3-day 4-H Fair starts on Monday

Some 1,500 Clinton County 4-H members will put their summer's projects on display in St. Johns next week during the 30th annual Clinton County 4-H Fair.

The program of events next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday follows a familiar format, but there are several important and big changes, Extension 4-H Youth Agent John Aylsworth points out.

The horse show, a fixture on the schedule for two years, has been expanded to two days in order to handle the competition created by 166 4-H'ers taking saddle horse projects this year. Last year there were only 121 taking the project.

New to the 4-H Fair will be a 4-H steer sale to be held at 5 p.m. next Wednesday, Aug. 16, at the Wolverine Stockyards in St. Johns. The 4-H'ers desiring to may sell their 4-H steers, leading them into the auction ring where prospective buyers will bid on them. 4-H steers usually sell for several cents above the market price at a fair livestock sale, Aylsworth said.

FAIR ACTIVITY GETS UNDER WAY at 9 a.m. Monday when exhibits and displays will be received and set up. Aylsworth said some 3,200 exhibits will be available for the public to look over during the three days of the fair.

While a lot of the emphasis will be on exhibits, part of the annual excitement of the fair is in the showmanship and

Section B of this week's Clinton County News contains numerous pictures of 4-H activities around the county, plus articles written by 4-H members and leaders describing their various projects and aims in 4-H. At the same time, progressive businesses around Clinton County salute 4-H'ers in advance of the annual fair.

Judging contests which take place every day of the fair. Then there will be 4-H all-star softball games Monday night and free vaudeville acts by professional entertainers at the park bandshell Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The first event for spectators at the fair will be the horse show Monday morning at 10 o'clock. That day's event will be strictly in the western classes of horsemanship and will continue into the afternoon hours. By the time the horse show is recessed, the rest of the 4-H program will be rolling in good fashion. The 4-H tractor operator's contest is scheduled for 2:30 p.m., and at 3 o'clock the junior livestock judging contest starts.

County wants Airport Authority feasibility study

Clinton County supervisors want to study the feasibility of setting up a tri-county airport authority to run Capital City Airport on the south edge of DeWitt Township.

The board passed a resolution Monday afternoon expressing their desire for such an authority to head off anticipated takeover of the operations of the airport by the City of Lansing.

Capital City Airport is now owned by the state of Michigan and operated as a non-profit organization. But it reportedly has been so non-profitable in recent years that state officials are looking twice at the appropriations made for its operation. The City of Lansing also appropriates money to run the airport.

ERNEST CARTER, chairman of the Clinton County Board of Supervisors, said the state now favors Lansing taking over and operating the airport, in which case its 1,060 acres in sections 31 and 32 of DeWitt Township and further property in Watertown Township would likely be annexed to the city.

Carter, who is Watertown Township supervisor, and DeWitt Township Supervisor Reginald Nelson led the discussion that resulted in the passage of the resolution.

Carter said an annexation by Lansing would be a "threat to these two local units (DeWitt and Watertown Townships)" and then rephrased a quotation from the late Winston Churchill:

"I did not become supervisor of Watertown Township to preside over the liquidation of Watertown Township."

HE SUGGESTED the formation of an airport authority consisting of equal representation from Clinton, Ingham and Eaton counties and the City of Lansing.

Supervisor Nelson echoed Carter's thoughts and pointed out Capital City Airport's "tremendous potential." He said the state already owns and operates a piece of land 1 1/2 miles square and controls zoning on considerable more land than that by regulating the height of buildings near the airport.

Because the airport is almost certain to expand, it may eventually be sprawled out into three counties and already controls zoning in three counties. This is reason enough, he said, for a tri-county airport authority.

Wheat volume first indication

Looks like 'a very good year' for ag crops here

If the wheat harvest is any indication, it may be a bumper year for agricultural crops in Clinton County.

The last fields of wheat were being cut this week with what the Clinton County Cooperative Extension office called slightly above average yields—on the average. Farmers over the county are averaging 40 to 45 bushels per acre, with a range of 35 to 55 bushels per acre.

While it is a "fair" wheat crop, Extension Agent F. Earl Haas said it didn't appear to be as good as it looked like it would be earlier.

John Hall, secretary-treasurer and manager of St. Johns Co-Op, is extremely happy with the harvest, though. He re-

Full paving program planned

Water rate hike probable

The St. Johns City Commission's decision last Tuesday night to do any paving at all on city streets this summer means a water increase is all but assured for city water customers.

The commission has been aware that to do any paving at all would require additional general fund revenue, and the only foreseeable method would be to have the water fund repay part of the $127,000 which it owes to the general fund.

Before motions were made and passed on the street paving, the commissioners resigned themselves to the water rate increase, even though they haven't voted on it yet. The commission has been reluctant about increasing the rates because of the effect it would have on city residents living on a fixed income.

THEIR INFORMAL agreement to an increase was forced last week by the need to make a decision on the paving program. If the program is to be done, it must be contracted right away so there is enough good weather remaining this summer to get the work done.

The extent of a water rate increase hasn't yet been determined. City Manager Ken Greer was instructed to work out a plan which would bring in enough money to the water fund to allow it to repay a third of what it owes to the general fund.

A water rate increase on the upper end of the water use scale last month will result in an extra $19,000 or so from the four biggest users of water, but this isn't enough to allow repayment.

"IF THE WATER FUND problem is solved by increasing revenues some $62,000, at least one-third of the loan from the general fund could be repaid, and this would allow the general fund to carry on a paving program," Greer said.

The water fund is in bad financial shape right now, as Greer outlined to the commission. The new budget anticipates revenue for the year, including the new water rates for the heavy users of water and special assessments on the Slickies Street project, at about $247,550. Operation of the sewer and water plants, maintenance on the systems and repayment of the revenue bonds all add up to $259,979 and doesn't allow for any repayment of the $127,000 from the water fund to the general fund.

FLOWERS IN COUNTY 4-H

Pretty blonde-haired Kathy Randolph, 14, is typical of the clean-cut 4-H youth of Clinton County who will be displaying their projects and abilities at the 4-H Fair next week. Kathy, who has a flower-garden project for the fourth year of her five years in 4-H, kneels among some purple phlox in her garden. She is a member of the Stoney Creek 4-H Club, and her project leader is Mrs. Helen Cornell. Kathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Randolph of 4473 S. DeWitt Road.

Car on, off crossover struck

A car driven by Arthur James Cornell, 49, of 706 E. Higham Street, was struck from behind another car driven by Wesley Albert Allen, 31, of Lansing, Tuesday, Aug. 1.

The mishap occurred in Bingham Township on US-27 near the intersection with Taft Road. According to the Clinton County sheriff's report, Cornell had driven his vehicle off US-27 onto a median turn-around. Apparently Cornell did not drive far enough, and the rear-end of his car jutted out into the left lane.

MEANWHILE, Allen, driver of the second auto, was attempting to pass a third car when his was confronted with the Cornell auto partially in his path.

Unable to maneuver out of the situation and unable to stop, Allen struck the Cornell vehicle.

Farm rake in way, hit by passing car

A car driven by Bonnie Jo Henery, 21, of 434 E. Adeline, Maple Rapids, struck a farm rake attached to a tractor driven by Miron Edward Post, 67, of Maple Rapids Road, R-5, St. Johns Friday.

The mishap occurred in Greenbush Township on Maple Rapids Road near the DeWitt Road intersection.

Prime, double seal included

All St. Johns streets originally scheduled for paving this summer will be paved—some with a two-inch bituminous mat and the others with a prime and double seal.

There will be no special assessments involved in the paving program.

Directly related to the city commission's decision, however, will be almost surely a water rate increase for St. Johns water customers.

The water rate hike has been under discussion by the commission for several months, anyway, in an effort to get the water system on a paying basis. Currently the water fund owes the general fund about $127,000, and the theory behind a rate hike is that it would allow repayment of perhaps a third of the debt to the general fund.

THE PAVING PROGRAM this year is dependent upon the water fund being able to repay some of the debt. The commission, by deciding last week to go ahead with a paving program, all but committed themselves to raising water rates so the paying can be paid for, unless an alternate source of revenue can be obtained.

City Manager Ken Greer estimated that a full paving program using both bituminous mat and prime and double seal on about 32 blocks of city streets would cost about $40,000—only about $5,000 more than a purely bituminous mat program would cost if applied to 17 blocks which got curb and gutter three years ago.

All was not harmony in making the decision on which way to go on the knotty paving problem. When Mayor Charles Coletta called for a voice vote on a motion to do the whole paving program, only two commissioners responded, both with yes votes. The mayor then called for a poll of the commission. Commissioner Gerald Irer voted no, but the motion passed on the strength of yes votes from Commissioners Coletta, John Furry, Mrs. Robert Rand and a reluctant Rex Sirrine.

THE PAVING PROGRAM will start in about three weeks. City Manager Greer said. Some of the streets, because of particular drainage problems, heavier traffic, and condition of the base gravel, are scheduled to receive

Coffey named new zoning administrator

William Coffey, assistant zoning administrator since December 1965, was appointed Monday by the Clinton County Board of Supervisors as zoning administrator. He replaces Gerald Walter, who resigned last month. Coffey, 39, lives at 6386 Sleigh Road, Bath. He and his wife Pauline have three sons, Billy, 19; Bobby, 18; and Reed, 13.

His appointment as zoning administrator was retroactive to Aug. 1. Prior to joining the county zoning department as assistant to Walter in December 1965, Coffey worked in a supervisory capacity with the City of East Lansing. He has been a resident of Clinton County 14 years.

Coffey is a graduate of Haslett High School and attended Lansing Community College for two terms. He served in the 8th Air Force from 1945 to 1947. He is a member of the Bath Methodist Church and its Men's Club.

elevator here to about a 37 per cent increase in wheat acreage this year. Haas said there was a 30 per cent increase this year in wheat acreage allotments by the ASC.

Other crops in Clinton County are also looking good, Haas said the corn crop—where farmers were able to control weeds—is excellent. Soybeans look good, he said, as do field beans, although some were planted late. Some outstanding yields in oats are being reported around the county as the harvest of that crop begins.

Crops this year have had sufficient moisture throughout the growing season, compared to several dry spells during the earlier summer the past two years.

ports a 48 per cent increase already over receipts during the harvest last year, and there was 24 per cent more wheat at the Co-Op than there was all last year.

He said the Co-Op's wheat receipts represent about $331,000 for farmers in the central Clinton County area and the southern fringes of Gratiot. He pointed out this means a tremendous potential business for St. Johns merchants because of the normal interchange of a dollar seven times before it leaves the community.

"This can be a shot in the arm to the community if the money can stay here," he said.

Hall compared the 48 per cent increase in receipts at the

Sickles project costs disturb residents there

Residents along Sickles Street in the neighborhood of the new St. Johns High School weren't at all happy with what they heard last Tuesday night about what curbs and gutter, sanitary sewers and sidewalks are going to cost them.

The city commission set the following costs to residents:

- *For curb and gutter—$6.35 per lineal foot.
- *For sanitary sewer—about $27 per unit of benefit.
- *Five-sevenths of the cost for installing sidewalk.

THE CITY COMMISSION took action to set the costs near the end of their meeting last Tuesday night—an hour or so after a public hearing on the special assessments had been adjourned. On the curb and gutter project, the commission decided to absorb 20 per cent of the total cost and assess the other 80 per cent to property owners.

The curb-gutter portion of the contract with the Smith Engineers and Excavators Co. amounts to $26,421.82 for 3,314 lineal feet, working out to about $7.94 per lineal foot. Of that cost the property owners will pay $6.35.

The sanitary sewer will cost $18,905.40, and figures out to $409 per unit of benefit. Here again the city decided to absorb 20 per cent of the cost and assess the rest of it.

THE COST OF sidewalks—which will run down the south side of Sickles from Lansing to the east drive into the new high school—will be paid mostly by the property owners. The city's long-standing policy has been to charge the whole cost to property

Next Tuesday tax deadline

Next Tuesday is the deadline for paying city taxes in St. Johns unless you want to pay an extra amount in penalties and collection fee.

City Treasurer Eugene Simon reminds city property owners that Aug. 15 is the last date taxes will be collected without adding a 1 per cent per month penalty and a 3 per cent collection fee.

The taxes were due and payable July 1, but the city allows a six-week "grace period" before the additional fees are tacked on.

Several of the property owners were present at the hearing and objected to the high cost. One property owner asked why they had to pay any of the cost since they didn't petition for the curb and gutter or sanitary sewer.

Mayor Charles Coletta pointed out the city has the right to order the projects in when the commission deems the need sufficient. This is what happened in the Sickles Street case because of the presence of the new high school.

The St. Johns Public Schools has agreed to pay $33,041.39 out of the total Sickles Street contract of $67,489.85.

New compressor putting all CD sirens 'in order'

The St. Johns City Commission voted last week to purchase a 1 1/2 horse-power compressor from Saylor Beall Corp. to operate the civil defense siren on top of the courthouse. The commission accepted Saylor-Beall's bid of $442.

Commissioner John Furry, a member of the city civil defense committee, said all five city civil defense sirens are now operable—or will be when the courthouse siren is fixed. The other sirens are located at Helder Motor Sales, Federal Mogul, Sealed Power and Clinton Memorial Hospital.

HE SAID THE committee plans to set up a regular testing of the

Reed rules on 2 questions

City Atty. Harold Reed reported to the St. Johns City Commission last Tuesday on several legal questions turned over to him at the July 18 meeting.

He ruled that the city is within its legal authority to levy 2 mills for garbage service even though it does not provide this service for other than residential property.

The ruling was in answer to a question by businessman Robert Conn.

Reed also said the city could not enter into a contract with a private developer and later pay him back for paving, which the developer might pay for at the present time. That answer was to a question raised by James Prince of St. Johns Development Co.

CITY HALL REPORT

a two-inch bituminous mat-blacktop.

Tentatively those streets are: NORTH SWEGLES between Steel and Gibbs streets; LINCOLN between Mead and Swegles; SOUTH TRAVER on unpaved portion between Baldwin and Kibbee; EAST STURGIS from US-27 east to the end of the sanitary sewer; SOUTH LANSING from Sturgis south to the end of the curb; OAK Street from Swegles to the end of the curb; SOUTH SWEGLES from Lambert south to the end of the curb; and CLINTON Avenue from the end of the present pavement south to the end of the curb.

Streets that are likely to receive a prime and double seal paving are these: OTTAWA between Gibbs and Floral; OAKLAND between Lincoln and Gibbs; MEAD between Lincoln and Gibbs; TRAVER between Railroad and Highway; BEE between Traver and Sturgis; BAKER between Meadowview and Sturgis; CIRCLE DRIVE between Buchanan and Clark; LINCOLNSHIRE between Lambert and Oak; HAMPSHIRE between Lambert and Oak; ELM between Clinton and Wight; BALDWIN from Morton west one block; and McCONNELL from Morton west to Sawmill Alley.

"Prime and double seal streets, of course, are not the best solution," City Manager Ken Greer admitted, "but they do provide an alternate that has proven to be fairly satisfactory throughout our part of Michigan.

"They are actually easier to repair than streets with bituminous mats. Their principal fault is that they are not nearly as smooth as bituminous mats, but on most residential streets the slower-moving traffic doesn't require this perfection, and the problem won't be as acute as it would be on major streets."

GREER SUGGESTED the possibility of combining the prime and double seal with the bituminous mat in order to provide paving for all the streets due to receive it.

MRS. JOHN RUMBAUGH was appointed to the city beautification commission.

The city commission voted to instruct City Atty. Harold Reed to begin work on a codification of all city ordinances.

The commission also decided to ask Consumers' Power Co. to make a study and recommendations regarding street lighting on West Park Street in the vicinity of the city park.

City asks cooperation

Cooperation of residents along the streets that will be paved in the coming weeks in St. Johns is being asked by city officials.

City Manager Ken Greer said it will be impossible to tell just when the paving contractors will be on any given street. He asked residents to watch for the coming of the street workers and to be patient with inconveniences that will be necessary.

"There will be a period on the prime and double seal work when it will be advisable to stay off the street surface overnight," Greer said.

ON THE PRIME and double seal streets, the crews will put down a light coat of tar covered with small peastones. Sawhorses will be used to temporarily block off streets, and residents along that block are asked to park their cars elsewhere while the street is blocked.

Should persons drive on the streets before the work is completed, tar is likely to be splashed on the autos, and the peastones will be shifted out of the smooth layer desirable.

Similar periods of inconvenience may exist on those streets getting a two-inch bituminous mat.

City police will refrain from ticketing cars parked overnight on other streets in the areas of the paving work.

Water warmed about 6 degrees during treatment

St. Johns' city water temperatures warm up about six degrees in the process of going through the treatment plant.

City Manager Ken Greer said summer temperatures of the water leaving the treatment plant range from 61 to 63 degrees, compared to the range of 54 to 56 degrees in temperature of the water as it comes out of ground at the wells.

During the winter months the temperature at the wells will range from 50 to 53 degrees, and after treatment the temperature is raised to between 56 and 59 degrees.

Part of the warming comes through exposure of the water to the sun in the open clarifier outside the water plant and to temporary storage in the ground and elevated tanks.

Keys, keyring, bicycle stolen

A key, a key ring and a bicycle were among the items reported stolen in St. Johns during the past week.

Roger Hammontree, of Glaspele Drugs said a key ring was taken from a truck in a garage attached to the store at 221 N. Clinton Avenue. He reported the theft to police Friday.

One of three young men who were in the store late Friday was believed to have taken a key from the front door of the Shapiro Automotive Parts store at 113 W. Higham Street.

Joe Leonard of 508 W. Baldwin Street reported to police the theft of his bicycle from the swimming pool area at the city park.

Those blind to their faults will soon be put on the spot.

Supervisors hear DeWitt annexation bid

Reginald Nelson was considerably irked Monday over the reported attempts of Lansing to assume control of Capital City Airport and to annex its 1,060 acres in DeWitt Township to the City of Lansing.

It was the second time during Monday's Clinton County Board of Supervisors meeting that there was talk of detaching parts of DeWitt Township and tacking it onto cities.

The first was the presentation to the board of a petition seeking annexation of considerable township acreage south and west of the City of DeWitt to that city. County Clerk Paul Wakefield, who received the petition last Tuesday from DeWitt city, read it to the board Monday.

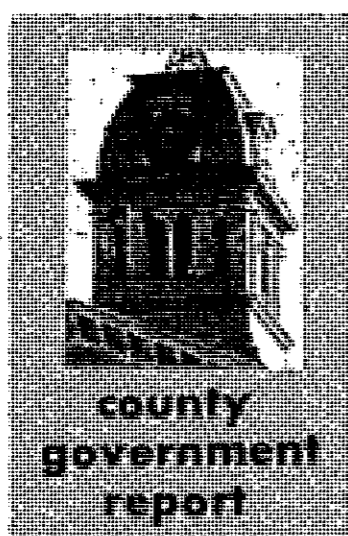

NO ACTION was taken. State law requires the petition to be in the hands of the clerk for 30 days before it is turned over to the board of supervisors for action one way or another; it would be up to the board to set an election on the issue.

Clerk Wakefield now faces the task of verifying the names and addresses of 111 persons, from the township and 130 persons from the city who signed the petitions before the county board's next meeting Sept. 11. The board volunteered the assistance of its legislative and reapportionment committees to help Wakefield if needed.

In other miscellaneous business Monday:

* Mrs. Elizabeth Hess of Elsie was reappointed to another five-year term on the Clinton County Library Board.

* Bath Township Supervisor Gerald Shepard, chairman of the health, education and welfare committee, reported briefly on a meeting with Shlawassee officials concerning a proposed two-county mental health clinic. He reported Shlawassee ready to dissolve their own board in favor of a joint board and operation with Clinton.

* THE BOARD authorized paying a "budgeted billing" of $18,000 to the Tri-County Regional Planning Commission. The county recently paid $6,000 of the amount Tri-County asked. The motion authorized payment of the balance when and in amounts which the county may be able to afford.

* The board scrutinized proposed budget of $7,500 for the county civil defense office in 1968, but in view of the county's pinching financial condition they decided to leave it at no higher than $6,000, which was the amount in the county's tentative budget accepted in April. Charles Coletta, chairman of the appropriations committee, said he didn't believe the $6,000 could seriously impact the civil defense department's vital functions to the county.

* In a related civil defense item, supervisors were urged to attend an adult education meeting on civil defense for government officials, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 29 at the courthouse. Mayors or their representatives from cities and villages in the county are also in-

CARS AWAITING CARS ON ST. JOHNS SIDING

Railroad freight cars used to transport automobiles are piling up along the Grand Trunk Railroad line through Clinton County during the change-over to full manufacturing. As of Friday there were 51 such cars on sidings in St. Johns, and Fowler reportedly had about 23 there. The cars carry 15 automobiles each on three different levels. They'll be on sidings here for possibly another month or more.

Hire road commission engineer

The Clinton County Road Commission has hired a new engineer to replace Les Drago who resigned this spring.

He is Donald C. Haske, 36, who for the last three years has been chief highway engineer with the Bay County Road Commission.

Haske was selected by the commission last Thursday from among five candidates whom the Clinton commission had interviewed. Haske informed commission Clerk Don Ewing Monday of his final decision to accept the job.

Haske will start his duties here Monday. He has an engineering degree from Michigan State University and is a registered professional engineer. Besides the Bay County road job, he has worked for the Hunter Engineering Co. of Midland, for the State Highway Department five years, and for the Bay City Department of Public Works.

He and his wife and five children will move to St. Johns as soon as arrangements can be made.

Ann Drive residents lose bid to overturn zoning amendment

Repeated efforts by residents on Ann Drive in Bath Township to earn the right to sell their trailer coaches and property to someone else who can continue to live there ran into another snag with the board of supervisors Monday.

The board's zoning committee upheld an ordinance amendment made in January which prevents the continued use of a trailer by a new owner unless he or she gets a special permit that carries rigid requirements.

