Maple Valley Players open with 'Miracle Worker'

MAPLE RAPIDS—The newly formed Maple Valley Players theater group will tackle a big job in their first production—"The Miracle Workers," based on the life story of Helen Keller—this weekend and next.

Opening in the small Maple Valley Playhouse (formerly the Maple Theater), this Friday and Saturday, the Players will be utilizing some special lighting effects to make up for the small stage area they have to work with.

"This is normally done on a stage, or stages, four times this big," Director Jack Schnepf, principal of Fulton's elementary schools, noted last Thursday night. "This creates some real problems."

THE PLAY IS based on the life story of Helen Keller and deals mainly with her life at the time she first conquers blindness and deafness. The active conflict between Helen and her nurse, Annie Sullivan, is dramatized on the stage. This involves some real-life wrestling around on stage between Helen, portrayed by Becky Upton, and Annie Sullivan, played by Vivian Wiseman.

But they have been able to make the action look real despite the cramped quarters of only part of the small stage, about 25 by 15 feet.

By using spotlights from the theater's projection booth at the back, Director Schnepf plans to divide the small stage into a number of acting zones. The spotlights will pinpoint the action taking place, and the other parts of the stage will be kept dark.

STAGING A dramatic play such as "The Miracle Worker" on their first outing was a big step for the Maple Valley Players, but Schnepf feels his cast is taking care of their parts in great style. Several have had acting experience with the St. Johns First Nighters, the Carson City Civic Players and the Fulton Players.

The cast for "The Miracle Workers" includes: Glen Kendall as a doctor, Mary Beth Upton as Kate Keller, David Swanson as Captain Keller, Becky Upton as Helen Keller, Amy Lowe as Martha, Anita Swanson as Aunt Eve, Eric Halsted as James Keller, Don Wiseman as Doctor Anagnos, Vivian Wiseman as Annie Sullivan, Pat Blemaster as Viney, and Cathy Halsted, Cheryl Schnepf and Denise Macdonald as blind girls.

"The Miracle Worker" was first presented at the Playhouse Theatre in New York City Oct. 19, 1959. It has since been made into a movie, starring Patty Duke as Helen Keller and Ann Bancroft

3-day 4-H fair starts Monday

If this year's weather pattern continues to follow last year's—and it hasn't varied much—the Clinton County 4-H Fair at the St. Johns park next week could get rained on.

Fair officials are hoping that if the badly needed rain comes, it will hold off this year until after the fair!

They have a big schedule of events and exhibits ready to go next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and they're figuring on a large crowd to view the more than 3,000 exhibits.

About 1,300 4-H members around the county will take part in the 29th annual 4-H Fair, showing animals they've raised and exhibits they've produced over the last year.

WHILE A LOT OF THE emphasis will be on exhibits, part of the annual excitement of the fair is in the showmanship and judging contests which take place every day of the fair. There'll also be 4-H championship softball Monday night and professional entertainment Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Admission to the 4-H Fair is free, and events will get under way at 9 a.m. Monday with the receiving of entries and the setting up of 4-H exhibits. The 4-H horse show will get under way in the horse ring at 9 and will continue into the afternoon with the judging in eight different classes.

The fair program will be rolling in good fashion Monday afternoon. At 2:30 a 4-H tractor judging contest is scheduled, and at 3 p.m. the junior livestock operators contest will take place.

ALL EXHIBITORS AT THE fair are invited to pick up tickets at the 4-H office in Smith Hall, tickets that will get them free admission to the St. Johns City Park swimming pool between 3 and 5 p.m.

Monday evening the championship games in the 4-H county White and Green softball leagues will be played on the city park diamond.

The big game in the White League will start at 7 p.m. and will find the Victor Boys and Charley's Gang battling it out for the championship. Both squads have lost only one game during a summer of softball.

At 9 p.m. the Green League championship game will be played, and until Friday night the names of the two teams involved won't be known. Victor 4-H team, undefeated so far, will definitely be one of the teams playing; the other squad in the championship game will be the winner of this Friday's league contest between Olive and Stoney Creek clubs.

Umpires for Monday night's games will include LaVern Silm and Bruce Blizzard.

VEGETABLE AND FLOWER GARDEN exhibits will be checked in on the 4-H grounds between 8 and 10 a.m. next Tuesday, and at 9 a.m. judging will begin on all entries except dairy cattle. Flower arrangements will be made at the show between 10 a.m. and noon. At 10 a.m. the junior dairy judging contest is scheduled; the swine showmanship contest is at 10:30 and the sheep showmanship contest at 11:30.

In the afternoon, judging of beef cattle entries will begin at 1 p.m., and the beef showmanship contest will start at 4.

At 2:30 and 8 p.m. Tuesday, the Chamber of Commerce will sponsor free professional vaudeville acts at the city park bandshell. Performers will include Eddie Collins, banjoist; the Frantz Franzens, a seven-person family act consisting of dancing, music and magic; Johnnie Laddie and Co., a four-dog and four-monkey act; Teen Twisters, an unsupported ladder act involving four people; vocalist Sally Reddy; and Connie Pelham at the organ.

JUDGING OF DAIRY CATTLE will begin at 9 a.m. next Wednesday, and at 3 p.m. the dairy showmanship contest will start.

On fire, housing standards

City begins codes enforcement

The City of St. Johns will begin Monday the enforcement of its new housing and fire codes adopted last December.

A detailed inspection of perhaps up to 100 homes in the area of the city north of the Grand Trunk Railroad will take place between now and the end of the year.

The announcement was made last week by Terry Foster, the city's urban renewal coordinator. The enforcement of the two codes is a mandatory part of the city's workable program for community development, for which the city must be recertified next year to remain eligible for federal development funds.

FOSTER SAID the upcoming inspections were "not a matter of harrassing local people. The city feels that with the increasing number of homes here enforcement of the codes is necessary to prevent possible blight."

The selection of the north side for the start of the inspection program stems from "rather obvious deficiencies of many buildings in that area. We hope the inspections will result in a better appearance from a standpoint of limiting blight in residential areas." Increased health and safety standards are also involved, he said.

Although the north side will be concentrated on during the first months of the enforcement, violations in the other parts of the city called to the attention of the city also will be taken care of immediately. The city, in this program, is following guidelines for inspection set up by the federal government through the workable program.

THE CITY WILL have to submit for recertification by the first of next year; certification expires March 1. The city is presently in the second year of its workable program.

Priorly areas after the north side are: 2) west and south of the railroad tracks and Prospect Street; 3) east of Swegles Street between the railroad and Baldwin Street; 4) south of the railroad tracks and between Prospect and Swegles streets; and 5) south and west of Swegles and Baldwin streets.

Foster will do most of the inspection with respect to the housing code, and E. O. "Squeak" Hyler has been designated by Fire Chief Clare Maler to handle the fire inspections. Hyler made a "trial run" on inspections Saturday and plans to start the real inspections next Saturday.

HOME OWNERS ARE asked to permit the inspectors to look over their home for fire and housing deficiencies that may or may not be present. The homes will be picked at random for inspection. Standard inspection forms will be used by the inspectors. The codes themselves are standard, model codes; the fire code is recommended by the American Insurance Assn. (successor to the National Board of Fire Underwriters), and the model housing code is adapted from one issued by the State of New York.

FRANKLIN SMITH, MD

Dr F. W. Smith to direct area health unit

Franklin W. Smith, MD, who maintains office and residence at 205 W. State Street, St. Johns, has been engaged as new medical director for the Mid-Michigan District Health Department.

Dr Smith will begin his work with the department Sept. 6, according to an announcement this week by H Lawrence MacLaren, acting director and chairman of the board of directors of the three-county department.

DR SMITH IS a native of Clinton County, having been raised in Ovid and having graduated from Ovid High School in 1934. He then attended Albion College for his pre-medical studies and obtained a bachelor of arts degree.

In 1942 he received his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Michigan Medical School. He then served five years in the Medical Corps of the U.S. Navy, including duties in various Navy hospitals and 20 months in the South Pacific as medical officer for a Naval construction battalion.

He has been in private practice for the past 19 years, 17 of those in Clinton County.

DR SMITH IS married and the father of six children—five sons and one daughter—three of whom are still living at home. He plans to maintain his present residence in St. Johns. In the next few years Dr. Smith intends to continue his education and to complete studies for a master's degree in public health.

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department is made up of the counties of Clinton, Gratiot and Montcalm and has its central office in Stanton. Branch offices are located in the county seats in each county.

County may get 4-H agent

Clinton County may soon have a new 4-H agent based at the courthouse in St. Johns.

The Extension office here received word late Tuesday afternoon that a possible candidate for the job opening, which was approved several weeks ago, has tentatively agreed to fill the position here.

The man would become a part of the district Extension setup which includes Clinton, Gratiot and Shiawassee counties. Presently there are two 4-H agents serving the three counties, and neither is based here.

RONALD WOODRUFF Manager at Southgate

Central National opens Southgate office Monday

The Central National Bank of St. Johns will open its new Southgate Office in the Southgate Shopping Plaza Monday morning.

The new facility is located in the northern-most building in the shopping center at US-27 and Sturgis Street on St. Johns' south side.

Ronald L. Woodruff, presently a teller with two years' banking experience at Central National's

Post office mail box to be moved

The postal mail box along the street in front of the St. Johns Post Office has been removed because of the no-parking ban placed along that block by the St. Johns City Commission.

Postmaster J. D. Robinson said the box would be relocated on the sidewalk near the steps in front of the post office. It would thus be a walk-up box instead of a drive-up box. Robinson said there was no other alternative. The change was to be made as soon as no parking signs and curb markings were made by the city.

Robinson said he will ask the city commission to establish a 15-minute parking limit on some of the parking spaces on the east side of Brush Street at the side of the post office, for the convenience of post office patrons. Presently there is no time limit on parking there, and frequently cars are left there for long periods of time.

Ovid branch, will be the manager at the Southgate Office.

THE NEW SHOPPING center bank will have the same business hours as its parent office in downtown St. Johns—9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Fridays and 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays. It will have all the facilities and conveniences of a "full service" bank except the safety deposit boxes.

A night depository, checking and savings accounts and loan facilities are all available at the Southgate Office, Woodruff said. All the bookkeeping will be done at the downtown St. Johns bank, so Central National customers may do their banking at either office.

FREE COFFEE and donuts will be served at the new office Monday and Tuesday. Persons opening new savings or checking accounts at the office of $300 or more, or who add $300 or more to their present accounts before Sept. 1 will get six months free rent on a safety deposit box at the downtown office.

New business accounts will also receive free night depository service for six months, Woodruff said.

Brandon C. White, executive vice president of Central National, said it was felt "the bank here and the shopping center will compliment each other in their operations." The growth of the community is in the direction of the Southgate Office, he said, and it was felt this was an opportunity "to take some of our services to the customer."

SHOPPING CENTER banks are common in many larger communities.

The building in which the new office is located is about 20 by 33 feet in size. It has been remodeled, paneled and carpeted. A counter with four teller spaces stretches the width of the building toward the back. A night depository and vault are located at the front of the building.

The office's manager, Woodruff, will be alone in the office except during peak business hours.

ELSIE—Thomas F. Bakita, a three-year varsity athlete and valedictorian of the Elsie High School Class of 1966, drowned late Sunday afternoon while attempting to swim across a pond northwest of Oakley in Saginaw County.

Mr. Bakita, 18 years old, was the son of Mr and Mrs Steven Bakita of Bannister.

At Elsie High School he compiled a sterling 3.97 scholastic average out of a possible 4.0. In addition to his academic honors, he played football four years, most recently as quarterback, and was on the track team three years.

Bakita went under when the two youths were about half-way across. His body was recovered by a life-guard.

The tragedy happened about 5:45 p.m. Sunday. Obituary details can be found on Page A-6.

New rural schools get first OK

Preliminary plans for the two new rural elementary schools in the southern part of the St. Johns School District were approved by the board of education last Wednesday night.

The plans were presented by architect C. Douglas Pardee of St. Johns, who will now draw up the final plans. They will be for the two brand new schools, one located at Lowell and Pratt roads in the southwest part of the district and the other on Green Road a half-mile west of Krepps Road in the southeast part.

THE SOUTHEAST school will have seven rooms and the one in the southwest 13 rooms. Concerning the southwest school, the board gave final approval to the purchase of an additional 2 1/2 acres of land for the school from Robert Law and Richard Rossow. The board had previously bought 10 acres.

The board began procedures for the selling of the Page, Church and Rhuabottom schools. See NEW RURAL, Page 10-A

Health department offers free immunization clinics

The Mid-Michigan District Health Department will offer free immunization clinics once a month at each of its three-county offices. They begin next week.

Clinton County's clinic will be held the third Wednesday of each month between 1:30 and 4 p.m. at the health department office at 106 Maple Street west of the courthouse.

Anyone from infancy through adulthood is eligible for the free immunizations. Children must be accompanied by a parent, because a signature for permission for the immunization is mandatory.

DIPHTHERIA, tetanus, whooping cough, oral polio, TB skin test and measles vaccine immunization will be provided. Parents are reminded the measles vaccine is mandatory this year for children entering school for the first time.

Mrs Luella Canfield, county health nurse, said vaccine for typhoid for persons going overseas will also be available at the office on a free basis. She also reminded residents that the office now has the official vaccination stamp needed on overseas passports, meaning it will no longer be necessary to go to Lansing to have passports stamped.

THE FREE IMMUNIZATION clinics are also scheduled in Montcalm and Gratiot counties, the other units making up the Mid-Michigan District Health Department. In Gratiot County the clinics will be on the third Monday of each month at the courthouse in Ithaca from 1:30 to 4 p.m. In Montcalm, the clinics will be on the third Tuesday of each month at the courthouse in Stanton during the same hours.

Residents of Clinton may take advantage of the free clinics in the other counties if those times are more convenient, and residents of Montcalm and Gratiot are eligible to come to the Clinton County clinics on the third Wednesday of each month.

Indiana man killed in freak accident in county

This was the scene about mid-afternoon Saturday following a car-truck crash at US-27 and Clark Road in which a Columbia City, Ind., man was killed. The truck driver swerved to avoid a rear-end collision, but the truck went out of control and fell on the car.

2 deaths hike county's '66 traffic toll to 8

Two persons died on Clinton County highways during the last week, raising to eight the number of persons killed in traffic accidents in the county in 1966.

Last year the eighth traffic victim was not recorded until Oct. 20. Fourteen had died, however, before the year ended.

The victims the past week were a 10-year-old bicyclist who was struck by a car on West Grand River Avenue near Lansing, and a Columbia City, Ind., man whose car was crushed by an overturning truck on US-27 near Clark Road.

THE INDIANA man was Perry O. Geiger, 65. His wife, Charlotte, escaped with bruises and abrasions. State police reconstructed the Saturday accident in this manner:

The truck and Geiger's car, which was towing a trailer, were both northbound on US-27 just south of Clark Road in DeWitt Township. The car slowed in front of the truck to turn into a service station. The truck driver, Norman E. Lewis, 25, of Sherwood, swerved to avoid a rear-end collision, but the truck went out of control and fell on the car, crushing the top. Lewis suffered a mouth cut.

THE TRUCK carried a load of 150 pigs in a double-decker trailer, and most were killed or had to be destroyed.

The accident happened about mid-afternoon Saturday. It was midnight or later before the area had been cleaned up and the overturned truck removed.

It was the second fatal accident at the scene in just over two weeks. A Lansing man was struck and killed by a car while crossing US-27 there July 21.

THE PAST WEEK'S first fatal accident occurred about 5:50 p.m. last Thursday a quarter-ious deficiencies when looking over the homes, the code enforcer, who evaluates the inspection reports, will notify the homeowner by mail of possible violations and list the deficiencies. The city will also ask for the cooperation of the homeowner in having repairs made, and the homeowner will be given ample time to make the changes before a reinspection.

IF THE HOMEOWNER should object to the inspection findings, he or she has the recourse of appeal—to the planning commission on the housing code or to the city commission on the fire code.

The housing code inspection form concerns itself with such subjects as kitchen facilities, toilet facilities, bath, water supply, washing facilities, dual egress, lighting, heating, room facilities, deterioration index, infestation index, sanitary index, etc.

The methods employed in the inspection and enforcement of the codes are laid down in guidelines adopted by the International City Managers Assn., so the methods will not be something untried and developed locally.

THE FIRE AND housing codes, adopted last December by the city commission, are the last of five necessary in the city's workable program. Others are an electrical code, plumbing code and building, or structural, code. Zoning and subdivision ordinances are also provided for by the city.

The city has periodically conducted fire inspections of downtown buildings, but the code adopted last winter allows for extension of enforcement to the residential areas.

Code enforcement is viewed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) as a strong deterrent to the dissolution of neighborhoods in the slide from good to bad.

*IN THE 16-YEAR-PLUS history of urban renewal, it has become categorical that neighborhoods can deteriorate into slums with great rapidity," Howard J. Wharton, acting urban renewal commissioner, remarked in a June speech.

This is sometimes "too rapid for anti-slum efforts to maintain the pace and control the growth of blight. Code-enforcement with federal aid is a major instrument which can be brought into play against the evolution of slums."

"We have, of course, heavily advocated code enforcement since the very inception of urban renewal in 1949. The workable program . . . highlights code enforcements as one of its seven elements."

Copies of the St. Johns fire and housing codes can be obtained on a loan basis at the Bement Public Library or on a look-at basis at the city offices.

Head Start ends St. Johns program

The St. Johns school summer Head Start program closed its doors Friday. Sixty-four children participated in the program. A field trip to the Capitol City Airport and the visit of a snake owned by the Richard Archer family highlighted the last week of activities.

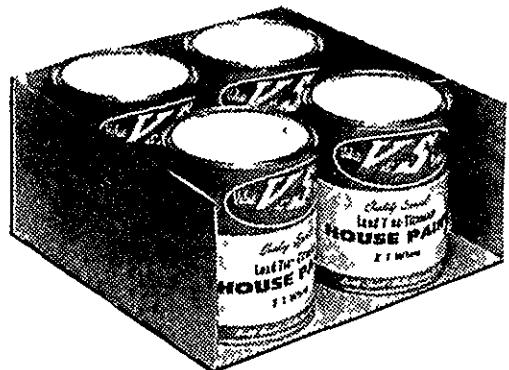

The children attending the program will be entering kindergarten this fall.

What youngster doesn't get a thrill out of riding on the big fire truck? These boys and girls in Mrs Henrietta Longenecker's Head Start class in St. Johns had a whale of a good time clambering all over the equipment recently getting a ride on the truck and hearing an explanation of how it all works.

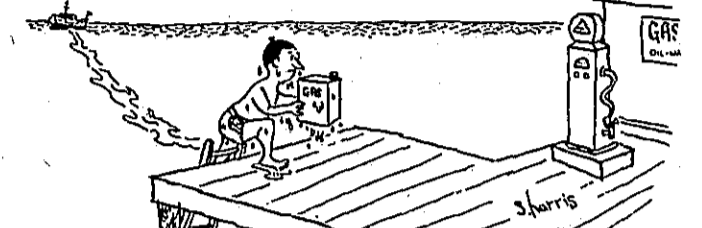

True, it's been a dry year, but even the experience of being in a boat—on dry land—was quite an experience for these youngsters in the Head Start program in St. Johns. The group visited the Frank Mizga farm for a number of interesting experiences, and this was one. Teacher Mrs Vera Bryant and teacher aide Marsha Mizga accompanied the children.

