 15-1p

Swim meet Sunday

Boxers start training here

The St. Johns youth club gym at Railroad Street and Clinton Avenue will be open for five nights a week starting tonight as Golden Gloves boxers from here prepare for the St. Johns Boxing Exhibition Aug. 24 at the high school gym.

The training quarters will be open Monday through Friday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. All boys eligible should report as soon as possible, trainer Wayne Beaufore said this week.

Three of the boxers, Bob Every, Doug Brya and Dick Padgett will be boxing against a Canadian team at the Windsor arena in Windsor, Ont., next Wednesday. A few local boys will enter another boxing show at Muskegon Catholic Central High School Aug. 17 for warm-up bouts prior to the St. Johns show.

When dealing in futures, try to keep the records straight.

Entries in the Jaycee annual swim meet continued to build up this week as the Saturday deadline time for the event approaches.

According to Rod Brown, chairman of the contest, a new age division has been added this year with possibilities for a second division to be included before meet time.

In the past competition has been open to youngsters 10 through 15 years of age, but this year an 8-9-year-old division has been added and any entries by swimmers through 17 years of age will be accepted if sufficient interest is shown to conduct competition.

Competition is open to both boys and girls and forms for registration are currently available at the St. Johns Memorial Swimming Pool. Swimmers completing the registration blanks should return them to the pool by Saturday Aug. 10. Competition will be Sunday Aug. 11.

Face problems honestly—it's the only way to solve them.

PWP plans month events

Parents Without Partners has released a schedule of events for the month of August. Included among the activities are an outing to the Detroit Zoo and a steak fry.

PWP is a non-profit organization for one-parents; widows, divorced or separated—who have come together for mutual help so that one-parent homes can better provide a happy environment in which to bring up children.

On Sunday, August 11, members and their children will leave from the Owosso parking lot at Mason and Parks Streets at 7:45 to meet at the main entrance of the Detroit Zoo at 10 a.m. Travellers are asked to bring a sack lunch for noon time and a hot dog roast is planned for the evening at $1 per family.

On Saturday, August 17, Margaret Price will host a steak fry at 7 p.m. at her home at 315 East McArthur in Corunna for the adult members of the club. Each is to provide his own steak and table service plus $1 to cover expenses and B.Y.O.B.

For further information concerning the club and its activities call in St. Johns 224-3980, 224-3772, or 224-4218.

Wet weather brings on mosquitoes

If more mosquitoes than expected show up for your next backyard barbecue or picnic in the park, you can blame the record attendance on the weather. Michigan's abnormally wet season just past has brought forth an abundance of the pesky insects.

Even if your lawn was sprayed for mosquito control, you may have plenty of the unwelcome guests since they travel readily from neighboring untreated areas.

Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture reports that there is a trend this year toward greater use of the less persistent pesticides. This follows a recent department ban on labelling of DDT for use in mosquito control. Director Ball emphasized, however, that no matter what treatment methods are used, there will still be mosquitoes.

Michigan has approximately 600 pest control operators who make commercial and residential applications of pesticides. Under state regulations, these firms must be licensed by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, and all pesticides must be registered with the department.

DeWitt board re-elects Reed

Last week the board members of the DeWitt board of education re-elected Willard Reed as their president.

Dr. Maurice Beckers was named to the newly created position of vice president. The secretary position will be filled by Mrs. Carlton Sellhorn and James Decatur was re-elected treasurer.

A new policy stating that non-resident students will not be accepted in the school district this fall was adopted. Due to the overcrowded position of the school at present, the board says it was necessary to provide the policy.

Three more mobile classrooms, two for high school use and the other for the elementary grades have been authorized by the board.

Permission was granted for the Lutheran Church congregation to use the auditorium in the high school for religious services until the fall of 1969 when the congregation will move into the church now under construction.

Ovid youths in Miami

Ovid-Elsie area residents seem to be very much in favor of young "scientists" having an observatory in the vicinity.

One farmer from the area donated a silo to the youths who have undertaken the construction of an observatory.

Rick Warren, president of the high school's science club says that businessmen and residents in the two communities are offering money and free labor to move and re-do the silo so that it can be converted easily to the scientific use.

He also reported that one firm has offered to provide cement for the slab that the observatory would stand on and that another firm has donated use of forms.

4-H garden is fun and rewarding

By BILL PARKER
Parker's Workers 4-H Club
What is better than freshly picked lettuce, a crisp cucumber or a juicy red tomato?

Maybe it is an ear of golden sweet corn or a vine-ripened watermelon. These are some of the rewards a 4-H garden member enjoys.

A beginning gardener, the 10 and 11-year-olds, starts his garden project by learning a few gardening fundamentals—soil preparation, fertilizing, planting, thinning, and transplanting. He learns to choose the right spot to plant his garden. He picks a place with good drainage and plenty of sunshine. Then he makes a simple plan for his garden. He plants vegetables that are easy to grow. At fair time he proudly exhibits one plate of vegetables.

As the 4-H gardener progresses, though, he learns new experiences. The junior gardener, 12 to 14 years old, experiments with fertilizers and insect and disease control. He studies seed catalogs and tries new varieties. He keeps a record of the varieties that he raises and learns which ones will do well them Sunday evening. Mrs Gene Downing of St. Johns, Mrs Kenneth Cummins and their mother, Mrs Rose Fox, were visitors of Mrs Mary Simon at Westphalia.

Dick Fox and his wife, Marle, called on their mother during the week, following a vacation in California.

Arnold Schafer is showing improvement at the Carson City Hospital where he has been a medical patient since last week.

David Schafer of Alburquerque, N. M. spent the weekend with his parents, Mr and Mrs Arnold Schafer.

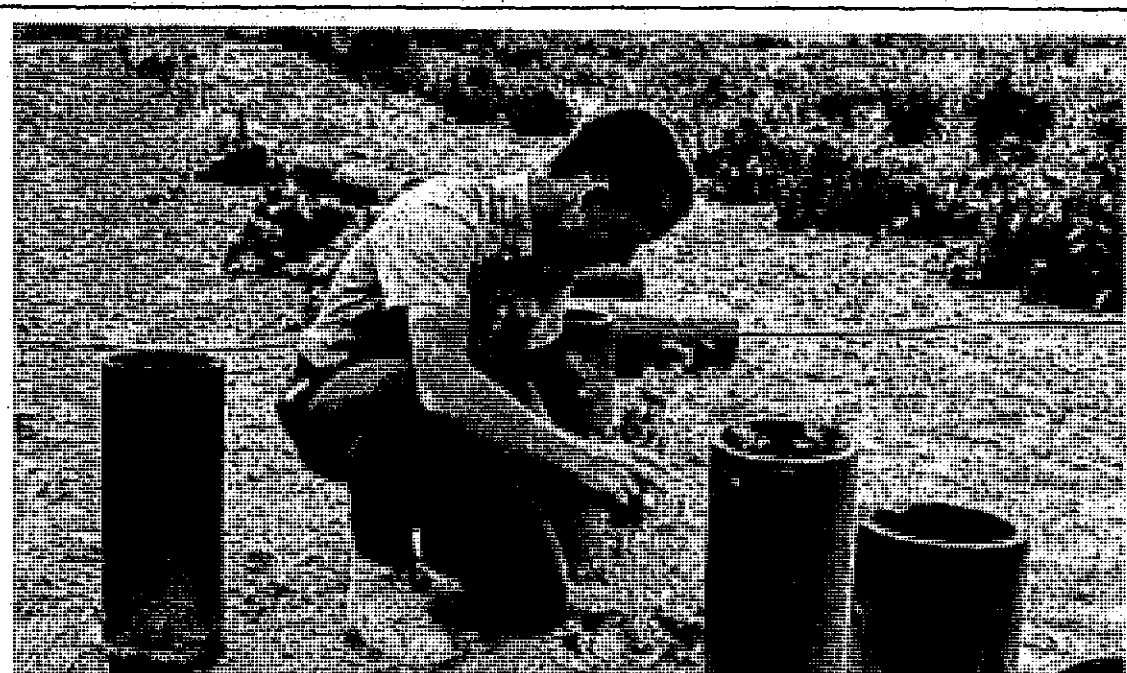

Sunday guests of Mr and Mrs Clare Schneider were Mr and Mrs Mark Klein, Mr and Mrs Robert Cole, and family of Fowler, Mr and Mrs Vern McQueen, Mr and Mrs Ed Barker of St. Johns, Mr and Mrs Donald Schneider of Westphalia, Mrs Frank Smith and granddaughter, Maryann Smith. It was Clare Schneider's first day home from Carson City Hospital where he had been a patient the past twelve days. Other guests were Mr and Mrs Marvin Witgen of Fowler and his mother, Mrs Louise Schneider.

A family gathering was held at the home of Mrs Rose Stump for a cookout on Sunday. Present were Sister Rosann and Sister Francita, both of New Orleans. They spent four days with their mother. Others present were Mr and Mrs Melvin Stump, Mr and Mrs Leon Stump and Mr and Mrs George Koeningnecht of Fowler and Mrs Susan Stump and their families.

The Schneider reunion was held at the 21 Club Sunday, Aug. 4, with 11 families present. A potluck meal was enjoyed. Those from out of town came from St. Johns, Portland and Fowler.

Institute's Boats
The Smithsonian Institute has a room full of boats and ship models. The exhibit contains a representation of everything that has ever borne man upon the water.

Bill Parker, 15, checks on condition of his celery plants in his vegetable garden and hopes they will be OK for display at the 4-H Fair next week. The tile protect the plants. Bill, a six-year 4-H member with the Parker's Workers Club, also grows cabbage, tomatoes and onions.

more difficult-to-grow vegetables. He might go into the commercial garden where he will raise produce for market. Or he might build and use a cold frame, a hot bed, or even a greenhouse and learn how to start his own plants. The senior member learns about careers in horticulture. At fair time he will prepare an exhibit related to his project area. A 4-H garden member can be greatly enriched by his garden project. He learns failures as well as success. He profits by the learning experiences that can be gained as well as by the many vegetables that make for good and healthful eating.

When they arrived there the dining room was reserved for 40 guests; all the Cooks and Schraubens were there. Guests came from Lafayette, Ind., Sterling, Ill., Sand Lake, Greenville, Belding, Ionia, St. Louis, Lansing, Williamston, Jackson and Grand Ledge. Mrs Cook was presented with gifts and a purse.

Pride fostered in 4-H food projects

By LOIS MILLER
Fowler Busy Bees

To most people food is something which we need to have to satisfy our hunger and nothing further, but did you ever think of how many people actually take pride in preparing their own food and food for their families? This type of pride is fostered in 4-H Foods projects.

The children are taught the types of diets which are the best for them and the types of foods which will give them the balanced diet they need. They learn the food value of all foods and the relation of it to their own diets. In addition, they are taught safety in the kitchen. Not very many mothers realize this; therefore, they are hesitant to let their children use the home stove. They say it is dangerous, but it is not if used properly.

At first the boy or girl should be watched and complimented on their preparations. Later as they progress they should be allowed to experiment with new foods or new recipes. This is encouraged because it helps to build their confidence as well as expand their eating habits. It will help to establish your trust in the child, and this is something which is always needed.

I myself have found out the value of food projects in much the same way. At first I was watched (by my leader and by my mother) and later learned to do these experiments by myself, and in 4-H the children have their chance to learn that way too. A person can't learn it all by listening or watching. They must actually do it. I found that out early and realized how much fun it was to cook. Half the value of 4-H is to make whatever you do fun, yet very rewarding.

