Bates bore operator Kenneth Cramer explains the functions of the huge Sealed Power Corp. equipment to visitors touring the St. Johns plant last Thursday evening during an open house in observance of the firm's 20th anniversary in St. Johns. The Bates bore turns the inside diameter of the piston rings the firm makes, and this is about the half-way stage of the ring through the processing at St. Johns. About 800 persons toured the plant last Thursday evening.

SEALED POWER OFFICIALS AT OPEN HOUSE

Lawrence Sexton, left, plant manager of the St. Johns Division of Sealed Power Corp., chats with officials of the company during last Thursday evening's open house observing the 20th anniversary of the plant in St. Johns. With Sexton are Warren Carter, vice president for manufacturing; Paul C. Johnson, chairman of the board of directors; and William M. Oliver, vice president for industrial relations.

ASCS community elections Sept. 17

By WILLIAM SMITH
ASCS Office Manager

Election of ASCS community and county committeemen will be held in September. Community committeemen will be selected at the election meeting held Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in each community. Notices of the election sites for each community will be mailed each farm owner and operator in the county.

The elected chairman, vice-chairman, and regular members of the community committees will serve as delegates to the county convention.

The county convention will be held at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 26, at Smith Hall in St. Johns and is open to the public.

This year one member will be elected for a three-year term and two alternates will be elected for one year terms. Two members of the present county committee remain on the county committee due to the staggered terms.

BOTH COUNTY and community committeemen will take office Oct. 1.

800 tour Sealed Power

Over 800 persons toured the St. Johns plant of Sealed Power Corp. last Thursday evening as the local division observed its 20th anniversary here.

Guided and semi-guided tours of the plant were featured, capped with refreshments. Lawrence G. Sexton, plant manager, expressed the company's gratitude for the fine turnout and interest in the local plant.

The 20th anniversary celebration is actually a misnomer. The 20th anniversary actually came two years ago, but the plant was in the midst of a huge expansion program and the official observance was delayed.

Sealed Power manufactures piston rings, pistons, cylinder sleeves and other related parts for the original equipment and replacement trades in the automotive field. Its annual sales approximate $50 million.

THE ST. JOHNS Division of Sealed Power is devoted exclusively to the manufacture of piston rings, primarily for the larger engine builders of the country. The major share of the production here is shipped to General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Since its establishment here, Sealed Power employment has increased from 35 to 232, and payrolls have increased 20-fold. The plant has had three major expansions, the last of which increased capacity by 75 per cent when completed in 1967.

Management personnel of the St. Johns division include Sexton as plant manager, Emil Flermoen as superintendent, Robert Gill as personnel supervisor, Hugh Wallace as production and office supervisor, Charles Coletta as manufacturing engineer, Herman Bosma as plant engineer, Elston Hicks as maintenance foreman, Richard Wilson as process engineer, William Aldrich as tooling engineer, Stanley Smith as inspection supervisor, Donald Messer as industrial engineer and Charles Rasdale as steel press engineer.

Machine shop foremen include Dale Baker, Walter Baxter, Arden Birdsley, John Fedewa, Charles Olson, Edgar Prowant, Stan Plaza and Roman Rademacher.

Programs administered by the committeemen include agricultural conservation program, commodity loans, wheat and feed grain program, Sugar Act programs, national wool program, farm storage facility loans, conservation reserve, and cropland adjustment program. Other duties may be assigned to the committees by the secretary of agriculture as the need arises.

All farmers who are eligible to take part in one or more of the farm programs administered by the committees are qualified to vote in the community election. Lists of eligible voters in each community are available in the county ASCS office. Eligibility to vote or to hold office as a committeeman is not restricted by reason of sex, race, color, religion, or national origin.

Almost any farmer who is eligible to vote and lives in the community is eligible to run for community committeeman. Exceptions include persons who, during their term of office, hold or are candidates for any elective office in county, state, or federal government, or who are officers, employees, or delegates of a political organization or to a political party convention.

I urge all farm owners and operators to attend their community elections Sept. 17. All elections will be at 7:30 p.m. Let's have a good turnout at these elections, this is your way of having a voice in administering ASCS programs.

I WANT TO REMIND feed grain producers that barley will be considered a feed grain in 1969. Producers having a barley base will have their feed grain base increased by the amount of barley base established for their farm.

Producers who plan to plant barley for 1969 should contact our office to see what effect it will have on their feed grain program for next year.

We are offering measurement service to producers at a cost of $5 per farm and 10 cents per acre measured.

The service includes determining the acreage in an area, staking the area before a crop is planted or prior to adjustment.

Wheat producers who are preparing to plant wheat this fall may request measurement service at this time. By having your fields measured before planting you will be sure that your allotment is not overplanted.

Forget-Me-Not drive by DAV this weekend

Disabled American Veterans will again this year ask the citizens of Clinton County to "Give a little for those who gave a lot." This permanent slogan will be the inspiration for the annual DAV Forget-Me-Not drive, which will be held this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 6 and 7 when volunteers will offer the tiny flower of remembrance on the streets of St. Johns.

Carl G. Light, commander of Clinton County Chapter 64 of the Disabled American Veterans, said today "It is easy to show you remember the sacrifices made for all of us by our wartime disabled veterans—by wearing a Forget-Me-Not this Friday and Saturday, Sept. 6 and 7. The coin or bill you drop into the Forget-Me-Not canister will be used to show your gratitude in a way that means something to the

Two Carland teens see America first on motor cycles

By MRS ARCHIE MOORE
News Correspondent

CARLAND—Seeing America first is the big thing now and two local boys did that this summer and on four wheels too, but the four wheels didn't support a Ford, Chevrolet, Buick or any other automobile. The four wheels were in two pairs and each pair was on the boys' motorcycles.

David Dumond, son of Mr and Mrs Dale Dumond of Carland and Larry Prikasky, son of Mr and Mrs Frank Prikasky of Chapin returned to their homes this week from a trip to California on their cycles.

The boys left on July 28 with little more than sleeping bags for luggage and headed for the Mammoth Caves in Kentucky. After seeing the Caves, the pair journeyed on to the Smoky Mountains. The scenic route to California then included the Rocky Mountains. Being wise and saving wear and tear upon their brow, the boys travelled through the Mojave Desert at night to avoid the sweltering heat. After the midnight ride, they made their way across Texas and New Mexico.

While in Arizona they were typical tourists and made a point of seeing the sights. They visited the Petrified Forest and looked in awe at the Grand Canyon which they have described as simply "breath-taking!"

When they finally reached California they made a special trip to Disneyland and had a swim in the Pacific Ocean.

On the way back home, they went through the Sequoia National Park. In Council Bluffs, Iowa, they met the dangerous highlight to the trip. A severe tornado delayed the duo and left in its wake about 50 destroyed homes. Although a frightening experience, the boys started off again.

Altogether, the trip enabled the young men to see more than 7,300 miles of America. The only incidents to mar the vacation were one flat tire on the Dumond bike and a replacement of a wheel sprocket for the Prikasky vehicle.

The boys, both 19, seem to have thoroughly enjoyed their venture and upon return had only one comment to make—"Next year, Florida."

Will pave US-27 south of Clark

North Star adds new route here

North Star Bus Lines has added a new route through St. Johns, William W. Post, general manager of the Grand Rapids-based transportation firm announced this week.

The new route is one of two which North Star inaugurated Wednesday. It goes from Grand Rapids to St. Johns. The other is from Grand Rapids to Lansing. Bus service from Fort Wayne, Ind., through to Sault Ste. Marie has also been started.

The new schedule now provides bus service to and from Grand Rapids twice each way each day. St. Johns buses for Grand Rapids now leave here at 2:15 and 4:35 p.m., arriving there at 3:40 and 6:40 p.m. Buses bound for St. Johns leave Grand Rapids at 11:35 a.m. and 7:10 p.m. and arrive in St. Johns at 1:15 and 6:35 p.m.

The buses all go on or come from Flint, too. The new North Star service will increase the firm's daily route mileage 40 per cent, according to Post, and are the latest in a series of expansions for the 44-year-old bus company.

Thieves get 2 riding mowers

Two more riding lawn mowers were added to the Clinton County Sheriff's Department's list of stolen items last week.

Richard Riggs of 6902 Williams Road, DeWitt, reported last Wednesday his Allis-Chalmers yellow mower was stolen. Mrs Rex Redman called in Thursday with word a riding mower had been stolen from their place at Colony and Forest Hill roads.

Sheriff Percy Patterson said the thefts of the mowers are indicative of a trend during the last year or so. The sheriff's department has received at least 16 such reports since June of 1967. Snowmobiles are also a popular target of thieves.

There was another theft reported last week, too, and this has been common in recent months. Wilson Torch wins another top 'A' rating

The Wilson Torch newspaper of Rodney E. Wilson High School, St. Johns, has received the "A" score for 1967-68 (second term) from National Newspaper Service, an affiliate of National School Yearbook Assn.

A relatively recently organized service for schools and colleges, NNS, like NSYA, depends on the services of professionals as judges, Director N. S. Patterson pointed out. They are either active newspaper editors or staff members with wide professional training and experience, or are college or school advisers with records as advisers of top publications.

Grades in this service range from "A-plus" (special excellent) and "A" (excellent) to "B-plus" (very good), "B", (good) and "C" (average to fair). About 5 per cent reach the special top grade, and another 10 to 15 per cent in a class may attain the "usual top score" of A, the director reported. The recent trend has been upward, and the "C" grade is increasingly rare, he added.

Commenting on recent student publications, the director said, "We see a growing emphasis on meaningful, story-telling photography in the better school and college newspapers. In some of the top newspapers, students often reach professional quality in copywriting, editing, headline structure, and also in departmentalization and relative positioning."

Editor for the Wilson Torch was Sue Warstler, with Mike Galvach and Pat Allen as co-editors.

