

County may join airport authority to halt Lansing annexation bid

Clinton County News

116th Year No. 17 ST. JOHNS, MICHIGAN — WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 25, 1971 26 PAGES 15 CENTS

By TIM YOUNKMAN

ST. JOHNS—Clinton County made moves Friday to join the fight to keep the City of Lansing from annexing Capitol City Airport after hearing from the supervisors of DeWitt and Watertown townships.

During an afternoon session Friday, the Clinton County Board of Commissioners decided to study the effects of Lansing's latest bid to annex part of the two townships. They decided to wait until Sept. 7 before taking formal board action to stop the annexation.

In a surprising discussion with Milton King, DeWitt Township supervisor, and Herman Openlander, Watertown Township supervisor, the board indicated that Clinton County might make another attempt at joining the Regional Airport Authority.

The Authority, originally designed to include Ingham County, the City of Lansing, Eaton County and Clinton County, collapsed in November when Eaton and Clinton voters defeated it at the polls.

A new attempt, which would be placed on the Nov. 2 ballot, would give the county a voice on the Airport Authority board of directors, one of the agencies that must approve the annexation attempt.

The supervisors pointed out that their townships passed the airport question last November and felt that, with educational meetings, voters would approve the move this time.

Commissioner Roy F. (Jack) Andrews, who represents part of DeWitt, moved to have the county clerk write a letter to the Airport Authority "in strong terms, stating our position on this matter." Andrews and other commissioners said they planned to attend a special meeting Thursday at 1 p.m. at the airport to discuss the annexation bid.

Commissioner Gerald Lankford, another DeWitt area representative, said the board should hire a special prosecutor to "pursue this to the state supreme court." Lankford said he was positive that the City of Lansing had repeatedly violated sections of the state's boundary laws, although he did not elaborate on specific incidents.

King told board members that the airport area supplies the township and school district with $40,357 in tax dollars.

When asked the township's position on the annexation, King replied, "The Township is totally negative toward any annexation."

Openlander said the Airport annexation attempt was the beginning of a trend in annexing lands west of the airport which would be inside Watertown Township.

"They consider anything within the I-69 corridor rightfully belonging to the City of Lansing," he told the board. "The airport is the first bite of the cheese," he added.

Openlander said his township would join any effort to get together to fight the annexation.

"We're for the townships and we will back them up," Gerald Shepard, board chairman, assured the supervisors.

Joey and pal . . . friendship saved

ST. JOHNS—Joey loves Corky. And Corky loves Joey. It's kind of a natural thing for a five year old and a dog. They sort of go together. Like bees and honey, horses and riders and blood and human life.

Blood? That's right, blood. If it hadn't have been for the Clinton County Blood bank, Joey might not have been here today to love Corky.

Joey was born with a congenital heart condition. It required open heart surgery to correct it. Joey turned five on Jan. 15 and on Feb. 25, he underwent the open heart operation at the University of Michigan

Hospital at Ann Arbor. That surgery required between eight and 12 pints of blood. And that was only to prime the machine that kept him alive during the operation.

Somebody gave that blood to the blood bank so Joey could live. Probably somebody donated a pint during a blood drive like the one coming up this week in Clinton County.

Somebody like you, made it possible for Joey to love Corky. And Joey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moriarity are grateful that somebody did. And so is Corky.

LOVE

Love for Joey Moriarity is affection for his dog Corky. Love was possible because someone took the time to donate the 12 pints of blood used by Joey when he had open heart surgery last February. On Thursday you can show your love for people like Joey. You can give a pint of blood at the bloodmobile.

Harrison named to chamber post

ST. JOHNS—A second appointment to the Industrial committee of the St. Johns Area Chamber of Commerce was announced this week by President Rollin Huard following acceptance by Keith Harrison.

The naming of Harrison completes the Industrial committee appointments to the Chamber's board and follows the earlier selection of Charles Coletta, former mayor and commission member.

KEITH HARRISON

SINCE JOINING FEDERAL-MOGUL Harrison has been active in a number of professional organizations. He currently serves on the board of directors of the Lansing Industrial Personnel Assn.

As a St. Johns resident he has served on several Jaycee projects and this summer he has participated in the Little League program as a coach.

Harrison and his wife, the former Diane Christensen of Lansing have no children. The couple resides at 2505 W. Parks Road, St. Johns and are members of St. Stephen Lutheran Church of Lansing.

Street gift tabled by commission

ST. JOHNS—The St. Johns City Commission tabled action on accepting a parcel of land which would have given the city right of way street rights to extend Wight St. from Oak St. to Townsend Rd.

The parcel, 66 feet by 122, was dedicated to the city for street purposes by owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rand. The Rands made the dedication through a letter to the Commission.

However, Commissioner Roy Ebert objected to the gift and said he wanted to go on public record as being opposed to it.

"I am against this because I feel the city would then be put in a position to make a street at that location," he said.

MRS. RAND, ALSO A commissioner, said she and her husband had decided to give the land to the city, rather than sell it, thus preventing a street from going through at the location.

City Manager Harvey Weatherwax said the city owned right of way for a street up to the parcel in question. The Commission decided to wait for a legal opinion on the matter and it was tabled.

In other action, Weatherwax gave the final paving report which said a total of 1,334 tons of blacktop had been used on major roads and a total of 3,313 on local roads. The cost was placed at $50,384.32.

Weatherwax said the job was 479 tons of blacktop less than originally estimated.

THE COMMISSION authorized Weatherwax to enter into a pre-funding agreement with the Department of Natural Resources for a park grant engineering study.

A zoning report was read to the Commission which said a total of 36 building permits has been issued in the city during June, July and August for an estimated total of $323,000 in new construction.

In addition, weed control notices had been sent to 108 property owners, of which 94 had voluntarily complied and cut the weeds. The city cut weeds on 14 parcels. Second cutting notices are now being prepared.

The junk car ordinance enforcement has met with success, Weatherwax told the Commission. Of 34 notices sent out regarding 50 vehicles, 22 compliances had been met. The remaining eyesores belong to dealers, who have an additional 30 days to comply.

I-69 Corridor approved

LANSING—Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) approval of a corridor for the construction of a 26-mile segment of Interstate '69 Freeway in Clinton and Shiawassee counties was received today, the Department of State Highways announced.