Board to talk over CD center at special meet

The Clinton County Board of Supervisors will hold a special meeting next Thursday afternoon to reconsider a civil defense emergency operating center in the basement of the proposed east wing of the courthouse. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p.m. Aug. 18. According to the official call for the meeting, it will be held "for the purpose of considering the question of accepting bids relative to the inclusion in the new east wing of the Clinton County Courthouse of a civil defense emergency operating center, known to the members of said board as alternate plan No. 1 with respect to construction of said wing."

2 hurt in Mead Road collision

Two persons were injured about 7:30 last Tuesday evening, Aug. 2, in a two-car crash on Mead Road a quarter-mile west of Maple River Road in Duplain Township. Ronald R. Pomransky, 20, of 7634 E. Mead Road, Elsie, one of the drivers, was treated at Clinton Memorial Hospital for mouth cuts. Bonnie Bashore, 15, of R-1, Bannister, complained of pains but declined treatment. She was a passenger in a car driven by James W. Roy, 18, of 401 E. Main Street, Elsie. Sheriff's deputies said the Roy car was going west and Pomransky east on Mead. Neither saw the other until too late to avoid the accident. The crash occurred on a narrow section of the road, on a curve, with high weeds lining the road.

238 confident pre-schoolers wave goodbye to "Head Start"

Two hundred and thirty eight Clinton County pre-school kindergarten children walked confidently from their classrooms, boarded their buses like "old pros" and waved good-bye to their teachers as the six-week Head Start session closed last Friday in Clinton County. "BECAUSE OF this it is contended that a large percentage of these children enter school with a maturity level well behind that of many of their classmates," County Coordinator Mrs Ethel Huot said. "This pattern often continues throughout the child's elementary and secondary school career. Operation Head Start is designed to help close this gap. Clinton County schools were among thousands throughout the nation which applied and received grants for this federal program. In Clinton County the 238 children were divided into 15 groups in seven centers throughout the county. Four classes were held in the Swegles Street School in St. Johns, two classes in the Griswold Elementary School in DeWitt, two classes in the Ovid Elementary School, two classes in the Knight Elementary Building in Elsie, one class in Fowler, three classes in the Bath Elementary School, and one class in the Westphalia Public School. THE CLASSES started at 9 a.m. each day and continued until noon. In all centers nutrition was stressed. Either a balanced breakfast or dinner was served each day to the children. Teachers and aides taught the children how to play educational games, sing songs, use toys, sit down at a table and eat as a group, and taught them to share and respect the rights of others. As the summer project progressed, the children were taken on tours of city parks, farms, the zoo, city market, playgrounds, local stores, bakery, post office, green house, the airport, and their school community. MANY COMMUNITY helpers such as the policeman, the fireman, the mailman, and the doctor came in to talk to the children to help the child realize that he was their friend and helper. Many new experiences were introduced and given to the children—riding on the fire truck, handling and caring for unusual pets, and riding the train. The opportunity of making things really happen was presented such as churning butter, making puddings, ice cream, and baking cookies and muffins, making jello and other treats for their mothers and classmates. Squealing at exciting experiences on their farm visits zations. The services of a diagnostician were used. Vision and audiometer tests were given and as a result three children were seen and are continuing treatment from medical specialists under the funds from Head Start. For each child in the program the school will receive a complete permanent health and school record (CA60). All physical forms are brought up to date and the child has met the kindergarten physical entrance required by the state law. Parental involvement was another important part of Head Start. Activities were planned at each school to bring in the parents, and many of the parents acted as chaperones on trips and cooperated at the clinics. Teachers and aides contacted parents personally and by telephone to explain the school activities. TEACHERS AND aides devoting time and effort in presenting a program for their children in Head Start were: ST. JOHNS—Mrs Vera Bryant, teacher, and Miss Ann Stone and Miss Marsha Mizga aides; Mrs Claribel Meyers teacher, and Miss Elyse Krehel and Miss Lois Dodway aides; Mrs Henrietta could not be forgotten as the children touched the wet noses of calves, pulled the curly tail of the baby pigs in an attempt to straighten it, and the unforgettable experience of riding the "buck board" drawn by a real live horse. GETTING THE children to talk requires a lot of time, patience, and a good deal of individual work. To do the job, each Head Start class of 15 - 17 children had one certified teacher and two aides. The children were given a brief school work period which may have consisted of a conversation period or a show and tell period, rhythms, songs, and an opportunity for each child to work at his own place at the table with crayons, pencils, or puzzles. Number concepts were introduced. Gradually school routine was developed. Finger painting and other creative activities were stressed. The teachers and aides spent much time telling stories and reading to the children. Puppetry proved very popular as well as dramatization of nursery rhymes. IN ADDITION to a cultural boost, Head Start aims to give corrective medical and dental care. Each child was given a dental examination by a Clinton County dentist. Following the evaluation each parent was notified of the result. Some 132 children were found to be in need of immediate and urgent dental help. Appointments were made for these and for the other less urgent cases. Head Start pays for dental and medical care and at present over $4,000 has been paid for medical and dental work. All children in the program had physical examinations. According to federal figures, 90 per cent of the youngsters in Head Start have never had a physical examination. Head Start in Clinton County offered follow-up in medical as well as in dental care. A CLINIC was set up to take care of the necessary immun-

New water plant tank in use on limited basis

The new ground-level water storage tank at the water treatment plant has been chlorinated and is ready for limited service.

City Manager Ken Greer told the city commission last Tuesday night a temporary electrical power setup will allow the city to use one of the three high-service pumps which pump water from the storage tank into the system.

The one pump is a 75 horsepower unit. Use of the pump and the new tank will rille up the water, Greer warned, since the water coming through the pump will take a different route through the system than has normally been the case. Being on a different route, the water is likely to stir up rust in the mains.

THE CITY HAS been making plans for an extensive water main flushing program once it gets the extra 400,000 gallon storage capacity of the new tank. Details of the flushing will come later.

The temporary pumping setup went into effect Monday. Wells No. 7 and 8 on the west side of the city will pump during the day directly to the new tank. The water will not be treated because the main electrical service to the plant has not been restored. It was knocked out when either lightning hit a transformer or the transformer malfunctioned several months ago. The transformer has not been repaired and reinstalled.

UNTIL THEN THE plant cannot operate. Arrangements were made last week for the limited and temporary power setup so that one of the three high service pumps and the tank could be used.

Greer said that as soon as the transformer is in place and all electrical services are hooked up, the plant should be ready to operate. No date has been announced, however.

On another water matter, Greer announced that water billings which went out last week were for a total of 121,237,200 gallons used by customers during April, May and June. This compared with billings for only 96,701,600 gallons during the same period a year ago.

Greer said in his budget preparation he had estimated water service revenue at $50,000 per quarter, and the last quarter worked out to somewhat over $49,000.

STORE LOOTED

The This and That Store on North Clinton Avenue was burglarized last Wednesday night, Mrs. S. J. Mudgett reported to St. Johns police. About $12 in cash was taken. A rear window was broken out by the thief, who then reached in and unlocked the window.

Few men on the road to success know when to change cars.

Car smashes front of downtown building

St. Johns police make inquiries and passersby look at the damage after this car on the left jumped the curb, knocked down a parking meter, damaged a sidewalk flower box and smashed the front of the Jim McKenzie Insurance Agency in downtown St. Johns last Tuesday, Aug. 2. The car was driven by Theodore Ashley, 79, of R-5, Price Road, St. Johns, who accidentally hit the gas pedal instead of the brake as he parked the car. He and his wife were uninjured, and no one on the street or in the building was hurt, either.

Canvassers OK county vote

The Clinton County Board of Canvassers has approved the results of last week's primary election in the county, thereby making official the winners announced last Wednesday morning.

Four townships had not reported with local-level results at presstime last Tuesday night, so here are those figures.

In Essex Township, John Setterington won nomination for supervisor with 92 votes, while Verne Upton received 92 for clerk, Waldo LaRue 92 for treasurer, John L. Brown 91 for trustee and Harold Dershem 4 for constable.

WILLARD KREBEL received 62 votes for supervisor of Riley Township, while Elmer Marten won nomination for clerk with 60 votes, Robert W. Law for treasurer with 63 votes, Charles Sillm for trustee with 62 and Lawrence Witt and Norman Marten for constable with 55 and 56 votes respectively.

In Lebanon Township, Walter Nobis was nominated for supervisor with 46 votes, Eugene Tabor for clerk with 45, Anthony Theis for treasurer with 46 votes and Louis G. Wirth for trustee with 46 votes. There were no nominations for constable. Charles Boak and Paul E. Graff were elected to the township committee.

In Bengal Township, Raymond Mayers was nominated for supervisor with 74 votes, while Rudolph Mohrke got 76 for clerk, Donald Harper 77 for treasurer, Carl A. Nobis 74 for trustee and Carl Feldpausch 68 for constable. Rudolph Mohrke, Don Harper and Walter Rossow were elected committeemen.

NFO group back from supporting financing bill

Eldeen Jones of Charlotte, Third Congressional District National Farmers Organization president, and a group of district farmers returned from Washington, D.C., this week where NFO leaders from 25 states talked with senators and representatives about farm legislation now in Congress.

In Washington with Jones were Dale and Kris Gage of Hubbardston, Vernon Bales of Charlotte and Lyle Decker of Schoolcraft.

Target for grass-roots counsel for the lawmakers was the REA financing bill, stalled in House committee. Briefly, the bill that brought NFO members to Capitol Hill calls for a new financing structure for REA very similar to the Land Banks now in existence. The measure thus provides for supplemental financing beyond the 2 per cent government loans and paves the way for meeting future money needs for cooperatives through their own banks.

CONGRESSMAN W. R. "Bob" Poage, chairman of the House agricultural subcommittee on conservation and credit, told more than 400 representatives of the NFO that rural electric cooperatives "have got to have financing to provide service 25 years down the line for the next generation" and praised the delegation for coming to Washington in support of the REA supplemental financing legislation now before Congress.

Farmers seeking passage of the new REA supplemental financing legislation say the need for REA is still evident and must be made part of plans for the future of rural America.

IN AN EVENING conclave Aug. 1, the NFO delegation heard Congressman Graham Purcell of Texas call for a public policy to arrest the deteriorating position of the family farm, and therefore the ability of farmers to meet the food needs of the nation. This cannot be done without paying farmers parity prices for the food and fiber, he said.

Dr. Leon Keyserling, formerly head of the Council of Economic Advisors under President Truman, called for farmers to "find their allies," which he said comprised 60 per cent of the American people. Keyserling warned the NFO members that the economic policies now being pursued will lead to a depression if they are not changed at once. He said, "Agriculture needs collective bargaining. Collective bargaining by producers of farm commodities may ultimately be the only sound approach by the farmer."

Those who follow their impulses have a poor pacemaker.

Bloodmobile Aug. 18; telethon next Monday

Previous blood donors to St. Johns' semi-annual Bloodmobile will be contacted by telephone next Monday night in a telethon aimed at obtaining new pledges of blood for the Aug. 18 Bloodmobile visit.

The Bloodmobile will be located next Thursday at the First Congregational Church in St. Johns from noon until 6 p.m.

The telethon next Monday night will be conducted by four volunteer callers. They are Nancy Puetz, Thelma Acton, Joanne Hopko and Sharon Stone, and they'll be working from the General Telephone Co. office, which has been offered for the purpose by Gen. Tel. District Manager Bill Graef.

THE WOMEN WILL be trying to contact by telephone all previous donors. It will probably be impossible to contact everyone since many would not be home on a summer evening. Mrs. Ken Spicer, local Bloodmobile chairman, said anyone who is not contacted may call her to make a pledge or just wait until the Bloodmobile sets up.

There's special need for type O-negative blood because of a current low supply, and Mrs. Spicer is putting out a special call for all persons with that type to come to the Bloodmobile.

A special appeal is also being made to young adults between the ages of 18 and 21. First-time donors are a necessity in keeping a blood donor program going, Mrs. Spicer said. Without it the number of pints donated would fall and the county would be in danger of being dropped from the Bloodbank program, whereby blood is free to any county resident needing it anywhere in the United States.

YOUNG PEOPLE between 18 and 21 do not have to have parental approval to donate blood if the young people are married. Those not married must have a printed form filled out and signed by their parents; the form is available at Boron's in downtown St. Johns.

Young all-stars romp, 20-2

St. Johns' recreation All-Stars, aged 7, 8 and 9 went on a scoring spree last Saturday in romping to a 20-2 victory over Lansing in a game played at the St. Johns park. The game was called at the end of three innings because of the time limit.

Ovid leads surge for local softball tournament laurels

The class D local softball tournament got under way Sunday evening and will wind up tonight (Thursday), weather permitting, with the local winner advancing to Hastings for the district tournament Friday.

The St. Johns representative will meet Lansing No. 2 in the first district game.

So far it appears Ovid has the best chance of taking the local laurels. They whacked Davis Cycle Shop of Elsie Sunday night by a 10-3 score and Monday night beat Becker's 4-2. Ovid was scheduled to play Co-Op Tuesday night at 8:30; the winner of that game will advance to the finals Thursday night against the consolation bracket winner.

In the second tournament game Sunday, Burton Corners of Ovid collected 10 runs and 10 hits in their victory over Davis Cycle Shop of Elsie. Gary Darling went three-for-three at the plate, while Mulder and Darling had two hits. The Cycle Shop scored their three runs in the second inning on a wild pitch, two errors and a double. Winning pitcher was Larry Darling; Jack Kelly was the loser.

IN THE THIRD game Sunday, Co-Op nudged Benson's 5-4 in extra innings. Benson's jumped off to a 4-0 lead, but Co-Op tied it late in the game and then won it in the ninth when pitcher Norm Love singled in the winning run. Love was the winner, and Marten, who came on in relief of Snyder, was tagged with the loss.

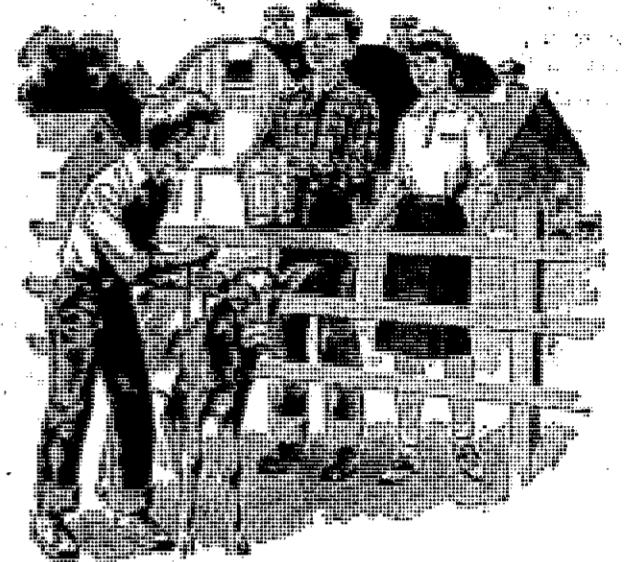

Monday night the second round got under way, with Elsie eliminating Davis Cycle Shop with a 14-3 shellacking. Mortlary gave up only four hits in posting the win. Neiler had two hits and Harper three to lead Bee's eighth hit attack. Gary Bashore started for Davis and was relieved by Vivian Wiseman, as Annie Sullivan, battles with an arrogant Helen Keller (Becky Upton) in this dramatic scene from "The Miracle Worker" being staged this weekend and next by the Maple Valley Players.

Becky Upton as the blind and deaf Helen Keller, at right, grabs food from the plates of her family as they discuss her plight. Clockwise around the table are David Swanson, Vivian Wiseman, Mary Beth Upton, Anita Swanson, Becky, and Eric Halsted. Standing in background is the maid, played by Pat Blemaster. "The Miracle Worker" will be presented this weekend and next at Maple Rapids.

MEMBERSHIP IN the new Maple Valley Players is open to all interested persons, Schnepf said. Information on the group can be obtained at any of the performances or by contacting any member of the cast. Persons outside the immediate Maple Rapids area are welcome as members.

"If people feel our area needs something of this type, then we will be glad to have their help and support," Schnepf said. "We are hoping for a summer theater for next year."

The theater building, which Schnepf hopes to use for showing movies on weekends during the fall and winter months, has a seating capacity of 200. But for the stage plays, the seating has been reduced to about 170 to allow for construction of a temporary stage on top of the front 30 seats.

The play will start at 8 p.m. each night Aug. 12 and 13 and Aug. 19 and 20.

Annie Sullivan (played by Vivian Wiseman in "The Miracle Worker") bids farewell to girls at a school for the blind where she spent time as a student. She leaves to become a teacher, and her first job will be to teach the blind and deaf Helen Keller. Dr Anagnos (Don Wiseman) watches as Annie says goodby to the blind girls played by Cheryl Schnepf, Cathy Halsted and Denise Macdonald.

Turning to matters other than the new school building program, the board decided to appeal two alteration changes ordered by the state fire marshal in 1961—the only two of 41 changes ordered at that time that haven't been carried out.

ONE ALTERATION ordered was the removal of all acoustical tile in the 1954 addition to the high school and the replacement of it with metal tile. It would affect all ceilings in the new addition suspended more than one inch. The area involved would include the gymnasium and most of the new 1954 addition.

Another alteration ordered was that heat-actuated dampers be put in all the flues in the high school building.

There are a great number of flues in the building, Supt. Earl Lancaster said, and this and the replacement of the acoustical tile would involve a great expense Lancaster said the board did not feel was necessary.

THE APPEAL OF the fire marshal's orders will be made to a special seven-man appeal board set up several years ago by the Legislature to hear such fire appeals.

In other business last Wednesday, the board:

—Granted diplomas to Connie Lee Williams, Thomas M. Coe and Lawrence E. Hugnagel upon completion of the requirements of graduates.
—Awarded the bid on milk for the 1966-67 school year to the Wilson Dairy of Carson City.

—Passed a resolution to accept the conditions and regulations for qualified bonds.

—Finalized a master contract between the Bus Drivers Assn. and the school board.

—Scheduled a special meeting for Aug. 24 to review refined drawing of the two designs the school board requested for the new high school. Architect Guido Binda will meet with the board to present the drawings.

Comedy next on Ledges stage

One of Broadway's all-time laugh hits opens Aug. 16 at the Ledges Playhouse in Grand Ledge for a week's run. Neil Simon's "Come Blow Your Horn" will light up the Ledges' stage with its own sparkling brand of modern comedy.

Jim Baffico and Dean Tschetter team up as the Baker brothers, the bachelor terrors of New York, in the Ledges' production. They have two problems—girls and their parents. The girls in their lives make the kind of problems they enjoy dealing with.

Their parents do not. John Peakes storms through "Come Blow Your Horn" as the business-minded father, the boss of a wax fruit company. He knows hard work will cure the problems of growing boys.

And Mother Baker, played by Sandra Kourey, knows that all difficulties disappear after a good dinner. Maybe roast beef.

But the Baker brothers have more immediate things on their minds. There's Peggy upstairs, a girl with money who says she wants to be a movie star, but who really likes to audition, and there's Connie, the girl who thinks about marriage seriously.