There's not much that's more annoying than to take an otherwise clean garment from the hanger and discover a spot on it after just one wearing. "Where did it come from?" you ask. "Is it a food stain? Beverage? Perfume?" You may have no way of telling.

When this happens, it's wise to get the garment to your cleaner as quickly as possible. While some stains are irremovable, most of them do come out with proper cleaning. Food stains, stains from tea, coffee, soft drinks and fruit juices, should be scientifically removed quickly, before they become oxidized by exposure to air and heat.

Dye stains are usually the most difficult to remove from dark and pastel fabrics. White fabrics yield to bleaches which can usually remove the dye stain. Oil stains come out easily when fresh, yet they are often impossible to remove completely after they have aged for a time.

A word of warning: never try to remove an unidentified stain by home cleaning agents. You might come up with a ruined garment! Proper cleaning by specialists costs less in the long run, makes your clothes last longer.

School breakfast programs reality in some school districts

By HELEN B. MEACH
Extension Home Economist

It's back-to-school time again. And when the school doors open, so do the doors to many school cafeterias—for breakfast!

While lunch at school is available to almost three-fourths of all children enrolled in elementary and secondary schools, some major gaps remain.

The answer is breakfast — yes — breakfast at school. The importance of the morning meal to the overall education picture has been recognized by educators as well as nutritionists.

In fact, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recognizes September as Better Breakfast Month, promoting the use of plentiful products for homemakers and distributing them to school programs to augment deficient diets.

The breakfast was set up by the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 to furnish a breakfast for those students who are especially needy or who arrive at school hungry because they have been bussed to school from a long distance. Pilot studies have proven the value of this program. As a result, Congress has passed a bill that both increases funds for the program and extends it for another three years.

The improved behavior and learning ability of children that took part in the program last year has been noted by many educators. For many of the children, this was a new experience—they weren't accustomed to eating breakfast.

Another, and unexpected, benefit was its socializing effect on many of the children. Several teachers related the way some children who were withdrawn became more alert and receptive after they started eating breakfast in a group type atmosphere. It is believed that many of these pupils rarely if ever sat down to eat as a family.

GENERALLY, THE results of the breakfast program have been a decrease in the percentage of tardiness, improved alertness in the morning, improved disposition of the class, obvious

Clinton County Jail population had its ups and downs last week as "residents" came and went during an active week. Some stayed for awhile and others were in jail just long enough for arraignment.

Justice of the Peace Gordon Willyoung fined Donto C. Hernandez, 23, of Owosso $100 plus $20 costs on a charge of speeding last Wednesday in DeWitt Township.

David L. Turner, 17, of Howell, was fined by Willyoung on two counts—$50 plus $20.50 costs for having no operator's license and $15 plus $10 costs for improper registration.

St. Johns Municipal Judge Harold Reed tacked jail sentences onto fines he assessed to three men last week. Rex A. Rookafellow, 30, of 108 E. Gibbs Street, St. Johns, was jailed for three days last Monday and fined $25 plus $28 costs on a drunk and disorderly charge originating in Maple Rapids.

Failure to remove dead elms may be more costly later

Michigan residents who neglect removal of dead and diseased elm trees may be risking serious hazard to themselves, or possible liability claims from others.

This warning was issued by Director B. Dale Ball, Michigan Department of Agriculture, in connection with a report showing that 24,954 dead elm trees were condemned in 1967.

Orders for removal of the trees, victims of Dutch elm disease, were issued by the department's plant industry division, working in cooperation with municipalities and home owner associations having ordinances regulating elm tree inspection and condemnation. According to Dean Lovitt, chief of the department's plant industry division, serious hazard develops when dead elms are left standing. As the tree rots, limbs become increasingly fragile and there is added danger of them breaking in a wind or storm.

SOME HOMEOWNERS whose trees have contracted Dutch elm disease delay removal because of the cost involved. Yet it is more dangerous and expensive to have a tree taken out after it has decayed. And the cost of injury to a person or to property could be much greater than the price of immediate removal.

Late in 1966 newspapers reported the death of a 10-year-old boy when a dead elm fell in southeastern Michigan. A similar incident in a neighboring state claimed the life of a three-year-old girl.

Michigan's millions of elm trees have an estimated value of more than $700 million, according to the Michigan State Tree Foundation. A native of this state, the elm has long been a favorite because it grows rapidly, endures crowded city conditions well, withstands drought, and has an attractive shape.

Dutch elm disease, now making deadly inroads on the elm tree population, is caused by a fungus which is carried by the European elm bark beetle. As the fungus grows it causes the tree to form gums which plug water-conducting tissues. The tree actually dies from drought. Most trees die the same year as infected; a few survive for another year or two. There is no known cure.

Bark beetles move from infested to healthy trees, carrying with them the fungus spores and resultant infection. In some areas of Michigan, about 95 per cent of the elms have been lost. First symptom of the disease is the wilting of foliage on a few branches. Sometimes yellow leaves appear, but usually leaves turn brown and remain on the tree.

Only a laboratory analysis can definitely establish whether the tree has Dutch elm disease. This service is performed in the Agriculture department's laboratory in East Lansing. Communities are supplied with necessary forms for submission of samples to the lab.

CONTROL OF THE disease involves prompt removal of all diseased and dead elms, and trimming all old and dying branches from healthy trees. Regular periodic spraying with an approved pesticide also provides protection, and the wider the area covered in the spraying program, the greater the protection. Solitary trees in isolated locations may survive.

For the last 15 years, the city of Grosse Pointe has conducted an annual spraying program and has lost only one per cent of its elms. In contrast, a power company is reported to have spent nearly $500,000 last year for removal of dead and dying elms associated with its power lines in southeastern Michigan.

Farms and forests alike beautify state's landscape

What's your preference? A pastoral farm scene with placid livestock grazing in deep meadows, or a towering forest of stately pines? Michigan has plenty of both to delight visitors and residents alike.

Seldom is agriculture's contribution to the varied landscape of Michigan noted. Yet Director B. Dale Ball of the Michigan Department of Agriculture reports that an increasing number of residents are expressing concern about the effect on Michigan's landscape as more and more open fields revert to trees and brush.

Pioneers halted the clearing of the forests to make way for farms and homes, marking the advance of civilization. Following the legendary logging days when timber was king in Michigan, forest fires devastated millions of acres. A reaction swept through the public's conscience and reforestation projects were undertaken which continue to the present time.

During these same years the total number of farms in Michigan has been decreasing, though total acreage under cultivation is only slightly reduced. This trend to fewer and larger farms is nationwide.

While considerable publicity is given to Michigan's hardwood and pine forests, tourists are equally impressed by the beauty of its gently rolling acres of pastureland, threaded with quiet streams; its bountiful orchards of ripening fruit; and the neat, careful geometrical patterns of its croplands.

Becher honored as top athlete at naval station

Athletes who excel in one sport seem to try their hand at many other physical activities, often succeeding in them too.

Doug Becher, son of Mr and Mrs R. G. Becher of 103 W. Steel Street, St. Johns, is no exception.

As the pitcher for Operations softball team, Becher has compiled an enviable 6-0 record.

In addition to his activities in the station sports, Becher is an avid golfer and bowler.

The 24-year-old Becher and his wife, Linda, and their three children, Mike, Debbie and Liza, live at 6508-B 103rd Street in Capehart.

He's been playing softball for 11 years. His VS-27 team at Norfolk was station champion during his tour there.

He enlisted in the Navy in 1962.

Rhinoceros Rated High The rhinoceros was rated high on the list of favorite animals by ancient Roman circus crowds.

Imperial expeditions sought the animal in the Sudan and Ethiopia to satisfy their demands.

In retrospect... DeWitt Ox Roast

DeWITT - The only weather problem at the DeWitt Ox Roast Aug. 24 was the heat, and that didn't wilt much of the enthusiasm as thousands thronged into DeWitt for the annual affair.

There were pony pulling contests (top right), where you got hot just watching the action; there were art exhibits in the memorial building, this display (center right) by Joe Wheat of 3235 Luroma Drive, DeWitt, there was always a good crowd in the eat tent, even at 3:30 in the afternoon; and there were always kids on the amusement rides, including the trio at top left on the Tilt-A-Whirl.

Saturday morning activities included a big parade around the downtown area. Here were the parade winners:

Kiddies division, High Steppers baton group first place, Steve Ritter and friends second, and Margaret Lynn won the novelty prize.

Best of horses, Elaine Powell first, Robert Hill and Bill Dorian second, Glackmore Riders third, and Pat Turcott fourth.

Best old cars, Redverse Friday first, Jim Munroe second, Morley Murphy third, John Stowski fourth and Robert Stornet fifth.

Floats, Job's Daughters won the grand prize, while DeWitt Child Study Club was first, Beeline Fashions by Wanda Majkol second, and the Methodist Youth Fellowship third.

Conservation Digest

News notes from the Michigan Department of Conservation

At its one-day meeting in Cadillac Sept. 5, the Conservation Commission will adopt fishing regulations for 1969.

Department's recommendations were presented to commissioners in August. Reflected in them is a trend toward more liberal and less complicated rules for fishing.

Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Indiana joined in a compact to halt the flow of hard pesticides into Lake Michigan.

Heads of resource agencies and anti-pollution leaders in the four states are determined to put up a strong, united front in behalf of the big lake.

Michigan's conservation director, Ralph A. MacMullan, a prime mover in bringing about the compact, sees possible extension of the pesticide war into other regions through other compacts.

Momentum is picking up in the move to obtain voter approval of bond issues for clean water ($335 million) and recreation ($100 million).

Wherever the proposals are discussed throughout Michigan, this question is asked: "Will the bond issues mean more taxes?" The answer: No.

The Clean Water and Quality Recreation bonds can be retired without a state tax increase. Retirement of other bond issues and increases in revenue generated by continued economic growth will provide enough money to make principal and interest payments within the present tax structure.