The Ann Drive residents said last month the ordinance is in violation of their property rights. Most of the residents on that road south of Bath own trailer coaches.

LAST MONTH the zoning committee recommended to the board that no change in the ordinance be made but the action was referred back to the committee with a request to confer with the zoning commission and the prosecuting attorney.

Monday Zoning Committee Chairman Walter Nobis read the following recommendation, which he said, was "meant strictly as a suggested guideline for application of the amendment."

"That the new amendment regarding trailer coaches to the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance shall provide that all future permits shall be allowed only on the basis of extreme hardship for temporary prescribed periods. Such permits to allow the non-conforming unit shall be subject to review of the Clinton County Zoning Appeal Board as prescribed in the amendment.

"PRESENTLY OCCUPIED trailer coach owners will be allowed to remain in that coach for the period of their ownership and occupancy of that coach on the present location without requiring a new permit or signature consent.

"Should an existing trailer coach become transferred to a new occupant or moved to a different location, or substituted by another trailer, occupancy by such new owner or on such other location, or in the different trailer shall require a permit on the basis of the Clinton County Zoning Ordinance as prescribed here and in the amendment."

Nobis told the supervisors and Paying as they go would cut the speed some people are accustomed to traveling.

Through the ages prejudice has always been the biggest stumbling block to success.

Rural teaching vacancies still face St. Johns schools

The St. Johns Public Schools still has vacancies for seven rural teaching stations for the coming year, Walter Nickel, administrative aide in charge of rural schools, announced this week.

Seven other previously vacant positions have been filled. Still needed are teachers for:

Third, fourth and fifth grade room at Olive Center School; sixth, seventh and eighth grade room at Frink School; third through eighth grade at County Farm School; second through eighth grade at French School; kindergarten through sixth grade at Greenwood School; sixth, seventh and eighth grade room at East Essex; and sixth, seventh and eighth grade room at Eureka School.

NEW TEACHERS in the rural schools will include:

Mrs. Anita Hamaker at Merle Beach; Mrs. Marlene Hopko at Richmond; Mrs. Joanne Seavey at Sage; Mrs. John Walters at Cramer; Mrs. Mabel Linton at Kincaid; Mrs. Patricia Kuenzli at Harper; and Mrs. Grace Ormston for kindergarten and first grade at Eureka School.

Nickel also announced that parents of youngsters in the rural schools can pick up their children's books at the high school bookstore the week of Aug. 28. The store will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. each day that week and also from 6 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 1.

Books must be purchased at the bookstore, Nickel said, because the rural teachers will not have them for sale in the individual rural schools.

Nickel encouraged new residents to the district in the rural areas to register their children at Sage, Rowell will house kindergarten and first grade, and second and third graders will attend Richmond School.

In another such consolidation, kindergarten, first and second graders in the former Bengal Center, Harper and Frink districts will attend school at Harper School. Bengal Center will have third, fourth and fifth grades, and grades 6, 7 and 8 will attend Frink.

CRAMER, PRICE and Krepps schools will join forces. At Cramer, kindergarten, first and second grades will meet; third fourth and fifth grades will be at Krepps; and sixth, seventh and eighth grades will be at Price School.

Stoney Creek, Chapman, Merle Beach and Lamb schools are involved in a fourth regional consolidation. Stoney Creek will have grades 4 and 5, Chapman grades 2 and 3, Merle Beach grades 6, 7 and 8, and Lamb kindergarten and first grade.

South Riley kindergarten students will attend classes at Lamb School. Seventh and eighth grade students from Cedar Lake, Kincaid and Greenwood Schools will attend junior high classes in St. Johns because of overcrowding in those rural schools.

Bus Routes

Bus routes for the St. Johns Public School District will be published either Aug. 23 or Aug. 30 in the Clinton County News. All rural students will be transported by bus except those living reasonably close to the school they attend.

as soon as possible at his office over Walker's Cafe in downtown St. Johns. Persons who have moved from one part of the district to another are asked to call and let the school know of the change, so that attendance planning at the various schools can be carried out.

CONSOLIDATIONS of classes in several former rural districts will be carried out this fall, Nickel said, so that the schools will house only students in a certain age group rather than those from kindergarten through eighth grade.

One combination is the Parker, Sage, Rowell and Richmond schools northeast of St. Johns. Children in grades 6, 7 and 8 will attend classes at Parker, fourth and fifth graders will be

City teaching positions filled

All St. Johns School District high school and city elementary and junior high teaching positions have been filled for the coming year.

Still needed, however, are a speech therapist and a school social worker for the district.

New teachers at the high school will be: Theodore Slicer, social science; Robert Holzkel, Noel Heinze and Rodney Begeman, English; Miss Vicki McGowan, business; and Miss Maureen Knudsvig, librarian.

Other new teachers in the city schools include: Miss Janet Findlay, fifth grade at Swegles; Mrs. Barbara Davis and Mrs. John Gaffney, public school second grade at St. Joseph School; Miss Rhoda Noffze, first grade at Perrin-Palmer; Roger DePaape, junior high physical education; and Miss Barbara Bair junior high English.

New elementary or junior high students in the City of St. Johns should register at Central School during the week of Aug. 28, school officials announced this week.

School board acts on 2 sewage problems

The St. Johns School Board is hopeful it has made the right approach to two sewerage problems at the new East Olive and Riley neighborhood elementary schools.

In a special meeting last Wednesday night, they gave preliminary approval to a lagoon-type sewage system at the East Olive School. Final approval may come after the cost of the system is determined.

A percolation test at the East Olive site was not favorable for a normal septic field sewage system, although perc tests prior to the purchase of the site on Green Road proved satisfactory.

At the Riley School, the board approved installation of cross trenches in the drain field to help take care of the sewage. There will be some extra cost involved, but it shouldn't be great, school officials said.

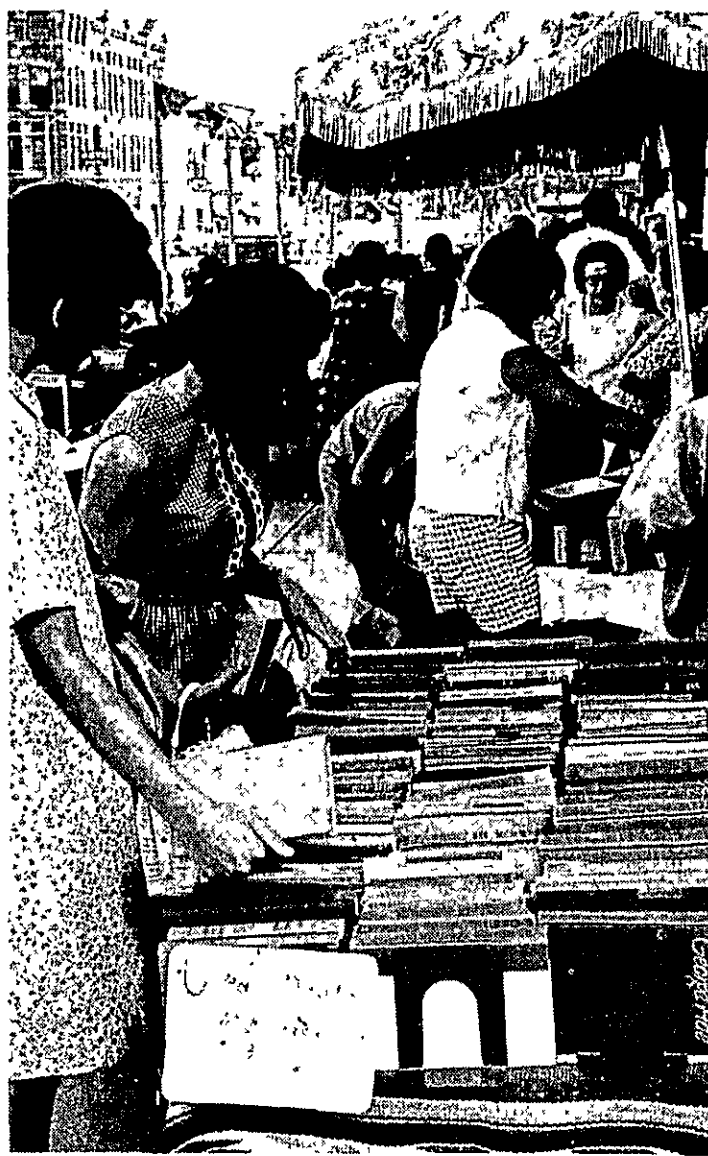

In other business, the board approved borrowing about $32,000 to pay for four new school buses, three of which have been delivered.

No new negotiation meetings between the board and representatives of the St. Johns Education Assn. had been scheduled as of Tuesday. Negotiations are reportedly still at a standstill.

Dirty snow ball

Comets are "gigantic dirty snow balls," says a Georgia Tech scientist studying their basic chemistry. Although comets are mysterious in many ways, he thinks that they are composed of frozen ice's of reactive gases such as ammonia, nitric oxide, acetylene and ethylene, combined with some meteoric dust.

Shirk your responsibilities and you'll never go very far.

The Bement Public Library went onto the sidewalk downtown last Thursday and sold 225 old and tattered books during Sidewalk Days. The books sold for 10 cents each or three for 25 cents. Ninety-six books that were left are on sale at the library. Proceeds from the sale of the old books will be used to buy replacements for the more well-used books in the library now.

notes from the bookshelf

By HILA BROSS
Librarian
Bement Public Library

Bement Public Library joined the grass world of commercialism last Thursday with a USED BOOK BOOTH as part of the city's annual Sidewalk Days. Clinton National Band generously furnished a prime location on Clinton Avenue, just south of their main entrance.

The sale was manned (or maybe by the word is "girded") by the following junior high girls: Mary Beth Rehmann, Marle Geller, Linda Stevens, Lee Morriss, Barbara Idzkowski, Chris Beechler, Anne Fox, Cheryl Amstrutz, Karen Kramer, and Renee Thelen. Margaret Kuntz, Mary Jo Durner, Mary La Brie, and Kathy French had agreed to work Friday, but by Thursday night it appeared that there weren't enough books left to make it worth the trouble of setting up the booth again on Friday.

The board and staff of Bement Public Library wishes to thank the girls, both those who did work and those who didn't get the chance. A public library really belongs to all the people of a given community, and projects such as this makes one realize just how loyal many people do feel to their libraries.

THE BOOKS CONTINUE to be on sale in the main room of the Library, and at closing time Friday 235 had been sold, netting the library $19.05. Proceeds from the sale will go toward replacing some of the old standards which had to be discarded, such as Hemingway's FOR WHOM THE BELL TOLLS and Steinbeck's CANNERY ROW. The copy of Steinbeck's RED PONY which went into the sale books was such a lovely one that the librarian made an attempt to get it rebound, but unfortunately it was outside and the cost of rebinding it is more than a new regulation size copy will cost.

The new rules about fines etc. were given in a news story in last week's paper, but is won't hurt to repeat them here.

OVERDUE NOTICES will be sent out when books are two weeks overdue. A second notice will be sent about two weeks later. Soon after that a statement will be sent to the borrower for 90 per cent of the replacement price of the book.

If the book is returned after that, the borrower will not be liable for the cost of the book, but will still be liable for the overdue fines. Fines are 2 cents per day. There is a maximum fine, however, of $1.50 for each book.

Bement Public Library welcomes with pleasure two new members to its board. Recently appointed to the library board by the St. Johns Commission were Mrs. Roger Feeman and Anthony Kuntz. Both citizens will serve, along with the other three board members, without remuneration. The other members are Mrs. Ladd Barthomew, Mrs. R. L. Wohlers, and Mrs. Fraser Mac Kinnon.

MISS RETA PLATNER

2 US-27, M-21 crashes Friday

St. Johns police investigated a pair of accidents Friday evening at US-27 and M-21 in the city. No injuries resulted from either crash.

At 6 p.m. autos driven by Robert L. Hilliker, 36, of 501 1/2 N. Clinton Avenue, and Jean A. Hauser of Church Road, R-4, St. Johns, collided at the intersection. Mrs. Hauser was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way after she reportedly made a left turn in front of the Hilliker car which was going south on US-27.

At 7:30 p.m. an auto driven by Claudia J. McLoughlin, 18, of Ithaca, pulled out of the ice cream drive-in driveway at the corner and into the path of a northbound car driven by Frank Truchan Jr., 33, of Cleveland, Ohio. Miss McLoughlin was also ticketed for failing to yield the right-of-way. There were four passengers in the McLoughlin auto and two in the Truchan car.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Platner of Elsie announce the engagement of their daughter, Reta, to Robert W. Gillson Jr. He is the son of Robert O. Gillson Sr. of St. Johns and the late Mrs. Gillson.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Elsie High School and will be a March graduate of Lansing Business University. Her fiancé is a graduate of Rodney B. Wilson High School and is presently a member of the US Air Force. He will serve in Viet Nam for one year.

No wedding date has been set by the couple.

For Frank and Ila Rickerd

Retirement opened up world of rocks

By STANLEY WEBER
CCN Staff Writer

Man, in his frenzied world, trying to top the next guy by buying bigger, better and more expensive and beautiful things, has lost contact with his biggest, yet most common and inexpensive possessions—nature's creations which so bountifully surround him.

Sadly, this describes too many people—but not Frank and Ila Rickerd.

Mr and Mrs Rickerd's lives have been rejuvenated (though both are past retirement age) by new things they are seeing, doing and experiencing.

Age to them is no barrier to fulfillment, and that is as it should be.

MR AND MRS RICKERD have become nature's children, and once again, as never before, vistas of beauty and happiness, which nature affords to anyone willing to seek them, have been opened to the "young" couple.

The two maintain their home off US-27 north of Alward Road. It is set amid an expansive lawn, and beyond that is their own private woods.

Daily from their homes-in-the-trees come the Rickerd's animal friends—squirrels and birds of many varieties and colorful plumage—to eat at feeding stations specially designed and built by Rickerd.

Being a good amateur photographer, Rickerd has many times captured on film the antics of his two and four-legged boarders as they flit and scamper about the grassy stage that stretches out beyond the huge picture windows in the Rickerd home.

IN SUCH AN IDYLIC LOCATION, one would expect to be content to spend the rest of his days untroubled, untrifled and unseen by the outside world. Not the Rickerds.

Their lives, so full of action, cannot be restricted to one place.

They must go out and share their enthusiasm for life with other people.

To accomplish this, the Rickerds own a small camper which can be readily attached to the hitch on the back of their station wagon.

Incidentally, when they purchased their home-on-wheels, to replace another they lost in the 1965 Palm Sunday tornado, Rickerd was not satisfied with the interior arrangement.

A man's man, and no less a carpenter, Rickerd reconstructed the interior so all available space could be employed. He modified the cabinets, making them safer and more convenient.

THE TRAILER, besides serving as home-away-from-home, is also used to store rocks—yes, rocks. For in addition to their other pastimes, the Rickerds are avid rock collectors, or in the jargon of their fellow collectors, rock "hounds."

A trip away from home for the Rickerds invariably means they are intent upon securing more rock specimens to add to their already large collection.

With hammers, shovels, rakes and hand picks and scoops, along with the necessities-of-life loaded aboard their camper and station wagon, the two rock hounds for the past five summers have "sniffed" out a likely spot—an open mine or quarry, a rock dump or just plain rocky terrain—and settled for a few weeks.

THERE, INSTEAD of acting as usual vacationers and lolling about, they daily spend the hours whittling huge boulders into small stones, always watching for the most unique and beautiful rocks or fossil formations.

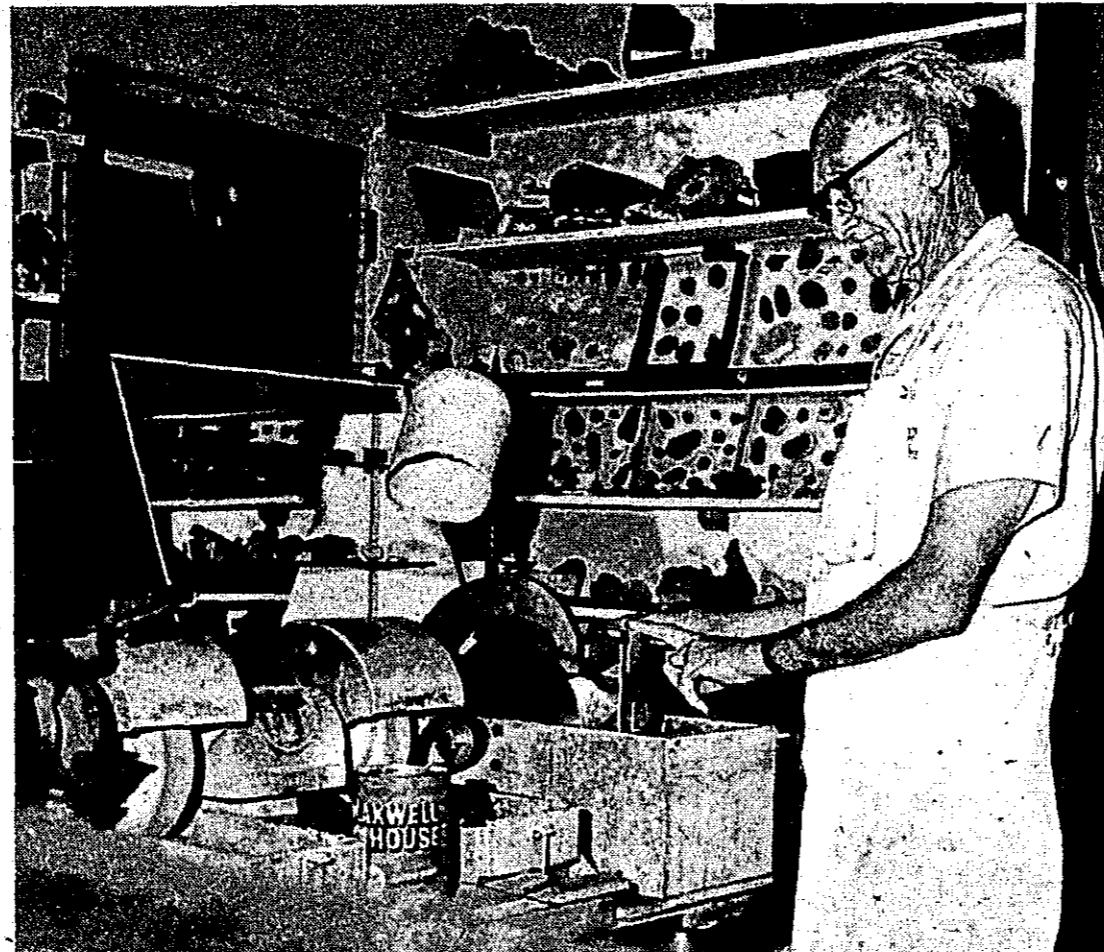

Sound like a tedious, not-too-much-fun way to spend a vacation? Not for the Rickerds. There's a, at the least, a different way of achieving it, but in rock collecting they find self-satisfaction.

Actually, "we have been interested in rocks and geology for a long time," Mrs Rickerd said, her husband voicing agreement. It was not until 1959, though, when Rickerd retired from Auto-Air Industries in Lansing, that he and his wife took the plunge and began to devote much of their time to acquiring and learning about earth's most common commodity.

"I THINK EVERYBODY, when they retire, should have a hobby. It (rock collecting) keeps us out-of-doors, keeps us young, keeps us busy, and we meet very nice people," Rickerd stated. As their interest and knowledge in their newlyfound avocation began to build, so did the Rickerd's rock collection.

"When I first started," Rickerd noted, "I had a few rocks, mainly Petoskey stones," which incidentally is now designated as the official stone of the State of Michigan.

In 1960, after reading about it in a paper, the Rickerds joined the Central Michigan Lapidary

Before he can begin shaping a stone on his grinding wheel, Frank Rickerd must first slab the rock by cutting it through with his diamond-tipped circular saw. Having done this, he has a smooth, flat surface with which to work.

(expert and collector of precious stones) and Mineral Society of Lansing, which today has a membership of over 200 people.

As members of the club, the Rickerds were able to forge new friendships with fellow rock hounds, and much more.

With their induction into the society, the two junior members were given new opportunities and eligibilities—they were entitled to join field trips, to attend lapidary and mineral conventions, to trade with fellow members, etc.—all of which further entrenched the Rickerds more firmly in their appreciation and knowledge of rocks.

The year 1960 was a memorable year for the Rickerds in other ways.

They were visitors to the mid-West Federation Convention—a rock collectors' gathering, in Ishpeming.

THAT APRIL, they and fellow collectors went to Ohio to hunt for rock specimens. The "worked" in mines and on rock heaps in Maumee, Woodville, Clay City and Silica.

In the latter city, the Rickerds were introduced to the Medusa Cement Quarry, a haven for rock hounds. Intending to stay one day, the Rickerds began to hunt among the rock dumps for fossils—mainly trilobites.

That first day proved so rewarding that the two deferred leaving to spend another day searching for the little fossils. And so it went until a week had passed and the Rickerds had gotten their "quota" of trilobite fossils.

Getting the scarce, now extinct creatures, was only half of the battle. They also had to be cleaned.

THE TRILOBITE, a two-inch-long animal that swarmed over the earth approximately 325 million years ago, had armor much like the present-day armadillo. As it fossilized, every feature of the trilobite became permanently imprinted in the rock surrounding it.