The Staus car was going south on US-27 when it struck an auto going east on Townsend and driven by William C. Buehler, 65, of 1005 S. Swegles Street, St. Johns. Buehler said he could not stop for the intersection because his brakes "wouldn't" work. He was ticketed for having defective brakes.

Traffic signs, lights alone don't prevent intersection accidents

A trucking industry spokesman today reminded drivers that traffic control devices, by themselves, don't prevent intersection accidents.

Speaking in connection with the Michigan trucking industry's August Courtesy and Safety Campaign, "Intersections," Jerry Gilles, safety director of the Michigan Trucking Assn., pointed out that, "As the volume of traffic has grown, traffic controls have been installed at more and more intersections. Existing controls have been made more positive in nature and have been supplemented with channelizing islands or lanes designated for turns and straight-through movement.

is the ever-present threat of failure to comply, with many intersection accidents resulting directly from this failure.

"But even with the vast increase in the use of traffic controls, there are uncounted intersections without posted traffic controls where right-of-way rules are presumed to adequately govern the movements of drivers," he continued. "No matter what type of control is in effect, the ultimate responsibility for avoiding intersection accidents rests with the individual driver who must keep his vehicle under control so that he can take whatever action is necessary to avoid an accident."

Gilles named safe speed as the basic element in maintaining control at intersections.

rule for this, except, of course, that you have to comply with posted limits. If you approach an intersection at high speed where your view of the intersecting street is severely limited by buildings, vegetation or other obstruction, you haven't got a prayer of stopping if another driver safe speed out from the side. To be safe, you must cut your speed considerably, probably well under the posted limit.

"On the other hand," "if you have a good view of the cross street and there is no traffic dangerously close in any direction, you could probably go through safely with little or no reduction in speed.

controls are present," Gilles advised, "bearing in mind, the more restrictive the type of control, the greater the potential danger. Look over the whole area to see how restricted your view may be so that you can judge your safe speed. If there is an advisory speed sign or speed zone in effect, this will give you a clue to the safe speed. Check traffic conditions on the road you are on, as well as the intersecting road."

"Last, but by no means least, approach every intersection with the determination that you will yield the right-of-way to any extent necessary to avoid an accident. Resolve to do so regardless of the fact that traffic control devices are in your favor, or that the letter of the law might require the other driver to yield to you. This is defensive driving. Practice it and your chances of continuing to drive safely will be greatly enhanced," Gilles concluded.

"It shouldn't take two hours to put a dime in the meter."

"BUT ALL THESE controls depend on driver compliance for their effectiveness. Yet there "THERE'S NO HARD and fast

"IT IS ALSO important to be observant approaching intersections. Note what, if any, traffic

High percentage of eligible sign for bill insurance

By July 1, some 679,830 Michigan people 65 or older had signed up for the voluntary doctor bill insurance part of medicare, Roger W. Seamon, district manager of social security in Lansing, announced today. This represents 93 per cent of Michigan's 731,000 residents of medicare age, he said.

As of the same date, out of a national total of 19.1 million persons 65 or older, 17.3 million, or 91 per cent, had signed up for the medical insurance protection to help pay their doctor bills and other medical services. This part of medicare is financed by a $3 monthly premium paid by the beneficiary with the government paying a matching amount out of federal general revenues.

SEAMON EXPLAINED THAT most people have the premiums deducted from their monthly social security, railroad retirement, or civil service retirement cash benefits. Others who have enrolled for the supplementary medical insurance protection, but who are not receiving cash benefits, pay the premium quarterly by check or money order to the Social Security Administration in most cases.

However, elderly people who may not be able to pay the $9 quarterly payment at the time they receive the quarterly premium notice may pay $3 or $6 and send in the remaining amount later, Seamon said. But they should make sure that payments are made in time to keep this protection in force.

Miss Saxton in Germany with youth program

OVID—Cynthia Jeanne Saxton of Ovid, daughter of Mr and Mrs Clifford Saxton, is spending two months with the Alfred Konetzko family of Siebenbaumen, Germany, through the Youth for Understanding Exchange Program. She writes she likes it very much. The people are friendly. They speak English very well.

Siebenbaumen is in northern Germany, northeast of Hamburg. It rains a lot but the sun does shine some part of the day.

Most of the people have farms but live in the village and go out to the fields by day to work. The Konetzko's have a slaughter house in which the entire family works in one form or another. Saturday is delivery day, and nothing else is done but that. Oma, the grandmother does a lot of the cooking and is teaching Cynthia some of the dishes she has liked especially well.

July 17 Cynthia and her family visited Hamburg and took tour of the harbor in an excursion boat. She sent a picture of them in the boat.

July 20-23 about 80 boys and girls of the Youth For Understanding Program including Cynthia went to West Berlin with their Counselors and toured East Berlin by bus. The only place they were allowed out of the bus was at the Soviet Memorial War for soldiers of World War II. While in West Berlin they stayed at a youth hotel. They took pictures of East Berlin through bus windows.

Her family plan to take Cynthia on a tour of Southern Germany and Austria before school starts which will be late in August. Cynthia will also attend school. She will arrive home Sept. 3 via plane at Detroit.

Mrs Elizabeth Waltz was transferred to the Ovid Nursing home from Lansing General hospital this week.

Mrs Robert Taft is under treatment in Lansing General Hospital.

Mr and Mrs R. C. Temple are spending a few weeks with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs John Howell of Seattle Wash.

Dennis Borton, son of Mr and Mrs Chester Borton, has completed his basic training at Great Lakes and is home on leave, then will leave for Little Creek, Va.

Mrs Duane Fruchey has returned home from California, where she visited her parents, Mr and Mrs Everett Wolfe and her brother, Larry and his family.

Mr and Mrs George Austin and Mr and Mrs Clyde Morrill spent several days this week at Drummond Island.

Andy Main is in the veterans hospital in Saginaw. Sgt. and Mrs Howard Steele and family of Amarillo, Texas, are visiting here for two weeks.

Mrs Steel's mother, Mrs Blanche DeMoss, will return to Texas with them to live.

Mrs Howard Wilber is under treatment in Owosso Memorial Hospital.

Mr and Mrs Clifford Saxton and Phillip were vacationing at Munising in the U. P. last week.

Admission the the fairgrounds will be free to all before 8 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 28, date of the annual sunrise service at the Michigan State Fair. The fair runs from Friday, Aug. 26, through Monday, Sept. 5.

It is canning time

What is the value of that treasure you have stored in your basement? If a canning jar is worth 15 or 20 cents, then some are wealthy women! But is a canning jar, popularly referred to as a "Mason jar," worth anything to you?

Some folks regard the containers as antiquated junk which has outgrown its usefulness, that should be hauled away to the dump. I'm sure this is the case in many families today. They don't stay in one place long enough to accumulate any canning jars, let alone plant a garden, so they are able to can the harvest. And certainly, this mobile population doesn't want to get bogged down with "Mason jars" whether they are full or empty.

and size of crop will also affect the cost and availability of commercially-canned foods. We can make wise purchases during the season to save pennies on the final product.

COMMERCIALY canned products are apt to respond less to seasonal price changes related to size of crop because of their carry-over or holding stocks. Homecanners base their costs on the current crop. It most often will pay (cost-wise) to "home" can products in heavy supply.

Just in case you are canning for the first time, a few words of caution. Use jars intended for canning. Many glass jars used for commercial packaging cannot stand the pressures of home canning. Lids and covers, too, will fit properly on the regular canning jar to eliminate spoilage. A pressure cooker is considered essential when canning meats, poultry or fish and non-acid fruits or vegetables.

BUT THERE ARE other kinds of families. One needs only to go to a fall fair to see the array of canned goods which assures us that the art of home canning still survives. True, since the advent of the home freezer, much of the food which previously had to be canned to be preserved, now can be frozen more easily as meats, poultry, fish and non-acid vegetables. But I'm sure many would hate to go through a winter without their home-canned supply of jellies and jams, fruit, tomatoes, fruit juices and pickles. And, even though it isn't a simple job, by using the pressure cooker we can enjoy canned meats and non acid vegetables with comparative ease and assurance of safety.

How do we decide whether to can or not? Cost is a factor. And cost of food to can is directly related to the season and size of crop. But the season

We can provide you with instructions on how to can if you wish to have the extension bulletins in addition to those you may have from the supply companies. An excellent bulletin is available to you at no charge at the extension office. Just ask for HOME CANNING OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES, USDA No. 9.

When rotisserie-roasting chickens and turkeys, truss and tie the birds so wings and legs are tight against the body. MSU home economists say the birds will roast more evenly when they are as compact as possible.

Before spraying a room with a pesticide, remove all of your pets' dishes. Also remember to remove the pets, including birds and their cages, aquariums, and fish bowls, advises the MSU Pesticide Center.

Nuts to the shell game

The old shell game of trying to decide which bag of mixed nuts has the best quality and the better ratio of walnuts to almonds is almost a thing of the past.

The United States Department of Agriculture grade standards have been issued on a voluntary basis for mixed nuts in the shell.

THREE GRADES will be used under the new standards. They are U. S. Extra Fancy, U.S. Commercial or U. S. Select. Consumers are more likely to see the two higher grades.

The two highest grades must meet the same quality requirements, but the top grade—U. S. Extra Fancy—requires larger size nuts.

BOTH GRADES also assure that the mixed nuts are reasonably mixed. There must be at least 10 per cent, but no more than 40 per cent, of each of the kinds always used in the mixture—almonds, pecans, filberts, Brazil nuts, and walnuts. Because the grade standards on mixed nuts are voluntary, some packagers probably will buy and sell nuts by grade without ever putting the U. S. grade shields on their consumer packages.

Packagers may show the U. S. grade shield as long as the product meets either U. S. Extra Fancy or U. S. Fancy standards and as long as the processors use USDA's continuous inspection service.

Husband, hog callers better start practicing

Soooooooooooooo—eeeeeeeeee!!!
Hen—reeeeeeeeeeee!!!
The first call will bring in the hogs. The second will bring in friend husband (provided his name is Henry).

Hog calling and husband calling are two of the most popular of the contests staged at the Michigan State Fair each year.

THE CALLS WILL ring out loud and clear at 4 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2, in the Old Timers' Grove at the fair. Prizes are the same in each: $10 for first, $7.50 for second, $5 for third. Does that place friend husband in the same class as the hogs?

Robert McLachlan, director of agricultural exhibits, lists these rules for hog calling. "Any farmer in the nation is eligible. No entrance fee is required. File notice of your intention to compete with entry clerk before the contest takes place."

And he specifies these conditions for husband calling:

"ANY MEMBER of the gentler sex between the ages of 18 and 80 is eligible, providing she ever expects to have, now has, or did have a husband. No entry fee is required. File notice of your intention to compete with entry clerk before the contest takes place."

Judges for both contests will follow the same rules, picking the winner on this basis:

Volume and carrying capacity, 30 per cent; appeal 20 per cent; assurance 20 per cent; originality 20 per cent; clearness and musical ability 10 per cent.

The Fair opens Friday, Aug. 26 and runs through Monday, Sept. 5 (Labor Day).

Waiting for last precinct

By SANDI RATHBUN

The normal working day at the Clinton County courthouse is from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. with the exception of election days. Then the County Clerk's office remains open until the last precinct reports in with their vote tabulation.

Two large sealed envelopes are brought in, one for the County Clerk and the other for the Board of Canvassers.

LAST TUESDAY, Aug. 2, was primary election day in Michigan and the midnight oil was burned at the courthouse.

Early in the evening the returns came in slowly but by midnight things had started to speed up to the point that we all had visions of being home by at least 3 a.m.

When 24 of the 25 precincts had reported in and it was only 1:45 a.m. we were ready to pack up our gear and go home.

AND THEN the long wait began. The last precinct, Olive Township, reported in at 4:55 a.m.

By about 4 a.m. all of us waiting for the last precinct were hearing voices down the hall. The voices turned out to be an extra loud pop machine.

Those present for the final moments of suspense were County Clerk Paul Wakefield and Lora Ripple, deputy in the County Clerk's office; Marie Belknap, register of deeds and Velma Beaufort, county treasurer, who were calling the returns in to the wire services; Betty Jane Minsky, who was reporting for the Lansing newspaper and me.

County clerks now record births, deaths

City and village clerks won't be making their own records of births and deaths in the communities anymore under a legislative bill signed by Governor Romney July 11.

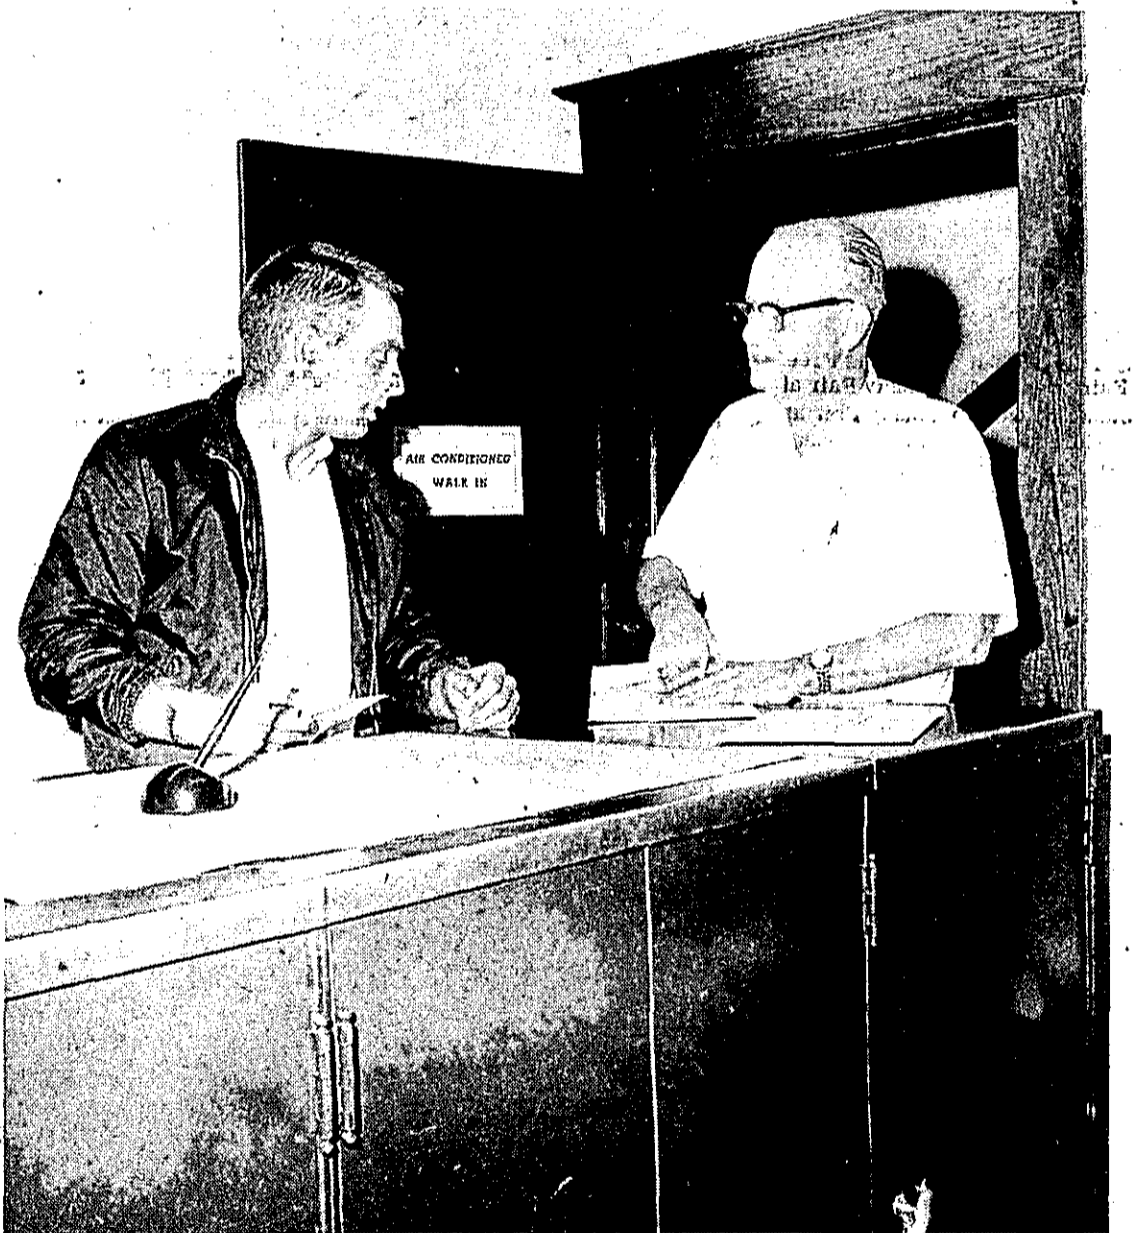

The measure puts all the recording in the hands of the county clerk in counties of under 200,000 population. Previously all cities and villages recorded their own births and deaths, made the certified copies and forwarded them to the state and eventually to the county clerk.

The county clerk now receives the birth and death reports direct and makes the necessary copies, notifies the state, etc.

The term "country style" can be used only on hams which have been rubbed with salt and sugar and aged for at least 60 days, say meat inspectors at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

8 take 4-H award trip to Canada

Five girls and three boys left Sunday afternoon for a week-long trip into Canada, an annual award for their outstanding work in 4-H projects. They left about 2 p.m. Sunday and will return this Saturday.

The itinerary of the trip is not definite, as is always the case. A stop at Niagara Falls and Toronto is definite, but the rest of the time will be spent at locations to be decided by the youths taking the trip.

They include Bernadette Bohill, Yvonne Harlow, Linda Johnson, Carol Lewis, Diana McQueen, Alan Anderson, Ron Dankenbring and Dan Findley. Chaparrones, for the trip will be Mr and Mrs Ray Hamer of R-6, St. Johns, and Mrs Louise Dankenbring of R-1, Grand Ledge.

The group decided last month to camp out part of the time and to stay at motels part of the time. Alan Davis, Dan Findley and Diana McQueen were in charge of arrangements for the camping equipment.

Bement Library Book Shelf

By Hilla Bross

FAST START, FAST FINISH, a new novel by Stephen Birmingham, is a portrayal of the American success-dream. Skillfully written, the book is full of drama and suspense, as well as humor and excellent characterization. The hero, Charlie Lord, regards life as a sort of extended tennis match, but he often wonders why he has not quite succeeded in winning the game. Charlie and his wife make a new start by moving from California to a pretty, shady suburb of New York, and the story goes on from there.

Bement Public Library has a new circuit collection of books belonging to the Central Michigan Library System, of which the St. Johns Library is a member. Included in the collection is a book by Dr Charles Burton Marshall entitled THE COLD WAR: A CONCISE HISTORY. The publishing firm of Franklin Watts, Inc., commissioned Dr Marshall to make this analysis, and for two years he had the opportunity to work with the Washington Center of Foreign Policy Research. The Center is affiliated with the School for Advanced International Studies and is a part of John Hopkins University.

THE BOOK presents the causes and the course of the Cold War, its character, its outlook, and the purposes of those forces behind it. Critics have called this book "a fine summing up of a complicated subject."

EMPERESS OF ALL RUSSIA:

CATHERINE THE GREAT is a fine biography of this legendary character, compiled with skill by Iris Noble. The book is aimed at the young adult reading audience, but any adult can gain a far greater insight into the mystery that is Russia through reading it.