As the years passed, I got into the area of 4-H called "Exploring Foods." This proved to be fun, interesting and more challenging. I have always liked a challenge and I got it in this part of 4-H. In this area I would pick a particular food and then put it to use in my own cooking. Like, for instance, the past two years I have centered my project on dairy foods in particular. I have learned the do's and don'ts of cooking with milk, cheese, ice cream, etc. I have

4-H Leadermete time of fun, learning for local club leaders

By LOUISE FELDPAUSCH
Fowler Busy Bees

Have you ever been to a leadermete? If you're a 4-H leader and had the opportunity to attend a leadermete and passed it up you will never know what you missed — this is unless someone lets you in on all the fun.

That is precisely what I am going to attempt to do in this column today. I think if I can share with you some of the past 1968 leadermete, maybe you will find that 1969 will be your year to attend this great affair.

The 1968 4-H Leadermete was held at the Kellogg Center, Michigan State University on March 2 and 3. It was the 12th annual leadermete in Michigan and was conducted by the State 4-H Council, the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University and the 4-H Foundation of Michigan. The theme used this year was "Citizenship in a Changing World."

The purpose for a leadermete is to give recognition to 4-H leaders for their contributions to the 4-H youth program; to give inspiration and support to leaders in their responsibilities with young people; to provide an educational opportunity for discussion of 4-H Leaders' opportunities and responsibilities and to stimulate an exchange of ideas by leaders from every country.

MRS CLAUDE Thelen (Betty) was my companion for the week-end, and I think we were both taken by surprise at the takeoff of the leadermete which consisted of group singing in the auditorium. This was headed up by Arden Peterson, the program leader. Mr Peterson has the type of a voice you can't quite resist singing along with. Everyone sang along at these songfests, which were held frequently throughout the leadermete, or Mr Peterson found out why not.

Throughout the two days, discussion sessions were held, a citizenship test was taken, and a visit to the university planetarium and a tour of MSU were all on the agenda.

The highlight of the leadermete, of course, was the Banquet. I'm sure that they always have great speakers at these banquets, but as it turned out they had one of my favorite speakers at this one, Rt. Rev Msgr. Hugh Michael Beahan of Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, Mich. He kept us in laughter until our sides ached and tears filled our eyes. I still find myself remembering many of his jokes and telling them to this day.

After the banquet we were able to meet with students of MSU from other lands — there were 21 students in all from 14 different countries. Of course we couldn't visit with all of them in the time allotted, but we did bounce from room to room to get to visit with quite a few of them.

We finished the evening off with "Potpourri" consisting of either games, singing, visiting with leaders from around the state, or folk and square dancing. We chose dancing and from the looks of the crowd in the room I would say about three-fourths of the people there also chose this. We learned many new folk and square dances we had never seen before and enjoyed every minute of it. Of course we finished the evening off with another songfest with Mr Peterson back in the auditorium.

At the final luncheon and adjournment, the leadermete candle, which had glowed throughout this event for the past 12 years was extinguished. I couldn't help but be a little sad to see it all end, as it was as moving to see the candle's flame die as it was to see it lit at the beginning of the Leadermete. I will long remember that weekend and I'm sure anyone attending a Leadermete in the years to come will find it just as inspiring.

The ambitious young man strikes out on his own — he never depends on a pinch hitter.

Elsie area girl's story typical about 4-H Canada exchange trip

By Mrs WAYNE MEAD
West Elsie Writer

WEST ELSIE—Miss Margaret Thornton returned recently from her 4-H exchange trip to Canada with 33 youth and four married couples as sponsors. There were 11 members and sponsors Mr and Mrs Bruce Irish from Clinton County.

The purpose of the trip was to learn and exchange ideas and good will with other countries.

Margaret was a guest of Mr and Mrs William Cook and son Jeff, 18, and daughter Terri, 16, of Kalwood. She stayed the farthest north of any of the 4-H members and was only 600 miles from the Arctic circle. Kalwood is one hour drive from Neepawa and Neepawa would be equivalent to our county seat. Kalwood has a population of 330 people and Mr Cook works for the water works department and farms. Their son, Jeff, trains riding horses. Mrs Cook was an English war bride and the family is returning this week for a three-week visit to England.

Mr and Mrs Cook and family spent much of their time taking Margaret to places of interest which included the Riding Mountain National Park, Clear Lake, museum, and the Wishing Well, from which the funds are divided between the Canadian cancer fund and the Red Cross. These places are all a part of the Riding Mountain National Park.

At Neepawa Margaret visited the salt mines, also the Riverside Colony with its anti-American signs. They are taught no English until 13 years of age.

Their exhibition, which is like our 4-H Fair, is held at Brandon. Because of transportation and distance all exhibits are sent in and few children attend unless they have animals to care for.

While there, Margaret was the guest of 18 girls of the Kalwood Home Economics Club which is the same as our 4-H clubs. They had a wicker roast after which she gave an hour's program for the girls, showing slides of the 4-H work in Clinton County and her local group. This was held at the Kalwood Hall. The last night with the Cook family a coyote came down from the mountains and circled the farm. Armed with a gun Mr Cook spent all night out guarding his livestock. As Margaret left she exchanged gifts with her family. The Cooks sent the Thornton family a souvenir bowl from Manitoba.

Kathy Davis plays with one of her California-breed rabbits but couldn't get him to change this passive expression. Kathy, a member of the Olive 4-H Projects Club, keeps 10 rabbits in this, her fourth year with a rabbit project. She'll show a market pen and her best buck at the 4-H Fair next week.

Interests in rabbits varied

As pets, for market, for education, bunnies valuable project for 4-H'ers

By KATHY DAVIS
Olive 4-H Projects Club

Rabbits can be an interesting and profitable project for almost anyone. It is a project with a lot of room provided for growing.

Usually the beginners start out with a pet rabbit and from there go into a small rabbitry. There is a lot to learn along the way and the best way to learn is through your own experience.

Rabbits make a good project for the member with a limited amount of space but a desire to show an animal. These animals require fitting and training just as a calf or a lamb would. You'd be surprised at the amount of effort that goes into making the rabbit hold his position, and hold his head up and ears erect.

There are many areas branching from the rabbit project that you can work into. One, of course, is marketing. If you plan on taking rabbits in a big way, it might be a good idea to head down this path. It astonished me, really, how many markets there are for rabbits—live or dressed. You may even want to open your own market for your rabbits.

SOME RABBITS ARE good for their fur value and some are used by laboratories for experiments. You, yourself, can play the part of scientist as you find out more about the rabbit—which types of housing are best, what feed provides the most gains, what types of packaging materials are used for rabbit meats, and a host of other important items.

Maybe you are interested in rabbits for a science project alone. You can study up on its skeletal structure, reproductive system, how vitamin or mineral deficiencies affect its growth, in fact conduct experiments of all kinds.

We must not forget the little guy who is in rabbits for show or hobby. If you are not interested in having a rabbitry but just a few good rabbits for exhibit or fun, we have a place for you too. One thing I have noticed is that you don't have to be the biggest to be the best.

There is a place for everyone in the rabbit project. So if you are equipped with a little ambition and the desire to learn, have fun, and make profit you already have most of the equipment needed to get you started.

4-H dairy project has many rewards

By DANÁ SUE HAZLE
Scattered, Southeast 4-H Club

A 10 year old 4-H member has gotten his first calf and he can't wait until the 4-H fair to get his first ribbon.

As the 4-H member grows older, he learns there is more than the ribbons. He learns that the care for the animal is year around, that there are friends to be gained in 4-H work and that hard work in 4-H along with good grades in school can help win one of the many scholarships available.

The 4-H dairy project offers many trips and awards if the member has worked hard and has determination. There are also many other honors available outside 4-H. All the dairy breeds have awards to give to outstanding 4-H members that belong to their organization.

delegation could sing their state's praises the loudest. With such contests came instant rivalries which any observer would think could turn into nothing less than chaos. Quite the contrary, however, because at the end of these tournaments, the entire group, made up of 4-H'ers from six states, burst into an enthusiastic round of "This Land is Your Land." What made the spectacle so beautiful was that everyone meant it.

It is certain that every 4-H'er who attends one of the citizenship short courses comes home with increased pride, knowledge, and fellowship. They are more aware of this fine country and the people that make up our democracy.

The following from the July 10, 1968, Hoard's Dairyman expresses my feeling on the many traits that can be developed by owning and showing a 4-H dairy animal:

"The primary goal of all youth programs is youth development. An objective of 4-H work is 'learning through living.' The first words of the FFA motto are, 'Learning to do—doing to learn.' Exhibiting cattle can teach these principles.

"Showing develops responsibility. It involves raising a calf, feeding and working with that calf, and taking the extra time to do the best possible job.

"Self-confidence and poise grow from knowing that the job was well done.

"Competition, the trait that has made America the greatest country in the world, is keen at junior shows.

"Courtesy, courage, and 'cool' are inspiring characteristics. Youth who exhibit at dairy shows encounter many situations which require these traits.

"Accepting victory, as well as defeat, is an important part of character development.

"Personal growth, as well as increased knowledge and understanding of the project also occurs in preparing for the show.

"Patience, understanding, and skill are developed by working with animals.

"Thus, preparing an animal for the show does play an important role in developing young people. It enables them to become more capable, more mature, and more responsible adults."

Civil defense & you

By CHARLES FROST
Clinton County Civil Defense Director

A new award to honor medical self-help participants has been announced. Douglas H. Fryer, M.D., deputy director of the Michigan Department of Health tells about it in a recent issue of the state civil defense publication, "Michigan Coordinator."

A new Medical Self-Help Humanitarian Award has been established to honor an individual who saves someone's life using knowledge gained from training in medical self-help. The recipient will be presented a velvet-lined case containing an inscribed sterling silver medal suspended from a blue ribbon. With the medal will be given a sterling silver emblem to be worn on a lady's dress, a man's lapel or as a tie tac. The medal and emblem will be accompanied by a certificate signed by representatives of the Office of Civil Defense and the Public Health Service.

Following are the criteria for awarding the medal as established by the medical self-help awards committee. It should be pointed out that the submission of a nomination does not mean that the individual will automatically receive a medal. All nominations will be carefully considered by the committee based on the established criteria. The decision of the committee will be final.

Nominations for the award may be submitted to the medical self-help awards committee.

Criteria
1) Nominee must have saved someone's life using knowledge

directly gained from medical self-help training.

2) A life-saving act performed in connection with regular vocational duties or in line of duty in the armed services cannot be considered for an award.

3) The life-saving act must have been performed in the United States or its territorial possessions.

Citizenship short course influence far-reaching

By SANDY McQUEEN
Nimble Fingers 4-H Club

Since attending one of the 1967 sessions of the Washington D.C. Citizenship Short Course, I have found that the things put before us at that conference have influenced my actions and attitudes toward most everything.

At the short course, we were given talks about the values of young men and women, about what made great men great, and about how our government operates. We even played a game at one of our sessions. It was called "The Game of Democracy." The delegates played the parts of senators and the object was to get other senators to support your bills. It was a lot of fun and a wonderful learning experience.

We also visited the monuments of the great men and historic places that made our country what it is.

I think one of the things that made such a lasting impression on me was the citizenship already present in the kids who attended the conference from the different states. Each delegation was proud of their state and each had a song to sing about their state. There were many spontaneous contests to see which

What is passport?

By DIANE SIBLEY Olive-DeWitt 4-H Club

The "passport" project is one of the less well-known projects in our area, but it is a project with almost unlimited possibilities. Its full title is "Passport to Understanding," and its objective as stated in the project guide is "to understand, appreciate, accept, and carry out citizenship responsibilities in today's interdependent world."

Now this is a pretty tall order but any 4-H member or club can make a start by concentrating on one or two specific areas each project year. Future plans on the state level call for projects in the areas of economics, politics, and American heritage. Currently the emphasis is on international citizenship. Members may participate in any of three broad areas—country study, sister club, and United Nations. So far Clinton County's participation has been in country study, although tentative plans are under way to have sister clubs in Viet Nam.