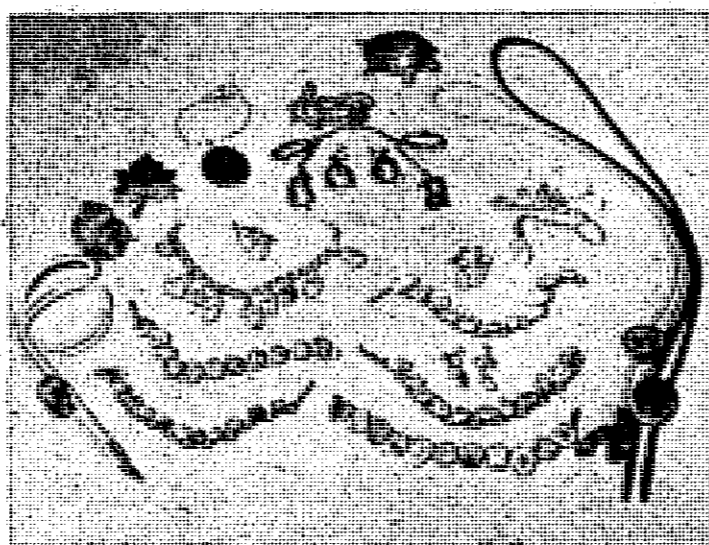

As time marched on, the corrugations in the armor became encrusted with other minerals. To clean this debris out and restore the once-animal to its original appearance, "Just like somebody would take knitting in their hand, I took these (trilobites) in my hands and cleaned them out," Mrs Rickerd said.

The tools she used to perform the time-consuming cleaning process were small knives fashioned by her husband. Sometimes, even these were too big, and then Mrs Rickerd had to resort to a hat pin to complete the task.

ON ANOTHER JOURNEY south to Florida—the Rickerds acquired many pieces of coral and a few shells to add to those they had obtained in 1965 from the waters of Tampa Bay, Fla.

Instead of selecting the empty, bleached shells that had washed onto the shore, the "beachcombers" got their specimens from beneath the water, alive and in glowing colors.

To prepare them for display, the Rickerds deposited the shells in hot boiling water to kill the occupants. Then after removing them the shells were attached to netting in the Rickerd home. Today, one complete wall is adorned with curving, multi-hued shells.

Stones, after they have been tumbled or cut, ground and polished into cabochons, make fine jewelry. Mrs Rickerd made most of these pieces. The turtle-shaped Petoskey stone on top, the state of Michigan-shaped Petoskey stone on the left and the cabochons on the bola ties and the leaf on the left were made by Rickerd. The rest of the jewelry, mostly bracelets and earrings are constructed with tumble stones.

WHILE IN TAMPA BAY, the Rickerds also dredged up from the ocean floor a plankton and barnacle-encrusted statue. They think it to be an ornament from a sunken ship.

The statue, according to markings on the back, was made in Paris, France. It is of a sailor, with a shovel over one shoulder, a net on his back, a rope draped around his neck and a sieve-like object at his feet—likely apparel for a clamdigger.

Mr and Mrs Rickerd since 1960, have done other extensive traveling. They have visited Bancroft, Canada; Indiana, Illinois, New York and Minnesota.

In the latter state, near the city of Grand Marais, the Rickerds obtained a very unusual variety of stone—Thompsonites—which were produced from lava flows.

EONS AGO, WHEN the lava was still hot, gases escaped from beneath the earth and formed bubbles on the flow's surface. As the lava cooled, the bubbles remained and hardened.

Later, water from the surface as well as underground sources seeped into the bubbles bringing with it different minerals. The minerals remained inside, building layer upon colorful layer, until the bubbles were completely filled, producing the end result—Thompsonites.

Rickerd has in his home a Thompsonite that he sawed in half. Upon opening it, one can see pictured on either surface a gloriously colored fighting cock.

Of course, Mr and Mrs Rickerd have done much rock hounding in their own native Michigan, a rock collector's paradise known for its huge known deposits of rich and varied rocks and minerals.

THE OLDEST ROCK formations known to man, pre-Cambrian lava basalt, estimated to be 500 million years old, can be found in the U. P. between Eagle Harbor and Copper Harbor.

Michigan is also the only source of Petoskey stones, which derived its name from that Michigan city. The stone is also known as a hexagon arla because of the hexagonal configurations in the stone, and are estimated to be about 350 million years old.

In truth, each hexagon represents the shape of a fossil animal. These creatures long ago burrowed into a soft substance, and there they died. Through the ages and through the interaction of the elements, these animals and the burrows became fossilized, leaving an ineradicable record for future generations to see.

THE RICKERDS have countless numbers of Petoskey stones as well as other fossils from such places as Hibbing, Minn., where one may obtain a specimen with the unlikely name of Inceramus fragilis.

Just two weeks ago, an area man, who had heard of their rock collection, sent to the Rickerds a fossil fish from Wyoming. Etched on the matrix on which it is located is every minute detail of the exterior anatomy of the fish.

Not only a valuable source of fossils, Michigan, especially the Keweenaw Peninsula, also abounds in various forms of copper.

The Rickerds aware of this, have obtained many fine pieces, some of which they have hanging on their walls. They also own specimens of the very rare dendritic copper, or copper which formed in a tree or leaf-like configuration.

THE U.P. FOR that matter, most of Michigan—is rich in quartz deposits. Selemite crystals, a common variety of quartz, are easily acquired at Crystal Falls and in the gypsum mines in Grand Rapids.

Conspicuously barren of rock and mineral collector's items is mid-Michigan. The best sites in the area for hounders is near the city of Bellevue and Ingravel

In addition to collecting rocks, the Rickerds also have an entire wall covered with multi-hued shells. The shells are affixed to a net backdrop which hangs from the ceiling.

Rocks, as they are found in their natural state and because of the extraneous substances that cover them, lack the color and character of a polished specimen.

Because of this, and because there are no perfectly formed stones naturally (the smoothest and roundest are those that have been shaped by wave or glacial action), Mr and Mrs Rickerd are obliged to have their specimens undergo a long, slow process to awaken the beauty that is in them.

BEFORE THEY proceed with this step, however, the Rickerds go through two selection processes—one in the field and again at home—to pick the best specimens to add to their collection.

"We are very particular what we bring home," Rickerd said, and well they might be. Once, their trailer was so weighted down with rocks after a trip, that after unloading it, the camper rose three inches from its riding height.

After they have chosen the rocks they wish to keep, the Rickerds name them, and then graze them according to type and hardness.

Mineral hardness is measured on a 10-point scale. Diamond, the hardest of all substances, is ten; then corundum, nine; then quartz, seven; down to talc with a hardness of one.

Those specimens that have not passed inspection are given by the Rickerds to their mineral society, which in turn presents them to children who are interested in becoming rock hounds.

NOW BEGINS THE beautification. Involved are two processes—tumbling and grinding.

In tumbling, like specimens are put into a drum which revolves slowly when placed on two rotating metal rods. The tumbler is filled from one-half to two-thirds its capacity. A corundum grit, the smoothing agent, is then added.

Usually, Rickerd uses a very coarse grit—36 or 80 grain—at first, depending on the type of specimen in the tumbler.

After two or three weeks of revolving motion, the larger grit is removed from the tumbler and a smoother grit applied.

This process continues for weeks for one load of stones, going from a fine, to a finer, to the finest grit—a 600 grain.

WHEN THE ROCKS have been tumbled to a superb smoothness, they are removed from the tumbler and thoroughly cleaned to remove all gritty matter.

Then the stones are replaced in the drum and the polish is added (tin oxide for agates and quartz and titanium oxide for glass and Apache tear drops).

After the polishing is completed, the finished stones, alive with many brilliant colors, are removed to be used in jewelry or to be kept free.

Unlike the tumbler, the grinder is used not only to smooth and polish a rock, but also to form it.

FIRST OF ALL, the specimen to undergo this process is slabbbed—that is, it is cut into rectangular chunks by a diamond-tipped circular saw.

The saw, unique because it is built by constructing it diamond by diamond, is unique in another way, as Rickerd demonstrated.

No rock or mineral, except another diamond, can withstand the cutting propensity of a diamond saw. Yet, when Rickerd put his finger to the cutting edge, not even a scratch appeared on the surface of his skin.

After the stone has been slabbbed, the desired template is placed over the specimen and the outline marked on it.

NEXT, DOPPING WAX is applied to the rock and a nail or dop stick put into the wax. This serves as a handle with which the operator can manipulate the stone as it is being sanded.

As with the tumbler, the specimen is smoothed by employing all types of grit, from the coarsest to the finest.

A look at city Golden Gloves boxers

St. Johns boxers now preparing for the Golden Gloves exhibition Aug. 26 at the high school gym have various levels of experience. Here are six of the 15 or so who are likely to be fighting Aug. 26.

DICK PADGETT: Padgett, 19, weighs in at 185 pounds and will fight as a novice heavyweight. In the Golden Gloves tournament this past year he defeated George Redden of Lansing and Chris Daniels of Howell before losing a split decision to Doug Higgs from Mason in a crowd-disputed bout.

PAT HARPER: Harper lost his first bout in the Golden Gloves tourney this year and has an 0-1 record. He is 17 years old and weighs 147 pounds. He'll fight as a sub-novice welterweight.

PEDRO RIOJAS: Riojas, 23, will be fighting as an open middleweight at 162 pounds. He fought for the St. Johns Golden Gloves team five years ago when he won five straight bouts to win the featherweight crown in the district tournament. He lost in the semi-finals of the state tourney at Grand Rapids. Riojas has just completed four years in the Air Force where he did some boxing. He has a 6-1 record in the AAU. Service bouts are not recorded with the AAU.

ROGER DURBIN: Durbin, 19, lost in the 1966 district finals to Cleo Franco from Lansing, who went on to win the state championship that year. Durbin did not enter this past year's tournament. He has a 0-2 record. At 19, Durbin weighs 112 pounds and will fight in the open flyweight division.

MARK MASARIK: Masarik, 17, weighs 126 pounds and will be a novice featherweight boxer when he gets the chance in the ring Aug. 26. This is his second year of boxing, and he holds the 1967 district novice featherweight title. He was the state runner-up this year in Grand Rapids. He has a 4-2 record.

GARY EVERY: Every beat Richard Elsworth of Fowlerville before losing to district champ Tom Betz of Dimondale in the district Golden Gloves tournament. Since then he has picked up a win over Chuck Schrauben, the district featherweight champ from Portland. He now holds a 3-1 record. Every is 17, and at 135 pounds will fight in the sub-novice lightweight division.

City recreation notes

SWEGLES—(Linda Phinney and Cheryl Weber) — Rummy, "31" and tether ball make up the games played by the older kids at Swegles this past week. The younger ones played the usual games of checkers and chutes and ladders.

EAST WARD—(Ginny Bertram and Sue Durner) — The children over at East Ward playground have been busy this past week acting. The kids are having fun acting out different stories such as Little Red Riding Hood and other favorites. They've continued also in their usual games of kick ball, educational games, etc.

CITY PARK—(Jane Springer) — Basketball was one of the activities that the children pursued last Monday and Wednesday. The boys played against the girls, the boys coming out victorious Monday and the girls coming out victorious Wednesday. Thursday Jane Jorae modeled her new baton uniform and de-

Fowler hires assistant coach

FOWLER—A new junior varsity football and basketball coach has been hired by the Fowler Public Schools. He's Gary Schray, 25, who comes from Fremont where he taught and coached for three years. Schray will teach history at Fowler High in addition to his coaching duties. He is a graduate of Lansing Everett High School and Western Michigan University. He, his wife, and 17-month-old son will be moving to Fowler soon.

The one thing most needed today is faith in the future.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held their regular meeting last week Thursday. The board has held several special meetings mostly for the purpose of interviewing applicants for the engineer's position. The board had two interviews at the regular meeting, one for an engineer and one for the clerk's position. The selection of the engineer manager is expected to be announced this week.
At the regular meeting bids were opened for the processing of 40,000 yards of gravel at three locations. Spartan Aggregates Co was the low bidder and was awarded the contract.
The board discussed an exchange of property with Dewitt Township.
The Maple Rapids Road Bridge was completed last week and the road was re-opened.
Seal-coating and the dust control program are continuing; both are expected to be completed next week.
Our oldest hourly rate employee in point of service has retired. Howard Demis came here April 1, 1935, and left Aug. 1. Another veteran employee, Eunice Rice, announced retirement on Sept. 1. Eunice has been a faithful county employee for many years and as far as our office is concerned is just about the most important cog in the machine.

Corn blocks view, accident results

A pickup truck-car collision occurred Friday at the intersection of Upton and Gratiot County Line roads in Duplain Township.
According to the Clinton County Sheriff's report, a car driven by Mary E. Farr, 16, of 8348 Maple Rapids Road, Elsie, struck broadside a pickup driven by Beverly Brown, 21, of Gratiot Road, Elsie.
Both drivers further said tall corn in a field at the intersection prevented them from seeing one another in time to avoid an accident.
It's a waste of time to think unless you are ready to act.

Retirement opens up rock world

est to the smoothest, depending upon the type of stone.

After the smoothing has been completed, the subject is placed on a rag wheel and the polisher, usually tin oxide, is added.

Cabochons, a rounded stone used in jewelry, are made by the grinding process. These and tumbler stones and uncut, unpolished rocks are used by the Rickards to trade with.

It is by trading that Mr and Mrs Rickard have attained some of their most precious specimens.

FROM A ROCK HOUND in New Mexico they obtained fire opals (as you move these stones about in your fingers, fire seems to dart about inside them).

Because these and other opal rocks, which contain water inside them, lose their beauty when dried out, the Rickards must keep them in cans of water.

The Rickards, in fact, have acquired rocks from nearly every state in the union by trading. Some of the more unusual specimens they have gotten this way comprise much of their fluorescent rock collection — the Fluorite, Calcite, Willemite, Franklinite and onyx—all which glow in spectacular reds, golds, blues and greens as the daylight leaves.

Another extremely valuable stone the Rickards traded for is a piece of jade from India.

SINCE THOSE FIRST beginnings, the Rickards have come a long way—both in the size and the quality of their collection—until today theirs is recognized as one of the better rock collections in the mid-Michigan area.

With the passage of time, not only has their collection grown, but their knowledge of geology has increased tremendously.

Because of their stature in this field, the Rickards have been invited to speak before many groups on the subject of rock collecting.

They have addressed the Amateur Radio Club of Lansing and on June 13, they spoke at the 4-H Conservation Fun Day at Smith Hall, St. Johns.

MRS RICKARD has even achieved somewhat of a national prominence. She wrote and had published an article about hers and her husband's trilobite collection for the "Shells and their Neighbors," shell letter for shell collectors.

Indeed, Rickard himself is a "Doctor of Rockology"—an inside joke among rock hounds.

If you, the reader, are interested in rock collecting, or in hounding terminology, have caught rock fever, the Rickards invite you to join their society.

The group meets the third Thursday of every month, except July and August, at 7:30 p.m. in the Walter French High School cafeteria in Lansing.

As was said, rock hounding is like a flea—"First thing you know, it gets under your skin."

Ovid gets good news on sewer grant bid

ing in the near future.

THE COUNCIL decided to order 1,500 copies of a history of Ovid now being prepared by Mrs James Whittemore of Ovid. The books will be sold in the village.

Councilmen were authorized to wear police badges, with the capacity of deputy officers who will have the power to issue traffic tickets. The move is intended to help head off increasing hot-rodding and other related traffic problems.

A joint meeting of the village council and businessmen in the community is being planned in an effort to combat a problem of minors shoplifting in stores in Ovid. The council felt that by working together with the businessmen the problem might be stopped or at least reduced in scope.

Mrs George Maron served homemade cookies to the council Monday night.

Maple Rapids bridge finished

MAPLE RAPIDS—Maple Rapids Road west of this village was opened Friday with completion of a new culvert-bridge over the old channel of Hayworth Creek. An old bridge over the stagnant stream collapsed several weeks ago under the weight of a bulldozer being hauled across it.

Two culverts, seven feet and three feet in diameter, are used to handle drainage.

Two other bridge projects farther south in the county are in the hopper. New steel I-beams and other reinforcements will be made to the Looking Glass River and Taft Road bridge over a stream north of Westphalia.

The reinforcements will boost the weight limits from two to 10 or 12 tons on the Taft bridge and from 4 to 12 tons on the Shavey Road bridge.

The Yeager Bridge Co. of Port Huron is the contractor for the Taft and Shavey jobs.

Mishap causes broken neck

An accident on Hollister Road, one-half mile from Woodworth Road, Wednesday, Aug. 2, involving a lone motorbike, seriously injured the driver, Frank Fickles, 23, of 2872 S. Meridian Road, Ovid.

Fickles was first taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital where it was learned he received a broken neck and was paralyzed from the waist down. He was then removed to St. Lawrence Hospital, Lansing, where his condition remains unchanged.

Fickles is unable to remember anything concerning the mishap and so a report is as yet non-existent.

Find Alaska beautiful

"Alaska is truly a beautiful state, far beyond what we ever imagined and we are sorry it is over so quickly," expressed the views of a party of eight who recently returned from an "American North Country Adventure".

They were Mr and Mrs Jack Hawes of Elsie, Mr and Mrs Oren Goodrich of Ovid, Mr and Mrs Ward Wade of Owosso and Mr and Mrs Arnold Daly of Flint. Mrs Hawes and Mrs Wade are sisters and Mrs Daly, a cousin.

The 15 day vacation began as they flew from Capitol City Airport via Chicago and Seattle to Anchorage, Alaska, within a few hours.

They spent a full day visiting all major points of interest there, including the new Methodist University and Baptist Church, the largest seaplane base in the world, Tolmie House and Earthquake Park. They rode over the area destroyed by the five minute earthquake on Good Friday 1964 which left 115 people dead and many homeless.

They proceeded over the scenic Seward Highway to the blue-green Portage Glacier where they enjoyed lunch and many photographic opportunities. On the return trip to Anchorage, they stopped at Alaska's famed ski resort, Alyeska, where they had a ride on one of the world's longest chair lifts, 1 1/4 miles high, to view the magnificent scenery from the top of Mt. Alyeska.

VICE PRESIDENT Humphrey was in Anchorage and also stayed at the Westward Hotel. He was seen several times and pictures taken.

The following morning, they departed on the Alaska Railroad for a 12 hour scenic ride along Mt. McKinley National Park but were unable to glimpse the great mountain peak because of the dense fog and rain. Arriving at Fairbanks, they visited the University of Alaska and its museum, cruised the Tanana River stopping at an Athabaskan Indian summer village and viewed the site of the 1907 Alaska Centennial Exposition commemorating the purchase from the Czar of Russia 100 years ago.

The flight on a one-day Kotzebue-Nome excursion, flying at 20,000 feet was provided. At Kotzebue, they learned that Mr and Mrs Gale Vauconsant of St. Johns had been there the previous day. They watched the native Eskimo dances, blanket tossing, had a dogsled (with wheels) ride and saw black meat (bearded seal) and walrus hides drying on racks.

They ate reindeer meat at the hotel. Kotzebue has a 500 population with 700 dogs and churches of four denominations. They learned that the ice had gone out just two weeks earlier and that boat and air travel were the only means of travel to this treeless tundra.

LATE IN THE afternoon they flew to the famed gold mining town of Nome for complete sight-seeing tour before their return to Fairbanks. They crossed the Arctic Circle and found temperatures of 51 degrees at Nome. They learned that Siberia was only 165 miles away and they were in the last time zone before the International Dateline. Nome has only three boats per year, buildings are on permafrost and hard to maintain and the nights are like early dawn. They also panned for gold near an old gold mine and brought home some samples.

They departed from Fairbanks the next morning by motorcoach over the Alaska Highway enroute to Whitehorse in the Yukon. They passed Elson AFB with its three mile runway, had lunch at Tok Junction where temperatures run from 80 degrees below to 95 degrees above and followed the curving roads built for military protection.

They were now on gravel roads with St. Elias Mountains and the 19,000 ft. high Mt. Logan ahead. Snag Airport had recorded 80 degrees below temperature, the lowest in U.S. There were many airfields in Alaska and Canada where planes could land in bad weather.

THEY REPORTED that scenery was beautiful with little lakes nestled among hills lined with evergreens. They saw the trails over which many thousands of miners trod, one for men and one for the dogsleds. The trails were green but no trees could grow there.

They lunched at Klunane Lake where the ice went out about three weeks before. It is 40 miles long with four to five foot waves and the largest in the Yukon.

Mendenhall Creek, where 40,000 acres burned over several years ago killing 5,000 moose, 2300 bear and many small ones, was just starting to come back.

They spent the night at Whitehorse, the capital of Yukon and left by the narrow-gauge White Pass and Yukon Railroad over the historic "Trail of '98" enroute to Skagway. An overnight stop was made at the Klondike Hotel, where furnishings and all decorations were in black, gold and red. Sour-dough pancakes were a speciality. Strictly a port of entry, Skagway is a small town surrounded by mountains and beautiful scenery.

The next day after touring the area, the party boarded the SS Glacier Queen sailing south through the famed Inside Passage, to Juneau, the capital of Alaska which depends on air and boat travel. The Chilkat Mountains form a backdrop for the city that was discovered because of a gold strike. It has five mines with 400 miles of tunnels underneath the mountains, 34 bars, 28 churches, 100 miles of roads in the area, no dairies, no football fields (no room and too wet), an all sand and slag golf course and homes built on the hillsides.

THEY VISITED the beautiful Chapel by the Lake (Presbyterian) on Auks Bay. They learned that 70 per cent of the people are government, county or state workers. In its population, of 8,000.

Mendenhall Glacier, 80 miles inland from the Pacific, reflected light into the area. It is part of an ice field 150 miles long and 50 miles wide that has given off 13 glaciers from the huge expanse of ice.

Another port of call was Ketchikan where the Tlingit Indians put tombstones near homes with bodies stored in cases above ground because of the weather.

After cruising the Inside Passage, they were soon out in the Pacific where they saw killer whales. Their cruise tour terminated at Vancouver where they spent an afternoon and night. The city with a population of 750,000, low rent housing, 350 churches and one of the busiest harbors along the coast offered a full afternoon of sightseeing.

Among the interesting places were: Stanley Park's 1000 acres of ancient forest, Shakespearean and Rose Gardens (52 varieties), Monkey Puzzle Tree, Douglas Firs, Japanese cherry trees, Chinatown and the Lions Gate Suspension Bridge.