JAPAN, CROSSROADS OF EAST AND WEST is an excellent presentation of this teeming island nation, written by Ruth Kirk. Mrs Kirk and her husband traveled extensively through Japan, often being the only American on the train or in the particular small village where they happened to be at the time.

THE BOOK is highly recommended by Yoshio Nara, consul general of Japan. It is full of bits and pieces of information about food and living in general. There are illustrations of Japanese writing, complete with English translations and an explanation of the Japanese writing system. There are descriptions of wedding customs and an explanation of the famed cult of Japanese flower arranging. This is a book which traces the history of Japan back to the shadowy past, but also brings it up to the bright daylight of today, with its strong western influence.

All of these books may be borrowed free and may be kept for two weeks and renewed for two more if desired.

This is the season for the summer story hour in the Children's Department of Bement Public Library. The first of five sessions took place Tuesday, Aug. 2 with Mrs Marlon Walling in charge and about thirty children in attendance. The program is under the direction of the librarian, who will be further as-isted by Mrs Maurice Barbour, Mrs Mark DeBoer, Mrs Raymond Torpey, and Mrs Robert Merrill.

ALL CHILDREN are invited who will enter the first, second, third or fourth grades in September. The time is 1:30 to 2:30 any Tuesday in August, the place is the Children's Library, and the "What" is a good time for all concerned. There is no charge, of course.

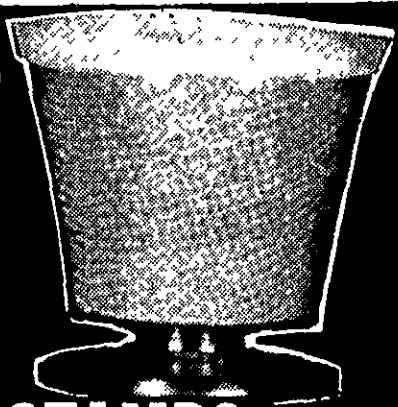

No other state has as many college and university faculty members abroad on educational missions as Michigan.

4-H'ers promote water safety

Attention swimmers, non-swimmers, water skiers, boaters! Don't be one of the 6,000 drowning victims this year.

If you're in, under or on the water, be sure you know how to swim, or make certain that in case of an accident you can be rescued.

A large group—540,000 boys and girls—is doing something right now about water safety. They are 4-H members participating in the national 4-H safety program sponsored by General Motors. The emphasis for 1966 is on water safety.

During the summer when families are overflowing the beaches, lakes, rivers and pools for fun and relaxation, it should be remembered that about a third of the drowning victims will be youngsters between 5 and 15 years old. Also, boys and men account for nearly 87 per cent of the drownings.

THE 4-H SAFETY bulletin gives specific suggestions for members which can be headed by everyone: 1) learn to swim 2) learn to swim better 3) learn rescue techniques 4) know your own swimming capability.

Some rules set forth for swimmers, which if observed could prevent drownings, are: avoid swimming right after eating; know the condition of the water such as depth, undertow, tides and if there are rocks, log or other debris on the bottom.

The 4-H'ers engaged in the safety program are from 9 to 19 years of age. According to carefully kept project records, they not only practice water safety themselves, but get their families and communities to be water safety conscious.

BESIDES THE personal satisfaction these youngsters experience in carrying out a life-saving project, they are further gratified by competing for honor and awards.

For the second year, General Motors will present $1,000 scholarships to eight boys and girls completing the best 4-H safety projects throughout the entire nation. Prior to 1965, the scholarships were for $500 each.

The most outstanding member in the entire state will be a delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress as guest of the sponsor. And it is from the 50 state award winners that the scholarship recipients are chosen.

A SAFETY MEDAL goes to top county achievers. Individual clubs also are recognized at both county and state levels.

All classes of award winners are judged by the Cooperative Extension Service which has set up the national 4-H Safety program.

3,000 entries due for 4-H Fair

Over 1,000 Clinton County 4-H boys and girls are making final arrangements to exhibit their projects next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Clinton County 4-H Fair at the fairgrounds at the St. Johns park.

Three thousand or more exhibits are anticipated. Again this year the largest number of exhibits is expected to be in the foods and nutrition project area. Four hundred thirty-one youths have enrolled this summer in the foods project, and many will have more than one exhibit competing for prizes.

A GREAT VARIETY of displays is expected, ranging from cookies to exhibits showing the results of good and bad nutrition. Judges will be Mildred Omor of Paris, Mich., and Rhoda Peck of Mason, along with a 4-H leader from Ingham County.

Clothing and knitting exhibits will be plentiful, with 460 youths in clothing projects and 361 in knitting, planning to show their projects at the fair. Clothing exhibit judges will be Mrs. Jerry Stone and Mrs. Hugh Banning of St. Johns and Mrs. Grace Ormston of rural St. Johns. Knitting judges will be Mrs. William Whitney of Alma and Mrs. William Havelka of Ithaca.

ONE HUNDRED eighty-four young horticulturalists will display vegetables to be evaluated by Judge Bill Kirkpatrick of Hastings, Barry County Extension agent in 4-H.

Dry weather again this summer has caused some problems for flower growers, but the majority of 153 youths enrolled in this 4-H project will have some nice flowers to exhibit. The judge for this exhibit area will be Robert Moore of Alma.

Dennis Armstrong of Michigan State University and Jim Crosby of Stanton, Montcalm County Extension agent, will judge the animals of 98 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H dairying projects.

LIVESTOCK projects, with 42 members' beef animals, sheep from 15 exhibitors and swine owned by six boys and girls, will keep Louis Webb of Mt. Pleasant, county Extension agent in Isabella County, busy as a judge in those exhibits.

Other exhibits and judges will be: horses, C. Edwin Dodge of Mt. Morris; entomology, Al Dowdy of East Lansing; indoor garden and landscape, Robert Moore of Alma; electrical and photography, John White of Consumers Power Co. in Lansing; poultry, rabbits and vegetable garden, Bill Kirkpatrick of Hastings; handicraft, P. G. Lundin of East Lansing; and miscellaneous home economics projects, Mrs. Martha Foust, home economics teacher in St. Johns.

Horses will be judged Monday, dairy projects Wednesday, and all other projects on Tuesday.

Horse show

The first event of the Clinton County 4-H Fair again this year will be the horse show, where some 121 young horsemen are expected to take part. The horse show will begin at 9 a.m. Monday.

Classes, judged in order of their listing, include: ponies, breed halter class, fitting and showmanship, Western pleasure, English pleasure, English equitation, and fun class (with barrel bending and a flag race). C. Edwin Dodge of Mt. Morris will be judge for the horse show. Ringmaster will be Tom Tyler; gatekeepers will be Robert Wolfe and Doris Strouse; and Chuck Johnson will handle the microphone. Jean Amos and Lela Clark will handle ribbons, Linda Shoemaker will be the clerk, and Dick French and James Gallagher will be the groundsmen.

The public is invited to watch all activities of the horse show.

Banjoman Eddie Collins

Well-known banjo wizard Eddie Collins will be performing next Tuesday evening at the 4-H Fair's vaudeville show.

4-H'ers win at state show

Four Clinton County 4-H'ers brought home some honors July 29 from the 1966 State Black and White Show at Allegan. Some 260 head of dairy cattle were exhibited there.

The local youths who participated were Dana Sue and Kathy Hazle and Charles and Bryon Green.

Dana Sue's bull calf, Golden Knob D. S. Royal Freddy placed 10th in the open class; a senior yearling, Golden Knob D. S. Pontiac Holly, was 11th in open class and second in the 4-H class; a four-year-old cow, Cor-Haz Explorer Dana S. was third in open class, first in the 4-H class and was grand champion junior show. Dana Sue had fourth place dam and daughter and placed second in junior fitting and showing, receiving a halter.

KATHY HAZLE exhibited a junior calf, Golden Knob K. L. Harbor Star, which was seventh in open class and second in 4-H class; a senior calf, Golden Knob K. L. Explorer Betsy, eighth in open class and fifth out of 33 in the 4-H class; a junior yearling, Golden Knob K. L. Lucifer Val Jan, 11th in open class and second in the 4-H class. Kathy also placed first in the junior fitting and showing contest, receiving a cow blanket.

Charles Green, showing Green Meadow Pontiac Rocketta, placed first with the senior calf in the open and 4-H classes, was junior champion in the open show and reserve grand champion of the 4-H show. Charles placed sixth in the junior fitting and showing contest.

BRYON GREEN showed and placed with a three-year-old cow, Green Meadow Fancy Patsy, and was second in the 4-H class with an entry.

Dana Sue Hazle and Charles Green were part of the first placing of junior get-of-sire and received a share of the trophy presented by Nancy Smith and Wilmar Hagenauer. The trophy will be on display for the next year at MABC headquarters in East Lansing.

Triticale—1st manmade food grain

Triticale—the first synthetic grain ever created by man may soon give us a feed belt pushing as far north as spring wheats can be grown. This new crop is a cross between wheat and rye, with some of the hardness found in rye with its ability to produce in cold climates and on poor soils and some of the quality of wheat.

It produces as much as 50 per cent more grain in each head than wheat, and each grain is usually twice the size of a plump wheat kernel which it closely resembles.

SOME OBSERVERS feel that Triticale could soon challenge corn on a per-acre basis. As for nutrition, it has far greater feed value than corn with the average protein content running about 20 per cent compared with corn at 8 to 10 per cent and with barley at 12 per cent and wheat at 15.

Much of the research work done on Triticale has been carried out by Dr. B. Charles Jenkins, research professor of agronomy at the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg, Canada. He has been able to accelerate the development of Triticale by harvesting two crops a year, one in Canada and one at CIANO (Centro de Investigaciones Agrícolas del Noroeste) in Mexico. This is being done under a grant provided by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Though this new grain is being thought of as a feed crop it could very well be developed into a food grain to produce wheat-like flour. As a food grain, this high-yielding crop may help ease the world's food shortage.

AGRICULTURE in ACTION

by M. L. Woell

MICHIGAN FARM BUREAU

Whatever the scientist may bring out of the test tube in his laboratory—the farmer will match in his efforts to revolutionize their marketing to match the ultra-modern chemo-mechanical farm operations they own.

In recent months, groups of farmers from several states have visited such faraway places as Rotterdam, Tokyo, Istanbul, London and Caracas looking for sales for American farm products. These business trips are usually made at the farmer's expense with no federal assistance.

According to the "Project 80" study, completed at Michigan State University in 1965, farmers will become increasingly involved in more effective marketing of their products in the next 15 years.

AT THE RECENT National Apple Institute in Traverse City, the major subject of discussion was how to do a better job of selling apples. Labor and machines were close seconds—but marketing was far ahead in first place.

One major effort at farmer-controlled sale of apples has been the organization in 1961 of the Michigan Agricultural Co-operative Marketing Assn. (MACMA) by members of the Michigan Farm Bureau. MACMA today is working on the sale of processing apples and vegetables for its members and is handling over two million bushels of apples yearly.

In addition to finding markets, MACMA provides its members with a means to collect and analyze market information, ultimately arriving at a common price which reflects the supply, carryover and demand for apple products. It gives the member a bargaining tool which he could not develop without organization.

ONE OF THE MOST highly integrated farm products today is the broiler or fryer chicken. Nearly all the broilers produced in the United States are produced under contract for several huge, vertically integrated feed-hatchery-processing organizations. Farmers have shared little in the profits of such operations, so they have started a sign-up program through Farm Bureau, in a marketing service for the broiler producer, with the efforts aimed at the improvement of contract terms for the farmer and the stabilizing of the industry.

Cape Cod, New England's famous sandbar peninsula, a relatively young offspring of the last ice age, has lost a two-mile-wide strip of land because of erosion by ocean waves. The U.S. Geological Survey estimates that at the present rate of erosion the outer Cape will disappear in 4,000 to 5,000 years.

Sheep, livestock exhibit for 4-H Fair

Steven Balderson, 14, of DeWitt Road, R-2, DeWitt, is enrolled in beef and sheep projects in his Stoney Creek Community 4-H Club. Here he displays a Black Angus cow and Cheviot sheep he will be showing at next week's Clinton County 4-H Fair. Duane Davis and Dennis Morrison are the dairy and livestock leaders of the club, which has an equal number of boys and girls in its membership of 50.

Name 9 4-H winners for state show

Nine Clinton County 4-H'ers were chosen as winners in the annual 4-H Demonstration Day last Wednesday, making them eligible to compete at the State 4-H Show at Michigan State University Aug. 23-26.

Winners in the senior division were: Marily Elchorn, DeWitt, who demonstrated home design; Judy Whitlock, DeWitt, periods of furniture; Larry Barton, R-4, Lansing, who illustrated how a beekeeper can avoid getting stung; and Allan Sibley, DeWitt, for a presentation on how to take a soil sample.

WINNING IN THE junior division were: Chris Kissonne, DeWitt, on taking a soil sample; Larry Wakefield and Gregg Minsky, who demonstrated the four positions for shooting; Robin Wilson R-1, St. Johns, for a demonstration on nutrition; and Martha Mikaly, St. Johns, who discussed color photography.

Purpose of the program is to encourage 4-H members to give demonstrations or illustrated talks.

The event, which was held at Smith Hall here, found 15 youngsters entering, each representing his 4-H club.

Judges were Janet Stahl, a senior at MSU and now serving as a summer agent in Gratiot County; Mrs Raymond Stewart, Bannister; and Al Root, extension agent.

Mrs Ray Peck acted as general chairman for the county contest and helped the members with timely tips on how they can improve their demonstration.

Giving a demonstration for the first time in the sub-junior division, age 9 to 11, were Glenn Pline, age 9, and Mary Mihalyl, age 10.

The 4-H demonstration program is a part of the 4-H Club Extension Service educational program in Clinton County.

4-H leaders

Somewhere between the sternness of a parent and the comradeship of a pal is that mysterious creature we call a 4-H leader.

These leaders come in all shapes and sizes, and may be male or female. But they all have one thing in common—a glorious twinkle in their eyes!

4-H leaders are found everywhere—at judging contests, junior fairs, square dances, and talent shows. They always are preparing for, sitting through, participating in, or recuperating from a meeting of some kind.

They are tireless consumers of muffins, expert at taking knots out of thread, peerless coaches, and spend hours on the telephone.

A 4-H LEADER is many things—an artist helping make a float for the Fourth of July, a doctor prescribing for an underfed calf, a counselor at camp, a lawyer filling out reports, and a shoulder to cry on when that dress just won't fit.

Nobody else is so early to rise and so late to get home at night. Nobody else has so much fun with so many boys and girls.

We sometimes forget them, but we can't do without them. They receive no salary, but we never can repay them.

They are angels in aprons, saints in straw hats. Their only reward is the love of the kids and the respect of the community. But when they look around them at the skills they've taught, and the youth they've built, there's an inner voice from somewhere that says, "Well done."

—Mrs. Dave Hill

Making his garden grow involves work

Mike Keilen (second from left), 14, knows keeping a vegetable garden productive and looking nice involves a lot of work, but there's a lot of satisfaction involved, too. Mike Plaza (left), 13; Sharon Stoy, 12; Sharon Keilen, 11; and Bill Stoy, 14, had words of encouragement, last Wednesday morning as Mike worked. They are all members of the Olive 4-H Projects Club, which has 39 boys and 22 girls in its membership. Mrs. Mildred Stoy is the vegetables project leader.

4-H youth prepare for nations' biggest industry

Would you believe—that farming employs 6 million workers—more than the combined employment in transportation, public utilities, the auto industry and the steel industry? That one farm worker produces food, fiber and other farm commodities for himself and 35 others?

The U. S. Department of Agriculture says you had better believe it! Farming is the biggest industry in the U. S. What's more, American agriculture has advanced more in the last 50 years than in all the prior years of our history.

In the process, several thousand competitive for county, state and national awards provided by the 4-H Field Crops program sponsor, Arcadian Products Department, Allied Chemical Corporation.

Right about now some 106,000 young 4-H farmers are getting ready to harvest crops including corn, oats, soybeans, sugar beets, cotton, sorghum, milo, alfalfa, and truck garden produce of sweet potatoes, tomatoes, cabbage and squash.

anyone who is interested in starting a field crops project can contact the county Extension office.

Milk is state's top farm product

Milk still ranks as Michigan's most important farm product. Michigan State University agricultural economists report that annual milk sales averaged over $200 million in the last five years and made up about 28 per cent of the total farm product sales.

Sales of all cattle and calves ranked second with an average of a little more than $90 million.

THESE JUNIOR farmers don't just plant the seeds and reap the harvest. They make soil tests, practice conservation by rotating and terracing, restore arid and eroded land, learn to judge crops, maintain farm machinery, and also study marketing.

Many of the older 4-H'ers have outpaced more experienced farmers with higher yields. Some

On this, the eve of the 29th Clinton County 4-H Club Fair, we at Fish and Dunkel Plumbing and Heating, would like to add our sincere congratulations to these youngsters who are doing such a wonderful job of building themselves for a better rural America tomorrow.

4-H'ers have fun with do-it-yourself treats

It's considered "in" when you know how to concoct a frosty thirst-quenching milk drink, and produce as if by magic a tray of irresistible snacks to go along with it. And you'll never fall to win the summer crowd with heaped-up fixings for do-it-yourself ice cream sundaes.

That's the word spread by 4-H'ers who are just about to wind up their annual dairy foods projects. And there are a lot of them — more than half a million from coast to coast. Sometimes they even make their own ice cream, topped with fresh strawberries, bananas, chocolate, whipped cream and the works.

Traffic accidents will not subside until motorists learn to make driving decisions correctly, quickly and regularly. The average city driver must make as many as 2,000 decisions a day behind the wheel, proof enough of the need for constant driver attention and a willingness to adjust to conditions.

Soil profile part of conservation project

This working group of youngsters is making soil profile as part of a conservation project in the Olive-DeWitt 4-H Club. Soil and water management field day set Fish and farm pond management, pond weed control, establishing hay and pasture crops on hard-to-mange soils and the development of overall conservation plans will highlight the Iosco County Soil and Water Management Field Day.

The field day will be held Wednesday, Aug. 17, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The tour will begin at the Roger Mott ranch located about four miles south of Hale, or three miles north of the M-55 and M-65 junction on Route M-65.

THE FIELD DAY will include on-site studies of farm and fish pond establishment and management, including aquatic weed control with some of the new chemicals. One stop will feature cash-crop rotation and irrigation studies, as well as the establishment of an overall conservation plan.

An "all-you-can-eat" lunch will be served by Iosco County 4-H'ers from 11:30 to 12:15.

Michigan State University specialists present to answer questions will be Leyton Nelson, crop science specialist; Vern Knudson, pond weed specialist; and Jack Post, Arenac County agent. Also attending the tour will be Jack Lake, Iosco SCD, and June Scott, ASCS office manager, who will explain financial assistance to farmers for "hard-to-start" seedings.

Study of swine ulcers may help man's problem

Peptic ulcers, long-time antagonists of man, have also been causing problems in swine herds. University of Wisconsin research suggests that both diet and stress are probable causes of ulcers in pigs.

The ulcer problem in swine was discovered a few years ago when Ted Kowalczyk, university veterinary scientist, conducted a study to determine the incidence and types of ulcers found in hogs.