The corridor, within which the freeway will be located, extends from Interstate 96 northwest of Lansing, easterly across US-27 south of DeWitt, south of Bath, through the southern portion of the Rose Lake Wildlife Research Center, and then northeasterly paralleling M-78 to a point northeast of Perry.

The State Highway Commission recommended approval of the corridor, based on an extensive study by the Highway Department and following discussion of alternate corridors at a public hearing in Bath in June, 1969.

A second public hearing on the precise route location and highway design will be held in 1972. Start of construction is scheduled for late 1974.

SPECIFIC PROPERTIES needed for the freeway will not be known until the specific freeway location and alignment is determined.

When completed, I-96 will provide a direct, non-stop route from the Michigan-Indiana border south of Coldwater to Interstate 75 in Flint. Nearly 50 miles of I-69 are open to traffic from the Indiana border to south of Olivet. Another nine-mile segment of I-69 from Olivet to US-27 north-east of Charlotte is scheduled to be open to traffic early next year.

The Highway Commission selected a corridor for I-69 from north of Charlotte to I-96 northwest of Lansing two months ago. FHWA approval is still needed before the Highway Department can proceed with design of the freeway within this selected corridor. Construction of this segment is scheduled for late 1974 or 1975.

County to join Metro police radio network

ST. JOHNS—By a unanimous vote Friday, the Clinton County Board of Commissioners agreed to accept a federal funding grant to update the county's police radio network.

Under the new federal program, Clinton County will receive $79,383.39 for the purchase and set up of seven new auto radios and transmitters, plus seven portable radio sets. The county will add $26,461.11 in local funds for the equipment.

The new program is designed to connect the metropolitan Lansing police network, which includes the southern Clinton township forces of DeWitt and Bath, with the Clinton sheriff's department. St. Johns police vehicles are already equipped with the radio equipment.

It would place all area police and fire agencies on the same frequency, if necessary, during emergencies.

Gerald Shepard, board chairman, cited a recent fire in DeWitt Township that required several police agency vehicles plus area fire equipment. He said each agency could only communicate with their own vehicles, but inter-agency communication was impossible.

Under the new program, that problem would be eliminated, he said.

Despite the unanimous approval, some doubt was expressed by Commissioner Maurice Gove.

"This looks like a bargain, but then we're paying for everybody else," Gove said.

Commissioner Roy F. (Jack) Andrews countered, saying, "This is necessary since we can then communicate rapidly."

The equipment will include a 300-foot transmitting tower, to be located between St. Johns and DeWitt. It will provide strong signals to any police vehicle in Clinton County.

In other action, the board:

- Concurred with a letter issued by the State Safety Commission calling for police agencies to continue to increase their forces, both in manpower and in educational training.
- The letter noted that 70 per cent of the fatal auto accidents occur in rural areas and that $480 million in damage last year was the direct result of auto mishaps.
- "This strains public funds," the letter stated. "These accidents are preventable through traffic control."
- It was pointed out that the Clinton County sheriff's department had been following the letter's suggestion. In recent years, the force has expanded from four to 12 men, plus other specialized training courses were added to the department program.
- Unanimously agreed to approve a new recreational plan to submit to the state department of Natural Resources for funds from a special recreational appropriation.

ROY F. ANDREWS

Phase-out planned

ST. JOHNS—Roy F. (Jack) Andrews is a little skeptical about the recent legislation switching the patronage position of vehicle license branch manager to a civil service post.

"I'm sure the Secretary had no alternative open," Andrews commented Monday. Recent legislation proposed by Sec. of State Richard Austin would eliminate the branch office position in favor of combining the driver license bureau with the vehicle license office.

Andrews said it was originally proposed in 1963-64 and was recently reevaluated by Austin. Andrews noted that about 35 branches would be affected by the civil service take-over.

It would occur through a seven-year phase-out process, Andrews explained, at the rate of about 15 per cent or less per year. On July 1 of each year, the branch managers would learn if their one-year contracts would be renewed. If not, they knew that their office would be closed during the next year and phased out completely.

Andrews disagreed with the reasons behind the phase-out program.

"I don't go along with it because I don't think it is more effective," Andrews said. He noted that one of the reasons for the phase-out was the recent use of mail orders to receive license plates.

"I found that less than 10 per cent have bought their plates before January," Andrews said. He said there would still be that crash before the April 1 deadline despite the mail plan.

Andrews added that it is bound to be more costly to set up new offices to combine the license bureaus. He cited salaries for a staff of about four or five people, shorter hours, less service, and more costs on transfers.

Local students rated in top quarter after figures released

ST. JOHNS—St. Johns students rank in the top 25 per cent among students across Michigan according to reports issued in a Michigan Education Assessment Program statement.

Tests given to St. Johns fourth and seventh graders revealed a high average in performance of basic skills.

In ranking students, the program issues a chart showing the percentile local pupils achieved compared with all state students in the same grade group. It also gives the percentile reached compared to students living in a similar community.

According to the figures released last week, local fourth grade students finished in the 73rd percentile statewide and 74 against similar communities in vocabulary tests. In reading skills, local they finished with an 81 statewide and 79 against like communities.

Other skills included mechanics of written English (76 and 76), and mathematics (78 and 77).

Overall, St. Johns fourth graders reached the 79th percentile in competition against like communities and statewide students.

Seventh graders dropped off slightly in the composite scores. They finished with a 78 against state students and 72 against pupils from similar areas.

IN VOCABULARY skills, the local seventh graders reached the 74th percentile in both areas. Other scores included reading (80 against statewide students and 75 against like communities), mechanics of written English (75 and 65) and mathematics (75 and 65).

In the performance on attitude testing, St. Johns fourth graders placed relatively low on the scale. Against statewide figures on importance of school achievement they placed 28 and 38 compared with pupils from a similar area.

Under self-perception, local students ranked 42 statewide and 49 in like communities. Their attitudes toward school were rated at 87 statewide and 64 in the smaller group.

Seventh graders were ranked at 34 statewide and 50 in like areas under importance of school achievement. They were rated 55 and 50 respectively under self-perception and 54-50 in attitudes toward school.

The students rated themselves slightly above average at the fourth grade level in determining socio-economic status. They placed themselves in the 51st percentile in both comparative groups. Seventh graders rated themselves at 69 in statewide figures and 70 in like community figures under the same socio-economic test.