Several area and state citizenship and exchange programs are available to older 4-H members, and experience in the passport project is excellent preparation for them. Each year several Clinton County 4-H'ers attend a citizenship short course for a week in Washington, D. C. This year 11 boys and girls spent a week in the Neepawa, Canada, area living with Canadian families and learning about their way of life. Next year some of our 4-H families will host visitors from Canada.

Over the years Clinton County has had several IFYE'S (International Farm Youth Exchange delegates) who spent six months living in countries such as India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, and Ireland, and several local 4-H families have been hosts to IFYE'S from other countries. Some families have also hosted foreign students from MSU at Christmas.

Ceramics new, growing project

By DONNA ELLIOTT Shamrocks and Clovers 4-H Club

Greenware, bisqueware, stain, glaze ceramics—these are important words to 4-H'ers enrolled in the cultural arts—ceramics project.

These youngsters start with pieces of clay and end up with beautiful and useful objects. These pieces can be anything from ornamental pieces to cups and dishes.

There are certain steps that must be followed in order to create this ceramic object. First a method of molding the clay is chosen. It can be done by rolling snakes and winding these snakes together or it can be done by pinching, pulling and pressing the clay into a form. Then this piece is slowly and thoroughly dried so it won't explode in the kiln.

After a piece is fired in the kiln it can be stained, if it doesn't need to be waterproofed, or it can be glazed if it is to be waterproofed. If it is glazed it must be fired again.

Any person from 4 to 104 can take a piece of clay and create a gorgeous ceramic piece. This is still a fairly new project but should grow, as the youngsters enrolled have found it lots of fun and very rewarding.

Some folk are born pessimists. Others acquire the attitude the hard way.

Sue Koski, kneeling, Barb Smith and Diane Sibley of the Olive-DeWitt 4-H Club put finishing touches on a background design for their passport project display at the 4-H Fair.

Ovid-Elsie FFA wins new honor

Cassopolis, Corunna, and Ovid-Elsie FFA chapters have been named to represent Michigan in the 1968 National Chapter Award Program, according to Edwin St. John, state FFA advisor with the Michigan Department of Education.

The Michigan Outstanding Chapter Award plaques were represented to top-ranking chapters at the annual vocational agricultural teachers' conference at Michigan State University during the week of July 22-25. Ratings are based on overall activities of chapters. Fifty of Michigan's 187 schools received gold or silver awards.

Twenty-eight gold winners included these area schools: Alma, Cheshaning, Corunna, Grand Lodge, Lake Odessa, Fulton High, Ovid-Elsie and Webberville.

Area schools winning silver awards included Lakeview, St. Louis, Owosso, Pewamo-Westphalia and Saranac.

80 vie for state show trip with 4-H action exhibits

By CLAUDIA McLOUGHLIN News Staff Writer

Last week at Smith Hall in St. Johns City Park, about 80 youngsters vied for positions to represent this county at the State Show to be held at Michigan State University later this year.

On Monday, July 29, half of the youngsters performed their demonstrations, which were similar to an informative speech with props. The 4-H'ers would pick a topic ranging from the care of flowers to talk on goats. The talks were not very long but covered the subject well. The "how" of the chosen field was discussed.

Each group was judged by two judges. Mrs. Jack Sheldon, home economist and teen program director at the YWCA of Owosso, and Alvin Root, Extension 4-H youth agent, were on hand to perform the duty.

The demonstration talks were judged in several areas—presentation, equipment and materials, subject matter and over-all effectiveness, and sub-categories, sincere and pleasing personality, accuracy, use of visual aids, interestingly presented and many more. In each of the fields the presentation could be graded poor, fair, medium, good, very good and excellent.

THERE WERE TWO groups presenting their demonstrations. The entries beginning at 1:30 numbered about 20 and the evening group that started at 7:30 had about the same number.

The next day, the action exhibits were given. These exhibits were similar to the demonstration talks, but emphasized the "what" rather than the "how." Each exhibit was presented by an individual and was much shorter than the demonstrations.

Each entry would give a talk similar to an introduction to their subject, then the judges, called a reaction panel, would ask a series of questions. It was important to learn if the person giving the exhibit was fully acquainted with his topic.

The reaction panel for the judging was composed of Edna Schaefer, club leader of the Happy Hustlers; Shirley Hazle, leader of the Victor 4-H Club; and Cris Bobler, 4-H assistant from Charlotte.

Basically, the exhibits were judged on three major points:

- 1) Does the exhibit provide significant educational information?
 - 2) Are the facts presented accurately?
 - 3) Are the presentation materials effective and attractive? The judges marked the entries on a scale of fair, good, or excellent. Predominantly, the exhibits were on topics concerning foods and nutrition.
- Mrs. Helen Meach, home economist, was coordinator for the two days' events. Assisting her with registration were junior leaders Mary Ann Kanaski, Jo Ann Kanaski, Sandy McQueen and Sue Sibley.

Oh, the joys of steer raising!

Training calf is good training, hard work, fun for 4-H'ers, too

By JAN WOODHAMS
4-H Wonders Club

Have you ever tried walking a 600-700 pound steer when all he wanted to do was jump, go backwards, lie down, go in circles, and run like crazy?

No, this wasn't a circus steer, but he sure made me wonder at first. I found out through pulling, straining your muscles, and a few blisters that YOU can be BOSS.

My 4-H steer was a big problem to be this year because he wanted to do fancy tricks instead of just plain walk. When he found out that I was as stubborn as he was, he finally gave in.

A calf is really a worthwhile project besides just being fun. You gain experience in training an animal with a mind of his own, you learn to be patient, you gain a new sense of responsibility, and the pain of losing or the thrill and wonderful feeling of winning.

Your calf should be purchased in the fall and then your big and exciting job starts. A pen has to be decided upon and this should be a place where he can get in out of the sun or be protected in case of bad weather.

People need good nutritious meals and so does your calf. Unlike most humans, he will get along fine on two meals a day. Every morning and night he should be fed and watered by

you. Mine gets corn, haylage, salt, minerals, and water.

AFTER YOUR CALF gets used to you and his new home, start brushing him. Did you know that they like to have their heads and backs scratched? They do, so don't be afraid to give him some enjoyment. While you're brushing and scratching your calf, talk to him. Your calf needs a friend, and that friend should be you; in fact, you should be best of friends if you want him to perform well for you.

Have a problem? Go talk it over with your calf. I don't guarantee he'll have a solution but I do think he will listen. If you stick his name in the conversation once in a while, he might even tell you a few of his!

That first walk is really exciting. You can expect most anything, so better have "good 'ole Dad" around for some assistance. You should be sure to have the right equipment—a good chain halter and some rope. You lead the calf with the halter but dad walks with you, with the rope around the calf's neck for a little extra persuasion. After he gets the idea of walking with you into his head, you won't need the rope.

When your calf is walking and not putting up too much fuss, bring out your show-stick or a cane and start setting him up.

Remember when you are showing your calf, the judge should see him at his best. So get those feet under him square.

HAVING A BEEF calf is really quite a project in 4-H. It has been proven that how much you work with your animal shows when you are in the judging ring. So get to work and maybe you can walk away with the grand championship!

Get started making your plans for next year and the fun (and work) of raising and training your own calf. I wouldn't miss it for anything. See you at the fair. Stop and say hello to me and my steer.

Jan Woodhams, 16, gives her steer, "John", a good brushing in preparation for the 4-H Fair next week. Jan is a member of the 4-H Wonders Club and has ceramics and field crops projects in addition to her beef project.

Action taken to ease handling of 1967-crop loan corn, soys

We are getting a lot of inquiries about the price support for oats this year. We have an increase in the oat acreage and it has depressed the market. A few weeks ago oats were 70 cents per bushel compared to 50 cents per bushel at harvest time.

Group auto insurance plan set up

The nation's first contract for group-rated automobile insurance was signed Tuesday in Lansing. Executives representing Farm Bureau Insurance Group and the Michigan Credit Union League met in the Capitol Building to finalize a program which will give League employees group auto coverage beginning August 15.

For example, can be reduced as much as 11 per cent by employer group administration and even more through employer contributions. Substantial rate reductions can also be made for groups with good safety records. The group program, under development by Farm Bureau Insurance for several months, received its first boost through a historic first opinion made by Michigan Attorney General, Frank Kelly. In early February this year, Kelly ruled that insuring drivers on a group basis is not prohibited by Michigan Law.

NEXT THURSDAY, Aug. 8, the Commodity Credit Corp. will sell at public auction 35 round storage structures with a total capacity of 3,250 bushels.

Some producers wish to store their oats in an approved warehouse and get a loan. Oat producers who are interested in the price support program should contact our office and get details.

During the past few years CCC has sold about 1,500 bins to farmers, which represents about 4-1/2 million bushels of additional storage space that has been erected on the farm to provide farmers with farm-owned storage.

Some producers have made arrangements for storing their commodities on the farm to pay for the storage in three to four years.

We have farm storage facility loan program to assist eligible producers to purchase on the farm grain storage. We would be glad to explain the program to producers who need financial assistance.

I SUGGEST THAT all farmers in need of storage space secure it now whether they purchase it at a CCC sale or from local dealers, and have it erected well in advance of corn and soybean harvest.

In order to relieve the critical shortage of storage space for wheat, Commodity Credit Corp. is purchasing wheat from eligible producers at their county level.

MC Dorman tells of Turkish port

Mr. and Mrs. James Dorman recently received a letter from their son, Master Chief James Dorman Jr., who is now stationed in the Mediterranean area with the Sixth Fleet. They were recently in Istanbul, Turkey, where Chief Dorman had informed his parents he would be during the latter part of July. It was the only place he was not looking forward to because there is only one way out and it is uncomfortably close to Communist territory, he said.

"You have no doubt heard of the happenings in Istanbul while we were there. They have had 'incidents' in six out of seven of the last Sixth Fleet visits there. But how can we gracefully stop going there? The agitators will just move on to other parts. They want us out of the Mediterranean. In case you haven't heard anything, they (student groups) stoned and drove the liberty parties back into boats and out the landing we were using. They put 19 sailors in the hospital on the carrier with minor cuts, etc. One officer was badly hurt and is still critical, I believe. Another Chief and I went on liberty at 1 p.m. to look for souvenirs. The 2 p.m. boat was the one that didn't make it. We didn't see nor hear a thing. They rounded up everyone that they could find and sent to the Hilton Hotel, which is right down town and we stayed there until the people at the landing let us know by phone that it was 'all clear.' We took a cab back to the landing and got a boat first to the carrier and then one of our boats came and got us. At 10 p.m. we received this message from the Sixth Fleet Commander: 1. We, as well as countless civilian and military officials in myriad places, viewed the epic circumstances of your Istanbul and Izmir visits this past week with initial grave concern quickly supplanted by complete admiration. 2. Under 'no-book' conditions your decisions deserve the highest praise. Under the same conditions, the U. S. Navyman did so in a manner unparalleled from the standpoint of dignity, dedication, good horse sense, and plain guts. 3. Well done to one and all. They threw black paint on the shore patrol two nights in a row and really messed up some uniforms. They wouldn't let our shore patrol have even a nightstick to protect themselves. Could that be why they had such 'dignity, dedication, good horse sense, and plain guts?' What else could they do? The Turkish regular army troops moved in the third night and guaranteed our landing wouldn't be 'taken' again. They are a rough bunch, and it wasn't taken. Anyone going on liberty had to leave and return to the landing by bus or cab. I didn't leave my ship after my first adventure. I'm too short to be a fool. This is a very beautiful and modern city and I would have liked to have seen more of it and to buy some things there but why ask for trouble. We are to spend three days in Naples instead of Suba Bay, Crete, Suba Bay would have been real hot this time of year, too. It was 109 degrees in Athens as we passed by there on our way to Istanbul. It was unbearable even at sea. The only place that was bearable was our living compartments. The air-conditioning isn't the best in the world, but it beats the sweat boxes I have lived on before. The trip through the Dardanelles was one of the prettiest I have ever seen anywhere outside the United States. It looked like a river in the states. There is very little green scenery over here and it was a pleasure to see it. Even Istanbul looked green from the harbor. Chief Dorman is stationed on the USS Macdonough. This tour of duty will end his Navy career. He is to retire in November. He had been in the Navy since his graduation from Elsie High School in 1948.