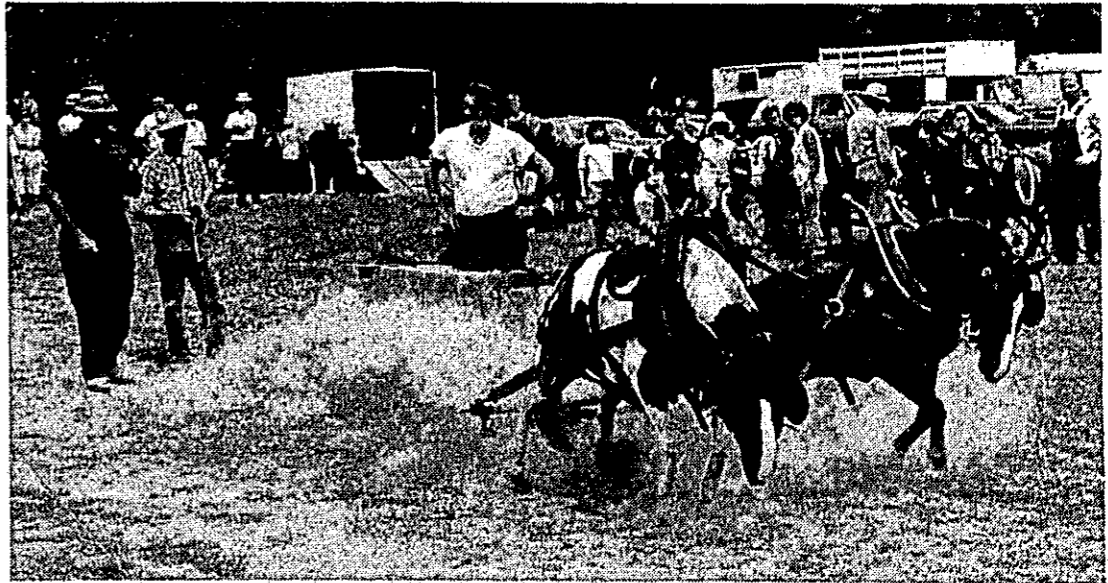

Old timers in the Upper Peninsula say it's been years since that part of the state had so many bears.

Western and central U.P. counties, especially, have high brown populations. Old timers' observations are backed by Conservation Department reports which show an unusually high number of nuisance bear complaints—338 from early June to mid-August.

From state parks: Attendance will be back to a normal 16 million-plus this year after 15.5 million in 1967, year of the alewife dieoff.

A characteristic of the 1968 season is an uncommonly high rate of vandalism and thievery. Parks officials are gravely concerned.

One answer, they say—and not a complete one—is 24-hour policing, but this presents almost impossible budget problems.

Punt, Pass & Kick registration now open

Boys age 8 through 13 in the St. Johns area can begin registering for the eighth annual Punt, Pass & Kick competition.

Egan Ford Sales at 200 West Higham is again sponsoring the local competition, along with the St. Johns Jaycees.

Egan's is headquarters for registration, and entries will be accepted through Oct. 4. Local competition is scheduled for Oct. 12.

The basic principle of the PP&K underlines fairness in competition to give every boy entering an equal chance to win. He is pitted only against those his own age.

Points are awarded for each foot of distance the ball travels on the fly, with points subtracted for each foot the ball lands to right or left of a center line.

Eighteen handsome trophies will be awarded locally by Egan Ford Sales. Gold trophies go to first-place finishers, silver to second and bronze to third, with first place winners going on for further competition in zone contests.

WINNERS OF ZONE competitions will receive trophies, and runners-up are awarded certificates.

Zone winners move to district competitions where 216 district champions will be awarded trophies and go on to compete for area championships.

Area champs travel to division events in NFL stadiums in St. Louis or Atlanta where 12 finalists are chosen—six from the NFL Eastern division and six from the NFL Western division.

Winners are accompanied by their fathers to all area and division competitions.

The 12 division winners go, with both parents, to the Orange Bowl in Miami, Fla., for the national finals during the annual NFL Play-Off Game. Then all 12 national finalists and their parents will go on a "Tour of Champions" to Washington, D.C.

Entrants in PP&K must be accompanied by a parent or guardian when registering, according to competition Director Roger Beebe of the Jaycees. There is no charge. All equipment such as footballs and kicking tees are provided.

No body contact is involved in Punt, Pass & Kick.

When they register, boys receive a free booklet of competition tips written by Green Bay's star passer Bart Starr; the Atlanta Falcon's punting specialist Billy Lott; and St. Louis Cardinal's kicking leader Jim Bakken. The booklet includes exercises for better physical fitness oriented to boys of PP&K's competition ages.

In addition to the booklet each registrant receives an attractive PP&K lapel pin on the night of final competition.

Telephone book correction deadline Sept. 13

General Telephone customers in Fowler, Maple Rapids, Muir, Pewamo, and St. Johns who want to make corrections or additions to the directory should call the company's business office before Friday, Sept. 13. William Graef, district manager for the company, said today.

Emphasis on firm cutoff dates for entries allows the General Telephone Directory Co., in Des Plaines, Ill., to assemble, print, bind and return the new St. Johns directory in a relatively short period of time.

"Our directory company, which prints millions of telephone books each year, operates on a deadline basis much like a newspaper," he said. "For this reason we cannot accept any changes. Friday, Sept. 13, is the date the directory is 'locked-up' and sent immediately to the directory company for printing."

The distribution date for the new directory will be announced later, Graef said.

County News, Clinton SCD win report prize

The Clinton County Soil Conservation District and the Clinton County News have won first-place award plaques in the annual report contest co-sponsored by the Cheney Limestone Co. of Bellevue and the Michigan Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Robert Moore, district director of the Clinton district, was presented the plaque in mid-August at the association's annual meeting in Traverse City. The Clinton County News received its plaque from the Clinton SCD last week.

The prize was for the best published report in the state of Michigan for 1968. The Montcalm County Soil Conservation District was second.

The Clinton County report was in the form of a 32-page tabloid section of the Clinton County News on Feb. 1, immediately preceding the annual meeting of the local district. The special section contained news and feature stories pertaining to the SCD's activities of the past year, as well as conservation articles in general. It contained contributed articles as well as many written locally by the SCD and by the newspaper staff.

Entitled "The Many Faces of Conservation," the tab section featured two full-color pictures on the cover and a host of black and white pictures throughout. Business advertising was carried in the special section.

In the court of public opinion, it's only natural that a man should decide in his favor.

Editors Steve Tarr and Roxanne Bradley look through the fresh copies of the 1968 Wilsonian, yearbook of Rodney B. Wilson High School, with advisor Mrs. Dorothy Bates Friday after the books arrived from the printer. They'll be distributed this Friday evening at the yearbook dance.

Wilsonian set for distribution Friday

The 1968 Wilsonian, the yearbook that tells all about the activities and people at Rodney B. Wilson High School during the 1967-68 school year, will be distributed this Friday evening at the school's annual yearbook dance.

Co-Editors Steve Tarr and Roxanne Bradley announced the dance will be from 7 to 10 p.m. under sponsorship of the Journalism department. Although it will be the first extra-curricular function of the school year and thus will serve as a back-to-school mixer, its main function will be the distribution of the yearbooks.

Most students purchased their yearbooks last winter and spring and so will only have to pick them up. But Tarr said there will be yearbooks available to be bought.

The 1968 Wilsonian is a distinctive and colorful book this year. Its theme is a happening. The cover is a rippling blue with a silver crest in the upper corner.

There are 10 full-color pictures in the Wilsonian, including one of the front of the high school, two of the high school marching band and seven concerning the events surrounding last year's homecoming.

There is a minimum of written copy in the yearbook, with the great emphasis being on pictures. The pictures cover the usual wide range of school people and activities from individual pictures of the members of all the classes to faculty pictures, to athletics, activities and academics to advertising.

Senior credits — a listing of activities of each of the seniors during their four years in high school — are separated from their pictures, with the result being a more compact appearance for both the book as a whole and the senior section.

The book contains 209 pages, with lots of extra sheets thrown in for autographs.

Backstopping the building of almost all public works and commercial construction are surety bonds. In 1966, says the Insurance Information Institute, written premiums for surety bonds reached a record high of $310 million.

News of Clinton County Farm Bureau activities

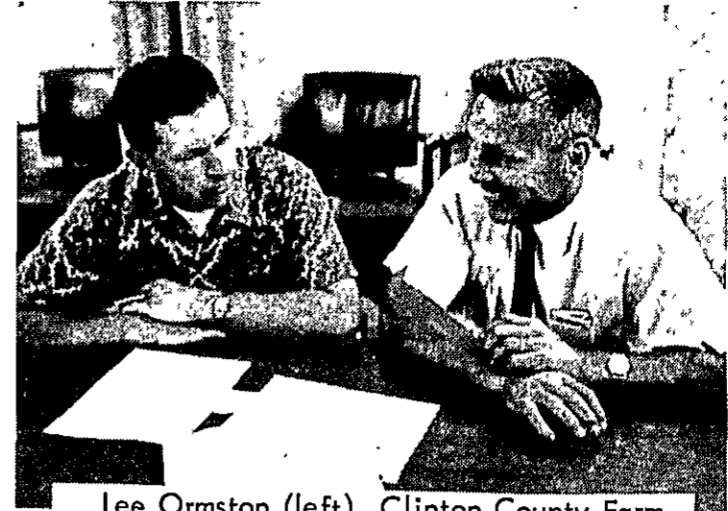

County annual meeting set Oct. 8

Plans are beginning to finalize for the Farm Bureau annual meetings all around the state. Clinton County is no exception as directors and county leaders look to Oct. 8 as the date of the highly important policy development session.

At a meeting of the board of directors last week, plans were accepted to serve a caterer-type dinner to members preceding the meeting. Tickets for the dinner will be sold for $1 per person.