THE NEXT DAY they flew to Victoria, B. C., where they stayed at the chateau-like Empress Hotel built on large pillars with over 600 rooms. Here they found a very clean city with 40 per cent of their population retired. Industries were lumbering, fishing, farming and tourism.

Marine Drive, Beacon Hill Park, choice residential areas, City Center, golf course where Bob Hope and Bing Crosby play and a drive to the world famous Butchart Gardens comprising 40 acres, proved an exceptional tour. The flowers were at their peak of color at the Butchart Gardens which had been built by a wealthy family from Ontario.

The following day found the party of local people flying back to the U.S. They flew at only 5,000 feet and were easily able to see roads, houses, trees and farms.

LANDING AT Seattle, they toured the city by land and water seeing such points of interest as the beautiful harbor, Space Needle of the 1962 World's Fair, University of Washington, Queen Anne Hill, passing through the Government Locks, Puget Sound, 400-500 houseboats and many lovely waterfront homes.

After attending Sunday morning church services, the travelers took off on their return flight to Lansing and home. As they rose to 17,000 feet, they were rewarded by a clear view of the majestic Mt. Rainier, the Cascade Range, red-topped with no fol-

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department's series of monthly free immunization clinics resumes next Wednesday when the regular August clinic will be held in the basement of St. Joseph Catholic Church in St. Johns.

Immunization shots, including measles vaccine, vaccinations and tuberculin skin tests will be given to persons of all ages. Children must be accompanied by parents.

The clinic Aug. 16 will be open from 1:30 to 4 p.m. On Aug. 9 the department was to hold its monthly clinic for the DeWitt area from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the Veterans Memorial Building in DeWitt. The DeWitt clinics are held on the second Wednesday of each month.

When it comes to doing for others, some people will stop at nothing.

Ovid-Elsie FFA top state entry in cooperative activities

OVID-ELSIE—The Ovid-Elsie FFA chapter's report on the cooperative activities program sponsored by the American Institute of Cooperation has been selected as the Michigan winner.

A state award plaque was presented at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation at Purdue University this week. Calvin Moore of Elsie left Lansing Sunday by chartered plane to attend the 39th annual meeting of the institute and to receive the award for the Ovid-Elsie chapter.

Moore is attending through the sponsorship of the Lansing Production Credit Assn., St. Johns Cooperative, Ovid-Elsie FFA and the Michigan Association of Farmer Cooperatives.

MOORE HAS BEEN active in the Ovid-Elsie FFA and is serving as president this year; he was vice-president last year. As an active member of the National Honor Society he has a good academic record. He is treasurer of Region 4 of the Michigan Association of FFA. His family was a recent host to the State Farm Management Tour.

"Cooperatives—Pacesetters" is the theme of the 1967 largest U. S. farm business conference to be attended by 2,000 adults and 1,000 young people from most of the 50 states.

The American Institute of Cooperation was organized as a university and incorporated in the District of Columbia in 1925. Its symbol is the torch, which signifies light and truth. It has often been referred to as "a university without a campus." Each August, a land-grant university loans its campus to the institute and invites its members and friends to hold what has become the largest annual conference on farm business matters.

The youth program at the institute supplements, by means of a national conference, the educational endeavors of existing organizations and agencies. It is often referred to as "the graduate school of cooperation." Here youth, representing at least 15 national youth organizations, have the opportunity to gain additional facts about cooperatives and what they can mean to their future.

Some of the activities in which the youth participate are youth discussion sections, tours of local and regional cooperatives, recreation, and the youth Quiz on Farm Business for which quiz-takers are presented a certificate.

The young people will be returning to Lansing today (Thursday).

Win gold award in safety project

OVID-ELSIE—The Ovid-Elsie FFA chapter has received a gold award in the national FFA safety program. Chapter Advisors Albert Ackley and Rodney Tullock want to thank all who made this program so successful in our area.

The Ovid-Elsie chapter also received gold awards in the tractor safety program, fire prevention, and safe corn harvest program. The chapter passed out a considerable amount of material during the year. Materials were recently distributed to emphasize National Farm Safety Week.

Safety is a year-around activity and is emphasized as such in all age classes at Ovid-Elsie High.

CLOTHING FOR DETROIT

Andrew Cobb, Clinton County Republican chairman, was busy Friday, July 28, collecting food and clothing in the St. Johns area for victims in riot-torn Detroit. One of many stops was at St. Joseph's Catholic Church where, through the coordinating efforts of Mrs Virginia Eisler at rear of truck, boxes and boxes of the necessities-of-life were secured. Helping in the loading is Fr. William Hankerd, pastor of St. Joseph, Mrs Eisler, Marilyn Harr, and Cobb's son, Alan.

By Mrs George Young

Mr and Mrs Durey Davidson who have been at Town Line Lake since May 1, came last Friday to spend sometime with her cousin, Mrs S. Young, before going on South for the winter months.

Those who visited Mrs Young and Nancy Baker last week were Mrs Julia Blinger, Mrs Minnie Buehler and Mrs Helen Ridsdale, Mr and Mrs M. Morehouse, Mr and Mrs Edgar Walters and Mrs Roberta Young of Ovid.

Mr and Mrs Kenneth Young were in Greenville a visiting relatives last Sunday.

Mr and Mrs Oliver Nicholas called Monday a.m. and Mr and Mrs Bohnette of Lansingburg were callers of Mrs Young, Mrs Baker and Mrs Davidson Monday afternoon.

Metering at Ovid continues

OVID — About 50 per cent of Ovid's water customers will be utilizing a new outdoor-reading water meter by autumn—hopefully.

Village employees started installing the new meters in mid-July and in two weeks were 25 per cent of the way toward putting the meters in for some 250 water customers who requested them.

The new meters were offered prior to June 30 for $15 each to residents, but those ordering since then will have to pay $25 because of a rise in cost to the village. The village is paying $45 each for the meters.

Mrs Gordon Tubbs, village clerk, said the meters are small, square boxes that attach to the outside of the home and which indicate water usage. It eliminates the need for meter readers to enter homes and will enable the village to take monthly readings of water use in the future. It now is done on a quarterly basis.

There is an "alarm system" on the meter that tells when something goes wrong with the meter.

W. G. Wittenbergs host Kosht family

The 45th annual Kosht family reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr and Mrs W. G. Wittenberg with 46 present. Omry Kosht, 94, of Lansing, the only survivor of the original family was present.

Family members came from Lansing, Millford, DeWitt, Midland, Owosso, St. Johns and the Ovid area. It was voted to meet next year at the same place on the same day.

The Jolly Birthday Club enjoyed a picnic Sunday at the home of Mr and Mrs Don Smith near Greenville. Twenty members came from Higgins Lake, Ovid and Shepardsville to attend. Mr and Mrs Smith are former Shepardsville residents.

Chris Wallfleit of Falun, Sweden, who has spent a year at the Dr J. W. Bates home, joined fellow exchange students from Central Michigan to fill 11 buses Friday enroute to New York. The group augmented by hundreds in the U. S. will go by steamer to Le Havre France where they disembark for their respective homes in Europe.

Mr and Mrs Merle D. Brown and family of Glen Rock, New Jersey are spending sometime here with Mr and Mrs Earl Brown.

Mr and Mrs Howard Wilbur returned home last Wednesday from a tour in the western states through Badlands, Rocky Mountains and Yellowstone National Park.

Mr and Mrs Harold P. Bates of Eaton Rapids were guests of his brother, Dr B. L. Bates and Mrs Bates for dinner last Thursday.

4-H Club Chatter

By JOHN AYLSWORTH
Extension 4-H Youth Agent

The County 4-H gun safety contest was held Sunday at the E. J. Bottom farm with 16 representatives from six clubs competing for county and state show honors.

Each club was allowed to send one representative for each 5 members enrolled in gun safety. The contest consisted of a written quiz and scores from 10 shots standing and 10 shots from the prone position. Steve Balderson of the Stoney Creek Club scored the highest for the boys with 233 and Diana Jones placed highest among the girls with a 197.

The winners in the different age classes are as follows: 12-13 year olds—John Dunham and Sandy Buchele of the Spring Valley Club; 14-15 year olds—Steve Balderson of Stoney Creek and Deanne Jorae of French's Corners; 16-17 year olds—Tom Kehr of Prairie and Diana Jones.

The Clinton County Holstein-Friesian Board of Directors met Monday evening to select one 4-H member to receive free a registered Holstein calf. There were eight entries from members who indicated they would like to receive this calf for their 4-H project. The calf will be on display at the county fair, and the winner will be announced at the fair.

125 4-H members and leaders interested in flowers and vegetables attended a training meeting Friday at Smith Hall in St. Johns. They learned about flower arrangements, selecting and identifying flowers and seeds, identifying vegetables and seeds, learned how to select vegetables for exhibits as well as preparing a vegetable box exhibit. The members were able to ask questions about their exhibits for the coming fair on Aug. 14-16. Leaders and members felt this meeting was very worthwhile.

The County 4-H Entomology Contest was held on Friday morning at Smith Hall with 11 entomology members participating in the identification contest. Members were asked to identify 60 insects as to common name or order and whether they were beneficial, harmful or neither.

The winners in the senior division were Dan McMaster of Victor and Roger Brook of the Bath All Purpose Club. The winners in the junior division were Lori McQueen and LuAnne Thelen of the Friends and Neighbors Club. These four winners will represent the county at the state show contest on Wednesday, Aug. 23.

Over 60 4-H members participated in the 4-H Food Action Exhibit activity held last Wednesday at Smith Hall. These members explained their project to a reactionary committee.

Winners selected by the committee to attend state show are as follows: Today's Girl, Her Food and Future—Diane Davis, with Sandy Gostze as alternate; Today's Girl, Tomorrow's Homemaker—Wendy Smith, with Beth Ann Doyle as alternate; Let's Eat—Barbara Smith, with Linda VanVelsor as alternate; Entertaining—Ruth Scott, with Edna Feighner as alternate; Foods and People—Kathy Nichols; Experimenting with Food—Lola Miller, with Kathy Davis as alternate; Food Nutrition—Margaret Thornton; Food Marketing—Dana Sue Hazle; Food Preparation—Sandy McQueen, with Sharon and Karen Rossow as alternates; Foods Travel—Kathy Schaefer, with Linda Phinney as alternate and in Food Preservation—Earlene Flegler. Special mention was given to Mary Mihalyi, Kathy Foran, and Helen Blakeley in the 10-11 year old class who were not eligible for state show.

This was the first time a food action exhibit contest was held in the county, and everyone felt it was an excellent experience for the girls and the leaders. Also, many leaders are beginning to accept the food action exhibit concept after viewing this activity.

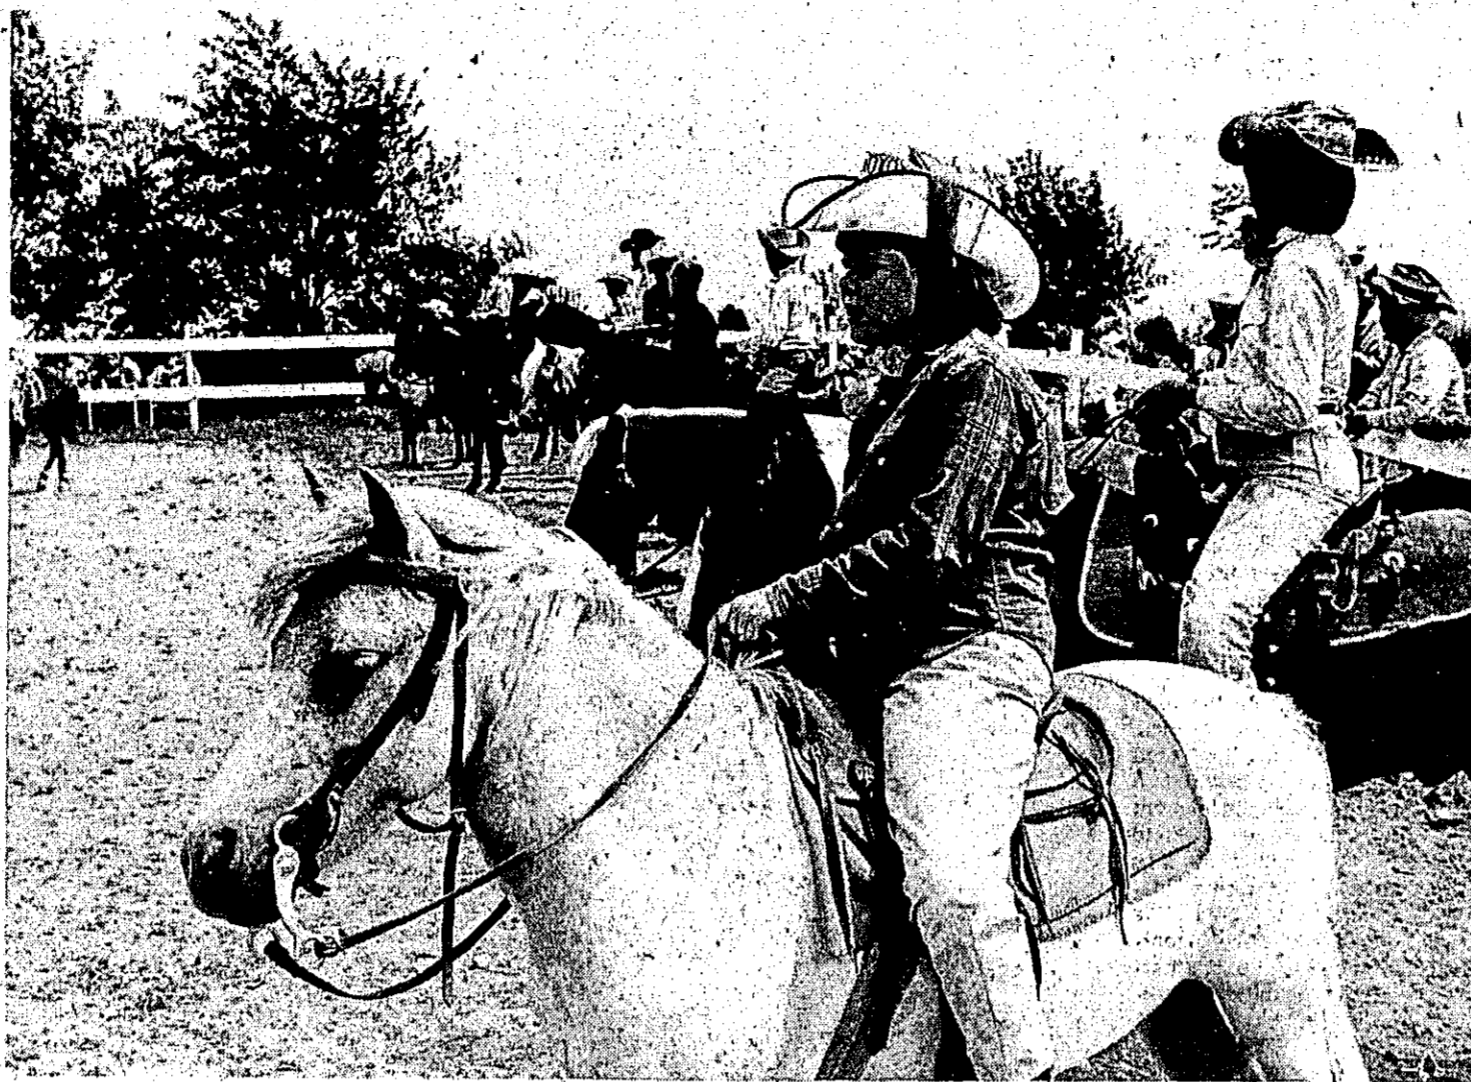

The county 4-H demonstration and/or illustrated talk contest was held at Smith Hall with the following members selected to represent Clinton County at state show on Thursday, Aug. 24.

Earlene Flegler in foods nutrition; Sharon Stoy in foods nutrition—prepared foods; Lori McQueen in entomology; and Glen Feldpausch in tractor—all in the junior division.

In the senior division—Jim McQueen in entomology; Larry Borton in dairy; Kathy Schaefer in conservation appreciation; Martha Mihalyi in artistic arrangement; Ruth Scott and Linda Van Velsor in photography; Kam Washburn in Crops; and Kathy Nichols in Food and Nutrition—Prepared foods.

Our congratulations to Kathy Schaefer and Sandy McQueen, both of St. Johns for an excellent 4-H foods television program last Thursday. Kathy demonstrated taking milk apart, and Sandy discussed Creole food preparation. The girls brought out that over 500 members in Clinton County are taking the foods project as well as what projects were available and what they were doing in junior leadership.

Another first in Clinton County was recorded as a public speaking contest was held with five girls giving a talk for five to seven minutes on any subject. Sandy McQueen of the Friends and Neighbors 4-H Club placed

WAITING HER TURN AT 4-H HORSE SHOW

Diane Oberlin, riding her pony Jigger, watches as other contestants put their ponies through their paces in the western horsemanship for ponies class at the Glackmore Riders 4-H Horse Show Sunday on the Dan Gorman farm in Watertown Township. Sixty or more horses were registered in the annual show which included 20 events. Judge for the show was Carol Arksey. Mike Borton was the ringmaster.

Representing Clinton County gun safety project 4-H'ers at the state 4-H show later this month will be these top finishers at the Clinton County 4-H Gun Shoot Sunday: Tom Kehr of the Prairie 4-H Club, Deanne Jorae and Diana Jones of the French's Corners 4-H Club, and Steve Balderson of Stoney Creek 4-H Club.

First and will represent the county at the state show. Martha Mihalyi of the Happy Huskers 4-H Club placed second. Other participants included Mary Louise Epke of the Fowler Busy Bees, Linda Van Velsor of the Victor 4-H Club and Joan Benedict of the Olive 4-H Club. Although these were not too many entries, I feel it was successful and a good start for another year once the members had this experience.

The county 4-H horse leaders are sponsoring a pony pulling contest on Sunday, Sept. 10 at 1 p.m. at the fairgrounds in St. Johns. There will be 30 to 50 pony teams from the Pony Pulling Assn., competing in this contest. There will be no charge, but a hat will be passed for any donation the audience may wish to give, as the proceeds from this benefit will be used for building a future 4-H horse barn at the county fairgrounds. Interest in other pony pulling contests in the surrounding areas has been very high.

The Willing Workers 4-H Club members are proceeding with their fair float plans with Charlie's Gang. Demonstrations were given by Earlene Flegler, Debbie Horman and Kathy Bergdoll. The Scattered Southeast 4-H Club members completed their fair entry slips at their last meeting. Demonstrations were given by Mary and Martha Rosner on rabbits and Doug Smith on trimming sheep.

Eight 4-H members trying out for the county 4-H dairy judging team practiced their skill Wednesday evening at the Leon Miller farm and the Dale Anderson farm. They judged and gave reasons on two classes of Hostels and two classes of Guerneys. The group will hold one more practice during the county fair before four members are selected for the team representing the county at the state show.

Each purchaser of a steer will receive a banner telling of their support for the sale and will also receive publicity concerning the animals they bought.

The steers sold will range from 800 to 1,000 pounds and are 4-H projects started since last fall.

Bike riders hit; 1 boy hospitalized

Two young bicycle riders were involved in mishaps with automobiles during the past week in St. Johns, and one accident resulted in an overnight stay at Clinton Memorial Hospital for the cyclist.

Bruised in the accident early Saturday evening on US-27 at North Clinton Avenue was William Sperry, 8, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Sperry of 108-Lewis Street. He was taken to the hospital, was kept overnight and then released Sunday.

The boy told police he thought he had time to cross the north-bound lanes of US-27, but he didn't. His bicycle was struck by an auto driven by Joy L. Paczkowski, 29, of Shepherd.

David Ritter, 7, son of Mr and Mrs Clarence Ritter of 710 E. Higham, escaped injury when a beverage truck starting into a downtown alley hit his bicycle. He rolled off the bike and was not hurt. The truck driver, Clarence J. Klein, 38, of Kinley Road, R-1, Fowler, told police he started into the alley, heard a noise, backed the truck up and saw the bike and boy lying on the ground.

Thirteen headstones in Victor Township's Blood Cemetery were overturned last week, according to state police. The vandalism damage was estimated at $700. The cemetery is on Jason Road at Westgate Drive.

Passing semi causes loss of control

Only property damage resulted when a car-trailer left US-27 near the intersection of Hyde Road Monday. As stated in the accident report, Helen Deason, 44, of Lansing, was driving her car, to which was attached a travel trailer, when a semi-truck passed, causing the trailer to swerve from side to side.

As the trailer movement became more violent, Mrs Deason, trying to control it, lost control of her auto, resulting in its leaving the road.

Mrs Deason and her passenger, Lawrence Deason, 47, were not injured.

Hits car from behind, is ticketed

While driving into a driveway off M-21 in Bengal Township Friday, a car driven by Rosemary Sanford, 18, of R-1, Fowler, was struck by another car driven by Stanley Joseph Klein of Grange Road, R-2, Fowler.

Conflicting statements were given to the Clinton County Sheriff's officer who policed the mishap as to whether the turning signals were operative on the Sanford car at the time of the accident.

Klein, who claimed the lights were not working, received a ticket for improper passing.

Man fined for drunk, disorderly

A drunk and disorderly charge was lodged against Gordon James Quinn, 34, of Lansing, Tuesday, Aug. 1.

Taken before DeWitt Township Justice Gordon Willough, Quinn pleaded guilty and was ordered to pay a fine of $50 and court costs of $26.

The Clinton County Extension office has revised upward the estimate of the number of people who attended the state Farm Management Tour in the county last Tuesday, Aug. 1.

Earl Haas, county Extension agent, said there were probably close to 1,500 persons who took part in some phase of the tour. Persons handling the traffic at the noon stop at Green Meadow Farms at Elsie figured about 600 cars were parked on the farm.

About 1,000 persons had lunch at Green Meadow. Six hundred bales of hay were used for seating persons for Lt. Gov. William C. Milliken's remarks early in the afternoon, and Haas said all the bales were full and many other persons were standing. At least two and possibly three persons were seated on each bale.