Clothing projects have far-reaching benefits

By JUDY WHITLOCK
French's Corners 4-H Club

I think most people will agree that America is a very "clothes conscious" nation. In such a society a personal appearance project such as clothing can have many far reaching benefits.

In the beginning clothing classes, foundations for future years are laid. These 9 to 12 year olds, known as young miss, learn necessary skills. Some, for example, are the use of a sewing machine, choosing patterns and material.

Hand in hand with this new knowledge of sewing tools and techniques comes a new awareness of "self." A young miss also will learn many desirable personal appearance practices such as good posture, and better care of teeth, hair and nails.

As the skills in sewing are increased with practice and effort, likewise a greater amount of satisfaction will be derived from the finished product. As a junior miss project participant, the knowledge of fabrics will become broader in addition to beginning training in coordinating outfits for school and best wear. These young teens of ages 12 and 14 learn to buy and create garments that will yield years of satisfaction.

Light horse project becoming a favorite for 4-H'ers of all ages

By RENAE JORAE
Double M Horse Club

The 4-H light horse project is rapidly becoming a favorite with 4-H boys and girls of all ages. If a child is interested in horses, the horse project will be fascinating.

Besides feeding, grooming and caring for equipment, the most useful thing members learn is responsibility. The members are responsible for doing almost all the work. This includes grooming, feeding, cleaning stalls, and all the general work that goes along with owning a horse.

In the spring as soon as weather permits, the work begins, both at halter and under saddle. There are many things that you and your horse must learn. Cooperation from both sides is needed to accomplish anything.

At halter your horse learns to stand quietly with all four feet squarely under him for periods of time from five minutes to 45 minutes. Also he learns to walk and trot in a straight line, with minimum of "pushing and hauling" from you

UNDER SADDLE YOUR horse learns to change leads, walk, trot, canter and back. Also, you must learn to mount and dismount correctly.

In both of these classes you must have your horse under complete control at all times.

Other things you learn are the parts of the saddle, bridle, and horse, and how to use the different aids. All these things take lots of time, and most of all patience. Your horse is willing to learn, so you've got to be willing to teach him.

The rewards you get are the ones you earn. The ones you work the hardest usually come out on top.

Rewards other than material ones are the self-satisfaction of accomplishment and achievement of things you've done, whether it's winning top place in a show or just pleasure riding.

Judy Whitlock, 17, of French's Corners 4-H Club, models a two-piece suit of bonded wool houndstooth check which she'll have on display at the 4-H Fair next week. Judy is taking a dairy project besides her clothing project.

We offer our Sincere Best Wishes to the Clinton County 4-H Clubs

Side road seekers shun freeway

Sightseers and other visitors to Michigan who really want to see the Great Lake State should get off those beautiful freeways and on to the side road—where the traffic action isn't, the Michigan Tourist Council advises.

In participating in the shun-piking experiment, the Michigan tourist office offers a few suggestions:

- 1) Take along a map, but use it only in emergencies.
- 2) Use a car compass and surprise your passengers with wonderful feats of navigation.
- 3) Don't set a rigid time-table and, at the same time, keep your arms and legs from becoming rigid by getting out and stretching whenever you feel like it.
- 4) By all means, use your camera.
- 5) Keep a log of your trip.
- 6) Pack a snack of pre-packaged foods—just in case.

Literature describing Michigan's many places to go and things to see is available without charge from the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, 48926.

Bean publication now available

A full-color publication, illustrating symptoms and control measures for field bean problems is now available at the Clinton County Cooperative Extension Service.

The publication folds out into a 17 x 23 inch poster and contains color identification pictures of the 21 most serious enemies of the bean plant, says George McQueen, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent. These include insect, disease, herbicide, physiological, mechanical and nutrient deficiency problems.

Guidelines to successful bean production and Michigan bean industry facts are included in the inside cover of the poster, says McQueen.

The poster, "Bean Problems" was prepared through the combined efforts of Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Michigan Bean Commission.

Top high school musicians from all over the state, selected by audition, will appear in music shell concerts Friday through Sunday, Aug. 24-25, at the Michigan State Fair. The fair opens Aug. 23 and continues through Sept. 2.

Gun safety becomes habit for 4-H'ers taking project

By STEVEN BALDERSON
Stoney Creek 4-H Club

Gun safety is designed by 4-H leaders to teach young people the proper handling of weapons.

When people read this they will say to themselves, "Oh, I know how to handle guns." But how many accidents a year with guns are attributed to young adults under 21? How many times have you heard, "I didn't know the gun was loaded?" If all adults had lessons in gun safety, there would be fewer accidents among them.

In the first year of the 4-H gun safety program, we are taught the distance a bullet travels and how fast, how to take a gun apart, the rules and regulations of guns and—most important of all—the 10 commandments of gun safety.

This is serious business, but for fun you compete at gun shoots, and all kids like competition. The satisfaction of winning a high score is a sense of something well done to the individual.

IN EACH SUCCEEDING year of gun safety, the 4-H member goes into different types of guns, shells and the manufacturing of shells until he becomes so used to being careful in his handling of these weapons that it is highly unlikely that a 4-H member would ever use a gun unwisely.

With all the talk since the recent assassinations about gun controls, I wonder why they don't consider teaching gun safety to adults, because guns are available, and have been through the years, available, legally or not. Registering guns is not the answer—teaching people to respect and use them wisely in the best step toward gun safety.

They also want TV to edit their film for less violence to present to young people. I feel that the greatest majority of young people are intelligent enough to be able to distinguish the good and the bad of TV and compare it to their own way of life.

The ending of the summer gun safety program is a challenge. First, among the club members, because the highest score on the target range competes in the county gun shoot. At this shoot the member writes a written test on guns and gun safety and competes in shooting in different positions. The winner from this contest receives a trophy pre-

McQueen writes on . . . Plant food

By GEORGE McQUEEN
Extension Agricultural Agent

An ample supply of plant food in proper balance is the key to maximum production at the lowest cost.

Since the growing crop will draw its total plant food from the soil and from added fertilizer, these two sources must be combined or matched so as to give the plant just what it needs.

Soils vary in the amounts of plant food they will furnish and only a soil test will tell how much. With this information the amount of fertilizer needed can be determined.

Proper fertilization of all crops must be given special emphasis as a step in increasing farm income next year.

Never has it been so important that every possible effort be made to produce more profitable yields. Farmers can increase their incomes very substantially by following a program of soil testing and improved fertilization.

Soil tests can be only as good as the sample brought into the laboratory. To get a good soil sample requires following certain practices. Each sample to be tested should be made up of at least 20 subsamples from various spots in the field.

More detailed directions on how to get a good soil sample are in the Extension Bulletin E 498, Sampling Soils, available at our office.

Milk marketing tour gives 4-H'ers new insight

By ROGER BROOK
Bath All Purpose Club

The annual 4-H milk marketing tour was held May 3-4 in Detroit. Clinton County participated again this year, sending Bruce Harfe and myself, Roger Brook. Mr. George Hazle went along as chaperone. Traveling with us were Mark Ellis and James Gehring of Durand and Randy Smith of Elwell.

We left the Extension office in St. Johns on Friday morning, May 3, arriving at the MMPA offices in Detroit around noon. We registered and then were conducted on a tour of the MMPA offices by Lowell Allen of the MMPA office. We visited the data processing center which is used to keep their records and reports and the printing center where they run off letters and address all the correspondence envelopes to the members. At the end of the tour, our pictures were taken in the data processing center and sent to our home town papers.

Following the completion of all the tours, the group gathered in the basement meeting room to view a movie by Henry Schriver on the relationship of dairymen and dairy cooperatives. At registration, all the name tags were assigned a number. Following the movie, we split up into 11 groups as our numbers designated. These groups were to be our discussion groups for the rest of the tour. However, at that time, we were going to have a get-acquainted session. This session lasted for about 15 minutes, with many jokes and personal experiences being exchanged.

EVEN BEFORE the joke repertoire of the groups was exhausted, Joe Waterson of the 4-H State Staff interrupted the session and started the afternoon program. He gave the first talk on the purpose of the tour, in which we were now participating. Next, he introduced Norman Peterson of MMPA who gave us a run-down on the MMPA organization and how it is operated. A most interesting talk about the purposes and advantages of the cooperative to a farmer followed given by Max Graybiel, the father of five daughters. Needless to say, everyone listened attentively. These talks were to provide the basis on which the following day's program was to be based.

We then drove across to the Risdon Brothers Creamery. Here we were shown the whole plant, from the huge milk storage tanks to the eight-foot ice cream ring mold to the spacious storage room. We were given samples of ice cream bars and bottles of chocolate milk. This concluded the afternoon program and gave us about 1-1/2 hours to register and freshen up for the banquet.

The evening program began with a banquet in the Empire Room. Following the steak dinner, Harold Blaylock, MMPA vice president gave an illustrated talk on the many facets and uses of cooperatives. It was an interesting and informative talk. After Mr. Blaylock's talk, we were released to get ready for the evening's ballgame between Detroit and California. It turned out to be an extra long heartbreaker which lasted till almost 12:30. And to top it off, the Tigers lost 6 to 5. What a way to end a day!

THEN CAME Saturday. It started with breakfast at 7:30 with everyone only half awake. Following breakfast, we again broke up into our discussion groups for a session of answering hypothetical questions and complaints by members on different facts of milk marketing. Each group selected one of the five questions and was to prepare a talk to give before the whole delegation in answer to the question they had selected. After all the groups were finished Joe Waterson opened the session up for questions from the delegates. Then came the moment I think everyone was dreading! The test was passed out. This test was to be used to determine the 15 top delegates, who would attend an interview at State Show in August. From these 15, seven will be chosen to represent Michigan at the National 4-H Dairy Conference in Chicago. The test took most of the hour and was followed by lunch and check-out, thus ending another spectacular Michigan Milk Marketing Tour. In closing, I wish to thank the MMPA and the 4-H Club Foundation of Michigan for providing the opportunity for me to participate in this educational tour. I will be participating in the interviews during state show and hope to be one of the delegates to the Chicago Conference.

Bath man leads Angus Assn.

R. S. Underhill of Bath has been elected president of the Motorland Angus Assn. for the coming year.

The election came during the organization's annual field day recently at the Golden Acres Farm near Mason. More than 300 persons attended the event, hosted by farm owner Lyle Oesterle.

Other officers are Bruce Pless, vice president; Dave Longfield, secretary; John Windrate, treasurer; and Herman Backhaus of Plymouth and John Sheridan of Fowlerville as directors.

In the cattle judging contest, top man judge was Max Easlick of Elsie. John Lipsey of Grand Ledge was top junior judge and Isabel McConnell of East Lansing scored highest in the ladies' division.

Ronald Conger of Elsie showed the champion steer. The steer was purchased from Black Oak Farms, Holly, in the association sale last fall.

Michigan State University, with nearly 40,000 students on the East Lansing campus today, first opened its doors to six professors and 60 students in 1857, two years after being established.

In 1965, Michigan State University established its pesticide analytical laboratory. During its first two years, more than 11,000 samples have been analyzed to determine the extent and effect of pesticide residues in the environment and on food. This service has been worth a minimum of $225,000 to the Michigan economy.