On the agenda will be consideration of resolutions submitted to the membership, election of directors for Ovid-Victor district, Eagle-Waterdown district and one at-large position. There will be two proposed by-law changes and election of delegates to the state convention in Lansing in November.

As part of the annual meeting agenda, there will be the naming of a County Farm Bureau queen, a talent winner and awards to outstanding FFA and 4-H members. The County Young Farmers Committee is arranging these activities. Members are asked to set aside the date of Oct. 8 and attend the county annual meeting to have a voice in the working of their organization.

Ormston attends meeting

The Farm Bureau Center in Lansing was the location of the annual mid-year Farm Bureau district meeting Aug. 14.

Lee Ormston, county Farm Bureau president, represented Clinton County and joined with other Farm Bureau leaders in setting county membership goals for 1969.

The group heard a talk by Stanley Faye of Ingham County on the activities of the state study committee which is concerned with a study of what Farm Bureau should be doing for its members in the not-too-distant future as agricultural trends change.

Dan Reed, secretary-manager of Michigan Farm Bureau, discussed operations of the nearly 55,000 family member farm organization. Chairing the meeting was David C. Morris, district director on the Michigan Farm Bureau Board, resident of Clinton County and a beef farmer in Eagle Township.

In California grape dispute

Court rules for Mexican nationals

Judge Manuel Real, in California federal court, has ruled that Mexican nationals who have been admitted to the United States as permanent residents cannot be prevented by the Immigration and Naturalization Service from working on U.S. farms involved in a "labor dispute."

The ruling early this month is a victory for California's more than 12,000 grape growers, and resulted from a suit against the government brought by Giummara Vineyards, one of more than 50 grape growers in California whose pickers the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and Cesar Chavez have sought to organize.

They were using Mexican nationals as strike breakers, and the U.S. Immigration Service issued a regulation to prevent such alleged action. The suit was brought by Giummara after 10 of its employees were arrested for violation of the regulation. All 10 had been working for Giummara prior to the commencement of the AFL-CIO organizing drive in 1965.

"The judge said that Mexicans who have green cards entitling them to work in the United States cannot be removed from their jobs on a farm regardless of a labor dispute unless they live in Mexico and commute daily to work in the United States." The Chavez union had claimed that growers were importing Mexican workers to replace strikers.

GUIMMARA, AFTER THE decision, said this shows the claim was untrue. "The claim was made to cover up for the union's inability to attract members and provide an explanation why farmers have been able to harvest their crops without incident when so many workers were supposed to be on strike." After more than three years of effort to organize pickers, very few (estimated at less than 2 per cent) have joined the union.

Under U.S. labor law, the Department of Labor certifies that a "labor dispute" is in progress if a picket is in front of a place of business or a farm. It is not necessary that the picket be an employee of the farm, an ex-employee, or anyone representing the workers on the farm. This, then, constitutes a "certified labor dispute."

The Aug. 1 issue of El Malorido, a union publication of United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO, says, "With the addition of 15 new ranches to the list of certified strikes, 90 per cent of California's table grapes are being produced by struck companies, union organizers reported this week. "This is an impressive statement until one realizes that a "struck company" may have all its workers on the job and none on strike.

The current effort to apply a secondary boycott against California grapes in Michigan and other population centers is not as pictured — a movement to support the striking grape pickers. The California grape pickers are not on strike; in fact, at least two organizations of farm workers in California have been formed to oppose the Chavez effort to force pickers into unions.

The secondary boycott of Michigan and other retailers is aimed at closing markets to all California grapes, in the hopes of forcing growers to sign contracts with the AFL-CIO union, which would require all employees of the grower to become union members in order to hold their jobs. Time magazine has stated that monthly contributions from the AFL-CIO of $10,000 per month, and from the UAW $7,500 per month, are helping to finance the efforts to organize.

A hand-out piece being distributed on supermarket parking lots in Lansing, Detroit and other Michigan cities shows a picture of a small girl seated on a ruffled couch, with a headline, "Every California Grape You Buy Helps Keep This Child Hungry." The hand-out carries the names of organizations, groups and individuals "already assisting in the consumer boycott."

Among the names are: City of Detroit; Detroit Coordinating Council; Catholic Archdiocese of Detroit; Detroit Branch, NAACP; Detroit Urban League; Wayne County Council, AFL-CIO; United Auto Workers International; Teamsters International; United Steel Workers; Amalgamated Clothing Workers; Meat Cutters

Union; Retail Clerks Union. With the picture is the statement, "We have been on strike for three years and we are hungry."

IT IS IMPORTANT to recognize that the grape pickers are not on strike, and have not been on strike! The California picketing is largely by do-gooders, religious groups, campus militants, and various protest organizations, supplemented by professional workers financed with AFL-CIO funds.

Lansing supermarkets have been picketed, and at least one (which did not have California grapes on sale) has been subjected to disruption of its business by having shopping-cartloads of goods wheeled into the check-out lanes and left, with the statement, "We've decided not to buy."

As one supporter of the boycott said in a Detroit meeting — "It's California grapes now, but it could just as well be Michigan apples."

Secondary boycotts are illegal under U.S. labor law.

Questions about labor?

Farmers often express the desire to have more information on labor availability, regulations and employment problems. Farm Bureau members can now have such "inside" information at a nominal cost through the Michigan Agricultural Services Assn.'s "Information Newsletter."

The confidential subscription service is a frequent, timely summary of topics of current interest about farm labor. Most of the data presented is from government and industry sources backed by personal survey data developed on the scene by Operations Manager M. J. Buschlen. He brings to the Farm Bureau affiliated association a wide background of labor management from many years with agriculture and related industries using migrant labor.

Topics of some of the first letters to members included such information as a personal survey of possible migrant labor sources in Texas; some of the problems facing farmers using these workers and suggestions for handling these problems; what to do in case of attempted unionization of your workers; details of minimum wage laws in easy-to-read language; the applications of workmen's compensation laws to farms; and a simple-language version of the current child labor laws.

Farmers using full-time or part-time workers find these confidential letters keep them informed of the latest developments in the increasingly complex field of labor management relations. County Farm Bureau secretaries have complete details on the service. Call or come in to the local office.

Biggest teen driver problem is parents

A recent advertisement entitled, "Today, The Biggest Problems of Teenage Driving Are Parents," brings out some interesting points on teenage drivers.

"Today, most parents believe that teenage drivers get their bad image from a few 'problem kids' from the other side of town. The facts would indicate that notion is pure illusion. The blame should be on problem parents. Today parents from all sides of town are allowing their children to make the automobile their No. 1 standard for social acceptance. And the consequences are proving disastrous."

Here are some glaring points pulled from a recent study that surveyed a national cross-section of 20,000 students:

"The automobile can jeopardize a teenager's future—and not just because two out of every five teenagers are involved in accidents each year. Probing past the alarming accident statistics, the researchers discovered that the automobile too often has a detrimental effect on teenage grades. They found that students who hold driver's licenses are poorer students than those who don't. Students who drive cars to school are even worse. And students who own their own cars are the worst of all—29 per cent of "F" students are car-owners.

"ONE MIGHT" well ask, "How important are grades?" because there was a time when a "gentleman's C" would open business doors. But that way of thinking passed on as man faced the educational demands of the space age."

The ad says that the parental advice of "Get a part-time job and buy your own car" may be the worst mistake a parent can make—an outright invitation to failure. "A youngster at work is the best tradition of our American heritage. But let his goal be an automobile and his interest and time will also take that bent—and school work may be the sacrifice." The study shows that this job-auto combination is disastrous. Only 18 per cent of these students get B's or better—as compared with 35 per cent in the "no car-no job" classification.

This is a higher quality use of the river at that point than what the commission had proposed. The commission will make use classifications of the state's waterways in January or February, following the final in a series of hearings scheduled in December.

What is the answer? Should a teenager give up driving and give up his parttime job? The study revealed that both driving and working can be adjusted to the teenager's schedule without serious detriment to his grades and future if the parents will establish and enforce the following rules:

"1) The youngster should be limited to weekend driving—only occasional week-day driving. 2) If he works to support his car, this should also be on weekends only. 3) Parents should limit his vacation-time auto expenses and usage—to avoid "breaking the habit" next school term."

The ad goes on to say that driver's training helps tremendously. "The study figures show up to a 29 per cent improvement of the high school-trained students over those taught to drive by their parents."

Ram day at MSU scheduled for Sept. 18

The annual ram day sponsored by the Michigan Sheep Breeders' Assn. will be held at the MSU Beef Cattle Barn in East Lansing Wednesday, Sept. 18, according to F. Earl Haas, Clinton County Extension agricultural agent.

Purebred sheep breeders will assemble over 100 top quality rams and offer them for sale. All rams will be inspected, weighed, and priced and penned by breeds. This procedure makes it possible for buyers to look at a large selection of rams from some of the best flocks in the state with a minimum of time and travel.

The offering will include yearling and two-year-old rams from the more common breeds. A few outstanding ram lambs that have met rigid weight requirements will also be offered for sale. The rams will be for sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Lamb prices are favorable this year. Officials say this is the time to select a top quality ram for next year's crop. The cost of the ram spread over the number of lambs he will sire over a two-year period is a very small item. The use of a good ram is one of the first steps toward increased income from the flock.

America, the Beautiful picture set popular

A set of 10-cent lithographs of a country scene in Michigan and 49 other states of America, plus Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, has turned into the most popular photographic series ever produced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

During the last two years, beauty-loving Americans have bought more than 2.8 million of the "America the Beautiful" prints, including more than 390,000 singles and 47,000 sets. The series, now in its second printing, was developed by the Soil Conservation Service.

Sales of this state's colorful country scene now total over 52,960. Captioned, "Cropland Once, Now a Farm Pond for Recreation," the Michigan scene pictures a mother and her two small daughters picknicking by a farm pond in a lovely autumn setting near Traverse City.