After the problem became known, Kowalczyk — along with university researchers Nathan Reese, B. A. Muggenburg, W. G. Hockstra, and R. H. Grummer, — began looking for cause and prevention of peptic ulcers in swine. They think diet may be a big factor, and research is already making progress in that direction. Heavy corn rations promote ulcers, but hogs on ground oats or wheat seem to have very few of them.

FOR THEIR STUDY of hog ulcers, the researchers learned how to induce ulcers in pigs. They used histamine in bees-wax and oil which they injected into the pigs daily before meals for 14 days. They injected 21 pigs, and at the end of the two weeks, 16 had developed stomach ulcers that ranged in severity from slight lesions to perforated stomach walls.

The scientists believe that histamine stimulates over-production of hydrochloric acid in the stomach to a degree that harms stomach walls. The artificially produced ulcers have been the source of more studies by the researchers.

The big study now going on is the effect of diet. Oats and wheat seem to prevent or reduce ulcers and the scientists are seeking the factor in these grains that is an ulcer preventative.

IT LOOKS NOW like the preventive factor is in the oat hull. A hulled oat kernel doesn't prevent stomach lesions.

While studying the effects of diet on ulcers, the researchers are, not over-looking how stress and strain enter into the picture. An experiment now in the planning stages will test how much nerve strain it takes to produce ulcers in hogs. The pigs will be put under stress at eating time, and also will live in crowded conditions.

The researchers hope that the signs of control of hog ulcers through diet is just the first of many breakthroughs of finding the cause and cure of ulcers in man.

In terms of gross national product, if Michigan were an independent nation it would rank 11th richest among the countries of the world. Only 10 nations, including the United States, would rank ahead of Michigan. The others: West Germany, United Kingdom, France, Japan, Canada, India, Italy, China and Russia.

4-H scholarships hit new heights

If you're between 9 and 19 and hope to attend college, a trade or technical school, perhaps you can move your hopes toward reality with financial aid by way of 4-H. Over 300 scholarships valued at nearly $150,000 are presented annually to achievement-minded young people through the National 4-H Service Committee in Chicago.

These scholarships are awarded to individuals who have outstanding records in one or more of the various 4-H programs. The scholarships are sponsored by 61 business organizations, representing virtually every type of major business and industrial enterprise.

Business support to 4-H is at an all-time high. The three thousand grants given during the last 15 years have done much to enlarge educational and career opportunities of older 4-H members, according to Norman C. Mindrum, director of the National 4-H Service Committee. Most of the scholarships are for $500.

Investments, debts expected to rise for Michigan farms

The average Michigan farm is expected to be a $130,000 investment in 1980. That compares with about $42,000 in 1959.

And farm debts are expected to rise from $5,000 to around $32,000.

These trends will mean some important changes in the extension of credit to Michigan farmers, according to John R. Brake, Michigan State University agricultural economist.

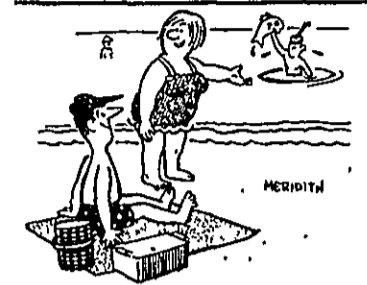

"FOR ONE THING, I expect to see a more formal and less personal relationship between farmers and their lender," said Brake. "Lenders will provide specialized credit services. They'll pay more attention to farm records and less attention to previous reputation of the borrower."

"At the same time, those who are farm lenders will know much more about farming than now. A number of lenders will help farmers with their records or furnish record systems for their farm customers' use. It's also quite possible that the lender will provide more consulting and management guidance to his borrowers.

"BUT," CONTINUED Brake, "I also expect to see lenders exerting a great deal more control in the farm operations. On many of the major investment loans, lenders will use restrictive covenants. That is, they will require their approval on the farmer's use of capital and credit."

Brake pointed out that these restrictive clauses will be a part of the financing package. He said that when lenders have $100,000 or more invested in a farm operation, they're going to want "more control" over what the farm operator does.

"Remember when he could never find the soap in the bathtub?"

Keeping flowers ready for 4-H Fair

Lots of water and constant attention to such things as weeding makes flower gardens grow up beautiful. At least that's the feeling of Debra (left) and Dorene Bauer, daughters of Mr and Mrs Harold Bauer of North Krepps Road, St. Johns. They are members of the Happy Hustlers 4-H Club, with Edna Schaeffer as leader. The club has a membership of 11 boys and 24 girls. Debra and Dorene will exhibit flowers at the 4-H Fair.

Wildlife disease concerns scientists

You seldom see a sick or crippled wild animal. Biologists explain this with the law of "survival of the fittest" which eliminates the unhealthy or weak from the animal population.

But disease does exist in wildlife populations, and scientists are concerned about it. Diseases in wild animals are significant because they can reduce wildlife populations. Sick animals can carry and spread disease to domestic animals or man.

University of Wisconsin veterinary scientist Daniel O. Trainer reports on these diseases in wildlife and their significance. Last year more than 300 disease-suspected wildlife specimens were examined in University laboratories. Some of the diseases found were avian tuberculosis in Canada geese and whistling swans; listeriosis in deer, trematodiasis in coots and blue-wing teal; canine distemper in raccoons, and lead poisoning in various water fowl.

ONE OF THE BIG natural killers of waterfowl in Wisconsin is lead poisoning. Since 1940, more than 1,700 Canadian geese have died of this disease in Wisconsin.

This is more than the total number reported in all of North America. Lead poisoning usually comes from geese accidentally picking up lead pellets from the bottom of lakes or from muddy areas when water levels have dropped.

Trainer and his co-workers have illustrated that a number factors such as climate, rainfall, soil type and diet contribute to lead poisoning in geese. Experimental study of this disease in Canadian geese have shown that birds can live as long as 72 days after accumulating pellets and death can result from picking up as few as four pellets.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT disease of wildlife is epizootic hemorrhagic disease. Since this virus disease is limited to deer, it has been very difficult to study its distribution and significance. It was necessary to bring the virus into the laboratory and develop tests to detect and to grow it. Success in the laboratory has now made it possible to study disease in nature, again showing the need for basic research to get the fundamental information to study a disease and its significance.

Computers show dairy potential

Michigan State University dairy scientists, after 10 years of gathering information, have now successfully genetically ranked every registered cow in the state of Michigan.

Once they gathered this data, they were able to program MSU's 3600 computer to handle the vast information. Now it is possible to make complete, updated genetic ranking of every Michigan cow in a matter of hours.

These genetic ranking are indications of the cow's potential breeding value. In other words, each cow in the state is given an index value which indicates how well her offspring will do in terms of milk production.

THIS GENETIC herd ranking is the first of its kind for any state in the nation. Not only is it an excellent guide for farmers to decide which calves to keep for improving herd production but it is also useful to breeding herds who can now select at a glance the best cows in the state for producing the best possible bulls for artificial breeding.

4-H'ers learn about machinery

Helping young people to learn how to use farm machinery correctly and safely is an important aim of the 4-H tractor program. The need for such knowledge and skills grows yearly with more and more powerful agricultural machines being put to use. Tractor project members learn to operate equipment efficiently, thereby reducing breakdown and repairs. Over 56 thousand 4-H'ers across the nation are enrolled in the tractor project.

4-H is stronger homemaker teacher

Just about every 4-H Club girl is taking a home economics project according to a summary of enrollment from 40 states just completed by the National 4-H Service Committee. The number last year totaled nearly one and a third million. Individual home economics projects vary according to needs and a desire to learn—ranging from foods, clothing and consumer education—to home management, child care and interior decorating. With such a variety, home economics has often been called the profession with one thousand job titles.

These fellows are members of the Bengal Community 4-H Club and have Wilbur Thurston and Dennis Koenigsnecht as their gun safety leaders. Here Doug Thurston, 15 (right), demonstrates proper use of a sling on a rifle for the others, Dan Koenigsnecht (left seated), Dave Harper, 15; George Thelen, 14; Bob Knight, 14; Larry Vitek, 14; and Dean Harper, 13. Holding their rifles in the back row are Bob Newman, 14, and Richard Vitek, 15. Thirty-three boys and 26 girls belong to the Bengal Community 4-H Club.

Hope to find bumble bees useful in crop pollination

How sugary is bumble bee honey? Most people would say nobody cares besides a bumble bee. But it does matter to scientists who are raising bumble bees in confinement and trying to develop better colonies. These scientists hope to find bumble bees useful in pollination of crops some day. Two scientists working on bumble bee colonies are John T. Medler and W. J. Knee, entomologists at the University of Wisconsin. They have been raising bees in special boxes in laboratories, and it's important for them to know what kind of nourishment a bumble bee needs. MEDLER AND KNEE collected honey from bumble bee nests found on farms in Sauk and Columbia counties of Wisconsin. They sampled honey from each nest with a medicine dropper and stored it in tight bottles so it wouldn't evaporate before it was tested for sugar. They say that ranged between 62 and 84 per cent sugar in Dane County last year.

Some bee researchers have said that bumble bees use thick honey and drink water to dilute it to the proper concentration. Medler and Knee think it is more likely that the bees select the proper mixture of thick and thin honeys to meet their needs.

FOR LABORATORY rearing of bumble bees they suggest that queens be given two concentrations of honey bee honey in the spring to select from. These would be 40 per cent and 60 per cent sugar. Bumble bees will mix this honey in the right concentration for feeding their larvae.

Bat-man study

Little brown bats have left their summer homes in Michigan to participate in an experiment at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago. The bats belong to Dr Robert Stones. He hopes to learn more about the biological "time clock" mechanism of bats by exposing them to a variety of colored lights in their cages. The research on the change in their surroundings may yield information of value to humans. Long-distance travelers, for example, often experience discomfort and general shifting of body functions when their environment is changed.

Lamb feeder short course

Interest in winter lamb feeding in Michigan has had its "ups and downs" in recent years. But Clinton county agricultural agents say state figures on shipments of feeder lambs showed an increase of nearly 20 per cent in the first six months of 1966.

Michigan hit a low of 11,000 feeder lambs in 1958, bounced back to 50,000 head in 1964 and then took another drop in 1965.

To provide livestock men interested in lamb feeding with the newest research information on management and feeding practices, Michigan State University is holding three one-day Lamb Feeder Short Courses:

AUG. 16 -- 4-H Cabin, 4-H Fairgrounds, Coldwater.

Aug. 17 -- Legion Hall, Tecumseh.

Aug. 18 -- 103 Anthony Hall, MSU Campus, East Lansing.

These topics will be covered by MSU lamb feeding authorities: Future outlook for ewe flocks and lamb feeding in Michigan; price outlook for feeder lambs; using lambs to clean up cornfields after corn picking; use of implants to increase gains and improve feed efficiency; keeping feeder lambs healthy; feeding practices and review of recent research results on lamb feeding from many experiment stations.

ANIMAL husbandrymen Graydon Blank and L. H. Blakeslee; veterinarian C. C. Beck; and agricultural economist David Cole of the MSU staff will handle the sessions.

Further details on the meeting can be obtained from the Clinton County extension office.

Smoked fish rule now in effect

To ensure lovers of smoked fish a wholesome tasty product is the aim of a Michigan Department of Agriculture regulation signed by Gov. George Romney last year.

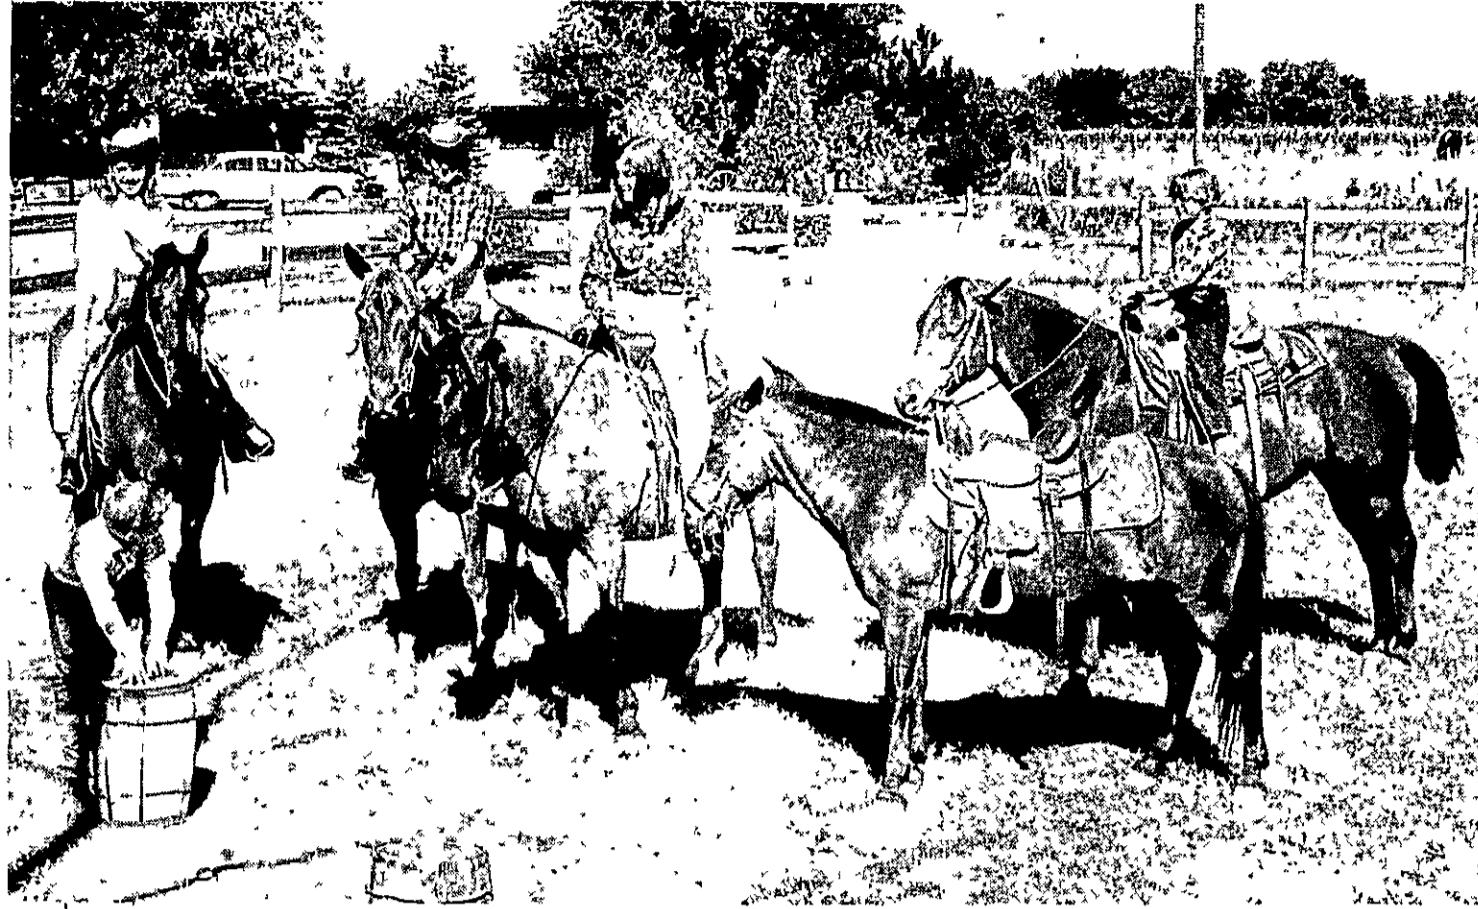

The regulation is the result of industry hearings and months of study by a committee of experts. Appointed by governor, they drafted guidelines for the smoked fish industry. It covers all phases of the preparation, processing and distribution of smoked fish with emphasis on temperature controls and other consumer protections.

AFTER CLEANING, the internal temperature of the raw fish must be maintained at no higher than 36 degrees. The fish must be smoked so the coldest part remains at not less than 180 degrees for at least 30 minutes. This is done by time and temperature recording devices, records of which must be available to inspectors of the department's Food Inspection Division.

Following smoking, fish must be cooled to 36 degrees or below with this temperature maintained through all channels of trade. If the fish are to be frozen, 26 degrees or below must be maintained through all channels of trade. In the case of vacuum packed smoked fish, the product must be sterilized after it is in its container.

Labeling requirements for the consumer are also written into the regulation. They point out how the consumer should handle the product after purchase.

ALL PACKAGING materials used to hold unfrozen smoked fish are restricted to one-time use only. Labels must contain

Horse show riders get in practice session

Being the only man in this particular group, Ricky Ackles, 11, drew the job of placing barrels for a practice ride by a few of the members of the We-Hah-Kay-Asta 4-H Club at the Robert Wolfe farm southwest of Ovid. a statement of the perishability of the product, the temperature of home storage, and that the product should be eaten within 14 days after the date of smoking. This regulation is for protection of the consumer, said Food Inspection Division Chief J. L. Littlefield of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Sees more farm credit in future

Long-term credit will be called upon in the future to provide a greater proportion of farmers' credit needs, predicted Hans T. Hagen, president of the Federal Land Bank of Saint Paul, Minn., at the 38th annual American Institute of Cooperation's farm business conference at Fort Collins, Colo.

He pointed out, "A farmer who uses his prime security - land - puts his best foot forward when he borrows money. This results in lower-cost credit. A 1 per cent lower rate is $1,000 on a $100,000 loan."

Hagen forecast that there will be fewer farmers and they will need larger amounts of credit. He said agriculture is now adequately financed to meet the needs of the market if you consider the amount of production which can be marketed profitably.

In looking at the future of long-term credit, Hagen predicted that "agriculture will be more adequately financed than any industry in the years ahead."

In 1964, the port of Detroit topped its old import-export record of 681,000 tons by 100,000 tons. Overseas-vessel calls at Detroit in 1964 exceeded 860.

Emphasizes use of ASCS plan

With the 1966-crop wheat harvest in Michigan about completed, Frank Light, chairman of the Michigan ASC State Committee, emphasized in a recent announcement that the basic purpose of the loan program is to help growers to obtain the best returns from their crops. To this end he added, the program makes it possible for producers to obtain a government loan, provided the crop is placed in approved storage, either on the farm or in a warehouse.