Elsie

By Mrs Neva Keys

Mrs Gladys Coslette returned home Saturday after spending eight days with her sister, Mrs Helen Stephens in Mt. Pleasant. While there, they spent several days traveling through Northern Michigan. They called on friends at Higgins Lake and their niece, Mrs Harry Hettinger at Mackinaw City. They enjoyed a boat trip to Mackinac Island and also visited Mrs Ethel Scanlon, former resident of Bannister area, at Cheboygan.

Myron Tethal, son of Mr and Mrs Myron Tethal, is home for a leave from his duty with the US Coast Guard. He will return later this month to the Academy in New London, Conn.

Young teenagers Richard Saxton and Frank Dudash embarked on a 50 mile bicycle trip Thursday morning from their homes north of Elsie. They rode to Owasco and the Corunna Stockyards by way of the back country roads instead of the main traveled highways. After pedaling around the Corunna area they returned home the same day.

BRIDAL SHOWER HELD

Mrs Viva Scott, Mrs Larry Ott and Mrs Archie Moore were hostesses for a miscellaneous bridal shower honoring Miss Rita Platner Wednesday evening, at the Scott home. Games were played with prizes won by Mrs Paul Platner, Mrs Lewis Walling and Miss Carol Conklin.

The refreshment table was decorated with a daisy theme of yellow and green and centered with a large cake. Mrs Paul Platner, Mrs Duane Platner and Mrs Ernest Wickie were in charge of the serving.

Miss Platner will become the bride of Robert Gilson of St. Johns Sept. 14 at the Elsie United Methodist Church. Gilson is presently in Viet Nam.

H.S. CLASS HAS REUNION

The Class of 1938 of Elsie High School held a reunion recently at the Village Inn. Among those attending were Albert Parks of Bethlehem, Pa., Glenadean Suttiff Whitford of Ithaca, Isabel Worden Gardener of Flint, Fred Carter of St. Louis, Helen Christle Vreeland of Freeland, Luella Lyons Prowse of Brown City, Robert Morley of Freeland, Wayne Olney of Chesaning, Kenneth Fields of Lansing, Lyle Acre of Ovid, Merlin Burk of St. Johns and Russell Bouck, Donivan Williams, Mr and Mrs Lawrence Hess (Elizabeth Cobb) all of Elsie and Mr and Mrs Roy Davis (Emily Jones) of St. Johns.

Following the dinner the group assembled on the Hess and Bouck lawns for a social time of visiting. They will meet again in 1973.

State 4-H Youth Week truly great experience

By CHRIS L. CORNELL
Stoney Creek 4-H Club

The 50th annual State 4-H Youth Week was held June 12-15, 1968, Youth Week is known by its former name Club Week.

Each day we had a "Teens Pledge," Wednesday, June 12, the pledge was "Thinking." After we had been welcomed to the college and had group singing, Miss Marilyn VanDerbur (former Miss America) gave a talk on "Goals and Dreams." This was very interesting, what would you do if you had your "Goals and Dreams" and then out of nowhere they were completely ruined? Would you sit around crying over what had happened or would you pick yourself up and set new goals for yourself? This gave us (over 1,000 youth) some things to think about. If I were to reach my goal in life I would set a higher one and strive to reach this one just as I had to reach the one that I had set before.

After Miss VanDerbur had given her talk, we were all given time to do with what we wanted to of the many activities they had for us.

Later that night we had our group discussion on "Goals and Dreams", along with recreation highlighted by The Earl Nelson Singers singing Negro folk music. This was an outstanding group.

Thursday the "Teens Pledge" was "Living." The day was mostly spent on "Operation Get Acquainted." This is beyond my explanation. It is about taking an underprivileged Negro child into your home and trying to teach him values and other important things in life so that he would have as much of a chance to live the same kind of life that you and I have. Further information can be had from the Extension Office or your clergyman.

Thursday evening we went "Around The World in 105 Minutes." There were students from many nations around the world. We could visit any two of these students for 45 minute periods. Moments for reflecting was a moving experience. It was a perfect way to close out the day.

Our "Teens Pledge" for Friday was "Service." In the morning Miss Dorothy Emerson spoke to us on "Speak for Yourself." This gave us some ideas on what we would say to people if a question arose. That afternoon "Drug Use and Abuse—The Consequences" was broadcast over closed circuit TV. There was a panel that discussed "The Consequences."

After this I left the campus to come home for the night. Things were so interesting that I went back Saturday for the closing ceremonies.

Saturday our pledge was "Loyalty." We all gathered in the auditorium and sang songs to open the final assembly. Then we had the presentation of colors. Gary Duff then led the pledge of allegiance. Kathy Salisbury presented the thought for the day and invocation. Our newscasters were great. Two kids each morning presented the news from around the world and state, weather and sports. When they announced the score of the Detroit Tiger games and the increase of their lead over the rest of the league, a cheer went up from the youth and adults alike, so there must be pennant fever in Michigan.

Scholarships were then presented to six of the youth, with the citizenship ceremony bringing the week to an end.

While I was there, I had the opportunity of being elected from my group to come back next year as one of the youth to plan the 1969 Youth Week.

I hope that you realize that I have not told everything that happened because of the limited space. To the other 4-H'ers who are wondering what Youth Week is really like, you have to go to find out, so set this in your future "Goals and Dreams" and you will never regret it. It is truly a great experience.

Cloudy or bright? 4-H'ers are learning to find out

By KATHY NICHOLS
Olive 4-H Projects Club

How many times have you or another member of your family gazed out the window at the pouring rain and angrily recalled the early morning weather report in which the weatherman had confidently proclaimed a beautiful, rain-free day?

Does it sound familiar? If so, then you may also be able to recall the fact that this sudden change of weather was blamed directly on the weatherman, that it was all his fault!

Well, if you are such a person who just can't quite always understand why that weatherman did such a thing, you should join the weather project. The main objective of this project is to explain exactly who the true culprit is.

With the help of your leader and explanatory pamphlets you first learn why the season of different areas of the world vary throughout the year. Next you will begin to learn how to predict the weather, and each member slowly discovers the ingredients of our weather. They learn how to make their own instruments to find the wind velocity, humidity, temperature; the members learn the symbols for different types of conditions such as a high pressure area, cold front; and then they find out how to place this information on a weather map. So as you can see, the weather project is one which is fun to be enrolled in and offers valuable experiences to anyone who wants to know for himself why the weather is like it is on a certain day.

Come on and enroll and then the next time the weather doesn't follow the weatherman's predictions, you will be one 4-H'er who will know why.

Edna Feighner, 16, puts the finishing touches on some writing for her veterinary science project exhibit for the 4-H Fair next week. She's a member of the Nimble Fingers 4-H Club, and this is her sixth year in 4-H. Besides veterinary science, she's taking entomology and foods projects.

4-H project a benefit

'Nothing more interesting than animals'

By ENDA FEIGNER
Nimble Fingers 4-H Club

I have been in 4-H for six years and this is the second year I have taken veterinary science. To me there is nothing more interesting than animals. I enjoy studying their habits and learning all I can about them.

There are many opportunities in this project and all of them vary. Some of them vary from becoming a veterinarian and opening your own clinic to being a part of the many people who work in the field of research. You can combine your knowledge with your ambition in this project to go as far as you want and can.

When you finish your education you don't have to stay at the same job, like many jobs you do; you can expand and become a very successful person. You are always learning in veterinary science and you can never become bored with the subject especially if you not only have energy to get out and do something to help them.

When I first started being truly interested in this, subject I went to see our veterinarian. He told me a lot of facts about this field and gave me some good advice. When I would taken an animal down there he would let me go into his office to show and explain everything he was doing and why. I am very thankful that he did because he explained much of what I read in my project book.

After I graduate from college my plans are of becoming a person in the field of research at one of the Michigan colleges. I think people are needed in research just as much as veterinarians are needed.

Ideas flowed like milk at dairy foods meeting

By KATHY SCHAEFER
Happy Hustlers 4-H Club

One of the outstanding things about 4-H is the many trips and activities offered to 4-H'ers. The Dairy Foods Conference is one such activity for which it is well worth the effort in becoming eligible to be chosen.

Each year the Dairy Foods Conference, sponsored by the American Dairy Assn., is held in Kellogg Center at MSU. This year there were almost 70 girls from counties all over Michigan attending the three-day conference. When this many girls get together there cannot help but be much "idea swapping" and new friendships forming.

The main purpose of the conference was to acquaint us with dairy products so that we could bring back home these ideas and information to use in our own counties and local clubs.

THIS YEAR'S theme was "Dairy Foods in Weight Control and Personal Appearance." We attended about 10 different sessions which dealt with topics ranging from careers to dairy products of the future. Most of our speakers were from the MSU departments of dairy, foods and nutrition, food science, and continuing education. It was quite a privilege to meet and listen to these distinguished people. Each of them presented us with interesting new ideas and made us eager to put this new knowledge to use.

At many of our sessions we were given the opportunity to taste-test both new and old dairy products and also imitation dairy products. We all went home with a much greater knowledge of dairy foods, what they are, how they are made, etc.

But to say that was all we gained from the conference would be an understatement. We had the opportunity to learn more about ourselves, too, by making new friends, being confronted with new situations and by our workshops. At these workshops we produced our own TV show with ourselves as the stars. We learned how to operate the TV cameras and other equipment and were able to see ourselves as others do.

Our programs dealt with something we had learned at the conference. The group I was in did a Cronkite news report on a scientific break-through—the invention of the perfect cow. I doubt whether many of us will ever make movie stars, but we all had a lot of fun seeing ourselves on TV.

At the end of three days we all went home exhausted from so much activity but full of ideas and eager to start on our new responsibility, using the material we had gathered and presenting it to the people. Before we even left for home, many of us had already planned groups, radio and TV appearances.

SCD directors hold picnic, discuss stream pollution

District directors of the Clinton County Soil Conservation District held their summer picnic and regular meeting at Keith Wright's farm pond in Lebanon Township July 28 and wound it up with a long discussion on pollution.

Directors, former directors, junior directors and families attended the event. Eating, fishing swimming and boating were among the recreational activities of the day.

Verne M. Bathurst, state conservationist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, was present and gave some ideas which directors will be adding to their program of work.

The discussion on pollution went along these lines:

Everyone is concerned about the phosphates that are in our streams, yet the phosphate that is in the commercial fertilizer that a farmer applies to his field is quickly locked up in the soil. Therefore, the amount of phosphate that a farmer contributes to the river is measured in the amount of his soil loss. If he is following good conservation practices, his fields might lose (under adverse rainfall) as much as three tons of soil per year.

THE AMOUNT OF phosphate in this three tons of loss is unmeasurable, yet in the construction of roads for a new sub-division, the soil loss during one rain has been 175 tons per acre. The amount of phosphates that come from homes into the sewer system is considerable, because there is not clay in the sewer system to lock up the phosphates—like the farmer's clay in his fields lock it up.

Large volumes of soils, sands, and minerals (salt) washed from the paved areas of our many communities into our waters cause another pollution problem. This sediment fills stream channels, requiring expensive dredging, and shortens the channel's useful life. These sediments reduce the amount of sunlight penetrating the water. Sunlight is required by green aquatic plants which produce oxygen necessary for normal stream balance. Sediment greatly increases treatment costs for municipal and industrial water supply and for sewage treatment where combined sewers are used.

Soil can be conserved on the land for about three cents per ton, yet it costs $2 to $3 a ton to dredge it out of a river or harbor. Conservation is the concern of all the people, if we are to leave our children a world they can live in and enjoy living in it.

Special senior citizen contests will be featured Old Timers' Day, Monday, Aug. 26, at the Michigan State Fair. All senior citizens will be admitted free until 3 p. m. that day. The fair opens Aug. 23 and continues through Sept. 2.