Each print is in striking natural color and measures 15 by 20 inches on 20 by 24 inch paper, suitable for framing. The color prints may be obtained by writing the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, and sending a check or money order for 10 cents for each state picture of $5 for the complete set of 52 prints.

Michigan travel events

Fairs and festivals highlight the Michigan Tourist Council calendar for the coming week.

On tap are the Marion Fair at Marion and the Saline Community Fair at Saline through Saturday; the Plymouth Fall Festival at Plymouth and the American Amateur Baseball Congress' Stan Mustal Finals at Battle Creek today through Sunday; the Old Car Festival at Greenfield Village in Dearborn Saturday and Sunday; the opening of the week-long Allegan County Fair and Saginaw Fair Saturday, and the start of the Farm-City Festival at Mt. Clemens Sunday.

Your old life jackets may no longer be able to save a life. Have them checked — and be sure to have one for each person aboard.

Three different soil types can be found in this field, and all will require different methods of treatment, Extension agents point out. Ways of testing each soil will be discussed today at a soil testing field day.

Summer road icing can mean trouble

Summer showers, after a long dry spell, can make roads as slippery as winter ice, says Bill Rocky of Farmers Petroleum Cooperative.

The danger of skidding is greatest during the first 15 to 30 minutes after rain starts. Rain tends to float up on the road surface a greasy film or residue which becomes a treacherous lubricant between tires and road until enough rain falls to wash the road clean.

The possibility of accidents on wet roads is five to 10 times as great as on dry roads, in terms of a skid and loss of control. In terms of stopping distance, it takes four times as far to stop on a wet road as on a dry road.

The tires ride on top of a layer of water and act like skis, losing contact with the road surface. They plane on the water, rather than roll through it when conditions prevail, reduce traction, steering and braking. Sharp turns in the road, heavy braking or gusty side winds cause loss of control, so care must be exercised.

Recent tire tests show new tires inflated to normal pressure hydroplaned at speeds in the 60 mph range with 3/8 inch of water on smooth pavement, slightly in excess of their tread depth. It can happen in the 40 mph range if tires are underinflated or bald. The same precautions cited by the association to avoid skidding also apply to hydroplaning, plus being alert for standing water or puddles, especially on curves, and watching out for crosswinds which affect control of the car.

Avoid skidding in rainy weather by these precautions:

- Reduce speed.
- Have at least 1/16 inch tread depth on properly inflated tires.
- Accelerate gradually, corner carefully and brake gently.
- Test braking on different road surfaces and conditions.
- Do not "tailgate."

Watch for announcement of the new Farmer's Petroleum branch facility west of St. Johns during the month of September.

Hurricanes have taken more than 5,000 lives in the United States in the last 50 years, the Insurance Information Institute reports. The highest single-year death total was 1,836 in 1928.

Soil sampling field day today

Area farmers who want to learn or refresh themselves on the best way to take soil samples would do well to show up at the Maurice Gove farm on M-21 just west of St. Johns this morning (Thursday).

Clinton County Extension Agricultural Agent George McQueen will conduct a soil sampling field day at which numerous tips on sampling will be passed on to those attending.

The field day will start at 10:30 a.m. with in-the-field tests, and then activities will shift to Smith Hall for discussion periods preceded at noon by a lunch sponsored by Clinton County fertilizer dealers.

McQueen said the soil testing demonstrations will emphasize a number of important factors, including the influences of soil type, the number of probes needed for a true sampling and the depth of the probes into the soil.

"Farmer's have more flexibility today than ever in treatment of their land," McQueen pointed out, saying that the good soil test is a vital key to help the farmer beat the cost-price squeeze by getting the most productivity and efficiency out of his land.

A new slide-tape program, "Origin of Soils in Clinton County," will be shown during the field day activities.

Gauge to chart Maple's rise, fall

MAPLE RAPIDS—The Department of the Interior will install new gauging equipment at Maple Rapids this fall to keep a check on the water level in the Maple River.

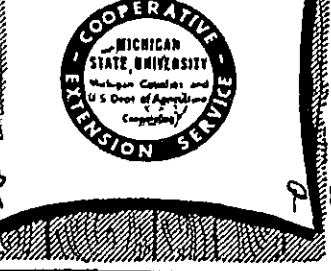

A metal tube stillwell 20 inches in diameter, with pipes below water level to connect the well will the river, will be constructed at the northwest downstream side of the Maple River bridge. It will replace an older unit under the bridge.

A four-foot shelter to house the instruments will be located atop the well.

The most expensive of all petroleum products is the oil used to lubricate watches. It costs more than $800 per gallon.

In retrospect . . .

Kris at the All-American Soap Box Derby

What a week Kris Patterson of St. Johns had at the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron, Ohio. The 13-year-old son of Mr and Mrs Robert Patterson of 605 W. Cass Street represented all of Clinton County after winning the local derby here in June.

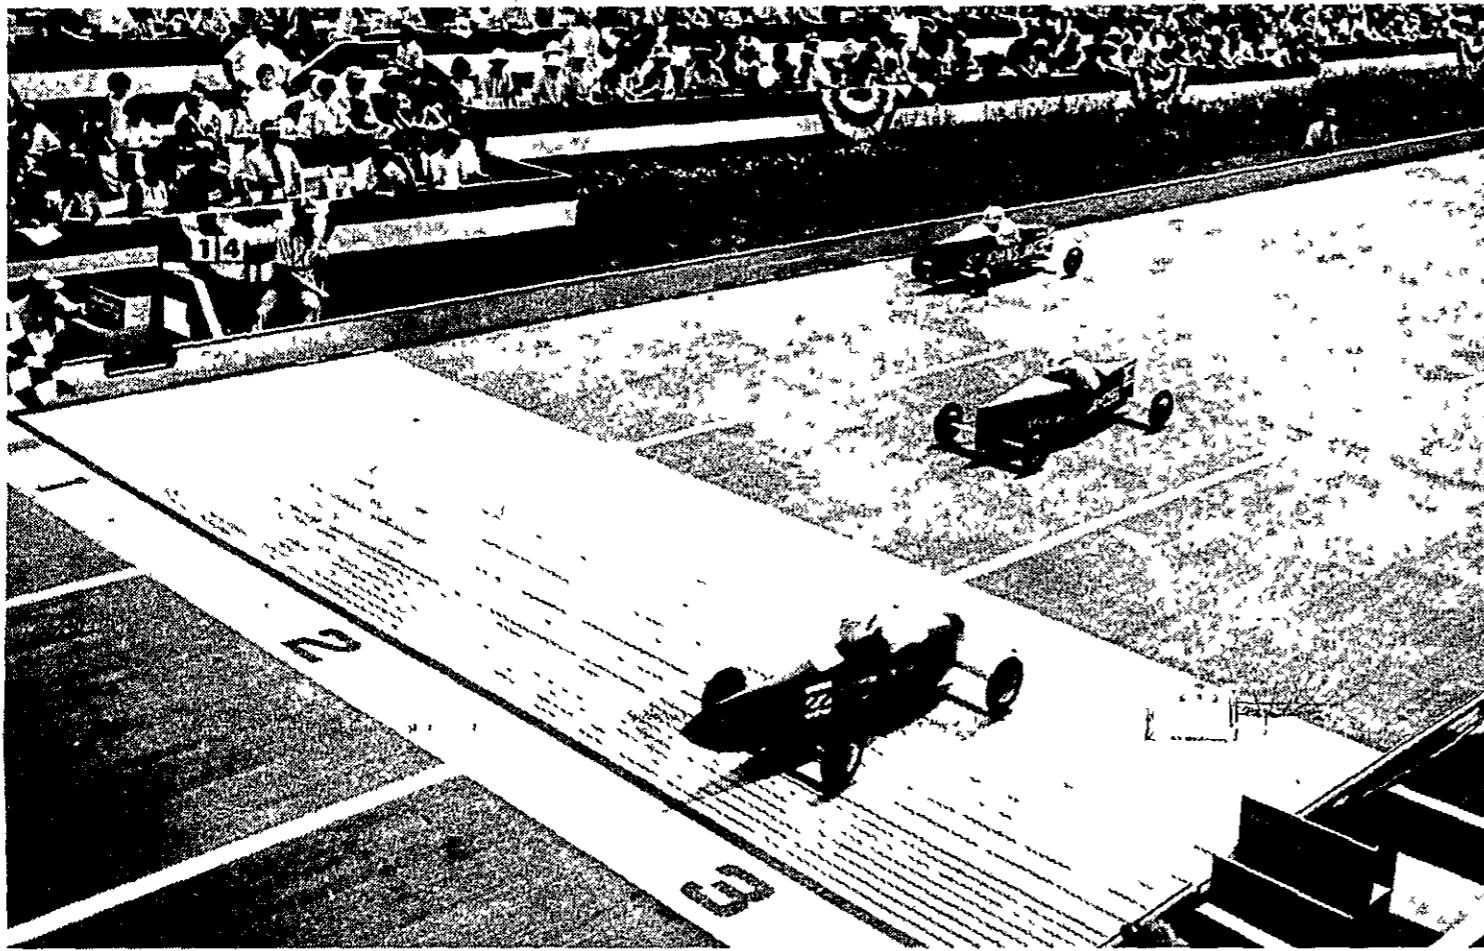

He went down to Akron Aug. 20, and got a hero's welcome (left) on arrival. We don't know the names of the welcoming committee, but Kris probably remembers. The rest of the week was spent at the Derbytown camp and in preparing his car for the All-American Derby racing on Saturday.

on the left with Barlo Selberg of Minneapolis, Minn., and Mark Reszka of Bloomington, Ind.

On Saturday, the 24th, the rundown the long Derby Downs hill didn't work out to Kris' advantage, and his racer came in third but still put up a good show. The boy from Bloomington, Ind., won the heat but lost out later.