The big crowds followed the schedule of the tour set up by the Department of Agricultural Economics and the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State and the Clinton County Extension staff. But Haas said all four of the farms involved in the tour were busy all day showing interested persons around.

At the R. Lee Ormston dairy farm on Walker Road east of Chandler, there were visitors until 5:20 p.m., almost two hours after the scheduled tour was to end at the Moore Seed Farm northwest of Elsie. Other stops on the tour were Green Meadow and the Halsey-Woodhams farm north of St. Johns.

It was the first Farm Management Tour in Clinton County. Haas said he was real happy at the way everything worked out and in the attendance for the tour.

Parking change widens street

WESTPHALIA—Westphalia's main street got wider Saturday morning. Village councilmen led a volunteer work detail to sweep the north side of the street so that new parallel parking lines could be painted on the pavement. The result is an extra six feet of maneuvering space for moving traffic on the street.

The parallel parking spaces replace diagonal parking on the north side. Beside deciding on the parking change, the village council last week also started to look into costs and suggestions for Christmas decorations and wiring in the business district, as well as the problems of snow removal.

The council approved a week's vacation for Harold Smith, a former village maintenance man who resigned in June. But they asked him to provide them with some instruction on use of the tar kettle during which time available tar on hand now will be used to build up the shoulders on some village streets.

MRS HAROLD Rademacher, village clerk, was hired for $450 a year to handle all water department records, a job Smith previously took care of.

The council also voted last week to seek estimates on the cost of repairing the rear of the village hall damaged last winter; to repair the village's sickle bar and make it available on a rental basis to residents; and to seek recommendations on a possible storm sewer drainage area north of the village.

Power line falls on grader; driver unhurt; wells affected

An employee of the City of St. Johns escaped possible death last Wednesday when a road grader he was driving hit a power line pole, causing a 4,800-volt electric line to snap and fall onto the grader.

Lloyd Haynes was the driver, and he was doing some grading on a lot which the city owns across Ottawa Street from the city water plant. The grader was grounded because of the scraper blade, and the result was a lot of crackling, popping, sparking and blue smoke around the grader. But Haynes drove the grader away from the pole and out of danger. He escaped from the incident shook up but physically unharmed.

THE CITY'S WATER system, however, suffered some physical damage as a result of the accident. As the 4,800-volt line fell, it came in contact with three signal wires which relay the automatic operation of the city's water wells Numbers 1, 5 and 6. The surge of power caused relays and switches to blow out all over the water plant, and in wells 1 and 5 which were operating at the time the wellhouse controls were destroyed.

City Manager Ken Greer said the accident has not stopped the treatment of water at the plant, but it did knock out all the automatic control for those three wells. They will now have to be operated "by hand," meaning personnel will have to go to each wellhouse to start and stop the pumping.

Greer estimated it may be two months before all the relays and switches, blown out, can be found and replaced.

CLASS OF '27 - IN '67

40 years of change

The many changes during the past 40 years were recalled Sunday afternoon when 11 members of the graduating class of 1927, their wives and husbands, together with one of their teachers met for a reunion dinner at the Village Inn in Elsie.

The members were: Bernadine Young Beshelmer of Wayne; Marium Bouck Foster and Lewis Clark of Lansing; Evelyn Ford Bernald and Paul Bernald of Flint; Grant Evans of Grose Pointe; Austin Hall of Akron, Ohio; Frederick Mole of Muskegon; and Gladys Knight Vincent, Mary Umstead Wadell and Sidney Keys, all of Elsie.

Mrs Mildred Fuller Markle of Grand Ledge, who taught English, French and Algebra from 1923-1926 was also a guest. Mrs Markle recently retired from teaching and is leaving soon for an around-the-world trip.

FOLLOWING THE dinner with much picture taking, the group continued their reminiscing and visiting at the home of Mr and Mrs LeRoy Vincent where pictures, scrapbooks and other memorabilia prolonged the social coffee hour into the early evening when they reluctantly departed for home.

The 1927 Commencement was held at the Methodist Church as there was no auditorium at the school in those days. There were 23 members of the class to receive diplomas from Supt. E. E. Knight for whom the Knight Elementary School was named later.

In contrast, this year's class of 143 received their diplomas in the first class of the combined

Ovid and Elsie schools in the spacious football stadium of the Ovid-Elsie High School located midway between the two towns.

Mrs Vincent, Mrs Wadell and Mrs Beshelmer were in charge of the day's arrangements and it was decided to meet again in 1972.

Mr and Mrs Paul Brown have returned from a 5400 mile automobile trip. They drove north across the new bridges to Ontario where they followed the Trans-Canadian Highway across the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia to Vancouver. Slide trips were made to Lake Louise and Banff and a boat trip to Vancouver Island, where they visited the world-famous Butchart Gardens at Victoria and made a tour of the Island. Returning to the United States at Port Angeles, Washington, they continued their sight-seeing by returning through the northern states.

Carl Morley is under treatment at the Clinton Memorial Hospital following an automobile accident Sunday afternoon on US-27 north of St. Johns. He sustained injuries when he fell to the pavement. His wife was riding with him but received no injuries. The car was badly damaged.

Miss Paula Brown, a teacher at the Michigan School for the Blind at Lansing for several years, will attend the University of Arizona at Tucson on a fellowship. She will begin her studies Sept. 1.

Scope of Europe trip almost too wide for him to describe

BY MICHAEL B. GALVACH
St. Johns High School

"So long, see you in August," were the words spoken last June 21 to our friends and relatives as we left on our six-week European adventure. Little did we know what lay in store for us.

The adventure began in Rome, Italy, as it was our first stop in Europe. The 183 people in our group all stayed in the residence halls of Medtrix. We were just minutes away by bus from the heart of Rome. Our stay in Rome will be a memorable one as we visited the points of interest in that ancient city. We were amazed and delighted at the restoration taking place by the government in order to preserve the antiquities of that great city.

During the excursions we took in such interesting spots as the famous fountains of Tivoli, the Baths of Caracalla where we also saw a famous opera given by the Rome Opera Company. We also went on an all-day excursion to Naples and Pompeii.

WE LEFT BY BUS after an early breakfast, followed by a tour of Pompeii, ancient Roman city buried by ash from Mt. Vesuvius in the first century A. D. Here we saw excavated evidence of a superb culture which flourished on the south slope of Vesuvius during the height of Roman glory. Nowhere in the world can an ancient civilization be studied in such detail and depth as in the Naples-Pompeii area.

The specific objective of the Foreign Language League comparative government program was to enable each student to understand the political and economic philosophy of each country visited; the relationship of the government to the historic and cultural processes that have shaped it; the current personalities and trends in each country; the current relationship between each country being discussed and the United States; the governmental system of that country and the United States.

EACH OF US WAS in class four academic hours per day. While the class sessions were ordinarily held in regular classrooms, lectures in special locations during field trips were considered regular class sessions. The intensive comparative government course amounted to about 100 actual hours plus at least 50 field trip hours. For this we were granted one-half Carnegie unit for high school graduation. A certificate was issued by the Foreign Language League Schools at the end of the course. The final grades were marked on the certificates. These final grades were based on attendance, class participation, capacity to learn, achievements in tests and the final examination.

On Monday, July 3, we headed for Geneva, Switzerland, by motor coach and train. Because of Switzerland's long-standing neutrality, Geneva was a particular interest to the student of government. While in Geneva we went on a half-day lecture and tour of the World Health Organization.

Geneva lies at the extreme west end of Lake Geneva at the point where the Rhine River leaves the lake and moves into France. The beauty of Lake Geneva with the quaint Swiss towns and hilly vineyards offers one of Europe's most picturesque spectacles. There was a full day excursion to the capital city of Bern where we were brought closer to the historic background of Switzerland and her government.

different than the average American tourist.

Paris is as beautiful as we have heard about here at home with its historical sights and focal points, including the Louvre, Eiffel Tower, Arch de Triomphe, Montmartre's Sacre Coeur, Champs Elysee, Notre Dame, and Ile de La Cite. We had a half-day excursion to the magnificent gardens and palace of Versailles. Versailles is famous for its playing fountains and beautiful buildings. We had an evening tour of Paris in order to see the illuminated monuments and lighted fountains. Later that night we ended our stay in Paris with a fabulous dinner in a fine French restaurant.

SATURDAY, JULY 22, came all too soon as we made ready to be transferred to London by train and a boat trip. Our London stay started out with a sight-seeing trip which included a drive through Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens, Exhibition Row (where most of the museums are situated), through Knight's Bridge to Hyde Park Corner, and on to the west-end shopping district of London. From here we saw Oxford Street, Regent Street, passed through Piccadilly Circus to Trafalgar Square, through Admiralty Arch to arrive at Buckingham Palace at 11 a.m. where we got a good vantage point for the ceremony of the changing of the guard.

The tour then continued past Westminster Abbey, Houses of Parliament, Tower of London, and St. Paul's Cathedral. The purpose of this type of tour was to acquaint us with the city to show the typical sightseeing attractions, and to orient us so that we could travel on public transportation during our free time.

Our first real tour was to Blenheim Palace which is on the way to Oxford. Blenheim Palace is a large royal manor containing many important 17th and 18th century portraits. Sir Winston Churchill was born at Blenheim and lies beside his ancestors in the churchyard.

Oxford was a thriving city, the seat of an ancient university dating back to the 11th century and is one of the most famous and interesting towns in Europe. Its beautiful spires and towers are renowned and its noble university has forged the character of many men.

Another day's tour was to the Shakespeare country and theater at Stratford-on-Avon. Stratford-on-Avon has been wonderfully preserved as a shrine to England's greatest literary genius. We saw where Shakespeare was born and even enjoyed Ann Hathaway's cottage. The Shakespeare Memorial Theater was built on the Avon meadows and has performances of his works from April through November. During our stay in London we also saw a very funny and popular musical, "Charlie-Girl." The next night we saw the Shakespearean play "As You Like It." Both performances were splendid and we enjoyed them very much.

Now as you can see, I've only presented some of the high points of the trip. There was just so much to see and do that the only way a person could realize the extent of a trip such as this is to participate in one themselves.

St. Johns was well represented in this group which recently returned from a European trip by the Foreign Language League Schools during which they studied comparative governments. In the front row are Mrs Beatrice Barnum, St. Johns teacher who was chaperone for the group, and Martha Sido of Toledo, Ohio, and Cheryl Kadhemke of St. Louis, Mo. In the back row are Ray Naruskwicz of Muskegon, Mike Galvach of St. Johns, Bryan Teeters of Emmetsburg, Iowa, Sam Patz of Baltimore, Md., Howard Quinn of Chicago, Tom Goresch of Muskegon and Jeff White of St. Johns. The picture was taken on a college campus in Rome, Italy.

Sealed Power sales, net earnings up

Second quarter sales volume and net earnings for Sealed Power Corp. declined from the corresponding 1966 period, but rose from the initial quarter this year.

For the six month period, 1967 sales exceeded last year's record total, while earnings fell below the previous year.

Paul C. Johnson, chairman of the board of Sealed Power, stated that second quarter sales volume totaled $12,056,000, down less than 1 per cent from the same period last year. Net sales for the six months period reached $23,955,000, increasing by less than 1 per cent over sales of $23,918,000 in the first half of 1966.

Shipments of Sealed Power products to the original equipment market were down from last year's level due to reduced car and truck production; however, higher sales of replacement products enabled the company to match its 1966 total sales performance.

Sealed Power Corp.'s net earnings for the second quarter amounted to $715,000 compared to $855,000 last year, a reduction of 19 per cent. For the six months, earnings totaled $1,358,000, a decrease of 20 per cent from the 1966 total of $1,695,000.

Such year-to-date earnings are equivalent to $.96 per share based on 1,418,113 shares outstanding on June 30, 1967, and $1.20 per share on 1,417,113 shares outstanding a year earlier. Labor and material costs continued their upward trend during 1967, resulting in the unfavorable earnings comparison. Johnson said he viewed the period ahead with restrained optimism. Leading economic indicators point to a rise in business activity during the months ahead, and Sealed Power expects to share in this growth if it materializes. "However, as a supplier to the automotive industry, we are mindful that our operating results in the last half of the year will be influenced by developments related to labor negotiations now being conducted by some of our major customers," he said.

At their regular meeting June 20, the board of directors appointed William D. Mable to fill the unexpired term of Andrew M. Baird, who died in May.

Drivers' stories on injury accident differ

The drivers of two cars involved in a rear-end collision had differing stories about the mishap that occurred at 7 a.m. Monday. One of the drivers was hospitalized with injuries.

The accident occurred a block west of Morton Street on M-21 and involved cars driven by Roland Markman, 40, of 407 E. Walker Street, St. Johns, and Jerry D. Hehrer, 29, of Owosso.

Markman was injured and was taken to Clinton Memorial Hospital by ambulance. He was reported coming along "fairly well" at the hospital Tuesday morning.

Markman told police he was going west on M-21, but slowed to make a left turn. He said he was on the left side of his lane and had his turn signal operating. Hehrer said the Markman car slowed near the right curb and then turned left without making a signal for the turn.

Police are still investigating the accident.

County NFO to send delegates to Iowa meet

Elmer Smith, Clinton County NFO president, announced that Clinton County is making preparations for a large group of NFO members to attend the NFO "Meeting For Action" at Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 16.

Smith stated, "The meeting is being called because the NFO feels that low farm prices are seriously jeopardizing the future of the family-type farm and the future food supply for the nation and, therefore, it is time to see what farmers want to do about taking action to stop low farm prices."

A statement from the national office of the NFO to county leaders stressed that practically all of the youth has left or is planning to leave the farm because of low farm prices and that it is becoming more evident all the time that no one else is going to meet the farmers' problem but the farmers themselves. As long as the farmers are willing to sell their products at the present prices they can expect the low prices to continue, the statement predicted.

The meeting is being called to see if farmers are ready to adopt and back up a policy of "No Price—No Production."

The Clinton County NFO is lining up cars so transportation will be available for all NFO members planning to attend the meeting.

Men are rewarded for how they live—now how long.

★ IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our son and brother Tom Bakita, who left us so suddenly August 7, 1966.

Softly the stars are shining, upon a precious grave. Beneath lies one we dearly loved, but God called him home a year ago today. Friends may think we have forgotten, when at times they see us smile. But little they know, the heart-aches, that our smile holds all the while. We mourn for you in silence, no eye can see us weep. But many silent tears are shed, when others are asleep. —Dad, Mom, Brothers and Sisters. 16-1p

In memory of Frank N. Robinson who passed away two years ago August 7, 1965. Another leaf in Memory's Book. Is sadly turned today. Treasured thoughts of you remain. As time goes on its way.

DeWitt family to host IFYE student for month

Clinton County will be host again this year to an IFYE exchange student.

He is Hans Georg Ederle, 22, of Pfarrstr, Germany, and he will be staying for 23 days this month and next with Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Nichols of Chadwick Road, R-2, DeWitt. He arrives this Saturday.

From Aug. 22-25 he will attend the Michigan 4-H State Show on the Michigan State University campus.

The International Farm Youth Exchange under which Ederle is visiting in the United States is an exchange program of 4-H alumni and other young adults of the United States with rural youth of other countries.

HANS GEORG EDERLE

EDERLE HAS BEEN in the U. S. since May 19, visiting about two months with families in Utah and about nine days in Nebraska. He was to fly to East Lansing today (Thursday) from Lincoln, Nebr.

Ederle will join his host family, the Nichols, for a stay from Aug. 12-21, and then for five days will go with Clinton delegates to the 4-H State Show. He'll return to the Nichols family between Aug. 26 and Sept. 8.

No definite schedule is available yet on his immediate trips after staying with the Nichols. He will be in Michigan until Nov. 14, then will have free time until Nov. 27 when he is scheduled for a final consultation program in Washington, D.C., before departing for home.

EDERLE, AT 22, IS a farmer in Germany, managing a family farm of 88 acres on which he has always lived. Crops include wheat, oats, potatoes and pasture, and he raises dairy cattle and swine.

He was county president of the rural youth association. He has one brother, 47 years old, and three sisters aged 14, 25 and 27. Leisure-time interests include dancing and horseback riding.

Ederle told IFYE officials he is particularly interested in learning about problems of mechanization in agriculture, farm management and 4-H Club work organization in the United States.

IFYE is conducted by the National 4-H Club Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service of the state land-grant universities and the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Since its beginning in 1948, some 69 countries have participated in the program with the United States.

IN 1967, APPROXIMATELY 200 young people and 35 countries will be involved in the exchange.

The 1967 exchange with Germany is in cooperation with the Federal Ministry of Food Agriculture and Forestry. Four delegates from the United States are visiting Germany, while four exchanges from Germany are in the U. S.

Ederle's exchange is made possible through financial sponsorship of local 4-H, business and civic groups in cooperation with national sponsorship by the Kellogg Co. In Clinton County, the 4-H Council is sponsoring his stay.

Clinton County 4-H Youth Agent John Aylsworth, himself an IFYE to Greece in 1955, will be responsible for Ederle's stay in the county.

4-H Washington trip exciting, informative

BY GINGER SIMPSON
Member—Nimblefingers
4-H Club

Exciting, informative and down right fun—these adjectives are still inadequate to describe the benefits received from the short course trip to Washington D. C. Each and every minute was fabulous, both in sight-seeing and adventure.

Meeting new friends and exchanging ideas with each other helped to make our friendship closer. The ideas were to be brought back home to use in our own counties and local clubs.

The high point of the trip was learning about the federal and state government. It seemed to be so much more real than in the history book all of us had the year before.

SEEING THE Vice-President and Senator Griffin was the "cherry on top of the soda" for the Michigan delegation. As individual county groups, we enjoyed having breakfast one morning with our congressman. Most of us thought that getting our picture taken on the Capitol steps with our congressman was a great honor.

Even though the weather was "hotter than blazes", we enjoyed

Leader ponders 4-H meaning in family life

BY EMILY DAVIS
Leader—French's Corners
4-H Club

As a leader for over 12 years, I cannot imagine what a difference there would have been in the lives of my family if there had been no 4-H program in it. From the time each of our children reached the age of 10, and the time had finally arrived when he or she could join a club, they did so eagerly. When our first child was ready to start, I realized our community had no 4-H program, so I became first a clothing project leader affiliated with another club, then an organizational leader of our own club. From that time on much of our social, as well as learning activity, had centered around this organization.

There are so many facets of 4-H that one can go into, according to the interest and desire of the individual, but I choose to look at the overall attributes. In a community divided by a larger school system and with difference in churches, there is no other active organization to draw neighbor children together. Another most important factor is the attitude I've seen develop within a family; a closeness which comes from being needed as a leader or assistant, and sharing your time with a group your own child is a part of. This is all aside from the original purpose of 4-H—"To learn to make the best better," the project itself, in which skills are taught.

4-H MEMBERS ARE always respected by those who discriminate and realize what a fine background they have in leadership ability. They have been given many opportunities as officers and committee members within their clubs to develop this. It is most rewarding, as a leader, to watch a shy, introverted boy or girl blossom and become confident in leading, and to be able to stand in front of their friends and earn their respect by doing this. Sometimes it is easier to direct games or lead singing than to be an officer, and these abilities are developed at 4-H camp. Trips are very important, I feel, for the reward is again learning experience as well as fun. Not only by making new friends, but by sharing responsibilities does the child grow. Too many times we adults take over programs for children and the child's wishes are not given consideration.

Our family has gained so much materially from 4-H also. So many worthwhile things have been made by our club members, and we enjoy using them because they are the culmination of much toil and care.

As I look back, now that all but one of my own children have grown up and left 4-H, I realize how much of their stature and their abilities were enlarged through this one program.

They ride horses 23 miles to ride horses

Learning horsemanship is a time-consuming thing that takes a lot of patience, study and hard work. Usually all those qualifications are filled primarily in the horse ring.

But 4-H'ers Tom Wieber and Keith Love go a little farther than that—literally and figuratively.

Every Wednesday morning this summer—if the weather is fit—the two lads mount up and ride 1 1/2 miles one way to spend the middle part of the day with other members of the Double M Riding Club at the MacLuckie horse ring off Maple Rapids Road.

Tom, 13, is the son of Mr and Mrs Ben Wieber of 405 E. Buchanan Street in St. Johns. Keith, also 13, is the son of Mr and Mrs Lloyd Love of 4616 W. Parks Road.

EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING about 7:30 they depart from the Love farm a mile and a half west of DeWitt Road on Parks. They ride east to DeWitt Road and take it north all the way to Maple Rapids Road, then turn east again to the MacLuckie place.

The trip takes them about two hours one way, getting them there in the neighborhood of 9:30—in time for a full session on horsemanship. They take their lunch with them. After the training session is over, the boys backtrack along Maple Rapids, DeWitt and Parks roads, arriving home in the mid-to-late-afternoon.

Tom and his horse Ranger have made the trip five times; Keith and his steed Kitty have done it six times this summer.

Citizenship theme at Club Week

By JOYCE WOHLFERT
Member—Handy Andys 4-H Club

"For this is the journey that men make; to find themselves." This statement by American author James Michener can be applied to the teens at Club Week 1967. We were there to discover ourselves and to learn our roles in today's society.

Each year Club Week is held at MSU. Delegates represent each county in Michigan. This year there were over 1,000 young people attending. When so many happy, active teens got together, they couldn't help meeting others who were just as interested in living as themselves.

"TEEN CITIZENSHIP" was the theme of this year's Club Week. Mr. Morley Fraser, head football coach at Albion College, challenged us with his presentation "Understanding Yourself." The questions asked by him and the other speakers started many of us thinking seriously about what good we are to ourselves and others. The areas of citizenship that we were concerned about were: living with ourselves, other teens and with the family, especially parents.

We couldn't be serious all of the time and when we weren't busy listening or discussing, there was plenty to do. In the afternoon, swimming, sports, dancing and song leading was offered. There were tours of the MSU campus and a visit to the Abrams Planetarium. In the evening, there were planned activities, moments for reflecting, and refreshments.