Clinton County Soil Conservation District directors and visitors talk over pollution problems at the recent SCD picnic. Clockwise around the table are Stan Baird, Don Brewbaker, Keith Wright, Clarence Manning, Russell Sibley, George Baird, Bill Parker, Andy Cobb, Bill Mayers, Robert Moore, Vern Bathurst and Sue McAlvey.

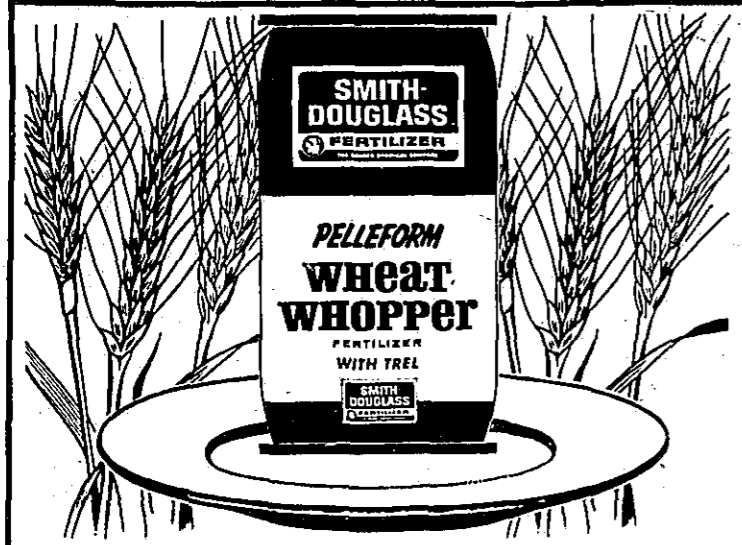

Farm Bureau buys office site

Purchase of a site for a new office building was revealed recently by Farm Bureau, Life Insurance Co.

David Morris of Clinton County, president, and Nile L. Vermillion, executive vice president jointly announced the purchase of about 48 acres of land for the site located on the southeast corner at the junction of Canal Road and West Saginaw Highway in Lansing.

Containing an estimated 100,000 square feet of space, the building will house the Farm Bureau organizations' present 550 Lansing-based employees.

Farmers received an average per capita disposable income of $1,717 in 1966, while each non-farm citizen had $2,636 to spend, according to Michigan State University research.

Upward trend in state traffic death slows

The continuing upward trend in traffic deaths slowed slightly in July, with a toll of 181 lives as compared with 200 in the same month a year ago, a decrease of 19, or 10 per cent.

For the first six months of the year the toll stood at 1,032, which was 168, or 19 per cent, more than 864 in the same period of 1967.

The six-month toll was only 12 less than the 1,044 who were killed in the first half of 1966 when Michigan set a new all-time annual high of 2,298 in traffic deaths.

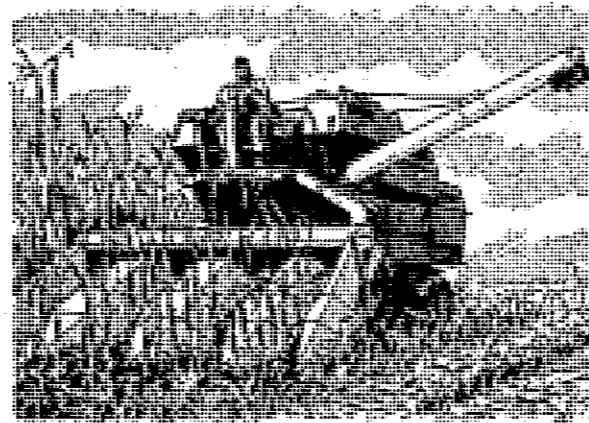

Delayed death reports will increase somewhat the July count.

This thing called 4-H

What is this thing called 4-H?

We all know from past contacts and from reading that it is something active, and most assuredly from past experience in reporting 4-H activities, we can say it is something constructive.

The cream of our youth and many of the best of our adults are involved in 4-H. They are the main ingredients, but the catalyst that makes 4-H what it is is a wide range of project areas where our youth today can invest themselves and interest themselves.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, a small dividend on the investment will be paid as summer 4-H projects and activities are exhibited at the annual Clinton County 4-H Fair. This week the Clinton County News is providing space for 4-H members and leaders to show and tell a little bit about what this thing called 4-H is really about.

4-H is a happy blend of just about any subjects you'd want, of interest to rural youth and urban youngsters alike. By working together and under the guidance of knowledgeable adults, our young people of today are learning and inquiring about things that will make this world better tomorrow.

What is this thing called 4-H? If you don't know, read the articles and you'll find out quite a lot. Then you can join us as we join businessmen and individuals from throughout the county this week in saluting the 4-H clubs, their members and their leaders throughout Clinton County.

Can we measure up

Space exploration is an awesome mystery to most of us. While it may sound far-fetched, today's pioneering efforts in space may be the salvation of our civilization—salvation wholly apart from the military aspect of space probes.

A few business leaders are only too well aware of the impact of the space program on our daily lives. One of the most discerning of these leaders has been the head of a major company that is both one of the biggest contractors in defense and space activities and a leading manufacturer of diversified products for the commercial market. He is W. F. Rockwell Jr., chairman of the board of the North American Rockwell Corp.

As one who speaks from firsthand experience, Rockwell observes that technological achievement is "in danger of outrunning the nation's moral and spiritual capacity." He believes technology is accelerating change to a degree that "... trying to make sense of change will come to be our basic industry. . . . The question about progress will be 'how good?' rather than 'how much.'"

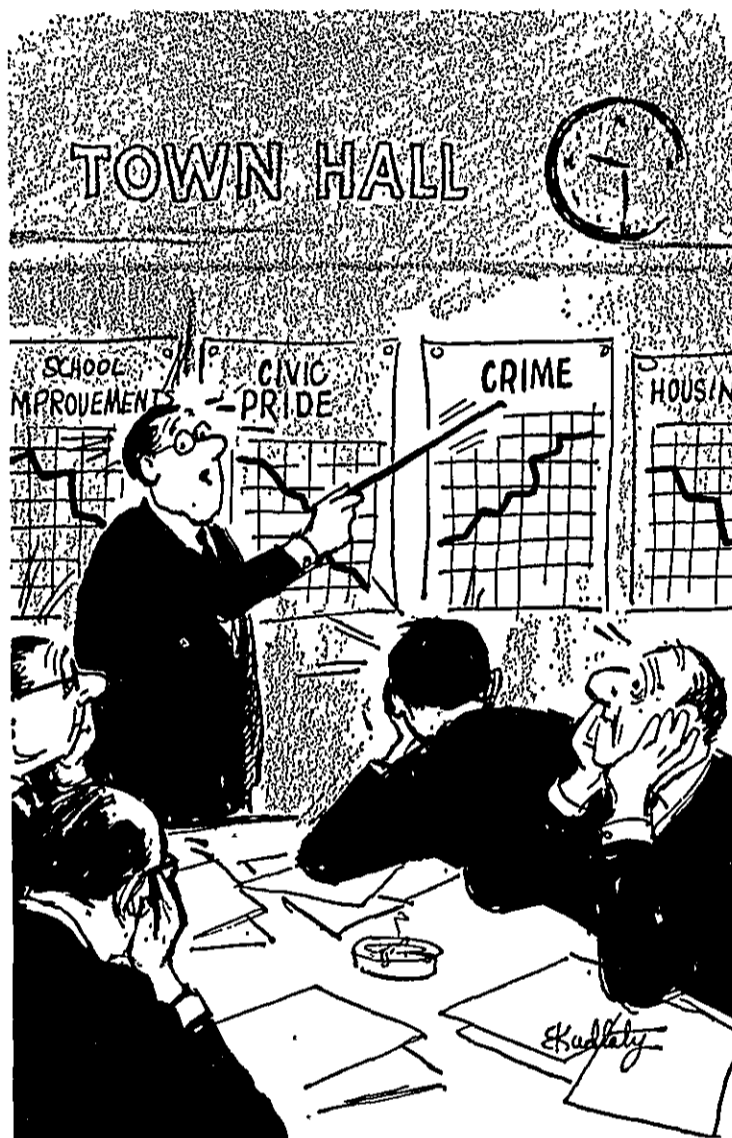

Measured by sheer technical accomplishment, the space effort is bringing benefits far outweighing dollars and cents costs. Again in Rockwell's words: "The nation's space program has brought about more than 12,000 products and techniques that did not exist just 10 years ago. Coupled with military requirements, the space program has paved the way for the fight against such problems as air and water pollution, the population explosion, and the depletion of natural resources." Yes, the big question about space exploration is not whether it is worthwhile, but whether we can grow rapidly enough as civilized human beings to absorb the benefits of the technological changes it is bringing with it.

Happiness is . . . logical spending

Your dollar will probably buy a little less next year than the planner planned! It is reported that even with the 10 per cent surcharge and $6 billion reduction in spending demanded by Congress, the federal deficit for fiscal 1968 will be around $25 billion—$5 billion more than expected. Delay in passing the tax increase and higher Viet Nam war costs are blamed.

The red ink outlook would be a good deal less grim if our public officials could do a bit better in figuring out what we don't need. Many unbelievable projects pop to the surface of the federal budget and another one is reported by the Clarkton, N.C., Times. It seems the U. S. Public Health Service, as part of a $249,000 research program, "... has been sending psychologists and social scientists down to Puerto Rico to ask its citizens what causes them joy or sorrow." It is not surprising that they discovered people were happier if they were healthy, had money, were educated and were young!

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Hila Boss

For those people who will not be taking a vacation trip this summer, Bement Public Library has a number of new books which will take a person around the world in an arm chair. You are cordially invited to drop in and borrow some of them.

Included are books on Wales, Ireland, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland, Norway, Austria, Finland, Yugoslavia, Morocco, Hong Kong, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand, Tahiti and the French islands of the Pacific, Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Guatemala, Jamaica, Canada, Alaska, and Hawaii.

The new book on Australia was given in memory of the late Jack Hudson, whose two daughters, Robyn and Cindy, have both worked in Bement Public Library while attending high school.

Following is a list of new biographies recently received at Bement Public Library: POPE PAUL VI by Corrado Pallenberg, MRS APPELYARD'S YEAR by Louise Andrews Kent, THE LIFE OF TELHARD DE CHARDIN, by Robert Speaight, ANNA ELEANOR ROOSEVELT by James R. Kearney, and SPUNK-WATER (a biography of Mark Twain) by James Playstead Wood.

The biography of Pope Paul was placed in the library in honor of Fr. Vincent J. Kuntz on the occasion of his ordination to the priesthood on June 1.

The book, MRS APPELYARD AND I, is a delightful autobiography by the author of MRS APPELYARD'S YEAR, published in the 40's. Mrs Kent later published a book of recipes called MRS APPELYARD'S KITCHEN, and collaborated with the editors of the Ladies' Home Journal by writing material to accompany their colored photographs of Mrs Appleyard's recipes.

She has also written historical fiction for children and is still doing so. At the age of 80, she still experiments with food and is constantly doing something interesting to the old houses she owns at Kent's Corner in Vermont, where she spends her summers.

Mrs Kent's husband was an editor with Houghton Mifflin Publishers, and always handled the work of the prolific Lloyd Douglas when he was at the height of his career. One of the most touching sections of MRS APPELYARD AND I is Mrs Kent's description of the occasion on which she agreed to marry her future husband. One of the wildest parts of the book is the passage where Mrs Kent discovers that Mr Kent has actually written up this incident for Lloyd Douglas to use in one of his best sellers.

To read MRS APPELYARD AND I is to renew one's own interest in life.

RAMBLIN' WITH RINK

Just cool it

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Regardless of whether we camped in one spot or were on the road every day during our recent vacation, there was always a need for ice for the trailer refrigerator to keep our food fresh and our pop cold.

Except for the few days we spent with my cousin in Manteca, Calif., we bought a large bag of ice every day, and on a few occasions twice a day.