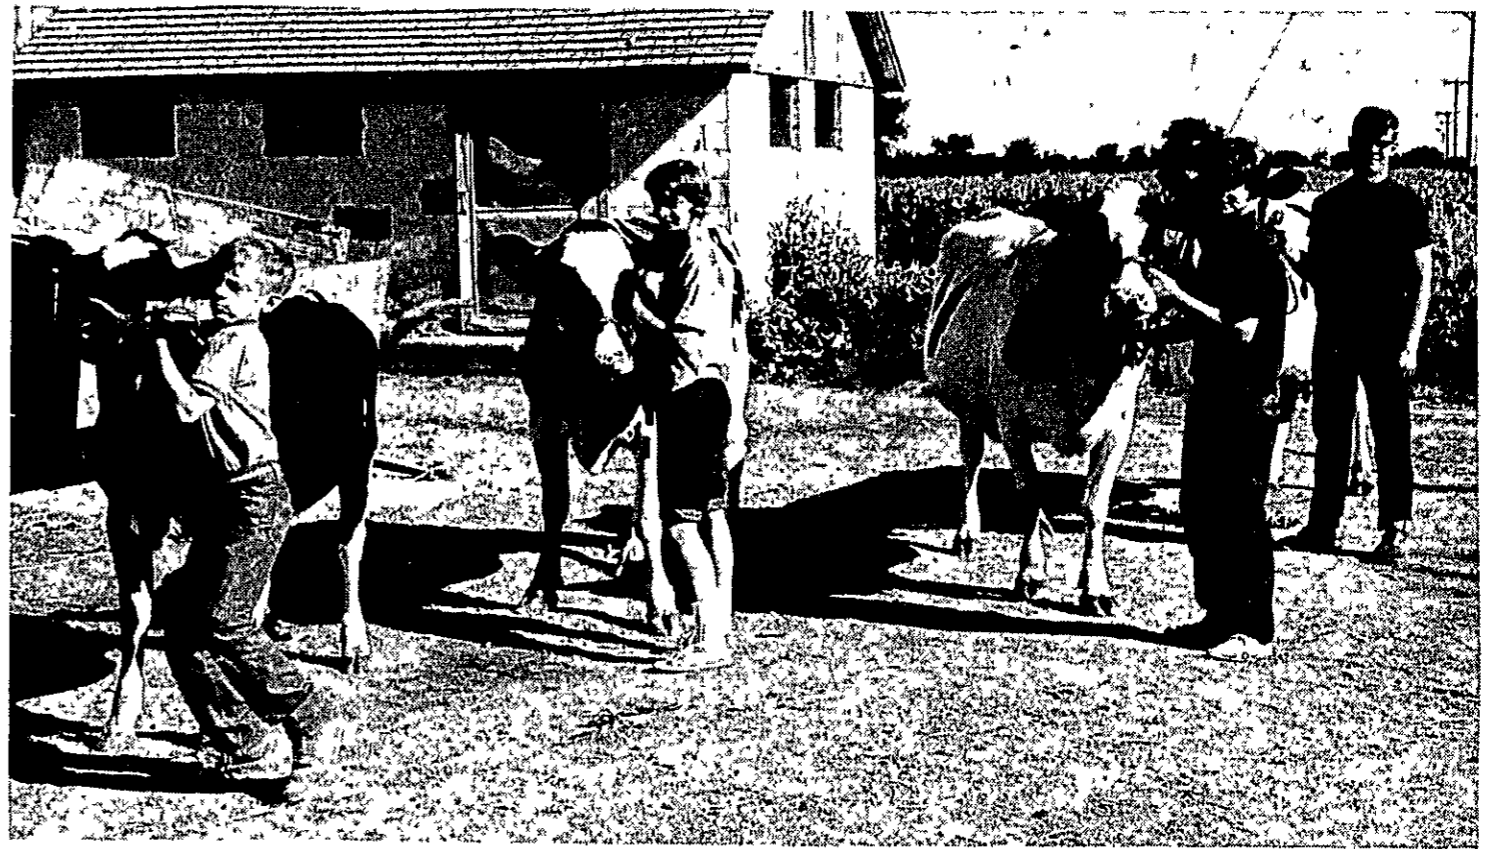

With current stocks of wheat considerably lower than in recent years the market price has strengthened throughout the spring and summer months. Light pointed out that producing the wheat crop is only part of the total job since marketing played such an important part in the net returns to the grower.

HE ADDED THAT reports throughout the wheat areas had indicated that farmers are storing considerable wheat rather than selling at harvest in volume as in previous years. Light pointed out that producers who wish to retain title to their wheat and market it later in the marketing season may obtain financing through low cost loans, if the wheat is eligible for price support. He added that the loans average less than 3 1/2 per cent interest. Under price support loan, grain remains the property of the farmer until the maturity date, and he is free to redeem it and sell it at any time that it is to his advantage to do so.

Light also pointed out that price support loans may be obtained on 1966-crops of oats, barley and rye that are currently being harvested in Michigan. He added that the loans may be obtained immediately on either farm-stored or warehouse-stored grain by contacting the ASCS office.

CONTINUING HIS comments, Light announced that 39 varieties of wheat had been designated as undesirable for the 1967 program. Varieties are classified as undesirable due to inferior milling or baking qualities because they are grown in areas where the variety is not adapted to the climate. The majority of these undesirable varieties are grown in the west; however, he added that the undesirable varieties grown in Michigan in the past are a hard red spring wheat known as Henry, a white wheat known as Gaines, and hard red winter wheat of the varieties Blue Jacket and Purkof.

He noted that representatives of the Crop Improvement Assn. support this action to help improve the overall quality of U.S. wheat production. Undesirable varieties are discounted 20 cents per bushel under the price support loan and purchase program.

Dairy animals in pre-fair display

The showing and judging of dairy cattle will be a big feature of the Clinton County 4-H Fair, and among the participants will be these four members of the Frank Rivest family on R-1, Elsie, Tom, 10; Yvonne, 13; Judy, 17; and Mike, 18, display their animals from their Holstein dairy project in the Four Corners 4-H Club. Andy Cobb is their 4-H dairy leader. The Four Corners 4-H Club has 14 boys and 38 girl members.

New guide helps fallout-proof homes

Your own house, apartment, or farm may already offer some protection against dangers of radiation from fallout, according to Vic Stine, regional rural civil defense director.

A new "Accent on Action" guide just published by the Rural Defense Office, Michigan State University, attempts to help people judge whether that protection would be good enough.

With some modifications, could a home basement or farm root cellar, for example, be improved to a reasonably safe level?

THE EMERGENCY preparedness guide, "Shelter - Your Safest Place," is designed to meet the needs of persons who have not yet built a fallout shelter, Stine says.

While reaffirming that a specially built shelter will give the surest level of protection, the guide points out that good protection can be obtained by improving areas already available in the home or on the farm.

The shelter guide is the latest publication in a series developed by the MSU rural defense staff to give practical information and advice on preventing emergencies or handling them if they occur.

Four other "Accent on Action" guides just released concern problems caused by floods, power shut-offs and other emergencies that affect food supply and sanitation. The guides are: "Making the Best of A Food Emergency," "Salvaging Water Damaged Belongings," "Building a Food Reserve," and "Maintaining Good Health in an Emergency."

The new guides, and 15 published earlier, are free at the county Cooperative Extension Office throughout the state.

It's wet down there

One of the deepest test wells for water exploration in the Southeast was recently completed at Jacksonville, Fla. The well reached a depth of 2,486 feet and was drilled to obtain information on the deep water-bearing rocks in the region. The U.S. Geological Survey reports fresh water was found at depths up to 2,100 feet, much deeper than had been expected.

Synthetic minerals

Scientists at Lehigh University are creating synthetic minerals by successfully duplicating geologic phenomena that took millions of years to occur. The chief natural forces duplicated are ultra-high temperature and pressure. The Lehigh system produces temperatures of 800 degrees C. and pressure of about 45,000 pounds.

The 117th annual Michigan State Fair will open Friday, Aug. 26, and run through Monday, Sept. 5 (Labor Day).

Citizens' band radios serve farms at low cost

Two-way citizens' band radios using 23 channels allocated by the Federal Communications Commission now allow farmers to link fields and farmhouse with reduced equipment costs of up to 75 per cent.

New equipment meets the rugged operating conditions of farm service. It eliminates delicate electron tubes and substitutes transistors that last indefinitely.

Farmers can buy the radios in both hand and mobile base station models. Tests show small hand units cover ranges up to five miles, while larger mobile base station types carry up to 20 miles, depending on terrain.

SIMPLIFIED CONTROLS on some models for farm use bring citizens' band radio communications even to children. Only three controls are displayed—on-off-volume, squelch and channel selector. The squelch operates much like a volume control, cutting out background noise when no signal is being transmitted on the channel. Any 10 of the 23 channels made available to citizens' band radio service may be used.

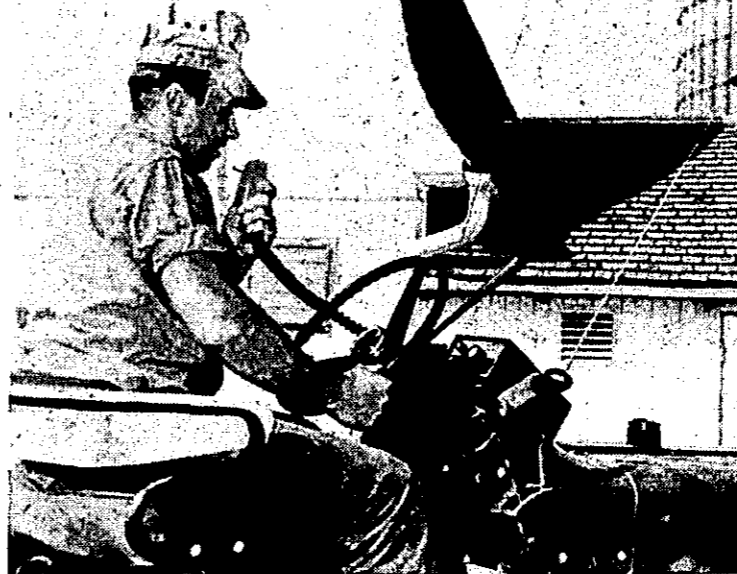

Push-to-talk button on the unit's microphone switches on the transmitter and turns off the receiver. An optional battery pack converts several models to portable operation for ranges of about 10 miles. The pack holds rechargeable nickel-cadmium cells that provide power for communications over 10 hours of use.

Both models are encased in heavy-gauge steel cases, spaced well away from the transmitter-receiver circuitry to protect against impact and abuse even when mounted on tractors. One unit can be mounted securely on the tractor, while its mate is placed in the farm kitchen. Instant communications to farm vehicles as far away as 15 miles is possible.

FARMERS MAY file for call letters (a fee of $8) and license up to 24 different units. Every five years, the license must be renewed.

Citizens' band radios keep equipment costs down for farmers by combining the transmitter and receiver on a single chassis. This combination is called a "transceiver" and occupies much less space than previous units with separate components.

Dealers recommend that farmers consider only transistorized two-way radio equipment for farm use. Transistorized transceivers are far more durable than units equipped with delicate electron tubes. What's more, units with transistors draw practically no power in the "receive" position, reducing the drain on tractor batteries. The units are available from distributors throughout the U.S.

Farmers have instant communications to the farm home with two-way citizens' band radios mounted directly on the farm tractors. Ranging up to ten miles, this unit uses transistors and heavy-gauge steel case to withstand field shock and abuse.

Great Lakes offer motorboat adventure

Looking for high adventure?

You can find it by following the challenging example of other hardy souls who have traveled the Great Lakes shorelines in small boats powered by outboard motors, the Conservation Department suggests.

These doughty mariners have gathered unusual seaside views of Michigan and have come away with an entirely new experience.

ONE FOREWARNING: This is a rough and tumble way to travel. You will get wet. You will be jounced and bounced. You will ache for clean clothes, silence, and good food.

But you will see things that you'll never forget and learn an immense amount about your state in a very short time.

Now, for those of you who are still interested, let's get down to the specifics:

THE BASIC elements needed for this trip are one boat, one outboard motor, a smallish pile of duffie and two or four people who can get along together without a lot of fuss.

The boat should be 14, 16, or 18 feet long, preferably of bounce-proof metal. The motor should be fairly husky, 18-horsepower being a pretty good size. If you already have a boat and motor, you probably bought them as a working unit so this point should raise no problem.

NOW ABOUT your gear. Needs for clothing, sleeping equipment, and personal items vary greatly from person to person, although it's very clear that no matter how much or little space is available, people will always manage to fill it with their duffie.

Travel companions should make arrangements for the sake of equality, and then stick to them. You will find if everybody is restricted to his own knapsack full of clothes, toothbrushes, cameras, shoes, swim gear, and fishing tackle that the knapsack itself becomes the "Great Decision Maker," and the fellow that stuffs his own too full must carry on a constant naval engagement getting things out.

ABOUT THIS STATE OF OURS

A County News feature

A GOOD WAY of reducing gear is to make each person responsible for one item used by everyone; Joe carries the axe; Spike totes the gas stove; Suzy packs the cooking gear; and Sally keeps the papers, compass, binoculars, etc.

Regarding clothing, canvas sneakers are probably the best all-around footwear for such a trip. There is no substitute for good rain gear. It should be old-style heavyweight rubber, canvas, or rubber-canvas, and brightly colored. The two-piece suits with draw strings are good; the hip-length pullover capes rather than the shorter button-down types are best, and a hood on the cape is grand.

FOR SHIRTS, pants and sweaters, take several light things that will combine into various layers and thicknesses. Then you can shake off layers when it's warm or pull them on when it's cold. No matter what the month, pack with the certainty that cold winds will blow.

Voyaging around the big lakes has a good deal of history back of it. These same routes you're about to take were traveled first by canoes, then by bateaux, then by three-masted schooners, then long freighters, and now by ocean craft plying the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Shore camping is different than other types. You should not be too bothered by mosquitoes because shore winds blow them away. But shore winds also blow tents away. Farther inland, wind is less, but mosquitoes more numerous.

MANY NIGHTS you won't need a tent; but keep a heavy canvas close by for ducking under.

You may only make progress during the morning and evening calms, say from 3 a.m. to 8 or 9 a.m.; then from 4 to 7 or 8 p.m. Use time for sleeping or eating when weather or night says you shouldn't be traveling.

RUNNING through early morning mists, soaking in morning's gradually lightening grays, then finally seeing the sun come up long after is worthy fare for any voyageur.

ANY OF MICHIGAN'S Great Lakes shorelines will serve for your voyage, but as a small boater you should look with caution on certain places such as the granite shores and brooding waters of Lake Superior and the commercially busy St. Marys and St. Clair rivers.

For those circling the Lower Peninsula, the so-called Inland Waterway offers an interesting shortcut. For this side route, you put in at Petoskey or Harbor Springs.

THEN FIND ANY willing owner of a pickup truck to tote you and your boat overland to Conway. From there, you pass through Round, Crooked, and Pickeral lakes to Burt and Mullet lakes and finally out into Lake Huron at Cheboygan.

entomology project

Insects can be a fascinating hobby to a young boy or girl and may even lead to a career. The 4-H entomology program, supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service, boasts nearly 80 thousand project members, many that are advanced in the skills of insect identification. These youth find their entomology projects both challenging and fun. In fact, some even find financial benefits gathering certain types of insects for research. The budding entomologists assemble extensive insect collections and keep accurate records of identification. When completed, the best records are considered for county, state and national awards.

Passing on the streets and highways can be a dangerous proposition. It can also add very considerably to your car's fuel consumption. If a car is keeping at your speed, stay behind him. Don't play the "I-Pass-You, You-Pass-Mee-Game." It's too costly in many ways!

Cressmans find Western vacation thrilling, awe-inspiring

By MRS ALMOND CRESSMAN

What a wonderful trip we've had! If a picture is worth a thousand words, surely seeing things first handed is worth millions of words. I have studied and taught geography for a number of years, but one just can't comprehend the vastness of our country west of the Mississippi until you travel it.

We had talked of taking a trip out West for a number of years, but there's always been summer school, or farming operations, or awaiting the arrival of a new grandbaby, or just something to complicate our plans. This year seemed a little more free, so during Easter vacation, we visited a travel agency in Lansing, and started making our plans. There were so many places we wanted to visit and see that it was a little hard to figure just how we could see it all in the amount of time we thought we could be gone before wheat harvest.

After plans were all made, we awaited confirmations, which took about two weeks. When they came through we thought everything was all set, until we discovered about the last minute that the Yellowstone part of the trip had been left out. Then our agent had to start work on making the changes and some of the confirmations didn't reach us until we were in California. This is one very good feature of a planned tour. The agency knows where you can be reached at all times. However, the entire trip - trains, hotels, guided tours, motor coach trips and everything, worked out just like clock work.

WE LEFT LANSING Wednesday morning, June 22, by Grand Trunk, and transferred to the Santa Fe in Chicago. Heading west through Illinois, we went through some very good farming land, with crops of oats, soybeans, some corn, and wheat. At Fort Madison, Iowa, we crossed the Mississippi River over a 24 span, 3,347 ft. steel bridge, which includes the longest swinging span in the world. Entering Missouri, the farm crops looked poor, with almost no wheat. However, after we left Marcelline (boyhood home of Walt Disney) crops started looking better, and the oats were

About travel reports . .

Summer is the natural travel time of the year, and many Clinton County folks are "stretching their legs" and seeing parts of the beautiful United States that are far from home. We encourage travel because it is educational; and part of the value of a trip is sharing the experience with others. This is the first detailed vacation report published this summer. Others are welcome to inquire about detailing their vacation, and the Clinton County News will gladly publish a few such reports each year.

ripening. Around Carrollton there had been a bad wind storm that had flattened the wheat.

Riding through Topeka, we were simply aghast at the amount of damage done by the tornado there last spring. There were many blocks of completely destroyed homes, uprooted trees, vehicles buried under piles of debris of bricks, trees, roofing, boards, broken up cars, furniture, glass, etc.; the area was simply a mass of rubble. In sections not hit so hard, people were still trying to salvage what they could from the wreckage of their homes. Clean up and repair crews were working, but it was a very pathetic sight.

WE WERE NOW passing through wheat and cattle country, but wheat still looked poor. As we passed through Dodge City we could visualize the big cattle drives of former days, with Bat Masterson and Wyatt Earp tracking down the outlaws and burying their victims in the infamous Boot Hill cemetery. In Garden City is the largest cooperatively owned grain storage in the world with a capacity of 5 million bushels. It has 142 tanks, 110 feet tall. From about this area on west practically all crops have to be irrigated.

This prairie land is arid to semi-arid, and where there is no irrigation nothing much grows except sage brush, wild sunflowers, and cactus, and in some areas it seems that there are just endless miles of nothing.

Through this hot country we really appreciated air - conditioned train travel. When there was nothing much to see we could roam through the train, go to the observation car, to the lounge car, read or sleep, or just visit with the many interesting and friendly people that one meets from all over the world, and from all walks of life. Particularly interesting on this part of our trip were two young Japanese doctors and their families who were going to Japan to teach their skill. Together the two families had 10 children, and they really had a ball on the train.

WE ARRIVED AT Williams Junction, Ariz., on June 23. Williams Junction has a beautiful new depot, and is the south gate to the entrance of the Grand Canyon. The motor coach was waiting to take us up into the canyon, a distance of about 57 miles. There were about 50 people, including the Japanese families, who went on this trip. Our reservations were for the El Tovar Lodge, which overlooked a beautiful view of the Grand Canyon.

We stood in awe as we gazed out on the wondrous beauty and the array of spectacular colors of the Grand Canyon. The Grand Canyon is considered the FIRST wonder of the world. There is just nothing like it anywhere else. It is a chasm 217 miles in length, measured by river course, four to 18 miles in width, and about one mile deep. It is the most spectacular example of the power of erosion known on this earth, and unquestionably one of the most awe-inspiring sights.

THE EL TOVAR Lodge is a very old and picturesque log lodge built in 1913, very well preserved and nicely furnished. It is just the type of structure that seems to be appropriate to such a magnificent setting. The dining area has huge windows overlooking the canyon, giving the guests a magnificent view of the splendor.

After dinner we saw the Indian dances, and a show of the early exploration of the canyon, with all its perils. The show was narrated by Emery Kolb, oldest canyon resident and explorer, pilot for U.S. Geological Survey. It seems there were very few of these explorers who ever lived to tell their tales.