ONE HIGHLIGHT of Club Week was the banquet, during which scholarships were awarded to outstanding members. At Jenison Fieldhouse we witnessed a very impressive candlelighting ceremony. To be there and to see it was much better than having it described to us.

The only reliable antidote for hard luck is hard work.

Horse training is a source of responsibility as well as pride

BY VICKI AMOS
Member—Double M Horse Club

The 4-H Light Horse Project is a fascinating project for all children in the 4-H age bracket.

I think one of the most important things it teaches us, especially the younger ones, is responsibility. A horse or pony isn't there just to ride or show on the days of the fair. They are a responsibility the year around. This includes feeding, grooming and the care of tack, stalls, etc.

These things have to be done all the time. It is a requirement that all 4-H'ers must do 75 percent or more of this work.

Starting in the early spring, the vigorous work under saddle and at halter begins. This isn't just riding or leading your horse or pony around. There are many things you have to learn, and so does your horse.

ON WORK UNDER saddle, you learn to keep control of your horse at all times, gently, but always to have the upper hand. You learn voice aids, leg aids, hand aids, etc., all of which tell your horse the things it should do and when. It takes much time, practice and patience for you and your horse to learn these aids—it can't be done in two weeks. You also learn to change leads, back your horse, mount and dismount correctly and many other things that are minor but at times are very important to know.

There are many other things you learn too, such as the parts of your horse, bridle and saddle; the proper way to groom the horse and to care for his feet; also to care for and clean your equipment. Older members who have had experience with horses usually train a young horse for 4-H or teach a foal to lead. This can really put you to the test on how much you know and have learned. A young horse is very willing to please you, but first it must

to control your horse from the ground - to have the horse stand quietly and square (all four feet under the animal evenly) for anywhere from ten minutes to an hour or more; to have the horse perform before the judge at a walk, a trot or anything else that is asked of you.

to control your horse from the ground - to have the horse stand quietly and square (all four feet under the animal evenly) for anywhere from ten minutes to an hour or more; to have the horse perform before the judge at a walk, a trot or anything else that is asked of you.

have confidence in you and understand what you want done. Horses aren't easily forced to do something they are afraid of or don't understand.

MANY OTHER things are also learned in the horse project. So many small things you learn help you to enjoy horses long after you are out of 4-H, from wiping down a new born foal to keeping your heels down in the stirrups.

I think I have learned most of these things I have told you about, or at least tried to. This is my fourth year in the project and my roughest year, because I've been working with a different horse which is young, inexperienced and sometimes just plain stubborn.

I may not do too well at the 4-H Fair this year but there will be other years, and maybe I haven't worked as much as I should have. I've found you earn in ribbons what you put in all year in hard work—the horse can't do it by himself; he needs your help.

I feel that the 4-H Light Horse Project is one of the most rewarding projects a child of any age could take.

4-H Trip . . .

the sight-seeing in our nation's capitol. Some of the well known places that we visited during the week were the Washington Monument, President Kennedy's grave, where the Michigan delegation presented a wreath, Smithsonian Institute and the Old and New Senate Office Buildings.

What is citizenship? Probably this is the hardest question to answer of any we were asked. It certainly would depend on who you were if you had to answer this most important question.

WHAT DOES THIS nation stand for? Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness? Do we as loyal Americans act like we know?

Have you ever thought about what our boys in Vietnam think of "their" people burning draft cards, protesting against the war and rioting when they are giving their lives so that we may be one nation under God? It takes us, as loyal citizens, to let them know that we do appreciate what they are doing for us.

To us, the 4-H members, that week at the shortcourse was one week that will not be forgotten in a long time. As we have returned home, we hope to stress the importance of being a citizen of this country and to better implant in our young people's minds the idea that this government is "of the people, for the people, and by the people."

U.P. Trip fun and informative

BY JUDY WHITLOCK Member—French's Corners 4-H Club

On Monday, July 17, Ed Johnson and I left St. Johns to attend the 31st annual State Conservation Camp at Chatham Michigan in the Upper Peninsula.

After a long but interesting bus ride, we arrived at Camp Shaw. Our first evening was spent getting acquainted with camp life and meeting new friends.

Tuesday, the emphasis was placed on soil. We visited a water shed, a power plant and also, we had a first try at land judging.

Wednesday was also guest night, when many of the camp sponsors visited. It gave us a chance to express our appreciation for the opportunity they had made possible for us.

"Water Fish and You" was the main topic Thursday. A visit to Slapneck Creek and the Marquette state fish hatchery were very educational.

Friday's program led us to Pictured Rocks and the Cusino wildlife experiment station. At this station we saw a bear, bobcat and several orphaned fawns.

AT MEALS OR on field trips we traveled in groups or tribes. There were the Wolverines, Badgers, Beavers and the Elks. We were very competitive in recreational activities and clean-up detail, but it all added to the fun at camp.

Each evening we had a recap of the day's activities and some type of program. Friday, we had a dance and recreation to close out the week.

If I were asked what it was that I attained from attending this camp, it would be a greater appreciation for our natural resources. Too many times we take them for granted and it takes an awakening like this conservation camp to make us fully appreciate the wonders of nature.

I am sure that Ed and I will remember our many new friends we found and the wonderful week we spent at Camp Shaw for years to come.

2 bankers here preparing for 2-week school

Two St. Johns bankers will leave this Saturday for two weeks' attendance at Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Wis.

The men are Brandon C. (Bob) White, executive vice president of the Central National Bank, and Ink White, vice president and trust officer at the Clinton National Bank and Trust Co.

This will be Bob White's third year at the school and the first year for Ink White. Two weeks' attendance each year for three years is required to earn a certificate of graduation from the school. This year's session will run from Aug 13-26.

Between resident sessions, the students are required to do extension work involving problems in all phases of banking.

The school is sponsored by the Central States Conference of Bankers Associations, composed of bankers associations from 18 Midwestern states. The faculty of over 120 instructors includes bankers who are specialists in their respective fields, practicing attorneys, business executives and members of university and college faculties.

Many are nationally known authorities in their special lines.

I WONDER... Terese Rewerts, 12, a member of the Nimble Fingers 4-H Club, shows some typical curiosity as she closely inspects a collection of insects belonging to her entomology project leader Mrs Clyde Peck of St. Johns.

'You have to attend State Show to realize its scope'

By CAROL SIBLEY
Member—Olive-DeWitt 4-H Club

Coming up Aug. 22 through Aug. 25 is the 4-H State Show at Michigan State University. This is an event eagerly anticipated by thousands of 4-H'ers around the state who compete for the privilege and responsibility of representing their counties in one or more of the some 69 various categories of exhibits, contests and demonstrations. My own experiences at State Show have been primarily in the home economics and gardening divisions with a few in other areas. Twice our club has been lucky enough to be a state blue ribbon winner in the State 4-H Share-the-Fun Festival and to take part in one of the evening programs in the university auditorium—once with our "Little Red Schoolhouse" and once with "Indonesian Interlude." Each of these performances was preceded by an afternoon of rehearsals under the direction of specialists in the performing-arts field. The same year we presented our "Indonesian Interlude" we had an exhibit, "Spotlight on Indonesia," in the passport project. These passport exhibits are quite fascinating and are located in the men's intramural building along with most of the other exhibits except foods and clothing which are, in the Union Building and livestock which is housed under Spartan Stadium.

AT ANY HOUR of the day one may drop in at one of the demonstration areas located throughout the exhibit buildings and listen to winning demonstrations on almost any subject imaginable. My one experience in giving a demonstration at State Show was in the forestry project.

One thing I particularly liked about having vegetable and flower exhibits was that they were judged as we took them in so we had a chance to talk with the judge. Also in these projects, as in most, an evaluation session is held after all exhibits are judged where members, leaders, and parents can learn how to improve their exhibits the next year.

For the last several years all foods exhibits have been "action" exhibits. Each girl sets up her exhibit for a pre-scheduled two-hour period during which time she talks with anyone who visits her exhibit about what she has done and learned in her project. My exhibit last year was "Christmas Goodies" and the year before "The Versatile Apple." That year I gave out samples of an apple-cranberry punch to all who visited my exhibit. If you want to get some new foods ideas, just stop in at these "action" exhibits in the Union Building. Exhibitors get to attend a special meal and program planned just for them.

PROBABLY THE highlight of my State Show experiences was my participation in the style review last year. Several years ago when my sweater went to State Show I just took it to a judge to be evaluated. Now all clothing and knitting projects are evaluated on the girl as she models them. Also the style review representatives judge each other and pick the honor group by vote. We received lots of help in modeling from our big sisters (previous year's style review delegates), and I especially enjoyed the talk by Joan Jewett of the Joan Jewett Career School.

Not the least of experiences for an exhibitor is the chance to live and eat in a college dorm for several days. Recreational activities are held at Brody Hall after the evening program each night where one has additional opportunities to get acquainted with 4-H'ers from other parts of the state. I'm looking forward to the get-together of the State Service Club and Key Club. One makes many friends from around the state whom they see only at State Show time.

I haven't begun to cover the whole subject of State Show—I have only touched on a few of my special interest areas. You'll have to attend State Show yourself to realize the scope of it. Planned primarily as an educational experience for 4-H members, it is at the same time an excellent show for anyone interested in home economics, livestock, crops, horticulture, conservation, handicraft, photography, public speaking, music—you name it, State Show has it!

Good hay varieties worth more

Good hay varieties were worth an extra $13.50 an acre in recent Michigan State University trials conducted at East Lansing and Lake City.

"Over a four-year period, we found an average difference of six-fifths of a ton between the highest and lowest yielding commercial varieties," reported H. L. Kohls, MSU crop scientist.

"Figuring hay at $22.50 a ton, this amounts to $13.50—a value due only to difference in variety."

The MSU trials showed that Vernal is the best long-lived variety, since it is winter hardy, alfalfa wilt resistant and high yielding.

Saranac, a new variety from Cornell University, also yielded well, is resistant to wilt and appears to be winter hardy. It should be limited to two to three years of cropping until its degree of winter hardness is fully established, said Kohls.

Glacier, from Northrup-King and Co., "is looking very good," said Kohls, "but does not have alfalfa wilt resistance. Its greatest use may be in short rotation of about two to three years."

French varieties lack wilt resistance but are high yielding in two to three year rotations.

DAIRY CATTLE POPULAR 4-H PROJECT

Always popular as a 4-H project is the raising and showing of dairy cattle. Typical of Clinton County youngsters involved in this program are brothers Bob, 13, and Jim Miller, 14, members of the Prairie 4-H Club. Bob's project animal is named Wendy, and Jim's Holstein cow is called Aggie. They are sons of Mr and Mrs Leon Miller of North Airport Road, St. Johns; dad is their dairy project leader.

2 Elsie Holstein sires honored

Four Michigan Holstein bulls have been designated silver medal production sires by the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America. They include two from the Elsie area:
*Fultonway Ivanhoe Van Dyke 1395826 (VG), owned by Merle, Duane and Velmar Green, Green Meadow Farms, Elsie. His 38 daughters averaged 16,166 pounds of milk and 550 pounds of butterfat.
*Trio Hill Farmstead Prince 1389948, owned by William Knight, Elsie. His 10 daughters averaged 15,765 pounds of milk and 559 pounds of butterfat.
The award is based on the production of a bull's registered daughters on official tests compared with that of their dams and with the production level of the entire Holstein breed.

Cindy Smith, 16, a seven-year 4-H member with the French's Corners 4-H Club, models the A-line shift dress of apricot print which she made as a part of her clothing project this year. The straw-frame hat she's adjusting is of her making too, as is the bonded wool coat lying on the case in front of her. Their colors match that of the dress. Cindy's 4-H clothing project leader is Mrs Emily Davis.

4-H clothing project means many things to many girls

By CINDY SMITH
Member—French's Corners
4-H Club

The 4-H clothing project means many things to many girls. The young Miss, age 10 to 12, learns the basic skills of simple construction. The junior Miss, age 12 to 14, gains satisfaction from creating her own garments, and further developing sewing and knitting skills. The senior Miss, age 14 to 18, learns to use clothing and personal appearance as a tool for creating expression.

Our clothing projects are started each fall when we choose our patterns and materials. As knowledge of materials and skills develop in the girl, she is able to choose more challenging projects. Materials of different weights, texture and fiber content are available for the junior Miss, and she will choose patterns with more detail. The senior Miss has several choices. She can perfect her skills already learned or develop originality by designing her own patterns! She may also share her knowledge by becoming a junior leader.

AS THE WEEKS go by, the projects started begin to take shape (sometimes not the shape you wanted, but you try again). After many fittings come spring and achievement day. This is when we put our needles down and our garments up for display. Here they are evaluated so that we may correct any mistakes before they are displayed again at the county 4-H Fair.

Then comes the style review. As we style our garments, we are judged according to how well the garment looks and fits. Each age group has a separate style show. It is the wish of every young Miss to make the style review honor roll. The junior and senior Misses also have an honor roll from which State Show and alternates are chosen. These winners have the opportunity to go to the State 4-H Fair and style again. In the event that one of the winners cannot go, an alternate will take her place.

THE COUNTY 4-H Fair is the final judging. Here the projects are judged on construction. The awards are ribbons and a rosette to the top project in each group.

More important than the ribbons and awards given in 4-H are the skills and knowledge gained by the individual member. The pride of being part of a group, learning to work with others and developing leadership qualities—this is the meaning of 4-H.

4-H leaders learn at MSU meet

By MARGARET SCHAEFER
Leader—Nimblefingers 4-H Club

Last March, about the time the last winter snows were supposed to be leaving the ground for milder temperatures, 4-H leaders were gathering on the campus of Michigan State University at Kellogg Center for the 11th annual 4-H Leadermeet.

Leaders came from all over the state for this two-day session. It was a long trip for those who came from the far corners of the Upper Peninsula, but I am sure if they gained as much knowledge as the others I have talked with it was worth every mile they came.

From Clinton County there were four leaders who were asked to attend—Mr and Mrs Russell Libley and Mr and Mrs Karl Schaefer.

THIS YEAR'S THEME, "It's A Small World", was carried out in the speeches we heard all weekend. Saturday afternoon our small world included a couple of tours on campus. One of the tours was through the museum and the other tour was a general tour of the campus. The last tour included several stops along the way, which included life in one of the new co-educational living units. On such a large campus, I can understand that this is a thing that is here to stay. We were shown through the science complex.

Our short tour of the campus gave us a view of what our young people are doing after they leave the local community.

AT OUR SATURDAY evening banquet, the speaker was John Furbay. If only everyone could hear this gentleman, we would not only realize how small this world is, but how delinquent we, as adults, are in our thoughts. We would not be having the racial problems that are prominent if we could all have Furbay's simple thoughts.

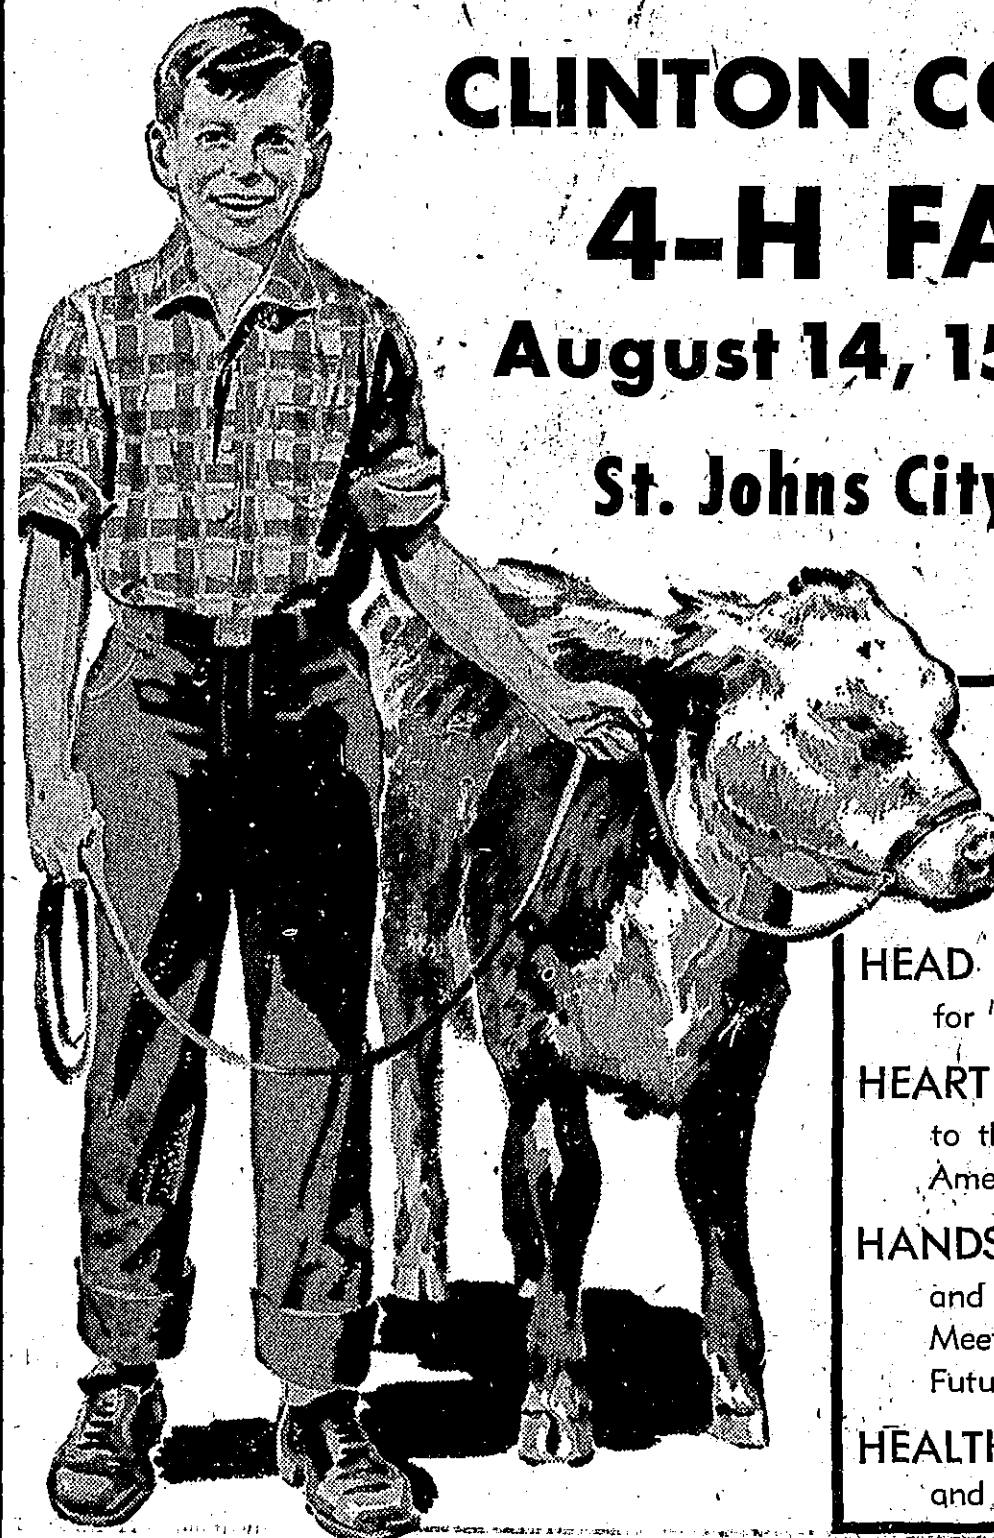

As a mother first and a 4-H leader second, I had some very doubtful moments. We, as adults, sometimes tend to make life very complicated. This is one of the wonderful things about working with the younger people of today—life can be uncomplicated. Just watch them and see.

I believe the most valuable information gained from our two days in East Lansing was visiting with other leaders and listening to their problems and views as 4-H leaders. The most rewarding of all is just working with young people who will be our adults of tomorrow.

4-H leaders

Somewhere between the sternness of a parent and the comradeship of a pal is that mysterious creature we call a 4-H leader.

These leaders come in all shapes and sizes, and may be male or female. But they all have one thing in common—a glorious twinkle in their eyes!

4-H leaders are found everywhere—at judging contests, junior fairs, square dances, and talent shows. They always are preparing for, sitting through, participating in, or recuperating from a meeting of some kind.

They are tireless consumers of muffins, expert at taking knots out of thread, peerless coaches, and spend hours on the telephone.

A 4-H LEADER is many things—an artist helping make a float for the Fourth of July, a doctor prescribing for an underfed calf, a counselor at camp, a lawyer filling out reports, and a shoulder to cry on when that dress just won't fit.

Nobody else is so early to rise and so late to get home at night. Nobody else has so much fun with so many boys and girls.

We sometimes forget them, but we can't do without them. They receive no salary, but we never can repay them.

They are angels in aprons, saints in straw hats. Their only reward is the love of the kids and the respect of the community. But when they look around them at the skills they've taught, and the youth they've built, there's an inner voice from somewhere that says, "Well done."

Learn to live healthy life through 4-H food project

BY KATHY SCHAEFER
 Member—Happy Hustlers 4-H Club

There is nothing more necessary for a happy and healthy life than the proper foods. For this reason, it is important that 4-H girls and boys learn what food is and what it does for us. I feel there is no better way for young people to learn about foods and nutrition than to take it as a project in 4-H. The learning opportunities are tremendous.

Foods and nutrition projects have greatly changed in the last few years. The trend now is to give the members more freedom to use their imagination and to do what they want to do. For example, a few years ago the members were told what foods they had to exhibit for the 4-H Fair. Now the members can prepare the kind of exhibit that they wish to make based on what they have learned that year.

The first project in foods is planned for the 9-12-year-olds and is called "Food for Fun." In this project the member becomes aware of the important role food plays in his life and the types of food he should eat. The members learn how to prepare simple foods, after they have learned some of the basic skills such as measuring, sifting, mixing, etc. The project book explains some of the first things a young cook should learn and contains some easily-followed recipes.