Andrews also said the patronage jobs were much fewer in number than those issued through the attorney general's office. "The Attorney General has a great number of people employed on the patronage system."

Andrews was uncertain whether he would be named to head the bureau, when it opens. He said there would probably be special examinations set up and he would have to wait to be notified about that program.

"He (Austin) is cutting off one of his political arms and I'm sure if he had another alternative he'd have taken it," Andrews said.

EAST LANSING—A Black history course, which originated at Michigan State University, will be offered in two Michigan cities this fall.

The course, produced by the MSU University of the Air and Department of History, will be offered 10 Monday nights in Grand Rapids and 10 Thursday nights in Rochester, beginning in late September. Videotapes made on the MSU campus will be augmented by MSU instructors.

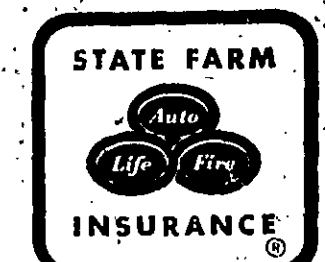

Information on the credit courses, fees and dates may be obtained from the University of the Air, 12 Kellogg Center, MSU, East Lansing, 48823, or from MSU's Continuing Education Centers in Grand Rapids or Rochester.

Design deadline is August 31

LANSING -- Michigan artists should be reminded of the August 31 deadline for submitting their designs for the 1973 Christmas Seal in the Call For Artists contest, said John R. Pettibone, Lansing, President of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

The winners of the Michigan contest will go on to compete nationally for a $1000 cash award offered by the National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association to the artist whose design is chosen to spearhead "the annual drive" against emphysema, tuberculosis, and other respiratory diseases and air pollution.

The design itself will appear on the Christmas Seals mailed to millions of U.S. homes during the 1973 holiday season. It will also appear on posters, billboards and television screens. It is hoped, Pettibone said, that a Michigan artist will submit the design of the 1973 Christmas Seal. Rules and information are available from the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, 403 Seymour Avenue, Lansing 48914.

Stanton completes course on phone equipment

Gordon Stanton inspects new General Telephone equipment.

ST. JOHNS—Gordon E. Stanton, 1501 W. North St., Owosso, a switchman for General Telephone Company here recently completed a study course on the function, operation, testing and maintenance of special telephone switching equipment called the "Series 100 Director."

When added to telephone exchanges, the "100 Director" helps solve switching and trunking problems that arise from the telephone area growth and expansion and also enables the Telephone company to provide such modern services as Extended Area Service (making toll-free calls to neighboring communities) and Touch Calling (telephones with push buttons instead of the rotary dial).

The specialized course attended by Stanton is a part of General Telephone's continuing program to provide constantly improving service through well-trained, highly-skilled employees. He was among employee-trainees from all parts of the United States during the training session which was held at GTE Automatic Electric Incorporated, Northlake, Ill., a suburb of Chicago.

GTE Automatic Electric Incorporated, the equipment manufacturer for GTE telephone companies, and General Telephone are both subsidiaries of General Telephone and Electronics Corporation.

Stanton has been with General Telephone for 15 years and has gained experience in the installation, repair and maintenance of central office equipment. He is a veteran of the U.S. Army, where he attained the rank of Major. He is married to the former Grace Palsco of Ovid.

Business notes

By MIKE PREVILLE
News Advertising Manager

I'm not a baseball fan nor even a Tiger fan but I like Micky Lolich. The reason I like him is that more and more I'm looking like him. And I'm not even left handed.

You've heard of a ballplayer's ballplayer . . . or a thinking man's ballplayer . . . well, Lolich is a fatman's ballplayer. He huffs and puffs and sweats and by the late innings looks like he belongs in an oxygen tent instead of on the mound. He looks tired and shower ready during the warm ups.

All of us (fatmen) can identify with the Mick. We can pat our pots and smile when he throws the third one past a Frank Howard or some other well conditioned Tarzan-type. Other managers have been quoted saying Lolich's figure was a disgrace and that they'd sweat that pot off him. Sour grapes to them.

Lolich won his 20th game the other day and I'd be willing to bet there wasn't a pot belly across the land that didn't jiggle with pride.

Now, Sunday I met the opposite type, Phil Phillips has a brother-in-law who among other things was the assistant coach at Maryland during that university's glory years as a football power . . . Is the athletic director at a major university in either North or South Carolina . . . has written books and papers on the split-T, physical fitness, exercises and exercising . . . and worst of all, looks the part.

Now don't get me wrong . . . he is very personable and likable. We were all sitting on the dock at Phil's (over on Loon Lake) when his brother-in-law and nephew ran over from Crystal. That's right, ran . . . on foot . . . all the way from Crystal. Phil introduced everyone and we all talked for a bit. I offered a can of refreshment which was politely refused . . . a cigarette which was also refused . . . both with a comment or two about their respective evils.

Phil offered to drive them back to Crystal . . . but no, they'd rather run it. Not walk it or even jog it . . . run it. At that point, to impress everyone, I announced that I would swim with the kids around the lake.

When we returned from swimming about 1/4 of the way around, Phil told me that his brother-in-law said that I looked a little out of shape to swim that far. Overweight, yes; out of shape . . . well, maybe a little . . . but I can float like a cork. And so, as I pat my pot, I say to Micky Lolich, congratulations. And to the coach, I hope you got a blister.

Question: What bank is "the wide awake bank"?

Answer: Clinton National . . . and if you don't believe me just dial their number and they'll tell you.

Kurt's Appliance Center has a question and answer type ad on dishwashers in this week's County News. Among other features, it points out that dishwashers clean better than hand washing and drying. I'd get one for Big Mama but I think it would make her paper plates soggy.

SNOWBALLS IN AUGUST?

That's right—these four lads staged a snowball fight in front of the Municipal Building in St. Johns. They saved bags full of snowballs from winter and stored them in mom's deep freeze in order to have their August snowball fight. Kneeling are Jerry Hollis and Mark Rogers. Behind them are Dan Barker and Scott Rehmann.

Sheep purchased

ST. JOHNS — A 90-lb. sheep shown by Jack Cuthbert in the 4-H Fair competition was chosen grand champion of the show and in addition to that honor the animal brought Jack $69.75 during the final day auction.