The next morning we took a motor coach tour around the south rim of the canyon to "Hermil's Rest," a unique cliff house made of Canyon boulders, with a rustic lounge, great fire-place, and observation porch. In the afternoon our motorcoach drive took us to "Desert View" with stops at Yavapai Point Museum, and Moran and Lipan Points; also to "Watch Tower, a faithful re-creation of the strange towers erected by the ancient inhabitants of the Southwest centuries ago. The paintings on the ceilings and the interior walls, and the woodcarvings, etc., were all done by the Indians.

IN THE EVENING we took a long farewell look at the canyon, drinking in its grandeur, with its beautiful colors accented by the rays of the setting sun. Our motor coach took us back to Williams Junction where we again boarded our train.

After riding through the Mojave Desert and the San Bernardino Mountains, we arrived at Los Angeles depot at 11 a.m. Saturday, June 25. Almond's aunt, Mrs. Mabel Peterson Tebow, and husband Art, and his cousin Royal Peterson Kemp and husband Bill, were waiting. After the joyous greetings were exchanged, Royal said, "Well, how would you like to see some of Los Angeles while we're right down town?"

We agreed, so we started off by going to colorful Olvera

Street, which is the oldest street in Los Angeles. It is a narrow quaint little street, with original Spanish shops, featuring a wide variety of foods and souvenirs. The shopkeepers and dancers are dressed in colorful costumes in the authentic Mexican setting. It's hard to resist the curio shops, but all I bought here were some Mexican jumping beans.

Our next stop was at Grauman's Chinese Theater, where See CRESSMANS page 18

the most famous of the movie stars, such as Shirley Temple, Joe E. Brown, Ray Milland, Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, etc., have their footprints in the cement. Almond was most fascinated with the nose print of Jimmy Durante. Of course, there was a sidewalk photographer there who took a group picture of us, which made a nice souvenir. Then we went to world famous Farmer's Market, which is a huge market place covering a city block, and specializing in the finest produce; restaurants featuring foods from all over the world; and shops with curios from everywhere. We ate our lunch on the terrace here. The rest of the afternoon was spent in touring Los Angeles and Hollywood, seeing movie stars homes, etc., and finally arriving at Royal's lovely home in Sepulveda.

THE KEMPS have a son, Steve, 19, a daughter, Candy, 16, and an exchange student, Miss Gabrielle Kabel, 20, from Switzerland. "Gabby," as she was affectionately called, was about to leave after a year with the Kemps. They said we came just in time to help them through the time of parting with Gabby, which was a rather sad time in their home.

The first day after our arrival was Sunday, June 26. We went to church with Royal and family, at the First Baptist Church in Van Nuys, the largest church in the western area. The church has a membership of 6,000, and a Sunday School membership of around 3,000. It is truly a "church with a vision."

The church with its school rooms and office buildings, and parking lot, occupy a city block. They have also purchased adjoining land for expansion. They have special programs for the deaf, blind, crippled, senior citizens and many others. We were very proud to learn that Royal is coordinator of primary education there. Bill teaches a class of high school students, and the children are active in the young people's groups, and Candy sings in the choir. John Gustafson is the director of music in the church and Dr Harold Fickett is the pastor, and a very dynamic person indeed. We also attended the evening services.

MONDAY MORNING we started right out for Disneyland. Here again we were very happy not to be driving our car, as a stranger who is not familiar with the area better not be driving the Los Angeles freeways, with up to five lanes of traffic going each way. The traffic Monday morning was almost bumper to bumper. Disneyland is a fabulous place. One could spend several days there and not see and do everything. However, we filled our day full of interesting and exciting things. In a place like this, one is always looking for a familiar face, but just doesn't really expect to see one. What a great surprise it was to see Mr and Mrs Ralph Precious and family, formerly of St. Johns. We had a nice visit with them; it is always good to see someone from back home, when you are so far away.

Tuesday, June 28, we drove down to the Pacific beach. It was too cold to go swimming, but I did wade in the water just so I could say I had my feet in the Pacific. Then we visited Fisherman's Wharf where the big ocean liners dock. The wharf is lined with outdoor restaurants featuring all kinds of sea foods, and with shops where you can buy almost anything. We also visited Marine Land and ate our lunch at Port's O'Call. We again fought the freeway traffic which is really terrible between 4 and 6 o'clock. Tuesday evening the Kemps took us sight-seeing by night to Los Angeles, Beverly Hills, Century City, Hollywood, and wound up the evening having an ice-cream sundae at the Famous Blum's.

ON WEDNESDAY, Royal took us to Desilu Studios. She has a friend who is secretary to Jim Blakelee (Mary Carlyle's husband) and together they showed us around the studio. We saw them filming the new "Green Hornet" TV series, and the famous car driven by the green hornet. We also saw the "Bat Man" set. Yes we saw a movie star, Howard Duff. The offices of the Desilu Studios are in the original "Tara" house from "Gone with the Wind." In the afternoon we went to Forest Lawn Memorial Gardens and saw the famous painting of the crucifixion and the freedom mosaic.

This was "good-by" night for Gabby. She had become so much a part of the family that it was a rather sad gathering for dinner. However, the doorbell and telephone rang continually with farewell goodwishes. All of us went to the Los Angeles airport to see her off. About 50 young people from the church came in a church bus.

Aunt Mabel and Art picked us up Thursday morning after good-bys were said to the Kemps. We headed toward Las Vegas, a distance of 297 miles. The temperature around Los Angeles had been in the low 70's while we were there, but after leaving the San Fernando Valley, the temperature rose, and was over 100 degrees all the rest of the way. Thank goodness the car had air-conditioning. Art had reservations for us at the Tropicana for dinner and the floor show, "Folies Bergere" direct from Paris, featuring Lilliane Monteviechi. It was a beautifully spectacular show; however, as we drove by the Riviera we noted that "Hello Dolly" starring Betty Grable was on there. Since we didn't expect to get another chance to see a stage production of this again, we decided to go to the midnight show, and we were very pleased as it was a delightful performance.

FRIDAY WE LEFT Las Vegas and went to Hoover Dam, which is one of the world's largest hydroelectric installations and a very remarkable engineering accomplishment. This was very interesting to us even in the 109 degree temperature, as this dam and other dams provide flood control for the valleys and the water for irrigation without which most of the arid west would be barren waste land.

It was over 300 miles of mountainous driving from Hoover Dam to Palm Springs where Aunt Mabel lives, and temperatures ranged around 110. When we arrived there the confirmations for the Yellowstone trip and letters from home were waiting for us. Being eight days and 2500 miles from home, we felt a wee bit homesick. But there was no time for that, as the next day we started out for Old Mexico by way of Imperial Valley, through the date palm orchards, by Sultan Sea. Of course I had to wade in the Sultan Sea. Along here we saw a lot of irrigated cotton and sugar-beets. We stopped for a picnic lunch near El Centro with the temperature a hot 118 degrees. We crossed into Mexico at Mexicali. It was a very interesting place, but one does feel a little strange when all traffic signs, etc., are in Spanish, and all the people are talking Spanish, especially if you don't know any Spanish.

Aunt Mabel and I decided to eat a Mexican supper, but Almond and Art only looked on—I guess they lost their appetite. We didn't think this a very suitable place to stay all night, so we drove on to San Diego. Sunday morning we went to the San Diego Zoo, where it seems they have every kind of animal and bird and from all parts of the world. In the afternoon, we went back into Mexico, this time at Tijuana. This is a much cleaner and more Americanized than Mexicali. It was fun sight-seeing and shopping here. We were a little disappointed not to be able to take in a bull fight, but one just can't do everything when your time is limited. We drove back to Palm Springs Sunday evening.

MONDAY WAS washday, even if it was the Fourth of July, so we visited the local laundramat. In the afternoon we went over to Tramway-Land. The aerial tramway provides a dramatic and awe-inspiring experience of gliding along two and a half miles of cable, over five steel towers, in one of the two enclosed tramcars. The ascent is from the 2643 foot Valley station to the 8,516 foot high mountain station atop Mt. San Jacinto. This is the longest aerial tramway in United States. When it was time to buy the tickets, I guess I got a little cold feet even in the high temperature, and Aunt Mabel had been up several times, so we had just about decided not to go. While we were talking it all over, two ladies standing by us told us they had free passes for two extra, and Almond and Art could go on their passes. Well, to make a long story short, Aunt Mabel and I decided we'd better go along too. We certainly were very glad we did, as the ride up was fun, and the view of the mountain top was panoramic and beautiful.

The next morning, July 5, Aunt Mabel took us to Los Angeles where we said good-by and left for San Francisco. This was a beautiful and interesting trip along the Pacific coast. We saw many orange groves and good agricultural areas. We entered San Francisco with mixed emotions and a few misgivings. However, this city proved to be a highlight of our trip. It is an exciting and fascinating city built on hills along the San Francisco Bay. We had a lovely corner room of the 14th floor of the California Hotel. From our room we could see the lights of the homes and streets dotting the hillsides, the twinkling neon lights of the downtown areas, and we could see the Bay and Fisherman's Wharf area. It was a beautiful sight. Because of the hills and crowded conditions many people in San Francisco do not even own cars. The public transit systems are very busy here; there are street cars, cable cars and buses in operation. Many houses are built on the slope of the hill, making parking almost impossible, and most garages are either in the basement or on the roofs. The streets are very steep and narrow.

WEDNESDAY MORNING our motor coach tour took us through the city, the Twin Peaks, Knob Hill, Union Square, etc. In the afternoon we visited picturesque Fisherman's Wharf, one of the waterfront's most colorful facets, with its tangy sea air, and succulent sea foods. In the evening we took the exciting tour of China Town, which is the largest Chinese settlement outside the Orient. We had an authentic Chinese dinner at the Golden Pavilion, complete with chop sticks, which were given to the guest as souvenirs, and of course we bought other souvenirs while we were in this "city within a city."

Thursday, we took a motor coach tour across Golden Gate Bridge to Muir Woods National Monument, where the tremendous giant redwood and sequoia trees grow, some in this area to a height of 240 feet. The trees are awe-inspiring and magnificent.

THE SHRINER'S annual convention was in San Francisco at the same time we were. And can you imagine 80,000 people moving in onto a city? Every available room in San Francisco, Berkeley and Oakland was taken. We were surely thankful for having made reservations early. Well, the Shriners final parade was Thursday evening, down Market Street. There were three miles of bands, bag piping groups, drill teams, mounted horsemen, motorcycle corps, vocal groups, and floats, besides the dignitaries. What a parade! We watched until 10:30 but the parade continued until after midnight. Detroit was well represented.

We also toured some of the old Spanish missions in the area. "The Mission San Francisco de Asis" which was named in honor of St. Francis, was of special interest to me, since St. Francis' prayer hangs in my den, to help me through the difficult times which seem to come to every one.

We departed San Francisco for Salt Lake City, on the California Zepher, through the beautiful Feather River Canyon. This was perhaps the most scenic part of our trip, and could be viewed so well from the vista dome of the train. We rode all day and all night and arrived in Salt Lake City July 9 at 5:30 a.m.

SALT LAKE CITY is a beautiful and clean city founded by the Mormons under the leadership of Brigham Young. Our morning tour took us through the state capitol building of Idaho, and other government and city buildings. We went to Temple Square, saw the Mormon Temple, went through the Mormon Museum, and heard the famous organ recital in the Tabernacle. Our afternoon tour took us to Great Salt Lake. What we saw there was a little disappointing. The lake itself was all we expected, but it is deserted by the people of the area. The once beautiful and famous "Salt Air" Hotel, Pavilion, and Amusement Park has been closed and boarded up. All that is left is an old bath house, souvenir and eat stand, which is supported mostly by the four people.

Our next stop was Yellowstone National Park, our morning tour taking us through the national forests. It was a big thrill when we saw our first bear roaming along the road. Our guide was quick to warn us not to take any chances with them, as these black bear can run 35 miles per hour and out run a horse. We saw many, and I hope got some good pictures of them. It was almost noon when we arrived in the area of the weird and fantastic phenomena, the geyser. Thermal activities in the area include the marvelously colored hot-springs, mud volcanoes, steaming pools and terraced formation. I thought the Morning Glory Pool to be the prettiest, with its soft blue coloring, its funnel shaped crater, and the water, which is heated from below, boiling gently. Old Faithful was erupting as we approached the Inn that bears its name. It was a thrilling sight. It erupts regularly every 67 minutes.

IN THE EVENING we went on a wild life hunt. As we were driving through the wooded area, we kept teasing our guide about not knowing where the animals hang out, when all at once we spotted two elk. From then on Almond sat on the edge of his seat watching. During the evening we also saw a buffalo, a herd of eight more elk, two trumpeter swans, and a mother bear and her two cubs. We thoroughly enjoyed seeing these animals roam freely around the park. It is hard to believe how very See CRESSMANS page 19 large Yellowstone National Park is, it is the oldest, largest, and best known of our parks, and lies principally in northwestern Wyoming and extends into Montana and Idaho. To make a long story short, we toured through Yellowstone three days and saw only a small portion of it. The temperature here was very cool, and now I know why we had carried our warm coats all this distance.

We left Yellowstone the evening of July 12, and arrived in Denver, the last lap of our trip, on the evening of the 13th. The next morning we took the tour of the mile high city to the capitol building, the U.S. Mint, and other federal, state, and city buildings, and toured the beautiful well-kept parks. Denver appeared to be the cleanest and greenest city so far. Our afternoon tour took us to the mountain parks of the area, including Buffalo Bill's tomb on Lookout Mountain, Memorial Museum, Clear Creek Canyon, and beautiful Red Rocks Park. A huge amphitheatre has been built at Red Rocks, where sunrise services and all kinds of outdoor theater performances are held.

THERE WAS AN extra treat in store for us; The Opera Kismet, starring Joshua Hecht was being put on in Cheesman Park. We didn't want to miss it; however the first night's crowd was estimated at 11,000, the second 12,000, so we were afraid we might not get seats. We were very fortunate, as we met some of our new-found friends, and together we were persuasive enough to get seats in the second row. Lucky? It was a grand performance, and the costumes and staging were beautiful and very colorful.

 Friday was our last trip day, and it took us on an all day tour, first to beautiful Garden of the Gods, the famous Air Force Academy, to Colorado Springs, and then the thrilling, and I do mean thrilling, trip up to Pikes Peak, elevation 14,110 ft. Before we started the climb up, our bus driver asked if anyone had a heart condition, high blood pressure or any other ailment that might cause difficulty, but everyone seemed OK so we proceeded to the top. (Two young soldiers in another group, who were supposed to be in top condition, passed out from altitude dizziness and had to be taken to the first aid station.)

HOWEVER, the altitude didn't bother us, and we took several pictures and really enjoyed the scenery from this lofty peak. Another lovely couple whom we had met and whose tour seemed to follow ours, as we were together at Yellowstone, and again at Denver, were also at Pikes Peak at the same time we were. After exchanging good wishes for a safe journey down, we said "good-bye" to Mr and Mrs Wilford Blum of Washington, D.C. I was a little frightened of the descending trip, so what do you think I did? I slept most of the way down. Almond complimented the bus driver by saying, "Anyone has to be a pretty darn good driver to have my wife go to sleep even on a straight and level road."

We stopped for a short break at the world famous Broadmoor Hotel at Colorado Springs. What a fabulous place that is! Then the driver really put that bus in high gear, as one of the passengers made well in advance, as when we had to be at the depot at 7:30. We just didn't dare miss that train.

WHEN WE arrived at Chicago Saturday, we found the station swarming with policemen looking for "Speck," whose last known address was only two blocks from Dearborn Station. They made a very thorough check on all trains leaving Chicago, which was just the way I wanted it. We arrived in Lansing at 2 a.m. Sunday, and Richard and Linda were at the station to meet us. We thoroughly enjoyed every minute of our trip and are so very glad that we took it. We met some very lovely and interesting people, and we saw and learned so very much that one just can't comprehend until you see for yourself.

We were indeed thankful that our plans had been so thoroughly made well in advance, as when the United Airlines strike hit, we were in San Francisco, and so were 80,000 Shriners, more than half of whom were stranded without transportation. Six plane loads had been scheduled to go to Hawaii, but couldn't. Every available seat on trains and buses was taken. Things were really tied up all the rest of the way home. In Denver we tried to change a reservation so we might stay an extra day, but the station master said, "Brother, if you have a reservation, keep it! I don't know when I could get you out of here again."

We found everything OK when we got home, and were surely glad to be back in Clinton County where the crops grow green without irrigation. We found our wheat ready to combine, so we are happy to be back in the swing of things again after a wonderful vacation.

Each spot in the sky on a dark night is a sun - most of which are larger and brighter than ours, but thousands of millions of miles farther away.

Up and atom

Development of high-purity elements and compounds, and of highly densified ceramics, and a method of testing the strength of metals at high temperatures are some of the non-nuclear benefits to industry that have resulted from U. S. nuclear research, reports the Atomic Energy Commission. Among other significant recent developments that have resulted from nuclear research are advances in high-precision measurement, methods for remote handling of dangerous materials, high-speed photographic techniques and new advances in large-hole earth-drilling.

In production of peaches, Michigan stands near the top nationally, with a harvest that in some years has reached nearly 4 million bushels. Some of today's popular varieties originated in Michigan.

FINDING GOD IN NATURE

Down in Louisiana there's a spot which casts a spell of reverence upon my soul.
But what I have found along the bayou I have seen, too, in the awesome might of a granite peak, in the mystic wonder of a shadowy canyon. I have heard it in the restless symphony of the surf at night.
These, the shrines of nature, are God's hint of a spiritual meaning in life. But, long ago, man responded to God's hint. The churches in which we worship and learn and serve—these are the workshops He inspired. Week by week, year by year, under the hand of the Master, lives are being fashioned to His blueprint . . . devoted to His purpose.
Yes, we can find God in nature! But the road of spiritual discovery only begins along the bayou. It goes on from there to our highest quest.

Our food is safe, despite pesticide scare

The farm population and the amount of land devoted to farming have declined over the years, while the population as a whole has soared. Yet our farmers have been able to supply the nation with an abundance of foods of every kind, and of the highest quality.

It goes on to explain that there are a number of reasons why this has been possible. One, and a most important one, is found in the general use of pesticides. These destroy the natural enemies of crops which, in past eras, vastly undermined the farmer's ability to produce.

However, some little time ago, there was a wave of fear that pesticides were contaminating our foods and had become a menace to health. Luckily, thorough-going "total diet" studies conducted by the Food and Drug Administration disproved this.

Pesticide levels found in test samples were generally less than 1 per cent of the safe legal tolerance, and many of the most commonly used pesticides were not found at all. The tests were made on composite samples representing 12 major food groups including root vegetables, dairy products, and grain and cereal products.

What this means is that the pesticides are safe when properly used—and that the farmers are using them properly. The manufacturers' labels clearly describe the safe ways to employ the products.

AN INCREASING number of women are taking up the study of law. The usual number are continuing to lay it down.

PERHAPS it's called "grounds for divorce" because of the dirt.

On the tip of your tongue

They're even making studies about it now

You're in a mild torment, like being on the brink of a sneeze. You can almost recall that word, you can think of words like it. . . but you can't.