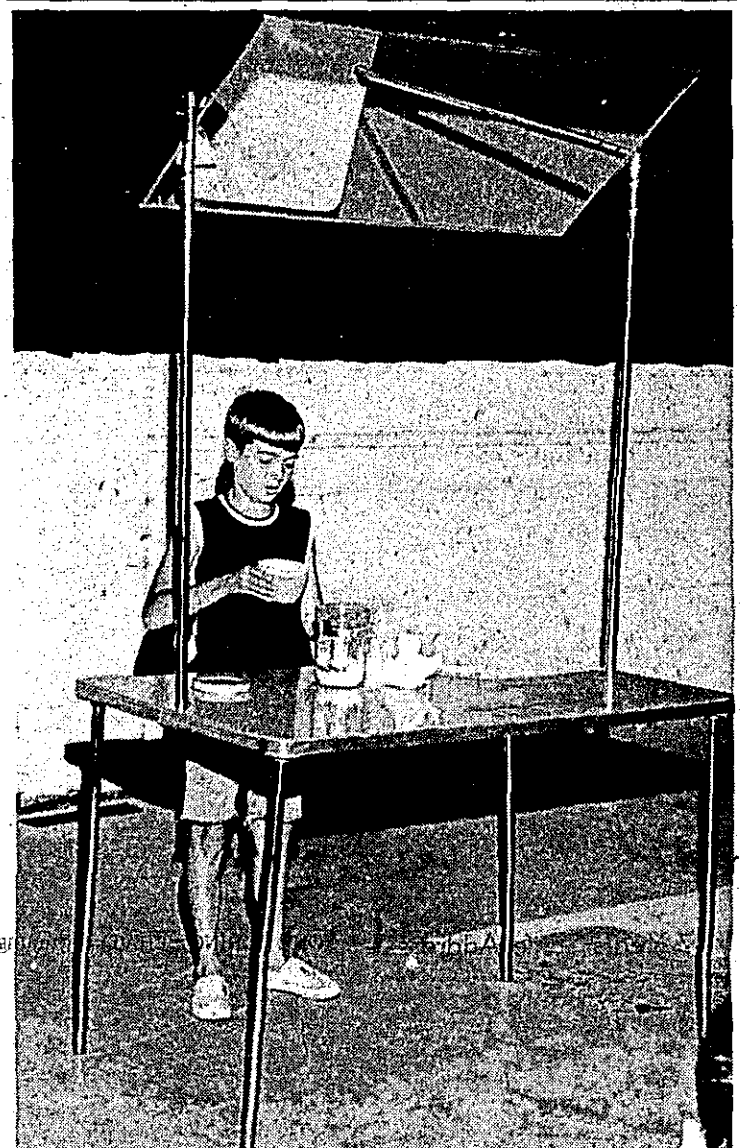

THE PROJECT FOR the 12-14-year-old girls is called "Today's Girl, Tomorrow's Homemaker," in which the girls learn what foods help maintain good health. They begin to associate various foods with the various nutrients they contain. The project goes into the study of meal planning, preparation as well as grocery shopping.

There are projects designed for the young boys interested in cooking, also for those who wish to learn more about outdoor cooking. Older members, 14 and older, may take the project "Food and People," which is designed to focus public attention on the nutritional state of the world. Another project for this age group is "Exploring Foods and Nutrition." This project gives the member the experience of planning his own independent project in foods.

Science has an important place in foods projects. Members are encouraged to experiment why certain things happen when preparing foods instead of just accepting certain procedures because they are given in the book. The first two project books contain "Science Whys," which give scientific explanations to many questions which may come up regarding preparation. These "Science Whys" present the 4-H'er with many more ideas for experimentation. Some may experiment with yeast to find out what effect various temperatures have on it. They will discover by actually working with it that hot water kills its growth, cold water slows it down, while warm water increases its growth. The younger members will be encouraged to find out what over-heating does to muffins.

THIS YEAR, a county food Frolic was planned for the boys and girls from 9-14 years of age. They learned new things about foods and nutrition, and they had the opportunity to try new foods. By the end of the program, I think almost everyone agreed that food can be fun. Early in

Beekeeping 'quite different' 4-H project, member finds

BY LARRY BORTON
Watertown Grove 4-H Club
Beekeeping is a project quite different from other 4-H projects that involve keeping something alive. Bees are naturally wild and survive without outside help, generally. The bees gather food, clean the hive and clean themselves. For these reasons, bees are very easy to keep.
The greatest advantage for keeping bees rather than livestock is that one can go away for two or three weeks and not have to worry about them being taken care of properly.
Some of the things I have learned about bees includes the fact that a colony of bees is a true communitistic society. Almost all of the bees work hard and they have no boss, foreman, or ruler.
This brings up the false belief that the queen bee is the ruler. There are three types of Honey bees crawl over and through this honeycomb frame held by Larry Borton, 15, of the Watertown Grove 4-H Club. Larry, a six-year 4-H'er, has had a bee project for two years. His entomology leader is his brother Don Borton.

bees: the workers, the queen and the drones. The drones are the male bees and usually do little except take up space and eat honey. The queen lays eggs all day which can number up to 2,000 or 3,000 per day and has no ruling power whatsoever.

ONE THING THAT beginning beekeepers often fear is being stung. Bees are most likely to sting on a cool rainy day because they can't work when there is no nectar flow. Bees get mad when they aren't able to work. Bees are also likely to sting a careless beekeeper. Therefore, if a new beekeeper opens his hives on a nice, sunny day and learns from someone experienced how to open his hives, he won't have to worry about being stung.

One very important aspect of beekeeping in Michigan is the fact of registering colonies of bees in modern hives with the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Once a year a bee inspector inspects the bees and checks for diseases. If and certain disease is found (called American Foulbrood) he will destroy the bees. This is a Michigan law, and there is a whole pamphlet of laws concerning bees in order to stop the spread of disease. Beekeeping is a very interesting hobby and could be a profession for life. In addition to honey and wax, some beekeepers rent out the bees for the pollination of certain crops, and this supplies a commercial beekeeper's income.

CONTAINED IN this article are just a few things that I've learned about bees and beekeeping. Most of my knowledge of bees I have learned through reading and talking to other beekeepers. Anyone can be a beekeeper, but it takes some knowledge and a little initiative.

Prices of state park vehicle entrance permits went up Aug 1 in Michigan when Gov. George Romney signed Senate Bill 95 into law.

The new law, which took immediate effect, increased annual $2 state park permit fees to $3 for residents and $5 for non-residents. Also raised were the 50-cent daily permits which now cost residents $1 and nonresidents $2.

If there is a question about the residency of a person applying to buy a permit, it will be determined by the designation on his driver's license rather than by the license plate of his vehicle.

4-H Camp counseling memorable experience

BY LOIS MILLER
 Member-Fowler Busy Bees 4-H Club

One of the most memorable weeks of my life was spent at Barry County 4-H Camp as a counselor. The counselors that went had received training at Camp Kelt. This training specialized each counselor in some thing which is useful at camp.

All the counselors were requested to come early. This helps you to know where things are before the campers arrive. It made me feel good to be allowed to come and get acquainted first. When a camper asked me a question, most of the time I had an answer. This is a good feeling.

When the campers arrive, it is fun and interesting to watch them. They all have different personalities, and some of them haven't even been away from home for a period of time. It's surprising how many different people become friends at camp.

ALL THROUGH camp it was fun, yet a learning experience. It helped me mentally as well as physically. This camp had a swimming pool, which provided us the opportunity to exercise as well as to learn, because the lifeguard taught swimming to all who wanted the instruction. Every activity in which the campers participated was a learning experience even if it was learning to work in groups, such as in a relay race or doing the dishes. Some of the activities were: gun safety, archery, crafts, conservation and recreation. The campers helped daily with flag raising and lowering and helped with vespers. One of the activities we had for recreation was "Skit Night". This gave the campers an opportunity to make up their own skit or play and use their own talents. The results were fun and interesting for all.

The camp was interesting all by itself. It is situated on a river leading to Lake Algonquin.

It is near the town of Hastings. The boys' and girls' cabins were on opposite side, with the mess hall in between. The swimming pool was opposite the river. A campfire was built along side the river. The setting was one thing that was sure an experience you would never forget.

MY WEEK AT camp was of great value to me. It helped me to learn more about children and their reactions. It also taught me how to handle situations better and more practically. At camp you have what you take and that's all. What equipment you didn't take just wasn't there. I'll never forget this experience at camp. I hope others will have just as memorable an experience when they go. I know the week at camp has been one of the best weeks I've spent in my life.

Tourist unit calls for alewife war

The Michigan Tourist Council has called for an all-out war on alewife fish populations to protect the state's recreational advantages and tourist appeal.

In a resolution released this week, the council urged full efforts by federal, state and local governments to combat the invasion of millions of the small fish which die and wash ashore on Great Lakes beaches.

Hundreds of miles of Great Lakes beaches have been covered by dead and decaying alewife this summer, despite clean-up efforts, and the resulting loss to communities and businesses in vacation spending is expected to run into millions of dollars, according to Council spokesmen.

'Cost' of living

The high cost of living has a double meaning for overweight people. Not only is living costly in terms of economics, it is also costly for the obese in terms of "work" of the body just in living and doing everyday tasks. University of Wisconsin medical researchers recently demonstrated that overweight people require more effort to walk, stand and breathe. Even sleeping involves work for someone who is fat. The "cost of living" for the obese shows up in higher blood pressures, faster heart rates and abnormal breathing patterns.

THEY'RE ALWAYS FINDING SOME WILDFLOWERS

A hike across the fields always turns out to be rewarding for 4-H members involved in wildflower projects. Marcella Peck (center), wildflower project leader for the Elsie 4-Corners 4-H Club, stops to talk about a patch of them with Larry Bernath (kneeling) 13, and Bruce Lebey, 12, Helen Blakeley, 9, and Caroline Oberlin, 12.

Nation's wilds contain a bevy of beautiful flowers

BY ETHEL FLEGLER
Leader—Willing Workers' 4-H Club

Wildflowers are one of our nation's irreplaceable assets. They have but limited economic value, but attractive, showy flowers offer us a kind of enjoyment afforded by few other things in nature.

As with other natural resources, we once thought flowers to be unlimited. Now we know better. In some areas, especially near large cities, wildflowers have been overpicked. Some kinds have completely disappeared from places where they once were common. Trailing Arbutus, Fringed Gentians and a number of Lilies and Orchids are seldom seen nowadays. Wildflowers are the kind of resource we do not miss till they are gone. And then regret does no good.

The objectives of the Wildflower Project are: learn to identify some of the common wildflowers of Michigan, study circumstances which have resulted in decreasing the quantity and varieties of wildflower plants learn to conserve and preserve the natural flowers of our state and become better acquainted with wildflowers through the study of their structure, characteristics and habitat.

THE BEST WAY to enjoy wildflowers is to observe them and study them right where they are growing. Field trips play an important part in this project. Flowers are identified, collected and pressed. Then a study sheet is made for each plant.

One of the simplest reference books used with this project is "A Guide to Familiar American Wildflowers". This book has 134 paintings in color and gives information on color, description, family and habitat. Other reference materials may be obtained at the Extension office, local Library, State Library and the botanical gardens at Michigan State University.

Through a Study of this project, the member learns that some flowers are protected by law and picking them may be punishable by a $100 fine. Some of these flowers are Trailing Arbutus, Birdfoot Violet, Climbing Bittersweet, Club Moss, Flowering Dogwood, North American Lotus, Winterberry, Prince's Pine, Lady's Slippers, Orchids, Trillium and Gentian.

THERE ARE SOME flowers that may be plentiful in some places, but too scarce to warrant picking in most habitats. Some of these include Cardinal Flowers, Jack-in-the-Pulpit and Wild Columbine.

Next are included the flowers that can be picked sparingly. Some of the more common of these are Bloodroot, Violet and Wild Rose.

The largest list includes common wildflowers that can be picked freely. Some of these are Queen Anne's Lace, Chickory, Golden-rod, Spring Beauty, Yellow Rocket, Cinquefoil and Daisy Fleabane. Some of these we call "weeds". Even weeds are worth knowing. Some are good to eat, and it is becoming more important to know those that we may try to eradicate chemically. Since there are about 50,000 flowering plants in the United States, there is really no limit to this project. Our aim is to preserve this natural resource and help keep America beautiful.

Safety big factor
around farm ponds

A farm pond is constructed for soil erosion and flood prevention, or water storage for livestock, irrigation, fire protection or fish production.

A farm pond is a natural recreation center for those who live near it, and is also often used for swimming, fishing, boating, hunting and skating.

The unfortunate feature of a farm pond is that it is also a body of water in which drownings can occur. Drownings are the outstanding non-motor-vehicle cause of accidental deaths among people in the active age groups, especially children. These deaths by drowning are due to swimming accidents, falls into water while working or playing on or near bodies of water, and accidents involving small boats.

THE SOIL CONSERVATION service incorporates safety features into its recommended design of a farm pond. It also recommends that such safety measures as can be economically accomplished be done during the construction of the farm pond. These include evenly grading the borrow areas below pond level to avoid steep slopes and holes in the pond and removing snags, big rocks and trash that could be a hazard to swimmers and boats.

Other safety recommendations are:

1. LIFE-SAVING EQUIPMENT SHOULD BE PLACED NEAR THE POND where it can be easily seen and used during an emergency. The sight of a life ring can make a witness's brain function. Even a youngster will throw out a life ring to someone who is drowning, practically without thinking, if one is visible. A long pole placed where it can be seen and used can save the life of a loved one. A rope, handily placed can be used to pull out a helpless swimmer.
2. WARNING SIGNS SHOULD BE PLACED: near specific danger areas, near the pond telling all who come near what the extreme depth of the pond is, what and where life saving equipment is available and where the nearest telephone is and whom to call in case of emergency.
3. IF YOU GO BOATING: use a boat that is in good shape, never overload the boat, and there should be one approved life preserver on board for each person on board.
4. ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION - Everyone who lives, works, or plays near a farm pond should know how to swim and how to give artificial respiration. These are taught by many organizations such as the American Red Cross. Find out more about it from your local organization.

These recommendations may not completely satisfy the requirements of local laws. Every farm pond owner should counsel with an attorney to determine his liability in case of serious accident or death at his farm pond and legal requirements pertaining to precautions and safety at farm ponds.

The privilege of having a pond on his farm gives the owner additional responsibilities. POSTING THE POND AGAINST TRESPASSERS DOES NOT RELIEVE THE OWNER OF THESE RESPONSIBILITIES. Each farm pond owner has the obligation to his family, friends, and neighbors to make his farm pond safe by providing such safeguards as he can to prevent an incident on his farm pond from becoming an accident - or death.

Craftsmen 4-H Club

An occupation or art calling for skillful use of the hands - that is the real definition of handicrafts. In 4-H we have several definitions which are different from this one.

Handicraft in 4-H is several things. It is learning to build and repair things made of wood; learning good citizenship; learning how to get along with people, and also being able to make a place for yourself among people.

Being able to build and repair articles can save a person a lot of money. But besides saving money, a member gets a lot of enjoyment from it. New designs and ideas are brought out. A member does this to have a better-built and more attractive article than the next member. This is what makes 4-H so interesting - the battle to have a better article than any one.

LEARNING HOW TO get along with people and being able to make a place for yourself among them is something you learn in your club work, business meetings, special county meetings and 4-H trips. In my experience I learned this in 4-H trips. Living with other 4-H'ers for a weekend seemed to be the best way.

Last and probably the most important thing is good citizenship. I have heard many definitions. Some say it is getting along with people, helping the old, giving to the needy. My answer is respect the law and government. A member learns this at club meetings, county meetings and 4-H trips.

One person who doesn't receive enough credit and should be the leader. The leader is the one who helps us learn these things. People don't realize that the leader has sacrificed a lot of his or her time to help them to a better way of life.

ASC PROGRAM

88 farms in county divert production land

All requests for regular CAP agreements were completed as of last May 31, within the limits of funds available. We now have a total of 88 farms in Clinton County that have diverted land from production for at least five and no more than 10 years. If funds had been available, we could have written agreements for 56 requests still on file.

In addition to the land that has been retired from production, 2,830 acres have been offered for public access predominately for the purpose of hunting. All of these requests for supplemental agreements which provide public access have not been completed as yet.

EACH FARM IS visited by a game biologist working with the Michigan Department of Conservation. The game biologist rates the farm in respect to its potential for hunting or other recreational uses that the land owner chooses to go into, such as fishing, hiking, etc. This supplemental agreement for public access provides additional payment to the land owner from $1 to $3 per acre depending on the rating established by the resource representative visiting the farm.

In 1966, we had nine farms participating in public access which provided 729 acres for public use in Clinton County. It appears that there will be an additional 2,101 acres available by hunting season in the fall of 1967. In 1966, the public access program was not initiated until the start of the hunting season so a relatively few hunters were aware that areas were open for hunting without cost.

PRIOR TO hunting season, we urge all our sportsmen to check in their local county ASCS office to determine the location of the farms that are available for public hunting as well as checking with adjoining counties for the same purpose.

This public access program is one that all people, both urban and rural, may receive direct benefits from their share of public funds.

By this fall, there will be in the state approximately 250,000 acres available for public use. Two-thirds of this area will be in the lower one-third of the state near our metropolitan areas and available to those who need it most.

Loading film in a camera is a different process for different cameras. Brenda Flegler, 18, junior leader of the Willing Workers 4-H Club, shows sister Earlene, 13, and Susan Moorehouse, 13, how it's done with the Instamatic. The girls are all actively involved in photography projects. Leaders of the club are Viola Rossow, Juanita Horman and Ethel Flegler.

'Picturing' in 4-H rewarding

By BRENDA FLEGLER
Member—Willing Workers 4-H Club

Photography is one of the many useful and enjoyable projects available in 4-H clubs today. It can be enjoyed by both boys and girls of all ages.

Through the photography project a member is able to develop skills in "taking and using pictures," gain an appreciation of photography as an art, a science and as a communication tool. Photography also helps the member to better observe and appreciate his surroundings. He no longer just looks at his environment; he looks and "sees" his environment. A member also has opportunity in recording events, ideas and situations in picture form for study or reference.

Our members begin the project first of all by studying and examining a camera and film. Understanding how the two work is an important part of photography. After this, they practice mastering the handling of their cameras. They learn how to take good pictures by examining and criticizing their previous pictures and understanding their errors. Many times the beginner will hold the camera crooked and unsteadily or will take a picture directly into the sun or at a friend standing stiff as a board and staring into the camera.

THE MEMBERS SOON learn many helpful and important hints. They realize a good picture has a natural, unposed look. Tilt the camera in a certain angle will cause a different effect on their picture which they can use to their advantage. They also learn to use flashbulbs, both outside and inside, for certain pictures. Keeping a clean lens on the camera is also important in taking good pictures.

There are many little hints in taking good pictures which everyone should know, the simplest camera will take many of the most beautiful pictures dreamable.

Our members learn and develop to their fullest the skills of photography. But most important, our members learn a skill they can use and enjoy for the rest of their lives. Photography is definitely a most worthwhile project.

DR. F. V. WADE

Dr. Wade aiding men in Vietnam

Dr. F. V. Wade of Flint, son of Mrs. B. F. Wade of the Michigan Conference, has volunteered his surgical skills and medical techniques to aid U.S. servicemen in Vietnam.

Dr. Wade left Flint July 13 for Vietnam, traveling by plane via San Francisco and Hong Kong to spend about three months in a civilian hospital in Phu Vinh, South Vietnam. In San Francisco he met other doctors enroute to South Vietnam on the same mission.

Dr. Wade is well equipped for this overseas service. He practiced surgery in the Flint hospitals for 10 years and is chief of surgeons at Hurley, McClaren and General hospitals. He is a graduate of Adrian College and the University of Michigan, and is a fellow member of the American Board of Surgeons.

His wife Betty and five children will live, for the most part, at their cottage in Bear Lake near Manistee while Dr. Wade is in Vietnam. Bear Lake was his boyhood home when his father served several years as pastor there.

Early detection 'big' value in medical screening program

Early detection of certain diseases will be the primary value of a chest x-ray and blood test for diabetes which the Mid-Michigan District Health Department is offering Clinton County residents starting Aug. 21.
"I urge everyone over 30 years of age to take advantage of these tests, including those who feel perfectly healthy," Dr F. W. Smith, medical director of the district health department, said this week.
The primary value of the tests, according to Dr Smith, is that they can detect certain diseases in the early stages long before any symptoms appear which might influence a person to consult a physician.
"THAT'S WHY WE ARE particularly interested in screening persons who 'feel' healthy," he said.
Dr Smith compared the health tests to our nation's radar early detection warning system. "The line of radar stations far to the north can spot the approach of an enemy long before he can be seen. How much better this is than to be aware of danger only after the enemy can be heard and seen, and his destruction felt."
"The same is true with regard to the protection of your health and the tests," he said. "How much better it is to recognize the presence of disease in the early stages than to begin to treat the disease only after it has started its devastating work."
DR SMITH emphasized that the health tests were no substitute for the complete physical examination conducted in the doctor's office, and that one of the objectives of the screening tests is to demonstrate the importance of regular health checkups by a physician.
"These combination health screening tests is to demonstrate the importance of regular health checkups by a physician."
"These combination health screening programs have been conducted throughout Michigan with great success," Dr Smith said. Over 125,000 persons were screened for diabetes in these programs "last year." "The investment of only a few minutes of your time can be the most important few minutes you ever spent. It's an investment in good health, and for some, it will be an investment in life itself."
The program is being conducted by the Clinton County Health Department, Clinton County Physicians and the Michigan Diabetes Detection Program. Sponsors of the Michigan Diabetes Detection Program include the Michigan Diamond Assn., the Michigan Department of Public Health, and the Michigan Pathological Society. Also cooperating in promoting the chest x-ray program is the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Assn.