Brandon C. White Jr., bidding for Clinton National Bank, bought the sheep for 77 1/2¢ per pound, a bid which represented the highest per pound price paid for any animal auctioned off. The next highest price for sheep was 55¢ per pound while the highest price for beef was 60¢.

Clinton National Bank also purchased a steer raised by John Love which weighed in at 805 lbs. Price paid for Love's animal was 40¢ per pound.

"These 4-H kids do an excellent job on their livestock projects," White commented.

CNB&T campaign

St. Johns — A sharp pattern of growth in recent years, bringing about expansion and mergers, has caused Clinton National Bank and Trust Co. to move internally with a broadened program of advertising and marketing.

According to Administrative Vice President Brandon C. White Jr., director of marketing activities, the enlarged program is highlighted by the association of Clinton National Bank with Leon Shaffer Goinck Advertising, Inc., a Baltimore firm specializing in financial advertising and marketing programs. Goinck has prepared a specialized campaign for CNB&T based on the theme, "Clinton National Bank, the wide-awake bank," and all print and radio advertising is designed around that theme.

"We're very excited about this campaign," White commented. "It has a refreshing new approach and we're anxious to get it underway." He explained that with the September 1 kickoff of the "wide-awake" campaign, Clinton National Bank will also broaden its print and radio advertising into the Lansing market through the State Journal and WJLS radio.

"Our Valley Farms office has reflected a definite growth trend and this expanded advertising program is a direct result of that pattern," White said. "We are becoming well known in the developing areas of southern Clinton County and north Lansing. We feel this is an important area to us, consequently we have embarked on this entirely new marketing program."

Open Letter

from VAN W. HOAG

Dear friends,

It deserves emphasis that the time, the place, the character of the funeral service, the merchandise used, the cemetery selected - these are decisions of the family of the deceased. The funeral director acts only as a representative of the family.

The clergyman should be consulted in matters that concern him before any decisions are made.

Respectfully,

SHIRLEYAN LAKE

meet Shirleyan Lake,
CNB&T's computer-helper

Shirleyan is another one of our girls behind the scenes.

But it wasn't always this way.