This frustrating state is known as the "Tip of the Tongue" phenomenon — in which one cannot quite recall a familiar word but can recall words of similar form and meaning.

AN EXPERIMENT to induce this TOT phenomenon in hundreds of volunteer subjects reveals that users of a language possess the mental equivalent of a dictionary, says Asst. Prof. David McNeill of the University of Michigan's Center for Research on Language and Language Development.

McNeill reported the findings at a recent university psychology colloquium. He and Roger Brown of Harvard University selected a list of words, then read definitions of these uncommon words to college students. The subjects were asked to immediately begin responding if they were unable to think of the word but felt they knew it and it was on the verge of coming back to them—the TOT state.

THERE WERE 360 instances in which the TOT state was signalled," McNeill says. "Of these, 233 were positive—a positive TOT is one for which the target word is known, one for which the data obtained can be scored as accurate or inaccurate."

The subjects were asked to indicate a guess as to the number of syllables and the initial letter of the target word, and to list the words they could recall that seemed related by similar sound, and similar meaning. They later reported whether the target word was the one they were trying to recall, or gave the word they had had in mind if it wasn't the intended word.

"SIMILAR SOUND words given for the target word sampan were: Salpan, Slam, Cheyenne, sarong, sanching and sympoon," McNeill says. "Words of similar meaning included: barge, houseboat, junk."

Although the subjects varied in their susceptibility to TOT states, the researchers came up with a number of interesting conclusions regarding the TOT state. Among them are:

Throughout the state of Michigan at this time of the year we have many county fairs in progress. These fairs are all quite typical. There are many things to see and many things to do.

Usually after attending one of these county fairs you find that the thing you did the most of was spend money.

IN CLINTON County at this time of year, we also have a fair. In fact, it opens next Monday at the city park, here in St. Johns. It's the annual Clinton County 4-H Fair and it's a great one.

The Clinton County 4-H fair gets bigger and better every year. The exhibits, the livestock and everything else that the young people of the county have worked on throughout the year, seems to outshine the previous years.

ANOTHER ASPECT OF the Clinton County 4-H fair is that when you leave you find that for the great time you had, the cost was nil.

Along with the exhibits are the livestock judging, style show and professional acts to give one and all a fine time, at a fine fair.

SO, IF YOU like fairs, we have a great one. Plan on attending this year, you won't regret it. Remember . . . it's next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the city park in St. Johns.

nesday at the city park in St. Johns.

LAST WEEK in this column I mentioned that my family was up in the north woods and seemed to be enjoying themselves without me. Needless to say, I have received quite a bit of comment concerning my deflated ego.

But, last weekend I journeyed north to spend Saturday evening and Sunday with them. They all seemed delighted to see me and it helped to know that they had missed me.

WHILE IN GRAYLING, Joan and I had the pleasure of meeting a couple of fellows from the "tall corn state" of Iowa. Major Ned Bates and Captain Al Ford are members of the Iowa National Guard and they were at Camp Grayling with a battalion of Iowa guardsmen for a couple of weeks of training.

In the course of our talk I mentioned that we were from St. Johns. Came back a fast reply from Ned Bates that they had spent one night in our city park on the way up and would be spending the coming Friday night in St. Johns on their way home.

I INVITED THEM to stop in and see me when they were in St. Johns and they took me up on it and dropped in Friday evening.

We had an interesting chat. They were very high on Michigan, but being true Iowans they liked their state a little better. They did agree that they liked to spend the guard training time in Michigan rather than Wisconsin and Minnesota where they had been in the past. They were sure that they would be back next year.

A humorous incident that they related about their experience at Camp Grayling, could have been tragic. But, after it was over with they thought it quite funny, we agreed.

Their battalion is an armored outfit, using tanks armed with 90 mm rifles. According to Cap. Ford, they can lob a shell about sixteen miles.

THEY WERE ON the range early one morning preparing to fire live ammunition when word came that it looked like someone was camped on the range.

Major Bates dispatched a jeep to the scene where they found a family had moved in during the night and set up camp, not realizing that they were in the middle of the impact area of the range.

WHEN INFORMED, the family packed quickly and moved on. But before commencing with their firing they decided to check the whole range. Light planes and helicopters, were sent up and three fishermen were found on the little lake in the impact area. These were informed of their position, and they also moved out in a hurry. Major Bates said the area is well ringed with signs in-

Reader questions commissioners right

Your news item regarding the candidates for the city commission primary was very interesting. Mr Furry and Mr Doug Carpenter should be supported for their efforts in running for city commissioners. They deserve the votes of all the voters who are interested in local government.

The other two candidates mentioned in your article should step out of the starting lineup. Mr Tiedt, who has already served 13 years and states he's not going to carry on a campaign, doesn't strike me as being a likely candidate— sort of a take me or leave me candidate. Well, after he has already served for longer than the President of the United States can serve, I'd prefer to leave him.

MR RAY Kentfield shouldn't only withdraw from the race, but he shouldn't have been on the council at all and should forfeit his office and should have years ago—and been prosecuted for fraud, because I understand that the local charter and state laws have been violated.

I understand it is against the local law to draw pay from the city as a fireman and also vote on and approve these pays as a councilman. I also understand it is a violation of city laws and state laws to do for pay any services for the city. I've seen Mr Kentfield's so-called contracting crew and him, on occasions, painting at the city swimming pool and in the city buildings, and I am sure he was paid for these jobs.

If no legal person has the courage to stop councilmen like these, I say voters surely can by supporting two new candidates who have no personal favors and who could make Mr Kentfield repay his "illegal gains."

Why no deferments for college freshmen?

What's with this idea that the draft board is no longer giving deferments to college freshmen? Isn't getting an education more important now than ever before in our country's history?

And how can a boy get to be a sophomore if he can't be assured of a freshman year? And why is it so essential to catch all the 19 year olds? In our family our nephews all finished college and then enlisted, one in the Coast Guard, one in the Air Force and one in the Navy. I know they were better servicemen for having waited those four years — they were more mature and more ready and willing to leave their homes and meet the world head on than they were at 18 or 19.

OUR SONS PLANNED on a college education, and now they are beginning to feel "what's the use?" Is it fair? And what's with a draft system that lets one board draft college freshmen

Considering that I'm a mechanical idiot and have had no experience at camping outdoors, I had two strikes against me when we decided to rent a camper trailer for our vacation.

Fortunately, I didn't "strike out," but neither did I end the one-week camping jaunt smelling like roses. It was quite an experience.

Our camper trailer was a simple one, and to make it liveable, the two beds slid out on runners from the center and then were braced from the edge of the beds to the lower part of the trailer. In doing this, one of the beds raised up from the center and then went out on the rails, and the other lowered from a position atop the other bed.

AFTER THE CENTER pole was raised, the canvass top would be snapped into place around the side of the trailer and beneath the folded-out bed portions.

During the dealer's demonstration of the tent trailer before we left, a rivet broke and had to be replaced with a bolt, and on the night before we left another one broke as we were putting the tent up to load the trailer.

Thus it was that we left town the next morning with some doubts in our mind about this sort of thing. But it is by errors that we learn, and our problems of the night before taught us a lot.

WE WERE GONE six nights, and in that span of time the trailer was put up and taken down five times. It took about 15 minutes—maybe a little less—to put it up or take it down, even if you were able to push and pull everything straight out so it wouldn't bind.

We had very little real trouble the first part of the trip. But we had lots of muggy air with us most of the time, and about three nights we got rained on. Off and running early every morning, we seldom had time to let the canvass "dry off."

Destroy those who disagree

Reprinted from Michigan Out-of-Doors

Has the time finally arrived when conservation groups no longer dare to disagree with Big Brother in Washington?

Alarming evidence points in this direction. Take the case of the highly-respected Sierra Club, one of the nation's foremost champions of natural resource conservation. They dared to disagree with two administration blue-prints. As a result they now find themselves threatened with an "investigation" by the federal Internal Revenue Service.

The results may well threaten every conservation group in the United States, including MUCC.

FOUNDED 74 YEARS ago by the famed John Muir, the Sierra Club is now headed up by executive director David Brower who has expressed concern over federal attempts to destroy Grand Canyon's beauty with two pork-barrel dams. MUCC and many other conservation groups have expressed equal indignation.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall has offered to compromise by eliminating one dam from the proposed project, but the Sierra Club won't budge. "We want to preserve the free-flowing river throughout the entire canyon," says Brower.

This group has also been fighting for a 90,000-acre national redwood park in California. The Sierra Club wants it; the Johnson administration doesn't.

Sudden interest in the financial affairs of the Sierra Club by the IRS has to be more than mere coincidence. "It's a low punch," says Brower. "If they get us, if we lose our tax-exempt status, it will be a blow to conservation groups all over the country."

WHEN BUREAUCRATS in Washington threaten to wipe out those citizens who disagree with them, it behooves all of us to ask ourselves a simple question: "Whatever happened to government of the people, by the people and for the people?"

Wheels of government move exceedingly slow

Wheels of government often move exceedingly slow. Witness a case which was heatedly debated two years ago and now flairs anew.

Early in 1964, the State Civil Service Commission began fighting to get the larger secretary of state fee branches under its jurisdiction. These are the offices which distribute auto license plates.

For decades, the secretary of state has been blessed with one of the largest patronage organizations in these fee branches. He decides where branch offices should be and who should manage the offices.

CONTENTION OF THE Civil Service Commission is that the largest of these, primarily in large metropolitan areas, employ several full-time people and do a volume of business which warrants their inclusion under the civil service setup.

The Commission ordered fee payments stopped as of June 30, 1964, to the selected large offices. Civil service examinations were given and over 100 top rankers on the written test were interviewed orally that spring to allow the commission to establish a roster of available managers.

When the state treasurer failed to stop the payments, the commission took the case to the Ingham County Circuit Court.

JURISDICTION OF the case in the circuit court was challenged by the secretary of state, who contended a decision on the matter should come from the new court of appeals.

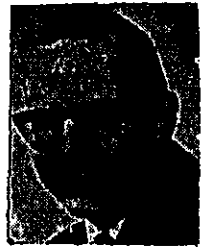

Thus, a two-year stall occurred until recently when the Court of Appeals decided the question before it. The question, however, simply meant the renewal of the basic issue of whether the large branches should be changed from fee offices to civil service salary-pay basis.

The court of appeals decision said only that the circuit court did have jurisdiction in the matter.

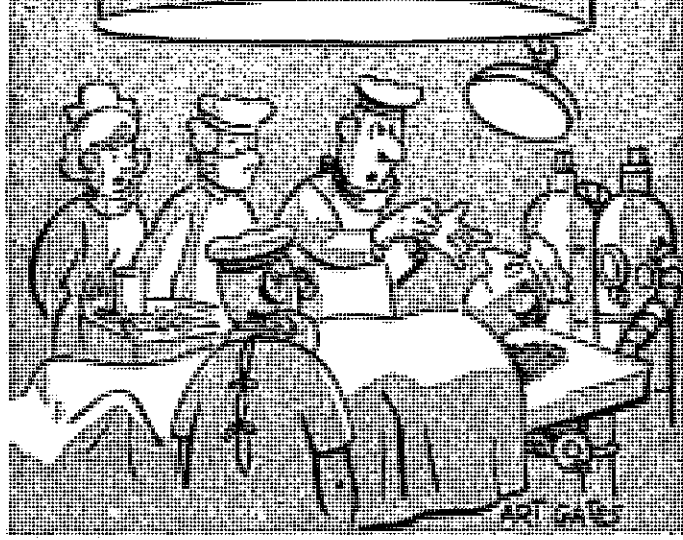

Thus, a fight which was almost forgotten will start anew. How long it lasts could be considerable because circuit court dockets throughout the state are heavy and the Ingham County bench is no exception.

No doubt any decision at the circuit level will be appealed by the losing side so it could be a good many years before a final decision is known on whether certain license plate offices will be brought under civil service.

High drug costs get Senate attention

Sen. Russell B. Long (La.) ... Today I am introducing a bill designed once and for all to close a major loop-hole which can send costs under medicare to astronomical heights.

"My bill—and I am joined in the bill by the senator from Wisconsin (Mr. Nelson) and the senator from Illinois (Mr. Douglas)—makes mandatory the prescribing of all drugs under the medicare program in terms of the generic rather than the private brand name ...

HARDLY A DAY goes by without some national columnist mentioning the name of Michigan's governor in speculation about the 1968 Republican presidential nomination.

Gov. George Romney isn't very vocal on the possibility one way or the other, but his out-of-state appearances are becoming more frequent, one mark of a potential candidate.

Unlike Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton and California hopeful Ronald Reagan, the Michigan executive has made no positive statements recently putting himself out of consideration.

MANY OBSERVERS commented that he was inadvertently letting his presidential aspirations show in some of the appointments he made under the reorganization of state government last year and early this year.

Several key supporters were placed in departmental jobs, the self-appointed forecasters said, simply to keep them close at hand until the time would be right to switch them to full-time campaigners.

The same observers watched and listened closely to see Romney's approach to his current year campaign. It is customary for a candidate to avow he is running for "this job and no other." Since the governor will be elected to a four-year term in November, Romney's wording on any such statement will be scrutinized with equal interest by both his supporters and his opponents.

"(BRAND NAME drug), a widely used central nervous system stimulant, sells to druggists for $22.60—5 milligram tablets, 1,000's. This branded product is also on the list of the 200 most widely prescribed drugs. It is available under its generic name of 'dextroamphetamine sulfate' from smaller companies for 75 cents.

(Same brand name drug) for which the druggist pays $22.60 will cost the patient $40, if he is lucky. On the other hand, if the doctor wrote down the 'dextroamphetamine sulfate' it would sell for 75 cents and the patient would get it for $1.25 instead of paying $40 ...

"As a matter of fact, knowledgeable buyers of drugs have been purchasing under generic names for years in order to take advantage of the lower prices. The New York Hospital introduced its hospital formulary system as early as 1816; that is, the New York Hospital has been doing what I am advocating, since 1816.

"UNDER THIS SYSTEM, hospitals buy drugs competitively under their generic names; and physicians using the facilities of the hospital signify their willingness to have these generic drugs administered to their patients even if their prescriptions actually specify grand names ...

"Even U.S. senators and congressmen—and for that matter, the President of the United States—are given generic drugs when they are patients at the Bethesda Naval Hospital or Walter Reed.

"WITH THE FEDERAL Government footing the bill under medicare ... the result will be that high-priced brand names will be expanded in the filling of doctors' prescriptions ... "A few weeks ago ... the Federal Trade Commission reported that the profits of the major drug companies ranked second to automobiles in size ...

"Unless this generic bill is passed by the Congress, costs of medicare to the federal government will be substantially increased."

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

This column has been very considerate of the drug manufacturers. For the complete text, including a price comparison chart, we would refer you to page 14903 of the July 13th issue of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. Your library has a copy.—J. C.

KNOWING THE AREA is full of tourist in the summer, they always make a check before any firing. As this incident shows, it paid off. Of course when campers go into areas they do not know and ignore signs, I guess someone has to look out for their welfare ... Major Bates has been in the Iowa guard for twenty years. He and his wife and four children live on a 240 acre farm just outside of Osceola, Iowa.

CAPTAIN FORD has been in the guard fifteen years and he is an insurance adjuster. He and his wife and four children live in Sheridan, Iowa. Al Ford said, next year he was bringing his wife and children to Michigan for their vacation. About midnight they took their leave stating that they had to check their men. But, they promised to look us up when they come through next year, and we will be looking forward to seeing them again.

And how about students who have to go to college on student loans? How can they possibly know what to do if they are not to be recognized by the draft. It seems to me we should put less emphasis on other countries and do a little rearranging right here at home.

Dusk in the 8th month — you can sense the ripeness

HAYDN PEARSON

After a humid August day when a hot sun has pressed heat on the land, there comes that poignant hour between dusk and darkness when one can feel Year's ripeness. Not now the long, lingering period of lessening light when days and nights are nearly equal. Time is sliding downhill. Now the shorter days and longer periods of darkness mean that Nature is hastening toward the time of maturity.

When the sun is low above the mountain rim and shadows have started to thicken in the valleys, there is an interlude when one can feel the ripeness. Perhaps it is psychological; perhaps it is man who is in tune with the Great Symphony of the seasons. But when the countryman walks his acres at day's end in the eighth month, he feels he can sense the ripeness.

RIPENESS is a cumulative process. Countless small insects and plants have finished their life cycles earlier in the season. Now it is the beginning of the ripening hour for field crops and fruits. Stand beside a cornfield on an August evening when the brooding silence is like a blanket, and you may think you hear the corn grow. Aman cannot hear apples swell nor acorns grow in their saucers, but he knows as he looks at them that growth is occurring and ripeness coming.

Thus it has been since plants took their places on our earth.

Seeds sprout in the magic of humus; they grow to maturity and insure the continuance of the species. Life goes in its ordained cycle. The Master Planner decrees that after the time of growth there is ripeness. The ripeness of an August evening is a meaningful lesson. It is not sad. It is part of life.

Are there really any sound reasons for buying a Chevrolet in August?

During August, it's as easy to own a Bel Air 4-Door Sedan as getting in the car.

Wait till you see how sporty you look sitting in your Impala Super Sport.

In a word: Six

1. Have you ever known the instant delight of selecting a new Impala Super Sport in the color you want, slipping into its Strato-bucket seats, and driving it home from the showroom the same day? Now's your chance. Your Chevrolet dealer has a big choice of models on hand with small August price tags.
2. More than likely, your present car will never be worth as much in trade as it is right now. Money—another good reason to buy a Chevrolet this month.
3. Read those articles about when to buy a new car and they'll tell you that August is one of the best months. And your Chevrolet dealer is ready to show you why... with buys that are better than ever.
4. If you think winter's tough on an old car, believe us, so is summer. There's added strain on the engine because of vacation driving. Greater tire wear. The cooling system has to work extra hard. A new Chevrolet can save you a lot of trouble.
5. You do a lot of driving for pleasure so why not ride on Chevrolet's Full Coil suspension. Let your feet feel that deep-twist Chevrolet carpeting. August is to enjoy.
6. Make your summer driving safer driving by taking advantage of the eight standard safety features built into every new Chevrolet. If your present car doesn't have seat belts, back-up lights, outside rearview mirror, padded instrument panel, look into a new Chevrolet.

Road Commission Weekly Report

The Board of Clinton County Road Commissioners held their regular meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 3. The board made an inspection trip to Chandler Estates Plat in Bath Township and approved this subdivision.

The commissioner, engineer and clerk attended the seven-county Council of Road Commissioners on Thursday. Montcalm County was host county of the meeting that was held at Langston. The engineer-director of the County Road Assn. polled each county on their reaction to proposed legislation that might affect the name and activity of Road Commissions.

THE DEPARTMENT of State Highways notified the Clinton County Road Commission that the State Treasurer was forwarding a warrant to Clinton County Treasurer for the second quarter payment of Motor Vehicle Highway Funds. The amount was $151,861.92. This was 6 per cent higher than the second quarter payment of 1965. Totals for the year show motor vehicle highway funds up over last year's just over 8 per cent, so the second quarter payment indicates a slackening of the increases.

A special meeting of the board was held on Tuesday, Aug. 9 to discuss legal procedures of townships spending money on roads. Your road clerk is attending the Southern Michigan Road Clerk's Assn. meeting at Monroe on Wednesday Aug. 10.