Cows produce 'milk' without motherhood

"Milk without motherhood" in dairy animals has been attained by a pair of Michigan State University dairy scientists. But the researchers aren't yet sure whether they can get these cows to produce enough milk to make the procedures practical for dairymen.
Drs H. Allen Tucker, dairy scientist, and Joseph Meltes, veterinary physiologist, have been trying to produce commercially acceptable levels of milk production from unbred heifers. The reason is because dairymen lose thousands of dollars each year from infertile cows that cannot be bred and, therefore, will not produce milk.
In a recent study, the scientists tested different levels of the hormones estrogen and progesterone in an effort to get mammary (udder) growth on 30 heifers which had their ovaries removed. With the use of these hormones, the scientists were able to get mammary growth on the sterile heifers "just about as good as that in the normally pregnant animal."
IN AN EARLY experiment, the scientists were able to initiate lactation by giving other unbred animals the hormone, Prolactin. The next step will be to give the Prolactin to sterile heifers which have been given estrogen and progesterone to increase mammary growth.
"But we don't know how much milk these animals will produce," admitted Dr Tucker. "We know we can grow the mammary gland, and we know we can initiate production."

When Jack Sinclair retired, he took his wife on a holiday cruise. They'll be home next week, and I'm certainly going to tell them how much they've missed here at the church.

Like all ministers, I need a lot of help from my congregation to make our church a happy, inspiring place. Sinclair and his wife are just two of the many older members that keep things running smoothly. I depend on them for good ideas, for experienced administration and, very often, for a wise approach to young people's problems. In return, the Sinclairs have often told me how important their church has been in their lives, and how they both enjoy being needed.

That's one of the great secrets of life, I think . . . to be needed. And there isn't a church anywhere that doesn't have a real need for "senior citizens" to help with God's work.

EDITORIAL PAGE

4-H'ers: The most creative youth

Well over 1,000 Clinton County youth—among the most creative in the area—are in the spotlight next week.

They are the youth from 8 to 18 who are in 4-H and who will have their ingenuity and abilities on public display at the 4-H Fairgrounds in St. Johns Monday through Wednesday next week.

Their work reflects many hours of interest and devotion by the 4-H membership and an almost equal number of hours by hundreds of 4-H leaders who see their volunteer help as a way of insuring clean-cut, healthy, intelligent Americans for the future.

Clinton County's 4-H program is an excellent one—in our opinion and in the opinion of 4-H leaders from other areas of the state. 4-H leadership from the Extension Service level down through the individual clubs is top quality, and every year the 4-H Fair bears this out.

It behooves all of us to run up to the fairgrounds next week and look over the projects. Those youngsters there are not the ones who hang around on street corners, who create trouble, who drop out of school—they are the new foundation of America, youngsters who will build America through 4-H—hands, heart, health and head. We should encourage them.

Attendance at council meetings encouraging

It has been increasingly apparent in recent months. More people are attending meetings of the city commission in St. Johns. For many the reason has been a public hearing for a city project in which they are directly interested, or a complaint which they feel strongly enough about to put in an appearance.

But most interesting has been the appearance of more and more citizens who just sit and listen and watch the proceedings. Sometimes they stay for a whole meeting. Sometimes they leave before it's over. Sometimes they return for other meetings.

In every case they observe enough to form their own opinions about city government. We can't help but feel that most of them wind up sympathetic to the problems of city government, even though they might not agree with every specific action which the governing body takes.

GOVERNMENT AT THE local level is not as all-encompassing as state or federal government, but it is just as demanding and just as important. What makes the councilman or board member different from his counterpart in Lansing or Washington is his significantly smaller "salary" for doing his public service. He must spend a lot of time and effort and take a lot of gaff from the other citizens for a paltry few dollars a year.

They certainly are not infallible people, and particular decisions sometimes do raise eyebrows. But citizens who take the time to objectively view a couple of regular meetings—without the interference of a particular "beef"—will see city government in a new light and with more respect for the people who have agreed to run it.

Be a bacon saver

As one reads the newspapers from all over the country, it is increasingly clear the people are becoming more tax conscious. Taxes are variously estimated as taking from one quarter to one third of the average family's income. More people are wondering how much of the rest of the world we can continue to supply with money and products while at the same time we are fighting a war and setting up a welfare state at home. It is becoming clear to more people that when we demand gifts, grants, and aid from federal and state governments we must pay the bill out of our own pockets via taxation.

There is one way to save our bacon—curb our own demands and vote "no" on men and measures that require the spending of tax funds beyond government's normal increase in tax revenue that accompanies the growth of the country. Only in emergencies involving national security should major exceptions be made. In the long run, government is no different than a family. It will wind up bankrupt if its members follow a spendthrift course. The country needs officials who will stress this fact.

Keeps Buzzing Around

RAMBLIN' with Rink

By LOWELL G. RINKER

Let's just ramble around this week:

*Since writing about my daughter's bicycle riding a couple of weeks back, several people have inquired about progress since then. Progress has been terribly slow, almost to the point of being nil. Kathy has even regressed somewhat because she doesn't want to ride, even though she can and does when we force the issue. She still balks at turning corners and in learning how to start and stop on her own. I fear it may be awhile before we have the complete bicycle rider, though I had one glimmer of hope last week. Kathy told of having a dream about being as old as her mother and still not being able to turn corners. She promised to learn before she reached that age.

*SORTING THROUGH our checks and balancing our bank statement last week brought to my attention how much we are dependent upon check writing. In the three years we have been in St. Johns, for instance, we have written 755 checks, an average of about two-thirds of a check per day. I supposed we're an average family.

*ON SEVERAL occasions in the past couple of months I have had a chance to take a look—even though it was hurried—at the small and extremely busy world of insects.

Once while on vacation in June and while we were camped at Manistee, I got down on the ground to watch the activity around an ant hill. Those surely are busy little creatures, hauling out grains of sand, taking them to the edge of the hill and dumping them over the side, then racing back into the hole. With so much traffic through so small an opening, it might behoove our highway people to study the tiny roadway system to see how they do it. Maybe we can learn something from the ants.

Last week I got a close look at honey bees at work in a hive, and while the look was necessarily brief because I didn't have the recommended shielding for a long stay, I was fascinated. I have been halfway interested in this bee business ever since knowing a former minister at my church in Hart who was a bee fancier. This bears a little looking into in the future.

*HERE WE ARE IN the second month of TV preview reruns. Those are the 30-second spot announcements between summer re-runs when the networks tell you about all the shows they have coming up as re-runs next summer. Each preview varies somewhat from the others concerning the same show. They are beginning now to appear so frequently between regular TV shows that the regular shows are shorter.

By the time the big NBC Tuna-in comes around we'll have seen enough of all the previews that the complete shows all through the year will be re-runs. And by next summer what the TV industry refers to as re-runs will actually be of the same vintage as the 1939 movie on the late-late show. —rink

The 'Low Down'

From the Congressional Record

By Joe Crump

$40 million loss at DaNang a disgrace

Rep. Durward G. Hall (Mo.) ... The recent heavy loss of aircraft sustained in the Vietcong sneak attack on Da Nang Air Base again suggests that the Department of Defense has learned very little—and applies less—from past experience. In the first days of World War II American planes parked in parade array, and wingtip to wingtip on Clark Field in the Philippines were easily destroyed by a few Japanese bombers and strafing runs over the airfield. Regularly and routinely since these experiences many of us have advocated staggering dispersal and protection at least in alert area.

*Assuming we are incapable of a proper guard mount for a variety of reasons, it is obvious that if our planes had been properly dispersed and protected by revetments the effects of last week's attack in South Vietnam would have been substantially reduced. As it was, however, six to eight Air Force Phantom F-4's, three Air Force Hercules C130 transports, two Marine F-8 Crusaders, and at least a dozen helicopters were destroyed, representing a loss of more than $40 million, plus the immeasurable cost in human life, according to one report and obviously, from all the TV clips, the C-130 transports were lined up in a row and exploded and burned en masse.

*This policy of poor dispersal apparently applies to naval vessels also. On July 12, Congressman Gross pointed out that six aircraft carriers were docked closely together at Long Beach, California. It may be stated that no one could seriously expect an attack at Long Beach, Calif., but

A LAZY SUNDAY, PERHAPS, IN OLD ST. JOHNS?

This could very well be a lazy Sunday afternoon in St. Johns back in the early part of this century. The only thing that indicates activity are the few horses and carriages and the presence of a street car going up Clinton Avenue. The picture is on a post card owned by Steve VanVleet of 1754 W. Price Road.

neither did anyone in authority seriously expect an attack at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. Good military discipline requires installing the habit of proper dispersal at all times...

*In the type of warfare being conducted in Vietnam, where harassing fire is always a possibility to say nothing of world delivery capability, dispersal is absolutely essential if we are to safeguard equipment and men. An investigation should be conducted to determine why it was lacking at Da Nang. Good practice should begin at home and at top level.

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT: The home front has been unfavorably impressed with some aspects of the war in South Vietnam. For example: The business-as-usual attitude of the South Vietnamese in Saigon: With the obvious tendency to let GI Joe do it. With the inability of the South Vietnamese armed forces to protect the munitions furnished by the American taxpayers to assist them in their fight for self-determination.

Three suggestions have been offered. First, if the South Vietnamese are unable to protect the air fields, we should select a base that can be defended. $40 million will more than cover the cost of moving. Second, Declare Saigon off limits, to all except supply forces, leaving the diplomatic corps in resident. Third, Urge the South Vietnamese government to put a draft plan in effect. This will quickly bring into focus the picture of who is fighting for what. —J. C.

A bicycling quiz for safety's sake

Each time your youngster takes to the road on his bike this summer he faces a man-sized job. Like motorists, he must have the know-how to cope safely with the ever-increasing amount of traffic.

The need for a young bicyclist to practice sound safety principles grows with each added car—and bicycle—on the road, warns Aetna Life & Casualty, producer of a new public service movie on bike safety.

Aetna points out that two of every three bicycle accidents occur because riders fail to follow basic bicycle "rules of the road."

IN REMINDING youngsters how to maintain and ride their bikes safely, Aetna's color film, "If Bicycles Could Talk," tells the bicycle safety story from the viewpoint of the bicycles themselves. The film may be obtained on a free-loan basis by your school or community organization through an Aetna representative or from Aetna Life & Casualty's public relations and advertising department, Hartford, Conn., 06115.

The insurance company further suggests that you ask your youngsters the following questions dealing with the special safety requirements of bicycling in traffic. Be sure he can answer all 18 questions before his next bike ride.

Like this young bicyclist, your child has to cope with today's increasingly heavy traffic when he takes to the road.

QUESTIONS

1. What should you do before entering a street from a driveway or sidewalk?
2. It's important that you obey the same traffic signals and signs as motorists. Name at least three.
3. When waiting in traffic, where should you position your bike?
4. When approaching an intersection that has no traffic signals what should you do?
5. What is the safest way to make a left turn at a crowded intersection?
6. Who has the right of way, a pedestrian or a bicyclist?
7. Give 2 reasons why weaving in and out of traffic is dangerous.
8. When approaching a parked car, what dangers do you face? How do you prepare for them?

13. Why is it dangerous to ride in the "wrong" direction on a one-way street?
14. When is it safe to carry a "passenger"?
15. How should you carry parcels?
16. How far should the sound of your bike's horn or bell carry?
17. From what distance should a rear light or reflector be visible to a motorist in the dark?
18. What is the best formation for 2 or more cyclists riding together?

Million dollars in state salvage, surplus items sold each year

BY ELMER E. WHITE Michigan Press Assn.

Core of the civil rights problem is that the American public does not yet accept concepts of equality of opportunity on a personal commitment basis.

This office works with some of the situations blamed for recent race riots: charges of discrimination in employment, real estate transactions and others.

ONE MEASURE OF success, according to Gordin, is where the criticism comes from. If complaints are voiced by both the minority groups and the es-establishment," chances are that the human rights office is probably doing its job.

"Success strangles us," says Gordin. "The more we do, the more there is demand for our services."

The state civil rights office has more complaints about job discrimination than anything else. These account for about 60 per cent of their cases. Office records indicate that about 30 per cent of the complaints have some basis in fact.

Unfair claims regarding housing make up the next largest segment of the office workload. Of these, 47 per cent are dropped and 53 per cent are settled satisfactorily.

Most difficulty arises with local government officials, states Gordin. This takes the form of resistance, resentment, challenge and absence of cooperation.

THERE IS A GROWING acceptance among police and housing officials for the position of the state civil rights office, especially since many of their investigations have shown that the police departments are operating fairly and without bias.

A relatively new twist in civil rights movements, agrees Gordin, is the idea that there are more pressing issues than integration. More and more Negro leaders, even if they do so reluctantly, adopt the idea that needed improvements cannot wait for integration.

A similar feeling exists regarding housing. Negro leaders are firm in the conviction that a Negro should be able to move into any neighborhood he can afford.

IMPROVEMENT NOW is the policy. It is desperately needed, and integration must wait until later.

The Negro tends to feel, according to Director Gordin, that the fight for equality in employment and use of public accommodation is largely won, at least in principle.

Alternatives to solving the problems of equality for minority groups are so terrible to think of, says Gordin, that we simply must solve them.

There has been much improvement in Michigan, and the civil rights director expresses the hope that the pace will quicken. He feels there might be a "polarization of extremes," with small groups taking vastly separated positions.

THIS BEING THE night set for the public hearing of necessity of the proposed bituminous paving program involving 21 districts, the affidavit of publication of the notice of this hearing was presented to the city commission. Mayor Coletta and the city commission discussed with the property owners present on this matter the need of all especially - benefiting property owners to pay part of the paving cost. The majority of those present on this matter indicated to the commission that they did not wish to have the streets paved if it would necessitate their participating in the cost. The city commission agreed to continue the paving program, spreading the cost at large and starting with the streets that have had curb and gutter installed the longest. This paving program would be limited to the general fund's ability to pay for these improvements. Motion by Commissioner Furry, supported by Commissioner Rand, the paving costs will be spread "city at large", within the ability of the general fund to pay for these improvements. The streets that have had curb and gutter the longest will receive first priority. YEA: Commissioners Coletta, Furry, Irer, Rand and Surrine. NAY: none. Motion carried. Mayor Coletta declared this Public Hearing closed at this time.

from the HOPPER By STEVEN HOPKO

In my column last week I dwelt upon the best-ball tourney at the local country club and my partner from over Fowler way. I made a few remarks about my partner, that at the time seemed quite humorous to me, but after we went to press I wasn't so sure. In fact, I wouldn't have been surprised to have had a molotov cocktail thrown on my front porch.

BUT, IN THE mail the other day, I received a note that made me forget such thoughts. The note is as follows: The Hopper -

Really got a charge from your "hopper" this week. I thought the family would die laughing. I had a real fine time and wonder if the boys from Clare know what hit them! Sure beats working!

"Fowler Fats" (Would you believe five foot eight and 252 pounds?) (Actually, my friend John is not so much overweight . . . It's just that he's two feet too short!)

But whether my partner was overweight or too short, he has a sense of humor that is hard to match. An example was on the first tee of the second nine holes.

THE HOPPER had pushed his drive a little bit to the right. (Would you believe to the middle of number three fairway?) John was down the middle as usual. (He did this all day . . . down the middle and 140 yards, so he said). Naturally with me over on number three going the wrong way, or long way whichever it was, my partner was walking alone down number one when someone asked him where his partner was.

His reply was, (at least this is what I was told) "I had my right guard, but forgot my left guard, so my partner is walking by way of number three fairway."

On this same hole, I went over to number three fairway to hit my second shot to number one green (if these numbers have you confused, you know how I felt playing that hole).

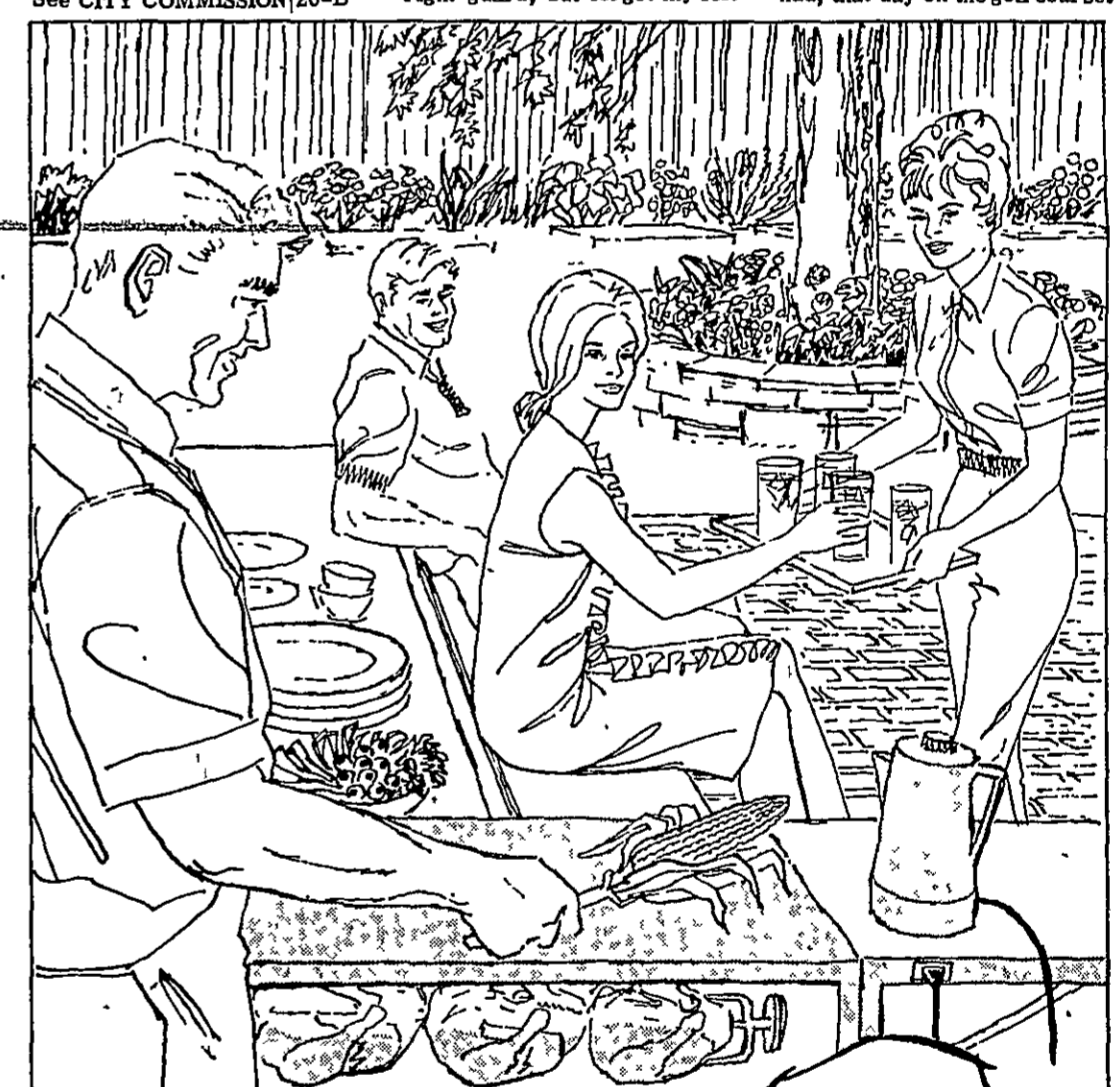

I had to wait for the teams teeing off from three to finish hitting. After they had hit their drives, I walked out into the middle of the fairway. (Actually I think a better word would have been sneaked).

AS I WAS preparing to smack (?) my second shot, someone asked me what hole I was playing. I informed him, number one and asked if he could direct me by the shortest route. His reply was, "Go to the left of that pine tree, over that hill, keeping your ball between number two green and tee, and keep heading in a southwesterly direction. If you do this you can't miss it." ( . . . And he was right).

AS FOR OUR friends from Clare, Gary Rayburn and Richard Norcutt, they seemed to enjoy the day as much as John and I did.

In fact, Dick (the youngster who will be entering the U of M this fall) and I were chatting prior to his leaving for home. Dick stated that he had learned one thing that day from John and me, and this was that a man can play this game of golf easily and still have fun doing it.

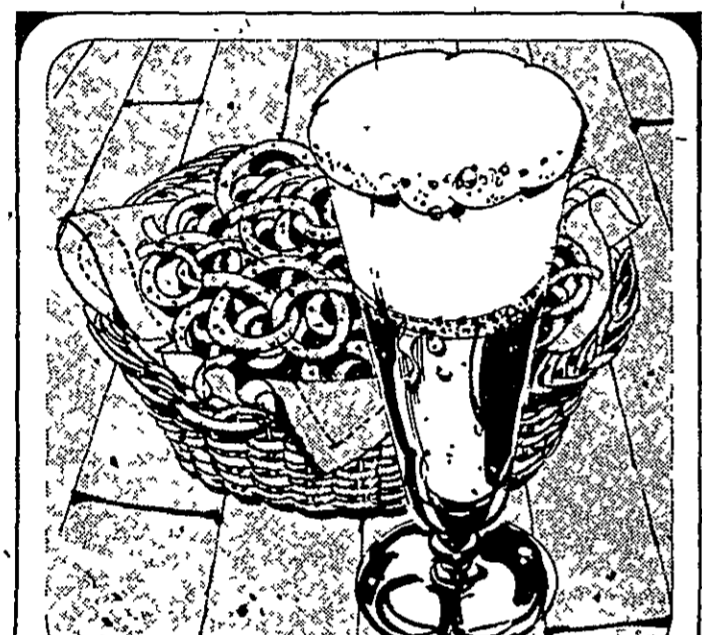

I HOPE THAT he will always remember this. For when a man has good friends, a good day and a good game to play, he will always have fun. This John (Fowler Fats) and the "hopper" had, that day on the golf course.