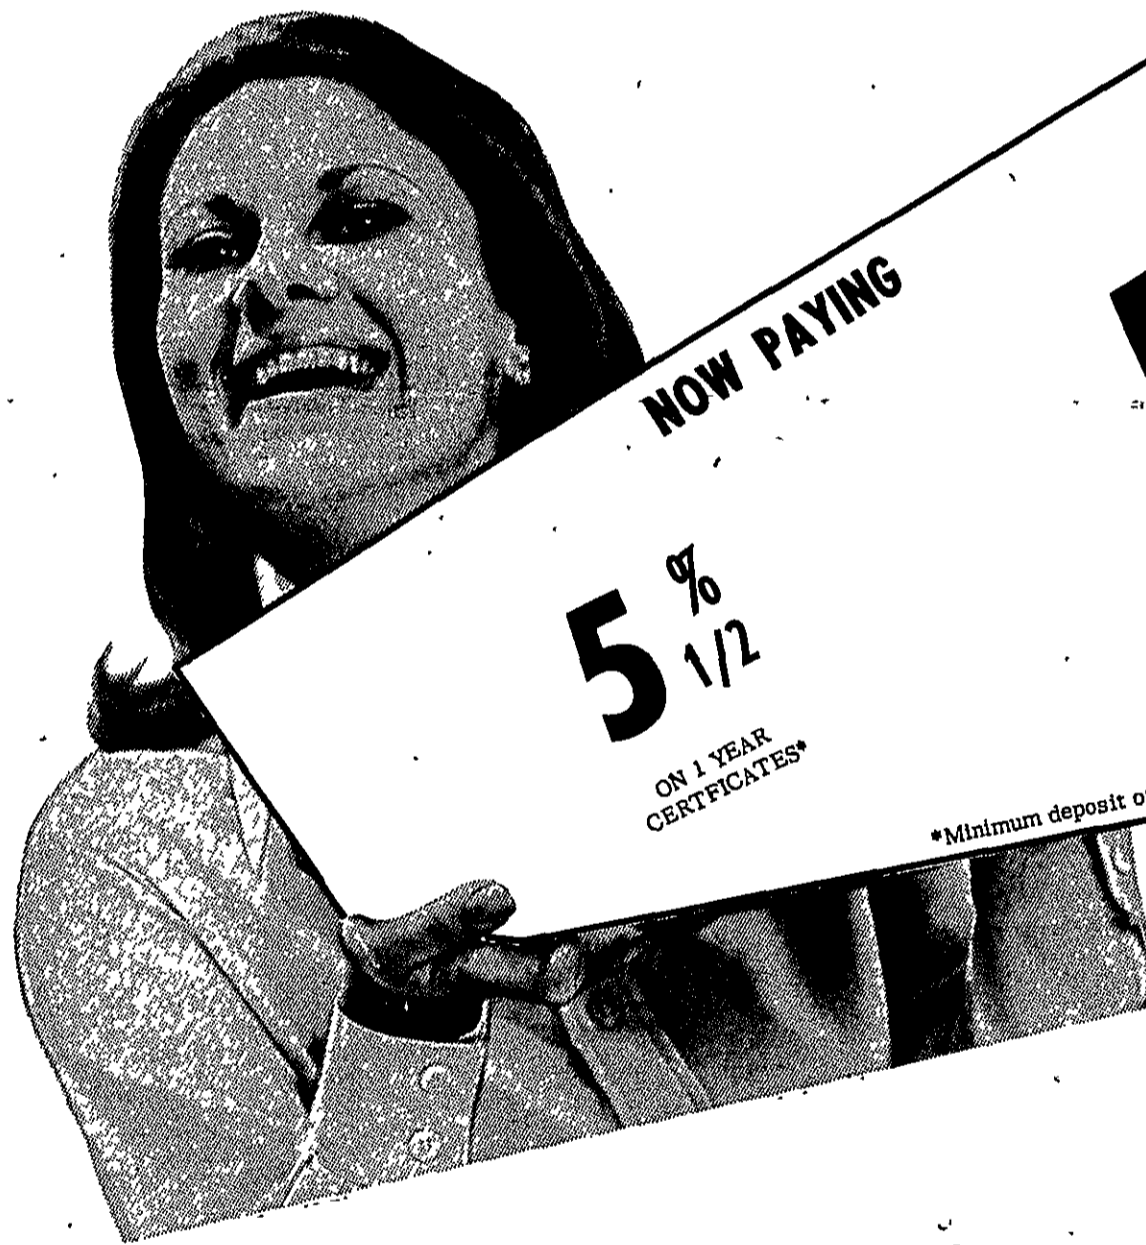

When Shirley (as we call her) began working at the bank in 1963 she greeted our customers as a teller but as time passed we literally boosted her upstairs where she now serves as assistant cashier in charge of coordinating our data processing system. What this means is that Shirley is the one who sees to it that all computer-bound information is properly compiled, assembled and accurately prepared for input into the program. As you might guess, this is a fairly responsible assignment, but with Shirley's experience and knowledge of banking systems we've found her to be a most able computer teacher.

Shirley's a graduate of Avondale High School in Auburn Heights, Md., and spends most of her free time sewing, knitting or bowling. But we know from first hand observations that even these free-time favorites often take a second seat in favor of her bank work. Attesting to this are the several off-hours study courses she has completed through the American Institute of Banking, courses which have helped her to better serve the bank and its customers along with helping the computer digest its daily fare.

Shirley is an excellent example of the Clinton National Bank attitude toward our work and the people we serve. Unlike Shirley, however, everyone at CNB&T can't help computers, but we join with Shirley in looking forward to helping you.

Cucumber yields increasing

ST. JOHNS—A horticulture scientist at Michigan State University has found that cucumber yield barriers can be broken, says George McQueen, Clinton County Extension Agent.

In MSU tests, conducted by Dr. Clark Nicklow, yields have been much higher than those presently obtained in commercial operations. The scientist believes that plant population is the major limiting high, once-over harvest yields.

In other cucumber research programs, Nicklow has discovered that cloudy days reduce cucumber quality and yields. Initial information from experiments using shading materials at various stages of plant growth shows that cloudy days during flowering and early fruit set have the most critical effect.

Nicklow thinks that misshapen fruit and low yields result from poor pollination—due to reduced bee activity—or from reduced photosynthesis.

Received 300 pints of blood

Tom Harvath, long time Clinton County resident, has received 300 pints of blood.

Some years ago an article was printed in this newspaper about Tom. At that time he had received 40 pints of blood.

Tom now resides in Lansing with his wife who is a registered nurse. He has two children and just recently became a grandfather.

His hobby is fishing, which he does quite a lot of, since he is unable to work anymore.

Tom picks up the blood he needs and brings it to Clinton Memorial Hospital where he stays over-night, receives the blood and returns home. He says he comes here because he is used to it and knows most of the hospital staff.

When Tom was receiving whole blood he had a reaction similar to a malaria attack, so now they separate the blood and just give him the red cells and he is getting along much better. He recently had his spleen removed and now he doesn't need the blood quite so often.

Tom and many, many more people's lives depend on the blood the residents of this area donate, so give, it doesn't hurt, it doesn't take very long, and we know you will feel like a bigger person for doing it.

Taking a short look

The good citizens of this country of ours are really something.

Example: We're all for corrective procedures such as price and wage freeze to fight inflation, just so long as it doesn't affect our own pocketbooks.

Guess this might be categorized as selfish. Sometimes this is good. It isn't always wrong to be selfish about one's own family and possessions, but it certainly shouldn't become an obsession out of proportion.

And that's exactly what we think is going on right now, since President Nixon's economic decision last week. It would appear that many of us look just to the end of our nose and to heck to the rest of the country.

Do your own thing, Uncle Sam, but leave me out of it; that is, except when you can cut my taxes and at the same time increase my citizen benefits. From the noises being heard from some sources, this attitude shows through.

By and large, however, we hope the program is effective and is enforced. Perhaps there are some inequities that had to be installed for success of the overall plan. But if we are thinking at all about the long haul—the next mile—let's give support to the program.

The First Nighters will hold tryouts this weekend for the group's fall production titled "The Night of January 16."

A tanker rig overturned and burst into flames on US-27, three miles north of St. Johns. The flames, visible for miles seared the highway and tied up traffic for more than two hours. The area was riddled with explosions, but the driver, James H. ... of Muskegon, jumped to safety and was not injured. The flames damaged the road to badly that all traffic was directed to use the southbound lane.

Another house construction project by St. Johns High School students was started Thursday as city, school and business officials broke ground during ceremonies at 406 W. Sicles.

The champion senior dairy showman award was won by Charles Green, of Eisele, at the annual Clinton County 4-H Fair. Charles is a member of the Brush and Halter 4-H Club. The champion junior award was won by Tom Bracey, of Ovid. He is a member of the Scattered Southeast 4-H Club.

The Clinton County News was presented its third consecutive soil conservation award at a summer meeting of state soil districts held at Alpena Community College.

Esma Ferguson, formerly of St. Johns, was the guest of honor at an open house in honor of her recent retirement after 42 years of teaching. She had currently been employed in Eaton Rapids.

Downtown Clinton Avenue will be invaded by little people Friday morning when over 100 youngsters who took part in the St. Johns summer recreation program are scheduled to line up in jazzy costumes for a grand parade down to the Court House square.

The new management of the Walker Lumber and Coal Company of DeWitt announced this week that they will now operate as the DeWitt Lumber Company, under the active supervision of Andrew Kuhnmuensch who purchased an interest in the business in May of this year.

In a transaction involving nearly $250,000, stock control of the State Savings Bank of Ovid, was acquired by a group headed by William J. Buescher, president and chairman of the board of the First State Bank of Greenville.

Robert A. Conn of the E.F. Boron Company was named to the Retail Advisory Committee at Northwood Institute. In Alma, Doug Hankey, mainstay of the St. Johns high school golf team last spring, gave a good account of himself in the Western Junior Open at Forest Awners in East Lansing. Hankey won two 18-hole qualifying rounds in the nationally-famous medal tournament which put him among the low 32 qualifiers.

Don Champion of Maple Rapids won the mid-season championship at the Capitol City Speedway in Lansing. He came close to breaking the track record and beat out a field of 44 cars in the time trials for fast time of the evening.