Strong annual meeting program for state FB

Dr Richard Cutler, vice president of the University of Michigan in charge of student affairs, will be among headline speakers at the annual meeting of the Michigan Farm Bureau Nov. 18-19-20.

Cutler, a nationally-known professor of psychology, will be featured speaker on the women's program Monday afternoon, Nov. 18, according to Mrs Jerold Toplin, state women's chairman. He is expected to explore the "generation gap" — tell of student dissent and what it means, and attempt to explain the thinking and actions of today's young people. The "new morality," respect (or lack of respect) for law and order, and problems involved in communicating with young people are all topics upon which he is expected to touch.

Although open to all interested Farm Bureau members, the women's program is especially designed to underscore the part Farm Bureau women play in all phases of Farm Bureau work. Prior to and following the special luncheon and half-day program, the women of Farm Bureau will participate in general sessions of the annual meeting.

"We feel that we have arranged one of the best annual meetings of recent years," reports David Morris, District 5 director of the Michigan Farm Bureau and chairman of the annual meeting committee of the board. Morris said there has been "enthusiastic response" to the announcement that Dr Norman Vincent Peale, famed author and pastor of New York's Marble Collegiate Church, will be banquet program speaker.

Peale will speak Tuesday night,

DeWitt board seats Johns

William A. Johns will be seated as a member of the DeWitt Township Board of Trustees according to the office of County Clerk, Ernest Carter.

After the primary election returns were in early August, and the board of canvassers had met to officially verify the winners, one office was still being debated.

Johns and Roger Pline, both vying for a seat on the board, tallied exactly 334 votes each. According to the State Election Committee, in the case of a tie, lots shall be drawn to determine a winner.

Before many witnesses, Johns, the incumbent, clearly won the drawing. Pline, the loser, was not satisfied and filed for a recount.

Last week the canvassers board met again and found no discrepancies in the previous statement. Both men received the exact same number of votes and the drawing of lots determined the winner.

How to get into a pickle and like it

By HELEN MEACH Extension Home Economist

IF there is any one vegetable that is prone to get itself into a "pickle," it is the cucumber. There are two big cucumber classes—slicers and picklers. You, as a resident of Michigan, should know all about cucumbers because you are living right in the nation's largest picklepatch. Our state leads the league in the production of pickling cucumbers.

Our state sets the stage for the fact that whether you make your own or buy your pickles at the store, when you open a jar of pickles they are probably Michigan-grown.

The size of the cucumber makes the difference between a pickler and a slicer, though we do use them interchangeably. Slicing cucumbers are generally characterized by a uniform shape and are pickled with small white spines. They run six to eight inches in length and are suitable for dill pickles and sliced pickles or salads.

Like all garden vegetables, cucumbers will taste best when fresh. Whether you prefer them crisp, as they come from the garden, or salted and drained, they make excellent low calorie eating. Use them in sandwiches, salads, in sauce and even cooked. Avoid selecting cucumbers that are dull yellow in color, spotted, or with shriveling in the neck region near the stem end.

THE FRESHEST cucumbers make the best pickles. Never buy more than you are able to process at one session. A 24 hour stop-over between garden and pickling kettle is plenty. Freshness and vinegar or 40 to 60 per cent grain strength are also important for good pickle products.

If you came from a long line of pickle-packing grandmothers and aunts you doubtless have your own recipe file of heirloom recipes. If you're a beginner or even a veteran with an adventurous spirit—you might like a copy of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's bulletin, "Making Pickles and Relishes at Home." It is a complete booklet with contents covering ingredients for successful pickling, common courses of poor quality pickles, plus recipes for everything from sauerkraut to dilled green beans and pickled fruit plus dependable

Home economists recommend a final heat processing for all pickle products even fresh pack dills, as an important insurance against the presence of unwanted spoilage organisms. These directions are included in the pickling bulletins; to receive a copy, at no charge, write or call your county Cooperative Extension Service office.

'IF IT FITZ ...'

Tally ho, the woods!

By JIM FITZGERALD

A terrible thing is happening at our house. Our 12-year-old daughter, Chrissie, is quickly becoming 13.

Constant readers (mother and Aunt Madeline) will remember when our other daughter, Karen, became a teenager. That was over five years ago. She was to be my first try at raising a "terrible teen" and I wrote a column full of trepidation. All my friends with experience had warned me about teenagers—especially girl teenagers with phones growing out of their ears and hair hanging lower than their skirts.

Besides, I had read Ann Landers and I knew the woods were full of young whippersnappers just aching to get my daughter into trouble. My task, I figured, was to limit her time in the woods and to guide her along the right trails, building angry roadblocks wherever necessary. I ended up building a lot of them. A few weren't high enough and a few probably shouldn't have been built at all. Fathers are not automatically right by virtue of their parenthood. Dear Old Dad is just a teenager 20 years later, 50 pounds heavier, and maybe a little wiser if his kids are lucky.

Anyway, our first teenager is now creeping toward 20 and I am still not the youngest grandfather in my block. To each his own, but to me an 18-year-old mother is a sad thing. She and her husband are permanently saddled during the beautiful bareback years — years for frisking and galloping and tasting and thinking and learning. Besides, those deadly divorce statistics prove that most teenage marriages, plighted in passion and nurtured in immaturity, are miserable flops.

ALL MY FRIENDS and Ann Landers were right. There is nothing easy about helping a girl grow from childhood to adulthood. There are some things a father can never understand—eye makeup on eyes always covered by hair, for instance. Or the appeal of a dirty-shirted boy with the manners of a billy-goat. Or why "all the other kids" are constantly doing something that gives Old Dad the screaming fits. Or why a little girl can't realize that her parents are 15 times smarter than she is.

Our 12-year-old likes to cook fancy meals. She'll clip complicated recipes out of Good Housekeeping and work all afternoon preparing a feast to gladden Daddy's bit stomach. And then she'll serve it on paper plates so she won't have dishes to wash. Explain me that. She even insists that we all use the same knife to butter our bread. It's a throw-away knife swiped from the drive-in.

But I guess it isn't necessary for fathers to understand daughters. After all, I don't understand their mother, either. I simply know that little girls are precious and they grow no less precious as they switch from dolls to hope chests. Dad just worries a little more and tries a little harder.

So now it is near time to launch a second daughter into incredible teenland. It should be fascinating. For one thing, we'll find out which of us learned the most tricks from her big sister. I am betting on Chrissie.

WHEN WHE BEGINS giggling about boys, and combing her hair for two hours before breakfast, my first inclination will probably be to enroll in a monastery for eight years. But not really. You couldn't pay me to miss the next few years. Now that I've staggered most of the way through the woods with one daughter, it will be interesting to revisit familiar trails and reexamine old roadblocks.

I'll give Chrissie the same map her sister used but brought up to date to conform with the changing times. For instance, I'll withdraw the fatherly snarls against gentlemen callers with long hair. Old Dad looked in the mirror one day and decided the young boys with shaggy haircuts don't look any goofier than I do with a brush cut.

Which prompts a sudden and startling thought. In three years our son will be a teenager. Another whippersnapper for the woods, egad.

I must make certain he doesn't find his sister's map.

Outlaw throw-aways

It becomes increasingly evident as we drive along our highways, and as farmers work along the outer edges of their fields, that litter, and especially glass bottles, are a nuisance we can't afford.

The availability of beverages in throw-away glass containers is only complicating the problem, making the grassy roadsides and the other side of the fence all the more inviting for the would-be litterbug.

The Clinton County Farm Bureau, other farm organizations and other general groups have publicly opposed the use of non-returnable bottles. We think the cause is just and would like to see the use of such bottles outlawed in Michigan.

Metal and paper containers cause enough of a problem in themselves along Michigan's roadways, but glass breaks, and that's when it does its real damage. The glass in the throw-away bottles is, of course, not as strong as that in returnable bottles and is almost certain to break into jagged pieces when tossed from a moving car.

Keeping Michigan's roadways looking nice is a full-time job, and it's everybody's job. We should insist the job be made as easy as possible, and one help in this direction would be disposing of the use of the "disposable" bottle.

Prices and taxes

We often hear of something being as certain as "death and taxes." In all likelihood, the same may be now said of continuing increases in the federal income tax. For that matter, there has been no surcease from tax rises of one kind or another in living memory.

It is important to never lose sight of the relationship between taxes and the prices of everything we eat, wear or use. When you drive into a service station to buy gasoline, a good share of the price of that gas is tax. Specifically, the average retail price of gasoline in the U.S. — excluding taxes — increased only 2 per cent in the past 10 years, according to the publication, Oil Facts. In the same period, the federal government's consumer price index for all items rose 18.5 per cent, while state and federal taxes on gasoline increased 20 per cent. These taxes now average 10.72 cents a gallon.

Nowhere is the relationship between taxes and prices more evident than on the gasoline pump of every service station where prices and taxes are clearly posted. The oil industry in reality is a huge tax collection agency for government, and what is true of the oil industry is true to a greater or lesser extent elsewhere.

ROCKLAND, Maine, COURIER-GAZETTE: "The people of the country are pretty much fed up with the flouting of the laws, and the condoning of that flouting by enforcement officers whose hands are tied by court decisions of recent years. A thief is a thief, an arsonist is an arsonist, a troublemaker is a troublemaker. May the day come soon in which they will be once again recognized for what they are; enemies of society."

RAMBLIN' WITH RINK

Neatness escapes me

By LOWELL G. RINKER

There is nothing meticulous about me anymore.

When I was in high school and college I ran a neat ship. My desk was always clean, the desk drawers could be opened without crinkling papers stored in them, and my book racks and other supporting material were always close at hand and in neat form.

I always felt that a person could work much more efficiently, and happily, under neat and tidy conditions. I verbally expressed this theory as I spent extra time avoiding clutter and cleaning it up on the rare occasions when it did occur.

In those neat and careful days I could even sign my name neat and legibly and have it look the same any number of times.