Since we anticipated hot weather during our sojourn, we figured on drinking a considerable amount of juices and pop. The best way to handle it, we figured was to have a separate small cooler for the pop so we wouldn't crowd the refrigerator.

Our cooler turned out to be a small styrofoam chest about 15 inches high. It handled a fair amount of ice and either bottles or cans of pop. It worked fine for the first leg of our trip until we accidentally discovered the styrofoam is not kickproof.

When the chest is bashed or kicked, it tends to open up a hole, not necessarily big. When said hole is below the waterline of melting ice, the chest leaks. How long it had been doing this before we camped one night we don't know, but anyway the floor of the trailer was more than a little wet, and a lot of things that were on the floor were in a similar state.

THE LITTLE COOLER went to the big chest in the sky by way of the garbage can, and so for awhile we stashed our cans of pop among the ice cubes in the ice compartment. Finally, however, at the store in Sequoia National Park we discovered another cooler, slightly smaller, and we bought it.

Its life, too, was short-lived—about three days. After packing up the trailer and leaving Los Angeles for home, we stopped along the road for some ice before we reached the desert. I filled the little cooler liberally with ice to surround the few cans of pop we had left and shoved it along the floor of the trailer and underneath the table.

It was at this point the mortal wound was applied.

We discovered later what had happened. During our stay at Disneyland, one of my daughter's souvenirs was a Disneyland pennant on a three-foot stick. It had been laid on the floor of the trailer, and the stick became a lance which dealt a fatal blow to the ice chest as I shoved it under the table.

The discovery of the mishap was accompanied by much wailing and moaning by my wife as she knelt to clean up the watery floor and empty the storage compartments beneath the seat to see what items had been ruined. None had, but the purple Disneyland pennant had indeed been soaked and much of the purple coloring transferred permanently to the flooring.

We were disheartened about ice chests, to say the least, and we almost fled the store at Desert View on the edge of the Grand Canyon when we walked in and a stack of little ice chests stared us in the face.

We finally relented, however, and bought one, and it carried us through the rest of the trip OK with our cans of pop. But as a fitting climax to the story I must tell you about what happened a week after we got back.

We don't usually have canned pop around the house. We use the returnable bottles that carry 16 ounces. The other day we were getting ready to go on a picnic, and the good wife grabbed a couple of bottles to put in the little cooler, only to discover they would not fit so that the lid could be put on—the chest was too short.

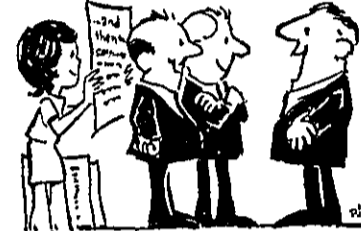

I told her to just cool it . . . and then ran.

'IF IT FITZ . . .

'One, two, three . . .

By JIM FITZGERALD
Like the man who flipped over Marilyn Monroe because he liked her voice, too many people are still getting excited about the right things for the wrong reasons.

For example, take Lt. Col. Richard McMahon, an army intelligence officer who made all the newspapers recently when he blasted the body count. That's the incredible system whereby the U.S. somehow counts the enemy dead and then uses the bloody statistics to gauge the progress of the Viet Nam war.

The result is a daily report to the public, telling how many Viet Cong have been killed in the past 24 hours. There's nothing about regaining lost ground and liberating occupied cities, as in World War II. The obvious conclusion is that the U.S. is in Viet Nam simply to kill and to keep close count of the bodies—every rifle platoon must have its own scorekeeper. Of course, there's another, more valid conclusion: The U.S. is desperately trying to prove it is winning a game it should not be in, and can't possibly win. And we are reduced to weighing blood to prove that the good guys are ahead.

So it was gratifying to read that an intelligence officer disapproved of the body count. But my gratification turned sour after the first paragraph. I deplore the count because it is a ghastly spit in the face of civilized man. But Col. McMahon is against it for a far different reason—some of the counters are cheating. They are padding the figures—watering the blood, you might say—thus upsetting battle plans, for goodness sake.

No kidding. McMahon said the body count was started as "an attempt to make sure that only enemy dead physically observed would be reported." This was to prevent hearsay evidence. You can't say your buddy splattered two Cong on the other side of the hill. You have to go see those Cong yourself, or don't report them. I guess each corpse is chalked X to make sure it isn't counted twice. At any rate, all of this was OK with McMahon. He didn't get bugged until it became apparent that some of the boys were bragging more than they were killing.

"Some American and many South Vietnamese units began submitting estimates which reflected favorably on their prowess," McMahon explained.

Please note how he said just "some" American but "many" South Vietnamese were claiming more blood than they were spilling. Our white hat might occasionally get soiled along the brim, but it is still the whitest hat in the world, by golly, and you'd better believe it. Actually, it's those little gooks who counted most of the bodies that weren't there.

McMahon urges that the body count be dropped altogether because battle plans based on "exaggerated enemy casualties can result in disaster."

In other words, a U.S. platoon might attack a village where there is supposed to be only 10 Cong because 50 were killed there this morning; Cpl. Cribber counted them himself. But the corporal was bucking for sergeant and he multiplied when he should have added. There's actually 30 Cong in the village and the U.S. platoon is wiped out. And the Cong will probably count it as a regiment, thus proving that killers can be liars on both sides of a war.

I can see why Col. McMahon is unhappy with the body count and he has my grudging sympathy. But I wonder if he, like too much of the world, sees only digits and less firepower when he reads that "87 Viet Cong were killed this morning."

It is too bad the body count statistics can't include such information as: "One of the 89 killed was Joe Wang, 22-year-old father of two children. He never saw his baby son. He is also survived by his wife and parents who loved him. Joe Wang had planned to complete his university studies and become a research scientist. He might have discovered the cure for cancer. Or he might just have lived to be 72 and have three more children and some grandchildren and be happy on a lot of days, and sad on other days. He might have caught some fish with that son he never saw."

Before the hawks start sticking me with pencils, let me hasten to say—I know it works both ways. I would like to see the counts of American bodies published the same way. I don't for a minute say the Viet Cong are right and the Americans are wrong. I say they are both wrong; civilization is horribly wrong. When a people can count crushed young bodies the same way they'd count fallen logs, something is grievously wrong.

While stuffed shirts hold endless peace talks in Paris, boys are being killed and only the immediate survivors weep. And we have people getting excited about the correct way to count their bodies.

For God's sake, let's get excited about the killing.

Amid the turmoil of violence and lawlessness across America the policeman must recognize his new role as peace officer and new demands of the profession.

There were two distinct trends in criminal law during the last 40 years: strengthen the rights of the individuals, and restrict the powers of the police.

Better laws, well-trained officers, and more concerned citizens are essential if society is to survive the stress of present conditions, Milliken said.

Much uncertainty of the laws in Michigan can be removed by legislation, principally through updating criminal codes.

STATE POLICE estimate that 50 per cent of the seven major felonies in Michigan, including murder, are committed by children 10 to 18 years of age.

Retirement funds for state employees and schoolteachers will cost Michigan taxpayers a billion dollars or more in the next 20 years, according to Rep. James H. Heinze, R-Battle Creek.

This year $178 million was earmarked for retirement benefits and social security payments for current service of public employees.

The situation results from the 1963 constitution which specifies that after Jan. 1, 1964, the Legislature must set aside each year all the money needed to pay retirement benefits earned by state employees, including teachers, that year.

A SHORTAGE IN funds will develop in about 18 months, says Rep. Heinze. At that time, the state will have depleted its reserve fund to pay those who retired prior to 1964.

In other words, the state got itself into a financial hole by shortchanging the retirement fund prior to 1964 by failing to set aside funds to finance the plan in effect. It must now make up this lack of financial responsibility by using current revenue to support those who have already retired and to build a fund for those who will retire.

Estimates of the amount needed to provide full pension payments for those who retired prior to 1964 were set at $1.2 billion by a special Legislative committee earlier this year.

The committee also noted that after the next seven or eight years the problem will diminish the number of retirees remaining

The "Low Down" From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

Rep Roman C. Pucinski (Ill.) "The role of the American housewife today in shaping the future of her children and community cannot be overlooked or misjudged. It is for this reason that I wish to stress the importance of expanded and sophisticated home economics courses in our nation's high schools to my colleagues here in Congress.

Today's Housewife Is... (By Glenda Sampson) "What is a housewife?" asked Rep. Roman Pucinski recently. "I've heard of a housewife, but what is a housewife?"

Pucinski (D. Ill.) is trying to introduce a bill in the House which would "elevate the status of American women."

The bill is under consideration by a sub-committee the congressman heads on general education. It mostly had to do with an expanded and "modernized" vocational program which would require every high school student in the country to devote 40 per cent of his studies to vocational courses.

Pucinski says he is concerned about the 55 per cent of young people in this country who don't go on to college, but he singles out the problems of the uneducated women as an especially neglected area.

"MOST OF THESE girls are going to get married young," he says. "Then they will have full-time jobs as chauffeurs, baby raisers, cooks, consumer experts, household engineers, and what-have-you. If they can be exposed to the marketable values of these skills and be trained in some of them while they're still in high school, then their attitude of being 'just a housewife' will vanish. Employers will take a different attitude toward them, too.

Home economic courses taught in high schools right now may help a girl to manage her own home better, he says, but he thinks she can learn to cook at the same time she is learning how to be a nutrition expert who could sell her services to any of a number of hospitals or institutions.

She could learn to sew at the same time she is learning to operate a power machine that would enable her to go into the needle trade if she decides to work later.

He would further enhance her position by giving her, along with the high school diploma a degree title of "domestic engineer."

"This would help her if she gets married right away or if she goes on to college and needs a part-time job to earn her way.

Cost of Pucinski's project would be 750 million dollars for the first year and would be financed by phasing out existing programs which it would replace.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT: Our only objection to Rep. Pucinski's proposal is the use of the word "trained." No one likes to be trained. Animals are "trained." People are educated.

We notice that some high schools have driver training courses. We like "education" better.

Truck business aid to Clinton listed in book

A half-million trucks, all types and sizes, serve Michigan's 8-1/2 million people daily.

This is one of many facts presented in the 24-page booklet, Truck Transportation in Michigan, an industry fact book published by Michigan Trucking Assn.

In Clinton County, there are 4,269 trucks registered. The number of persons whose employment is directly related to motor truck transportation in Clinton County is 2,468. Their annual earnings were $17,152,600.

Truck Transportation in Michigan shows the employment for each county, and truck registrations. The book points out that Michigan's trucking industry employs more than 312,000 persons, one out of nine employed in the state. Their annual payroll exceeds $2,100,000,000.

There is a section devoted to the truck portion of monies distributed and expended for Michigan highways, by counties. For instance, in Clinton County truck taxes distributed to local governments during fiscal 1967 totaled $271,043. This plus the state and federal funds expended by the Michigan Department of State Highways brings the truck portion of total monies distributed and expended in our county to $334,791.

Other information includes data on the miles of Federal-Aid highway system in Michigan, road miles in Michigan under state and local control, and miscellaneous statistics on the amount of farm products moved by truck.

Now a cathedral hush

Lumberjacks' axes spared Hartwick Pines

Just a few minutes drive from the Interstate 75 freeway in northern Michigan's vacationland is a tall, quiet forest with the state's largest remaining stand of virgin northern white pine.

In the cathedral hush of the pine needle carpeted forest, hardly penetrated by the sun, it takes little imagination to hear moccasin-shod Chippewas moving through the pines or the raucous ribaldry of the lumberjacks.

Fortunately, though, the lumberjacks' saws didn't echo through this particular stand of pine that now is the 8,900-acre Hartwick Pines State Park, the largest state park in the lower peninsula.