The St. Johns division of Sealed Power Corporation will be hosts to hundreds of visitors from the area at an open house in their new and modern plant on West State Street. Conducted tours are scheduled during which time the department foremen will explain the production of piston rings from rough casting to the finished and plated product.

Chester E. Teske, of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., has accepted the position of superintendent of Clinton Memorial Hospital. Teske succeeds Mabel Kohr, whose resignation becomes effective on Sept. 1.

Dean's Hardware defeated Sharon-Linda Bakery in the final playoff game for the first half softball championship by a 4-3 score to rank alone at the top of the city softball ladder.

Clinton County gas stations raised their retail prices on both regular and Ethyl gasoline a half-cent. Regular gasoline now costs 20 1/2 cents and Ethyl will sell for 22 1/2 cents. Both grades of gasoline recently advanced a cent a gallon.

Olive Township voters emphatically turned down a proposal to allow the sale of liquor-by-the-glass in their township at a special election. The vote was 107 No and 49 Yes.

Plans for alterations and additions to what remains of the Maple Rapids high school building are completed and the school district is seeking bids on the construction job. The major portion of the school was destroyed by fire last year and only a fireproof three room addition survived the flames. When the work is completed the building will be occupied by grade school students.

Enough is enough

By TIM YOUNKMAN

Aunt Martha and her mean mouth are at it again.

It seems inconceivable that Martha Mitchell, the wife of a cabinet member, would have the gall to step out in public to say some of the things that have tripped off her razor-edged tongue.

What is more ghastly is that many Americans think it's cute—the typical scatter-brained type we find so often in a television comedy series. She can hardly be considered typical, being married to the Attorney General, but she is, following the success of her role as the nice (but nasty) Southern Belle who has made it big in the Washington social circles.

If the incident with the telephone calls from her (exquisitely decorated?) bathroom wasn't nauseating enough, she has topped that performance with some more pearls of nonsense this past week.

According to advance reports concerning her appearance on the Merv Griffin show, which was taped and scheduled for viewing

Aug. 30, Mrs. Mitchell must find the world delightfully simple.

In response to one of Griffin's questions on the state of the Vietnam War, she said, "Oh, that's all over with now." Terrifically overstated Mrs. M. I guess that left Merv with a frozen smile on his face.

On the state of American economic policy, Merv asked for it again. She said that the bold moves taken by President Nixon had cured our economic ills. "There is no problem anymore," she said. Mr. Nixon will undoubtedly be glad to hear that.

When asked about John Connally's chances as a vice-presidential running mate in place of Spiro Agnew, she replied, "I hear they are running him for pope." Again Merv had that frozen smile.

"Are you sure that that's what you wanted to say?" he coaxed.

"Of course," she said. "They have him running for everything else." Although I doubt if there is any paranoia in the papal chambers about the former Texas governor, Mrs. M certainly has a way with words in alienating potential voters.

If that weren't enough, she also taped a segment on NBC's Laugh-In Show. She reportedly mispronounced former Republican, now Democrat, Mayor John Lindsay's name and demanded that the mistake be left in the show.

One of her little jokes on that segment included calling the distinguished senator from Arkansas several adjectives in the name of wit. She called Sen. William Fullbright, "Sen. Half-bright" and Sen. Quarterbright.

Such verbal garbage might sound normal for a street corner bull session—and in some cases, it could even be funny. But when this tripe comes from the wife of one of the President's hand-picked cabinet officials it can hardly be condoned as good taste. We have too many big problems to solve, including the war and the economic plight, without the scattered chatterings of a "charming Southern Belle."

Her type of humor is better left to comedians and her wit to the witty.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

Is that a new dress?

By JIM FITZGERALD

Women are like this: "It was worse than World War 3; it was just terrible," my wife was telling our 21-year-old daughter, Karen. "The people in front of us were hitting each other; blood was squirting all over and some splashed on my white stole. A man in back of us had a gun and started shooting at everybody. Little children were crying and an old woman fell down. My feet and couldn't get up."

"When did you get a white stole?" Karen interrupted. "I got it for only $24, marked down from $40, at Genesee Valley," my wife answered. "It was a wonderful bargain. And then I found these shoes..."

"This is World War 3 forgotten. When I write things like this, my wife always accuses me of 'putting women down.' Not true. I'm only reporting the facts, the way I learned in journalism school. And it is a fact that women are obsessed by clothing."

I grew up with 4 sisters who would trade sweaters with total strangers rather than wear the same outfit to school twice in the same month.

Now I have 2 daughters who live apart but visit each other's closets regularly. They spend entire weekends simply trying on each other's clothes. If men behaved that way, their wives would write worried letters to Ann Landers (Dear Ann: Oswald's brother Jack visited us last night and he spent 3 hours trying on Oswald's t-shirts. Do you think I should have a talk with my minister...)

But the strangest thing is when my wife appears in a new dress. "That's a new dress," I say. "Don't be silly," she says, "I've had it for months."

For the first few years of our marriage, this fooled me. Then I gradually became convinced that I couldn't be wrong that many times. So I added a question: "Have you ever worn it before?" I ask.

"No," she admits. And so continues my education in Specie's Female, it turns out that Mabel doesn't buy a new dress because she needs it. She buys it because she went shopping with a friend, or because there's a sale, or because the store is air conditioned, or because her husband lost $200 playing poker, or because it's 2 p.m. Monday and yesterday was Sunday.

Mabel then hangs the dress up in her closet and may not wear it for months, even years. In fact, she may never wear it at all, it may go out of style, just hanging there.

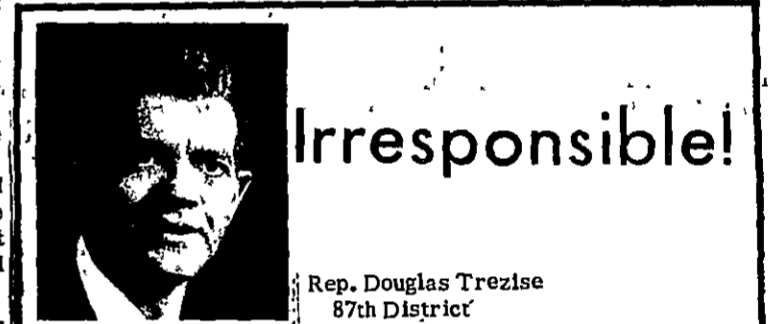

This is difficult for most men to understand. When I buy a new suit, I wear it home from the store, I don't take it off for days. I want everyone to know that I could finally afford a new suit. I wear it because I don't have anything else to wear. Otherwise, I wouldn't have bought it. That makes sense, doesn't it?