But, alas, times have changed. My desk more often than not takes on the appearance of the stereotyped editor's desk — papers strewn helter-skelter, stacks of copy paper at random spots, a small book rack half-on and half-off the desk and a general disheveled look about it all.

My only consolation is that it looks busy, and maybe I'm fooling somebody.

But sometimes I do, and the occasions seem to be more frequent (or maybe I'm just aware of them now). More and more I seem to bring days to a close, either at 5 o'clock or some later hour, by just throwing up my hands and telling myself to forget it and start fresh tomorrow. But tomorrow always looks like I had a handful of paper when I threw up my hands the night before and the papers just floated down helter-skelter. In those instances, it takes 15 or 20 minutes to clear a path for my newswriting thoughts, and I'm off to a bad start.

I've been letting myself get into this careless upkeep habit for so long that it takes half a day sometimes to get everything straightened out on Wednesday morning following our final work day on each issue.

Despite the fact everything—well, not quite everything—gets written every week instead of being lost in the shuffle, I still am a firm believer in neatness even though my desk doesn't reflect that. That desk gives me lots of Excedrin headaches.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Time to think about stamps, coins, she says

Dear Editor:

With the coming of fall and the winter months ahead, we think more about our indoor hobbies, such as coin and stamp collecting.

For those interested in coins and stamps it isn't too far away to attend our show in Fenton. We have relatives near DeWitt and we enjoyed the trip over there last month.

This will be on Sunday, Sept. 8, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., at the Fenton Community Center building, 150 S. Leroy Street, Fenton. Admission is free and refreshments will be available at reasonable prices.

I met a nice young man from St. Johns last spring but have misplaced of lost his card and am unable to contact him, but if he wants a dealer's table there are a few left and he can contact us. For those collectors who plan to come as a result of seeing this, clip this out and bring it with you and present it at the kitchen for a free cup of coffee. Also, if my relatives come they will get a donut with their free coffee.

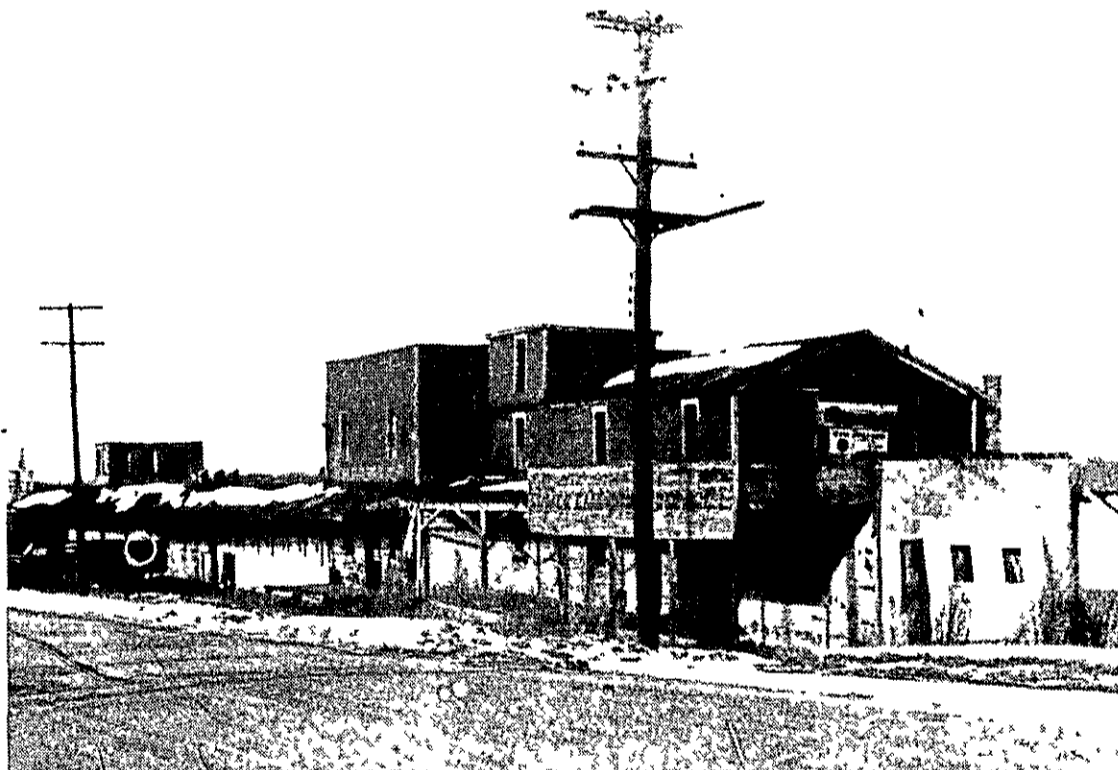

Sincerely,
MRS EMERSON BEEBE
Fenton

BUT I DON'T like it. I do manage to clear the desk off every night, stacking the unwritten story copy all together, putting all the pencils in the mug and throwing away the bent paper clips. There's nothing any worse than to have to face a cluttered desk at 7:15 in the morning. Eeuuuch!

Paul Pride:

Paul Pride says: "It's an asset to any town to have a group of citizens that are willing to take public jobs on themselves when the public funds are unavailable. Such a group, or groups, have been keeping the St. Johns City Park tidied up this summer under the overall direction of a committee of Ed Schmitt, Red Lundy and Gene Downing."

A look into the past

SCENE FROM THE PAST ON RAILROAD STREET

This picture isn't actually ancient, but it does show a scene from St. Johns' past that can't be pictured today. It's the old Emmons Cider Mill and later a pickle factory located on East Railroad Street between Swegles and US-27. It was on the north side of the street between it and the tracks. The closed-up windows in the white area of the building at left were where apples were dumped into bins. This picture showed up recently in the Clinton County News picture file.

How should we support education?

How should the state "support" education — adequately?

A leading Chicago-based research educational analyst probes this question in light of existing inequities in state school districts in which some have twice as much money as other districts.

Mastodon District in Iron County, for instance, ranks third in Michigan with $41,909 in state equalized valuation per resident member and spends $869.89 — the most of anybody — from the general fund per pupil. Their millage rate is 16.67 for operational purposes and nothing for debt retirement.

The Forsyth District in Marquette County is at the bottom — $1,319 SEV, only $400.07 expenditure per child and has a millage rate of 12.20 for operations.

The Bath School District in Clinton County is ranked 10th from the bottom (524th out of 533 districts) with $5,073 in SEV behind each resident member. In 1965-66 — all of this data was taken from that time period — Bath spent $419.13 from the general fund per pupil, and the district had 14.35 millage rate for operations and 8 mills for debt retirement.

Important to J. Alan Thomas of the Midwest Administration Center, University of Chicago, is the fact that Michigan school districts in 1967-68 are raising more than $500 million from their own sources, mostly from local property taxes. Higher levels of government contribute $600 million.

THOMAS' MICHIGAN School Finance Study, covering more than 400 pages and undertaken for the Michigan State Board of Education, insists that a "rational solution" is "for the state to reimpose its right to tax property."

"If the state were to levy a state-wide property tax of, say 12 mills on each dollar of state equalized valuation, and to distribute the proceeds equally on a per-pupil basis to all districts for operating purposes, a number of beneficial results would occur," said the study.

—It would enable the state to provide each school district with "a dollar amount sufficient to provide a basic educational program." (With a slight increase in the present state aid, approximately $500 per pupil could be provided throughout the state. Additional amounts might be provided for certain important categorical purposes.)

—"The state collection of a major portion of the property tax would lead to possibilities for property tax reform which otherwise do not exist. State tax assessors, trained to a high level of competence, would be able to introduce an unprecedented degree of competence into the assessment process. More equitable tax administration, both in and between jurisdictions, would result."

Michigan school officials in general are hoping for widespread, constructive debate on the financing alternatives, and the State Board of Education has begun detailed inquiries into effects of the proposals.

"DISCUSSION IS a must," said State Board President Edwin Novak. "This study cannot be allowed to sit on the shelf and I am sure it won't. There is a lot of interest in the proposals because people are increasingly becoming aware that something has to be done — and quite soon."

Any proposal that suggests that "what you can do, the state can do better" is not easily sold to the populace, so Thomas also has other ideas.

He suggests, as a more limited alternative, a state property tax on industry and the employees living outside the school district, and the tax on such property could be spread and also distributed across the board instead of in one district.

Such a state-imposed tax, also distributed by the state, would give a non-industrial rural area in the Upper Peninsula — a chance, for example, to have its hands in the industrial tax till of Highland Park, Dearborn, and Warren, area with such huge auto industry as Chrysler, Ford, and General Motors.

Thomas notes, according to the 1962 Census of Governments, that $1,597,000,000 out of a state total of $1,648,000,000 assessed value of industrial property in Michigan was concentrated in 10 major metropolitan areas.

Thomas' report also points out the role of the state already in taxing industrial property.

In 1962, 7.8 per cent of the total assessed property in the U.S. was assessed by the states, the report says. This involved railroads at 1.7 per cent of total assessed property, and other utilities at 5.3 per cent.

THEN THOMAS has a third alternative. He suggests that "some consideration" be given to "the use of a local income tax as either 1) a substitute — in whole or in part — for the local property tax; or 2) a basis upon which the local contribution to a state-local foundation program may be calculated."

In defense of the proposal of shifting the imbalanced property tax to state assessment and collection, the report notes that in 1902 the states got nearly 53 per cent of their income from state property taxes.

"As other sources of revenue became available to them," said the report, "they delegated this to local governments, so that by 1964, property taxes provided only 3 per cent of the total tax collections of state governments."

TAKING FIVE

with ron

The keys on my typewriter have had a summer-long rest and they are almost as rusty as the gears in my thinker. It was in late May that I last wrote a chit-chat column or editorial, and those long-ago efforts were in an Iowa town which early this spring gained some degree of recognition because of a severe tornado that left the area in near-shambles condition. The town is Charles City, the seat of Floyd County, Iowa.