From 1860 to 1910 the lumbermen traversed northern Michigan with scythe-like strokes, felling the rich forests for lumber to build city homes, according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

THEY TOOK THE logs and left legends and stumps.

Spared though was this 49-acre virgin forest seven miles northeast of Grayling in the upper central section of Michigan, and standing tall are centuries-old white pines, Michigan's state tree.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Michigan housewives are being used by politicians and labor union leaders in an all-out, long-distance effort to force California farm workers into labor unions. Never one to hold back where there might be headlines or political hay to be made, Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh has gotten into the act.

Involved is an effort by union leaders to unionize California farm workers, with major efforts aimed at the grape growing areas where hand-labor is a "must" and where a few large growers have been the special target.

Falling in direct (and sometimes drastic) efforts to unionize the farm workers, the "United Farm Workers Organizing Committee" headed by Cesar Chavez and sponsored by the AFL-CIO—has called for a total boycott of California grapes in major markets.

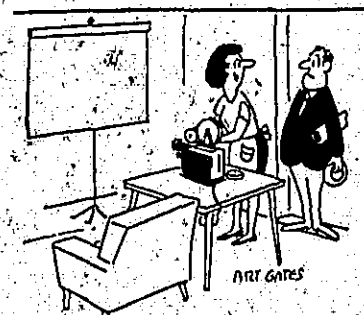

ORIGINALLY aimed at New York, the idea has spread to Detroit with the public approval of Mayor Cavanagh, who urged enforcement of the table-grape ban.

Recently, a number of unions engaged in the distribution and retail sale of California grapes in the greater New York area have dropped to practically zero, and in the process it appears there has been a clear-cut violation of a major section of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act, relating to secondary boycotts and "hot cargo" practices.

What does this mean to Michigan farmers and consumers? Obviously, there is much more at stake than final disposition of a few tons of grapes. It is clear that labor is attempting to set a pattern for total organizing of all farm workers, and eventually, a take-over of America's farm productive ability; for if a small group of organizers in California can cut such a huge city as New York off from a grape supply, it could obviously happen to your total food supply, your milk, meat, or bread.

There is a section devoted to the truck portion of monies distributed and expended for Michigan highways, by counties. For instance, in Clinton County truck taxes distributed to local governments during fiscal 1967 totaled $271,043. This plus the state and federal funds expended by the Michigan Department of State Highways brings the truck portion of total monies distributed and expended in our county to $334,791.

a majestic 155 feet with a circumference of nearly 4 1/2 feet. The Monarch's age is estimated at 300 years and it grows approximately 1/32 of an inch annually.

Nearby is Monarch Junior, 20 feet taller than Monarch but two inches less in diameter. Its age is close to Monarch's. There's also a 109-foot hemlock and a 102-foot oak in the preserve.

An easy, marked, 45-minute footpath through the virgin pines takes visitors back to the days when lumber was king in Michigan.

An interpretive center at the entrance to the pines and the Lumberman's Museum and Chapel in the Pines make the turnoff from the freeway a worthwhile and unusual one, according to the Tourist Council.

SILAS OVERPACK'S 10-foot wheels that "modernized" lumbering lead to the museum. Overpack, a Manistee man, made the huge wheels for logging companies from Michigan to Washington.

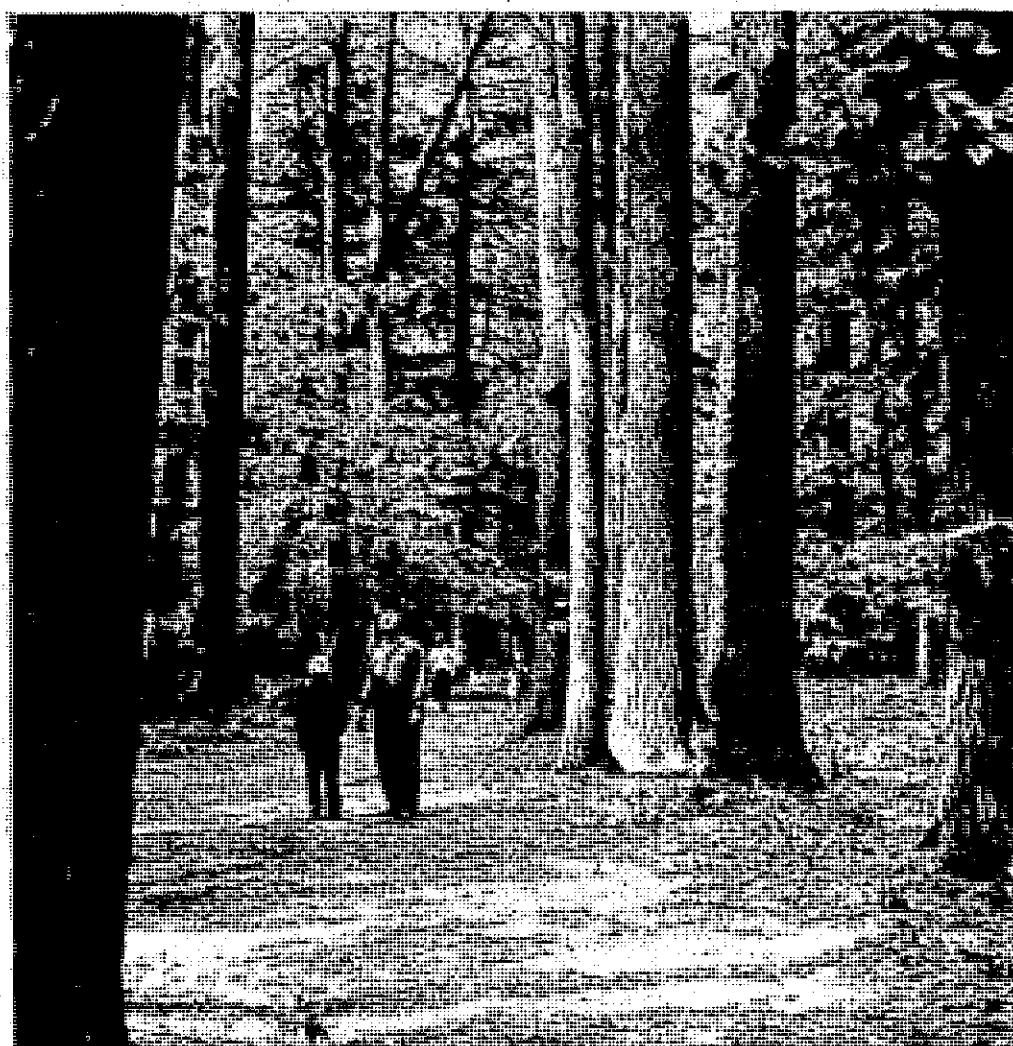

The wheels enabled lumberjacks to haul the logs to rivers and railroads during the warm weather months. Prior to that, logs were moved out of the forest only during the winter when they could be slid on ice and snow.

The Lumberman's Museum depicts camp life with a mess hall, bunkhouse, blacksmith's shop and tools of the times. It was a rowdy, callous-raising time when songs like these were popular:

"I see that you're a logger and not a common bum, for nobody but a logger stirs his coffee with his thumb."

ANOTHER WAS: "He never shaved the whiskers from off his horny hide, he drove them in with hammers and chawed them off inside."

In the walk through Hartwick

Indians hunted game in this Michigan virgin forest when these trees were already old. Many of the specimens at Hartwick Pines State Park are between 200 and 300 years old and measure from 100 to more than 150 feet high.

Pines, visitors can see what has grown since the lumbering times and a forest untouched by 'jacks' axes.

The towering white pines in the mature, old forest form a canopy that shuts out the sun and prevents smaller plants from growing on the forest floor. Branches grow only high on the trunks of the trees where they can get some sunlight.

The young forest, populated with aspen, pine and hemlock, is airy and doesn't inhibit the growth of small, sun-loving plants on the forest floor.

HARTWICK PINES was donated to Michigan by Karen B. Hartwick in memory of her husband, Major Edward E. Hartwick, who was killed in World War I.

The park has camping, picnicking and hiking facilities and two lakes plus trout streams nearby.

Horse sense

By W. E. DOBSON

The term is rather common The reference quite OK Though we are not usin' horses In the same old fashioned way.

Didn't used to be a farmer Lest you owned a healthy span, Of some good or better horses To help execute your plan.

Just to feed, curry 'n harness Occupied pre-breakfast hours, And a span of willin' workers Cup crop time by countless hours.

Time was when the call to dinner Was relayed by clanging bell, If the man was slow to answer—Horses knew it very well.

Headin' toward the bell's sweet music Their gait quickened step by step, Try to turn them from their object—Right away they lost all pep.

Well they knew which stall to enter, 'N what grain box held their grain, Very few were ever sulky And they gave with might 'n main.

Horse sense coupled with ambition— With vacations for their fun They knew well rewards were waiting When their day of toil was done.

Life too oft gets complicated, Wouldn't it be quite immense, If we lived it calm 'n simple 'N made use of more horse sense?

Conservation digest

A summary of Conservation Department activity, news around Michigan

War on the lamprey goes on. Chemical treatment of Pentwater River, Oceana County, early this month marked beginning of the 1968-69 control program of the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission. Work is under contract to the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries. By fiscal year's end, 35 rivers tributary to Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron in 22 counties will have been treated with lampricide.

Mid-July Lake Michigan Coho report: They're five to ten miles out; 60 to 70 feet deep; moving north (Whitehall area). Warm surface water keeps cohos in cold depths. They'll stay deep during hot weather. Only change would come from a severe storm which could flush the big lake's thermoclines. Fishing prospects for late August are good.

Statistics from the Conservation Commission's action on antlerless deer hunting in 1968: Total area open to hunting, 39,949 square miles—15,683 in the Upper Peninsula, 13,602 in the northern and 10,764 in the southern Lower Peninsula. Total estimated antlerless kill: 46,115—14,720 in the U. P., 28,965 in northern and 2,470 in southern L. P. Expected antlerless deer hunters: 165,805; expected success: 28 per cent.

Tourist business so far this summer can only be guessed at. The Tourist Council is surveying the industry, but results will not be available until mid-August. Guess is there is nothing dramatic about the 1968 vacation season. Highway Department information, centers report a 10 per cent increase in travel, but Tourist Council information inquiries are down 10 to 15 per cent. This is the pattern in other mid-western states. Vacation business reflected June's heavy rains and industry leaders look hopefully toward busy days from now through August.

Upland bird roundup: Pheasants are down but not out; about 35 per cent down for the spring of 1967. Situation hinges on the recent nesting season. A brood survey, now under way, will have the answer about mid-August. Department biologists hope the upcoming hunting season will be at least as good as last year. Quail are about as they were in 1967 when they were plentiful; nothing like they were in '66 before the bad winter. Wild turkeys are doing well in Baldwin and Mio areas where permit hunters should be "reasonably successful." Grouse hunting will be so-so this fall, but woodcock shooting is expected to be better than average.

Bears may be legal game in 1969 in the northern Lower Peninsula where they've been protected for the past three years. Department game and law enforcement officials would favor legislation to permit an open season next year. More bears are being seen in northern Lower Peninsula and nuisance complaints about the animals are on the increase. In recent times, only the Upper Peninsula has been open to bear hunting.

"Clean Water and Quality Recreation" is a new fact-filled folder on bond issue proposals which call for state expenditures of $335 million for clean water and $100 million for recreation. Available free from the Conservation Department in Lansing, the publication answers questions people are asking about the bond issues which will appear on the November 5 election ballot.

Looks like the hour of crisis for a 1968 alewife dieoff has come and gone with only a dead fish here and there along the Lake Michigan beach. Department biologists explain last year's big mess included not only millions of three-year olds, but tons of two-year olds, leaving a very small number to wash ashore this summer. With the adult population down, the young are enjoying a high survival rate which could mean trouble again in 1969 and/or 1970.