Not to the woman who gave me a pair of red slacks for my birthday and then was disappointed when I assured her I liked them and would wear them. She was disappointed because she had been certain I'd reject the color. She'd bought them in the big city and had already planned a 3-day shopping trip built around the necessity of having to return the slacks.

2 weeks later I was telling her about a terrible auto accident I'd just seen. "12 people were killed, limbs were scattered all over the street," I said, "and I think I saw a body I recognized..."

She interrupted me: "Are you sure you like those red slacks?" Onward and upward.

Irresponsible!

Rep. Douglas Trezise 87th District

To me, one of the most shocking things to surface in Lansing last week was the forecast that, in spite of increasing the income tax by 50 percent, we are facing appropriations bills which will put us in deficit by June of next year.

This is not only shocking but completely irresponsible! When just a few weeks ago the income tax was raised, we were told this would effectively set the level of spending for the coming year. It was predicted that this would increase total revenues to $2,060 billion dollars and this would necessarily be the outer limit of this year's appropriations.

THE FIRST THING to upset this forecast was the appearance of a deficit of between $20 and 25 million from last year. Thus, even after all the spending reductions, the borrowing from the uninsured motorist fund and all the other juggling, we were unable to keep expenditures within revenues. Of course, this deficit has to be made up first, before we can start appropriating for the new fiscal year. So, there goes the first 20 to 25 million dollars of the $2,060 billion we thought we could appropriate for fiscal 1971-72.

Just to get things in perspective, the 1970-71 budget called for spending $1,750 billion. Increases, primarily in welfare, pushed actual spending up to more than $1,850 billion. Now, we have before us appropriations bills which would authorize the expenditure of $2,090 billion for the coming year. If these are passed, as presented, we would immediately face a 50 to 55 million dollar deficit for the coming year, which would have to be made up somehow with additional revenue—and there's only one way to spell that: t-a-x-e-s.

And, this, only one month after imposing an increase in the income tax which was supposed to meet state needs for at least one year!!!

IT IS NO SECRET that there are only a few of the appropriations bills which are causing the trouble. The main ones are education, social services and what is now called revenue sharing. Attention in the House last week was directed primarily at the social services bill which now totals $537 million, or approximately one-fourth of the entire general fund budget. It is based on the anticipation of there being 138,000 families on the ADC rolls during the coming year and includes a controversial increase in the levels of ADC assistance. It represents a $190 million increase over last year's original appropriation and $125 million more than was actually spent last year.

Republican efforts to amend this bill to reduce the cost of $12 million by eliminating the updating in standards were rejected by the Democratic majority. As a result, the bill itself failed to pass, getting only 46 of the required 56 votes. Hopefully, some amendments will be added to reduce the cost before it is considered again.

By far the largest single appropriation will come in the school aid bill which now approaches $1,050 billion. Following that is the "Revenue Sharing" bill with a $40 million price tag. Both of these can probably stand a little cutting.

BUT IT'S TIME for us to get our priorities in order and at the top would have to be the need to adopt a balanced budget. To achieve this may require some reductions in proposed spending.

Unpleasant as this may be, it will be acting responsibly.

We've noticed that most of the passengers on the first bus bound for town get up surly in the morning.

The only prudent time to tell the boss where to get off is when he falls asleep on the bus.

Washington Reports

Rep. U.S. Garry Brown 3rd. Congressional Dist.

New proposals

WASHINGTON, D. C.—When Congress reconvenes after its summer recess it will have added to its already crowded schedule four legislative proposals resulting from the President's new economic policy.

1. Repeal of the manufacturers' excise tax on new passenger cars sold at retail after August 15, 1971. The tax would be repealed as of the date of enactment of the bill but customer refunds would be provided for new passenger cars sold after August 15, 1971, and before the date of the repeal.

2. As a result of the Tax Reform Act of 1969, the personal exemption is $650 in 1971, $700 in 1972, and $750 in 1973. The President proposes making the $750 exemption applicable in 1972. The Tax Reform Act also provides that the standard deduction is 13 per cent with a ceiling of $1,500 in 1971, 14 per cent with a ceiling of $2,000 in 1972 and 15 per cent with a ceiling of $2,000 for 1973. The President proposes increasing the standard deduction to 15 per cent with a ceiling of $2,000 in 1972.

3. The President proposed a job development tax credit of 10 per cent on new machinery and equipment produced in the United States and placed in service on or after August 16, 1971. A .5 per cent investment tax credit is to be effective under the President's proposal beginning August 16, 1972.

4. The President proposed that the profits from sales of domestic international sales corporations (DISCs) not taxed until distributed to its shareholders. To qualify as a DISC at least 95 per cent of its gross receipts must arise from export related transactions and 95 per cent of its assets must be so related.

THE CONGRESS IS expected to give top priority to the consideration of these measures.

Earlier this year I joined with my Michigan colleagues in the House to introduce legislation to repeal the 7 per cent automobile excise tax. The sponsors of this measure obtained written assurances from the automobile manufacturers that if the tax were repealed, the savings would be passed directly on to the consumer. These assurances were communicated to Secretary of the Treasury John Connally.

Thus, in determining whether to act to repeal the excise tax, President Nixon had the benefit of knowing that the industry would in fact be willing to pass the savings on to consumers.

REGARDING WAGE-PRICE controls: I think it was obvious something had to be done, but I am a little concerned because the approach taken is nonselective; it hits everybody, some with reasonable causes, others, with apparently little.

Before the President acted, I had announced my support for establishing a wage-price review board with sufficient powers to be effective and the flexibility to be selective. During the 90 day period of the freeze I expect to continue to work to see developed a fair, effective basis for reviewing wages and prices.

"Did You Know?", queries Commerce magazine, that "The Justice Department is now considering a plan to pay farmers for cutting down wild marijuana... Under the plan, the pot prevention payment would be made through the USDA. Hasn't been too long since agriculturalists whacked the weeds just because it was good farming..."