The area is not unlike Clinton County and in the short span of time since arriving here, I and my family have observed many things that we can assimilate, not the least of which is the recent heat spell. While agriculture is the pulse of either area, industry and commerce are strong supporting elements and because of the latter we tend to see a more diverse growth potential here than in the tall corn country.

By some measure, we're almost back where it all began. That was East Lansing where wife kept the home while I ogled the co-eds, fried hamburgs, sold shoes, scratched out a couple articles for the State News and occasionally attended classes. All this led to Iowa, where after almost 10 years in wife's home state I lowered my foot, raised my voice then swallowed the lump in my throat as I watched all four kids nurse a two-day crying jag before packing their bags. True, they didn't like the idea of leaving Charles City, but their change of heart since arriving in St. Johns can be attested to by the dust-free telephone.

EVERY PLACE HAS PROBLEMS and I've been told St. Johns and Clinton County are no different, but both have impressed me greatly. One of my early observations was made on the youth of the area and it came from their well-groomed and generally wholesome appearance along with a marked degree of friendliness.

In these so-called sophisticated times it seems to be more common practice for young people to greet adults on the street with sullen glances or with obvious efforts to avoid even visual contact but more young people of both sexes have extended me a cheerful "Hi" or "Hello" in recent weeks than in any other city I've visited in some time. And this friendliness among the young folks seems to be merely a carry-over from the adults. As in other moves it will take time to become part of the community, but from initial impressions that lapse for us will be of short duration.

One other observation — one that is not quite as pleasant — and that is the fate of the elm trees throughout Michigan. Except for the aforementioned span of time, all my life has been as a Michigander and to return to find the barren branches and peeling bark of rotting elm trees is indeed saddening. If nothing has been done locally or on a state level to replace the lost trees with new varieties, then time's a-wasting.

At this point the keys have limbered up to some extent, but they're still squeaking. In time ahead I hope to get them clicking smoothly and share with you some of my thoughts and random comments. I look forward to hearing from you, too, either by letter or in person, because I've found that when it's time to take five that time is more fruitfully spent in the exchange of thoughts . . . even if they aren't always compatible.

Frustrated farmers

By W. E. DOBSON

The farmer is a lucky bird,
He owns a lot of land—
(He and the chosen banker,
Of course you understand);
He grows the food and fiber
So all the world may eat,
And tries to lift the mortgage,
With ninety-two cent wheat!

The farmer's a magician,
For him machines appear,
Before he makes the interest,
On the ones he got last year;
He "moonlights" for a sideline,
As he tries to make ends meet,
Not even a magician wins
On ninety-two cent wheat!

The farmer is a healthy guy—
He tills the whole outdoors,
While others "sleep in" morn and night,
He's busy doin' chores:
The overtime he labors
Is surely not discreet,
He pays full thirty cents for bread
From ninety-two cent wheat!

The farmer's a tax expert,
Who else, I ask by Gum,
Pays ever higher taxes
On less of net income?
Who grows the steaks and pork chops
To make two dollar meat?
The dude who can't afford it!
On ninety-two cent wheat!

The farmer's a philanthropist,
Though he can't spell the word,
Giving ground for every right-of-way
Of which he's ever heard;
He feeds n' shelters various game,
Where hunters fail would meet,
N' gives 'em room to ramble,
On his ninety-two cent wheat.

The farmer is an optimist,
He dreams of some good year,
When drought 'n flood will spare him,
Insect hazards disappear,
And though he lose the battle,
He will ne'er admit defeat—
Politicians promise sure relief,
From ninety-two cent wheat!

Note:
When prices on everything else have been going through the roof recent quotations would pay farmers in the vicinity of 92 cents per bushel for prime grade wheat.

Late summer... beautiful days

By LORRAINE SPRAGUE
Extension Home Economist

The last week in August and first part of September of each year have many meanings. Summer is almost gone and soon we'll be enjoying Michigan's beautiful fall weather and colors.

It's time for mother to be cooking up all those wonderful kitchen smells — pickles, relishes, jams and jellies, catsup, chili sauce and a few late peaches and maybe some pears. Through most of September, as the kids climb off the school bus, they'll know what Mom has been doing all day by the tantalizing smells coming from the kitchen. Late August also means week-long vacations are over, but there are still a few opportunities for weekend trips. Back yard cooks will still keep the charcoal grills heated up for several weeks and the brave will enjoy a few brisk dips in the pool or lake.

But without a doubt the segment of our population faced with the greatest change in their daily lives are those youngsters starting off to school for the very first time. Mom and Dad will hear lots of exciting things that have happened each day "at my school." They'll need to listen carefully to sort out those things that are really important in their child's development and those things that are of little meaning.

New friends, new activities, even a part time 'new Mother' in the form of Teacher, present an awful lot of new experiences for a young child. Some he'll meet successfully and perhaps others not so well.

This is where Mom and Dad need to be ready with unlimited understanding and perhaps an over-supply of patience. Each long tale of what happened "in class," each description of playground activities, each new song learned and each new picture drawn deserve the undivided attention of both parents. If this is the first youngster in the family to start school, all will have many interesting things to learn. If parents have previously had this experience, they still may have to remind themselves that this is an entirely different individual and conditions may be somewhat changed. Seldom do two children in a family react the same to similar situations.

Yes, the end of August has many meanings for each of us. Busy days, lazy days, new and different days all depending upon what we as individuals and as families find important. But they are beautiful days.

Here's help for publicity chairmen

September is here. Vacations are over and women's clubs, as well as schools, get back into routine for another year.

Publicity is good for every club and the Clinton County News will welcome reports of the activities of all clubs and social events.

Below is an outline of suggestions for new publicity women (former ones, too) to follow when submitting stories to The County News.

The suggestions are also applicable to information submitted on civic activities.

1. STORIES should be type-written, if possible, and double-spaced. If handwritten they should be written legibly on one side of the paper only.
2. Advance notice of meetings is preferred and this must be in our hands no later than 5 p.m. Monday of the week it is to appear. If there is a special news angle to the meeting, then a follow-up story is in order. Otherwise, the advance story is considered satisfactory coverage.
3. When listing names, please use this form: Mrs John L. Jones or Mrs J. L. Jones, NOT Mrs Mary Jones. A first name and initial or two initials should be used. It is correct for a widow to be listed by her husband's name rather than her own, and
4. Put the most important thing that happened at the meeting or event in the first paragraph of the story.
5. DON'T FORGET to include the hour, day and place of the event. The daytime phone number of the publicity chairman should be added at the bottom of the page on all items turned in by her.
6. When including the name of a speaker, be sure to identify him or her with her place of residence and title.
7. Keep in mind that editors can use only material that is of interest to all of their readers, not just members of your own club. Omit routine details such as the secretary's and treasurer's reports, and phrases that would puzzle other readers like "escorted to the East."
8. When listing club officers, please list names first, officers second, as Mrs Robert L. Smith, president.
9. Write objectively, never in the first person.

Hunters who use corrective glasses are urged to make certain they are of the safety variety. Impact-resistant lenses will more adequately protect the eyes from stray pellets, ejecting shells, twigs and other dangers, without reducing visibility, advises the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

State's teachers, school boards not all settled yet

Some 2.5 million school children are scheduled to return to Michigan classrooms this month. Many may not attend opening day. By the last week in August about 140 school districts had not reached agreement with teachers over new contracts, according to the Michigan Education Assn.

This does not mean that teachers in those districts will strike immediately. Some may; others will choose to begin teaching without contracts.

Educational programs will suffer in those districts where voters have defeated operating millage. Local school boards are in the difficult position of satisfying teacher demands and maintaining academic standards while voters refuse to authorize extra revenue.

Voters in 197 districts turned down operating millage requests this year, while 339 propositions were approved. When operating millage is defeated, school boards face an immediate problem. They must either call for another millage election or reduce expenses. Increased enrollments make cost-cutting difficult, and reductions result in overcrowded classrooms, inferior programs, and loss of qualified teachers. The inconvenience to taxpayers in loss of services is often more costly than the millage.

A NUMBER OF EDUCATORS believe that negative votes on millage propositions do not reflect negative attitudes towards schools. They suspect that a millage vote is one of the few places remaining where taxpayers can express dissatisfaction with taxes in general.

No matter what the reasons, school children are directly affected by millage defeats. The problem must be resolved primarily at the local level.

MICHIGAN STATE Police report that 2,123 people died on Michigan highways in 1967, and 151,297 were injured. It was the seventh year in which the death toll exceeded the 2,000 mark.

Col. Fredrick E. Davids, director, comments, "This staggering loss of life, human suffering and financial waste is, at once, tragic and unnecessary. While exposure factors of more vehicles, more miles driven and more drivers continue to mount,

BY ELMER E. WHITE
Michigan Press Assn.

Individual attitudes and responsibilities seem to decay."

Statistics show that the average accident-prone driver in 1967 exhibited the same characteristics as in 1966. He is young, drives too fast for highway conditions, carries nine "points" on his driving record and is probably drinking.

He caused an estimated economic loss of $405 million in 1967 alone, enough to build four Mackinac Bridges.

Lawmakers introduced about 300 bills dealing with traffic safety during the last two years. More than 10 per cent became law.

Jack Green, managing director of Traffic Safety for Michigan, credits the 74th Michigan Legislature with "possibly the most significant record on traffic safety in more than a decade."

MOST DRAMATIC of all new legislation is that which:

- Allows police to impound your car if you're driving with a suspended license.
- Makes it mandatory for you to take a "breathalyzer" test if police suspect you're intoxicated, or face license suspension.
- Limits the courts' and license appeal boards' options in hearing appeals under the implied consent law.
- Requires motorcyclists to carry helmets on their vehicles, and wear protective eye glasses or have windshields when traveling more than 35 mph.
- Regulates operation of snowmobiles.