View from the 30th

Institutional lag

By SEN. WILLIAM S. BALLENGER

As I pointed out in my column last week, many Americans have come to regard the political process as futile, their institutions of government irrelevant and unresponsive—and state legislatures in particular as one of our most striking examples of "institutional lag."

State Legislatures would undoubtedly rank low on most Americans' lists of governmental institutions that make a difference in dealing with the issues and problems that bother us. In their formal qualities, state legislatures—even the Michigan Legislature, which is more advanced than most—are largely 19th Century organizations when they must, or should be, addressing themselves to 20th century problems.

The contempt in which legislatures are held by the public can be pretty well summed up in the following true conversation between a Pennsylvania statehouse reporter and a "typical Philadelphian":

"Do you know your State Representative?"
"Nope. We got somebody up there."
"Do you know your State Senator?"
"Yeh, you know his name. Dilworth's kid."
"Do you know what they do up there?"
"They don't do anything."
"How would you sum up the Legislature?"

"A bunch of thieves."
All is not darkness and despair, however. During the past decade, the miasma has finally begun to lift. State legislatures have begun to show new signs of life. Legislatures have begun to gear themselves up—to cast off crippling constitutional restrictions, to overhaul their structures and procedures, to hire more and better staff, to meet more often and stay on the job longer, to pay their members better, to function, in fine, as one of our most important institutions of government.

THE RESURGENCE of state legislatures, and of renewed public interest in their role, have their roots in the reapportionment decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court in the mid-sixties. These rulings removed perhaps the most serious handicap under which state legislatures had labored for years: the growing disparity between the distribution of a state's population and the distribution of its legislative seats.

The prospect that state legislatures could, once more, genuinely reflect and represent their people and respond to their needs—that they could, once more, count for something in the public life of the nation—made it all the more imperative that they be strengthened and improved to the point where they could really function as the democratic decision-making bodies they were designed to be.

More recently, it's become apparent to people of every political persuasion that the federal system will not work unless all of its parts are alive and well. Localities are simply too feeble, and fragmented to grapple with the urban and environmental problems engulfing them.

The federal government is too big and too remote to deal directly with the needs of even the major cities, suburbs and villages across the country. The states, on the other hand, determine the boundaries, the legal powers and financial resources, the very existence of local governments. And the states are large enough to handle the increasing array of problems that ignore all boundary lines: pollution, transportation, education, land use and urban growth, crime, poverty, and health.

In 1965, the Citizens Conference on State Legislatures (CCSL) was formed as a private, non-profit, non-partisan organization to help transform state legislatures into 20th Century institutions of government. Perhaps the most important undertaking of the CCSL was a $200,000 Legislative Evaluation Study (financed by a grant from the Ford Foundation) to develop a yardstick by which to measure the 50 state legislatures.

Perhaps the main purpose of the study grew out of the CCSL's conviction that 1.) America's most profound problems stem from the breakdown and the deficiencies of its formal decision-making processes; 2.) These deficiencies are most crippling at the state level of government;

3.) The legislature is at once the most important arena of decision-making at the state level and the one that functions least well; 4.) The relationship between a badly functioning legislature and an unresponsive legislature is not well understood by most Americans, their opinion leaders, and their information media; and 5.) The steps which must and can be taken to correct these deficiencies are not being taken because of this very lack of understanding of the importance of legislatures and of the conditions which prevent them from functioning as they should.

THE CCSL DECIDED that somewhere between the real and the ideal, between what state legislatures actually are and what they ultimately ought to be, there is a middle ground. And it is upon that middle ground that the CCSL erected the framework for its study. At a minimum, said the CCSL, every citizen should expect his Legislature to be functional, accountable, informed, independent, and representative. Every legislature should, said the CCSL, exhibit these five qualities or characteristics; to the extent that it does not, it is not fulfilling the essential requirements of a legislature in a modern democratic society. These five characteristics are the bare necessities of legislative capability.

As I noted last week, the Michigan Legislature demonstrates these five characteristics to an extent which would rank it as the 8th best state legislature over-all. Broken down further, the CCSL study found Michigan to be 15th best "functionally," 22nd in "accountability," 9th in being "informed," 12th in "independence," and 3rd in being "representative."

Next week, I'll go into exactly what these five categories mean.

Get a horse!

By REP. DICK ALLEN

"I'll have bacon and eggs."
"What have you got against pancakes?"
"Nothing, I like them too."

"IF YOU'RE FOR bacon and eggs, you're against pancakes."
Sound silly? Well, politically it tends to be true.
If you support women's rights, you are against men's prerogatives.
If you are for inner cities, you are against small towns.

IF YOU ARE for school appropriations, you are against social services.
And visa-versa. Against property tax; for income tax.
Legislators often object to being classified on these "anti" positions, but it works out that way as groups and people analyze your voting record and bills introduced.

Next to property tax relief and along with abortion law reform and flammable clothing controls, one of my hard efforts in Lansing is for hiking, horseback riding, and biking roads and trails.

WHAT HAVE YOU got against automobiles, trucks, motorcycles, and super-highways people ask me.
Absolutely nothing. But the truth is that if we are to give hikers and bikers what I think are their due rights, motor vehicles may have to give up some of the absolute privileges and prerogatives they have enjoyed.

It should be possible to travel from place to place safely other than by motorized vehicle.
We should have a statewide network of local roads devoted primarily to these alternate forms of transportation. This would require motorized traffic to be limited as to speed and right of way.

WE SHOULD HAVE complete bicycle commuter routes in cities and towns and between cities and suburbs. This might require abandonment of parking privileges along one side of most streets to allow a two-way marked off bicycle lane.

As highways, super-highways, local roads and city streets are built and improved, hiking and biking should be provided for. This, of course, would mean slightly higher per mile cost and therefore a slight slowing of our expansion programs.

Some people say motorized vehicles pay all the costs through gas and weight taxes, therefore, all provisions should be solely for them.

I have two answers to this.

FIRST, BALONEY! The cost of highways is partially born by general taxpayers as property is converted from private taxpaying buildings and farms to non-taxpaying right of ways.

Secondly, I think hikers, bikers and horseback riders should contribute through special license fees.

I am strongly for the rights of that minority who would, on occasion, choose one of these
